This is the One Hundred and Sixtieth program of the 2002-2003 season.

Program

In Sondheim's musical of mixed up fairy tales, Cinderella's prince pours pitch on his palace to hold her there. (He is unsuccessful.) A not-so-very-naïve Little Red Ridinghood sings about life inside a wolf, and the evil witch sings about the magic beans from Jack's Bean Stalk that lead up to the palace of the giants and countless riches. At the end of the piece, the witch is challenging her mother to put a curse on her again to make her hideous—anything to get away from the other annoying fairy tale characters!

The lustful judge keeps his lovely ward Joanna imprisoned in his house until he can marry her and indulge in his Libidinous wishes. She sings wistfully to the caged bird soutside her window, of how it is they can sing when they are imprisoned just like her? Later, her rightful father and his cohort Mrs. Lovett sing of what it is the world should do with such lechers... perhaps carve them up and serve them in meat pies?

from Sweeny Todd
