SEVENTH ARMY CORPS.

TWENTY-TWO regiments of the Seventh Army Corps are now encamped at Jacksonville, at what is known as "Camp Cuba Libre," all under the command of Major General FITZHUGH LEE.

This leaves six regiments yet to arrive to complete the command of General Lee, and which he will take with him when a move shall be made for Havana, in all probability becoming an army of occupation.

Of the total number, nine regiments, composing the Second Division, are located at Springfield, with seven regiments at Panama Park, just outside the city limits, and six regiments in Fairfield suburb.

There is a sentiment o'erhanging Camp Cuba Libre that probably is not found at any of the other large government camps. The mere fact that the corps is commanded by the gallant Fitzhugh Lee has awakened the ardor of Northern and Southern soldiers alike, and the almost romantic naming of the camp has given it a distinction quite above all others.

The illustrations here presented give an idea of Camp Cuba Libre, as well as presenting likenesses of some of the leaders.

OFFICERS FOURTH ILLINOIS REGIMENT.

COLONEL TORREY'S TROOPERS.

AN excellent picture is presented of Colonel JAY L. TORREY, commanding the Second United States Volunteer Cavalry, otherwise known as "Torrey's Troopers," now encamped at Panama Park, and forming a part of the Third Division, Seventh Army Corps.

Col. Torrey is just recovering from the effects of a serious injury in a railroad wreck at Tupelo, Miss., while en route to Jacksonville with his regiment, and hopes soon to be able to get about.

A man of the most robust physique, tall and commanding, he is the ideal of an army officer, and combined with these qualities nature has also given to him a most kindly disposition, a warm and generous heart, together with the tenderness and solicitude of a woman almost, and yet at the same time with a strong will force that makes him a natural leader of men. It is not to be wondered, then, that he holds such a high place in the affections of his troopers, and that every one of them feels proud of the fact that he belongs to Colonel Torrey's regiment.

He is the author of what is known as the "Torrey Bankruptcy Law," recently passed by Congress, is a lawyer by profession, and is one of the richest ranch owners of Wyoming. His troopers all come from Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, Colorado and Idaho, and are all hardy men, well qualified for the work before them.

Colonel Torrey was the originator of the idea of the organization of troops consisting of "frontiersmen who are marksmen and horsemen," and secured the legislation pursuant to which three regiments of cavalry of this character have been enlisted. They are Colonel Roosevelt's "Rough Riders," Col. Torrey's "Rocky Mountain Cavalry," and Col. Grigsby's "Cowboys."

JACKSONVILLE--WHAT IT IS.

It is a cosmopolitan city.

It has a population of about 30,000

It is the terminus of eight railways.

It is the gateway to Florida, the Bahamas and the Island of Cuba.

It is twenty-seven hours from Cincinnati and New York by rail.

It has regular and direct steamship communication with all points North.

It is located on the noble St Johns River, which, with its tributaries, gives 1,000 miles of inland navigation.

It is fourteen miles from the Atlantic Ocean, one hundred miles from the Gulf of Mexico, and is always cooled by the Ocean or Gulf breezes.

It is within thirty minutes, by rail, from the finest sea beach in the world.

It has nine miles of river front.

It is the natural commercial emporium and business metropolis of Florida.

It has the finest hotel accommodations in the Southern States.

It has the Duval County Court House, which cost $100,000, and the U. S. Court House and Post Office, which cost $275,000, a City Hall and Market, which cost $70,000, City Armory, costing $30,000.

It has three hospitals.

It has forty-eight churches.

It has eighteen public and ten private schools.

It has a public library.

It has three daily and ten weekly and monthly papers.

It has four national, three private and two savings banks.

It has six building and loan associations.

It has one hundred factories, great and small, with an aggregate capital of over one and a half million dollars.

It has twelve miles of electric street railways.

It has miles of shell road drives.

Its financial condition is exceedingly good. Its indebtedness is only $200,000 in water works bonds; its floating debt but a few thousand dollars. The assessed value of real and personal property (three quarters of actual) for 1892, was $12,540,800, on which the city taxes are 12 and 2-10th mills.

It has a live board of trade.

It has a Masonic Temple, two fine Club houses, an Odd Fellows' hall, and a W. C. T. U. building; also numerous other benevolent societies.

It has an opera house.

It has a driving park.

It has the most healthful climate in the world.

Its mean temperature is seventy degrees, and is cooler in summer than Boston or Chicago.

Its mortality averages ten in the thousand—the lowest in the United States.

Its water works is supplied from artesian wells, flowing 5,000,000 daily.

It has an efficient paid fire department, with telegraphic fire alarm.

It has gas and electric lights, and a thorough sanitary and drainage system.

It has an extensive lumber and timber business, with great steam saw mills.

It is the principal distributing point for Florida fruits and other products.

It has the largest wholesale houses and A. 1 facilities for jobbing.

Its annual trade exceeds $40,000,000.

Jacksonville prospers by the development of the State of Florida.

With such a country tributary to Jacksonville, its rapid growth in the past is fully accounted for, and its future growth beyond question.
