The Purpose of the College

---

BOWDOIN COLLEGE believes strongly that there is an intrinsic value in a liberal arts education, for the individual student, for the College as an institution, and for society as a whole. Historically, the arrangement of courses and instruction that combine to produce liberal arts education has changed and undoubtedly will continue to change, but certain fundamental and underlying goals remain constant.

It is difficult to define these goals without merely repeating old verities, but certain points are critical. The thrust of a liberal arts education is not the acquisition of a narrow, technical expertise; it is not a process of coating young people with a thin veneer of "civilization." That is not to say that liberal arts education in any way devalues specific knowledge or the acquisition of fundamental skills. On the contrary, an important aspect of sound liberal arts education is the development of the power to read with critical perception, to think coherently, to write effectively, to speak with force and clarity, and to act as a constructive member of society. But liberal arts education seeks to move beyond the acquisition of specific knowledge and skills toward the acquisition of an understanding of man, nature, and the interaction of the two and toward the development of a characteristic style of thought which is informed, questioning, and marked by the possession of intellectual courage. When defined in terms of its intended product, the purpose of the College is to train professionally competent people of critical and innovative mind, who can grapple with the technical complexities of our age and whose flexibility and concern for humanity are such that they offer us a hope of surmounting the increasing depersonalization and dehumanization of our world. The College does not seek to transmit a specific set of values; rather, it recognizes a formidable responsibility to teach students what values are and to encourage them to develop their own.

Liberal arts education is, in one sense, general, because it is concerned with many different areas of human behavior and endeavor, many civilizations of the world, many different aspects of the human environment. It seeks to encourage the formation of habits of curiosity, rigorous observation, tolerant understanding, and considered judgment, while at the same time fostering the development of varied modes of communicative and artistic expression. This concern for breadth and for the appreciation of varying modes of perception is combined with a commitment to study some particular field of learning in sufficient depth to ensure relative mastery of its content and methods. In short, a liberal arts education aims at fostering the development of modes of learning, analysis, judgment, and expression which are essential both to subsequent professional training and to the ongoing process of self-education by which one refines one's capacity to function autonomously as an intellectual and moral being.

To achieve these goals, the individuals who teach at the College must strive constantly to live up to their commitment in their course offerings; likewise students must have an equal commitment to do so in their course selections. The commitment is a collective one on the part of the entire college community. Each of the academic components of the College is under a heavy obligation to make its field of study accessible in some manner to the entire student body and to satisfy the needs of the nonmajor as well as those of the specialist.

The College is not and should not be a cloister or monastic retreat from the problems of the world. Rather, the College is a collection of people deeply and passionately involved in their community, their nation, and their world. When liberal arts education is faithful to its mission, it encourages and trains young people who are sensitive to the crucial problems of our time and who have the kind of mind and the kind of inspiration to address them fearlessly and directly. This is its goal and the standard by which it should be judged.

Historical Sketch

BOWDOIN COLLEGE was established by charter from the General Court of Massachusetts on June 24, 1794, after repeated petitions to the commonwealth by citizens who wanted to provide educational opportunity in the District of Maine, then a rapidly growing frontier. Various names for the new institution were considered; the choice of "Bowdoin" was influenced both by a desire to honor the late distinguished governor of the commonwealth, James Bowdoin II, and by intimations received from his son, James Bowdoin III, of a substantial gift toward endowment. Brunswick was selected as the site for the College in 1796, but the erection of a building to house the College was not accomplished until 1802 because it had been difficult to convert into cash the lands that had been granted by the General Court. On September 2 of that year, the Reverend Joseph McKeen was installed as the first president of the College. In his inaugural speech, McKeen called upon those assembled to remember "that literary institutions are founded and endowed for the common good, and not for the private advantage of those who resort to them." On the next day Bowdoin began its active educational life with eight students and one faculty member in addition to the president.

The story of Bowdoin in its early years is an index to its entire history. Its first president was a man of religion and of science. Its first benefactor was a distinguished diplomat, statesman, and gentleman of broad culture; and the inheritance of his extensive library, his scientific instruments, and his fine collection of art established at the College a lasting conviction of the wisdom of strength in these areas of institutional resources. Its original Board was composed of strongly religious men, individually devoted to the Congregational Church as thoroughly as they were to the democratic ideals of a new nation.

Under McKeen and his successor, Jesse Appleton, the curriculum in the early years was rigidly prescribed and strong in the classics. In the field of science, mathematics was soon joined by the study of chemistry and mineralogy. Though small in size, the College had some of the greatest teachers it has known, and among the early graduates were several marked for future fame: for instance, Nathan Lord (1809), for thirty-five years president of Dartmouth; Seba Smith (1818), early humorist; Jacob Abbott (1820), prolific author of the "Rollo" books; William Pitt Fessenden (1823), for a short time President Lincoln's secretary of the treasury; Franklin Pierce (1824), fourteenth president of the United States; Nathaniel Hawthorne and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, both of the Class of 1825; and John Brown Russwurm, of the class of 1826, Bowdoin's first black graduate, publisher, and governor of the colony of Maryland in Liberia at the time of his death in 1851.

President William Allen, called in 1819 from the presidency of Dartmouth, introduced modern languages and fought the legal battles necessary to establish Bowdoin as a private college independent of the new state of Maine. In 1820 the College established a medical school, which in the 101 years of its existence produced many well-trained doctors who practiced in Maine and, to a lesser extent, elsewhere. It is believed that two members of the Class of 1849 were among the first black doctors to receive medical degrees in the United States. In 1921, when the needed clinical facilities and technical equipment had become too complex and expensive for a small institution to supply, it was deemed expedient to discontinue the school.

Bowdoin was established more on faith than endowment, and its finances suffered severely in the aftermath of the panic of 1837. Leonard Woods, a professor of biblical literature at Bangor Theological Seminary, was chosen as president in 1839 and served until 1866. Under his direction, Bowdoin's growth was slow and steady. Social fraternities appeared on the campus in the 1840's, followed by organized athletics in the late 1850's. The Bowdoin Orient, which claims to be the oldest continuously published college weekly in the country, appeared first in 1871. As the controversy over slavery worked towards a climax, the home of Professor Smyth was a station of the "underground railroad" for escaped slaves; and here, in another professorial household, Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote the book that was to arouse the conscience of a nation, Uncle Tom's Cabin. During the Civil War the College sent into the service a greater number of men in proportion to its size than any other college in the North.

The twenty years following the Civil War were the most critical in the history of the College. After President Harris's short term of four years (1867-1871), Joshua Lawrence Chamberlain, Maine's most distinguished war hero and governor of the state for four terms following his return to civilian life, was elected president. During these two administrations the curriculum was modernized somewhat, but the establishment of an engineering school in 1871 was unsuccessful, since it survived for only ten years. Its most famous graduate was Admiral Robert E. Peary (1877), who led the first expedition to reach the North Pole.

President Chamberlain, for all his great services to college, state, and nation, was unequal to coping with the difficulties now besetting the institution: inadequate endowment and equipment, a decreasing enrollment, a dissension among the faculty and Boards. Probably no one else connected with either group could have succeeded in the circumstances. Chamberlain's resignation in 1883 provided an opportunity to secure from outside the College the vigorous leadership imperatively needed.

The inauguration in 1885, after a two-year interregnum, of the Reverend William DeWitt Hyde marks the real beginning of another era. He brought to his task of rejuvenating the institution a boundless physical capacity that was matched by his awareness of a modern and changing world and by scholarly ability that made his national reputation an ornament to Bowdoin. He built the College figuratively and literally, introducing new subjects into the curriculum and enlarging the physical facilities on the campus by over 100 percent. Under him, enrollment increased from 119 in 1885 to 400 in 1915 and the endowment rose from $378,273 to $2,312,868. He emphasized teaching as the responsibility of the College and learning as the responsibility of the students. His vigor impregnated the whole life and spirit of the College. It was under President Hyde that Bowdoin's philosophy of its students and of its faculty members as responsible, independent individuals became fixed.

Kenneth C. M. Sills succeeded President Hyde after the latter's death in 1917. He was a natural successor (though not a slavish disciple) of President Hyde. He carried forward his predecessor's program, seeing the College successfully through the upheavals concomitant to two wars. Under him, Bowdoin gradually emerged from being a "country college" to a new and increasingly respected status as a national college. Physical facilities were improved and increased. The faculty grew from thirty-two to eighty-one; enrollment, from 400 to double that figure; and endowment, from $2,473,451 to $12,312,274. Student activities were expanded, and the fraternity system was developed into a cooperative and democratic component of student life.

President Sills was succeeded by James Stacy Coles in the fall of 1952. During his fifteen-year tenure, Bowdoin met the rapidly changing demands of society and students by adopting curricular innovations, expanding the size of its faculty, and improving its facilities at a faster pace than during any comparable period in its history. It was during these years that Bowdoin thoroughly revised its curriculum, extended honors work to all gifted students, introduced independent study courses, initiated an undergraduate research fellowship program, and started its pioneering Senior Year Program. To accomplish these academic improvements, the College expanded the size of its faculty by over a third, to 109, and raised salaries to a level which has enabled it to continue attracting and retaining outstanding teachers. The value of the College's plant showed a similar dramatic increase. Dayton Arena, Morrell Gymnasium, Chamberlain Hall, Wentworth Hall, Coles Tower, Coleman Hall, Gibson Hall, and Hawthorne-Longfellow Library were constructed. Pickard Theater was constructed in Memorial Hall; Massachusetts Hall, Hubbard Hall, and three dormitories were renovated; and the Moulton Union and Dudley Coe Health Center were enlarged.

President Coles resigned at the end of 1967. Following the acting presidency of Athern P. Daggett, Roger Howell, Jr., a member of Bowdoin's Class of 1958, Rhodes scholar, and chairman of the Department of History, became the tenth president of the College on January 1, 1969. Only thirty-two at the time of his election, Dr. Howell had already achieved international eminence as a scholar of British history.

Under his leadership Bowdoin expanded its curriculum to include Afro-American studies, a major in biochemistry, and courses concerned with the environment. In 1970 it admitted women undergraduates and began an expansion of its enrollment from 950 to 1,350. Other accomplishments included the development of a highly sophisticated computing center, an increase in student representation in the governance of the College, and the successful start of a ten-year, $37,775,000 fund-raising campaign.

President Howell resigned on June 30, 1978, and returned to full-time teaching at the College. Willard F. Enteman, provost of Union College, was inaugurated Bowdoin's eleventh president on September 22, 1978.

Dr. Enteman resigned on December 31, 1980, and Professor A. LeRoy Greason became Bowdoin's acting president on January 1, 1981. Dr. Greason, a graduate of Wesleyan University, holds graduate degrees from Harvard. He has been a member of the Department of English since 1952. During that time he also served as Dean of Students for four years and Dean of the College for nine years.

On October 9, 1981, Dr. Greason was inaugurated the twelfth president of Bowdoin College, the fourth member of the faculty to be named to the office.

During his presidency, distribution requirements have been reestablished and the curriculum has been revised to include a department of computer science and a department of theater arts and to emphasize writing for freshmen and greater challenges for upperclassmen in advanced courses and in interdisciplinary programs. The Governing Boards have revised their by-laws to strengthen the presidency and to provide for a more effective development of policies. On May 25, 1984, the Governing Boards voted to launch a new capital campaign to increase endowment, enlarge the faculty, expand the scholarship fund, improve facilities, and meet other capital needs.

Campus and Buildings

BOWDOIN is located in Brunswick, Maine, a town of approximately 20,500 population, first settled in 1628, on the banks of the Androscoggin River, a few miles from the shores of Casco Bay. The campus, originally a sandy plain covered with blueberries and pines, is a tract of 110 acres containing more than fifty buildings and several playing fields.

Massachusetts Hall is the oldest building on the campus, having been completed in 1802. For several years it housed the students, and all classes were held there. Now used for faculty offices, the building was designated a Registered Historical Landmark in 1971. The entire campus became part of the Federal Street Historic District in 1976.

The work of the College has its heart and center in Nathaniel Hawthorne-Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Library, which contains the accumulations of over a century and a half. The nucleus of its 747,000 volumes is the collection of books and pamphlets bequeathed by James Bowdoin. These "Bowdoin Books," rich in French literature, American history, and mineralogy, were supplemented by the same generous benefactor's gift of an art collection containing many paintings of old and modern masters. Among the paintings are the portraits of Thomas Jefferson and James Madison by Gilbert Stuart, and a notable collection of portraits by the distinguished colonial artist Robert Feke.

Classes are held in Adams, Banister, Cleaveland, Gibson, Hubbard, and Sills halls, the Afro-American Center, Coles Tower, Searles Science Building, Smith Auditorium, and the Visual Arts Center. When students are not engaged in academic work, they have at their disposal many well-equipped recreational facilities. These include the Dayton Arena, Farley Field House, Morrell Gymnasium, Moulton Union, Pickard Field House, Sargent Gymnasium, and thirty-five acres of playing fields. Another valuable adjunct for the health of the student is the Dudley Coe Health Center.

COLLEGE BUILDINGS

Seth Adams Hall, designed by Francis H. Fassett, was erected in 1860-1861 and named in honor of Seth Adams, a sugar refiner from Boston, who contributed liberally toward its construction. From 1862 until 1921 it housed the classrooms of the Medical School of Maine. It now houses the Smyth Mathematical Library, named in memory of William Smyth, of the Class of 1825, who was professor of mathematics from 1828 to 1868. The building also contains classrooms, lecture rooms, and the offices of the Department of Mathematics and the Department of Computer Science. It stands west of the President's Gateway.

Alpha Rho Upsilon House, at 238 Maine Street, was built about 1900 for George Taylor and Edith Davis Files. Professor Files, of the Class of 1889, was professor of German at Bowdoin for thirty years before his death in 1919. The house belonged to the Sigma Nu fraternity from 1921 to 1951, when it was sold to Alpha Rho Upsilon (All Races United), an interracial fraternity formed by students who were barred from the existing fraternities. In 1988, the College acquired the house, which continues to be the headquarters of Alpha Rho Upsilon.

Appleton Hall (1843), designed and built by Samuel Melcher and Sons and named in memory of the second president of the College; Coleman Hall (1958), designed by McKim, Mead & White and named in honor of the family of the donor, Jane Coleman Pickard (Mrs. Frederick W. Pickard); Hyde Hall (1917), designed by Allen and Collens and named in memory of the seventh president of the College; Maine Hall (1808), designed and built by Anthony C. Raymond, known originally as "the College," and named later to commemorate the admission of Maine to the Union; Moore Hall (1941), designed by McKim, Mead & White and named in honor of his father by the donor, Hoyt Augustus Moore, LL.D., of the Class of 1895; and Winthrop Hall (1822), designed and built by Samuel Melcher III and named in memory of Governor John Winthrop of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, are the six campus residence halls. In 1964-1966 the interiors of Appleton, Maine, and Winthrop were completely renovated.

Ashby House, located on Maine Street across from Hawthorne-Longfellow Library, was the home of the Reverend Thompson E. Ashby h'30, for many years minister of the First Parish Church, and Mrs. Ashby. It has been used over the years as a faculty residence, eating hall, and student dormitory. It was renovated in 1974 and currently houses the Department of Sociology and Anthropology.

Baxter House, at 10 College Street, was purchased in 1971 and is used as a student residence. For nearly twenty years it was the chapter house of Delta Psi of Sigma Nu, which established a scholarship fund at the College with the proceeds from the sale. Named for the Baxter family in recognition of its many contributions to Bowdoin and the State of Maine, it was designed by Chapman and Frazer and built by Hartley C. Baxter, of the Class of 1878, one of five Baxters to serve on the Governing Boards and stepbrother of Percival P. Baxter, of the Class of 1898, governor of Maine from 1921 to 1925.

Brunswick Apartments, on Maine Street, acquired in 1973, provide housing for 100 upperclass students and townspeople in one- and two-bedroom apartments.

Burnett House, 232 Maine Street, was built in 1858 for Mr. Henry Martin, a grocer and later president of the Pejepscot Bank. In 1919 it was purchased by Charles T. and Sue Winchell Burnett. Professor Burnett was chairman of the Department of Psychology and a member of the faculty for forty-two years until his retirement in 1944; Mrs. Burnett, a cellist, took part in many musical productions on campus. From 1965 to 1970 Burnett House was home to the Phi Delta Psi fraternity. The College acquired it in 1972, and it is now a residence for students. There is a printmaking studio for the Department of Art in the ell.

Chamberlain Hall, designed by Hugh Stubbins and constructed in 1964, was named in memory of General Joshua Lawrence Chamberlain, LL.D., of the Class of 1852, Civil War hero, governor of Maine, and president of Bowdoin from 1871 to 1883. It houses the Admissions Office.

The Chapel, a Romanesque church of undressed granite designed by Richard Upjohn, was built during the decade from 1845 to 1855 from funds solicited from private donors and received from the Bowdoin estate. The façade is distinguished by twin towers and spires which rise to the height of 120 feet. The interior resembles the plan of English college chapels, with a broad central aisle from either side of which rise the ranges of seats. The lofty walls are decorated with twelve large paintings. The Chapel stands as a monument to President Leonard Woods, fourth president of the College, under whose personal direction it was erected. The flags are of the original thirteen colonies plus Maine, which was a part of Massachusetts at the time of the founding of the College in 1794. A set of eleven chimes, the gift of William Martin Payson, of the Class of 1874, was installed in the southwest tower in 1923. In the Chapel is an organ given in 1927 by Cyrus H. K. Curtis, LL.D.

That portion of the building that formerly housed the reading rooms and stack space of the college library was named Banister Hall in 1850 in recognition of the gifts of Mrs. Sarah Hale, the daughter of the Honorable William Banister. It contains the offices, classrooms, and laboratories of the Department of Psychology. The human psychobiology laboratory is named in honor of psychologist Harry Helson, Ph.D., of the Class of 1921.

Chase Barn Chamber, named in memory of Stanley Perkins Chase, Ph.D., of the Class of 1905, Henry Leland Chapman Professor of English Literature from 1925 to 1951, and his wife, Helen Johnson Chase, is a handsome room located in the ell of the Johnson House. Designed by Felix Arnold Burton, of the Class of 1907, in the Elizabethan style, the chamber is heavily timbered, contains a small stage and an impressive fireplace, and houses many of the books from the Chase library. It is used for small classes, seminars, and conferences.

Parker Cleaveland Hall, designed by McKim, Mead & White, was dedicated in 1952. The building was made possible by donors to the Sesquicentennial Fund. It houses the Department of Chemistry and bears the name of Parker Cleaveland, who taught chemistry and mineralogy at Bowdoin from 1805 to 1858 and was a pioneer in geological studies. Special gifts provided the Kresge Laboratory of Physical Chemistry, the Wentworth Laboratory of Analytical Chemistry, the 1927 Room (a private laboratory), the Adams Lecture Room, the Burnett Room (a seminar room), and the Dana Laboratory of Organic Chemistry.

Dudley Coe Health Center is a three-story brick building erected in 1916-1917. It was designed by Allen and Collens and given by Thomas Upham Coe, M. D., of the Class of 1857, in memory of his son, and stands in the pines to the south of the Hyde Athletic Building. In 1957 it was enlarged through a gift by Agnes M. Shumway, b. '62 (Mrs. Sherman N. Shumway). In 1962 it was licensed by the state as a private general hospital. An addition was built in 1974 to provide additional space for patient care. The second floor houses the offices of the Gynecological Services; the third floor the Counseling Service. The Service Bureau is located in the basement.

Coles Tower, designed by Hugh Stubbins, was completed in 1964 and served for several years as the residential unit of the Senior Center. After the Senior Year Program was ended in 1979, the sixteen-story tower was named in honor of James Stacy Coles, Ph.D., D.Sc., LL.D., ScD., ninth president of the College and the program's chief proponent. The building includes living and study quarters, seminar and conference rooms, lounges, and accommodations for official guests of the College. The first floor is dedicated to the memory and honor of the late Henry Quinby Hawes, A.M., of the Class of 1910, and Mrs. Hawes.

Copeland House, at 88 Federal Street, was acquired in 1972. A residence for students, it was formerly the home of Manton Copeland, Ph.D., who taught biology at the College from 1908 until 1947 and was Josiah Little Professor of Natural Science Emeritus at the time of his death in 1971.

Marshall Perley Cram Alumni House, at 83 Federal Street, was bequeathed to the College in 1933 on the death of Professor Marshall Perley Cram, Ph.D., of the Class of 1904. Renovated in 1962 and maintained by the College, it is the center of alumni activities at Bowdoin and contains lounges, rest rooms, and other facilities for the use of visiting alumni and their families and guests. It also houses the alumni relations office and the offices of Bowdoin Magazine. The Kate Douglas Wiggin Room, located on the first floor, was presented by the Society of Bowdoin Women in 1986. Displayed on the first floor is a collection of polar bears done in crystal, porcelain, and other media that was the gift of the widow of Daniel L. Dayton, Jr. '49 in 1974.

Curtis Pool Building, a separate wing attached to the Sargent Gymnasium, was given to the College in 1927 by Cyrus H. K. Curtis, LL.D. Designed by McKim, Mead & White, the building now houses the Environmental Studies Center. The pool was closed in October 1987 on the opening of the new pool in the Pickard Field complex.

Dayton Arena, designed by Barr, Gleason, and Barr and named in memory of Daniel L. Dayton, Jr., of the Class of 1949, was built in 1956 with contributions from alumni, students, and friends. It contains seats for 2,400 spectators, a regulation ice-hockey rink with a refrigerated surface 200 feet long by 85 feet wide, locker rooms, and a snack bar. During 1972 and 1973 numerous improvements were made, including the installation of brighter lights and additional ice-making equipment, which enables the arena to be operated year-round. It is the site of intercollegiate and intramural hockey contests as well as recreational skating.

William Farley Field House and new 16-lane pool, designed by Sasaki Associates, are attached to the rear of the Pickard Field House. The Farley Field House was opened in the fall of 1987 and was constructed with funds donated by William Farley '64. It contains a 200-meter, 6-lane track with four tennis courts on a flexible infield area, a free weight room, and space for equipment storage.

85 Federal Street, the former home of Bowdoin's presidents, was built in 1860 by Captain Francis C. Jordan and originally stood on the lot at 77 Federal Street. It was purchased by the College in 1867 and was occupied by President Harris until 1871. The house was purchased by Peleg W. A. Chandler, who had it moved in 1874 to its present location at the corner of Federal and Bath streets. In 1890 the College reacquired the house, and shortly after President Hyde assumed office in 1885, it became his official residence. The ballroom, designed by Felix Arnold Burton, was added in 1926. The building was converted to house the development and alumni fund offices in 1982, after President Greason was inaugurated.

Getchell House, located at 5 Bath Street, is diagonally opposite Adams Hall. It was given in 1955 by Miss Gertrude Bowdoin Getchell, who had provided lodgings for students in the house, and it was completely refurbished in 1956. It houses the public relations and publications offices.

The Harvey Dow Gibson Hall of Music, named for Harvey Dow Gibson, LL.D., of the Class of 1902, was dedicated in 1954. Its construction was made possible by funds donated by Mrs. Harvey Dow Gibson; by Mrs. Gibson's daughter, Mrs. Whitney Bourne Choate; by the Manufacturers Trust Company of New York; and by several friends of Mr. Gibson. Designed by McKim, Mead & White, the building contains class, rehearsal, and practice rooms, a recording room, several rooms for listening to records, offices, and a music library. A recital hall was completed in 1978. The common room is richly paneled in carved walnut from the music salon designed in 1724 by Jean Lassurance (1695-1755) for the Hôtel de Sens in Paris.

Ham House, at 3 Bath Street, was built in 1846 and has been a residence for generations of Bowdoin professors, most recently for Professor and Mrs. Roscoe J. Ham, who lived in it from 1909 until their deaths in 1953. The house was bequeathed to the College by Professor Ham, George Taylor Files Professor of Modern Languages, who taught at Bowdoin from 1901 to 1945. It now houses Bowdoin Upward Bound.

Harpwell Street Apartments, adjacent to Pickard Field, and Pine Street Apartments, across from Whittier Field, were designed by Design Five Maine, Inc., and opened in the fall of 1973. There are two buildings of contemporary design at each location, and each of the buildings contains six apartments. The apartments, which accommodate up to ninety-six students, were built to meet the need for additional housing and to provide an alternative to living in a conventional dormitory.

Nathaniel Hawthorne-Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Library, designed by Steinman, Cain and White of New York, was built in 1964-1965 from funds contributed during the Capital Campaign. It was named after two of Bowdoin's literary giants, both members of the Class of 1825. It houses the principal portions of the library of the College and—in its western end, named Hawthorne-Longfellow Hall—most of the general administrative offices of the College. In 1984, the Hubbard Hall-library connector, designed by Shepley Bullfinch Richardson and Abbott, was completed. The area containing the government documents is named in memory of John C. Donovan, the DeAlva Stanwood Alexander Professor of Government and member of the faculty from 1965 to 1984. Renovations to Hubbard's book stack area, additional open-shelf space, and increased study areas were also finished. Also included in the project was climate control for a remodeled and enlarged Special Collections Suite.

Hubbard Grandstand was given in 1904 by General Thomas H. Hubbard, LL.D., of the Class of 1857, and designed by Henry Vaughan. It is situated on Whittier Field, a tract of five acres, named in honor of Frank Nathaniel Whittier, M.D., of the Class of 1885, for many years director of the gymnasium, who was largely instrumental in its acquisition for varsity football and track in 1896. An electrically operated scoreboard, the gift of the widows of Harvey Dow Gibson, LL.D., of the Class of 1902, and Adriel Ulmer Bird, A.M., of the Class of 1916, was erected in 1960. Surrounding the field is the John Joseph Magee Track, an Olympic regulation all-weather track given by alumni and friends in memory of Mr. Magee, coach, trainer, and director of track and field athletics from 1913 to 1955.

Hubbard Hall, designed by Henry Vaughan and erected in 1902-1903, was the gift of General Hubbard and his wife, Sibyl Fahnestock Hubbard. For over sixty years, until the fall of 1965, it was the college library. It is now used for faculty offices, examination rooms, and the Departments of Geology, History, Economics, and Government and Legal Studies. Located in the basement is the Computing Center, which contains a DEC 10 and a VAX 11/780 time-sharing system. The Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum and Arctic Studies Center are located in the building, with museum facilities on the first floor, and the Susan Dwight Bliss Room for rare books and bindings remains on the second floor. During the spring of 1977 the large west wing of the second floor was restored to its original condition and now provides additional study area for students.

Johnson House, designed by Gervase Wheeler and named in memory of Henry Johnson, Ph.D., Litt.D., of the Class of 1874, a distinguished member of the Bowdoin faculty from 1877 to 1918, and Mrs. Johnson, is located at the corner of Maine and Boody streets across from the southwestern entrance to the campus. Bequeathed to the College in 1957, the house was designated a Registered Historical Landmark in 1975. It is now the home of the president of the College.

Little-Mitchell House, at 6-8 College Street, was designed and built by Samuel Melcher III and houses the John Brown Russwurm Afro-American Center. The Mitchell House is named in honor of Wilmot Brookings Mitchell, L.H.D., of the Class of 1890, Edward Little Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory from 1893 to 1939. It was given by Professor Mitchell in 1961. The Little House, the 8 College Street side of the connected buildings, was acquired in 1962.

Little-Mitchell House was opened as the Afro-American Center in 1970 and rededicated as the John Brown Russwurm Afro-American Center in 1979 in honor of John Brown Russwurm, of the Class of 1826, Bowdoin's first black graduate, publisher, and governor of the colony of Maryland in Liberia at the time of his death in 1851. The center houses the offices of the Afro-American Studies Program; the Herman S. Dreer Reading Room, named in honor of a black graduate of the Class of 1910; and a 1,600-volume library of African and Afro-American source materials.

Massachusetts Hall, planned in 1798 and completed in 1802 by Aaron and Samuel Melcher III, who designed the building as well, was the first College building erected. In 1936 it was remodeled, and five years later, through a gift of Frank Herbert Swan, LL.D., of the Class of 1898, the third floor was restored and furnished to accommodate faculty meetings. Until 1965 the building housed some of the administrative officers. It now houses the Departments of English and Philosophy.

Mayflower Apartments, at 14 Belmont Street, acquired in 1973, provides housing for thirty-five upperclass students in one- and two-bedroom apartments. The building is in a residential neighborhood two blocks from the campus.

Memorial Hall, designed by Samuel D. Backus and William G. Preston and finished in 1882, is a structure of local granite in the Gothic style. It is a memorial to the alumni and students of the College who served in the Civil War and whose names and ranks are inscribed on bronze plaques in the lobby. The lower floor contains classrooms and an experimental theater, which is named in memory of George H. Quinby, of the Class of 1923, who was director of dramatics and taught English from 1934 to 1969. The entire interior was redesigned by McKim, Mead & White and rebuilt in 1954-1955 to house the Pickard Theater, one of the gifts of Frederick William Pickard, LL.D., of the Class of 1894. On the lower level is a plaque memorializing William H. Moody, of the Class of 1956, theater technician from 1958 until his death in 1976.

Malcolm E. Morrell Gymnasium, connected to Sargent Gymnasium, is a 50,000-square-foot building designed by Hugh Stubbins and Associates. Built in 1964-1965 from funds contributed during the Capital Campaign, it was named in 1969 in memory of Malcolm Elmer Morrell, of the Class of 1924, Bowdoin's director of athletics from 1928 to 1967. The gymnasium contains a modern basketball court with seats for about 2,500 persons, four visiting team rooms, eleven squash courts, offices for the director of athletics and his staff, and other rooms for physical education purposes.

The Moulton Union, designed by McKim, Mead & White, was built in 1927-1928. It was given and partially endowed by Augustus Freedom Moulton, LL.D., of the Class of 1873, as a social, recreational, and service center for the College. In 1964-1965, a two-story extension was added on the south and east sides of the building. The spacious main lounge and several smaller, intimate lounges and student activity areas are provided for general social purposes. The Union also contains the college reception and information center; the campus telephone switchboard; a bookstore; dining facilities; and a game room. The Union stands just outside the quadrangle opposite Appleton, Hyde, and Moore halls.

The Observatory was designed by Samuel B. Dunning and erected near the present Curtis Pool in 1890-1891 with funds given by John Taylor, Esq., of Fairbury, Illinois. It was moved to the southeast corner of Pickard Field in the summer of 1930 and is reached from the Harpswell Road. In 1965 it was renovated and a new telescope was installed.

Pickard Field House stands at the entrance of Pickard Field. It was given in 1937 by Frederick William Pickard, LL.D., of the Class of 1894, and Mrs. Pickard. The building, designed by John Calvin Stevens, contains lockers and showers for men and women. Pickard Field, a tract of sixty-six acres, was presented to the College by Mr. Pickard in 1926. In 1952 nine acres were added to the field by purchase, making a total area of seventy-five acres, thirty-six of which are fully developed playing fields. The field contains the varsity and freshman baseball diamonds, several spacious playing fields for football and soccer, and ten tennis courts.

Pickard Theater in Memorial Hall, also a gift of Mr. Pickard, was designed by McKim, Mead & White and dedicated in 1955. It has a seating capacity of slightly more than 600 and a stage 55 feet wide and 30 feet deep. The space from the stage floor to the gridiron is 48 feet. Adorning the walls of the auditorium are rubbings of six large reliefs of the Chinese emperor T'ai Tsung's war horses. The reliefs were executed about A.D. 637 for the emperor's tomb and were possibly from designs of Yen Li-pen. The rubbings were the gift of Walter H. Mallery in 1955.

Rhodes Hall, formerly the Bath Street Primary School, was purchased from the Town of Brunswick in 1946 to provide additional facilities for instruction and administration. The building was named to commemorate the fact that three pupils of the school later achieved distinction as Rhodes scholars at Oxford University. Rhodes Hall houses the offices of the Departments of Physical Plant and Campus Security.

Sargent Gymnasium and General Thomas Worcester Hyde Athletic Building, designed by Allen and Collens, were erected in 1912. The gymnasium was built from contributions from many of the students and alumni, and named in honor of Dudley A. Sargent, M.D., ScD., of the Class of 1875; the athletic building was given by John Hyde, Esq., of Bath, in memory of his father, Thomas Worcester Hyde, A.M., of the Class of 1861. In 1965-1966 Sargent Gymnasium was altered and renovated to make it part of the comprehensive plan for the indoor athletic facilities of the College.

Mary Frances Searles Science Building, designed by Henry Vaughan, was built in 1894 and renovated in 1952. It was the gift of Edward F. Searles in memory of his wife. With the Walker Art Building, Gibson Hall, and the Visual Arts Center, it forms the western side of the quadrangle. The building contains lecture rooms, laboratories, and libraries of the Departments of Biology and Physics. A battery of solid-state electronic equipment was installed in the Department of Physics in 1974. It was purchased with funds provided by the bequest of Constance H. Hall. She was the daughter of Edwin H. Hall of the Class of 1875, best known for his discovery of the Hall Effect, which has become a key principle in the design of solid-state electronic components.

Sills Hall and Smith Auditorium, designed by McKim, Mead & White, were completed in the autumn of 1950. The main structure was made possible by the first appropriations from the Sesquicentennial Fund and was named after the eighth president of the College, Kenneth Charles Morton Sills (1879-1954), of the Class of 1901; the wing, containing an auditorium seating 210 persons, was built by appropriation of the Francis, George, David, and Benjamin Smith Fund, bequeathed by Dudley E. Wolfe, of Rockland. The Language Media Center, donated by the Pew Memorial Trust, and the electronic film production laboratory and speech center are located in the wing. In 1968 a donor who wished to remain anonymous established the Constance and Albert Thayer Speech Center Fund to maintain the speech center. The fund was named in honor of Albert R. Thayer, A.M., of the Class of 1922, Harrison King McCann Professor of Oral Communication, and Mrs. Thayer.

Winfield Smith House, at 59 Harpswell Street, was acquired in 1972. A residence for students, it is named in memory of L. Winfield Smith, of the Class of 1907, who was born and raised in the house, "in recognition of the Smith family's long and devoted interest in Bowdoin."

10 Cleaveland Street is a residence for students.

12 Cleaveland Street houses the offices of the Bowdoin Orient.

30 College Street, acquired by the College in 1977, is the headquarters of the International Club and a residence for approximately eight students and teaching fellows.

38 College Street, houses faculty offices for the Asian Studies Program and the Department of Religion.

The Visual Arts Center, designed by Edward Larrabee Barnes and completed in 1975, was constructed with funds given through the 175th Anniversary Campaign. Connected to the Walker Art Building by underground storage and exhibition rooms, the center contains some 23,000 square feet of instructional space. A 300-seat auditorium was dedicated in recognition of a generous grant from the Kresge Foundation. One of the classrooms has been dedicated in honor of Philip C. Beam, Ph.D., Henry Johnson Professor of Art and Archaeology Emeritus and a member of the faculty for more than forty years. The photography area was dedicated to the memory of Alan H. Wiley.

Walker Art Building, designed by McKim, Mead & White, was erected in 1892-1894 and extensively renovated in 1975-1976. It was given by the Misses Harriet and Sophia Walker, of Waltham, Massachusetts, as a memorial to their uncle, Theophilus Wheeler Walker, of Boston, a cousin of President Woods. A bronze bulletin board in memory of Henry Edwin Andrews, A.M., of the Class of 1894, director of the museum from 1920 to 1939, is located in the rotunda. The building is surrounded on three sides by a paved terrace with supporting walls and parapets of granite. Granite and bronze sculptures adorn the front wall. Following the renovation of the building, one of the galleries on the lower level was dedicated to the memory of John A. and Helen P. Becker. The central gallery on the lower level was dedicated to the memory of John H. Halford, Class of 1907, Overseer and Trustee of the College for twenty years.

Wentworth Hall was named in memory of Walter V. Wentworth, Sc.D., of the Class of 1886, an Overseer of the College from 1929 to 1958. Constructed in 1964 and designed by Hugh Stubbins, it is a two-story building adjacent to Coles Tower and contains a dining room, main lounge, and other rooms for instructional, social, and cultural activities. In 1974 the main lounge was dedicated to the memory of Athern P. Daggett, Ph.D., LL.D., of the Class of 1925, acting president from 1967 to 1969 and for many years William Nelson Cromwell Professor of Constitutional and International Law and Government.

Women's Resource Center, at 24 College Street, houses a library and the office of the Bowdoin Women's Association, and provides student housing.

Registration and Enrollment: All students are required to register at the opening of each semester in accordance with schedules posted at the College and mailed to students registering for the first time. A fee of $20 is assessed for late registration.

Refunds: Refunds of tuition and fees for students leaving college during the course of a semester will be made in accordance with the following refund schedule:

During the first two weeks .....	80%
During the third week.....	60%
During the fourth week .....	40%
During the fifth week.....	20%
Over five weeks.....	No refund

Refunds for board and room will be prorated on a daily basis in accordance with the student's attendance as it relates to the College's calendar, after adjustments for fixed commitments and applicable overhead expense. Students who are dismissed from the College within the first five weeks for other than academic or medical reasons are not entitled to refunds. Financial aid awards will be credited in proportion to educational expenses as stipulated in a student's award letter, but in no case will they exceed total charges to be collected. Application for a refund must be made in writing to the cashier of the College within 30 days of the student's leaving.

Tuition: The tuition fee for the 1989-90 academic year is $6,965 each semester or $13,930 for the year. There is a per-course charge of $1,740 for students who have permission to take fewer than three courses a semester. Students in the class of 1991 or earlier classes who wish to register for fewer than three courses in their final semester must request permission to do so before July 1; if a later request is approved, a $225 surcharge will be added to the student's tuition bill in the appropriate semester. Any student completing the number of courses required for the degree in fewer than eight semesters must pay tuition for eight semesters, although the dean of the College is authorized to waive the requirements in such cases where the factors of advanced placement, junior year abroad, exchange or transfer status, or similar special circumstances exist. Work taken at other institutions to make up deficiencies in scholarship at Bowdoin or the accumulation of extra credits earned by taking more than four courses during a semester shall not relieve the student of the obligation to pay tuition for eight full semesters at Bowdoin College.

There are opportunities at Bowdoin to receive financial aid in meeting the charge for tuition. Detailed information about scholarships, loans, and other financial aid may be found on pages 00-00.

Room and Board: Entering freshmen are guaranteed housing. They may indicate their residence needs on a preference card issued by the freshman adviser during the summer preceding their arrival at Bowdoin. The assistant dean of students coordinates housing accommodations for the remaining classes. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors apply for residential housing in the spring semester yearly through a lottery system, the most equitable approach given the College's limited space for housing. Participants in the lottery establish eligibility with a deposit of $100, which is subsequently applied toward their room fees. Students who participate in the housing lottery, but then withdraw from College housing will forfeit their deposit.

Residence hall suites consist of a study and bedroom, provided with essential furniture. Students should furnish blankets and pillows; the College furnishes optional paid laundry service. College property is not to be removed from the building or from the room in which it belongs; occupants are held responsible for any damage to their rooms or furnishings.

The College owns a variety of apartments located near the campus. Rent for these apartments has been set at $2,970 a student for Harpswell and Pine Street apartments and $2,460 a student for all others for 1989-90. Rent for residence hall rooms and rooms in a fraternity house is $2,160.

Board is $2,760 for the year. These charges are the same regardless of whether a student eats at the Moulton Union, Coles Tower, or a fraternity. Students who live in Bowdoin facilities, except apartments, are required to take a full board plan. Partial board packages are available to students living off-campus or in College-owned apartments.

Other College Charges: All damage to the buildings or other property of the College by persons unknown may be assessed equally on all undergraduates. In each academic year the College collects a student activity fee of $130. The cost of tuition, board, room, and fees amounts to about $9,490 for the semester. To these items must be added the cost of textbooks, personal expenses (including travel), and fraternity expenses if applicable.

Health Care: The facilities of the Dudley Coe Health Center and the services of the college physician are available to all students.

To cover costs of treatment and care during the college year, in the health center or elsewhere, each student is required to have adequate health and accident insurance. This must be purchased through the College (the present group rate of $70 per semester is subject to change), unless a parent or guardian certifies that a student is covered otherwise by adequate health insurance. Students who purchase insurance through the College for either the fall or spring semester or both continue to be covered through the summer without additional charge.

Bills are rendered by the College for many medical services provided by the health center. Most of these costs are covered by the student health insurance available through the College. A pamphlet specifying the coverage provided by student health insurance is available from the Cashier. If the parents or guardians choose not to purchase Bowdoin student health insurance, bills for services provided at the health center will be sent to the specified insurance carrier. Any costs not covered by insurance will be charged to the student's account.

Motor Vehicles: All motor vehicles, including motorcycles and motor scooters, used on campus or owned and/or operated by residents of any College-owned residence or recognized fraternity must be registered with Campus Security. The registration fee is $10 a year. Failure to register a motor vehicle may result in a fine of $25. Students wishing to register a vehicle for a period of time less than one semester must make special arrangements with Campus Security. All students maintaining motor vehicles at the College are required to carry adequate liability insurance. Parking on campus is limited and students will be assigned parking areas according to their living locations.

PAYMENT OPTIONS

Students and their parents or guardians may pay the college charges as they fall due each semester or in accordance with Bowdoin's ten-month installment plan. They may also arrange to pay the total due by using a mixture of these two payment arrangements.

The payment dates in the Bowdoin-sponsored payment plans cannot be deferred for the convenience of families using guaranteed student and parent loans, or other tuition payment programs. Both long and short term financial arrangements should be made far enough in advance to assure payment on the required dates. Special problems or emergency situations can be discussed with the Cashier at any time.

Students with unpaid bills may not register for or attend classes, nor are they eligible for academic credit, semester grade reports, transcripts, or degrees.

Option I

Payment by Semester: On about July 15 a bill will be sent for the tuition, board, room rent, and fees for the fall semester. Credits (funds actually received) and tentative credits (funds not yet received but expected to arrive) will also appear on the bill. Bowdoin scholarship grants, payments from the family, or any other cash payments are examples of credits. Non-Bowdoin scholarship aid that has been reported, payments arranged for under the Bowdoin Installment Payment Plan, etc., are examples of tentative credits. The balance due is the difference between all charges and all of the credits and tentative credits. The bill for the spring semester will be sent about December 15.

Late Payment Charge: The balance due each semester will be considered overdue if not paid within 15 days of the billing date, and any unpaid balance will be subject to a late charge of 12.5% per annum.

Option II

The Bowdoin Installment Payment Plan (IPP): The Bowdoin Installment Payment Plan spreads the charges for a full year over ten months, beginning July 1. This program is administered on behalf of the College by The Knight Insurance Agency, Inc., of 855 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02116.

Eligibility: Any parent or guardian of a Bowdoin undergraduate is eligible for this plan.

Application Deadline: Eligible participants are urged to apply by June 15. Applications made after the start of the program (July 1) must be accompanied by an initial payment sufficient to become current with the regular payment schedule. Applications for the ten-month plan will not be accepted after August 15.

Amount to be Financed: The amount to be financed under IPP may not exceed the total net annual charges (total annual charges less scholarship and loans). If the amount to be financed is less than the net annual charges, the difference will appear as a balance due on the Bowdoin semester bill subject to the provisions of Option I. The minimum amount that can be financed is $1,000.

Finance Charge: A Finance Charge will be applied at an Annual Percentage Rate of 10% beginning on August 1.

Schedule of Payments: The first of ten monthly payments will be due on July 1, and subsequent payments will be due on the first day of each month thereafter until the entire unpaid interest and principal under IPP are paid.

Optional Payments: Additional optional payments over the basic schedule may be made at any time without penalty. The unearned finance charge will be rebated based on the actuarial method.

Application Fee: A $45.00 non-refundable application fee must be submitted when returning the IPP application.

Consumer Credit Sales Agreement: The parent and/or guardian must sign a Consumer Credit Sales Agreement providing for the payment of scheduled installments.

Payment Coupons: Parents or guardian will receive a book of dated coupons to identify each payment. Each monthly payment with coupon should be sent to The Knight Insurance Agency, Inc. (855 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02116), which will handle the processing and accounting of the IPP for Bowdoin.

Interest Statements: Statements will be sent by the Knight Agency in January for the finance charges (interest) reportable on tax returns.

Delinquent Payments: In addition to the finance charge imposed under the IPP, a late charge of 5% of the monthly payment, or $5.00, whichever is less, will be charged on any monthly payment in default for a period of 10 days or more.

Acceleration: If any payment is overdue by 30 days or more, Bowdoin shall have the right to declare the entire unpaid balance in the IPP account immediately due and payable. The acceptance of partial payments shall not be considered a waiver of any such default. Upon payment in full, the unearned finance charge, if any, will be rebated based on the actuarial method.

Insurance: Insurance coverage for IPP is optional and is offered independently of Bowdoin College by The Knight Insurance Agency, Inc.

Option III

The Bowdoin College Student Loan Corporation has created an Extended Payment Plan (EPP) to help middle and upper-middle income families meet the substantial educational expenses for tuition, fees, room, and board. This option is open only to families of students in the Classes of 1990 and 1991. The plan allows families to structure payments for education over as little as one year or for as long as fourteen years, at a fixed, special rate of interest. Parents can select the amount they wish to borrow each year, and payments can be accelerated at any time, so parents can accommodate both the monthly amount and the length of their repayment schedule to their income, their assets, or other family circumstances. The EPP was designed specifically to provide for interest payments only on the amount borrowed while a student is attending Bowdoin. Equal installments of principal and interest do not begin until after the student leaves the College.

Eligibility: Loans are available to credit-worthy parents or guardians of Bowdoin degree candidates, as well as to Bowdoin students in certain circumstances, if combined annual incomes are less than $125,000. The College will consider exceptions to this limit for families with more than one child in college at the same time or when there are unusual financial circumstances. Except for approved domestic or international exchange programs, students attending other institutions or taking leaves of absence are not eligible for parent loan support. Bowdoin will review the financial and credit information provided on the application prior to making the loan.

Amount of Loan: Those eligible may borrow an amount between $2,000 and $16,000 a year. The loan cannot, however, exceed the total of regular college charges minus any financial aid, including any Stafford Loan, received by the student.

Disbursement: Ordinarily, one-half of the annual loan will be credited to the student's account on August 1 and January 1. When late applications for parent loans are approved after these dates, any late charges due and payable to Bowdoin College may still be required.

Repayment: The provisions of the program provide for monthly payments of interest only on the loans for a period of up to four years while the student is in college and level monthly payments of principal and interest thereafter over a period of ten years. Interest charged under the program is 11 $\frac{7}{8}$ % per annum. Prepayment of loans in part or in full is permissible without penalty except for any interest charges past due. The entire principal and interest may become immediately due and payable at the option of the Bowdoin College Student Loan Corporation if (1) prior to graduation, the student ceases to be enrolled at Bowdoin College or ceases to be enrolled in an academic curriculum approved by the College, or (2) any regular installment shall remain unpaid for more than sixty (60) days after its due date.

Agreement: A single Extended Payment Plan Disclosure Statement and Promissory Note will be executed for the total amount to be borrowed each year.

Insurance Protection: Optional insurance coverage for the loan is offered independently by The Knight Insurance Agency, Inc. This insurance provides protection in the event of the borrower's death or total disability. The life insurance may cover all current and future payments contracted for under the terms of the promissory note. In the event of a total disability, the insurance covers all monthly loan payments for as long as the borrower remains disabled.

Applications: Applications for loans are ordinarily due July 1 for fall disbursement or December 1 for spring disbursement. To receive a Bowdoin Extended Payment Plan application, please contact the Director of Student Aid, Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine 04011; telephone (207) 725-3273.

Admission to the College

IN May 1989 the Governing Boards of Bowdoin College approved the following statement on admissions:

Bowdoin College is, first and foremost, an academic institution. Hence academic accomplishments and talents are given the greatest weight in the admissions process. While accomplishments beyond academic achievements are considered in admissions decisions, these are not emphasized to the exclusion of those applicants who will make a contribution to Bowdoin primarily in the academic life of the College. In particular, applicants with superior academic records or achievements are admitted regardless of their other accomplishments. All Bowdoin students must be genuinely committed to the pursuit of a liberal arts education, and therefore all successful applicants must demonstrate that they can and will engage the curriculum seriously and successfully.

At the same time that it is an academic institution, Bowdoin is also a residential community. To enhance the educational scope and stimulation of that community, special consideration in the admissions process is given to applicants who represent a culture, region, or background that will contribute to the diversity of the College. To ensure that the College community thrives, special consideration in the admissions process is also given to applicants who have demonstrated talents in leadership, in communication, in social service, and in other fields of endeavor that will contribute to campus life and to the common good thereafter. And to support the extracurricular activities which constitute an important component of the overall program at Bowdoin, and which enrich the life of the campus community, special consideration in the admissions process is also given to applicants with talents in the arts, in athletics, and in other areas in which the College has programs. The goal is a student body which shares the common characteristic of intellectual commitment but within which there is a considerable range of backgrounds, interests and talents.

One can analyze the profile of Bowdoin's most recent class and make a rough prediction of a particular student's chances for admission to the next class. In recent years, Bowdoin has admitted approximately one of five candidates. Sixty percent of those admitted will have graduated from a public school, and 80 percent of this group will have ranked in the top 10 percent of their graduating class. Well over half of the independent school graduates will have been in the upper fifth of their class. Although Bowdoin does not require that a student seeking admission take a prescribed number of courses, the typical entering freshman will have had four years each of English, foreign language, mathematics, and social science; and three and a half years of laboratory sciences. Further, most will offer studies in arts, music, and computer sciences.

Candidates applying to Bowdoin College are evaluated individually by members of the admissions staff in terms of four general factors:

Academic Record: Bowdoin is particularly interested in the superior student who seeks out and has excelled in a demanding college preparatory curriculum. Emphasis is placed especially on academic performance in the junior and senior years of secondary school.

References: As standardized test scores are an optional admissions requirement, the recommendations of the candidate's college adviser and a current English teacher, as well as a second faculty recommendation of the student's choice, are important. Perceptions of the candidate's motivation, joy in the learning process, creativity, determination, and aptitude help the admissions staff sort out the truly distinguished from the able.

Talent: Because of its small size and the variety of its academic and extracurricular offerings, the College is looking for a depth of talent and accomplishments in a few areas rather than surface involvement in many.

Class Composition: Rather than measure each individual candidate against fixed admissions standards, the College seeks a class full of differences: students with varied talents, of many backgrounds, from different places, with different points of view. Intellectual commitment must be demonstrated by all admitted candidates, however.

APPLICATION AND ADMISSION PROCEDURES

Early Decision: Each year Bowdoin offers admission to approximately one-third of its entering class through its Early Decision program. Those candidates who are certain that Bowdoin is their first choice should seriously consider this option since it may resolve the problem of college admission early in the senior year. Bowdoin is in agreement with other colleges regarding the general ground rules, which are as follows:

1. When candidates file a formal application for admission, they must state in writing that they wish to be considered for Early Decision and that they will enroll if admitted. Early Decision candidates may file regular applications at other colleges, but only with the understanding that these will be withdrawn and no new applications will be initiated if they are accepted on an Early Decision basis by their first-choice college. In other words, only one Early Decision application can be made, but other regular applications may be initiated simultaneously.

2. The completed Personal Application form and formal request for Early Decision, a School Report form, a secondary school transcript of grades, an English Teacher Comments form, and an additional teacher comments form must be submitted to Bowdoin by November 15. Decisions on Early Decision applicants, whose applications are complete by November 15, will be announced by late December.

3. Candidates admitted via Early Decision who have financial need as established by the guidelines of the College Scholarship Service and based on the Financial Aid Form will be notified of the amount of their award at the time they receive their Early Decision acceptance, provided their financial aid forms are on file at Bowdoin. It is Bowdoin's policy to fund all needy students who are admitted via Early Decision.

4. The submission of College Entrance Examination Board or American College Testing scores at Bowdoin is optional as an admissions requirement. Applicants need not be deterred from applying for Early Decision because they have not completed the CEEB or ACT tests.

5. An Early Decision acceptance is contingent upon completion of the senior year in good standing.

6. Most candidates not accepted under the Early Decision program will automatically be transferred to the regular applicant pool. Each year a number of applicants who are deferred under Early Decision are accepted in mid-April, when decisions on all regular admissions are announced. A number of students, however, are denied admission at Early Decision time.

7. Responsibility for understanding and complying with the ground rules of Early Decision rests with the candidate. Should an Early Decision candidate violate the provisions of the program, the College will reconsider its offer of admission (and financial aid if appropriate) to the candidate.

Regular Admission: The following items constitute a completed admissions folder:

1. The student's application form submitted with the application fee ($40) as early as possible in the senior year. The deadline for receiving regular applications is January 15.

2. School Report: The college adviser's estimate of the candidate's character and accomplishments and a copy of the secondary school record should be returned to Bowdoin no later than January 15. A transcript of grades through the mid-year marking period (Mid-Year School Report) should be returned to Bowdoin by February 15. If a student matriculates at Bowdoin College, the School Report and secondary school transcript will become part of the permanent college file and will be available for the student's inspection.

3. Recommendations: Each candidate is required to submit the English Teacher Comments form, which should be given to the English teacher for completion and returned as soon as possible and no later than January 15. An additional teacher comments form may be submitted if a student feels that another opinion is necessary. If students have any outstanding strength, particularly academic, that they feel should be documented in their Bowdoin application, they should have their teacher, coach, or club adviser write to Bowdoin directly. If a student matriculates at Bowdoin College, required references will become part of the permanent college file.

4. College Board Examinations or American College Testing Scores: Applicants are not required to submit results of CEEB or ACT tests. A candidate's overall academic record will always be considered first, with motivation, discipline, personality, and sensitivity viewed as important factors. If submitted, the CEEB or ACT scores will probably be helpful to the Admissions and Student Aid Committee in reaching a decision, but they will play a secondary role. The candidate is responsible for making arrangements to take the College Board examinations and to see that Bowdoin receives the scores if he or she wants them to be considered as part of his or her application. Should Bowdoin receive the scores on the secondary school transcript, these scores will be inked out before the folder is read by the Admissions and Student Aid Committee. Candidates may report their scores or instruct the College Board to send the scores to Bowdoin. Students choosing to submit their SAT and Achievement Test scores should complete the entire battery of examinations no later than January of the senior year. Bowdoin is particularly attracted to the student who seeks out and excels in a demanding college preparatory curriculum. Its policy regarding the CEEB or ACT test scores favors the student who is a superior achiever in the classroom but who may not fare so well on national standardized tests. Eighty-five percent of the public school graduates in the Class of 1993 ranked in the top 10 percent of their senior classes.

N. B. —Since standardized test results are used for academic counseling and placement, all entering freshmen are required to submit scores during the summer prior to enrolling.

5. Visit and Interview: A personal interview at Bowdoin with a member of the admissions staff or Senior Interviewer is strongly encouraged but not required. Distance alone sometimes makes it impossible for candidates to visit the College. The Bowdoin Alumni Schools and Interviewing Committees (BASIC) are available in most parts of the country to assist those applicants. For further information see page 000. Candidates' chances for admission are not diminished because of the lack of an interview, but many times the interview impressions prove helpful in reaching a decision. In the Bowdoin interview students should be prepared to talk informally about their academic record (an unofficial transcript is helpful), interests, talents, and goals. Ten carefully selected and trained Bowdoin Senior Interviewers conduct interviews to supplement regular staff appointments from September to January.

The Admissions Office is open for interviews throughout the year except from January 15 to April 15, when the staff is involved in the final selection of the class.

6. Notification: All candidates will receive a final decision on their application for admission by mid-April. A commitment to enroll is not required of any candidate (except those applying for Early Decision) until the Candidates' Common Reply date of May 1. Upon accepting an offer of admission from Bowdoin a student is expected to include a $200 admissions deposit, which is credited to the first semester's bill.

7. Candidates requiring an application fee waiver may petition for one through their guidance counselor using the standard CEEB form.

Deferred Admission: Admitted students who wish to delay their matriculation to the College for one year in order to gain increased maturity or experience may request a deferment from the director of admissions. It is Bowdoin's policy to honor these requests and to hold a place in the next entering class for these students. A $200 admissions deposit must accompany the deferral request.

Admission with Advanced Standing: Bowdoin participates in the CEEB Advanced Placement program and the International Baccalaureate Program and grants both advanced standing in courses and credit toward graduation to qualified students. Examinations in Advanced Placement subjects are given by the CEEB in May of each year, and students are granted placement or credit on the basis of their examination performance. In most departments, a score of 3, 4, or 5 results in students' being given credit for one or two semesters of college-level work in the subject; if students elect to continue that subject in college, they are given appropriate placement. A judgment on an entering student's departmental placement will be made during the course registration period through personal conferences with appropriate faculty members.

Candidates not offering Advanced Placement examination results may secure advanced placement by passing a qualifying examination at the College. Bowdoin recognizes the place of more advanced courses in secondary school and provides an opportunity for unusually qualified students to extend the range of work that they may do in school and college. Occasionally, students may gain sufficient credit to enable them to complete their college program in fewer than eight semesters. Applicants are strongly encouraged to take advantage of the Advanced Placement program and should request consideration for Advanced Placement and credit by arranging for all Advanced Placement Test scores to be sent to the Admissions Office.

A minimum grade of 5 is required to receive credit for the International Baccalaureate Program. In addition, to receive credit, students must take a higher level course in the appropriate department and cannot take a lower level course in the department.

Departments may opt to use the International Baccalaureate as a guide to placement only, not for credit. Departments may choose to require the taking of a placement exam before granting credit.

Credits Earned before Matriculation: Freshmen may apply a maximum of eight course credits toward the degree from the following sources: Advanced Placement Program, International Baccalaureate Program, and college credits from other institutions earned prior to matriculation.

Transfer Students: A limited number of students from other colleges and universities will be admitted each year to upper-class standing at Bowdoin. The following information pertains to transfer candidates:

1. Candidates should file a transfer application by April 15, and include the $40 application fee. Applicants must arrange to have submitted at the same time transcripts of their college and secondary school records, statements from deans or advisers at their colleges, and at least two recommendations from current or recent professors. Interviews are strongly recommended but not required. As soon as it becomes available, an updated transcript including spring semester grades should also be sent. Candidates whose applications are complete will normally be notified of Bowdoin's decision by late May. Deadline for mid-year transfers is November 15; mid-year candidates are notified by early January.

2. Transfer candidates should have academic records of honors quality ("B" work or better) in a course of study which approximates the work that would have been done at Bowdoin, had they entered as freshmen. Bowdoin accepts transfer credit for liberal arts courses in which a grade of "C" or higher has been received. Further, transfer students should understand that although they may expect an estimate regarding class standing upon transferring, official placement is possible only after updated transcripts have arrived at our Registrars' Office and have been appraised by the dean of the College and appropriate department chairmen.

3. Candidates entering the junior year will be given preference. Two years of residence is required for a bachelor's degree from Bowdoin. Students who have completed more than four semesters of college work are not eligible to transfer. Candidates must present one full year of academic credit to be considered for transfer.

4. The funds available for transfer students are limited by commitments the College has already made to needy enrolled students and incoming freshmen. All transfers are eligible for aid, based on financial need. Applicants for aid must file a Financial Aid Form with the College Scholarship Service by April 1.

Special Students: Each semester, as space within the College and openings within courses permit, Bowdoin admits a few special students who are not degree candidates. In general, this program is intended to serve the special educational needs of residents in the Brunswick area. Those who already hold a bachelor's degree from a four-year college are normally ineligible for the program. One or two courses are charged at a special rate of $650 and no more than two courses can be taken each semester. No financial aid is available for special students. Interested applicants should submit the completed special student form and enclose the $40 application fee. Inquiries should be addressed to the transfer coordinator in the Admissions Office.

PROCEDURE FOR APPLICATION FOR FINANCIAL AID

Bowdoin is one of more than 1,000 colleges that ask candidates for financial aid to file information through the College Scholarship Service, CN6300, Princeton, New Jersey 08541, or P.O. Box 380, Berkeley, California 94701. This organization has been formed to simplify application procedures and to make decisions on awards as equitable as possible. Each applicant for financial aid must submit the Bowdoin Financial Aid Application (which is included with the Application for Admission) and must also obtain the Financial Aid Form (FAF) from his or her school and request the College Scholarship Service to forward a copy of this statement to Bowdoin. March 1 is the deadline for filing these applications (or December 1 for Early Decision applicants). Candidates should not be discouraged from applying to Bowdoin College for lack of funds. Because of its extensive scholarship grant and loan programs, Bowdoin's financial aid policy is designed to supplement family efforts so that as many students as possible can be admitted each year with the full amount of needed financial assistance. In 1988-1989, approximately 38 percent of the entering class of 397 students received financial assistance. The amount of assistance intended to meet the individual's need is calculated from the information in the Financial Aid Form. The average award of grant and loan was about $10,300. Additional material about the program of financial aid at Bowdoin may be found on pages 71-76. Awards of financial aid are announced with the letters of admission.

All correspondence concerning freshman and transfer admission to the College and scholarship aid should be addressed to the Director of Admissions, Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine 04011; telephone (207) 725-3100.

Scholarships, Loans, and Financial Aid

SCHOLARSHIP GRANTS, loans, and student employment are the principal sources of aid for Bowdoin students who need help in meeting the expenses of their education. Bowdoin believes that students who receive financial aid as an outright grant should also expect to earn a portion of their expenses and that they and their families should assume responsibility for repayment of some part of what has been advanced to help them complete their college course. Grants will total about $4,700,000 in 1989-1990 and will be made to about 38 percent of the student body. All awards are made on the basis of satisfactory academic work and financial need, which is a requisite in every case. The financial aid program is coordinated by the director of student aid, to whom all applications, except those from students not yet enrolled in college, should be directed. Prospective freshmen should submit their applications to the director of admissions.

The College provides about $750,000 to aid recipients each year from loan funds under its control; another $750,000 in loan aid comes from private lenders under the terms of the Stafford program. Long-term loans continue to be an integral part of financial aid, supplementing scholarship grants. On recommendation of the director of student aid, long-term loans may also be made to students not receiving scholarship grants. These loans, including Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, and Bowdoin College Consolidated Loans, bear no interest during undergraduate residence. Interest is charged at 5% for the latter two loans; interest on Stafford Loans is set at 8%. Payment over a ten-year period is called for beginning six months after graduation, or separation, or after graduate school; two or three years of deferment are possible for various categories of service or internships. Perkins Loans also provide for the waiver of some payments for persons who become teachers and/or who serve in the military. Small, short-term loans are available upon application at the Business Office.

The student employment program offers a wide variety of opportunities to undergraduates. These include direct employment by the College, employment by the fraternities, and employment by outside agencies represented on the campus or located in the community. Employment opportunities are open to all students who are interested, able, and willing to work. Commitments for employment are not made to freshmen until after the opening of college in the fall. The College participates in the Work-Study Program established under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, the Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants Program established under the Higher Education Act of 1965, and the Pell Grant Program established under the Higher Education Amendments of 1972. The College also works closely with several states which can provide handicapped students and those receiving other forms of state aid with financial assistance to help with their educational expenses.

Prematriculation Scholarships: About 150 freshmen each year receive pre-matriculation awards to help them meet the expenses of their first year. Recently the range of awards has extended from $500 to $18,000. As noted above, some awards are direct grants, but most include the tender of loans. The size and nature of these awards depend upon the need demonstrated by the candidates. Applications should be made to the director of admissions by March 1 of each year. Candidates will be notified of a prematriculation award at the time they are informed of the decision on their applications for admission, usually about April 15.

The general basis for determining the amount of all prematriculation scholarships is the individual's financial need. Need is determined by an analysis of the statements of financial resources submitted to the Financial Aid Office on the aid forms.

Freshmen who hold prematriculation awards may be assured of continuing financial aid that meets their needs in the upper-class years if grades each semester are such as to assure progress required for continued enrollment (see General Regulations, Section 8, page 00). In each upper-class year the proportion of financial aid offered as a grant will be progressively decreased, and that offered as a loan increased, except in the case of certain scholarships where the full award must be made as an outright grant.

All awards of financial aid made in anticipation of an academic year, including the freshman year, will remain in effect for the full year unless the work of the holder is unsatisfactory. Awards for such students may be reduced or withdrawn for one semester. Awards may also be reduced or withdrawn for gross breach of conduct or discipline.

General Scholarships: Awards similar to prematriculation scholarships are granted to undergraduates already enrolled in college on the basis of their academic records and their financial need. Normally, these awards are made at the end of one academic year in anticipation of the next, but applications may be made in November for aid to be assigned during the spring semester on a funds-available basis. Awards made for a full year are subject to the same provisions covering prematriculation awards, but those made for a single semester are not considered as setting award levels for the following year. Since its founding, Bowdoin College has been fortunate to have had many close friends, including alumni, faculty, and others, who have either bequeathed or made outright gifts in support of its endowment for scholarships. Bowdoin College issues a separate publication honoring those in whose names scholarships and book funds have been donated.

Information on the availability of scholarship and loan funds may be obtained through the College's Student Aid Office. Questions regarding the establishment of such funds should be directed to the Development Office.

Loan Funds: Loans are offered as complementary aid to scholarships in almost every case. The College has a number of loan funds of its own through the generosity of a variety of donors, and these are listed in a separate publication along with scholarship and book funds.

Employment: College policy is to give priority in hiring to students of recognized financial need. However, there is no limitation on students as to who may work on campus. The annual student payroll is currently about $500,000.

Graduate Scholarships: These awards are made to students who have completed their work at Bowdoin and are pursuing advanced study at other institutions. Application should be made in writing to the director of student aid. They are described below.

Graduate Scholarships

ARTS AND SCIENCES

Charles Carroll Everett Scholarship: A fund bequeathed by Mildred Everett in memory of her father, Charles Carroll Everett, D.D., of the Class of 1850, the net income of which is given to that graduate of Bowdoin College whom the president and faculty shall deem the best qualified to take a postgraduate course in either this or some other country. (1904)

Timothy and Linn Hayes Scholarship Fund: A fund given by Timothy and Linn Hayes for support of postgraduate or undergraduate studies in the social sciences, i.e., those branches of knowledge which deal with the institutions and functioning of human society and with the interpersonal relationships of individuals as members of society. (1970)

Guy Charles Howard Scholarship: A fund bequeathed to the College by Ethel L. Howard in memory of her brother, Guy Charles Howard, of the Class of 1898, the income of which is to be used to enable "some qualified student to take a postgraduate course in this or some other country, such student to be designated by the Faculty." (1958)

Henry W. Longfellow Graduate Scholarship: A fund given by the daughters of Henry W. Longfellow, of the Class of 1825—Alice M. Longfellow, Edith L. Dana, and Annie L. Thorpe—for a graduate scholarship "that would enable a student, after graduation, to pursue graduate work in some other college, or abroad if considered desirable; the work to be done in English, or general literature, and the field to be as large as possible—Belles Lettres in a wide sense. The student to be selected should be one not merely proficient in some specialty, or with high marks, but with real ability in the subject and capable of profiting by the advanced work, and developing in the best way." (1907)

The Wilmot Brookings Mitchell Graduate Scholarship: An award from a fund established by Hugh A. Mitchell, of the Class of 1919, "to honor the memory of my father and his love for Bowdoin." Professor Mitchell was a member of the Class of 1890 and from 1893 to 1939 Edward Little Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory. The award is made by the president upon recommendation of a committee composed of the three senior professors of the Department of English "to a member of each graduating class who has majored in English and intends to teach English, the winning candidate to be selected on the basis of character as well as superior ability and talent for teaching." The award is to be used to help defray the costs of graduate work in a leading university in this country or England. (1965)

Galen C. Moses Postgraduate Scholarship: A fund bequeathed by Emma H. Moses in memory of her husband, a member of the Class of 1856, the income to be awarded and paid to the student most proficient in any natural science during his or her undergraduate course, who shall actually pursue a postgraduate course in such science at any recognized college or university; said income to be paid to such student for a period not exceeding three years, unless he or she sooner completes or abandons said postgraduate course. (1934)

O'Brien Graduate Scholarship: A fund given by Mrs. John Washburn, of Minneapolis, in memory of her uncles, John, William, Jeremiah, and Joseph O'Brien, for a "scholarship, preferably a graduate scholarship, for a student, or students, to be selected annually by the Faculty, who shall be deemed most suitable to profit by travel or advanced study, either in this country or abroad." (1937)

Nathan Webb Research Scholarship in English or English Literature: A fund bequeathed to the College by Dr. Latham True in memory of his wife's father, the Honorable Nathan Webb, LL.D., the income to be used to support a scholarship of $1,200 annually. The recipient must have received an A.B. from Bowdoin, preferably be unmarried, and use the scholarship in the study toward a Ph.D. "If deemed advisable, the said scholarship may be awarded to the same student for two or three years in succession, but no longer." (1963)

LAW AND MEDICINE

Garcelon and Merritt Fund: An award from the income of this fund, established in memory of Seward Garcelon, of the Medical Class of 1830, and Samuel Merritt, of the Medical Class of 1843, is appropriated annually for medical scholarships. The larger part of the amount is awarded to students pursuing their studies in medical schools, and the remainder may be assigned to students in the College who are taking premedical courses; but, at the discretion of the Board of Trustees, all of the income available may be assigned to students in medical schools.

Awards are made only to worthy and struggling young students "in need of pecuniary aid," and preference is given to graduates and former students of Bowdoin College. Applications from those not graduates or former students of Bowdoin College, but who are residents of the State of Maine, may be considered after they have completed one year in medical school. (1892)

Henry Lincoln Johnson Scholarship Fund: A fund established by Helen B. Johnson, registrar emerita of the College, in honor of her father, Henry Lincoln Johnson of the Class of 1907, college physician from 1927 to 1947, to provide graduate scholarships for medical students who are residents of Maine.

George and Mary Knox Scholarship Trust: A fund created under the will of George B. Knox, of the Class of 1929, for scholarships to be used for Bowdoin graduates attending Harvard Business, Law, and Medical Schools. (1984)

Lee G. Paul Scholarship: A fund given by Lee G. Paul, of the Class of 1929, the income to be used to provide financial assistance to graduates attending the Harvard University School of Law and requiring financial aid.

To qualify for a scholarship award from this fund a student must have been admitted to the College only after meeting all requirements for admission applicable to all candidates for admission and must have met during his undergraduate years at the College at least the minimum standards of performance expected of all students.

There is to be no discrimination either in favor of or against any student because of race, color, creed, sex, or disadvantaged background in the award of scholarships from this fund. (1964)

Dr. Clinton Noyes Peters and Alice F. Peters Medical Education Fund: A fund established by the will of Clinton N. Peters, M.D., of the Class of 1910 and the Medical School Class of 1914, the income of which is to be used to aid Maine-born medical students who are graduates of the College and have been accepted by or are attending medical school. Any funds not used for medical school scholarships shall be used for aid to Maine-born undergraduates who have indicated an intention to attend medical school.

Robinson-Davis Fund: A fund given in trust under the will of Beatrice R. Davis in memory of Frank W. Robinson and Dr. Horace A. Davis, the income to be used to provide graduate scholarships for students, preferably natives and residents of Maine. Forty percent of the income is to be used for those who intend to study and practice law. The balance is for those who intend to study and practice medicine. (1972)

Earl Kendall Van Swearingen Scholarship Fund: A fund established by the bequest of Eleanore Maria Van Swearingen, the income to be used to support a "scholarship or scholarships to be awarded to the best premedical students for their medical education." (1969)

MISCELLANEOUS

Harold Hitz Burton Student Book Fund: A fund given in honor and memory of the late Honorable Harold Hitz Burton, LL.D., of the Class of 1909, by members of the Bowdoin Club of Washington and others to assist needy Bowdoin undergraduates in the purchase of books required in their courses. Administered by the dean of students. (1967)

Class of 1940 Memorial Fund: A fund to be used for the assistance of students or for such other purposes as the President and the Governing Boards may from time to time deem more useful. (1988)

Computer Loan Fund: A loan fund established to enable members of the faculty and administrative staff to purchase computer equipment for professional and personal use. The fund is administered by a committee comprising the treasurer, the dean of the faculty, and the chair of the academic computing center committee. (1984)

Davis Fund: A fund established by Walter G. Davis to encourage undergraduate interest in international affairs. Administered in such manner as the president of the College may direct. (1934)

Mason-Le Cannellier Fund: A fund established in honor of William R. Mason and Jean and Monique Le Cannellier “for the purpose of providing loans and/or grants to admitted, nonmatriculated freshman students (with preference to those of middle-income families) to facilitate travel or the pursuit of an alternative non-academic experience for a few months or a year before the students commence studies at Bowdoin.” Awards are made at the discretion of the director of admissions. (1982)

W. Cranston Brewer Memorial Fund: A fund to help individual Bowdoin undergraduates at a time of unexpected needs. (1988)

Dean Paul Nixon Discretionary Fund: A fund established by E. Jeffrey Gilman of the Class of 1940, and his wife, Barbara Drummond Gilman, in honor and memory of Paul Nixon, who joined the faculty of Bowdoin in 1909 and served as dean of the College from 1918 to 1947. The fund is administered by the dean of the College, “with an award to be made whenever the dean of the College feels that a student deserves encouragement and a ‘pat on the back’—not necessarily for a great action but for any of those moments which call for a ‘pat on the back.’” (1981)

John L. Roberts Fund: A fund given by John L. Roberts, of the Class of 1911, to assist some underprivileged scholar, other than a teacher or one contemplating teaching, to do research in any field he may choose. (1958)

Richard White Foundation Fund of Bowdoin College: A fund established by the Richard White Foundation to provide food and recreation at Thanksgiving and Christmas to the “two members of the freshman class most in economic need.” (1978)

The Curriculum

BOWDOIN does not prescribe specific liberal arts courses for all students. Instead, each student determines, with the help and approval of an academic adviser, an appropriate pattern of courses. To ensure that students explore the breadth of the curriculum before settling upon a major, they are expected to complete two courses each in natural science and mathematics, social and behavioral science, humanities and fine arts, and non-Eurocentric studies. Courses, it is assumed, do not lead simply to other courses in the same subject. Properly taught, they should raise questions and evoke a curiosity that other disciplines must satisfy. The College also recognizes through its course offerings the importance of relating a liberal education to a society whose problems and needs are continually changing.

The breadth of a liberal arts education is supposed to distinguish it from professional training, and its depth in one field, from dilettantism, although in fact it shares qualities of both. Bowdoin encourages students to extend their concerns and awareness beyond the personal. At the same time the College helps students to integrate curricular choices in accordance with individual intellectual needs. Interaction between the students and their academic advisers is a vital part of this educational experience.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DEGREE

To qualify for the bachelor of arts degree, a student must have:

1. successfully passed thirty-two courses;
2. completed a departmental major or majors, an interdisciplinary major, or a student-designed major (a departmental minor may be completed with any of the preceding);
3. spent four semesters (passing at least sixteen courses) in residence, at least two of which will have been during the junior and senior years;
4. completed at least two semester courses in each of the following divisions of the curriculum: natural science and mathematics, social and behavioral sciences, humanities and fine arts; and two semester courses in non-Eurocentric studies.

GENERAL REGULATIONS

1. Course Load: Students are required to take the equivalent of four full courses each semester. Students wishing to take more than five courses must have permission of the Deans' Office. A student may not take five courses in the semester following the receipt of an "F" without the dean's approval. Juniors or seniors who have accumulated extra credits may apply to the Deans' Office for permission to carry a three-course load once during their last four semesters at Bowdoin. No extra tuition charge is levied upon students who register for more than four courses and, by the same token, no reduction in tuition is granted to students who choose to register for three courses.

2. Course Examinations: The regular examinations of the College are held at the close of each semester. An absence from an examination may result in a grade of zero. In the event of illness or other unavoidable cause of absence from examination, the Deans' Office may authorize makeup of the examination.

3. Course Grades: Course grades are High Honors, Honors, Pass, Credit, and Fail. High Honors indicates excellent work. Honors indicates good work. Pass indicates satisfactory work. Credit indicates passing work, without further distinction as to quality, in a course elected by a student to be graded on a Credit/Fail basis. Fail indicates unsatisfactory work. In independent study courses that will continue beyond one semester, instructors shall have the option of submitting at the end of each semester except the last a grade of "S" for Satisfactory in place of a regular grade. A regular grade shall be submitted at the end of the final semester and shall become the grade for the previous semesters of independent study.

4. Incompletes: With the approval of the dean and the instructor, a grade of Incomplete may be recorded in any course for extenuating circumstances such as family emergency, illness, etc. At the time an Incomplete is agreed upon by the dean, student, and the instructor, a date shall be set by which all unfinished work must be submitted by the student to the instructor. Ordinarily, this will be no later than the end of the second week of classes of the following semester. The instructor should submit a final grade within two weeks of this date. If the course work is not completed within the specified time limit, the Registrar will change the Incomplete to Fail. Any exceptions to this rule or a change of the specified time limit may require approval of the Recording Committee.

5. Credit/Fail Option: A student may elect to enroll in a limited number of courses on a Credit/Fail basis. Graduation credit is given for courses in which a grade of Credit is received. A student may elect no more than one course of the normal four-course load each semester on a Credit/Fail basis, although a student may elect a fifth course any semester on a Credit/Fail basis. No more than four of the thirty-two courses required for graduation may be taken on a Credit/Fail basis; courses in excess of the thirty-two required may be taken for Credit/Fail without limit as to number. No course may be changed from graded to Credit/Fail or vice versa after the first week of classes. Most departments require that all courses taken to satisfy requirements of the major be graded.

6. Grade Reports: A report of the grades of each student is sent to the student at the close of each semester.

7. The Dean's List: Students who receive grades of Honors or High Honors in four regularly graded courses in a given semester are placed on the Dean's List.

8. Deficiency in Scholarship: Students are expected to make "normal" progress toward the degree. "Normal progress" is defined as passing four full-credit courses each semester. Students may not matriculate in a fall semester if they are more than two course credits short of normal progress. Students who fail to meet this matriculation standard may enroll after a suspension of at least one semester and the approval of the dean.

The records of students who fail more than one course are reviewed by the Recording Committee at the end of each semester. Students who fail three or more courses at the end of the first semester of the freshman year or who fail two or more courses at the end of any other semester are normally dismissed from the College. Students for whom dismissal is waived must take and pass four courses the following semester. Their records will be reviewed by the Recording Committee at the end of that semester. If they violate the terms of the waiver, their permanent dismissal will likely result.

Dismissed students may apply for readmission after an absence of at least one semester. Normal readmission applications consist of a petition from the dismissed students explaining their personal growth and development during the period away from Bowdoin. In addition, students must usually submit two letters of reference from non-relatives in positions to validate their experiences, which comment on students' readiness to resume quality scholarship.

Students who have been dismissed for academic deficiency are ineligible for financial aid during the first semester after readmission.

Students who merit dismissal a second time for academic failures may be permanently dismissed from the College.

9. Maximum Residency: No student will ordinarily be permitted to remain at Bowdoin for more than nine semesters of full-time work.

10. Senior Course Selection: A student may be required to take a course in his or her major department in each semester of the senior year at the department's discretion.

11. Leave of Absence: A student in good standing may, with the approval of his or her adviser, apply to the Recording Committee for a leave of absence for non-academic pursuits for one or two semesters. The leave must begin at the end of a regular semester. A student on approved leave is eligible for financial aid upon his or her return. A student wishing to apply for a leave of absence for one or both semesters of an academic year must submit an application by April 1 of the previous academic year. Applications for leave of absence submitted during the fall semester requesting a leave for the next spring semester will be considered only in the most urgent circumstances. Academic credit may not be transferred to Bowdoin for courses taken while on leave.

ADVISING SYSTEM

Each student is assigned an academic adviser, generally from the faculty, at the start of the freshman year. Students generally maintain this relationship for the first two years. Whenever possible, the dean of students assigns advisers on the basis of students' intellectual interests. Advisers and students meet regularly during orientation prior to fall semester's classes and on an individual basis thereafter.

During the first week of classes the student selects courses and receives approval from the adviser through a signature on the registration card. Should a student and adviser find themselves in disagreement over the wisdom of the selection, a subcommittee of the Recording Committee acts as arbiter.

Students elect a major during the second semester of the sophomore year. After registering for a major, a student is advised by a member of his or her major department.

DISTRIBUTION REQUIREMENTS

Distribution requirements should normally be completed by the end of the sophomore year. Students must take two courses from each of the three divisions of the curriculum, as well as two courses in non-Eurocentric studies. A course which satisfies the non-Eurocentric studies requirement may also count for its division. Because these requirements are intended to apply to the college liberal arts experience, they may not be met by advanced placement or international baccalaureate credits, but can be met, under the supervision of the Recording Committee, by credits earned while studying away from Bowdoin. Areas of distribution are defined as follows:

Natural Science and Mathematics: Biochemistry, biology, chemistry, computer science and information studies, geology, mathematics, physics, neuroscience, and certain environmental studies courses.

Social and Behavioral Sciences: Afro-American studies, economics, government, psychology, sociology and anthropology, and certain environmental studies courses.

Humanities and Fine Arts: Art, classics, education, English, dance, German, history, music, philosophy, religion, Romance languages, and Russian.

Non-Eurocentric Studies: Students must take two courses that focus on a non-Eurocentric culture or society, exclusive of Europe and European Russia and their literary, artistic, musical, religious, and political traditions. The requirement is intended to introduce students to cultures fundamentally different from their own and open their minds to different ways in which other people perceive and try to cope with the challenges of life. Though courses treating North American and European topics will not normally count toward this requirement, courses on Afro-American or Native American cultures will meet the requirement when the emphasis is clearly on those cultures and their differences from the predominant culture of the United States. Language courses do not meet this requirement. Approved courses are indicated by a swash (§) in the list of "Courses of Instruction" in this catalogue.

THE MAJOR PROGRAM

Students may choose one of five basic patterns to satisfy the major requirement at Bowdoin: a departmental major, two departmental majors, an interdisciplinary major, a student-designed major, or any of the preceding with a departmental minor. Each student must choose a major by the end of the sophomore year after consultation with the department or departments involved. No student will be accepted as a major in any department until that student has passed the courses required for admission to that major. Seniors may add or change majors and/or minors until the end of the first semester of their senior year. Changes by seniors in interdisciplinary or self-designed majors require the approval of the Recording Committee. A student who has not been accepted in a major department cannot continue registration.

Options for major programs are described below.

Departmental Major

All departments authorized by the faculty to offer majors specify the requirements for the major in the catalogue. A student may choose to satisfy the requirements of one department (single major) or to satisfy all of the requirements set by two departments (double major). A student may drop a second departmental major by notifying both the registrar and the department concerned at any time.

Interdisciplinary Major

As the intellectual interests of students and faculty alike have reached across departmental lines, there has been a growing tendency to develop interdisciplinary majors. Interdisciplinary majors are designed to tie together the offerings and major requirements of two separate departments by focusing on a theme that integrates the interests of those two departments. Such majors usually fulfill most or all of the requirements of two separate departments and usually entail a special project to achieve a synthesis of the disciplines involved.

Anticipating that many students will be interested in certain patterns of interdisciplinary majors, several departments have specified standard requirements for interdisciplinary majors. For descriptions of these interdisciplinary majors see pages 174-176.

A student may take the initiative to develop an interdisciplinary major by consulting with the chairs of the two major departments. A student may not select an interdisciplinary major after the end of the junior year.

Student-Designed Major

In some cases, a student may wish to pursue a major program that does not fit either of the patterns described above. The faculty has authorized a pattern which permits a student working together with two faculty members to develop a major program that may draw on the offerings of more than two departments. Guidelines for the development of student-designed majors are available from the Registrar's Office. No student may apply for a student-designed major after the end of the sophomore year.

Departmental Major and Departmental Minor

Students may fulfill the major requirements of one department and meet the minor requirements of any other department or program, subject to the approval of that department or program.

The Minor

All departments and some programs offer a minor program consisting of no fewer than four courses and no more than seven courses including all prerequisites. A minor program must be planned with and approved by the student's major department, and approved by the student's minor department. A minor may be dropped at any time by notifying both the registrar and the department or program concerned, but may not be added after the end of the first semester of the senior year.

INDEPENDENT STUDY

With departmental approval, a student may elect a course of independent study under tutorial supervision. A department will ordinarily approve one or two semesters of independent study for which regular course credit will be given. A definite plan for the project approved by the department and the tutorial adviser must be presented to the registrar by the end of the first week of classes. Where more than one semester's credit is sought for a project, the project will be subject to review by the department at the end of the first semester. In special cases the Recording Committee, upon recommendation of the department, may extend credit for additional semester courses beyond two. In independent study courses that will continue beyond one semester, instructors have the option of submitting at the end of each semester except the last a grade of "S" for satisfactory in place of a regular grade. A regular grade will be submitted at the end of the final semester of independent study and will become the grade for the previous semesters of independent work.

There are normally two kinds of independent study and each should be registered for under the appropriate course number. A directed reading course designed to allow a student to explore a subject not currently offered within the curriculum shall be numbered 291, 292, 293, or 294. An independent study that will culminate in a substantial and original research, fine art, music, or creative writing project or which is part of a departmental honors program shall be numbered 401 or higher. In most departments the project will consist of a written dissertation or an appropriate account of an original investigation, but projects in music, the fine arts, and letters are also encouraged. Independent study may not be taken on a Credit/Fail basis.

OFF-CAMPUS STUDY

Bowdoin offers its students the opportunity to participate in a variety of programs sponsored by other institutions and organizations. Study away must be approved by the College's Recording Committee and the student's major department; requests must be submitted to the registrar prior to the Friday before spring vacation of the year preceding attendance. Many specific programs and requirements for participation in them have been approved (see page 00 for information on Twelve College Exchange).

Foreign study: Students may apply for study in virtually any country. The Deans' Office has a list of over 125 programs that have been approved; students should consider these first. Information, including student evaluations, is also available from the Deans' Office. Bowdoin has an exchange program with the University of Dundee in Scotland.

Some language study is encouraged for programs in countries with primary languages other than English but is not required by Bowdoin, although individual programs may have their own requirements. Deadlines for application to foreign programs vary; a student should consult with the dean well before the spring vacation of the year preceding anticipated participation.

Domestic study: Study at other institutions in the United States should be considered primarily as an extension of Bowdoin's academic program. Therefore, a student's academic motivation is the essential criterion for approval. Bowdoin has a number of defined exchange programs; to attend any institution not currently approved, a student must, after consultation with his or her adviser, present evidence that the study requested will be undertaken in at least a comparable academic environment. It is the student's responsibility to apply to Bowdoin and to the other institution for acceptance.

Approved programs include the City Semester at Boston University, Williams College/Mystic Seaport Program, the National Theater Institute, Washington Semester programs of American University and Boston University, Tougaloo College, SEA Semester at Woods Hole, and the Twelve College Exchange (see page 00). Forms for and information about these programs are available in the Deans' Office.

In all off-campus study programs, credit will be transferred only for grades of "C-minus" or better, and an official transcript must be submitted to Bowdoin's registrar.

THE AWARD OF HONORS

Departmental Honors

The degree with honors, high honors, or highest honors in a major subject is awarded to students who have distinguished themselves in that subject. The award is made by the faculty upon recommendation of the department. It is based upon honor grades in at least a majority of major courses, honor grades in any departmental special major requirements, and honor grades in independent study in the major department.

All written work in independent study accepted as fulfilling honors requirements shall be deposited in the library in a form specified by the Library Committee.

General Honors

General Honors are awarded on the basis of a student's final six semesters at Bowdoin, except that a student who receives a Failure in any course at Bowdoin or in any course at an institution from which academic credit is being transferred to Bowdoin is normally not eligible for General Honors. No student who has studied at Bowdoin for fewer than six semesters is eligible. Exceptions are considered by the Recording Committee.

A degree cum laude shall be awarded to a student who receives at least 75 percent Honors or High Honors. Within the honor grades, there must be two High Honors for each Pass.

To receive a degree magna cum laude a student shall fulfill the requirement for a degree cum laude, with the additional stipulation that at least 30 percent of the student's grades must be High Honors in addition to the High Honors balancing the Passes.

A degree summa cum laude shall be awarded to a student who receives at least 70 percent High Honors and the balance Honors.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

Architectural Studies

Although the College offers no special curriculum leading to graduate study in architecture, students interested in a career in this field should consult with members of the Studio Art Division of the Department of Art as early as possible. In general, students should develop the ability to conceive and to articulate architectural and spatial concepts in two and three dimensions and visual ideas through drawing model making. The recommended course may be found on page 99.

Arctic Studies

A concentration in arctic studies, offered through the Department of Sociology and Anthropology and the Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum and Arctic Studies Center, provides students with opportunities to explore cultural, economic, and environmental issues involving arctic lands and peoples. Students interested in the Arctic are encouraged to consult with the director of the Arctic Studies Center in order to plan an appropriate interdisciplinary program, involving course work and fieldwork at Bowdoin and at The Center for Northern Studies, Wolcott, Vermont.

Beijing Program

The Beijing Program combines intensive Chinese language study with courses on contemporary Chinese society and history. The program, presently in its fifth year, is open to twenty-five students with a serious interest in China from Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, Hampshire, Hobart and William Smith, Mount Holyoke, and Williams Colleges. It provides an opportunity to gain a first-hand understanding of contemporary China through course work and guest lectures, frequent field trips, travel to other parts of China, and introductions to Chinese college students. It is strongly encouraged that students stay in the program for both the fall and spring semesters.

Environmental Studies in Zimbabwe

Beginning in the spring term of 1990, Bowdoin students will have the opportunity to participate in a pilot program of natural science and environmental study in Zimbabwe, as part of a consortium of institutions including Brown University and Colby, Williams, and Middlebury Colleges. The program is designed to provide first-hand study of strategies for sustainable development under conditions of severely limited natural resources and will include both fieldwork and direct service experiences.

Freshman Seminars

The importance of good writing to a student's success in college is obvious. The purpose of the freshman seminar is to introduce the academic discipline in which the seminar is offered and, in a broader sense, to contribute to a student's understanding of the ways in which a specific discipline may relate to other areas in the humanities, social sciences, and sciences. A major emphasis of each seminar will be placed upon the improvement of the student's individual skills—his or her ability to read texts effectively, to write prose that is carefully organized, concise, and firmly based upon evidence.

Each year a number of departments offer freshman seminars. Enrollment in each is limited to sixteen students. Sufficient seminars are offered to ensure that every freshman will have the opportunity to participate during at least one semester of the freshman year. Registration for the seminars will take place before registration for other courses, to facilitate scheduling. Students with serious writing problems are identified by the Deans' Office and are advised to enter a special tutorial program.

Seminars to be offered in 1989-90 are listed below and are described under the appropriate departments:

Fall	Spring
Art 10(1)(same as Asian Studies 10)	Art 10(2)
Asian Studies 10, 17	Asian Studies 22 (same as History 22)
English 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18	Classics 11
History 11, 17, 18	Economics 10
Philosophy 13	English 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26
Religion 17	History 19, 22
	Philosophy 14
	Psychology 10
	Religion 11
	Romance Languages 11

Health Professions

Students contemplating the study of medicine, dentistry, or one of the other health professions are advised to discuss their undergraduate course with the adviser for the health professions, Roy E. Weymouth, Jr., M.D., college physician. A meeting of students interested in the health professions is held at the opening of college each fall. Other meetings intended to be of help and interest to students preparing for health professions are announced during the year.

Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome

The Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome, established in 1965, provides undergraduates with an opportunity to study Greek and Latin literature, ancient history and archaeology, and ancient art. Students must take four courses, and may take a fifth. The center operates two semesters each academic year. Further information about the program may be obtained from John W. Ambrose, Jr., in the Department of Classics.

Intercollegiate Sri Lanka Educational (ISLE) Program

Bowdoin is the agency college of the ISLE Program, an academic year-long (August-April) study-away program located in Kandy, Sri Lanka, formally affiliated with the University of Peradeniya (formerly, the University of Sri Lanka). Bates, Carleton, Colby, Hobart and William Smith, and Swarthmore are sponsoring colleges. The program is designed to provide an authentic intellectual and cultural experience for fifteen to twenty students of advanced standing with demonstrated academic interests (particularly in religion, philosophy, sociology, anthropology, and history) in South Asia. Courses of instruction include Theravada Buddhist thought and practice; conversational Sinhala; and social, economic, and political history of Sri Lanka. Other courses in the humanities and social sciences are offered periodically and students are required to complete an independent study.

While in Sri Lanka, students live with host families in Kandy and are encouraged to travel extensively in India and in Southeast Asia during program breaks.

Participation in the fall semester only is an option. Four to eight Bowdoin students participate annually. The ISLE Program also sponsors exchange students and visiting faculty from the University of Peradeniya to the campuses of the sponsoring colleges. The program was established by Bowdoin in 1981 and is scheduled to operate during the 1989-90 academic year. Interested students should consult with John C. Holt of the Department of Religion.

Legal Studies

Students considering the study of law should consult with the staff of the Office of Career Services. Members of the Legal Studies Advisory Group include Craig A. McEwen, Department of Sociology and Anthropology; Richard E. Morgan and Allen L. Springer, Department of Government and Legal Studies; and George S. Isaacson, Esq. They can advise students on the best ways to obtain coherence between a liberal arts program and the study of law and allied fields.

Bowdoin participates with Columbia University in an accelerated interdisciplinary program in legal education. Under the terms of this program, Bowdoin students may apply to begin the study of law after three years at Bowdoin. Students who successfully complete the requirements for the J.D. at Columbia also receive an A.B. from Bowdoin.

Preengineering Programs

Through an arrangement with the School of Engineering and Applied Science of Columbia University and with the California Institute of Technology, qualified students may transfer into the third year of an engineering option after completing three years at Bowdoin. Admission is assured with the recommendation of the coordinator of the 3-2 programs. After the completion of two full years at the engineering school, a bachelor of arts degree is awarded by Bowdoin and a bachelor of science degree by the engineering school. Students should be aware that admission to these schools does not assure financial aid.

To fulfill the requirements of these programs, the student must start planning early. All students must take Physics 103, 223, 227, 228, Chemistry 101, 102, Mathematics 161, 171, 181, and Computer Science 101. In addition, a student taking the physical sequence is expected to complete Physics 300 and an additional course in mathematics, physics, chemistry, or computer science. For the chemical sequence, Chemistry 251, 252 is expected. The student should also have at least ten semester courses outside of physics, mathematics, chemistry, and computer science. Economics is strongly suggested.

Students who wish to complete four years at Bowdoin may apply to Columbia for admission on a 4-2 program. Students who have honor grades in the sciences and are recommended by the coordinator are automatically admitted.

Students who wish to apply as regular transfer students into the junior year of any other engineering program must make the necessary arrangements themselves. Such students should apply to the Recording Committee for permission for study away. Upon the successful completion of the engineering program, a Bowdoin degree is awarded.

Because this program requires tight scheduling of courses, students should consult regularly with James H. Turner of the Department of Physics.

South India Term Abroad (SITA) Program

Bowdoin is part of an eight-college consortium including Amherst, Bates, Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall, George Washington, Hobart and William Smith, Whitman, and Whittier participating in the operation of an annual program of undergraduate studies in Tamil Nadu, India. The program provides a one-semester standardized curriculum of courses designed for non-South Asian specialists, and an optional second semester of individually tailored studies for exceptional students.

The Bowdoin faculty adviser for the program is Sara A. Dickey, Asian Studies Program.

The Swedish Program in Organizational Studies and Public Policy

The Swedish Program is sponsored by the University of Stockholm and a consortium of American colleges and universities, including Bowdoin. It offers students the opportunity to do either a semester's or a year's intensive study of comparative institutional organization and public policy in complex industrial societies. Most courses are interdisciplinary in nature. Required courses include Swedish language and a course on the welfare state and public policy. A sampling of elective courses for 1989-90 includes: Industrial and Labor Relations, Women and Equality, The Psychology of the Working Environment, and The Health Care System. The two-week orientation and some courses involve extensive field trips. Students reside with Swedish families in and near Stockholm. The Bowdoin faculty adviser is David J. Vail, Department of Economics.

Teaching

Students interested in teaching in schools or enrolling in graduate programs in education should discuss their plans with personnel in the Department of Education. Because students must include courses in psychology and education along with a major in a teaching field, they should make their interests known as early as possible so that schedules can be accommodated. An extensive departmental resource library contains information about summer internships, volunteer placements, private and public school positions, and graduate programs.

Twelve College Exchange

Bowdoin has joined with Amherst, Connecticut, Dartmouth, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Trinity, Vassar, Wellesley, Wesleyan, Wheaton, and Williams to form the Twelve College Exchange program. Students from one college may apply to study for a year at one of the other colleges. About ten Bowdoin students will participate in the exchange during 1989-90.

Bowdoin students wishing to participate in the exchange for the 1990-91 academic year should make application to the office of the dean of the College by February 2, 1990. Detailed information on the course offerings of the participating colleges is available from the Deans' Office. Application is normally made for two semesters. The exchange affords students the opportunity to take courses that are not offered at Bowdoin or to study specialized aspects of their major fields of concentration with faculty members who have achieved preeminence in those specialties. Course work satisfactorily completed at any of the participating colleges will receive credit toward a degree at Bowdoin.

Courses of Instruction

Arrangement: The departments of instruction in the following descriptions of courses are listed in alphabetical order.

Time and Place of Classes: A schedule containing the time and place of meeting of all courses will be issued before each period of registration.

*Year Courses: Courses marked with an asterisk are year courses and if elected must be continued for two consecutive semesters.

[Bracketed Courses]: All courses that cannot be scheduled for a definite semester are enclosed in brackets.

§Non-Eurocentric Studies Requirement: Courses marked with a swash will satisfy one semester of the non-Eurocentric studies requirement.

Independent Study: See page 82 for a description.

Prerequisites: Unless otherwise stated in the description, a course is open to all students.

Course Numbering: Courses are numbered according to the following system:

10-199	Freshman seminars and introductory courses
10-49	Freshman seminars
50-99	Courses intended for the non-major
100-199	General introductory courses
200-289	General intermediate-level courses
290-299	Independent study: Directed reading
300-399	Advanced courses including senior seminars and topics courses
400	Independent study: Original or creative projects and honors courses

Afro-American Studies

Administered by the Committee on Afro-American Studies

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR STAKEMAN, Director

The Afro-American Studies Major is an interdisciplinary program, designed to bring the scholarly approaches and perspectives of several traditional disciplines to bear on an understanding of black life. The study of the black experience in the United States is the central feature of the major, but emphasis is also placed on the examination of the rich and varied cultures, literature, and history of black people in Africa and in the African diaspora, including the Caribbean and Latin America. Such a systematic interdisciplinary approach captures the historic, multi-faceted quality of Afro-American scholarship and allows the student to integrate effectively the perspectives of several academic departments at the College.

Requirements for the Major in Afro-American Studies: The major in Afro-American studies consists of four required core courses, a concentration of four additional courses, and a one-semester independent study project. The core courses, Afro-American Studies 101, Sociology 208, History 261, History 241, or 245, and English 275 or 276 have been chosen to give the student a thorough background for the study of the black experience and to provide an introduction to the varied disciplines of Afro-American studies.

The four-course concentration is intended to bring the methodologies and insights of several disciplines to a single problem or theme. Suggested concentrations are: Race and Class in American Society, Cultures of the African Diaspora, Political Economy of Blacks in the Third World, the Arts of Black America, and the coordinate major. Appropriate courses to be taken should be worked out by the student and the director of the Afro-American Studies Program. Alternatively, the student and the director may devise a concentration around another specific theme and submit a proposal to the Committee on Afro-American Studies for its approval. In addition, the independent study project, normally completed in the senior year, allows students to conduct research into a particular aspect of the black experience. Consult with the director concerning courses offered in previous years which may satisfy the program requirements.

Coordinate Major in Afro-American Studies: The purpose of the coordinate major is to encourage specialization in Afro-American studies within the framework of a recognized academic discipline. This major is, by nature, interdisciplinary, and strongly encourages independent study. The coordinate major entails completion of an ordinary departmental major in sociology and anthropology, history, economics, or government. The student is expected to take those courses within the major department which are cross-listed in the Afro-American Studies Program insofar as departmental major requirements permit. In addition, the student must take Afro-American Studies 101 and four other courses outside the major department from a list approved annually by the Committee on Afro-American Studies. Students electing the coordinate major are required to carry out scholarly investigation of a topic relating to the Afro-American experience; not more than one of the elective courses may normally be an independent study course (Afro-American Studies 290 or 400).

[§51. Myth and Heroic Epic of Africa.]

[§131. African-American Cultures.]

An introduction to the study of African-American societies and peoples. Anthropological analysis of the different social formations of peoples of African descent in the New World. Selected case studies from the United States, Latin America, and the Caribbean. Examines such phenomena as New World slave systems, migration, the family, economics, and urbanization. (Same as Anthropology 131.)

§208. Race and Ethnicity. Fall 1989. MR. MCEWEN.

The social and cultural meaning of race and ethnicity with special emphasis on the politics of events and processes in contemporary

America. Analysis of the causes and consequences of prejudice and discrimination. Examination of the relationships between race and class. Comparisons between the status of racial and ethnic minorities in the United States and their status in other selected societies. (Same as Sociology 208.)

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

241. The Civil Rights Movement. Fall 1989. MR. LEVINE. (Same as History 243.)

[§244. The Afro-American in American Society since Emancipation.]

§245. Afro-American Religion and Its Music: Redemption Songs.

Spring 1990. MR. STAKEMAN.

By focusing on black religious music in the Americas, this course will consider how specific historical contexts have shaped and reflected the development of a distinctly Afro-American church, theology, and folk religion. The course will examine the different interactions of African and European cultures which have produced a variety of Afro-American cultures; the social role of the black minister; the social stratification of black Protestant denominations; the social roles within church services; the social welfare functions of churches; and black millenarianism. Topics will include slavery and the spiritual, the black peasantry and folk blues, urbanization and gospel music, Rastafarianism and reggae. (Same as History 245.)

[250. Anthropology of Development.]

[§261. An Introduction to Precolonial Africa.]

Selected topics in the history of Africa before European colonization, including forms of African social and political organization, the economic bases of African societies, migration as a force in African history, the structure and dynamics of the great Sudanese empires (Ghana, Mali, Songhay), the trans-Saharan trade, the impact of the Zulu on South and East Africa, theories of state formation, the East African Coastal States, the Atlantic slave trade, the Islamic revolutions in West Africa, legitimate trade in Africa, and the prelude to colonialism. (Same as History 261.)

§275. Afro-American Fiction. Fall 1989 and Fall 1990. MS. PEMBERTON.

An examination of the development of the fictional genre of Afro-Americans, this course will trace the black American novel from its Civil War beginnings to the modern period. We will consider how these novels either challenge, deny, or mirror the American literary canon. Authors to be read include: Harriet E. Wilson, Nella Larsen, Richard Wright, Ralph Ellison, John Edgar Wideman, and Toni Morrison. (Same as English 275.)

Prerequisites: An English department freshman seminar; English 101, 102, or a 200-level course. Note: This course will count toward the non-Eurocentric studies requirement.

§276. Afro-American Poetry. Spring 1990. Ms. PEMBERTON.

This course will look at the development of Afro-American poetry, beginning with an examination of the oral tradition, through early twentieth-century black poets, the Negritude Movement, and the revolutionary poetry of the 1960s and 70s. Poets to be read include: Paul Laurence Dunbar, Claude McKay, Langston Hughes, Margaret Walker, Amiri Baraka, Gwendolyn Brooks, and June Jordan. (Same as English 276.)

Prerequisites: An English department freshman seminar, English 101, 102, or a 200-level course. Note: This course will count toward the non-Eurocentric studies requirement.

Art

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR WEGNER, Chair; PROFESSORS CORNELL AND OLDS;
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR WETHLI, Director, Studio Art Division;
ASSOCIATE PROFESSORS LUTCHMANSINGH AND MCKEE; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS ANDRIULLI AND DOCHERTY;
VISITING LECTURER GLASS

The Department of Art comprises two programs: art history and criticism, and studio art. Majors in the department are expected to elect one of these programs. The major in art history and criticism is devoted primarily to the historical and critical study of the visual arts as an embodiment of some of mankind's highest values and a record of the historical interplay of sensibility, thought, and society.

The major in studio art is intended to encourage a sensitive and disciplined esthetic response to one's culture and personal experiences; it is designed to develop perceptual sensibility as well as creative visual thinking and formal skills in visual expression.

Requirements for the Major in Art History and Criticism: Nine courses, excluding independent study and freshman seminars. Required are: Art 101; Art 212 or 226 or a course in classical archaeology; Art 222, 232, 242, and 252 or 254; two of Art 303 through 390; and one other course chosen from art history courses numbered between 110 and 399. Art history majors are also encouraged to take courses in French and/or German, history, philosophy, religion, and the other arts (literature, music, theater, dance, and the visual arts).

Interdisciplinary Majors: The department participates in interdisciplinary programs in art history and archaeology, and art history and religion. See pages 174-176.

Requirements for the Minor in Art History and Criticism: The minor consists of five courses of which at least three must be at the 200 level and at least one at the 300 level.

The Major and the Minor in Studio Art are described on pages 98-99.

Courses in the History and Criticism of Art

§10, 1. Freshman Seminar. Myth in Indian Art: Krishna and Kali. Fall 1989. MR. LUTCHMANSINGH.

By focusing upon the ways in which these two popular but radically different deities of Hinduism are represented in art, this seminar will explore the nature of myth, the conception of the sacred, forms of worship, and the definition and function of art in a traditional society. (Same as Asian Studies 10.)

10, 2. Freshman Seminar. The Art of Winslow Homer. Spring 1990. MS. DOCHERTY.

The American artist Winslow Homer (1836-1910) began his career with journalistic illustrations of the Civil War and ended it with paintings that address universal questions of human existence. This seminar will study Homer's achievement as both an individual and a cultural expression. Emphasis will be placed on learning to "read" paintings, to research them, to interpret them, and to write clearly and intelligently about them. Students will have the opportunity to work closely with the Homer collection in the Bowdoin College Museum of Art and to visit sites that Homer painted at Prout's Neck, Maine.

60. Postmodernism in the Arts. Fall 1989. MR. LUTCHMANSINGH AND MR. SCHWARTZ.

A study of developments in music and the visual arts since 1945. Among its specific historical and cultural concerns will be (1) the breakdown of traditional categories and genres, often making it difficult to define a given experience or work as "music," "theater," "sculpture," etc.; (2) the reciprocal influence of non-Western and Euro-American cultures; (3) the impact of technology, especially on artists' materials and working methods and the listener's/viewer's perception; and (4) different artistic approaches to "history," using collage, quotation, or anachronistic time-warping style juxtaposition. The material to be studied will include music illustrating Serialist, Minimalist, "Collage," and Neo-Romantic styles, non-Western influences, and experimental performance ritual; Postmodern architecture, American New Image Painting, German and Italian New Expressionism, Photo-realism, Minimalist and Conceptual art, and Performance and Video. In addition to lectures, discussion sections, and attendance at on-campus performances and exhibits, there will be a three-day study trip to New York City. (Same as Music 125.)

Prerequisites: One course in music or art history.

101. Introduction to Western Art. Fall 1989. Ms. WEGNER.

A chronological survey of the art of the Western world (Egypt, the Near East, Europe, and the European-based culture of North America), from the paleolithic period of prehistoric Europe to the present. Considers the historical context of art and its production, the role of the artist in society, style and the problems of stylistic tradition and innovation, and the major themes and symbols of Western art. Required of majors in art history, majors in studio art, and minors in art history. This course is a prerequisite for most upper-level courses in the history of art.

§110. Introduction to East Asian Art. Spring 1990. MR. OLDS.

A chronological survey of Chinese, Korean, and Japanese art from prehistoric times to the present. Considers the painting, sculpture, and architecture of East Asia in the context of historical developments and the major religions of the Orient. (Same as Asian Studies 110.)

§120. Introduction to South Asian Art. Spring 1990.

MR. LUTCHMANSINGH.

A survey of the architecture, sculpture, and painting of the Indian subcontinent (India, Pakistan, Nepal, Tibet, and Sri Lanka) from prehistoric to early modern times. Major emphasis will be placed upon the art of the three great ancient traditions of Hinduism, Buddhism, and Jainism; and three special subjects, the development of the Buddha image, the dance of Shiva, and the Hindu temple will be studied in some detail. (Same as Asian Studies 120.)

[140. Principles of Design.]

[204. History of the Graphic Arts.]

209. Introduction to Classical Archaeology. Fall 1989. MR. SMITH.

(Same as Archaeology 101.)

210. Introduction to Classical Archaeology. Fall 1990. MR. SMITH.

(Same as Archaeology 102.)

[211. The Birth of Greek Art. (Same as Archaeology 307.)]212. Medieval Art. Fall 1989. MR. OLDS.

Key monuments of medieval art are examined in the context of the social and intellectual history of Europe and the Near East. The scope of the course includes late Roman and Early Christian art, and the art of the Byzantine Empire, the Dark Ages, and the Carolingian, Ottonian, Romanesque, and Gothic periods. Special emphasis on the art and architecture of the great medieval abbeys and cathedrals.

Prerequisite: Art 101 or consent of the instructor.

222. Art of the Italian Renaissance. Fall 1989. MR. OLDS.

A survey of the painting, sculpture, and architecture of Italy in the fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth centuries, with an emphasis on major masters: Giotto, Masaccio, Donatello, Brunelleschi, Alberti, Botticelli, Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, Titian, and Michelangelo.

Prerequisite: Art 101 or consent of the instructor.

226. Northern European Art of the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centuries. Spring 1990. MS. WEGNER.

A survey of the painting of the Netherlands, Germany, and France. The development of a naturalistic style in Flanders by Robert Campin, Jan van Eyck, and Roger van der Weyden, the spread of their influence over Northern Europe, the confrontation with the classical art of Italy occurring around 1500 in the work of Dürer and others, and the continuance of a native tradition in the work of Hieronymus Bosch and Pieter Bruegel the Elder will be major topics. The changing role of patronage and the rise of specialties such as landscape and portrait painting are discussed in reference to the works of individual artists.

Prerequisite: Art 101 or consent of the instructor.

232. Baroque Art. Spring 1990. MS. WEGNER.

The art of seventeenth-century Europe. The naturalistic and classical revolution in painting carried out by Caravaggio, Annibale Carracci, and their followers in early seventeenth-century Rome and the development throughout Europe of these trends in the works of Rubens, Bernini, Georges de la Tour, Poussin, and others form one major theme of the course. The second is the rise of an independent school of painting in Holland. The development of Dutch landscape, still-life, genre, and portraiture is discussed in relation to artists such as Frans Hals, Jan van Goyen, Jacob van Ruysdael, and Jan Vermeer. The unique art of Rembrandt is studied in this context. Connections between art, religious ideas, and political conditions are stressed.

Prerequisite: Art 101 or consent of the instructor.

242. European Art of the Nineteenth Century. Fall 1989. MS. DOCHERTY.

A survey of painting and sculpture in Europe from 1750 to 1900 with emphasis on the art of France, England, and Germany. Individual artists are studied in the context of movements that dominated the century. The art criticism of Winckelmann, Baudelaire, Ruskin, Zola, and Aurier, the changing relationship of art and artists to society, and the late nineteenth-century sources of modernism are also discussed.

Prerequisite: Art 101 or consent of the instructor.

[252. Modern Art.]

[254. Contemporary Art.]

262. American Art from Colonial Times to the Civil War. Spring 1990.
Ms. DOCHERTY.

A survey of American architecture, sculpture, and painting from their colonial origins through their development into a distinctive national tradition. Emphasis is placed on understanding American art in its historical context. Readings in primary sources. Field trips to the Bowdoin College Museum of Art and environs of architectural interest.

[264. American Art from the Civil War to the Present Day.]

Seminars in Art History and Criticism

The seminars are intended to utilize the scholarly interests of members of the department and provide an opportunity for advanced work for selected students who have successfully completed enough of the regular courses to possess a background. Admittance to all seminars requires consent of the instructor. The department does not expect to give all, or in some cases any, seminars in each semester. As the seminars are varied, a given topic may be offered only once, or its form changed considerably from time to time.

322. Studies in Renaissance Art: Leonardo da Vinci. Spring 1990.
MR. OLDS.

The course will explore the art and thought of Leonardo in the context of intellectual history, the history of art, and the history of science. Readings in Leonardo's notebooks, contemporary humanist literature, and modern appreciations of Leonardo's contribution to art and science.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

332. Studies in Seventeenth-Century Art: Caravaggio and Artemisia Gentileschi. Fall 1989. Ms. WEGNER.

This seminar will contrast two artists—one male, one female—whose powerful, naturalistic styles transformed European painting in the seventeenth century. Starting with a close examination of the artists' biographies (in translation), the course will focus on questions of the artists' education, artistic theory, style as a reflection of character, and myths and legends of the artists' lives. We will also examine the meanings of 17th-century images of heroic women, such as Esther, Judith, and Lucretia, in light of social and cultural attitudes of the times.

Prerequisite: Art 101 or consent of the instructor.

- 364. Studies in American Art: Image and Idea in American Culture. Fall 1989. Ms. DOCHERTY.

This seminar will explore the relationship between the visual and the verbal arts in both a theoretical sense and in the historical context of American culture. We will begin by defining the expressive possibilities of these media and then proceed to examine various ways in which pictures and words have interacted over time. Aspects of the problem to be considered include: the treatment of common subjects (e.g., the landscape, the child, the city), the influence of writers on painters and painters on writers, picture-text relationships in magazine and book illustration, the translation of literature into film, and art criticism as a verbal interpretation of visual creations.

Prerequisite: Art 101 and consent of the instructor.

- 380. Modernism: Paradigm and Critique. Spring 1990.
MR. LUTCHMANSINGH.

A critical examination of the ways in which the Modernist tradition has been constructed in the history of painting and architecture, with emphasis upon the recognition of representative "masters," the redefinition of artistic worth, the role of the "avant-garde," the influence of the museum, gallery, critic, and historian, and the counter-movement of so-called "postmodernism." Special attention will be given to the following: Cézanne, Picasso and Cubism, Walter Gropius and the Bauhaus, Philip Johnson and the International Style, Joan Mitchell and Abstract Expressionism, and Frank Stella.

Prerequisite: Art 101 and 252 or 254.

[382. Theory and Interpretation of Art.]

291-294. Intermediate Independent Study in Art History. ART HISTORY FACULTY.

- 401. Advanced Independent Study and Honors in Art History. ART HISTORY FACULTY.

Studio Art

Requirements for the Major in Studio Art: Eleven courses are required in the department, to include Art 150, 160, 250, and 260; four other courses in the studio division, at least one of which must be numbered 270 or higher; Art 101; and two other courses in art history. Students undertaking an honors project in their senior year will be required to take Art 401 in addition to the eleven courses required of the major. Majors are also strongly advised to include study of history, philosophy, religion, literature, and music among their remaining courses.

Requirements for the Minor in Studio Art: Art 101, 150, 160, either 250 or 260, plus two additional studio courses, at least one of which must be numbered 270 or higher.

Studio courses without prerequisite are frequently oversubscribed; preference in enrollment is then given to freshmen and sophomores as well as to upperclass students fulfilling requirements of the studio major or minor.

150. Drawing I. Fall 1989. MR. WETHLI. Spring 1990. MR. ANDRIULLI.

An introduction to drawing, with an emphasis on the development of perceptual, organizational, and critical abilities. Studio projects will entail objective observation and analysis of still life, landscape, and figurative subjects, exploration of the abstract formal organization of graphic expression, and the development of a critical vocabulary of visual principles. Lectures and group critiques augment studio projects in various drawing media.

Enrollment limited to 25 students.

160. Painting I. Fall 1989. MR. ANDRIULLI. Spring 1990. MR. WETHLI.

An introduction to painting, with an emphasis on the development of perceptual, organizational, and critical abilities. Studio projects will entail objective observation and analysis of still life, landscape, and figurative subjects, exploration of the painting medium and chromatic structure in representation, and the development of a critical vocabulary of painting concepts. Lectures and group critiques augment studio projects in painting media.

Enrollment limited to 25 students.

170. Printmaking I. Fall 1989. MR. WETHLI.

An introduction to intaglio printmaking, including etching, drypoint, engraving, monotype, and related methods. Studio projects develop creative approaches to perceptual experience and visual expression that are uniquely inspired by the intaglio medium. Attention is also given to historical and contemporary examples and uses of the medium.

Enrollment limited to 20 students.

Prerequisite: Art 150 or consent of the instructor.

180. Photography I. Spring 1990. MR. MCKEE.

Photographic visualization and composition as consequences of fundamental techniques of black-and-white still photography. Class discussions and demonstrations, examination of masterworks, field and laboratory work in 35mm format. Students must provide their own 35mm nonautomatic camera.

Enrollment limited to 32 students.

190. Architectural Design I. Spring 1990. MR. GLASS.

An introduction to architectural design. Studio projects develop skills in program and context analysis, conceptual design principles and processes, and presentation techniques.

Enrollment limited to 25 students.

250. Drawing II. Spring 1990. MR. WETHLI.

A continuation of the principles introduced in Art 150, with particular emphasis on figurative drawing. Studio projects develop perceptual, creative, and critical abilities through problems involving objective observation, gestural expression and structural principles of the human form, studies from historical and contemporary examples, and exploration of the abstract formal elements of drawing. Lectures and group critiques augment studio projects in various drawing media.

Prerequisite: Art 150.

260. Painting II. Spring 1990. MR. CORNELL.

A continuation of the principles introduced in Art 160, with studio problems based on direct experience.

Prerequisite: Art 160.

270. Printmaking II. Spring 1990. MR. ANDRIULLI.

Further exploration of intaglio printmaking and monotype.

Prerequisite: Art 170 or consent of the instructor.

280. Photography II. Fall 1989. MR. MCKEE.

Review of conceptual and technical fundamentals of black-and-white photography and exploration of the different image-making possibilities inherent in related photographic media like 35mm and view cameras. Seminar discussions and field and laboratory work. Students must provide their own nonautomatic 35mm camera.

Prerequisite: Art 180 or consent of the instructor.

350. Drawing III. Fall 1989. MR. ANDRIULLI. Spring 1990. MR. CORNELL.

A continuation of the principles explored in Art 250, with particular emphasis on protracted drawings. Lectures, group critiques, and written assignments augment the studio portion of the class.

Prerequisite: Art 250 or consent of the instructor.

351. Drawing IV. Fall 1989. MR. ANDRIULLI. Spring 1990. MR. CORNELL.

Advanced projects in drawing.

Prerequisite: Art 350 or consent of the instructor.

[360. Painting III.]*[361. Painting IV.]*370. Printmaking III. Spring 1990. MR. ANDRIULLI.

A continuation of Art 270.

Prerequisite: Art 270 or consent of the instructor.

295-299. Intermediate Independent Study Studio. Studio Faculty.401. Advanced Independent Study and Honors Studio. Studio Faculty.

Open only to exceptionally qualified senior majors and required for honors credit. Advanced studio projects undertaken on an independent basis, with assigned readings, critical discussions, and a final position paper.

Asian Studies

Administered by the Committee on Asian Studies

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR SMITH, Chair; ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR HOLT; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS DICKEY, GILDAY, HARPER; VISITING PROFESSORS
DENG AND DE SILVA; INSTRUCTOR SATOH; VISITING LECTURER SOIFER; TEACHING ASSISTANT XU

Students in Asian Studies focus on either the cultural traditions of East Asia (China and Japan) or South Asia (India and Sri Lanka). In completing the major, each student is required to gain a general understanding of both culture areas, to acquire a working proficiency in one of the languages of South or East Asia, to develop a theoretical or methodological sophistication in one of the disciplines constitutive of Asian Studies (e.g., history, religion, literature, anthropology, etc.), and to demonstrate a degree of applied specialization. These principles are reflected in the requirements for an Asian Studies major. Student-designed majors focusing on cross-cultural topics in the humanities and/or social sciences are also encouraged. Normally, such student-designed majors will contain a strong disciplinary grounding (e.g., four courses in economics) as well as a significant number of relevant courses focused on Asia.

The Major in Asian Studies. One can major in Asian Studies by focusing on a particular academic discipline (e.g., religion) or by focusing on a particular geographic and cultural area (e.g., South Asia). In both cases, eight courses are required in addition to the study of an Asian language. These eight include Asian Studies 101, a senior seminar, and other courses as described below. A student who wishes to graduate with honors in the program must also write an honors thesis, which is normally a one-semester project.

The major requires courses from four categories:

1. Language. Two years of an East Asian language or one year of a South Asian language.

2a. Discipline-specific courses. Four courses from a single discipline, one of which is normally a senior seminar. Currently, students may elect anthropology, history, literature, or religion.

or

2b. Area-specific courses. Four courses that focus on the student's area of specialization, two in one discipline and two in another. One of these is normally a senior seminar. The possible areas of specialization are Japan, China, and South Asia.

3. Two courses that include a geographic area other than that of one's language concentration. One of these must be Asian Studies 101.

4. Two other courses to be chosen in consultation with the student's adviser. If the student has elected a disciplinary track in anthropology or religion, one of these may be Anthropology 101 or Religion 101.

Requirements for the Minor in Asian Studies: Focus on either the cultural traditions of East Asia or South Asia by completing: 1) Asian Studies 101; 2) a concentration of at least three courses in one academic discipline (specifically East or South Asian religion, history, anthropology, or literature); and 3) one elective in Asian studies.

Program Honors: Students contemplating honors candidacy in the program must have established records of honors and high honors in program course offerings and present clearly articulated, well-focused proposals for scholarly research. Students must prepare an honors thesis and are examined orally by the program faculty.

Freshman Seminars in Asian Studies

§10. Myth in Indian Art: Krishna and Kali. Fall 1989.

MR. LUTCHMANSINGH.

By focusing upon the ways in which these two popular but radically different deities of Hinduism are represented in art, this seminar will explore the nature of myth, the conception of the sacred, forms of worship, and the definition and function of art in a traditional society. (Same as Art History 10.)

[§12. Religion and Literature in Modern South Asia.]

[§15. Entertaining the Gods: Religious Feasts and Festivals.]

§17. Japanese Mythology. Fall 1989. MR. GILDAY.

A systematic study of the early eighth-century imperial sacred histories of the Japanese that provide a colorful introduction to the foundations of the Japanese world of meaning. Includes comparisons of various mythic and legendary accounts both from within and outside these official texts, and with patterns and themes typical of myths throughout the world. (Same as Religion 17.)

§20. Traditional China. Spring 1991. MR. SMITH.

§21. The Chinese Cultural Revolution. Spring 1992. MR. SMITH.

The Cultural Revolution (1966-1976) is now condemned by the Chinese government as enthusiastically as it was once heralded. What happened? This course has two interrelated goals: to study a complex historical problem and to learn how to read critically in historical materials, both primary and secondary. (Same as History 21.)

§22. Chinese Strategy. Spring 1990. MR. SMITH.

An investigation of traditional strategy, the philosophical and historical contexts from which it arose, and its embodiment in novels from the imperial period. (Same as History 22.)

Introductory, Intermediate, and Advanced Courses

- §101. Asian Civilizations. Fall 1989. MR. HARPER. Spring 1990.
MR. GILDAY.
Readings in original texts from India, China, and Japan will provide the basis for an exploration of basic patterns of thought and cultural expression in South and East Asia.
- [108. Asian Rites and Theater.]
(Same as English 73.)
- §110. Introduction to East Asian Art. Spring 1990. MR. OLDS.
A chronological survey of Chinese, Korean, and Japanese art from prehistoric times to the present. Considers the painting, sculpture, and architecture of East Asia in the context of historical developments and the major religions of the Orient. (Same as Art History 110.)
- §120. Introduction to South Asian Art. Spring 1990.
MR. LUTCHMANSINGH.
A survey of the architecture, sculpture, and painting of the Indian subcontinent (India, Pakistan, Nepal, Tibet, and Sri Lanka) from prehistoric to early modern times. Major emphasis will be placed upon the art of the three great ancient traditions of Hinduism, Buddhism, and Jainism; and three special subjects, the development of the Buddha image, the dance of Shiva, and the Hindu temple will be studied in some detail. (Same as Art History 120.)
- §210. The Populations of Asia. Spring 1991. Ms. FLOGE.
Analysis of the components of population in composition and dynamics in various Asian countries, in particular China, India, and Japan. Both causes and consequences of population changes will be examined.
Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology or consent of the instructor. Offered every other year. (Same as Sociology 230.)
- §235. South Asian Cultures and Societies. Spring 1990. Ms. DICKEY.
An introduction to cultures and societies of South Asia, from Himalayan kingdoms and island nations to the vast sub-continent of India, Pakistan, and Bangladesh. Issues of religion, family and gender, caste, and class are examined. The lives of people in this region are viewed through ethnographies, novels, and films. (Same as Anthropology 235.)
Prerequisite: previous course in sociology, anthropology, or Asian Studies or consent of the instructor.
- §236. Political Identity and Leadership in South Asia. Spring 1991.
Ms. DICKEY.
In South Asia, political identity is often based on "primordial" ties such as caste, religion, ethnicity, language, and region. Political leadership involves various strategies for addressing and transcending these communal interests. This course examines the development of different political identities, and the importance of issues such as personality and patronage in electoral leadership, in several South Asian countries. (Same as Anthropology 236.)

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology, anthropology, or Asian Studies, or consent of the instructor.

§237. Relations of Power in India and China. Fall 1989. Ms. DICKEY.

This course focuses on relations of power based on gender and class, making a comparison between India, where gender and class hierarchies are firmly institutionalized, and China, where official attempts have been made since the Revolution to remove class and gender-based discrimination. The interrelationship of gender and class are examined, as are their influences on and connections with division of labor, religion, and politics. Dominant and subordinate models and types of power are considered throughout the course. (Same as Anthropology 237.)

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology, Asian Studies, or sociology.

[§240. Religious Thought of Ancient India.]

[§241. Hinduism in Medieval and Modern India.]

[§242. Buddhist Sutras.]

[§243. Theravada Buddhism, Culture, and Society.]

§246. Epic and Mythic Traditions of India. Spring 1990. Ms. SOIFER.

An exploration of the Sanskrit epic and mythic literature of classical Hinduism. Study of the Mahabharata and Ramayana epics with particular focus on religious themes; reading of original myths from the Puranas with attention to themes of cosmology, conflict, divine manifestation, and soteriology, as well as concepts of evil and sexuality. Some attention will be given to methodology in the study of mythology. (Same as Religion 226.)

§251. The Portuguese Colonial Empire, 1415-circa 1800. Fall 1989.

MR. DESILVA.

A broad survey of the evolution of Portuguese colonial history in the early modern era. The interactions of war and trade, religious conversion, and political dominance will be explored to analyze the nature of colonialism in the pre-industrial age. The course will concentrate on Portuguese activities in Brazil and in the Indian Ocean littoral, though the impact of West Asia and on East Asia will not be ignored. (Same as History 281.)

§252. Colonialism and Nationalism in Southeast Asia, 1600 to the present. Fall 1989. MR. DESILVA.

An introductory course which will deal with the impact of colonialism in different parts of Southeast Asia and the indigenous reaction to the Western impact. Special attention will be paid to Indonesia, Burma, Vietnam, and the Philippines. (Same as History 282.)

§253. South Asia since Independence. Spring 1990. MR. DESILVA.

This analysis of the problems that have confronted South Asia since independence will concentrate on problems relating to political stability, ethnic conflict, economic development, social transformation, and interstate relations. The course will concentrate on India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka. (Same as History 283.)

§254. The History of Asian Commerce up to 1800. Spring 1990.
MR. DESILVA.

This course will deal with the evolution of trade in Euro-Asia in early times, but the emphasis will be on developments in the period 1400-1800. While attention will be paid to the nature of products traded in and the evolution of commercial organizations, the course will include attempts to analyze the role of trade in the exchange of ideas and to link development in trade with contemporary religious and political trends. (Same as History 284.)

§260. Chinese Poetry in Translation. Spring 1990. MR. HARPER.

A survey of ancient Chinese poetry and poetics emphasizing the works of the T'ang period writers (including Li Po, Tu Fu, Wang Wei, and Li Ho). Offered in alternate years.

§270. Chinese Thought in the Classical Period. Spring 1990. MR. SMITH.

An introduction to the competing schools of Chinese thought in the time of Confucius and his successors. Lectures provide background in the development of Chou dynasty society (ca. 1032-256 B.C.), but most work takes place in conference discussions of the philosophers' original texts and in a series of related short papers. (Same as History 270.)

§272. The T'ang. Fall 1991. MR. SMITH.

History of China during the T'ang dynasty (609-916). Multidisciplinary investigation of: reunification, state-building, and expansion; the rise of schools of Chinese Buddhism; and elite culture, including shih poetry. (Same as History 272.)

§274. Chinese Society in the Ch'ing. Fall 1989. MR. SMITH.

An introduction to premodern China, focusing on the first half of the Ch'ing dynasty (1644-1911). Discussion of societal relations and their justifications: state organization, human interaction, ideology. Culminates in a day-long simulation of elite society in the eighteenth century with students taking roles from merchant and local gentry to magistrate and emperor. (Same as History 274.)

§275. Modern Chinese History. Fall 1990. MR. SMITH.

An introduction to the history of China from 1840 to the present. Studies the confrontation with western imperialism, the fall of the empire, the Republican period, and the Peoples' Republic. (Same as History 275.)

§278. The Foundations of Tokugawa Japan. Spring 1991.

THE DEPARTMENT.

Addresses problems in the creation and early development of Tokugawa (1600-1868) state and society: the transformation of samurai from professional warriors to professional bureaucrats, the Confucian challenges to Buddhism, and the unanticipated growth of a quasi-autonomous urban culture. (Same as History 278.)

§285. Japanese Religion and Culture I. Fall 1989. MR. GILDAY.

Paradigmatic themes and problems addressed in classical literary, religious, and historical texts of the premodern period. Various ritual, theatrical, and artistic expressions provide a "textual" context for discussion. (Same as Religion 224.)

§286. Japanese Religion and Culture II. Spring 1990. MR. GILDAY.

An introduction to the major trajectories of Japanese religion and culture from the seventeenth to the twentieth century with particular attention to problems of continuity, change, and interpretation during the modern era. (Same as Religion 225.)

[§287. Pure Land Buddhism in East Asia.]

§291. Introduction to Japanese Literature I—The Early Period. Fall 1990.

MS. SATOH.

Designed to call attention to the intrinsic value of individual works, rather than to literary history. Also intended to act as an introduction to literary criticism.

§292. Introduction to Japanese Literature II—The Later Period. Fall 1989.

MS. SATOH.

A continuation of Asian Studies 291 that may be taken separately. No prerequisites.

§295. The Modern Japanese Novel. Spring 1990. MS. SATOH.

A critical study of selected Japanese novels of the modern period, with emphasis on the twentieth century. To facilitate the understanding of these works, the course will take a comparative approach, paying close attention to the indigenous and foreign elements assimilated in the genre. Readings in English translation will include selections from the experimental novels of the Meiji period to the avant-garde writings of the post-war years.

§370. Problems in Chinese History. Every fall. MR. SMITH.

This course has three purposes: to review the whole of Chinese history, to learn research methods, and to write a substantial research paper. (Same as History 370.)

[§390. Exoticism and the East: Encounters with Holy Others.]

290. Intermediate Independent Study.

400, 401. Advanced Independent Study and Honors.

Language Courses

- Chinese 101. Beginning Chinese I. Every fall. MR. DENG.
An introduction to Putonghua (Mandarin) and the written language.
Five hours a week of class plus assigned language laboratory.
- Chinese 102. Beginning Chinese II. Every spring. MR. DENG.
A continuation of Chinese 101.
- Chinese 203. Intermediate Chinese I. Every fall. MR. DENG.
A continuation of Chinese 102. Five hours of class a week plus assigned language laboratory.
- Chinese 204. Intermediate Chinese II. Every spring. MR. DENG.
A continuation of Chinese 203.
- Chinese 205. Intermediate Chinese III. Every fall. THE DEPARTMENT.
Third-year study of Mandarin.
- Chinese 206. Intermediate Chinese IV. Every spring. THE DEPARTMENT.
A continuation of Chinese 255. May be repeated for credit.
- Chinese 307. Introduction to Classical Chinese I. Every fall. MR. HARPER.
An introduction to the classical language, with an emphasis on precise translation of texts.
- Chinese 308. Introduction to Classical Chinese II. Every spring.
MR. HARPER.
A continuation of Chinese 307.
- Japanese 101. Beginning Japanese I. Every fall.
An introduction to standard modern Japanese. Five hours a week plus assigned language laboratory.
- Japanese 102. Beginning Japanese II. Every spring.
Continuation of Japanese 101.
- Japanese 203. Intermediate Japanese I. Every fall.
A continuation of Japanese 102.
- Japanese 204. Intermediate Japanese II. Every spring.
A continuation of Japanese 203.
- Japanese 205. Intermediate Japanese III. Every fall. MS. SATOH.
Third year of modern Japanese. Grammar review and readings in newspapers and contemporary literature. Frequent writing of short essays. Maintenance of aural/oral proficiency.
- Japanese 206. Intermediate Japanese IV. Every spring. MS. SATOH.
A continuation of Japanese 205.
- Sanskrit 101. Introductory Sanskrit I. Fall 1989. MS. SOIFER.
An introduction to the structure and content of Sanskrit language including basic grammar, vocabulary, and Devanagari script with primary emphasis placed on developing translation skills. Limited to fifteen students.

Sanskrit 102. Introductory Sanskrit II. Spring 1990. Ms. SOIFER.
Continuation of Sanskrit 101.

Biochemistry

Administered by the Committee on Biochemistry

PROFESSOR PAGE, Chair;

PROFESSOR HOWLAND; ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR SETTLEMIRE

Requirements for the Major in Biochemistry: All majors must complete the following courses: Biology 101, Biology (Chemistry) 261, 262; Chemistry 101 and 102, or 109; and 225, 226, 251; Mathematics 161, 171; and Physics 103. Students should normally complete the required Biochemistry core courses by the end of their junior year. In addition, majors must complete four courses from the following: Biology 113, 114, 116, 201, 202, 204, 212, 213, 215, 302, 304, 400; Chemistry 210, 240, 252, 270, 330, 400; Physics 223, 227, 228, 260, 400. Students may include as electives up to two 400 courses. They may petition the Committee on Biochemistry to be allowed to substitute other science courses as electives. Finally, a student intending to carry out a laboratory Independent Study course in Biochemistry should first take Chemistry 210, Biology 212, 213, or 215. Students taking Independent Study courses for the Biochemistry major should register for Biochemistry 401, 402, etc.

Biology

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR DICKINSON, Chair; PROFESSOR HOWLAND;
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR STEINHART; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS JOHNSON, PHILLIPS, AND WHEELWRIGHT; INSTRUCTOR RUDOLPH;
RESEARCH ASSOCIATE PEUSNER; LABORATORY INSTRUCTORS BRYER, GARFIELD, AND WINE; JOINT APPOINTMENT WITH CHEMISTRY:
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR SETTLEMIRE

Requirements for the Major in Biology: The major consists of seven semester courses in the department exclusive of courses in the 400 series. Major students are required to complete five core courses including Biology 101 and 102 and three of the following: Biology 113, 114, 115, and 116. Majors are also required to complete two other courses within the department as well as Mathematics 161, Physics 103, and Chemistry 225 and are advised to complete Biology 101 and 102 and the mathematics, physics, and chemistry courses by the end of the sophomore year. Students planning postgraduate education in science or in the health professions should note that graduate and professional schools are likely to have additional admissions requirements in mathematics, physics, and chemistry.

Interdisciplinary Major: The department participates in interdisciplinary programs in biochemistry and neuroscience. See pages 189 and 174-176.

Requirements for the Minor in Biology: The minor consists of Biology 101 and 102, plus two other courses, 100 level or above, appropriate to the major.

[51. The History of Science.]

[52. Horticulture.]

101. Introductory Cell Biology. Every fall. THE DEPARTMENT.

Examination of fundamental biological phenomena with special reference to cells. Topics include ultrastructure, growth and metabolism, cell division and molecular genetics, early development, immunology, membrane transport, and the interaction between viruses and host cells. Lectures and three hours of laboratory work each week. Understanding of high school chemistry is assumed.

102. Biology of Organisms and Populations. Every spring.

THE DEPARTMENT.

A study of the properties of organisms and populations with evolution as a central, unifying theme. Topics include the origin of life; the mechanisms of evolution; a survey of the kingdoms of living organisms; the physiology, morphology, and development of animals and plants; and the effects of the environment on populations. Lectures and three hours of laboratory work each week.

Prerequisite: Biology 101.

113. Genetics. Every fall. MR. STEINHART.

Integrated coverage of organismic and molecular levels of the genetics of eucaryotes and procaryotes. Topics include the structure and function of chromosomes, the mechanisms and control of gene expression, recombination, mutagenesis, and the determination of gene order and sequence, and genetic engineering technology and applications. Students contemplating postgraduate studies in biological science are strongly encouraged to enroll in Biology 213 and 215.

Prerequisite: Biology 102.

114. Comparative Physiology. Every spring. MS. DICKINSON.

The relationship between structure and function in organ systems and in invertebrates and vertebrates as a whole. The interdependency of organ systems considered. Lectures and three hours of laboratory work or conferences each week.

Prerequisite: Biology 102.

115. Ecology. Every fall. MS. RUDOLPH.

Principles concerning the interactions between organisms and their environment. Topics include population growth and structure, processes of speciation, succession, energy flow, biogeochemical cycling, and the influence of competition, predation, and other factors on population size and distribution. Laboratory sessions, field trips, and group research projects will emphasize developing a familiarity with the natural history of local plants and animals (both marine and terrestrial) and understanding their interactions. One weekend field trip included.

Prerequisite: Biology 102 or consent of the instructor.

116. Developmental Biology. Every spring. MR. PHILLIPS.

An examination of current concepts of embryonic development with emphasis on their experimental basis. Topics include morphogenesis and functional differentiation, tissue interaction, nucleocytoplasmic interaction, differential gene expression, and interaction of cells with hormones and extracellular matrix. Project-oriented laboratory work emphasizes experimental methods. Lectures and three hours of laboratory each week.

Prerequisite: Biology 102.

[151. Ethology.]

152. Biology of Plants. Spring 1990. MR. STEINHART.

Emphasis on the physiology and developmental biology of plants. Topics include the nature and control of growth and differentiation, water and nutrient translocation, metabolism, hormone physiology, and ecology of plants. Laboratory work stresses association of structure and function in tissues and organs of higher plants and includes an introduction to field botany. Lectures and three hours of laboratory work each week.

Prerequisite: Biology 102.

154. Ornithology. Spring 1991. MR. WHEELWRIGHT.

A study of all areas of the biology of birds, including anatomy, physiology, distribution, and classification, with an emphasis on avian ecology and evolution. Through integrated laboratory sessions, field trips, and an independent research project, students will learn identification of birds, functional morphology, and research techniques such as experimental design, behavioral observation, and banding.

Prerequisite: Biology 102 and/or 115, or consent of the instructor.

156. Marine Ecology. Spring 1990. MR. GILFILLAN.

See Environmental Studies 200, page 142.

[158. Evolutionary Ecology.]

201. Microbiology. Every fall. MR. SETTLEMIRE.

An examination of the structure and function of microorganisms, primarily bacteria, with a major emphasis on molecular descriptions. Subjects covered include structure, metabolism, mechanism of action of antibiotics, basic virology. Students contemplating postgraduate studies in biological science are strongly encouraged to enroll in Biology 213 and 215.

Prerequisite: Biology 102 and Chemistry 225.

202. Immunology. Spring 1992. MR. SETTLEMIRE.

Covers the development of the immune response, the cellular physiology of the immune system, the nature of antigens, antibodies, B and T cells, and the complement system. The nature of natural immunity, transplantation immunology and tumor immunology also considered. Students contemplating postgraduate studies in biological science are strongly encouraged to enroll in Biology 212.

Prerequisite: Biology 102.

203. Comparative Neurobiology. Fall 1990. MS. DICKINSON.

A comparative study of the function of the nervous system in invertebrate and vertebrate animals. Topics include the physiology of individual nerve cells and their organization into larger functional units, the behavioral responses of animals to cues from the environment, and the neural mechanisms underlying such behaviors. Lectures and three hours of laboratory work each week.

Prerequisite: Biology 102. Biology 114 is recommended.

204. Biochemical Endocrinology. Spring 1990. MR. SETTLEMIRE.

A study of how the endocrine system is involved in the regulation of metabolism and development with an emphasis on the biochemical mechanisms. The processes involved in the production and release of the hormones also examined. Students contemplating postgraduate studies in biological science are strongly encouraged to enroll in Biology 212.

Prerequisite: Biology 261.

212. Laboratory in Molecular Biology and Biochemistry. Every spring. MESSRS. STEINHART AND SETTLEMIRE.

Experiments employing contemporary techniques in molecular biology and biochemistry. Emphasis placed on isolation and physical properties of nucleic acids, isolation and kinetics of enzymes, and composition and activities of biological membranes. Techniques studied and used include radioisotopes, spectrophotometry, electrophoresis, chromatography, scanning electron microscopy, and the use of micro-computers. This course is a logical precursor to independent study in the areas of molecular biology and biochemistry.

Prerequisite: Two from Biology 113, 201, 261, 262.

213. Laboratory in Microbiology, Cell Biology, and Immunology. Fall 1989. MR. SETTLEMIRE.

Lectures and laboratories to include culture and experimental investigation of the properties of procaryotic and eucaryotic cells. Techniques to be used include tissue culture; light, fluorescence and electron microscopy; cytometric assays of cell properties; and several immunochemistry principles including immunoelectrophoresis and enzymelinked assays. One to two hours of lecture per week and three to six hours of laboratory each week. Students contemplating postgraduate studies in biological science are strongly encouraged to enroll in the laboratory courses. This course is a logical precursor to independent study in cellular and molecular biology.

215. Laboratory in Molecular and Cellular Genetics. Fall 1990. MR. STEINHART.

Lectures and experiments focusing on the concepts and techniques of contemporary molecular and cellular genetics. Techniques to be used include those of cytogenetic analysis, production and selection of mutant cells, genetic transformation, analysis of gene transcription and translation, and genetic engineering. Methods include cell culture, microscopy, radioisotope labeling, and electrophoresis. One to two hours of lecture and three to six hours of laboratory each week. Students contemplating postgraduate studies in biological science are strongly encouraged to enroll in the laboratory courses. This course is a logical precursor to independent study in the areas of cellular and molecular biology.

Prerequisites: Previous or concurrent enrollment in Biology 113, 116, 201 or 202.

261. Biochemistry I. Every fall. MR. PAGE.

Proteins and enzymes. An introduction to the chemistry and biology of small biological molecules, macromolecules, and membranes. Emphasis will be placed upon kinetics and mechanisms of enzymic reactions and upon equilibrium and non-equilibrium thermodynamics underlying biological processes.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 226.

262. Biochemistry II. Every spring. MR. PAGE.

See Chemistry 262, page 116.

302. Virology. Spring 1990. MR. STEINHART.

A study of plant and animal viruses beginning with lectures on fundamental virology and followed by student-led seminars based on the primary literature. The course covers taxonomy, structure, replication, pathogenesis, and epidemiological aspects of viruses.

Prerequisites: Biology 113 or 201.

303. Advanced Developmental Biology. Fall 1989. MR. PHILLIPS.

The study of the principles and processes of embryonic and post-embryonic animal development, stressing mechanisms of cell and tissue interaction and morphogenesis. Students will read original journal articles and participate in discussions. Laboratory projects will include the use of the scanning electron microscope to study a specific developmental question.

Prerequisite: Biology 116 and consent of the instructor.

304. Topics in Biochemistry and Molecular Biology.

A seminar that will deal, at different times, with such topics as biological energetics, membrane biochemistry, medical genetics, the molecular biology of development, and plant molecular biology.

305. Neuroethology. Fall 1989. Ms. DICKINSON.

A study of the neuronal control of behavior, emphasizing the roles of specific neuronal properties and interactions in sensory processing, controlling motor output, and learning. Students will read and discuss original journal articles, and will conduct laboratory projects on the control of relatively simple behaviors.

Prerequisite: Biology 114, 203, Psychobiology 265, or permission of instructor.

400. Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Chemistry

PROFESSOR BUTCHER, Chair; PROFESSORS CHRISTENSEN, MAYO, AND PAGE; VISITING ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR BAUM; ADJUNCT PROFESSORS GILFILLAN AND YENTSCH; ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR NAGLE; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS STEMMLER AND TRUMPER; DIRECTOR OF LABORATORIES FOSTER; LABORATORY INSTRUCTORS BARTLETT, BERNIER, DECOSTER, AND FICKETT; JOINT APPOINTMENT WITH BIOLOGY: ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR SETTLEMIRE

Courses at the 50 level are introductory, do not have prerequisites, and are appropriate for non-majors. Courses at the 100 level are introductory without formal prerequisites and lead to advanced-level work in the department. Courses 200 through 259 are at the second level of work and generally require only the introductory courses as prerequisites. Courses 260 through 290 are normally taken in the junior year and have two or more courses as prerequisites. Courses 300 through 390 normally are taken in the junior or senior year and have two or more courses as prerequisites.

Requirements for the Major in Chemistry: The required courses are Chemistry 101, 102, 210, 225, 226, 240, 251, 252, 254, and any two courses at the 300 level or above. Students with strong high school backgrounds can begin with Chemistry 109 instead of the two-semester Chemistry 101, 102 sequence. In addition to these chemistry courses, chemistry majors also are required to take Physics 103 and Mathematics 161 and 171. Because the department offers programs based on the interests and goals of the student, a prospective major is encouraged to discuss his or her plans with the department as soon as possible. The chemistry major can serve as preparation for many career paths after college, including that of a chemistry professional, study of other fields of science, medicine, secondary school teaching, and many areas of the business world. Advanced electives in chemistry, along with additional courses in mathematics and physics, also allow students to meet the formal requirements of the American Chemical Society - approved chemistry major. Students interested in this program also should consult with the department as soon as possible.

The department encourages its students to round out the chemistry major with relevant courses in other departments, depending on individual needs. These might include electives in other departments that provide extensive opportunities for writing and speaking, or courses concerned with technology and society, to name a few areas. Students interested in providing a particular interdisciplinary emphasis to their chemistry major should consider additional courses in biology and biochemistry, computer science, economics, education, geology, mathematics, or physics.

Independent Study: A student wishing to conduct a laboratory independent study project (Chemistry 400) must have taken at least one of the following courses: Chemistry 254, Biology 211, or Biology 212.

Interdisciplinary Major: The department participates in interdisciplinary programs in biochemistry, chemical physics, and geology and chemistry. See pages 174 and 175.

Requirements for the Minor in Chemistry: The minor consists of five chemistry courses appropriate to the major, including Chemistry 101 and 102, or Chemistry 109.

50. Topics in Chemistry. Spring 1990. Problems in Atmospheric Science. MR. BUTCHER.

An examination of contemporary global atmospheric problems. The course will begin by considering how scientists observe and construct models about the earth. Some basic principles will be introduced and applied to such topics as acid rain, stratospheric ozone, and the greenhouse effect. The course presumes no background in science and is not open to students who have had a college-level science course.

101. Introductory Chemistry. Every fall. MR. NAGLE.

An introduction to chemistry, including chemical stoichiometry; the properties of gases, atomic and molecular structure, and the periodic properties of the elements. Lectures, conferences, and four hours of laboratory a week.

102. Introductory Chemistry. Every spring.

MR. PAGE AND MS. STEMMLER.

Topics include the properties of solids, liquids, and solutions, ionic and non-ionic equilibria, acid base equilibria, elementary thermodynamics, chemical kinetics, oxidation-reduction, and electrochemistry. Lectures, conferences, and four hours of laboratory a week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 101 or consent of the instructor.

109. Advanced General Chemistry. Fall 1989. MR. BUTCHER.

This course is designed for students with strong backgrounds in secondary school chemistry. The principles of the following subjects and their applications will be treated: equilibrium properties of gases, liquids, and solutions; the first and second laws of thermodynamics; oxidation-reduction reactions; and the rates of chemical reactions. A placement exam, the high school record, and consultation with the department will guide the student in selecting this course or the 101-102 sequence. Lectures, conferences, and three hours of laboratory a week.

210. Quantitative Analysis. Fall 1989. Ms. STEMLER.

Methods of separating and quantifying inorganic and organic compounds using volumetric, spectrophotometric, electrometric, and gravimetric techniques will be covered. Fundamentals of gas and liquid chromatography and the statistical analysis of data will be addressed. Lectures and four hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 102 or 109.

225. Elementary Organic Chemistry. Every fall. MR. MAYO.

An introduction to the chemistry of the compounds of carbon. The foundation for further work in organic chemistry and biochemistry. Lectures, conference, and four hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 102 or 109.

226. Organic Chemistry. Every spring. MR. TRUMPER.

A continuation of the study of the compounds of carbon. Chemistry 225 and 226 cover the material of the usual course in organic chemistry and form a foundation for further work in organic chemistry and biochemistry. Lectures, conference, and four hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 225.

[230-239. Intermediate Topics in Chemistry.]

240. Inorganic Chemistry. Spring 1990. MR. NAGLE.

An introductory survey of the chemistry of the elements. Chemical bonding and its relationship to the properties and reactivities of coordination compounds, organometallic compounds, and covalent and ionic solids will be emphasized. Coverage of topics in bioinorganic and environmental inorganic chemistry will be included. A foundation for further work in inorganic chemistry and biochemistry. Lectures and four hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisites: Chemistry 102 or 109, 210 and 226 (may be taken concurrently).

251. Physical Chemistry I. Every fall. MR. BUTCHER.

Thermodynamics and its application to chemical changes and equilibria that occur in the gaseous, solid, and liquid states. Macroscopic behavior of chemical systems is related to molecular properties by means of the kinetic theory of gases and statistical mechanics. Also included is the study of chemical kinetics.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 102 or 109, Physics 103, Mathematics 171, or consent of the instructor. Mathematics 181 recommended.

252. Physical Chemistry II. Every spring. MR. BAUM.

Development and principles of quantum mechanics with applications to atomic structure, chemical bonding, chemical reactivity, and molecular spectroscopy.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 251 or consent of the instructor. Mathematics 181 recommended.

254. Physical Chemistry Laboratory. Every spring. MR. BAUM.

Experiments on thermodynamics, kinetics, and spectroscopy. One to two hours of lecture and three to six hours of laboratory per week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 251, 252 (generally taken concurrently).

261. Biochemistry I. Every fall. MR. PAGE.

See Biology 261, page 112.

262. Biochemistry II. Every spring. MR. PAGE.

An introduction to metabolism. Topics will include pathways in living cells by which important biological molecules are synthesized, and the bioorganic chemistry of nucleic acid and protein synthesis.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 261.

270. Molecular Structure Determination in Organic Chemistry. Spring 1990. MR. TRUMPER.

Theory and applications of spectroscopic techniques useful for the determination of organic structures. Mass spectrometry and infrared, ultraviolet-visible, and nuclear magnetic resonance (NMR) spectroscopy will be discussed. In particular, heavy emphasis will be placed on applications of multiple pulse Fourier transform NMR spectroscopic techniques. Lectures and up to two hours of laboratory each week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 226.

310. Instrumental Analysis. Fall 1989. MS. STEMLER.

Theoretical and practical aspects of instrumental techniques such as nuclear magnetic resonance, infrared, Raman, x-ray fluorescence, and mass spectrometry will be covered, in conjunction with advanced chromatographic methods. Signal processing, correlation techniques, and computer interfacing will be explored. Lectures and four hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 210 and 254 or consent of instructor.

320. Advanced Organic Chemistry. Fall 1989. MR. TRUMPER.

The study of the physical organic chemistry of synthetic organic reactions. Topics discussed include: stereochemistry, conformational analysis, molecular orbital theory, carbanion chemistry, cycloaddition reactions, and concerted intramolecular rearrangements. Applications to the synthesis of natural products and ethical pharmaceuticals will be emphasized. Students will read articles of interest in the current chemical literature.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 226.

330-339. Advanced Topics in Chemistry.

[330. Topics in Bioorganic Chemistry.]

[331. Atmospheric Chemistry.]

[332. Inorganic Seminar.]

333. Chemical Ecology. Fall 1989. MR. MAYO.

Recent advances in elucidating biochemical pathways of secondary plant metabolism will serve as the central focus of the discussions. With an understanding of the mechanisms of biogenesis in hand, the role of these metabolites in mediating interactions among plants, animals, and between plants and animals will be explored. Within this latter area of study, commonly termed chemical communication, the discussions will consider pheromone, allomone, and kairomone activity covering a wide range of species.

Prerequisites: Chemistry 225 and 226. Chemistry 320 recommended.

335. Topics in Physical Chemistry. Fall 1989. MR. BAUM.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 252.

340. Advanced Inorganic Chemistry. Spring 1990. MR. NAGLE.

An in-depth coverage of inorganic chemistry. Includes topics in coordination chemistry, organometallic chemistry, bioinorganic chemistry, and solid state chemistry.

Prerequisites: Chemistry 240 and 252 (may be taken concurrently).

[350. Photochemistry: Light, Chemistry, and Life.]

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

For students intending to conduct a laboratory research project, either Chemistry 254, Biology 211, or Biology 212 is required.

Classics

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR BOYD, Chair; PROFESSOR AMBROSE;
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR SMITH; INSTRUCTOR HALL

The Department of Classics offers two major programs, one with a focus on language and literature (Classics), and one with a focus on classical archaeology (Classics/Archaeology). Students pursuing either major are encouraged to study not only the languages and literatures but also the physical monuments of Greece and Rome. This approach is reflected in the requirements for the two major programs: for each, requirements in Greek and/or Latin and in classical archaeology must be fulfilled.

Classics. The Classics program is arranged to accommodate both those students who have studied no classical languages and those who have had extensive training in Latin and Greek. The objective of classics courses is to study the ancient languages and literatures in the original. By their very nature, these courses involve students in the politics, history, and philosophies of antiquity.

Advanced language courses focus on the analysis of textual material and on literary criticism.

Requirements for the Major in Classics: The major in classics consists of nine courses. At least six of the nine courses are to be chosen from offerings in Greek and Latin and should include at least two courses in Greek or Latin at the 300 level; one of the remaining courses should be Archaeology 101 or 102. Students concentrating in one of the languages are encouraged to take at least two courses in the other. Classics 51 and 52 may not normally be counted towards the major.

Classics/Archaeology. Within the broader context of classical studies, the Classics/Archaeology program pays special attention to the physical remains of classical antiquity. Students studying classical archaeology should develop an understanding of how archaeological evidence can contribute to our knowledge of the past, and of how archaeological study interacts with such related disciplines as philology, history, and art history. In particular, they should acquire an appreciation for the unique balance of written and physical sources that makes classical archaeology a central part of classical studies.

Requirements for the Major in Classics/Archaeology: The major in classics/archaeology consists of ten courses. At least five of the ten courses are to be chosen from offerings in archaeology, and should include Archaeology 101, 102, and at least one archaeology course at the 300 level. At least four of the remaining courses are to be chosen from offerings in Greek and Latin, and should include at least one at the 300 level. Classics 51 and 52 may not normally be counted towards the major.

Interdisciplinary Major: The department participates in an interdisciplinary program in archaeology and art history. See page 174.

Requirements for the Minor: Students may choose a minor in one of four areas: Greek, Latin, classics, or archaeology. The minor in Greek consists of four courses in the Greek language. The minor in Latin consists of four courses in the Latin language. The minor in classics consists of four courses in Greek and Latin, including Greek 204 or Latin 205. The minor in archaeology consists of four archaeology courses, including either Archaeology 101 or 102, and at least one course at the 300 level.

Classics and Archaeology at Bowdoin and elsewhere. Archaeology classes regularly use the outstanding collection of ancient art in the Bowdoin College Museum of Art: of special note are the exceptionally fine holdings in Greek painted pottery, and the very full and continuous survey of Greek and Roman coins. In addition, there are numerous opportunities for study or work abroad. Bowdoin is a participating member of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome, where students in both major programs can study in the junior year (see p. 86). It is also possible to receive course credit for field experience on excavations. Interested students should consult members of the department for further information.

Students contemplating graduate study in classics or classical archaeology are advised to begin the study of at least one modern language in college, as most graduate programs require competence in French and German as well as Latin and Greek.

Freshman Seminars In Classics

Spring 1990

11. The Hero and Anti-Hero in Classical Literature. Spring 1990.

MR. AMBROSE.

An examination of the concept of the hero and anti-hero, female as well as male, in the literature of classical Greece and Rome. Through lecture and discussion, the class will trace the nature and the development of this concept in different genres and historical eras. Readings will be selected from epic (Homer, Virgil), lyric poetry, tragedy (Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Seneca), comedy (Aristophanes, Plautus), philosophical dialogue (Plato), and the Roman novel (Apuleius). No background in the classical languages is required.

Archaeology

Archaeology 101 and 102 are offered in alternate years:

101. Introduction to Classical Archaeology. Fall 1989.

A chronological survey of the archaeology of Greece, from the Neolithic to Alexander the Great. Considers the nature of archaeological evidence, and the relationship of classical archaeology to other disciplines such as art history, history, and the classics. Material studied includes architecture, sculpture, vase painting, and the "minor arts."

102. Introduction to Classical Archaeology. Fall 1990.

The archaeology of the Hellenistic kingdoms and Rome, from Alexander the Great to Constantine. First attempts to define characteristic features of Hellenistic culture, then traces the emergence of a distinctively Roman civilization from both this background and from native Italic traditions. Considers the nature of archaeological evidence, and the relationship of classical archaeology to other disciplines such as art history, history, and the classics. Material studied includes mural painting, architecture, sculpture, and the "minor arts."

At least one of the following 200-level courses will be offered each year:

[201. Athens, the "School of Hellas."]

(Same as Classics 201.)

202. Rome of the Caesars. Spring 1990. MR. SMITH.

The first Roman emperor, Augustus, boasted that he found Rome a city of mud brick and left it a city of marble; subsequent emperors were equally eager to leave their mark on the imperial capital. How did they transform the city's physical appearance? What were the political and cultural goals of imperial building programs? In addition to archaeological material from Rome, reading in historical sources such as Suetonius' biographies of the emperors and comparative material from elsewhere in the empire provide important evidence.

(Same as Classics 202.)

203. Greek Religion. Spring 1991. MR. SMITH.

Ancient Greece had no world for "religion," and for the ancient Greek, piety was more a matter of correct ritual action than of belief. Archaeology provides vital documentation of the historical ritual activity of the Greeks (often in contrast to their own mythical accounts). This course will survey the diverse primary sources (archaeological, literary, epigraphic) and will consider various recent approaches to interpretation.

(Same as Classics 203).

At least one of the following 300-level courses will be offered each year:

301. Greek Painting and Mosaic. Spring 1990. MR. SMITH.

How did the Greek artist represent a three-dimensional world in two-dimensional media? Recent archaeological discoveries of mosaics and monumental paintings have greatly expanded our knowledge. By far the most abundant source, however, remains black-figure and red-figure vase painting, which is well represented in the collection of the Bowdoin College Museum of Art. The course also considers the nature of the vase painting industry in Athens, and the relation of vase painting to other media.

Prerequisite: Archaeology 101.

[302. Greek and Roman Numismatics.]

303. Criticism and Aesthetic Theory in Antiquity. Spring 1991.

MR. SMITH.

Throughout classical antiquity, criticism of both literature and the visual arts shared a common vocabulary to express common aesthetic values. In many cases, these critical concepts have their origin in the visual arts (e.g., symmetry and harmony are originally technical terms from architecture). We shall read selections from a wide variety of ancient authors who discuss critical issues, and attempt to understand their aesthetic principles in light of surviving archaeological evidence. The course will be especially concerned with the relation of critical developments in literature and the visual arts.

Prerequisite: Archaeology 101 or 102.

[307. The Birth of Greek Art.]

(Same as Art 211.)

[391, 392. Special Topics.]

Classics

51. Classical Mythology. Fall 1989. Ms. BOYD.

Focuses on the mythology of the Greeks and the use of myth in classical literature. Other topics considered are recurrent patterns and motifs in Greek myths; a cross-cultural study of ancient creation myths; the relation of mythology to religion; women's roles in myth; and the application of modern anthropological, sociological, and psychological theories to classical myth. Concludes with an examination of Ovid's use of classical mythology in the Metamorphoses.

52. Greek Literature in Translation. Fall 1990. MR. AMBROSE.

An introduction to the important works of Greek literature in English translation. The objective of the course is not only to provide an understanding and appreciation of the literary achievements of the Greeks, but also to convey a sense of the meaning and spirit of Greek literature in the context of Greek history and culture.

[201. Athens, the "School of Hellas."]

(Same as Archaeology 201.)

202. Rome of the Caesars. Spring 1990.

(Same as Archaeology 202.)

203. Greek Religion. Spring 1991.

(Same as Archaeology 203.)

[311. Women in Antiquity.]

Greek

101. Elementary Greek. Every fall. MR. AMBROSE.

A thorough presentation of the elements of accidence and syntax based, insofar as possible, on unaltered passages of classical Greek.

102. Continuation of Course 101. Every spring. MR. AMBROSE.

In the latter half of the term a work of historical or philosophical prose is read.

203. Plato. Every fall. MR. HALL.204. Homer. Every spring. Ms. BOYD.

One of the following advanced Greek courses will be offered each semester:

301. Homer: Odyssey. Spring 1990. MR. AMBROSE.[302. Didactic Poetry.]*[303. Lyric and Elegiac Poetry.]*304. The Historians. Fall 1989. MR. SMITH.[305. Comedy.]

- [306. Aeschylus.]
- [307. Sophocles.]
- 308. Euripides. Fall 1990. MR. AMBROSE.
- 309. Plato and Aristotle. Spring 1991. MR. AMBROSE.
- [310. Oratory.]
- [311. The Myth of Prometheus.]
- [312. The Alexandrian Age.]
- [391, 392. Special Topics.]

Latin

- 101. Elementary Latin. Every fall. MR. SMITH.
A thorough presentation of the elements of Latin grammar. Emphasis placed on achieving a reading proficiency.
- 102. Continuation of Course 101. Every spring. Ms. BOYD.
In the latter half of the term, readings are based on unaltered passages of classical Latin.
- 203. Cicero. Every fall. MR. HALL.
A rapid review of grammar followed by readings from Cicero and a brief introduction to Latin poetry.
Prerequisite: Latin 101 or two years of secondary school Latin.
- 204. Virgil. The Aeneid. Every spring. Ms. BOYD.
Prerequisite: Latin 203 or equivalent.
- 205. Horace and Catullus. Every fall. MR. AMBROSE.
Prerequisite: Latin 204 or equivalent.

One of the following advanced Latin courses will be offered each semester:

- [301. Livy.]
- [302. Ovid: Metamorphoses.]
- [303. Elegiac Poetry.]
- [304. Cicero.]
- 305. Virgil: Aeneid. Fall 1990. Ms. BOYD.
- 306. Roman Novel. Spring 1991. Ms. BOYD.
- 307. Satire. Spring 1990. MR. HALL.
- [308. Tacitus.]
- [309. Age of Nero.]
- [310. Augustan Poetry Survey.]
- [311. Lucretius.]

312. Roman Comedy. Fall 1989. Ms. BOYD.

[391, 392. Special Topics.]

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Computer Science

PROFESSOR TUCKER, Chair; ASSISTANT PROFESSOR GARNICK

Computer science, in general, is the study of problem-solving, computers, their potential, and their limits. In particular, it involves the study of algorithms and data structures, including their formal properties, their implementation on real and abstract machines, their programming languages, and their applications in other academic disciplines and society at large. Computer science is a scientific discipline in the sense that it has an essential laboratory dimension. Students use the laboratory not only to develop programs but also to test hypotheses about the properties of algorithms, data structures, and computers. Computer science is simultaneously a mathematical discipline, sharing significant subject matter and methods with mathematics.

The computer science curriculum at Bowdoin is designed to introduce students to the discipline in depth, while paying attention also to its interdisciplinary ties in the sciences and the humanities. Students may take an introductory computer science course (50 or 101) to complement work in their major field. More depth in the discipline may be obtained by minoring in computer science, choosing an interdisciplinary major in computer science and mathematics, or pursuing a student-designed major in computer science. These options provide a foundation for graduate study in computer science or for various other computer-related professional experiences.

Requirements for the Minor in Computer Science: The minor consists of the five courses: Computer Science 101, 102, 220, 231, and Mathematics 228.

Interdisciplinary Major: The department participates in an interdisciplinary major program in computer science and mathematics. See page 175.

Students who are interested in a student-designed major in computer science are encouraged to discuss this option in detail with the department.

50. Computer Literacy. Fall 1989. THE DEPARTMENT.

An introduction to principles of programming, computer organization, and applications for students from all disciplines. This introduction will be motivated by examples of computing in the sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities. Additional readings will explore various contemporary topics surrounding the use of computers in modern society. Students will be expected to complete a term project that is appropriate to their principal field of study. That project may either involve programming, using a software package, or writing a paper that addresses a contemporary issue in computing.

101. Introduction to Computer Science I. Every semester.

THE DEPARTMENT.

A first course in computer science. Emphasis is placed upon problem specification and algorithm design, disciplined style and documentation, control structures, recursion, and procedural abstraction. A procedural programming language (Pascal) and a contemporary laboratory environment are used to reinforce principles introduced in the lectures. A survey of the major areas of the field of computer science provides a foundation for further study.

102. Introduction to Computer Science II. Spring 1990. MR. TUCKER.

An introduction to principles of data abstraction, complexity of algorithms, and verification of algorithms, which are central subjects in the field of computer science. Particular data types include lists, stacks, queues, strings, binary trees, and files. Linked lists, arrays, and other implementation strategies are evaluated. Laboratory experiments complement the lectures, and team projects will be assigned.

Prerequisites: Computer Science 101.

220. Computer Organization. Fall 1989. MR. GARNICK.

Computer systems are organized as multiple layers. Each layer provides a more sophisticated abstraction than the layer upon which it is built. At the top layer, application programs such as word processors define mappings from commands to responses. At the bottom layer, the mappings are implemented as changes in voltages. This course examines techniques and issues involved in designing systems at the digital logic, microprogramming, and assembly language layers of computer organization. Laboratory work is designed to familiarize students with a particular machine through assembly language programming.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 101.

231. Data Structures and Algorithms. Spring 1990. MR. TUCKER.

The study of data structures concerns programming for conceptual expediency; the study of algorithms concerns programming for computational expediency. This course covers techniques in these two areas, and examines their interplay. Topics include abstract data types, dynamic list structures, trees, graphs, sorting, dynamic programming, NP-completeness, and parallel algorithms.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 102 and Mathematics 228, or consent of instructor.

250. Principles of Programming Languages. Fall 1989. MR. TUCKER.

A comparative study of programming languages and paradigms, with special attention to object-oriented languages (C++), functional programming languages (Lisp), and parallelism. Principles of programming language design, including syntax, semantics, and compiling.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 102 and 220 or consent of the instructor.

[260. Compiler Construction.]

[270. Introduction to Artificial Intelligence.]

[275. Topics.]

310. Operating Systems. Spring 1990. MR. GARNICK.

A study of the major issues in the design of modern operating systems. Dominant themes are scheduling techniques for processes and resources, historical perspectives via case studies, and trade-offs among design choices.

Prerequisite: Computer Science 102 and 220 or consent of the instructor.

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

Economics

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR GOLDSTEIN, Chair; PROFESSORS FREEMAN AND VAIL; RESEARCH PROFESSOR SHIPMAN; ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR JONES; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS CONNELLY, DEAN, DECOSTER, FITZGERALD, MALONEY, AND STRANGE.

The Major in economics is designed for students who wish to obtain a systematic introduction to the basic theoretical and empirical techniques of economics. It provides an opportunity to study economics as a social science with a core of theory, to study the process of drawing inferences from bodies of data and testing hypotheses against observation, and to study the application of economic theory to particular social problems. Such problems include Third World economic development, the functioning of economic institutions (e.g., corporations, government agencies, labor unions), and current policy issues (e.g., the federal budget, poverty, pollution, deregulation). The major is a useful preparation for graduate study in economics, law, business, or public administration.

The major consists of Economics 101 and 102, three "core" courses (Economics 255, 256, and 257), one advanced topics course numbered in the 300s, and two additional courses in economics numbered 200 or above. (Beginning with the class of 1992, a second 300-level course will be required.) Economics 101 is a prerequisite for Economics 102, and both are prerequisites for most other economics courses. Prospective majors are encouraged to take at least one core course by the end of the sophomore year and all three core courses should normally be completed by the end of the junior year. Advanced topics courses normally have some combination of Economics 255, 256, and 257 as prerequisites. Qualified students may undertake self-designed, interdisciplinary major programs or joint majors between economics and related fields of social analysis.

Interdisciplinary Major: The department participates in an interdisciplinary major in mathematics and economics. See page 176.

Requirements for the Minor in Economics: The minor consists of Economics 101 and 102; 255 or 256; and two electives numbered 200 or above. Core courses, Economics 255, 256, and 257 cannot be used as electives for the minor.

10. Freshman Seminar: Poverty and Discrimination. Spring 1990.

MR. MALONEY.

The causes of poverty and discrimination are investigated. Evaluation of policies designed to combat these problems and discussion of alternative policies, proposed but not enacted. The course looks specifically at the impact of economic growth and increased social welfare expenditures on poverty, and the role of affirmative action in reducing discrimination. Conservative, liberal, and radical perspectives are explored.

101. Principles of Microeconomics. Every semester. THE DEPARTMENT.

An introduction to economic analysis and institutions with special emphasis on the allocation of resources through markets. The theory of demand, supply, cost, and market structure is developed. It is applied to problems in antitrust policy, environmental quality, energy, education, health, the role of the corporation in society, income distribution, and poverty. Students desiring a comprehensive introduction to economic reasoning should take both Economics 101 and 102.

102. Principles of Macroeconomics. Every semester. THE DEPARTMENT.

An introduction to economic analysis and institutions with special emphasis on determinants of the level of national income, prices, and employment. Current problems of inflation and unemployment are explored with the aid of such analysis and alternative views of the effectiveness of fiscal, monetary, and other governmental policies are analyzed. Attention is given to the sources and consequences of economic growth and to the nature and significance of international linkages through goods and capital markets.

Prerequisite: Economics 101.

207. The International Economy. Fall 1989. MS. DEAN.

An analysis of the factors influencing the direction and composition of trade flows among nations, balance of payments equilibrium and adjustment mechanisms, and the international monetary system. Basic elements of international economic theory are applied to current issues such as tariff policy, capital flows and international investment, reform of the international monetary system, and the international competitiveness of the American economy.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

[208. American Economic History and Development.]

209. Financial Markets. Spring 1991. MR. DECOSTER.

Introduction to the domestic financial system. Topics include the functions, structure, and operation of debt and equity markets, interest rate determination, portfolio theory and the capital asset pricing model, the efficient markets hypothesis, the structure and operation of options and futures markets, and the structure, operation, and regulation of the financial services industry.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

210. Economics of the Public Sector. Fall 1990. MR. FITZGERALD.

The economic role of government. Deals with theoretical and policy issues of government expenditures and revenues in meeting such social goals as allocative efficiency and income redistribution. Issues on the current political agenda are given special attention.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

211. Urban Economics. Fall 1989. MR. STRANGE.

The economics of cities. Both theoretical and empirical tools will be employed. Topics will include the housing market, location theory, poverty, transportation, zoning, and the finance of local governments.

Prerequisite: Economics 101.

212. Labor and Human Resource Economics. Spring 1990.

MR. MALONEY.

Theories of labor market structure and performance. Manpower and human resources policies. Topics are covered from an institutional as well as an analytical point of view.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

[213. History of Economic Thought.]

214. Comparative Political Economy. Spring 1990. MR. VAIL.

The course begins with an investigation of criteria for defining and evaluating the performance of different modes of production. A historical and class analytic framework for comparative study is set out. The core of the course consists of studies of alternative paths to socialism, including the Soviet Union, China, Hungary, and Yugoslavia. Current economic reforms are stressed. Concludes with a study of Sweden's "middle way."

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102, or consent of the instructor.

[215. Public Enterprise and Regulation.]

216. Industrial Organization. Spring 1990. MR. STRANGE.

Analysis of the causes and consequences of market structure. Among the topics covered are antitrust law, barriers to entry, contestable markets, game theory, mergers, oligopoly, product choice, and technological innovation.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

217. The Economics of Population. Fall 1990. Ms. CONNELLY.

A study of the interaction of economic variables and population processes, especially fertility, mortality, and migration. The first half of the course focuses on economic determinants of population, and the second half focuses on the consequences of population growth for the economy.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

218. Economics of Resources and Environmental Quality. Fall 1989.

MR. FREEMAN.

The economic dimensions of environmental quality and resource management problems faced by the United States and the world. The relationships among population, production, and pollution; the role of market failure in explaining the existence of pollution; evaluation of alternative strategies for pollution control and environmental management; the adequacy of natural resource stocks to meet the future demands of the United States and the world.

Prerequisite: Economics 101.

§219. Underdevelopment and Strategies for Development in Poor Countries. Fall 1990. MR. VAIL.

The major economic features of underdevelopment are investigated with stress on economic dualism and the interrelated problems of poverty, inequality, urban bias, and unemployment. The assessment of development strategies stresses key policy choices, such as export promotion versus import substitution, agriculture versus industry, and capital versus labor-intensive technologies. Topics include the Third World debt crisis, African famines, and rapid industrialization in East Asia.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102 or consent of the instructor.

221. Marxian Political Economy. Spring 1991. MR. GOLDSTEIN.

An introduction to the philosophical and methodological foundations of Marxian theory and the Marxian analysis of capitalistic economic development. After a brief introduction to the Marxian method, the basic analytical concepts of Marx's economic theory are developed from a reading of Volume I of Capital. Subsequently, the Marxian framework is applied to analyze the modern capitalist economy with emphasis on the secular and cyclical instability of the economy and appropriate policy prescriptions.

Prerequisites: Economics 101 and 102.

§222. International Trade and Economic Development. Spring 1990.

MS. DEAN.

International economic problems and policy issues of developing countries. Begins with an examination of an LDC's choice of trade strategy and its impact on its development. Subsequently examines issues raised by the call for a "new international economic order," including access to industrial country markets, regional integration, the debt crisis, commodity agreements, and foreign aid.

Prerequisites: Economics 101 and 102.

[230-239. Contemporary Problems.]

255. Microeconomics. Fall 1989 and Spring 1990. Ms. DEAN.

An intermediate level study of contemporary microeconomic theory. Analysis of the theory of resource allocation and distribution with major emphasis on systems of markets and prices as a social mechanism for making resource allocation decisions. Topics include the theory of individual choice and demand, theory of the firm, market equilibrium under competition and monopoly, general equilibrium theory, and welfare economics. Enrollment limited to forty.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

256. Macroeconomics. Fall 1989 and Spring 1990. MR. JONES.

An intermediate level study of contemporary national income, employment, and inflation theory. Consumption, investment, government receipts, government expenditures, money, and interest rates are examined for their determinants, interrelationships, and role in determining the level of aggregate economic activity. Policy implications are drawn from the analysis. Enrollment limited to forty.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

257. Economic Statistics. Fall 1989 and Spring 1990. MR. GOLDSTEIN.

An introduction to the data and statistical methods used in economics. A review of the systems that generate economic data and the accuracy of such data is followed by an examination of the statistical methods used in testing the hypotheses of economic theory, both micro- and macro-. Probability, random variables and their distributions, methods of estimating parameters, hypothesis testing, regression, and correlation are covered. The application of multiple regression to economic problems is stressed. Enrollment limited to forty.

Prerequisite: Economics 101 and 102.

Courses numbered above 300 are advanced courses in economic analysis intended primarily for senior majors. Enrollments in these courses are limited to 18 students in each unless stated otherwise.

301. The Economics of the Family. Spring 1990. Ms. CONNELLY.

Microeconomic analysis of the family, its roles, and its related institutions. Topics will include marriage, fertility, labor supply, human capital formation, savings, consumption, and bequests, and the family as an economic organization.

Prerequisite: Economics 255 and 257 or consent of the instructor.

[302. Business Cycles.]

[308. Advanced International Trade.]

[309. Monetary Economics and Finance.]

310. Advanced Public Economics. Spring 1990. MR. FITZGERALD.

A survey of theoretical and empirical evaluations of government activities, considering both efficiency and equity aspects. Topics include public choice, income redistribution, benefit-cost analysis, analysis of selected government expenditure programs (including social security), incidence and behavioral effects of taxation, and tax reform. Current public policy issues are emphasized.

Prerequisite: Economics 255 and 257 or consent of the instructor. Not open to those who have taken Economics 210.

312. Advanced Analysis of Labor Market Policies. Fall 1989. MR. MALONEY.

A survey of labor market issues, such as labor supply, unemployment, discrimination, labor demand, and unionization. A rigorous microeconomic and econometric approach is used. The focus of the course is on public policy analysis—what are the intended and unintended consequences of government policy?

Prerequisites: Economics 255 and 257 or consent of the instructor. Not open to those who have taken Economics 212.

316. Econometrics. Fall 1989. MR. FITZGERALD.

A study of the mathematical formulation of economic models and the statistical methods of testing them. A detailed examination of the general linear regression model, its assumptions, and its extensions. Applications to both micro- and macro-economics are considered. Though most of the course deals with single equation models, an introduction to the estimation of systems of equations is included. An empirical research paper is required. Limited to twenty-five students.

Prerequisite: Economics 257 or Mathematics 265, and Mathematics 161, or consent of the instructor.

318. Environmental and Resource Economics. Spring 1990.

MR. FREEMAN.

Analysis of externalities and market failure; models of optimum control of pollution and efficient management of renewable and non-renewable natural resources such as fisheries, forests, and minerals; benefit-cost analysis, risk-benefit assessment, and the techniques for measuring benefits and costs of policies.

Prerequisite: Economics 255 and 257.

[320. Economics, Technology, and Progress.]

329. Open Economy Macroeconomics. Fall 1989. MR. JONES.

The implications for macroeconomic policy of international linkages through goods and financial markets. Topics include exchange rate determination, balance of payments crises, the measurement of international capital mobility, monetary and fiscal policy impacts in an open economy, international policy coordination, and the history and reform of international monetary institutions. Enrollment limited to eighteen.

Prerequisite: Economics 256.

[355. Topics in Advanced Microeconomic Theory.]

400. Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Education

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR MARTIN, Chair;

MS. PIERSON, DIRECTOR OF PROGRAMS IN TEACHING AND COORDINATOR OF BOWDOIN ACTIVE IN COMMUNITY SERVICE,

MR. HILL, ASSOCIATE IN EDUCATION

There is no Major in Education.

Requirements for the Minor in Education: The minor in education requires four courses, one of which may be an independent study.

Requirements for Certification to Teach in Public Secondary Schools: (1) a major in a teaching field; (2) two courses in psychology; (3) four courses in education (one 100-level course; one 200-level course or an independent study, and Education 301 and 302); (4) a semester of volunteer experience with youth. The department strongly recommends that students enrolled in Education 302 concurrently enroll in Education 303. In 1991, Education 303 will be required of those enrolled in Education 302.

There is a further discussion of careers in teaching on page 88.

[101. Education in the Twentieth Century.]

102. History of American Education. Fall 1989. MS. MARTIN.

A study of the evolution of American educational ideas and institutions through the mid-twentieth century. Enduring themes that have shaped American schooling, such as the role of the teacher, the nature and purpose of the curriculum, and the tension between equality and diversity, will be traced through such figures as Horace Mann, Mary Lyon, W. E. B. DuBois, and John Dewey.

201. Schools and Communities. Spring 1990. MS. MARTIN.

A study of the relationships among schools, parents, and their communities. Through field work in the town of Brunswick, students observe how large issues, such as the purpose of education, the influence of state and federal governments, and the role of parents work themselves out on a local level.

Prerequisite: Education 101 or 102, or consent of instructor.

[250. Law and Education.]

301. Teaching. Fall 1989. MS. MARTIN.

A study of what takes place in classrooms: the methods and purposes of teachers, the response of students, and the organizational context. Regular observations in a variety of classrooms are required.

Prerequisite: Senior standing and two education courses or consent of the instructor.

302. Student Teaching. Spring 1990. MS. MARTIN.

This final course in the student teaching sequence demands considerable commitment of time and responsibilities in a local secondary school classroom. Required of all students who seek secondary public school certification, it is also open to those with other serious interests in teaching. In addition to daily work in the school, weekly class and conference meetings and writing are required. Grades are awarded on a credit/fail basis only.

Prerequisite: Senior standing, Education 301, volunteer experience in schools, and consent of the instructor.

303. Curriculum. Spring 1990. Ms. Martin.

A study of the knowledge taught in schools: its selection and the rationale by which one course of study rather than another is included; its adaptation for different categories of students; its cognitive and social purposes; the organization and integration of its various components.

Prerequisite: Education 301.

290. Intermediate Independent Study.

English

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR LITVAK, Chair; PROFESSORS COURSEN, DIEHL, GREASON, KASTER, AND REDWINE; ASSOCIATE PROFESSORS BURROUGHS, REIZBAUM, AND WATTERSON; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS COLLINGS, GOODRIDGE, AND SANDONA; LECTURER PEMBERTON; INSTRUCTORS CASTIGLIA AND KIBBIE; VISITING INSTRUCTOR ROSENTHAL

Requirements for the Major in English and American Literature: The major requires a minimum of ten courses, three of which must be chosen from offerings in English Literature before 1800 (English 200, 201, 202, 210, 211, 220, 221, 222, 230, 231, 250). Seven additional units may be selected from the foregoing and/or English 10-29 (freshman seminars, not more than two); 101-103; 250-281; 300-399; 291-292 (independent study); 401-402 (advanced independent study). Regular courses (English 50-99) and independent studies (English 296-297; English 406-407) in film and communication do not count toward the major. Students who intend to major in English should take a minimum of three courses in the department before declaring the major.

Majors who are candidates for honors must write an honors essay and take comprehensive examinations, both oral and written, during the senior year. Exceptions to the major requirements may be arranged by the department to encourage and accommodate special individual programs such as interdisciplinary studies in English and English history (see page 175).

Requirements for the Minor in English and American Literature: At least five of the above courses, excluding all courses in film and communication.

English 10-29

Freshman Seminars in English Composition and Literature

Open to freshmen. The freshman English courses are numbered 10-19 in the fall, 20-29 in the spring. Usually there are not enough openings in the fall for all freshmen who want an English seminar. Freshmen who cannot get into a seminar in the fall are given priority in the spring. The main purpose of the freshman seminars (no matter what the topic or reading list) is to give freshmen extensive practice in reading and writing analytically. Each section is normally limited to fifteen students and includes discussion, outside reading, frequent papers, and individual conferences on writing problems.

Fall 1989

10. Entering Nature. Fall 1989. MR. BURROUGHS.

A survey of attempts to re-encounter, redefine, and regain the natural world. Writers will include Emerson, Thoreau, Dillard, Fowles, and Lopez.

11. Otherness in Twentieth-Century American Literature. Fall 1989. MR. CASTIGLIA.

This course will examine how gender affected certain nineteenth-century depictions of the "American character"; how those gendered mythologies are transformed in the twentieth-century not only by changing attitudes toward gender, but by other categories of identity (race, ethnicity, and sexual preference); and how authors of the same race, ethnicity, and sexual preference reacted divergently to issues of genre and mythology due to gender differences. Authors will include Ernest Hemingway, Gertrude Stein, Zora Neale Hurston, Ishmael Reed, Tillie Olsen, Philip Roth, James Baldwin, David Leavitt, and Adrienne Rich.

12. Gender and Sexuality in Romantic Literature. Fall 1989.

MR. COLLINGS.

An examination of perceptions of gender, desire, seduction, marriage, adultery, and pregnancy in Blake, Austen, Wordsworth, Byron, Mary Shelley, and Keats.

13. Shakespeare and Television. Fall 1989. MR. COURSEN.

An examination of how Shakespeare's dramatic scripts translate to television and film. Intensive reading of the plays, several papers, and a viewing of twelve to fifteen productions are required.

14. American Women Writers. Fall 1989. MS. DIEHL.

An introduction to the works of major nineteenth- and twentieth-century American women writers, including Sarah Orne Jewett, Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, Willa Cather, Zora Neale Hurston, Flannery O'Connor, and Toni Morrison, among others. Discussions will focus on the interaction of gender and culture, sexual politics, and style.

15. The Literature of Travel. Fall 1989. MS. KIBBIE.

An examination of the uses of the theme of travel in such texts as Thomas More's Utopia, Aphra Behn's Oroonoko, Jonathan Swift's Gulliver's Travels, Daniel Defoe's Robinson Crusoe, and Samuel Johnson's Rasselas. We will discuss the roles of various representation of the Other (noble savages, cannibals, slaves) in the creation of the traveler's notion of selfhood.

16. Gothicism and Sensationalism. Fall 1989. MR. LITVAK.
The Gothic novel, with its lurid depictions of depravity and evil, and the sensation novel, a precursor of detective fiction and of the modern thriller, play a surprisingly central role in late eighteenth- and nineteenth-century Western culture. We will consider that role by reading works by such authors as Denis Diderot, Ann Radcliffe, Matthew Lewis, Mary Shelley, Wilkie Collins, Mary Elizabeth Braddon, Robert Louis Stevenson, Oscar Wilde, and Bram Stoker.
17. Satire. Fall 1989. MR. REDWINE.
An examination of some different methods and objects of satire in works of Sir Thomas More, Shakespeare, Jonson, Voltaire, Swift, Butler, Twain, Huxley, and Orwell.
18. Literature From the "Colonies." Fall 1989. MS. REIZBAUM.
The course will introduce works in all genres written in English from countries other than England and America. We will be examining the concepts and the contexts of colonization and canonization in relation to these contemporary texts from such countries as Canada (Munro), South Africa (Fugard), Scotland (Lochhead), Ireland (McGahern), Australia, West Indies, Nigeria, and India.

Spring 1990

20. Secular Pilgrims. Spring 1990. MR. BURROUGHS.
The theme of pilgrimage as it evolves out of the Enlightenment. Writers will include Swift, Johnson, Fielding, Byron, Twain, and Conrad.
21. Shakespeare and Television. Spring 1990. MR. COURSEN.
An examination of how Shakespeare's dramatic scripts translate to television and film. Intensive reading of the plays, several papers, and a viewing of twelve to fifteen productions are required.
22. Reading Women. Spring 1990. MS. DIEHL.
An introduction to issues raised by contemporary feminist literary theory. Authors include Mary Shelley, Charlotte Brontë, Emily Dickinson, Louisa May Alcott, Ellen Glasgow, Virginia Woolf, and Margaret Atwood. In addition, we will read essays pertaining to feminist criticism.
23. The Gothic Novel. Spring 1990. MS. KIBBIE.
A study of the Gothic novel of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, with an introduction to various critical approaches to this genre. Readings include Horace Walpole's The Castle of Otranto, Ann Radcliffe's The Mysteries of Udolpho, Jane Austen's Northanger Abbey, Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, and Bram Stoker's Dracula.
24. Sex, Politics, and the Novel. Spring 1990. MR. LITVAK.
A look at intersections of gender, race, and sexuality in the novel, with particular emphasis on Afro-American, feminist, lesbian, and gay male politics. Authors include Harriet Beecher Stowe, George Eliot, Edith Wharton, E. M. Forster, Willa Cather, Nella Larsen, James Baldwin, Gore Vidal, Toni Morrison, and Gloria Naylor.

25. Modern Jewish-American Literature. Spring 1990. Ms. REIZBAUM.
The course will investigate the category of Jewish-American literature by examining the variety of works designated as such. We will explore, for example, the Jewish figure as cultural outsider, and humor as a response to oppression. Authors will include Emma Lazarus, Henry Roth, Philip Roth, Grace Paley, Bernard Malamud, Isaac Bashevis Singer, and Cynthia Ozick.

26. Truth on a Steep Hill: Studies in the Baroque. Spring 1990.
MR. SANDONA.

The baroque imagination emerges from an age of religious conflict, of unsettling scientific investigation, and of transient political power. This seminar explores several facets of the baroque: the curious images of its poetry, the spectacles and illusions of its theater, the eroticism of its mystics, the mysticism of its sexuality. Readings will include Shakespeare, Jonson, the metaphysical poets, John of the Cross, Cervantes, Calderón de la Barca, Molière, and Racine. Some attention is given to painting, sculpture, and architecture.

English 101 and 102 Survey Course in English Literature

A reading course, with examinations designed to familiarize students with the main currents of English literature, from Anglo-Saxon times to the twentieth century. Limited to seventy-five students each semester with preference given in English 101 to sophomores, juniors, and AP freshmen (in that order) and in English 102 to students completing English 101 and to freshmen completing a freshman seminar.

101. Every fall. Fall 1989. MR. SANDONA.

The course provides a broad introduction, from the beginnings to the end of the eighteenth century. Individual works studied in the context of major stylistic, thematic, and historical developments. Special attention given to metaphysical poetry or Augustan neoclassicism, and to consideration of genre, prosody, and mimesis. Major writers include Chaucer, Shakespeare, Donne, Milton, and Pope.

102. Every spring. Spring 1990. MR. COLLINGS.

Emphasizes major stylistic, thematic, and historical developments, from the Romantic movement at the end of the eighteenth century, through the Victorian age, and into modern British poetry. Major writers likely to be considered include Blake, Wordsworth, Shelley, Byron, Keats, Tennyson, Arnold, Browning, Yeats, and Eliot.

- [103. The Bible in Literary Focus.]
See Religion 50, page 209.

Courses in Writing and Communications*50. Public Speaking. Every fall. MR. ROSENTHAL.

Theory and practice of topic selection, audience analysis, research methods, development and organization of ideas, and delivery techniques. Designed for students with little or no experience in public speaking. Enrollment limited to twenty.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

51. History, Theory, and Criticism of Film. Every fall. Fall 1989.

MS. KASTER.

An examination of the development and growth of film from its pre-filmic origins to the present. Early work of Lumiere, Melies, and Porter studied, followed by the seminal work of Griffith to establish the language of film with its ability to manipulate space and time. The work of Eisenstein studied for montage, the work of Renoir for mise-en-scène, the work of Welles for manipulation of sound. The films of a variety of auteur directors, important film genres, and national film movements studied, including auteurs Fellini, Ford, Truffaut, Bergman, Kurosawa, Hitchcock; the Western, Film Noir, and the Musical genres; and Italian Neo-Realism, the French New Wave, the New German Cinema, the Australian New Wave, the Cinema Novo of Latin America, and the New Japanese Film movements.

52. Electronic Film Production. Every spring. Spring 1990.

MS. KASTER.

The class will examine and master the elements of electronic film production including screenplay writing, storyboard construction, operation of the video camera, VCR, sound mixer, and lighting kit and post production techniques of electronic editing, multiple-track sound editing, and Chyron computer graphics. Class will be divided into four crews for the production of four films.

Prerequisite: English 51 and consent of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20.

53. The New Latin American Film. Fall 1989. MS. KASTER.

An introduction to the major Latin American films from the late 1950s to the present. Emphasis on the films and directors who sought to create a new vision, a new voice for Latin America by exploring for the first time previously ignored "national realities": marginal urban populations, culturally and economically isolated groups, indigenous communities, repressive dictatorships. Special attention will be given to the most important film movements, including the "1960 Generation" in Argentina and the "Cinema Novo" movement in Brazil. Films will include those by Argentines Leopoldo Torre Nilsson, Fernando Birri, Fernando Solanas, Luis Puenzo, and Maria Luisa Bemberg; Brazilians Nelson Dos Santos, Glauber Rocha, Hector Babenco, Carlos Diegues and Leon Hirzman. Additional films from Cuba, Mexico, Uruguay, Chile, and Bolivia.

Enrollment limited to thirty students.

[54. Topics in Communication.]

60. English Composition. Spring 1990. MR. CASTIGLIA.

Practice in expository and critical writing, with special attention to the preparation, writing, and analysis of student essays. We will be focusing on issues of composition and tone through the examination of American short fiction.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor. Enrollment is limited to fifteen.

61. Creative Writing I. Spring 1990. MR. WATTERSON.

The course will be part workshop, part tutorial, and will concentrate exclusively on the writing of poetry.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor. Enrollment limited to fifteen.

[62. Creative Writing II.]

296, 297. Intermediate Independent Study in Film and Communication.
MS. KASTER.406, 407. Advanced Independent Study in Film and Communication.
MS. KASTER.Advanced Courses in English and American Literature*200. Old English. Every other year. Fall 1989. MR. BURROUGHS.

MR. CASTIGLIA.
This course will focus on "masculinity" as it is figured in the American novel of the 50s, 60s, and 70s—not as a "universal" condition, but as a constructed identity. We will examine changing representations of men since World War II and how these representations transform nineteenth century masculine mythologies. Some of the writers will be Jack Kerouac, Ralph Ellison, Thomas Pynchon, Norman Mailer, Eldridge Cleaver, Sam Shepard, and David Leavitt.

- 274. American Poetry in the Twentieth Century. Fall 1989. MS. DIEHL.
Writers will include Frost, Stevens, Williams, Moore, Bishop, Brooks, Lowell, Merrill, Rich, Plath.
- §275. Afro-American Fiction. Fall 1989. MS. PEMBERTON.
An examination of the development of the fictional genre of Afro-Americans, this course will trace the black American novel from its Civil War beginnings to the modern period. We will consider how these novels either challenge, deny, or mirror the American canon. Authors to be read include: Harriet E. Wilson, Nella Larsen, Richard Wright, Toni Morrison, Ralph Ellison.
Prerequisite: an English department freshman seminar or 200-level course.
- §276. Afro-American Poetry. Spring 1990. MS. PEMBERTON.
This course will look at the development of Afro-American poetry, beginning with an examination of the oral tradition, through early twentieth-century black poets, the Negritude Movement, and revolutionary poetry of the 1960s and 70s. Poets to be read include: Paul Laurence Dunbar, Claude McKay, Langston Hughes, Margaret Walker, Sonya Sanchez, and June Jordan.
Prerequisite: an English department freshman seminar or a 200-level course.
- 280. Women Writers in English. Every other spring. Spring 1991. MS. DIEHL.
A study of traditions of women's writing. Course content may vary from year to year.
- 281. Forms of Narrative. Fall 1990. MR. LITVAK.
This course will examine the role of narrative in a variety of discourses—not only literary but also philosophical, historical, psychoanalytic, and cinematic. Typically, we might consider novels by Jane Austen, Henry James, and Toni Morrison, short stories by Arthur Conan Doyle, Franz Kafka, and Angela Carter, films by Alfred Hitchcock and Orson Welles, a political treatise by Karl Marx, a case history by Sigmund Freud, a Socratic dialogue, and a selection of fairy tales. Readings will include examples of the major theories of narrative (Marxist, feminist, structuralist, psychoanalytic, deconstructive, and Foucauldian).
- 300. Literary Theory. Every other fall. Fall 1989. MR. LITVAK.
An analysis of semiotic, deconstructive, psychoanalytic, feminist, and Marxist theories of literature. Enrollment limited to fifteen.
Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

310-350. Studies in Literary Genres. Every year.

Lectures, discussions, and extensive readings in a major literary genre: e.g., the narrative poem, the lyric poem, fiction, comedy, tragedy, or the essay. Enrollment limited to fifteen.

324. Feminist Literary Theory. Spring 1990. Ms. DIEHL.

An examination of major theoretical issues addressed by contemporary feminist critics. Readings are drawn from influential literary, psychoanalytic, and critical texts. Authors include Cixous and Clément, George Eliot, Freud, Gilbert and Gubar, Henry James, Melanie Klein, Clarice Lispector, Elaine Showalter, and others.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

325. James Joyce. Spring 1990. Ms. REIZBAUM.

A close study of the work of James Joyce in its historical and contemporary critical contexts. Readings will include Dubliners, A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, Ulysses, and selected essays and poems.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

326. Representations of Revolution in the 1790s. Spring 1990.

MR. COLLINGS.

Readings in English literature of the 1790s, with particular emphasis on representations of the French Revolution and the English government's counter-revolution as a conflict within the family. We will examine the psychosexual dimensions of political, class, and gender conflict in Burke, Paine, Wollstonecraft, Godwin, Wordsworth, Blake, and Coleridge.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

Environmental Studies

Administered by the Committee on Environmental Studies

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR LAINE, Program Director; LECTURERS GILFILLAN AND RICHERT; Ms. KOULOURIS, PROGRAM AND COURSE ASSISTANT

Requirements for the Coordinate Major in Environmental Studies: The major involves the completion of a departmental major (I, below) and advanced work related to environmental studies (2).

I. The departmental major requirement may be satisfied by one of the three following approaches: (a) completion of the major requirements in either biochemistry, biology, chemistry, economics, or government; (b) the coordinate major in geology-environmental studies: Geology 101, 102, 256, and three additional courses in geology, Physics 103, Chemistry 101, 102, and two courses in mathematics; (c) completion of the major requirements in a department other than those listed above, provided that the student's program of studies is approved by the director as to its environmental content.

2. The following environmental studies courses are required:

a) Six courses related to environmental studies, offered by the program itself or by other departments. Relevant courses in any academic division of the curriculum will be identified by the Environmental Studies Committee on a regular basis. Independent study and some field courses may be included. Relevant courses in other departments that have been identified for the 1988-89 academic year are listed below. Other courses may qualify, with prior consultation and approval by the director. Also consult with the director concerning courses offered in previous years that may satisfy the program requirements.

No more than three of these six required courses may be in the area of the student's principal major. Areas of the curriculum are defined as follows:

Sciences: biochemistry, biology, chemistry, geology, physics, mathematics, neuroscience, psychology. Social Sciences: economics, government, history, sociology and anthropology. Arts and Humanities: classics, art, dance, English, German, music, philosophy, religion, Romance languages, Russian.

b) Senior course. A culminating course of one semester is required of majors during the senior year. Such courses are multidisciplinary, studying a topic from the perspectives of at least two of the three areas of the curriculum. Environmental Studies 390 normally meets this requirement.

Study Away: Beginning in the spring of 1990, there will be a cooperative program available for environmental study in Zimbabwe, cosponsored by the School for Field Studies and a consortium of college environmental studies programs.

[11. Global Environmental Change.]

101. Introduction to Environmental Studies. Every year. Spring 1990.

THE DEPARTMENT.

An examination of how the earth's major environmental systems work and an analysis of the relationship between these systems and such fundamental issues as population growth, resource and energy quality and sufficiency, and environmental quality. Explored in depth are the meaning and usefulness of scientific information and insights to such complex questions as quality of the atmosphere and climatic change, depletion of fresh water, loss of soil productivity, loss of genetic diversity, toxic contamination and waste disposal, and tropical deforestation. Enrollment limited to 60, with preference given to freshmen and sophomores.

200. Marine Ecology. Fall 1989. MR. GILFILLAN.

The relationships between organisms and their environment considered in the context of animals and plants living in the sea. The concept of marine communities living in dynamic equilibrium with their physical-chemical environment is introduced and the influences of human activities on the ecology of marine organisms is explored.

Prerequisite: A college-level science course, or consent of the instructor.

220. Environmental Law. Fall 1990. THE PROGRAM.

An examination of how society responds to environmental problems, considering a range of alternative legal strategies. Concepts in remedies, administrative law, and constitutional law, as well as economics and the sciences, will be used to understand these problems and probable solutions.

235. Philosophy of Technology. Spring 1991 and Spring 1993. MR. SIMON.

Modern technology is perhaps the most crucial factor shaping life in this century. Its growth, use, and abuse, and our increasing reliance on it, raise a number of philosophical questions, including: technology as a means for solving human problems and as a form of human expression; its impact on our relation to nature; views of technology as liberating versus imprisoning; and ethical and political problems raised by control and misuse of various technologies. (Same as Philosophy 235.)

236. Environmental Analysis: Political Philosophy. Spring 1990 and Spring 1992. MR. SIMON.

An examination of environmental issues from the perspective of political philosophy. The tensions between collective responsibilities and individual rights, problems of collective decision-making and the formation of policy, and questions of justice and our responsibilities to others. Problems that may be addressed include energy policy, resource exhaustion, and waste disposal; agricultural policy, food policy and world hunger; acid rain; the greenhouse effect; population policy; and exploitation of oceanic resources and the pollution of the oceans.

(Same as Philosophy 236.)

241. Principles of Land Use Planning. Spring 1990. MR. RICHERT.

Land – how it is used, who controls it, the tension between private and public rights to it – is central to today's environmental debate. Land use planning is inevitably part of that debate. It is a bridge between the physical environment (the land) and the social, economic, and political forces affecting that environment. The course will expose upper-class students to the physical principles of land use planning and the legal and socio-economic principles that underlie it.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

258. Environmental Ethics. Fall 1989 and Fall 1991. MR. SIMON.

A study of the ethical assumptions that underlie various views concerning our dealings with the environment. Topics discussed in this course include strong vs. weak anthropocentrism, deep vs. shallow ecology, deontology vs. utilitarianism, holism vs. individualism, rights of animals, rights of future generations, and land ethics. Limited to twenty students. Priority given to students participating in the Environmental Studies Program.

(Same as Philosophy 58.)

- 315. Environmental Models for Growth Management. Fall 1989 and 1990. MR. LAINE.

A comparative analysis of the use of environmental factors to manage growth. Models for growth management, based on the protection of marine resources, the preservation of critical habitats, the need to provide safe drinking water, and comprehensive natural resource inventories will be examined, compared, and analyzed. The analysis will be done within the framework of incremental and maximum growth models using case examples from areas of New England of differing degrees of development and management. Because this course involves travel to sites throughout New England, students will be expected to devote five weekends to this course. Enrollment limited to five students.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

- 390. Seminar in Environmental Studies. Spring 1990. The Gulf of Maine. MR. GILFILLAN.

This course will deal with the Gulf of Maine in the context of human impact on this highly productive body of water. The physical, chemical, and biological properties of the Gulf of Maine will be examined. The interactions between the Gulf of Maine and the surrounding human population, from pre-colonial times to the present, will be considered. The course will focus on present day problems such as shoreline development, fisheries, and international cooperation.

Prerequisite: Junior or senior standing and permission of the instructor.

- 290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE PROGRAM.

- 400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE PROGRAM.

CROSS LISTINGS

[Government 104. Ecology and Politics.]

Sociology 151. Sociology of Health and Illness. Fall 1989. MS. BELL.

See Sociology 151, page 222.

Prerequisite: Sophomore standing.

Sociology 214. Science, Technology, and Society. Spring 1990. MS. BELL.

See Sociology 214, page 224.

Humanities

Art 190. Architectural Design I. Spring 1990. MR. GLASS.

See Art 190, page 99.

[History 241. American Environmental History.]

Other courses can be considered for full credit in the Environmental Studies Program with prior approval by the director. It is the student's responsibility to consult with the director and to demonstrate the course's relevance to his or her course of studies. An example of a course that falls into this category is:

Economics 217. Economics of Population. Spring 1990. MS. CONNELLY.

Foreign Language Literature Courses in Translation

Each year the Departments of Classics, German, Romance Languages, and Russian may offer literature courses in English translation which are open to students with no training in the foreign language. A list of such courses follows. For detailed course descriptions, consult the departmental listings.

Classics

Classics 52. Greek Literature in Translation. Fall 1990. MR. AMBROSE.

German

51. German Literature in Translation. Every fall. MR. CERF.

This course may be repeated for credit with contents changed. Enrollment limited to fifty.

Italian

322. Italian Literature in Translation. Spring 1990. MS. RUGGIERO.

Russian

320. Nineteenth-Century Russian Literature. Fall 1989. MR. MILLER.

321. Twentieth-Century Russian Literature. Spring 1990. MS. KNOX.

322. Topics Course. THE DEPARTMENT.

Fall 1990. Women in Russian Society and Culture. MS. KNOX.

323. Dostoevsky and the Novel. Spring 1991. MS. KNOX.

Spanish

11. Don Quixote. Spring 1990. MR. TURNER.

[322. Modern Spanish American Literature in English Translation.]

Geology

PROFESSOR HUSSEY, Chair; ASSISTANT PROFESSOR LAINE; INSTRUCTOR LEA.

A geology major has been approved beginning with the academic year 1989-90. Students interested in majoring in geology should consult with the chair of the department as soon as possible, preferably in their freshman year. The geology Major consists of the following core courses: Geology 101, 102, 201, 211, and 241; and no fewer than four courses from the following electives:

Geology 221, 222, 256, 262, 265, 270, 278, and 280. Geology 101 and 102 should be taken during the freshman year. Geology 50 and 121 ordinarily will not count toward the major except as approved individually by the department for exceptional circumstances. Majors are advised to take Chemistry 101 and 102, Physics 103, and Mathematics 171 by the end of their junior year. These ancillary science courses are generally a requirement for admission to graduate study, and for employment in the field of geology. A field trip is taken during the spring vacation to illustrate the varied aspects of the geology of selected areas of the United States. All geology majors, coordinate majors, and interdisciplinary majors are required to participate in at least one of these trips during their junior or senior year.

Interdisciplinary Majors: The department participates in formal interdisciplinary programs in geology and physics and geology and chemistry. See pages 175-176.

Requirements for the minor in Geology: The minor consists of two courses chosen from Geology 50, 101, or 102, and two courses chosen from Geology 201, 211, 221, 222, 241, 256, 262, 265, 270, and 280.

50. Geology of Ocean Basins and Margins. Every spring. MR. LAINE.

The processes of erosion and sedimentation of shoreline and near-shore environments, emphasizing the delicate equilibrium of these environments; the morphology of and physical processes operating in the ocean basins; the origin and evolution of ocean basins in light of recent research in plate tectonics; the paleontologic and climatic record preserved in ocean sediments. Three hours of lecture per week. No previous experience in science courses will be assumed.

101. Introduction to Physical Geology. Every fall. THE DEPARTMENT.

Lectures devoted to the composition and structure of the earth and the dynamic equilibrium processes that shape the surface of the earth. Field and indoor laboratory studies include the recognition of common rocks and minerals, the interpretation and use of topographic and geologic maps, and dynamics of processes that shape our landscape. A one-day field trip is taken to York County to examine evidence for glaciation, recent sea level changes, structures and types of metamorphic rocks, and sequence of intrusion of four major magma series. Three lectures and one three-hour laboratory per week. No previous experience in science courses will be assumed.

102. Introduction to Historical Geology. Every spring. THE DEPARTMENT.

The principles involved in the interpretation of geologic history as deciphered from the rock record and a review of present knowledge of the evolution of the earth and its inhabitants. Laboratory work includes the recognition of fossils and their modes of preservation, interpretation of geologic maps, and a summary of the geologic history of the principal tectonic belts of North America. A three-day field trip is taken in the spring to illustrate important aspects of the geologic history of the southern and central coastal Maine area. Three lecture and three laboratory hours each week.

121. Arctic Landscapes. Fall 1989 and Fall 1991. MR. LEA.

The unique physical characteristics and ecosystems of arctic regions reflect both modern conditions and the legacy of marked environmental change in the earth's past. This course traces the development of arctic landscapes through time, examines the dynamics of modern arctic environments, and explores the sensitivity of these environments to change. Topics include tectonic evolution of the arctic, Pleistocene glaciation, oceanographic and sea-level history, geomorphic processes and permafrost, development of the arctic biota, and the role of the arctic in the global earth system. Three hours of lecture each week.

Prerequisite: One course in natural sciences, or consent of the instructor.

201. Earth Materials. Spring 1991 and Spring 1993. MR. HUSSEY.

The identification, crystallography, classification, origin, manner of occurrence, and uses of the principal rock-forming and economic minerals; hand specimen identification of igneous, metamorphic, and sedimentary rocks, and sediment types. Three hours of lecture and a three-hour laboratory each week.

Prerequisite: Geology 50 or 101, or Chemistry 101, or Physics 103.

211. Optical Mineralogy and Crystallography. Fall 1989 and Fall 1991. MR. HUSSEY.

A study of the optical principles and methods of mineral identification using the polarizing microscope. Laboratory work includes the examination and identification of minerals in thin section and as grains in immersion oils using the polarizing microscope; elementary morphological crystallography. Three lecture hours and one three-hour laboratory each week.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 101 or Geology 101 or Physics 103.

221. Sedimentology. Fall 1989 and Fall 1991. MR. LEA.

An understanding of sedimentary processes and the composition of sedimentary rocks is fundamental to the interpretation of the earth's depositional record. Process-related topics include the behavior of sediment-moving fluids, dynamics of sediment transport and deposition, and interpretation of depositional processes from sedimentary structure and texture. Petrologic topics include identification of sediments in hand specimen and thin section, and diagnosis of sedimentary rocks. Three hours of lecture and one three-hour laboratory each week. Includes local field trips to observe sedimentary processes.

Prerequisite: Geology 211 (or concurrent enrollment in Geology 211) and Physics 103.

222. Stratigraphy and Depositional Systems. Spring 1990 and Spring 1992. MR. LEA.

Survey of the earth's depositional systems, both continental and marine, with emphasis on interpretation of sedimentary environment from sedimentary structures and facies relationships; stratigraphic techniques for interpreting earth history; and introduction to sub-surface analysis of sedimentary basins. Three hours of lecture and one three-hour lab each week. Includes local field trips during lab periods and three-day trip over spring break.

Prerequisite: Geology 221 or consent of the instructor.

241. Structural Geology. Fall 1990 and Fall 1992. MR. HUSSEY.

The primary and secondary structures of rocks, and the interpretation of crystal deformation from these features. Laboratory work includes structural interpretation of geologic maps, construction of cross sections, and the use of stereographic projections and orthographic constructions in the solution of structural problems and presentation of data. Three lecture hours and three laboratory hours each week.

Prerequisite: Geology 101 or Geology 50 with consent of the instructor.

256. Environmental Geology. Fall 1989 and Fall 1991. MR. LAINE.

The application of geological and geomorphological principles to the understanding and solution of contemporary and future land use issues. Principles will be mastered through both lectures and the reading of case studies. Field exercise emphasizes observation, mapping, and analysis of geologic information relative to local environmental problems.

Prerequisite: Geology 101 or consent of the instructor.

262. Petrology. Spring 1990 and 1992. MR. HUSSEY.

The classification, description, and genesis of the common rock types. Three hours of laboratory work each week devoted to the identification of rocks in hand specimen and examination of thin sections with the use of the polarizing microscope. Three lecture hours and one three-hour laboratory each week.

Prerequisite: Geology 211.

265. Geophysics. Fall 1990 and Fall 1992. MR. LAINE.

An introduction to interpretation methods in geophysics. Topics to be examined include seismic reflection and refraction methods, gravity and magnetic modeling, and electrical and thermal prospecting. Specific applications of each of these methods will be drawn from the fields of marine geophysics, regional geology, hydrology, and environmental geology. No formal lab will be given, but students should expect to spend several full Saturdays in the field making geophysical observations.

Prerequisites: Physics 103, Mathematics 161, and one of the following: Geology 101, Physics 223, or Physics 227.

270. Geomorphology. Fall 1990 and 1992. MR. LEA.

The concepts of landform development, emphasizing the relationships between surficial processes and form. Topics include work of streams, waves, wind, and glaciers, climatic geomorphology, and historical aspects of landscape development. Three lecture hours and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisite: Geology 101 or consent of the instructor.

278. Quarternary Environments. Spring 1990 and 1992. MR. LEA.

The Quarternary Period is a subdivision of geologic time that includes both the present day and the ice ages of the Pleistocene. Hallmarks of the Quarternary include dramatic and cyclic climatic change, the development of modern landscapes and ecosystems, and the rise of the human species. This course examines methodologies for Quarternary environmental and climatic reconstruction, the geologic record of Quarternary environmental change, and implications of such change for the earth's future. Topics include Quarternary glacial and periglacial systems, sea-level fluctuations, paleoclimatic records of ocean sediments and glacier ice, stratigraphy and dating methods, response of plant and animal communities to environmental change, and theories of climatic change.

Prerequisite: Geology 101 or 121 or consent of the instructor.

280. Glacial Geology. Spring 1991 and 1993. MR. LEA.

Study of glacier processes and the geologic record of past glaciations. Topics include glacier-climate relationships, ice flow, warping of the earth's crust by ice sheets, glacial landforms and depositional environments, methods of relative and numerical dating, glacier reconstruction and paleoclimatic interpretation. Three lecture hours and one three-hour laboratory/field trip each week.

Prerequisite: Geology 101 or consent of the instructor.

German

PROFESSOR HODGE, Chair; PROFESSORS CAFFERTY AND CERF;
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR O'CONNOR; TEACHING FELLOW EICKHOFF.

Requirements for the Major in German: The major consists of seven courses, of which one may be chosen from 51, 52 and the others from 205-402. Prospective majors, including those who begin with first- or second-year German at Bowdoin, may arrange an accelerated program, usually including Study Abroad. Majors are encouraged to consider one of a number of Study Abroad programs with different calendars and formats.

Requirements for the Minor in German: German 102 or equivalent, plus any four courses, of which two must be in the language (203-398).

[11. Freshman Seminar.]

51. German Literature in English Translation. Every fall.

Enrollment limited to 50.

This course may be repeated for credit with contents changed.

Fall 1989. Gender and German Cinema: Films by German Women.

MS. CAFFERTY AND MS. O'CONNOR.

An introduction to German film, the course will examine selected films by German-speaking women in various contexts – German history and culture, the history of cinema, and feminism. Basic questions to be addressed include: 1) how these films interpret the German past; 2) how gender shapes individual and collective memory; 3) the extent to which these films participate in and challenge dominant modes of representation in cinema; 4) their relationship to the New German Cinema; 5) ways in which gender and identity are constructed and represented; 6) the relationship between power and gender in the story of the film and the film establishes a relation of power between itself and the viewer; and 7) feminist theory's importance for the understanding of contemporary culture.

Filmmakers Sagan, Riefenstahl, Sanders-Brahms, Sander, Export, Dorrie and von Trotta.

German films with English subtitles. Readings and discussion in English.

52. Myth and Heroic Epic of Europe. Spring 1990. MR. HODGE.

Myths, legends, sagas, and other folk literature of the Germanic, Celtic, Slavic, and Finno-Ugric traditions, e.g., the Prose and Poetic Eddas, Song of the Volsungs, Beowulf, Lay of the Nibelungs, the Mabinogian, the Cycle of Finn, the Cycle of Ulster, Marko the Prince, the Kalevala. Where possible and desirable, comparisons may be drawn with other mythologies; mythological and legendary material may be supplemented by relevant folkloric, Arthurian, and semihistorical literature. In English.

For African myth and epic, see Afro-American Studies 51, pages 000-000.

101, 102. Elementary German. Every year. Fall 1989. MR. HODGE.

Spring 1990. MR. CERF.

Three hours per week of training in grammar, speaking, composition, and reading. One hour of conversation/drill with teaching assistant or teaching fellow. Language laboratory also available.

203, 204. Intermediate German. Every year. Fall 1989. MS. O'CONNOR.

Spring 1990. MR. HODGE.

Three hours per week of reading, speaking, composition, and review of grammar. One hour of conversation/drill with teaching assistant or teaching fellow. Language laboratory also available.

Prerequisite: German 102 or equivalent.

205. Advanced German Language. Every year. Fall 1989. MR. CERF.

Designed to increase oral fluency, compositional skills, and understanding of spoken German. Stylistics and idiomatic usages may be emphasized.

Prerequisite: German 204 or equivalent.

308. Introduction to German Literature. Every year. Spring 1990.

Ms. O'CONNOR.

Introduction to methods of interpretation and critical analysis of works of German literature by genre: e.g., prose fiction, expository prose, lyric poetry, drama, opera, film, etc. The course will develop sensitivity to literary structures and techniques and introduce terminology for describing and analyzing texts.

313. The Development of Literary Classicism. Fall 1989. MR. CERF.

Beginning with the reaction against the Age of Reason and continuing into the later works of Goethe and Schiller.

Prerequisite: German 204 or equivalent.

314. The Romantic Movement. Spring 1990. Ms. O'CONNOR.

Its literary philosophy, several schools of thought, and preferred genres, including consideration of such representative or influential figures as Tieck, W. and F. Schlegel, Kleist, Arnim, Brentano, Chamisso, Eichendorff, E. T. A. Hoffmann, and Schopenhauer.

Prerequisite: German 204 or equivalent.

315, 316. Literature of the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries. Fall 1990 and Spring 1991. THE DEPARTMENT.

German literature from approximately 1830 to 1945. Such authors as Hebbel, Storm, Meyer, Keller, Hauptmann, Hofmannsthal, Mann, Kafka, and Brecht are included.

Prerequisite: German 204 or equivalent.

317. German Literature since 1945. Fall 1990. THE DEPARTMENT.

Representative postwar authors from East and West Germany, Austria, and Switzerland.

Prerequisite: German 204 or equivalent.

319. The Short Prose Form. Fall 1989. MR. HODGE.

Unique theory, form, and content of the German Novelle as it has developed from Goethe to the present.

Prerequisite: German 204 or equivalent.

398. Seminar in Aspects of German Literary History. Every spring.

Work in a specific area of German literature not covered in other departmental courses, e.g., individual authors, literary movements, genres, cultural influences, and literary-historical periods. This course may be repeated for credit with contents changed.

Prerequisite: German 204 or equivalent.

Spring 1990. Das deutsche Lustspiel. MR. CERF.

A survey, covering the last two hundred years, of the rare and problematic German-language comedy. Particular attention will be paid to the comedic works of Lessing, Kleist, Wagner, Hofmannsthal, Zuckmayer, and Dürrenmatt. Three basic questions will be posed: 1) Why are there so few German literary comedies? 2) How did German comedic writers—with their attention to psychological, historical, and sociological detail—form their own tradition in which they responded to each other over two centuries? 3) To what extent did writers from other cultures inspire German comedic playwrights? In addition to a close reading of texts, video and cinematic adaptations will be examined.

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Government and Legal Studies

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR SPRINGER, Chair; PROFESSORS MORGAN, POTHOLM, RENSENBRINK, AND YARBROUGH; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS AYUBI, HUSKEY, MARTIN, AND WEIGLE; VISITING PROFESSOR ROMOSER; INSTRUCTOR WARD

Requirements for the Major in Government and Legal Studies: Courses within the department are divided into five fields: American government (Government 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 210-211, 250, 270, 301, 302, and 341), comparative politics (Government 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 230, 235, 275, 280, 321, and 362), political theory (Government 225, 240, 241, 242, 250, 255, 341, and 342), international relations (Government 226, 227, 235, 260, 261, 270, 271, 275, 280, 361, and 362), and public policy (Government 202, 203, 204, 210-211, 255, 270, 275, 301, and 341). Every major is expected to complete an area of concentration in one of these fields.

The major consists of one Level A course, six Level B courses, and one Level C course, distributed as follows:

1. A field of concentration, selected from the above list, in which at least two Level B courses and one Level C course are taken.
2. At least one Level B course in each of three fields outside the field of concentration. Students seeking to graduate with honors in government and legal studies must have an excellent academic record. Interested students should contact the honors director for specific details. Students must prepare an honors paper, which is normally the product of two semesters of independent study work, and have that paper approved by the department. One semester of independent study work may be counted toward the eight-course departmental requirement and the three-course field concentration.

Requirements for the Minor in Government and Legal Studies: A minor in government and legal studies will consist of one Level A course and four Level B courses from three of the departmental subfields.

Level A Courses
Government 100
Introductory Seminars

Topics and course requirements will vary from seminar to seminar and year to year according to the interests of the instructor. All are designed to provide an introduction to a particular aspect of government and legal studies. Students are encouraged to analyze and discuss important political concepts and issues, while developing research and writing skills.

Enrollment is limited to twenty in each seminar. Freshmen are given first priority; sophomores are given second priority. If there are any remaining places, upperclassmen may be admitted with consent of the instructor.

Fall 1989

101. Comparative Politics. Ms. WEIGLE.

An introduction to the study of comparative politics. A survey of political concepts (including representation, legitimacy, the state), ideologies, institutions, and processes as applied to selected industrial democracies, authoritarian, totalitarian, contemporary communist regimes, and "developing" countries, ending with a discussion of ethics from a comparative political perspective.

102. Caribbean Forms. MR. POTHOLM.

A look at the political landscape of the Caribbean Basin with particular emphasis on the survival of polyarchal forms in the region and a comparison of political ingredients found in a number of situations. Some relevant examples to be studied are Barbados, Trinidad, Haiti, Jamaica, Puerto Rico, and Grenada.

103. The Pursuit of Peace. MR. SPRINGER.

This seminar examines different strategies for preventing and controlling armed conflict in international society, including U. S. policy in the Middle East and the Persian Gulf and attempts to "denuclearize" Europe.

106. Aspects of Political Theory. Ms. YARBROUGH.

This course introduces students to the fundamental issues of political life, in particular, what is justice? What is happiness? Are human beings equal or unequal? What is the relationship between private property and liberty? Private property and justice? Are there moral standards which are prior to law? If so, where do they come from? Nature? History? Through a close reading of Aristotle, Machiavelli, Locke, Marx, and Nietzsche we examine the answers to these and other questions.

107. The Resurgence of the Islamic Religion and Politics. Ms. AYUBI.

An investigation into the nature and historical development of Islam to present times. Consideration given to the interaction between religion and politics in the Middle Eastern, African, and Asian countries.

Spring 1990

[104. Ecology and Politics.]

105. American Politics: Individuals and Institutions. MR. WARD.

An introductory seminar in American national politics. The course will focus on the interaction between individuals (voters, party leaders, members of Congress, the President) and political institutions (parties, Congress, the executive branch, courts). The primary concern in readings and research papers will be: do individuals shape political institutions and/or do institutions have an independent impact on politics?

[111. Introduction to American Politics.]

160. Introduction to International Relations. Spring 1990.

MR. POTHOLM AND MR. SPRINGER.

Identifies and explains patterns of interaction among nation-states. Focuses on developments since World War II, but many lectures draw on material from other periods. Such topics as the nature of man and the causes of war, the international espionage subculture, revolutionary change, and environmental constraints are considered. Enrollment is limited to one hundred fifty students.

Level B Courses

Level B courses are designed generally for students with a previous background in government and legal studies. All, unless otherwise noted, require that a student have taken a Level A course or have received the consent of the instructor. Course requirements will vary from course to course, but most of the courses at this level adopt a lecture format. All Level B courses are limited to fifty students.

[200. Local Governments.]

201. Law and Society. Spring 1990. MR. MORGAN.

An examination of the American criminal justice system. Although primary focus is on the constitutional requirements bearing on criminal justice, attention is paid to conflicting strategies on crime control, to police and prison reform, and to the philosophical underpinnings of the criminal law.

Prerequisite: Junior year standing.

[202. The American Presidency.]

203. Elections, Parties, and Interest Groups in America. Fall 1989.

MR. WARD.

An examination of the American electoral process, its theoretical grounding, historical development, and current place in the political process. An emphasis is placed on the various approaches to understanding voters, parties, and other interested groups. This includes readings that focus on elections as a form of political conflict, formal models of the election process, and explanations of voting behavior. Special topics include the role of media and money in elections.

204. Congress and the Policy Process. Fall 1989. MR. WARD.

An examination of the U.S. Congress, focusing on its members and procedures, and the ways that both can affect public policy. The relative influence of party, leadership, constituents, and the president on congressional activity is of special concern. Considerable emphasis is placed on congressional elections as well.

*210, 211. American Constitutional Law. Every year. MR. MORGAN.

Constitutional principles in the United States. The case method is used in the presentation of material.

Prerequisite: Junior- or senior-year standing, or consent of the instructor.

§223. African Politics. Fall 1989. MR. POTHOLM.

An examination of the underlying political realities of modern Africa. Emphasis on the sociological, economic, historical, and political phenomena which affect the course of politics on the continent. While no attempt is made to cover each specific country, several broad subjects, such as hierarchical and polyarchical forms of decision making, are examined in depth. There is a panel discussion with African students and scholars at the end of the course.

224. Western European Politics. Spring 1990. MS. WEIGLE.

An introduction to the varieties of democratic politics in Western Europe. The course will be approached topically, with components on the state and bureaucratic politics, parties and interest groups, and voting and public opinion. Recent theoretical literature on the democratic state and on state-group relations will supplement traditional readings focusing on political institutions and behavior in four countries: France, Great Britain, Sweden, and West Germany.

[225. Political Analysis and the Forces of Change.]

226. Middle East Politics. Spring 1990. MS. AYUBI.

An examination of the historical, cultural, economic, and social forces which affect Middle East political processes.

§227. Ethnicity and Politics in South Asia. Fall 1989. MS. AYUBI.

An examination of the historical, cultural, economic, and social forces which affect the political processes in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka.

230. Soviet Politics. Fall 1989. MS. WEIGLE.

An introduction to the domestic politics of the USSR. Examines Soviet society in terms of political, economic, and social development, highlights, for example, the failure of liberalism in Russian, the nature of Stalinist totalitarianism, and the ideological context of Gorbachev's reforms. Includes an examination of the political, economic, and social institutions of the Soviet state, with a view toward analyzing the impact of Gorbachev's "restructuring" of Soviet society.

235. Advanced Comparative Government. Japan and West Germany: Comparative Political Cultures. Spring 1990. MR. ROMOSER.

Study of political life in post-authoritarian Japan and West Germany, with attention also to earlier political history in each case. Emphasis on the quest for order and stability, on forms of political participation, and on experiences in dealing with political "crises" in each country.

240. Political Theory: Classical Political Philosophy. Fall 1989.

MS. YARBROUGH.

This course examines the answers of Greek and Roman political philosophers, as well as medieval theologians, to the most pressing human questions: what is the best way to live? What is the relationship of the individual to the political community? What is justice, and how important a virtue is it? Why should we be just at all? Can we rely on human reason to give answers to these questions, or are the answers to our central human concerns ultimately dependent upon revelation and faith? If so, what are the political consequences?

241. Modern Political Philosophy. Spring 1990. MS. YARBROUGH.

Beginning with Machiavelli and Thomas Hobbes, modern political philosophy centers around the question of human freedom. This course explores the central problems to which the concern for freedom gives rise. In particular, it examines the overthrow of the classical horizon, the origin and meaning of rights, the relationship between liberty and equality, and the replacement of nature with history as the source of human meaning.

[242. Gender, Race, and Class: The Politics of Otherness.]

250. American Political Thought: Spring 1990. MS. YARBROUGH.

This course examines the political thought of American statesmen, politicians, writers, and prominent citizens from the colonial period to the twentieth century. It seeks to explore the philosophical foundations upon which republican government in America rests and to examine the connection between theory and practice in American political life. We begin with an investigation of the Puritan heritage, and then examine the nature of American republicanism as it emerged at the Founding. Moving away from the founding period, we examine Jacksonian democracy, transcendentalism, the crisis of the house divided, the transformation of the American political tradition in the post-Civil War Era, and the emergence of welfare state liberalism. The course concludes with a discussion of contemporary thinkers and their place in the American political tradition.

255. Approaches to Political Science: Quantitative Analysis in Political Science. Spring 1990. MR. WARD.

An introductory course in research methods, with a focus on the development of research questions and design. Topics include the benefits and limitations of various research methods, resources and data, development and evaluation of hypotheses, and an introduction to basic statistical analysis. Instruction in the use of computer-based statistical programs. (No prior experience in computing or statistical analysis is assumed or necessary.)

260. International Law. Fall 1989. MR. SPRINGER.

The modern state system, the role of law in its operation, the principles and practices which have developed, and the problems involved in their application.

[261. International Organization.]

270. American Foreign Policy: Its Formulation and the Forces Determining Its Direction. Spring 1990. MR. SPRINGER.

The major theories concerning the sources and conduct of American foreign policy since World War II. The approach emphasizes the inter-relationship of political, social, and economic forces which shape United States diplomacy.

Prerequisite: Sophomore standing.

271. Soviet Foreign Policy. Spring 1990. MS. WEIGLE.

Examines the roots of Soviet foreign policy behavior from the Leninist/Stalinist phase of consolidation of Communist Party power, through the post-WWII phase of superpower politics, and including the Gorbachev era of "New Political Thinking." Designed to develop an understanding of Soviet foreign relations in light of the USSR's political development and the opportunities and constraints of its role in the international political system. Seeks to understand Soviet motivation for its foreign policy activity while interpreting that activity from the perspective of world politics.

§275. Advanced International Politics: Rich Nations/Poor Nations. Spring 1990. MS. AYUBI.

An examination of new approaches to the study of international politics with emphasis on North-South relations. The course meets the non-Eurocentric studies requirement.

Level C Courses

Level C courses provide seniors (and juniors, with the consent of the instructor) an opportunity to do advanced work within their fields of concentration. This may be done in the context of a seminar or through independent study with a member of the department, or through the honors seminar.

301. Advanced Seminar in American Politics: Reforming the Intelligence Agencies. Fall 1989. MR. MORGAN.

[302. Colloquium in Law and National Security.]

[304. Advanced Seminar in American Politics.]

341. Advanced Seminar in Political Theory: Revolutionary Conservatism. Spring 1990. MR. ROMOSER.
- [342. Advanced Seminar in Political Theory.]
361. Advanced Seminar in International Relations: Conflict Simulation and Conflict Resolution. Spring 1990. MR. POTHOLM.
362. Advanced Seminar in International Relations and Comparative Government: Terrorism. Fall 1990. MS. AYUBI.
400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

History

PROFESSOR LEVINE, Chair; PROFESSORS HOWELL AND NYHUS; ASSOCIATE PROFESSORS KARL, MCMAHON, SMITH, AND STAKEMAN; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS BECK, MAY, AND WELLS; VISITING PROFESSOR DESILVA; LECTURERS HOCHSTETTLER, JERVIS, AND LEWALLEN; LECTURER AND CONSORTIUM DISSERTATION FELLOW MARTÍNEZ-FERNÁNDEZ

Requirements for the Major in History: The departmental offerings are divided into the following fields: Europe (may be divided into two fields: Europe to 1715 and Europe since 1500), Great Britain, United States, East Asia, Africa, and Latin America. In meeting the field requirements, courses in Europe between 1500 and 1715 may be counted toward early or modern Europe but not toward both of them. At least one field must be in East Asia, Africa, or Latin America. Students may, with departmental approval, define fields which are different from those specified above.

The major consists of eight courses, distributed as follows:

1. A primary field of concentration, selected from the above list, in which four or more courses are taken. One of the courses must be numbered in the 300s, selected with departmental approval, in which a research essay is written.

2. Two supplemental fields, in each of which two courses are taken. All history majors seeking departmental honors will enroll in at least one semester of the honors seminar (History 451, 452). Its primary requirement is the research and writing of the honors thesis. In addition, the seminar is to provide a forum in which the students, together with the faculty, can discuss their work and the larger historical questions that grow out of it. With departmental approval a student may offer for credit toward the history major college-level work in history at other institutions. This work may represent fields other than those that are available at Bowdoin. A student who anticipates study away from Bowdoin should discuss with the department, as early in his or her college career as possible, a plan for the history major which includes work at Bowdoin and elsewhere.

The freshman-sophomore seminars listed under History 10-25 are not required for the major, but such seminars may be counted toward the required eight courses.

Before electing to major in history, a student should have completed or have in progress at least two college-level courses in history.

History majors are encouraged to develop competence in one or more foreign languages and to use this competence in their historical reading and research. Knowledge of a foreign language is particularly important for students planning graduate work.

Each major should select a departmental adviser. A student should plan, in consultation with his or her adviser, a program that progresses from introductory to advanced levels. The courses numbered in the 300s presuppose a reasonable background understanding. They are open with the consent of the instructor to history majors and other students, normally upperclassmen.

Enrollment in a problems course is limited to fifteen students. Each freshman-sophomore seminar (History 10-25) is limited to twenty. Other history courses are limited to seventy-five students each.

Requirements for the Minor in History: The minor consists of five courses, three to be taken in a field of concentration chosen from the list specified by the department for a major. The remaining two are to be in a subsidiary field selected from the same list.

East Asian Studies Concentration: Majors in history may elect the East Asian Studies Concentration, which consists of the following requirements: four courses in East Asian history, including at least one research seminar; two courses in a field of history other than East Asian; and four semesters of Chinese or Japanese language.

Foreign study for students interested in East Asian studies is highly recommended. Established programs in Hong Kong, Taiwan, Japan, and the People's Republic of China are available. Consult the instructor in East Asian history for information about various programs.

Course Selection for Freshmen: Although courses numbered 10-25 and 101-102 are designed as introductory courses, freshmen may if they wish enroll in courses numbered 201-279.

10-21. Freshman Seminars.

The following seminars are introductory in nature. They are designed for freshmen who have little background in history generally or in the period and area in which the particular topic falls. Enrollment is limited to twenty students in each seminar.

Objectives are (a) to cover the essential information relating to the topic, together with a reasonable grounding in background information; (b) to illustrate the manner in which historians (as well as those who approach some of the topics from the point of view of other disciplines) have dealt with certain significant questions of historical inquiry; and (c) to train critical and analytical skills.

The seminars are based on extensive reading, class discussion, oral reports, two or three short critical essays, and an examination.

Seminar 11. Women in Britain and America: 1750-1920. Fall 1989.

Ms. McMAHON.

A comparative examination of the contribution of women to and the consequences for women of "modernization." Topics include industrialization and the varieties of employment for women, Victorian culture and domesticity, and women's rights and woman suffrage. Relies heavily on primary sources: letters, diaries, essays, prescriptive literature, fiction; secondary sources used as guides in the reading of those contemporary sources. Designed to teach students how to subject primary and secondary source materials to a critical analysis.

Seminar 17. The Cuban Revolution. Fall 1989. MR. WELLS.

The Cuban Revolution recently celebrated its thirtieth anniversary. This seminar will offer a retrospective of a revolution entering "middle age," and its prospects for the future. The topics to be discussed include: U.S. - Cuban relations; economic and social justice versus political liberty; gender and race relations; and literature and film in a socialist society.

Seminar 18. The Vietnam War. Fall 1991. MR. LEVINE.

An examination of the Vietnam War from the Vietnamese and American viewpoints. Major topics include: the nature of Vietnamese society, impact of French Colonialism, cold war background (domestic and foreign) to American involvement, and impact of war on Vietnam and the United States.

Seminar 19. Origins of Twentieth-Century American "Liberalism."

Spring 1990. MR. LEVINE.

During the "Progressive Period" from roughly 1895-1920, most aspects of what Americans call "liberalism" were begun or transformed: government regulation of business; dealing with urban problems, including urban poverty and political corruption; race relations; liberal internationalism; concern with the environment; health of products; safety in the workplace; consideration of the relations between the genders, and more. This seminar will explore how these problems were approached, defined, and struggled with.

§Seminar 20. Traditional China. Spring 1991. MR. SMITH.

§Seminar 21. The Chinese Cultural Revolution. Spring 1992. MR. SMITH.

The Cultural Revolution (1966-1976) is now condemned by the Chinese government as enthusiastically as it was once heralded. What happened? This course has two interrelated goals: to study a complex historical problem and to learn how to read critically in historical materials, both primary and secondary. (Same as Asian Studies 21.)

§Seminar 22. Chinese Strategy. Spring 1990. MR. SMITH.

An investigation of traditional strategy, the philosophical and historical contexts from which it arose, and its embodiment in novels from the imperial period. (Same as Asian Studies 22.)

§103. Asian Civilizations. Spring 1991. MR. SMITH.

An introduction to selected texts of South and East Asian civilizations, emphasizing Buddhist cultures in India, Tibet, China, and Japan. Normally each week the course will meet once as a whole for lecture and once in small discussion groups, in which a particular text will be analyzed in detail. Frequent short papers, several longer papers. (Same as Asian Studies 101.)

104. History on Film. Spring 1991. MR. NYHUS.

This course explores topics in Renaissance history as realized visually by important modern directors. In addition to topics such as urban life, the peasant family, the decline of feudalism and the rise of the modern state, witchcraft, and imperialism and the New World, the course considers issues of historiography and the ways in which film as a medium both reinforces ideological assumptions about the past and calls them into question. Films to be screened include The Decameron (Pasolini), The Return of Martin Guerre (Vigne), The Seventh Seal (Bergman), Henry V (the Olivier version of Shakespeare's play), Day of Wrath (Dreyer), and Aguirre, The Wrath of the God (Herzog). Ancillary readings include primary texts, among them screen plays, narrative history, interpretive history, film criticism, and essays on historiography and methodology. Same as English 104.

124. Music and Society during the Renaissance. Spring 1990.

MR. GREENLEE AND MR. NYHUS.

This analysis of music and society focuses on the inter-relations between music and the church, class structure and social values, and on the differing concepts of the Renaissance in historical and musicological literature.

201. Ancient Greece. Fall 1990. MR. NYHUS.

A survey of the political, social, and economic history of Greece from the second millennium B.C. through the Hellenistic period. Focus on the fifth century B.C. Extensive selections of Herodotus and Thucydides as well as dramatists, poets, and philosophers.

202. Ancient Rome. Every other year. Fall 1989. MR. NYHUS.

A survey of the political, social, and economic history of the Republic and Empire. Extensive selections of Livy, Tacitus, and Suetonius as well as literary texts.

203. Europe in the Middle Ages, 1050-1300. Spring 1990. MR. NYHUS.

A survey covering political and social institutions as well as intellectual and cultural movements of twelfth- and thirteenth-century Europe.

206. Florence and Strasbourg during the Renaissance. Spring 1991. MR. NYHUS.
An analysis of the economic, social, and political structures of two key cities of the Renaissance together with the culture which made them famous.
211. Europe 1517-1715: Reformation to Louis XIV. Spring 1991. MR. KARL.
The Reformation serves as introduction to the social, political, and intellectual development of continental Europe to the death of Louis XIV.
212. Europe 1715-1848: Enlightenment, Revolution, and Napoleon. Fall 1990. MR. KARL.
A survey of continental European evolution from the death of Louis XIV to the revolutions of 1848, with focus on the French Revolution and its role in European development.
213. Europe 1890-1939. Fall 1989. MR. BECK.
A survey of European history with special emphasis on political, social, and intellectual developments of European powers before 1914; origins and course of the Great War as well as its impact on the European mind; the Russian Revolution; the rise of Fascism in Italy and Germany; international relations in the inter-war years, and the origins of the Second World War.
214. Europe 1939 to the Present. Spring 1990. MR. BECK.
A survey of the last fifty years of European history with a focus on the history of World War II, the origins of the Cold War, the division of Europe, Eastern Europe under Stalinist rule, the revival of the Western Europe, the Western Alliance, and the political and economic development of Europe since 1945. Special attention will also be paid to cultural trends in East and West.
215. Nazi Germany. Fall 1989. MR. BECK.
Comprehensive course on the Third Reich from Hitler's rise to power to the unconditional surrender of Nazi Germany in 1945. Topics discussed include intellectual roots and social basis of Nazism, daily life in the Third Reich before and during the war, the nature of the Nazi state, the German people, and Hitler, et alia.
- [219. War and Society in Modern Europe 1740-1945.]
217. History of Russia to 1825. Fall 1991. MR. KARL.
A broad survey beginning with medieval Russia but concentrating on the rise of Muscovy, Peter the Great, and the development of autocracy and serfdom down to the Decembrist revolt.
218. History of Russia: 1825 to the Present. Spring 1991. MR. KARL.
Begins with the reign of Nicholas I and focuses mainly on the long-term coming, course, and aftermath of the Revolution of 1917.

- 220. The British Experience. Fall 1990. MR. HOWELL.
Examination of selected topics in the social, cultural, intellectual, economic, and constitutional history of the British Isles as a means of understanding the distinctive elements in the British experience. Emphasis is placed on an interdisciplinary approach to such subjects as the making of the landscape, the concept of nationhood, the role of tradition, the social dimensions of the arts, religious expression, popular culture, and the experience of immigrant groups.
- 221. History of England to 1550. Spring 1990. MR. HOWELL.
A survey of the political, cultural, intellectual, social, and economic aspects of English life from pre-Roman times to the Reformation.
- 222. History of England from the Sixteenth to the Nineteenth Century. Spring 1991. MR. HOWELL.
A survey of political, cultural, intellectual, social, and economic developments in England from Elizabeth to the death of George III.
- 223. History of England from 1800 to the Present. Fall 1989. MR. HOWELL.
A survey of the cultural, intellectual, political, constitutional, social, and economic development of England.
- 225. The British Empire and Commonwealth. Fall 1989. MR. HOWELL.
An introduction to certain continuous themes in British imperial history with an emphasis on the period from 1783 to the present. The course is comparative in approach and from time to time deals with colonies, empires, and policies of other nations than the British in order to provide a general examination of colonialism, imperialism, race, and overseas settlement.
- 226. Topics in British Imperial and Commonwealth History. MR. HOWELL.
The Evolution of British India. Fall 1990.
Analysis of the British presence in India from the formation of the East India Company until the transfer of power and the creation of dominion status for India and Pakistan. Cultural interactions as well as political and economic relationships are emphasized.
- 229. The Growth of the Welfare State in Britain and America: 1834-present. Spring 1990. MR. LEVINE.
A study in comparative history of the ideology and institutions of the welfare state in two countries which are similar in some ways but quite different in others. Readings in the laws, legislative debates, ideological statements, and economic and sociological analyses.
- 230. Interpretations of American History. Fall 1990. MR. LEVINE.
Consideration of four or five topics from the American Revolution to the present, all related to social change: how historians have disagreed with each other, the nature of historical inquiry, and the relationship between past and present. Readings include Hartz, The Liberal Tradition in America; Lowi, The End of Liberalism; Hamilton, Report of the National Bank; and Collingwood, The Idea of History. Students read different works on the same subject and in class discuss what ways the historians agree and disagree with each other, and why. Particularly useful for history majors, since there is some explicit concentration on philosophy of history and historiography. Non-majors may find it useful as a review survey of American history, and for practice in reading analytically and writing critical essays.

231. Social History of Colonial America, 1607-1763. Fall 1989.

Ms. McMAHON.

A study of the founding and growth of the British colonies in North America. Explores the problems of creating a new society in a strange environment; the effects of particular goals and expectations on the development of the thirteen colonies; the gradual transformation of English, African, and Indian cultures; and the later problems of colonial maturity and stability as the emerging Americans outgrew the British imperial system.

233. American Society in the New Nation, 1763-1840. Spring 1991.

Ms. McMAHON.

A social history of the United States from the Revolutionary era through the Age of Jackson. Topics include the social, economic, and ideological roots of the movement for American independence; the struggle to determine the scope of the Constitution and the shape of the new republic; the emergence of an American identity; and the diverging histories of the North, South, and West in the early nineteenth century.

240. The United States since 1945. Spring 1991. MR. LEVINE.

Consideration of social, intellectual, political, and international history. Topics include the cold war; the survival of the New Deal; the changing role of organized labor; Keynesian, post-Keynesian or anti-Keynesian economic policies; the urban crisis. Readings common to the whole class and the opportunity for each student to read more deeply in a topic of his or her own choice. Preregistration limited to freshmen and sophomores. Others may enroll as room is available.

243. The Civil Rights Movement. Fall 1989. MR. LEVINE.

Concentrating on the period from 1954 to 1970, a major point of this course will be to show how various individuals and groups have been pressing for racial justice for decades. Special attention paid to social action groups ranging from the NAACP and SNCC, and to important individuals, both well-known (Booker T. Washington) and less well known (John Doar). Readings mostly in primary sources. Extensive use of the PBS video series "Eyes on the Prize."

[§244. The Afro-American in American Society since Emancipation.]

§245. Afro-American Religion and Its Music: Redemption Songs. Spring 1990. MR. STAKEMAN.

By focusing on black religious music in the Americas, this course considers how specific historical contexts have shaped and reflected the development of a distinctly Afro-American church, theology, and folk religion. The course examines the different interactions of African and European cultures which have produced a variety of Afro-American cultures, the social role of the black minister, the social stratification of black Protestant denominations, the social roles within church services, the social welfare functions of churches, and black millenarianism. Topics include slavery and the spiritual, the black peasantry and folk blues, urbanization and gospel music. (Same as Afro-American Studies 245.)

246. Women in American History. Fall 1990. MS. MCMAHON.

A social history of American women from the colonial period through the nineteenth century. Examines the changing roles and circumstances of women in both public and private spheres, focusing on family responsibilities, paid and unpaid work, education, ideals of womanhood, women's rights, and feminism. Class, ethnic, religious, and racial differences—as well as common experiences—are explored.

248. Family and Community in American History. Spring 1991. MS. MCMAHON.

An examination of the American family as a functioning social and economic unit within the community from the colonial period to the present. Topics include gender relationships; the purpose of marriage; philosophies of child-rearing; demographic changes in family structure; organization of work and leisure time; relationships between nuclear families and both kinship and neighborhood networks; and the effects of industrialization, urbanization, immigration, and social and geographic mobility on patterns of family life.

249. America's Working Women. Spring 1990. MS. MAY.

This course explores changes in women's labor from 1890 to the present, examining the evolution of work roles. The relationship between wage earning and family life, and the importance of race, class, and ethnicity in shaping women's work lives. Experiences of professional women will be contrasted with the work cultures of other female employees, as the class considers historical barriers and incentives to women's waged labor.

§250. History of Mexico. Fall 1991. MR. WELLS.

This course will trace the historical evolution of our southern neighbor, Mexico. After a brief look at the pre-Hispanic past, Spanish settlement and colonization, and the chaotic nineteenth century, a significant share of the course will examine twentieth-century Mexico; its problems and prospects for the future. Among the topics to be explored: U.S.-Mexican relations, immigration and other "border" problems, the debt crisis, the oil syndrome, the future of the PRI in Mexico, and the impact of revolutionary movements in Central America on Mexico.

§252. Colonial Latin America. Fall 1990. MR. WELLS.

Most modern writers refer to a “traditional society” in Latin America that has proved remarkably resistant to innovation and social change. This course provides an in-depth analysis of the formative stages of this traditional society. By tracing the development of the new culture brought about by the fusion of European, Indian, and African elements, the rich and diverse heritage of Latin America can be better understood. Topics to be discussed: ancient Indian civilizations; the transition from a conquest to a settler society; European institutions of domination and control (land, labor, and religion); the legacy of race mixture; tensions between Europe and the colonies; and the Wars of Independence.

253. The Hispanic Caribbean. Spring 1990. MR. MARTÍNEZ-FERNÁNDEZ.

An introduction to the historical problems affecting Cuba, Puerto Rico, and the Dominican Republic, from the pre-Columbian period to the Cuban Revolution. A comparative and interdisciplinary examination of the region’s past and present, this course approaches selective topics such as the impact of European conquest and colonization, the development of plantation economies, the role of slavery, the struggles against colonialism, and the twentieth-century evils of dependency, underdevelopment, and dictatorial regimes.

§255. Modern Latin America. Spring 1991. MR. WELLS.

An important segment of this course will trace the roots of revolutionary discontent in Latin America from a Latin American, as well as a North American, perspective. This topical survey of Latin American history from its independence wars, through the calamitous nineteenth-century to the unstable 1980s will explore the following topics: neocolonialism; dictators and the role of the military; United States-Latin American relations; imperialism; and the internal/external dynamic of revolutionary movements in the hemisphere.

256. Comparative Slavery. Fall 1989. MR. WELLS.

This survey will examine the comparative evolution of slavery from ancient times through the nineteenth century. After a careful consideration of a number of reference points from the Old World—Ancient Greece, Rome, and Christianity—the bulk of the course will investigate slavery in Latin America and the United States. The topics to be discussed include: what is slavery?; slavery, power, and the legal process; the slave trade; the family; religion; rebellions and everyday forms of resistance; and abolition and its aftermath.

§258. Latin American Revolutions. Spring 1990. MR. WELLS.

This course will examine revolutionary change in Latin America from a historical perspective. It will concentrate on two successful revolutions, those of Cuba and Nicaragua, and one case of thwarted revolutionary action, in Chile. Popular images and orthodox interpretations will be challenged and new propositions about these processes will be tested. External and internal dimensions of each movement will be analyzed, and each revolution will be discussed in the full context of the country's historical development.

[§261. Precolonial Africa: An Introduction to African History.]

An introduction to African family, social, and political organization before the advent of colonialism which will explore the roots and complexities of Africa's present economic underdevelopment. Topics will include economic organization in non-capitalist societies, the empires of the ancient Sudan, politics and trade, the slave trade, and European contacts with Africa before colonialism. Recommended for freshmen and other beginning African history students.

§262. Colonialism in Africa. Spring 1991. MR. STAKEMAN.

Selected topics in the history of Africa since European colonization, including Africa on the eve of colonization, African participation in the advent of colonialism, the economic roots of colonialism, the establishment of colonial rule, African resistance to colonial rule, colonial administration, the emergence of new African political elites, the colonial economy, religious reactions to colonialism, the growth of political nationalism, violence as a political process, decolonization, the concept of underdevelopment, and assessments of colonial experience.

§263. Africa since Independence. Fall 1989. MR. STAKEMAN.

An examination of Africa during the turbulent period since independence. Examines African political stability and instability, problems of development, the colonial legacy, urbanization, the transformation of the family and the creation of new social roles. Particular attention will be paid to the changing economic and social roles of women.

§264. Islam in Africa. Fall 1990. MR. STAKEMAN.

This course will focus on Islam as a theological system and as an ideology which orders social relations in African societies. The course will place particular emphasis on the role of women in African Islamic societies. Other topics include Islamic diasporas in Africa, the syncretization of African and Islamic beliefs, Islamic minorities in non-Islamic societies, Islam and underdevelopment, and Islam in the modern world.

§265. The Political Economy of Southern Africa. Fall 1989.

MR. STAKEMAN.

The racial turmoil in southern Africa has been a matter of global concern for some years. This is an introduction to the political and economic processes that have shaped black-white relations in the region and an examination of the international implications of continued unrest.

§270. Chinese Thought in the Classical Period. Spring 1990.

MR. SMITH.

An introduction to the competing schools of Chinese thought in the time of Confucius and his successors. Lectures provide background in the developments of Chou dynasty society (c. 1032-256 B.C.), but most work takes place in conference discussions of the philosophers' original texts and in a series of related short papers. (Same as Asian Studies 270.)

§272. The T'ang. Fall 1991. MR. SMITH.

History of China during the T'ang dynasty (609-916). Multidisciplinary investigation of reunification, state-building, and expansion; the rise of schools of Chinese Buddhism; and elite culture, including shih poetry. (Same as Asian Studies 272 ).

§274. Chinese Society in the Ch'ing. Fall 1989. MR. SMITH.

An introduction to premodern China, focusing on the first half of the Ch'ing dynasty (1644-1911). Discussion of societal relations and their justifications: state organization, human interaction, ideology. Culminates in a day-long simulation of elite society in the eighteenth century, with students taking roles from merchant and local gentry to magistrate and emperor. (Same as Asian Studies 274. )

§275. Modern China. Fall 1990. MR. SMITH.

An introduction to the history of China from 1840 to the present. Studies the confrontation with western imperialism, the fall of empire, the Republican period and the Peoples' Republic. (Same as Asian Studies 275.)

§278. The Foundations of Tokugawa Japan. Spring 1991. MR. SMITH.

Addresses problems in the creation and early development of Tokugawa (1600-1868) state and society: the transformation of samurai from professional warriors to professional bureaucrats, the Confucian challenges to Buddhism, and the unanticipated growth of a quasi-autonomous culture. (Same as Asian Studies 278.)

§281. The Portuguese Colonial Empire, 1415-circa 1800. Fall 1989.

MR. DE SILVA.

A broad survey of the evolution of Portuguese colonial history in the early modern era. The interactions of war and trade, religious conversion and political dominance will be explored to analyze the nature of colonialism in the pre-industrial age. The course will concentrate on Portuguese activities in Brazil and in the Indian Ocean littoral, though the impact on West Asia and on East Asia will not be ignored. (Same as Asian Studies 251.)

§282. Colonialism and Nationalism in Southeast Asia, 1600 to the Present.

Fall 1989. MR. DE SILVA.

An introductory course which will deal with the impact of colonialism in different parts of Southeast Asia and the indigenous reaction to the Western impact. Special attention will be paid to Indonesia, Burma, Vietnam, and the Philippines. (Same as Asian Studies 252.)

§283. South Asia since Independence. Spring 1990. MR. DE SILVA.

This analysis of the problems that have confronted South Asia since independence will concentrate on problems relating to political stability, ethnic conflict, economic development, social transformation, and interstate relations. The course will concentrate on India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka. (Same as Asian Studies 253.)

§284. The History of Asian Commerce up to 1800. Spring 1990.

MR. DE SILVA.

This course will deal with the evolution of trade in Euro-Asia in early times, but the emphasis will be on developments in the period 1400-1800. While attention will be paid to the nature of products traded in and the evolution of commercial organizations, the course will include attempts to analyze the role of trade in the exchange of ideas and to link developments in trade with contemporary religious and political trends. (Same as Asian Studies 254.)

Problems Courses

Courses 300 through 373 involve the close investigation of certain aspects of the areas and periods represented. Following a reading in and a critical discussion of representative primary and secondary sources, students develop specialized aspects as research projects, culminating in oral presentations and written essays. Adequate background is assumed, the extent of it depending on whether these courses build upon introductory courses found elsewhere in the history curriculum. Enrollment in these courses requires the consent of the instructor. Majors in fields other than history are encouraged to consider these seminars.

Problems in Early European History.

300. The Social Values of the Humanists. Fall 1989. MR. NYHUS.

A study of social change and crisis in Renaissance societies, especially Italy and Germany, and the humanist perception of these changes.

Problems in Modern European History.

310. The Stalin Era. Fall 1990. MR. KARL.

Investigates the Stalinist dictatorship from its formation in the 1920s to its apogee and demise after World War II. Preference given to seniors and juniors in that order.

311. Nazi Germany. Fall 1991. MR. KARL.

A research seminar, with a major research project and paper. Preference given to seniors and those with History 215, or equivalent.

Problems in British History.

312. Literature and Society in Fin-de-Siècle Europe. Spring 1990.

MR. BECK.

French and German novels will be used to provide insight into the social problems, intellectual concerns, and political conflicts of the Third Republic and the German Empire. The first part of the course will be used to study the historical background in detail to prepare participants for the analysis of late nineteenth-century novels in the second half. Writers discussed are Fontane, Heinrich and Thomas Mann, Maupassant, Martin du Gard, and Paul Bourget.

320. The English Revolution. Spring 1991. MR. HOWELL.

The English revolution of the seventeenth century with particular attention to conflicting models of the causes and course, the conflict between the search for order and left-wing demands for reform, and the place of the revolution within the context of the European revolutionary tradition.

321. Britain in the Twentieth Century. Spring 1990. MR. HOWELL.

A research seminar on the changing condition of Britain since 1914. Particular emphasis on changing conceptions of the role of the state, the process of loss of empire, the Irish problem, stresses within contemporary British society, and the cultural response to changing conditions.

322. Elizabethan England. Spring 1992. MR. HOWELL.

A research seminar on Elizabethan England. Particular emphasis on the social and economic backgrounds to political and cultural developments.

Problems in American History.*330. Radicalism in Twentieth-Century America. Fall 1990. MR. LEVINE.

Starts with the "Lyrical Left" before World War I, but concentrates on the "Left" between the wars, the fate of that "Left" and the growth of a "New Left." Includes study of the Communist Party, various sorts of socialism, the "New York Intellectuals," the "Non-Stalinist Left," the shifting views of many radicals from criticism to support of the U.S. in the 1940s and 1950s. Growth of a new sort of radicalism during the Civil Rights Movement and the anti-Vietnam War Movement.

331. A History of Women's Voices in America. Spring 1990.

MS. MCMAHON.

An examination of women's voices in American history: private letters, journals, and autobiographies; short stories and novels; advice literature; essays and addresses. Research topics focus on the content and form of the writing as it illuminates women's responses to their historical situation.

Prerequisite: History 246 or 248 or consent of the instructor.

332. Community in America, 1600-1900. Fall 1990. Ms. McMAHON.

An examination of the ideals of community in American history and the social, economic, and cultural realities of community experience, searching for both change and continuity from the seventeenth through the nineteenth centuries. We will study the formation of new communities on a frontier that begins along the Atlantic seaboard and then moves westward across the continent; the attempts to create alternative communities either separate from, or contained within, established communities; and the changing face of community that accompanied expansion, urbanization, and suburbanization.

334. Research in Twentieth-Century Afro-American History.

Fall 1989. MR. LEVINE.

Bowdoin has recently acquired extensive source collections on this subject: papers of the Congress of Racial Equality of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee, White House Central Files of Civil Rights during the Kennedy and Johnson Administration, F.B.I. surveillance records, and much more. This seminar will involve research centering on this material.

Prerequisites: Any course in twentieth-century U.S. history. Preference will be given to students with previous background in Afro-American history. (Same as Afro-American Studies 334.)

§335. The Afro-American Critique of America. Spring 1991. MR. STAKEMAN.

Afro-Americans have had to confront American racism for three centuries. Their perceptions of America, the "Negro problem," and strategies for the improvement of black life have spanned the radical/liberal/conservative political spectrum. This course will ask students to read and analyze the writings of black intellectual activists including black abolitionists (Frederick Douglass), black progressives (Booker T. Washington, W.E.B. Du Bois, Marcus Garvey), literary activists (James Weldon Johnson, Langston Hughes, Zora Neale Hurston), civil rights era activists (Martin Luther King, Malcolm X, the Black Panther Party), and post-civil rights theorists (Manning Marable and Thomas Sowell).

Problems in Latin American History.*§350. Economic Theory and the Problem of Underdevelopment in Latin America. Fall 1990. MR. WELLS.

The first part of this seminar will examine economic theories that historically have been advanced to explain the process of development (and underdevelopment) in Latin America. In the latter portion of the course, students will test these theories by applying them to a specific economic problem currently facing Latin America.

Prerequisite: History 252 and/or History 255.

§351. The Mexican Revolution. Spring 1991. MR. WELLS.

An examination of the Mexican Revolution (1910-1920) and its impact on modern Mexican society. Topics to be explored: the role of state formation since the Revolution; agrarian reform; U.S.-Mexican relations; the debt crisis; and immigration and other "border" issues.

Prerequisite: History 252 and/or History 255.

§352. Land and Labor in Latin America. Spring 1990. MR. WELLS.

This seminar will be co-taught with Dr. John Chasteen, History Department, Bates College, and is open to students from Bowdoin and Bates. It will examine some of the most significant conceptual problems related to Latin American agrarian history. Topics include: pre-Columbian land and labor patterns; haciendas and plantations; slavery, debt peonage and other forms of coerced labor; and the role of family elite networks throughout Latin America.

Prerequisite: History 252 and/or History 255.

Problems in African History.

§360. Social Issues in African Literature. Spring 1990. MR. STAKEMAN.

This semester the course will focus on the images of women in African literature. During the colonial and post-colonial periods, Africa developed an important, innovative, and varied literature that expresses the concerns of its authors in imaginative and often strikingly beautiful ways. An examination of this literature from the viewpoints of history, sociology, and politics rather than that of literary analysis. Literary criticism as well as plays, poetry, short stories, and novels are read.

Problems in Asian History.

§370. Problems in Chinese History. Every fall. MR. SMITH.

This course has three purposes: To review the whole of Chinese history, to learn research methods, and to write a substantial research paper. (Same as Asian Studies 370.)

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

400. Advanced Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

451, 452. Honors Seminar. Every year. THE DEPARTMENT.

Interdisciplinary Courses

Interdisciplinary courses such as the two examples below offer students an opportunity to consider topics of interest to several departments from their disciplinary perspectives. Inquiries about the relation of these courses to a major program should be addressed to the appropriate department.

[Afro-American Studies 51. Myth and Heroic Epic of Africa.]

German 52. Myth and Heroic Epic of Europe. Spring 1991. MR. HODGE.
See page 151.

Interdisciplinary Majors

A student may, with the approval of the departments concerned and the Recording Committee, design an interdisciplinary major to meet an individual, cultural, or professional objective.

Bowdoin has eight interdisciplinary major programs that do not require the approval of the Recording Committee because the departments concerned have formalized their requirements. They are in art history and archaeology, art history and religion, chemical physics, English and English history, geology and chemistry, geology and physics, mathematics and computer science, and mathematics and economics. A student wishing to pursue one of these majors needs the approval of the departments concerned.

Art History and Archaeology

Requirements:

1) Art 101, 212, 222, and one of Art 302 through 388; Archaeology 101, 102, and any three additional archaeology courses, at least one of which must be at the 300 level.

2) Any two art courses numbered 10 through 388.

3) One of the following: Classics 51, 290 (Independent Study in Ancient History); History 201; Philosophy 111; Religion 240.

4) Either Art 400 or Classics 400 (Independent Study in Archaeology).

Art History and Religion

Requirements: Art 101, 110; Religion 101, 102. It is strongly recommended that Art History 101 and Religion 101 be taken before the end of the sophomore year. Art History 110 and Religion 102 should also be taken as early as possible. No other introductory course (10-199) in either department will count toward the major. Three more courses at the intermediate or advanced level must be taken in each department. At least one, but not more than two, must be an independent study with an interdisciplinary emphasis.

Also required are four appropriately distributed courses outside of the art history and religion departments. Recommended are courses in studio art, philosophy of art, history, literature, or a science.

Within this framework the student will design his or her own major in consultation with an adviser from each department.

Chemical Physics

Requirements:

1) Chemistry 101, 102, or Chemistry 109, Chemistry 251; Mathematics 161, 171, and 181 or 223; Physics 103, 227, 300.

2) Either Chemistry 252 or Physics 310.

3) Three courses from Chemistry 252, 332, 335, 340, 350, 401, 402; Physics 223, 229, 310, 320, 350, 451, 452. At least two of these must be below the 400 level.

4) A working knowledge of computer language; this may be satisfied by Computer Science 101, Mathematics 244, or demonstrated competence.

Computer Science and Mathematics

Requirements:

- 1) Six courses in computer science as follows: Computer Science 101, 102, 220, and 231, and two electives numbered 250 or above.
- 2) The course Mathematics 289, which is cross-listed as Computer Science 289.
- 3) Six courses in mathematics as follows: Mathematics 181, 222, 225, and 228, and two electives from among Mathematics 244, 249, 262, and 288.

English and English History

Requirements:

History 220 and two courses from History 221, 222, 223; English 101, 102, and a Shakespeare course (either English 210, 211, or a freshman seminar).

Four electives to be taken from offerings in the History and English departments or in a department where an appropriate course may be given. At least one of the electives must be an advanced seminar in either department or an honors project. Students undertaking an honors project must enroll in the Honors Seminar (English/English History 451, 452).

The combination of required courses and electives must be approved by the advisory committee on the basis that it reflects an appropriate concentration, either thematic or chronological.

Students in the major are encouraged to take advantage of approved study away opportunities. Course selection on study away programs must be approved by the advisory committee; in conjunction with the program, a limited number of places is reserved at King Alfred's College, Winchester.

English/English History, 451, 452. Honors Seminar. Every year. THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Geology and Chemistry

Requirements:

- 1) Chemistry 101 and 102, or Chemistry 109.
- 2) Four courses from the following: Chemistry 210, 225, 226, 240, 251, and approved advanced courses.
- 3) Geology 101, 102, and 201.
- 4) Three courses from the following: Geology 211, 221, 222, 241, 256, 262, 265, 278, and 280.
- 5) Physics 103 and Mathematics 161 and 171.

There are many different accents and student can give to this major, depending on his or her interests. For this reason, the student should consult with the Departments of Geology and Chemistry in selecting electives.

Geology and Physics

Requirements:

- 1) Chemistry 101, 102; Geology 101, 102, 241, 262; Mathematics 161, 171; Physics 103, 223, 227.
- 2) Either Physics 255 or 300.
- 3) Two additional courses in geology and/or physics.

Mathematics and Economics

Requirements:

- 1) Seven courses in mathematics as follows: Mathematics 181; Mathematics 222, 225, 249, 265; either Computer Science 101 or Mathematics 205 or 244; either 223, 263, or 304.
- 2) Six courses in economics as follows: Economics 101, 102, 255, 256, 316, and one other 300 level course.

Latin American StudiesCoordinated by the Committee on Latin American Studies*

Latin American Studies is an integrated interdisciplinary program that explores the cultural heritage of Mesoamerica, the Caribbean, and the South American continent. This multi-disciplinary approach is complemented by a concentration in a specific discipline. Competence in Spanish (or another appropriate language with the approval of the administering committee) is required, and it is recommended that students participate in a study away program in Latin America. Upon their return, students who study away should consider an independent study course to take advantage of their recent educational experience.

The Minor in Latin American Studies consists of at least one course at Bowdoin beyond the intermediate level in Spanish, History 255 (Modern Latin American History), and three additional courses, two of which must be outside the student's major department. Independent studies can meet requirements for the minor only with the approval by the Latin American Studies Committee of a written prospectus of the independent study.

The Latin American studies courses below may also be used to formulate a student-designed major:

Mathematics

PROFESSOR JOHNSON, Chair; PROFESSORS BARKER, GROBE, AND WARD; ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR FISK; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS JAFARI, ONG, SHARPE, ROBERTS, AND WOOD

Requirements for the Major in Mathematics: A major consists of at least eight courses numbered 200 or above, including at least one of the following: Mathematics 262, 263, 286, or a course numbered in the 300s.

A student must submit a major program to the department at the time that he or she declares a major. That program should include courses in which the emphasis is primarily theoretical and courses in which applications are stressed. A student's major program may be changed later with the approval of the departmental adviser.

All majors should take basic courses in algebra (e.g., Mathematics 222 or 262) and in analysis (e.g., Mathematics 223 or 263). The department also encourages all majors to complete at least one sequence in a specific area of mathematics. Those areas are: algebra (Mathematics 222, 262, and 302); analysis (Mathematics 243, 263, and 303); applied mathematics (Mathematics 224, 264, and 304); probability and statistics (Mathematics 225, 265, and 305); and geometry/topology (Mathematics 247, 286, and 287). In exceptional circumstances, a student may substitute a quantitative course from another department for one of the eight mathematics courses required for the major. Such a substitution must be approved in advance by the department.

Majors who have demonstrated that they are capable of intensive advanced work are encouraged to undertake independent study projects. With the prior approval of the department, such a project counts toward the major requirement and may, in exceptional cases, lead to graduation with honors in mathematics.

Requirements for the Minor in Mathematics: A minor in mathematics consists of a minimum of four courses numbered 200 or above, at least one of which must be Mathematics 243, 247, or any mathematics course numbered 262 or above.

Interdisciplinary Majors: The department participates in interdisciplinary programs in mathematics and economics and in computer science and mathematics. See pages 175-176.

Listed below are some of the courses recommended to students contemplating various options in mathematics.

For secondary-school teaching: Computer Science 101, Mathematics 222, 225, 242, 247, 262, 263, 288.

For graduate study: Mathematics 222, 223, 243, 262, 263, 286, and at least one course numbered in the 300s.

For engineering, operations research, and applied mathematics: Mathematics 223, 224, 225, 243, 244, 248, 249, 264, 265, 288, 304, 305.

For mathematical economics and econometrics: Mathematics 222, 223 or 263, 225, 244, 248, 249, 265, 288, 305, and Economics 316.

For computer science: Computer Science 101, Mathematics 222, 225, 228, 244, 248, 249, 262, 265, 288, 289.

50. Topics in Mathematics. Every spring. THE DEPARTMENT.

This course is designed for students who wish to learn something about the spirit of modern mathematics and who do not plan to take other mathematics courses. The emphasis is on the history and origins of mathematical problems; the development of the ideas, language, and symbolism needed to deal with those problems; and the ramifications and applications of the theory to current quantitative problems in a variety of disciplines. Topics are chosen from geometry, number theory, probability, game theory and optimization, graph theory, topology, and computing.

60. Introduction to College Mathematics. Every fall. MRS. ROBERTS.

Material selected from the following topics: combinatorics, probability, modern algebra, logic, linear programming, and computer programming. This course, followed by Mathematics 161, is intended as a one-year introduction to mathematics and is recommended for those students who intend to take only one year of college mathematics.

75. An Introduction to Statistics and Data Analysis. Every other spring. Spring 1990. MRS. ROBERTS.

Students will learn to draw conclusions from data using exploratory data analysis and statistical techniques. Examples will be drawn primarily from the life sciences. The course will include topics from exploratory data analysis, the planning and design of experiments, the analysis of normal measurements, and non-parametric inference. The computer will be used extensively.

Open to students whose secondary school background has included at least three years of mathematics. Not open to students who have taken a college level statistics course (such as Psychology 250 or Economics 257).

161. Differential and Integral Calculus I. Every semester.

THE DEPARTMENT.

An introduction to limits; the derivatives of rational functions and trigonometric functions; rules for differentiation; applications of differentiation to rates of change, curve sketching, extremal problems and linear motion; introduction to integration and integration by substitution; the Fundamental Theorem of Calculus; applications of integration to the calculation of areas, volumes, arc length, and work.

Mathematics 161 may be taken as either a lecture or a self-paced course in the fall semester, but only as a self-paced course in the spring semester.

Open to students whose secondary school background has included at least three years of mathematics.

171. Differential and Integral Calculus II. Every semester.

THE DEPARTMENT.

The natural logarithm and exponential functions; an introduction to first-order differential equations; the inverse trigonometric functions; techniques of integration and numerical integration; improper integrals and l'Hôpital's Rule; infinite sequences and series; convergence tests; power series and Taylor series.

Mathematics 171 may be taken as either a lecture or a self-paced course.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 161 or equivalent.

172. Differential and Integral Calculus II, Advanced Section. Every fall.

MR. GROBE.

Improper integrals and l'Hôpital's Rule; infinite sequences and series; convergence tests; power series and Taylor series; complex numbers; separable differential equations; first and second order constant coefficient linear differential equations; applications.

Open to students whose backgrounds include the equivalent of Mathematics 161 and the first half of Mathematics 171.

181. Multivariate Calculus with Linear Algebra. Every semester.

THE DEPARTMENT.

Multivariate calculus in two and three dimensions, and an introduction to linear algebra. The calculus topics include: vector geometry and the calculus of curves; differentiation; the partial derivatives of real-valued functions, the gradient, directional derivatives, approximations using the tangent plane, and applications to extremal problems; multiple integration in two and three dimensions. The linear algebra topics include: an introduction to vector spaces, inner products, crossed products, matrix algebra, and Gaussian elimination. Applications from the physical and the social sciences are discussed as time permits.

Mathematics 181 may be taken as either a lecture or a self-paced course.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 171 or equivalent.

205. Applied Multivariate Statistics. Spring 1991. MR. FISK.

An introduction to the techniques of applied multivariate analysis based on matrix algebra and the multivariate normal distribution. Techniques to be discussed may include discriminant analysis, principal components, factor analysis, canonical correlations, multidimensional scaling, classification trees, and graphic techniques. These techniques are useful in many disciplines such as biology, psychology, and sociology. Students will learn how to run and interpret the output from SPSS, BMDP, S, and other statistical packages.

Prerequisites: Mathematics 181 and a college-level statistics course.

222. Linear Algebra. Every year in alternate semesters. Spring 1990.

MR. GROBE.

Topics include vectors, matrices, determinants, vector spaces, inner product spaces, linear transformations, eigenvalues and eigenvectors, and quadratic forms. Applications to linear equations, conics, quadric surfaces, and n-dimensional geometry.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181 or consent of the instructor.

223. Vector Calculus. Every year in alternate semesters. Fall 1989.

MR. JAFARI.

The basic concepts of multivariate and vector calculus. Topics include continuity; the derivative as best affine approximation; the chain rule; Taylor's theorem and applications to optimization; Lagrange multipliers; linear transformations and Jacobians; multiple integration and change of variables; line and surface integration; gradient, divergence, and curl; conservative vector fields; integral theorems of Green, Gauss, and Stokes. Applications from economics and the physical sciences are discussed as time permits.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181.

224. Applied Mathematics I. Every year in alternate semesters. Fall 1989.

MR. ONG.

An introduction to the theory of ordinary differential equations with diverse applications to problems arising in the natural and social sciences. Emphasis is placed upon the rigorous development of the different methods of solution. Topics include first-, second-, and higher-order equations with applications in qualitative stability and oscillation theory, Laplace transforms, series solutions, and the existence and uniqueness theorems. A few numerical methods sporadically introduced during the course. Knowledge of BASIC, FORTRAN, or PASCAL is helpful.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181 or concurrent registration in 181.

225. Probability. Every fall. MRS. ROBERTS.

A study of the mathematical models used to formalize non-deterministic or "chance" phenomena. General topics include combinatorial models, probability spaces, conditional probability, discrete and continuous random variables, independence and expected values. Specific probability densities such as the binomial, Poisson, exponential, and normal will be discussed in depth.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181.

- 228. Discrete Mathematical Structures. Every spring. THE DEPARTMENT.
An introduction to logic, reasoning, and the discrete mathematical structures which are important in computer science. Topics include propositional logic, types of proof, induction and recursion, sets, counting, functions and relations, graphs, and program correctness.
Prerequisite: Any mathematics course numbered 60 or above, or consent of the instructor.
- 242. Number Theory. Every other fall. Fall 1990. MR. JOHNSON.
A standard course in elementary number theory which traces the historical development and includes the major contributions of Euclid, Fermat, Euler, Gauss, and Dirichlet. Prime numbers, factorization, and number-theoretic functions. Perfect numbers and Mersenne primes. Fermat's theorem and its consequences. Congruences and the law of quadratic reciprocity. The problem of unique factorization in various number systems. Integer solutions to algebraic equations. Primes in arithmetic progressions. An effort is made to collect along the way a list of unsolved problems.
- 243. Functions of a Complex Variable. Every other fall. Fall 1989.
MR. GROBE.
The differential and integral calculus of functions of a complex variable. Cauchy's theorem and Cauchy's integral formula, power series, singularities, Taylor's theorem, Laurent's theorem, and the residue calculus, harmonic functions, and conformal mapping.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 181 or consent of the instructor.
- 244. Numerical Analysis. Every year in alternate semesters. Spring 1990.
THE DEPARTMENT.
An introduction to the numerical solutions of mathematical problems. Topics include computational aspects of linear algebra, approximation theory, numerical differentiation and integration, and numerical methods for differential equations. Students are required to develop computer software for the topics covered; therefore, previous exposure to computer programming is useful. An extra hour of instruction in FORTRAN will be scheduled each week for students without prior exposure to this programming language.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 181, 222, or consent of the instructor.
- 247. Geometry. Every other fall. Fall 1989. MR. FISK.
A survey of classical Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometry. Neutral geometry: the common ground of both Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometry. Parallel postulates. Hyperbolic and elliptic geometry.
Prerequisite: Mathematics 181 or consent of the instructor.
- 248. Nonnumeric Algorithms. Fall 1990. MR. FISK.
The mathematical theory of nonnumeric algorithms. Sorting and searching, worst case analysis of algorithms, graph theory algorithms, and algorithms for parallel computers. Students are required to program and run short computer programs.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181, Computer Science 101, or consent of the instructor.

- 249. Linear Programming and Optimization. Every other fall. Fall 1990. MR. JOHNSON.

A survey of some of the mathematical techniques for optimizing various quantities, many of which arise naturally in economics and, more generally, in competitive situations. Production problems, resource allocation problems, transportation problems, and the theory of network flows. Game theory and strategies for matrix games. The emphasis is on convex and linear programming methods, but other nonlinear optimization techniques are presented. The course includes computer demonstrations of many of the techniques that are discussed.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181.

- 262. Introduction to Algebraic Structures. Every year in alternate semesters. Fall 1989. MR. BARKER.

A study of the basic arithmetic and algebraic structure of the common number systems, polynomials, and matrices. Axioms for groups, rings, and fields, and an investigation into general abstract systems which satisfy certain arithmetic axioms. Properties of mappings which preserve algebraic structure.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 222, or Mathematics 181 and consent of the instructor.

- 263. Introduction to Analysis. Every year in alternate semesters. Spring 1990. MR. BARKER.

An introduction to the theory of functions of one real variable. A major goal is the rigorous development of the foundations of calculus. Topics include the completeness and topological properties of the real numbers, metric spaces, sequences, continuity, uniform continuity, differentiability, and Riemann integration. Additional topics may be chosen from the following: series convergence, uniform convergence, Taylor series, and properties of transcendental functions. The course also serves as an introduction to rigorous mathematical proof.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 171.

- 264. Applied Mathematics II. Every other spring. Spring 1990. MR. ONG.

A continuation of Mathematics 224 and an introduction to dynamical systems. Topics include series solutions and special functions, the applications of linear algebra and vector analysis to the solutions of systems of first-order linear differential equations, stability of linear systems, Green's functions and inhomogeneous equations, non-linear equations with emphasis on stability of equilibria, perturbation theory, chaos theory, and a few numerical methods. Knowledge of a programming language is helpful.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 224.

265. Statistics. Every spring. MRS. ROBERTS.

An introduction to the fundamentals of mathematical statistics. General topics include likelihood methods, point and interval estimation, and tests of significance. Applications include inference about binomial, Poisson, exponential models, frequency data, and analysis of normal measurements.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181 and 225.

286. Topology. Every other spring. Spring 1991. MR. WOOD.

An introduction to both point-set and geometric topology centered on the fundamental notion of topological space and continuous function. Topics include fundamentals of point-set topology with special emphasis on homeomorphisms, compactness, connectedness, and separation. Geometric applications include fixed-point theorems, surfaces, covering spaces, the Jordan curve theorem, and an introduction to knots and links.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 263 or consent of the instructor.

287. Advanced Topics in Geometry. Every other spring. Spring 1990.

MR. FISK.

One or more selected topics from classical geometry, projective geometry, algebraic geometry, or differential geometry.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 247.

288. Combinatorics and Graph Theory. Every other spring. Spring 1991.

MR. FISK.

An introduction to combinatorics and graph theory. Topics to be covered may include enumeration, matching theory, generating functions, and partially ordered sets. Applications cover Latin squares, designs, computer science, and graph algorithms.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 171.

289. Theory of Computation. Every other fall. Fall 1989. MR. JOHNSON.

The theoretical principles that underlie formal languages, automata, computability, and computational complexity. Topics include regular and context-free languages, finite and pushdown automata, Turing machines, Church's thesis, Gödel numbering, and unsolvability.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 228 or consent of the instructor.

302. Advanced Topics in Algebra. Every other spring. Spring 1990.

MR. JOHNSON.

One or more specialized topics from abstract algebra and its applications.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 262, or Mathematics 222 and consent of the instructor.

303. Advanced Topics in Analysis. Every other spring. Spring 1991.

MR. BARKER.

One or more selected topics from analysis. Topics may be chosen from Lebesgue integration, general measure and integration theory, Fourier analysis, Hilbert and Banach space theory, and spectral theory.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 263.

- 304. Advanced Topics in Applied Mathematics. Every other fall. Fall 1990. MR. ONG.

One or more selected topics in applied mathematics. Material selected from the following: Fourier series, partial differential equations, integral equations, calculus of variations, bifurcation theory, asymptotic analysis, applied functional analysis, and topics in mathematical physics.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 264.

- 305. Advanced Topics in Probability and Statistics. Every other fall. Fall 1989. MRS. ROBERTS.

One or more specialized topics from probability and statistics. The fall 1989 course focuses on regression analysis, dealing with both the theoretical and the practical aspects of normal linear models. Emphasis is on the mathematical derivation of the distribution theory. (The course should complement material covered in Economics 316.)

Prerequisites: Mathematics 265.

- 290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

- 400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Music

PROFESSOR SCHWARTZ, Chair (fall semester);

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR GREENLEE, Chair (spring semester);

ASSISTANT PROFESSORS GIRDHAM, MCCALLA, AND SMITH;

MS. BLANCHARD, Director of the Chamber Choir (fall semester)

Requirements for the Major in Music: Music 101, 102, 201, 202; Music 301, 302; one “topics” course (either Music 351 or 361), one year of ensemble performance studies, and two elective courses in music.

Requirements for the Minor in Music: Music 50, 101, 102, and two additional semester courses in music.

- 50. Introduction to Music. Fall 1989. MR. SCHWARTZ.

For students with little or no previous training in music. Ability to read music or to play an instrument is not necessary. The essentials of music—sound and time—are studied as they have been used in different periods and in the context of musical forms. Listening materials are drawn from a variety of sources: early Western music, Western music from the Baroque through Romantic eras, and twentieth-century music.

The sequence Music 101, 50 is recommended for the student desiring a broad, comprehensive introduction to the field of music.

§100. World Music. Fall 1989. Ms. SMITH.

Survey of the music of selected areas including Africa, Western Europe, North America, and the Caribbean. Study will include: 1) historical, social, and cultural context, 2) theoretical systems, form, and aesthetics, 3) major representative musical and dance genres. Emphasis will be placed upon the wide variety of possibilities for structuring music sound and the different cultural ideas and aesthetics that are brought to bear in this process.

101. Theory I: Fundamentals of Music Theory. Every fall. Fall 1989.

MR. McCALLA.

For students with little or no previous training in music. A study of the organized systems underlying Western music: beats, meter, and rhythm; pitches, intervals, scales, chords, and keys; an introduction to chromaticism, modulation, and simple tonal forms. Training in aural competence, keyboard applications, and development of fluency in reading and writing musical notation area stressed. Three class hours plus one hour weekly in musicianship skills laboratory.

102. Theory II: Diatonic and Chromatic Harmony. Every spring.

Spring 1990. MR. McCALLA.

Study of diatonic and chromatic harmony and of large-scale tonal forms, emphasizing analysis of music from the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Ear training, sight singing, dictation, and keyboard harmony are stressed. Three class hours plus one hour weekly in the keyboard laboratory.

Prerequisite: Music 101 or equivalent.

121. History of Jazz. Fall 1989. MR. McCALLA.

A survey of jazz from its Afro-American roots in the late nineteenth century to the present. Emphasis on musical characteristics—styles, forms, types of ensemble, important performers—with some attention to the cultural and social position of jazz in this country and its interaction with other musics.

124. Postmodernism in the Arts. Fall 1989.

MR. SCHWARTZ AND MR. LUTCHMANSINGH.

A study of developments in music and the visual arts since 1945. Among its specific historical and cultural concerns will be (1) the breakdown of traditional categories and genres, often making it difficult to define a given experience or work as “music,” “theater,” “sculpture,” etc.; 2) the reciprocal influence of non-Western and Euro-American cultures; 3) the impact of technology, especially on artists’ materials and working methods, and the listener’s/viewer’s perceptions; and 4) different artistic approaches to “history,” using collage, quotation, or anachronistic time-warping style juxtaposition. The material to be studied will include music illustrating Serialist, Minimalist, “Collage,” and Neo-Romantic styles, non-architecture, American New Image Painting, German and Italian New Expressionism, Photo-realism, Minimalist and Conceptual art, and Performance and Video.

Prerequisites: One course in music or art history. (Same as Art 60.)

- 125. Music and Society during the Renaissance. Spring 1990. MESSRS. GREENLEE AND NYHUS.

This analysis of music and society focuses on the inter-relationships between music and the church, class structure and social values, and on the differing concepts of the Renaissance in historical and musicological literature.

[131, 132. Topics in Music History and Literature.]

Music 131 and 132 are topics courses in specific aspects of music history and literature, designed for students with little or no background in music. Course titles and content may change every semester.

- 201. Theory III: Theory and Analysis of Late Chromatic and Twentieth-Century Music. Every fall. Fall 1989. Ms. GIRDHAM.

Study and formal analysis of styles representing the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries, including compositions by Debussy, Ives, Mahler, Schoenberg, Hindemith, Webern, and more recent composers.

Prerequisite: Music 102.

- 202. Theory IV: Counterpoint. Every spring. Spring 1990. Need instructor. Ms. SMITH.

Practice in contrapuntal composition in sixteenth-century modal and eighteenth-century tonal styles.

Prerequisite: Music 201.

[301. Music History, Gregorian Chant to 1750.]

[302. Music History, 1750 to the Present.]

- 351. Topics in Music History: Modern Americanist Opera. Spring 1990. MR. MCCALLA.

Twentieth-century music theater in the United States has been marked by a turning away from received European traditions in subject matter and treatment and a concern with more domestic topics, musical styles, and theatrical genres. The course will examine seven operas (or music-theater works) that deal with U. S. vernacular styles, historical subjects, or both. We will consider not just the musical and theatrical aspects of these works, but also their reflection of the contemporary social context, and such issues as the relations of races, the sexes, and the individual and society.

Prerequisite: Music 102.

- 361. Topics in Music Theory. They're Playing Our Song: Music and Identity. Fall 1989. Ms. SMITH.

A study of the formation, maintenance, and articulation of group or ethnic identity through music. Drawing on music from various cultures and periods, including African, Afro-American, Breton, Irish, and late Romantic. This course will explore expressions of cultural, generational, ideological, political, and social identity in music. Students will be encouraged to consider their personal musical tastes and to introduce these to the class.

Prerequisite: Music 102.

[371. Composition.]

Performance Studies

Not more than six credits of individual performance and ensemble courses together may be taken for graduation credit. For administrative purposes, applied music and ensemble study will bear one of the course numbers 235 through 249, 251 through 288, depending on the number of semesters of such work the individual student has taken.

Instructors in 1988-1989 included Julia Adams (viola), Naydene Bowder (piano), David Libby (jazz piano), Ben Clinesmith (cello), Judith Cornell (voice), William Eves (piano), Kathy Iovieno (flute), John Johnstone (guitar), Stephen Kecskemethy (violin), Betty Barber (trumpet), Martin Perry (piano), Gerald McGee (organ), Mark Manduca (trombone), George Rubino (bass).

235-249. Individual Performance Studies. Every year.

The following provisions govern applied music for credit:

1. Necessary for admission are two music courses. These should be taken concurrently with the first two semesters of performance studies (Music 235, 236).

2. Individual performance courses are intended for the continued study of an instrument with which the student is already familiar. Students may enroll only with the consent of the department. Students must take at least two consecutive semesters of study on the same instrument to receive any credit.

Admission is by audition only. Only students who are intermediate or beyond in the development of their skills are admitted.

Beginning with the second semester of lessons, students are expected to play in a Repertory Class midway through the semester, and must participate in Juries at the end of each semester.

3. One half credit is granted for each semester of study. There must be two successive semesters of study on the same instrument.

4. The student pays a fee of $200.00 for each semester of study; this fee is waived for music majors and minors. In some cases the student may have to travel off campus to receive instruction. Instruction is offered as available on orchestral and chamber instruments for which a significant body of written literature exists. Normally, instruction is available in flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, trumpet, trombone, violin, viola, cello, harpsichord, organ, piano, guitar, and voice.

251-288. Ensemble Performance Studies. Every year.

The following provisions govern ensemble:

1. Ensemble music courses are intended to provide a student with experience in group music making. Students are admitted to an ensemble class only with the consent of the department and, for those enrolled in chamber ensembles, upon the formation of a specific chamber group.

2. One half credit is granted for each semester of study.

3. Ensembles will include at least the following: 251-258, chorale; 261-268, orchestra; 271-278, chamber choir; 281-288, chamber ensembles.

4. Grade will be credit or fail.

5. Ensembles meet regularly for a minimum of two hours weekly. Chamber ensembles are offered only as instruction is available.

6. Each ensemble will perform in public.

Neuroscience

Administered by the Committee on Neuroscience

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR ROSE, Chair

Requirements for the Major in Neuroscience:

I. Core Courses:

A. Biology Courses

Biology 101: Introductory Cell Biology.

Biology 102: Biology of Organisms and Populations.

Biology 203: Comparative Neurobiology.

B. Psychobiology Courses

Psychobiology 265: Psychobiology.

Psychobiology 245: Neuropsychology, or

Psychobiology 300: Psychopharmacology.

C. Psychology Courses

Psychology 101: Introduction to Psychology.

Psychology 270: Cognition or Psychobiology 230: Perception.

D. Chemistry Courses

Chemistry 225: Elementary Organic Chemistry.

E. Statistics/Mathematics Courses

Psychology 250: Statistical Analysis or Mathematics 70: Elementary Probability and Statistics.

II. Additional Courses Required

Two from the lists below, at least one of which is in Biology:

A. Biology

113: Genetics.

114: Comparative Physiology.

116: Developmental Biology.

151: Ethology.

204: Biochemical Endocrinology.

261: Biochemistry.

304: Topics in Biochemistry and Molecular Biology.

B. Psychobiology

200: Comparative Psychology.

230: Perception.

245: Neuropsychology.

300: Psychopharmacology.

C. Psychology

210: Developmental Psychology.

220: Atypical Child.

260. Abnormal Personality.

270: Cognition.

271: Language.

310: Clinical Psychology.

362: Infancy.

III. Recommended Courses

Physics 103: Mechanics and Matter.

Philosophy 225: The Nature of Scientific Thought.

Sociology 151: Sociology of Health and Illness.

Philosophy

PROFESSOR CORISH, Chair; PROFESSOR MCGEE;

RESEARCH PROFESSOR POLS; ASSISTANT PROFESSOR COLEMAN;

VISITING ASSISTANT PROFESSOR SIMON; VISITING INSTRUCTOR SWEET

Requirements for the Major in Philosophy: The major consists of eight courses, which must include Philosophy 111, 112, at least two other courses from the group numbered in the 200s and two from the group numbered in the 300s. The remaining two courses may be from any level.

Requirements for the Minor in Philosophy: The minor consists of four courses, which must include Philosophy 111 and 112 and one course from the group numbered in the 200s. The fourth course may be from any level.

Freshman Seminars

Enrollment is limited to sixteen for each seminar; freshmen are given first preference for the available places; sophomores are given second preference; if there are any remaining places upperclassmen may be admitted with consent of the instructor.

Topics change from time to time but are restricted in scope and make no pretense at being an introduction to the whole field of philosophy. They are in all cases topics in which contemporary debate is lively and as yet unsettled and to which contributions are being made by more than one field of learning.

[10. Mind and Body.]

11. Free Will. Spring 1991. Ms. COLEMAN.

An examination of the question whether or not we have what has traditionally been called free will. Are our actions free, or at least partly free; or are they wholly caused, or determined, in some sense that makes the notion of freedom inappropriate in descriptions of actions? Today the question is often dealt with in terms of the related concept of moral responsibility. Are we really responsible agents as our tradition tells us we are? This question then leads to a number of others. What do we mean when we say that people are responsible for their actions? Are the concepts of moral and legal responsibility of permanent human importance, or should they be replaced by concepts that are more suited to certain contemporary deterministic views of human nature? What role does reasoning play in human action? Can reasoning be understood in deterministic terms? Readings in contemporary and older materials are used as the basis for the seminar discussions.

13. Basic Problems in Philosophy. Fall 1991. Ms. COLEMAN.

In this course students will develop and formulate their own views on some of the basic problems of philosophy: What is philosophy? Are moral values absolute or relative? What is the relation between morality and religion? Are there philosophical grounds that justify religious belief? What is knowledge and how do we attain it? Is there a "highest value" that gives human life its meaning? If so, what is it? The texts used in the course are not intended as material to be learned by rote but rather as a springboard from which students will articulate their own views, while at the same time introducing them to classic texts in philosophy that have shaped Western culture.

14. Literature as Philosophy. Fall 1989, Spring 1990, and Fall 1991.

MR. MCGEE.

After a presentation of the explicitly philosophical background of the literary works to be studied, the philosophic life-attitudes expressed in them are examined to determine their adequacy as philosophy and their relevance to conduct. The literature varies from time to time but always includes one major contemporary work and one major older work.

- 15. Self and Self-Knowledge. Fall 1990 and Spring 1992. MR. CORISH.
 What is the self? What knowledge do we have of the self? Is that knowledge similar to or different from our knowledge of the world about us—that is, is knowledge of the subject similar to or different from knowledge of an object? These and other questions (e.g., personal identity, the unconscious, emotion) are discussed. Readings range from ancient (Plato, Aristotle, Augustine) to modern (Hume, Kant, perhaps Freud, Jung, the Behaviorists).
- 16. Contemporary Moral Problems. Fall 1990. MR. SIMON.
 Our society is rife with moral controversies. This course will examine a number of moral problems with two goals: 1) to encourage more systematic and analytic thinking about a number of complex and difficult moral issues; and 2) to raise questions concerning how to think about moral problems, that is, to examine how moral reasoning proceeds.
 Each semester, the problems to be studied will be drawn from a list including: abortion, suicide, euthanasia, capital punishment, affirmative action, discrimination and equal opportunity, homosexuality, human rights and civil disobedience, creationism, sociobiology, and war and nuclear deterrence.

Introductory Courses

- 51. Philosophy and Poetry. Spring 1991. MR. CORISH.
 A study of some recognized philosophical doctrines as they appear in poetry, e.g., the philosophical doctrines of Aquinas in the poetry of Dante, those of Duns Scotus in the poetry of Hopkins, the doctrine of metempsychosis in Wordsworth's Intimations of Immortality, Kantian doctrines in Coleridge, etc. Doctrines and poets considered may vary from year to year. We shall also discuss poetic techniques and expressions in philosophy, as, for example, in Parmenides and in Plato, and shall devote some considerable time to a philosophical discussion of the nature of poetry.
- 54. Introduction to Logic and Language. Fall 1989. MR. MCGEE.
 An introduction to the liberal art of critical thinking. Examines the use of language, definition, induction, deduction, argument from analogy, and informal fallacies. Stresses the application of the principles of logic to the evaluation of contemporary social and political issues.
- 58. Environmental Ethics. Fall 1989 and Fall 1990. MR. SIMON.
 The central issue in environmental ethics concerns what things in nature have moral standing and how conflicts of interest among them are to be resolved. This course will examine the ethical theories and assumptions that inform the debates over this issue and in general over how to treat the environment. Specific topics to be covered include: utilitarianism versus rights theory, the nature and justification of anthropocentrism, animal liberation and the rights of non-human sentient things, preservation of endangered species, the ethics of preserving the wilderness, the moral status of non-sentient living things, holism versus individualism, the land ethic, and attitudes towards land use. (Same as Environmental Studies 258.)

- 111. Major Philosophers of the West: Beginnings to Christianity. Fall 1989. MR. CORISH. Fall 1990. MS. COLEMAN.

The sources and prototypes of Western thought. Concentration on Plato and Aristotle, but some attention is given to the pre-Socratic philosophers who influenced them and to the Stoics and Epicureans. Medieval philosophy is more briefly considered, to show the interaction of Christianity and Greek thought.

- 112. Major Philosophers of the West: Renaissance to Idealism: Spring 1990. MR. MCGEE. Spring 1991. MR. SIMON.

Some attention is given to the philosophic grounds of the scientific revolution and to the intellectual and moral response the new scientific view of the world evoked from the philosophers. Reading in five or six of the following: Descartes, Spinoza, Leibniz, Locke, Berkeley, Hume, and Kant.

Intermediate Courses

With the exception of Philosophy 200, intermediate courses are open to all students without prerequisite.

- 200. Major Philosophers of the West: The Nineteenth Century. Fall 1990 and Fall 1992. MS. COLEMAN.

A study of tendencies in the nineteenth century that have had an important influence on contemporary thought: the situation of philosophy after Kant; the development of idealism through Fichte, Schelling, and Hegel; the decline and fall of reason from Hegel to Schopenhauer and Kierkegaard; dialectical materialism, utilitarianism, and the origins of positivism.

Prerequisite: Philosophy 112 or consent of the instructor.

- 221. Ethics. Spring 1990. MR. SWEET. Spring 1992. MS. COLEMAN.

Various types of answers to the questions, What is right for me to do? What ought to be done? and What is the good for man? are traced to their philosophic bases in historical and contemporary sources. The justification these bases provide is critically discussed, and some possible meanings of statements used to answer questions in morals are made explicit and compared.

- 222. Political Philosophy. Fall 1989 and Fall 1991. MR. SIMON.

Examines some of the major issues and concepts in political philosophy including: political obligation and consent, freedom and coercion, justice, equality, and democracy. The readings taken from classical texts (Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, Mill) as well as contemporary essays. Time permitting, additional readings focus on contemporary criticisms of liberalism.

223. Logic and Formal Systems. Spring 1990 and Spring 1992.
MR. CORISH.

An introduction to the techniques and applications of twentieth-century deductive logic. After a consideration of the traditional approach, including the syllogism, the following topics are taken up: propositions, truth-functions, quantification theory predicates, relations, natural deduction, and the properties of formal systems (consistency, completeness, etc.). No background in mathematics is presupposed.

[224. American Philosophy.]

225. The Nature of Scientific Thought. Fall 1989 and Fall 1991.
MR. CORISH.

A historical and methodological study of scientific thought as exemplified in the natural sciences. Against a historical background ranging from the beginnings of early modern science to the twentieth century, such topics as scientific inquiry, hypothesis, confirmation, scientific laws, theory, and theoretical reduction will be studied. The readings include such authors as Burt, Butterfield, Duhem, Hempel, Koyré, Kuhn, Nagel, Poincaré, Popper, Toulmin, as well as classical authors such as Galileo, Descartes, Newton, Berkeley, and Leibniz.

226. On Love. Spring 1991. MR. MCGEE.

An examination of philosophic attempts to analyze and clarify the cluster of concepts signaled by terms such as "love," "friendship," "charity," "agapè" and "fellow-feeling." Readings drawn from some of the following authors: Plato, Aristotle, St. Paul, St. Thomas, Spinoza, Schopenhauer, Nietzsche, Freud, Ortega y Gasset, and C. S. Lewis.

228. Philosophy of Psychology. Spring 1991 and Spring 1993.
MS. COLEMAN.

Philosophy of psychology is the examination of metaphysical questions concerning the way in which mental phenomena fit into a total picture of reality and of the theoretical presuppositions of empirical research in psychology. Topics include: How are mental functions related to brain states? Is perception of external objects direct or indirect? Do reasons, beliefs, desires, and purposes ever cause actions? Are all actions selfish? What is a concept? Is it an image, a set of procedures, or a list of features?

229. Philosophy of Art. Fall 1991. MS. COLEMAN.

A comparative study of the nature of meaning in poetry, music, and the visual arts. Focuses on selected major works in these three fields and, in this concrete setting, the relations between meaning and the expressive and productive (or creative) aspects of art are explored.

230. Philosophy of the Social Sciences. Fall 1990. MR. SIMON.

The central issue in the philosophy of the social sciences concerns the nature and status of the social sciences, especially in relation to the natural sciences. When we study human beings, what kind of knowledge can we have, what methods should we use to acquire this knowledge, and of what use is this knowledge? This course will focus on these questions and a set of related topics including: three perspectives on the social sciences (naturalistic, interpretive, critical), the problem of crosscultural rationality, explanation, objectivity and the status of values, and methodological individualism versus holism.

235. Philosophy of Technology. Spring 1991 and Spring 1993.

MR. SIMON.

The development of modern technology is perhaps the most crucial factor shaping life in the twentieth century. Much of our present environmental crisis is a direct result of our technological explosion. The growth, use, and abuse of technology and our increasing reliance on it raise a number of philosophical questions that are neither fully appreciated nor understood. This course will explore various of these questions including: the nature and growth of technology as a mode of addressing problems of the human condition, technology as a form of human expression and its relation to nature, views of technology as liberating versus views of technology as imprisoning, and ethical and political problems raised by questions of the control and misuse of various technologies. (Same as Environmental Studies 235.)

236. Environmental Analysis. Political Philosophy. Spring 1990 and Spring 1992. MR. SIMON.

An examination of environmental issues from the perspective of political philosophy. The tensions between collective responsibilities and individual rights, problems of collective decision-making and the formation of policy, and questions of justice and our responsibilities to others. Problems that may be addressed include energy policy, resource exhaustion, and waste disposal; agricultural policy, food policy and world hunger; acid rain; the greenhouse effect; population policy; and exploitation of oceanic resources and the pollution of the oceans. (Same as Environmental Studies 236.)

237. Existentialism. Fall 1989. MR. SWEET.

An investigation of the major themes, both philosophical and literary, which characterize the existentialist attitude. The themes examined will include: the irrationality and absurdity of human existence; the problems of human freedom and choice; responsibility and despair; and authentic versus inauthentic existence.

Advanced Courses

Although courses numbered in the 300s are advanced seminars primarily intended for majors in philosophy, adequately prepared students from other fields are also welcome. Besides the stated prerequisite, at least one of the courses from the group numbered in the 200s will also be found a helpful preparation.

300. Marx. Spring 1990. MR. SIMON.

Examines the thought of Karl Marx. The primary readings will be from Marx's major writings. Topics covered include: Marx's methodology and philosophical anthropology, alienation, exploitation, historical materialism, the theory of class and politics, and ideology. The last part of the course deals with contemporary normative debates between defenders of capitalism and communism.

331. Plato and Platonism. Spring 1990. MR. CORISH.

A study of some of the principal dialogues of Plato, drawn chiefly from his middle and later periods, followed by a study of selected material from the later history of Platonism. The instructor will select the dialogues that will be read, but topics to be studied in later Platonism and Neoplatonism will depend on the particular interests of the students.

Prerequisite: Philosophy 111 or consent of the instructor.

332. The Analytic Movement. Spring 1990. MR. SWEET.

An examination of the methods and the developments of analytical philosophy from the last decades of the nineteenth-century to the present. Topics covered include: the problem of identity; the ontological status of complexes; the problem of universals; the debate concerning non-existent objects; and the relationship between language and the world.

[333. Wittgenstein.]*334. Topics in Medieval Philosophy. Fall 1991. MR. CORISH.

An examination of some fundamental medieval views concerning man and his environment. Special attention will be paid to the Aristotelian world view as made over to Christian specifications, and to its decline in favor of the modern scientific view of man and the world.

Prerequisite: Philosophy 111 or consent of the instructor.

335. The Philosophy of Aristotle. Spring 1991. MR. CORISH.

A textual study of the basics of Aristotle's philosophy. Aristotle's relationship to Plato, his criticism of the Platonic doctrine of Forms, and Aristotle's own doctrines of substance, causation, actuality, potentiality, form, and matter are discussed. Some of the Aristotelian disciplines of logic, physics, metaphysics, psychology, and political and moral philosophy are examined in terms of detailed specific doctrines, such as that of kinds of being, the highest being, the soul, virtue, the state. Ends with a discussion of Aristotle's views of systematic research and his influence on subsequent thought.

Prerequisite: Philosophy 111 or consent of the instructor.

[336. Spinoza's Ethics.]*337. Hume. Spring 1991. MS. COLEMAN.

A critical examination of the meaning and extent of Hume's scepticism, covering his epistemology and metaphysics, moral and political philosophy, and philosophy of religion.

Prerequisites: Philosophy 112, or consent of the instructor.

338. Kant. Fall 1989. MR. SWEET. Fall 1992. MS. COLEMAN.

The Critique of Pure Reason is one of the preeminent works in the Western tradition, a rival of Plato's Republic and Aristotle's Metaphysics. It also has the unfortunate and undeserved reputation of being tortuously difficult. We shall read the book in an attempt to appreciate both its greatness and its difficulty. The primary task will be to understand Kant's project of providing a secure foundation for knowledge. We shall also consider those features of the book that caused such excitement among German Romantics and Idealists in the generation after Kant, as well as those features that have found favor in the twentieth century. The course will be a mixture of presentation and discussion.

Prerequisites: Philosophy 112, or consent of the instructor.

339. Santayana. Fall 1991. MR. MCGEE.

A detailed study of Scepticism and Animal Faith and of the one-volume edition of Realms of Being.

Prerequisites: Philosophy 112, or consent of the instructor.

340. Contemporary Ethical Theory. Spring 1993. MR. SIMON.

Important recent debates in ethics have called into question the nature and status of traditional ethical theories and the very nature of morality itself. This course will examine some of these debates through the writings of major contemporary theorists including Williams, MacIntyre, Nagel, and Rawls.

400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Physics and Astronomy

PROFESSOR EMERY, Chair; PROFESSORS HUGHES AND LACASCE;
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR TURNER; ASSISTANT PROFESSOR SYPHERS;
VISITING ASSISTANT PROFESSOR SCHMIEDESHOFF; TEACHING
ASSOCIATE ROBERTS; RESEARCH ASSOCIATE CHONACKY

Requirements for the Major in Physics: The major program in physics depends to some extent on the student's goals. These goals should be discussed with the department. Those who intend to do graduate work in physics should plan to do an honors project. For those considering a program in engineering, consult page 87. A major student with an interest in an interdisciplinary area such as geophysics, biophysics, or oceanography will choose appropriate courses in related departments. Secondary school teaching requires a broad base in science courses as well as the necessary courses for teacher certification. For a career in industrial management, some courses in economics and government should be included.

In any case, a major in physics is expected to complete Mathematics 161, 171, Physics 103, 223, 227, 228, and four more approved courses, one of which may be Mathematics 181 or above. In addition, a major is expected to have a working knowledge of a computer language. This requirement can be satisfied by Computational Physics 250, Computer Science 101, or Mathematics 244, or by demonstrated competence. For honors work a student is expected to complete Mathematics 181 or 223 and Physics 103, 223, 227, 228, 300, 310, 450, and four more courses, one of which may be in mathematics above 181. Students interested in interdisciplinary work may, with permission, substitute from other departments.

Requirements for the Minor in Physics: At least four courses numbered 103 or higher, at least one of which is from the set of Physics 223, 227, and 228.

Interdisciplinary Majors: The department participates in interdisciplinary programs in chemical physics and geology and physics. See pages 174 and 176.

Core Courses

103. Mechanics and Matter. Every semester. Fall 1988 and Spring 1989.

MR. SCHMIEDESHOFF.

The basic concepts and laws of classical mechanics with special emphasis on the conservation laws of momentum, energy, and angular momentum. Particle dynamics, including the motions of particles in gravitational, electric, and magnetic fields. A brief introduction to kinetic theory and special relativity. Three hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisite: Previous credit or concurrent registration in Mathematics 161. Enrollment is limited to students without credit for or concurrent registration in Chemistry 251. Open only to freshmen and sophomores in the fall.

223. Electric Fields and Circuits. Every spring. MR. TURNER.

The basic phenomena of the electromagnetic interaction are introduced. The basic relations are then specialized for a more detailed study of linear network theory. Laboratory work stresses the fundamentals of electronic instrumentation and measurement. Three hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisite: Physics 103 and previous credit or concurrent registration in Mathematics 171, or consent of the instructor.

227. Waves and Quanta. Every fall. Fall 1989. MR. SYPHERS.

Wave motion occurs in many areas of physics. A discussion of basic wave behavior and the principle of superposition leads to a study of wave propagation and its relationship to coherence, interference, and diffraction. The wave model of the atom provides an introduction to atomic spectra. The laboratory work provides experience with optical methods and instruments.

Prerequisite: Physics 103 and previous credit or concurrent registration in Mathematics 171, or consent of the instructor.

228. Modern Physics. Every spring. MR. EMERY.

An introduction to the basic concepts and laws of nuclear and particle physics, covering the principles of relativity and quantum theory, particle accelerators, nuclear structure and reactions, and the behavior of elementary particles. The physics of radioactivity and the biological, medical, and ecological applications of radiation are given special emphasis through weekly laboratory exercises with radioactive materials and nuclear instrumentation. Three hours of laboratory work a week.

Prerequisite: Physics 103 and previous credit or concurrent registration in Mathematics 171, or consent of the instructor.

229. Statistical Physics. Fall 1989. MR. TURNER.

Develops a framework capable of predicting the properties of systems with many particles. This framework, combined with simple atomic and molecular models, leads to an understanding of such concepts as entropy, absolute temperature, and the canonical distribution. Some probability theory will be developed as a mathematical tool.

Prerequisite: Physics 103 and previous credit or concurrent registration in Mathematics 171, or consent of the instructor.

300. Methods of Theoretical Physics. Every spring. MR. LACASCE.

Mathematics is the language of physics. Similar mathematical techniques occur in different areas of physics. A physical situation may first be expressed in mathematical terms, usually in the form of a differential or integral equation. After the formal mathematical solution is obtained, the physical conditions determine the physically viable result. Examples are drawn from heat flow, gravitational fields, and electrostatic fields.

Prerequisite: Mathematics 181 or 223, and Physics 223, 227, or 228, or consent of the instructor.

310. Atomic Physics. Every fall. Fall 1989. MR. EMERY.

An introduction to quantum theory, solutions of Schrodinger equations, and their applications to atomic systems.

Prerequisite: Physics 227 and 300.

320. Electromagnetic Theory. Every other spring. Spring 1990.

MR. LACASCE.

First the Maxwell relations are presented as a natural extension of basic experimental laws, then emphasis is given to the radiation and transmission of electromagnetic waves.

Prerequisite: Physics 223 and 300, or consent of the instructor.

350. Solid State Physics. Every other spring. Spring 1991.

The physics of solids, including crystal structure, lattice vibrations, and energy band theory.

Prerequisite: Physics 310.

370. Advanced Mechanics. Every other fall. Fall 1989. MR. TURNER.

A thorough review of particle dynamics, followed by the development of Lagrange's and Hamilton's equations and their applications to rigid body motion and the oscillations of coupled systems.

Prerequisite: Physics 300 or consent of the instructor.

450. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Programs of study are available in semiconductor physics, microfabrication, superconductivity and superfluidity, the physics of metals, general relativity, biophysics, and nuclear physics. Work done in these topics normally serves as the basis for an honors paper.

Prerequisite: Physics 310.

Adjunct Courses*62. Contemporary Astronomy. Every spring. MR. HUGHES.

A generally qualitative discussion of the nature of stars and galaxies, stellar evolution, the origin of the solar system and its properties, and the principal cosmological theories. Enrollment in this course is limited to fifty students without credit or concurrent registration in Physics 103.

63. Physics of the Twentieth Century. Every fall. MR. HUGHES.

Although the physics of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries enjoyed many great successes, there was by the end of the nineteenth century a growing awareness of the limitations of what we now call classical physics. This course traces the discovery of those limitations and the rise of modern physics. Topics discussed include the development of quantum mechanics and relativity, the origin and growth of nuclear and elementary particle physics, the rise of electronics, and those aspects of technology which have had a special relationship with physics.

Prerequisite: Ordinary secondary school mathematics. Enrollment is limited to fifty students without credit for or concurrent registration in Physics 103.

240. Digital Electronics. Every other fall. Fall 1990. MR. TURNER.

An introduction to the basic principles of binary circuits and digital electronics. Topics include Boolean algebra and logic circuitry, binary numbers and computation, memory circuits and information storage, digital/analog conversion, and circuits for timing and control. The structure of digital instruments, calculators, and computers is covered as time permits. Laboratory work with digital integrated circuits.

Prerequisite: Physics 103.

250. Topics in Physics.

Fall 1989. Computational Physics. MR. ROBERTS.

Computer calculations complement and extend the methods of calculus in modeling physical systems. Designed to introduce a number of basic computational methods useful for problems in the physical sciences and to develop some facility in their use. Some prior experience programming computers or personal computers would be helpful, but is not required.

Prerequisites: Physics 103, Mathematics 171, previous credit or concurrent registration in a 200-level physics course, or consent of the instructor.

255. Physical Oceanography. Fall 1989. MR. LACASCE.

The aim is to provide a feel for the scope of physical oceanography. Among the topics covered are tidal theory, surface and internal waves, and the heat budget and its relation to the oceanic circulation. Some attention is given to the problems of instrumentation and the techniques of measurement.

Prerequisites: Physics 103 and Mathematics 161.

260. Biophysics. Every spring. MR. HUGHES.

An introduction including discussion of the effects of ionizing radiation on cells and tissues, the application of X-ray diffraction methods to biological problems, and other modern topics. Some attention is given to historical aspects of the subject and to the development of devices such as the electron microscope.

Prerequisites: Physics 103, Chemistry 101, 102, and Mathematics 171.

262. Astrophysics. Every fall. MR. HUGHES.

A quantitative discussion which introduces the principal topics of central importance in astrophysics, including stellar structure and evolution, planetary physics, and cosmology.

Prerequisite: Physics 103.

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

Topics to be arranged by the student and the staff. If the investigations concern the teaching of physics, this course may satisfy certain of the requirements for the Maine State Teacher's Certificate.

Prerequisite: Normally, a previous course at the 200 level.

400. Advanced Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

Topics to be arranged by the student and the staff.

Prerequisite: Normally, a previous course at the 300 level.

Psychology

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR HELD, Chair; ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR ROSE, Director of the Psychobiology Program; PROFESSOR FUCHS; ASSOCIATE PROFESSORS SCHAFFNER AND SMALL; ASSISTANT PROFESSOR JOHNSON

The Department of Psychology comprises two programs: Psychology and Psychobiology. Students may elect a major within the Psychology program or they may elect an interdisciplinary major in Neuroscience, sponsored jointly by the Psychobiology program and the Biology Department (see Neuroscience description, pages 189-190). The program in Psychology examines contemporary perspectives on principles of human behavior, in areas ranging from cognition, language, and neurophysiology to interpersonal relations, psychopathology, and problem solving. Its approach emphasizes scientific methods of inquiry and analysis. The program in Psychobiology examines the interrelations among biological, psychological, and environmental factors in the study of normal and abnormal behavior.

Requirements for the Major in Psychology: The Psychology program major includes a total of nine courses numbered 100 or above. These courses are selected by students with their advisors and are subject to departmental review. The nine courses include Psychology 101, Psychology 250 (taken during the sophomore year if possible), and an advanced course numbered 300 or above. Two psychology laboratory courses numbered 260-279 must be taken after statistics, and if possible, before the senior year. At least one laboratory course must be numbered 270-279. Majors are encouraged to consider an independent study course on a library, laboratory, or field research project during the senior year. Any one or two of the following psychobiology courses may count toward the nine-course requirement for the psychology major, but not toward the laboratory or advanced course requirement: 200, 230, 245, 265, and 300.

Requirements for the Minor in Psychology: The Psychology program minor consists of five courses numbered 100 or above, including Psychology 101, Psychology 250, and one psychology laboratory course numbered 260-279. Any one of the following psychobiology courses may be included in the psychology minor: 200, 230, 245, 265, and 300.

Requirements for the Major in Neuroscience: See Neuroscience description, pages 189-190.

Students who are interested in teaching as a career should consult with the Department of Education for courses to be included in their undergraduate program. Ordinarily, students of education will find much of relevance in Psychology 52, 210, 270, 361; these courses cover the topics usually included in educational psychology. In addition, prospective teachers may find Psychology 211, 212, 220, and 271 compatible with their interests and helpful in their preparation for teaching.

Courses in Psychology

Freshman Seminar

- 10. Psychological Curiosity: Modeling Social Processes. Every other year. Spring 1990. MR. SCHAFFNER.

Elementary concepts of model building and exploration. Topics and examples are drawn from many areas of psychology and the related social sciences. Frequent written exercises provide the basis for class study of several central models in the social sciences. Individual projects combining written and oral presentations of an original model complete the term. Computer modeling is introduced, but no prior computing experience is presumed.

Introductory Courses

52. Introduction to Language. Fall 1989. Ms. JOHNSON.

What is "language" and how is language related to other forms of human behavior? This course provides an introduction to these issues from the perspective of the social and behavioral sciences, especially psychology and linguistics. Topics to be covered include a comparison of "natural" human languages with other human and animal communication systems, similarities and differences among human languages (including spoken, signed, and written languages), bilingualism, effects and noneffects of language on thought and behavior, and historical change in languages (including the development of new languages).

Prerequisite: Some familiarity with a language other than English (the equivalent of study of a foreign language for at least one semester in college or one year in high school).

101. Introduction to Psychology. Every semester. THE DEPARTMENT.

A general introduction to the major concerns of contemporary psychology including psychobiology, perception, learning, cognition, language, development, personality, intelligence, abnormal and social behavior. Recommended for freshmen and sophomores.

Intermediate Courses

210. Developmental Psychology. Every spring. Ms. JOHNSON.

A survey of major changes in psychological functioning from conception through adolescence. Several theoretical perspectives are used to consider how physical, personality, social, and cognitive changes jointly influence the developing child's interactions with the environment.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101.

211. Personality. Every fall. Ms. HELD.

A comparative survey of theoretical and empirical attempts to explain personality and its development. The relationships of psychoanalytic, interpersonal, humanistic, and behavioral approaches to current research are considered.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101.

212. Social Psychology. Every spring. MR. SCHAFFNER.

A survey of theory and research on psychological aspects of social behavior. Topics include conformity, language and communication, attitudes, prejudice and racism, social epistemology, interpersonal relationships, and group conflict. Class research projects supplement readings and lectures.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101 or Sociology 101.

220. Atypical Child. Every other year. Fall 1990. Ms. HELD.

A comparative understanding of theories and research concerning the etiology, development, diagnosis, and treatment of various forms of childhood exceptionality. A family systems perspective is emphasized.

Prerequisite: Psychology 210 or 211.

222. Law and Psychology. Every other year. Spring 1991. Ms. HELD.

Presents topic areas where there is an interface between psychological and legal issues. The first emphasis is on how psychology can study and aid the legal process. The second emphasis assesses the special concerns of the mental health professional within the legal system. Limited to thirty students. No freshmen admitted.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101.

[223. Political Psychology.]

250. Statistical Analysis. Every fall. MR. SCHAFFNER.

An introduction to the use of descriptive and inferential statistics in behavioral research. Weekly laboratory work in computerized data analysis. Required of majors no later than the junior year, and preferably by the sophomore year.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101, Sociology 101, or consent of the instructor.

260. Abnormal Personality. Every spring. Ms. HELD.

A general survey of the nature, etiology, diagnosis, and treatment of common patterns of mental disorders. The course may be taken for one of two purposes:

Section A. Laboratory course credit.

Prerequisite: Psychology 211 and Psychology 250. Limited to fourteen students who will participate in a supervised practicum at a local psychiatric unit.

Section B. Non-laboratory course credit.

Prerequisite: Psychology 211. Participation in the practicum is optional contingent upon openings in the program.

270. Cognition. Every spring. MRS. SMALL.

An analysis of research methodology and experimental investigations in cognition, which includes attention, memory, comprehension, thinking, and problem solving. Laboratory work, including experimental design.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101 and 250.

271. Language: A Developmental Perspective. Every fall. Ms. JOHNSON.

Major aspects of how we produce and understand language are considered by examining research and theory concerning how language develops in both normal and atypical populations and how early language is similar to or different from adult language. The class designs and executes an original research project.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101 and 250, or consent of the instructor.

272. Research in Social Behavior. Every other year. Fall 1990.

MR. SCHAFFNER.

A laboratory course on research design and methodology in social and personality psychology, focusing on a topic of current theoretical importance. Students plan and carry out original research.

Prerequisite: Psychology 211 or 212, and 250.

Advanced Courses*310. Clinical Psychology. Every other year. Fall 1989. Ms. HELD.

The history and development of clinical psychology including an emphasis on current controversies regarding ethical and legal issues. Major portions of the course are devoted to theory and research concerning psychological assessment and types of psychotherapies.

Prerequisite: Psychology 220 or 260.

311. History of Psychology. Every other year. Spring 1991.

Ms. JOHNSON.

How psychology developed as a discipline, from the ancient Greeks to modern psychology. Focuses on how questions about psychology (including perception, cognition, language, social interaction, and personality) have changed as a function of the cultural context within which they were posed and the theoretical and methodological tools available at a given point in time.

Prerequisite: At least three intermediate or advanced courses in psychology (excluding Psychology 250), or consent of the instructor.

[312. Topics in Psychology.]*361. Cognitive Development. Every fall. Mrs. SMALL.

The development of mental representation and cognitive processes from infancy to early adulthood. Emphasis on experimental research and related theories of cognitive development, especially on the development of perception, memory, learning, comprehension, thinking, and problem solving.

Prerequisite: Psychology 250 and Psychology 210 or 270.

362. Infancy. Spring 1990. Ms. JOHNSON.

Major theories and research concerning development from conception through the second year of life. Topics covered include prenatal development, sensation and perception, motor skills, cognition and early communication, and social and personality development. Students read current research and design a research proposal on a topic of their choice.

Prerequisites: Psychology 250 and Psychology 210, or consent of the instructor.

Courses in Psychobiology

- 50. Mind and Brain: Historical and Contemporary Issues. Every other fall. Fall 1990. MR. ROSE.

What are the influences now and in the past that determine an accepted view of the biological basis of "human nature?" This course examines the interaction of historical, philosophical, sociopolitical, technological, and personal factors which preceded and led to modern views of our normal and abnormal behaviors. Contemporary issues include genetics and behavior; psychopharmacology; biology's role in defining aggression, crime, mental illness, and other problems; its role in determining social policy; and biological arguments in race and sex discrimination, as well as cross-cultural comparisons between Western and Eastern illness treatment systems (Asian medicine, acupuncture, shamanism, etc.).

- 60. Drugs, Behavior, and Human Society. Every other fall. Fall 1989. MR. ROSE.

An introductory survey of psychoactive drugs and plants, toxins, food additives, and other chemicals that alter human behavior as used in various cultures. Following a historical introduction and an overview of drug action mechanisms, each chemical group will be discussed from the following perspectives: history of use, specific modes of action, physical and psychological effects, reasons for use (religious, recreational, industrial, etc.), cultural influences, and potential hazards and treatments. Topics include: alcohol and other depressants, cocaine and other stimulants, psychedelics and hallucinogens, psychotherapeutics, medicinal plants, drugs and sports, drugs in food and food as drugs, environmental toxins, and contraceptives.

- 200. Comparative Psychology. Every other spring. Spring 1990. MR. ROSE.

An examination of current issues in the evolution and development of behavior in different species from the viewpoint of comparative psychology, emphasizing early experience, including learning, and its interaction with biological constraints on behavior. Topics include: behavioral development (nature-nurture controversy), critical periods, effects of early experience on neural mechanisms and behavior, courtship-mating-parenting, behavioral patterns and rhythms, sensory-perceptual systems, learning, motivation, emotion, and social behaviors in different species, including humans.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101 or Biology 101.

- 230. Perception. Every other spring. Spring 1991. MR. ROSE.

A survey of the basic phenomena and problems of perception and sensory psychology. Topics include psychophysics; coding of qualities such as color, form, pitch, touch, pain; the influence of early experience, attention, individual differences, culture, and altered states of consciousness, and an examination of abnormal perceptions (dyslexia, aphasia, etc.), including their diagnosis and treatment.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101.

245. Neuropsychology. Every other spring. Spring 1991. MR. ROSE.

An in-depth survey of experimental and clinical approaches in the study of brain-behavior relationships of higher processes, in normal and brain damaged humans. Topics include: assessment of normal sensory-motor, attentional, memory, and language functions by behavioral and neurophysiological techniques, higher function changes during development and with aging, the sensory-motor and cognitive effects of damage to specific regions of the brain versus nonspecific, general brain damage, clinical studies as a cue to normal functions, and Asian versus Western approaches to structure and function of higher processes.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101 or Biology 101.

265. Psychobiology. Every fall. Fall 1990. MR. ROSE.

A basic course on the biological correlates of behavior with special emphasis on the neurosciences. Topics include neurophysiology, psychopharmacology, perceptual systems, brain mechanisms in sleep and wakefulness, normal and abnormal emotional behaviors, learning, memory, and higher functions, as well as the neuropsychology of brain-damaged individuals. Ethical and political implications of neuroscience are also discussed. Laboratory experience includes exposure to histological, neurosurgical, and physiological recording techniques in animals, but with the major emphasis on human electrophysiological recordings, to include central (EEG, evoked potentials), peripheral (EMG), and autonomic nervous system (EKG, etc.) measures, including biofeedback.

Prerequisite: Psychology 101 or Biology 101.

300. Psychopharmacology. Every other spring. Spring 1990. MR. ROSE.

An advanced study of psychoactive drugs; their neural mechanisms of action, and their effect on animal and human behavior. Topics include experimental techniques in psychopharmacology, neuropharmacology, the role of neurotransmitters in appetitive behavior, learning, and memory; an in-depth analysis of depressants, stimulants, narcotic analgesics, anti-psychotics, and psychedelics; drug addiction and treatment; ethnopharmacology, emphasizing nontraditional or nonwestern medicinal/ritualistic use of organic and inorganic substances; and implications of drug effects for neurochemical theories of behavior.

Prerequisite: Psychobiology 265, Biology 114, or Biology 203, and consent of the instructor.

290. Intermediate Independent Study.

400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors.

Religion

PROFESSOR LONG, Chair; PROFESSOR GEOGHEGAN;
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR HOLT; ASSISTANT PROFESSOR GILDAY;
VISITING ASSISTANT PROFESSOR LICHTMANN

The primary purpose of the major in religion is to provide multi-disciplinary means for the study of religion, that is, study of various claims about a distinctive transcendent reality and the individual, social, and cultural expressions of that ultimate reality. Attention to religious thought emphasizes essentialist ideas about the numinous or the sacred; study of the history of religion concentrates on cross-cultural patterns of religious thought and action, expressed individually and in community.

Each major is assigned a departmental adviser who assists the student in formulating a plan of study in religion and related courses in other departments. The adviser may also provide counsel in vocational planning and graduate study.

Requirements for the Major in Religion: The major consists of at least eight courses in religion approved by the department. Religion 101 must be taken not later than the sophomore year. One course from those numbered 10-99 may count toward the major but cannot be substituted for Religion 101. Each major must take at least one course from each of the following core areas: religions of South or East Asian origin, religions of Near Eastern origin, and religious thought.

Interdisciplinary Major: The department participates in an interdisciplinary program in art history and religion. See page 174.

Independent Study: A student proposing to undertake an independent study project under the supervision of a faculty member of the department must submit, not later than April 1 or November 1 of the semester before he or she wishes to pursue the project, a plan for it on a form to be obtained from the department. The department faculty will review applications and only on the basis of its approval may the project be undertaken. This regulation also applies to honors proposals.

Honors in Religion: Students contemplating honors candidacy should possess a record of distinction in departmental courses, including those which support the project, a clearly articulated and well-focused research proposal, and a high measure of motivation and scholarly maturity. It is recommended that such students complete two semesters of independent study in preparing research papers for honors consideration.

Requirements for the Minor in Religion: A minor consists of five courses which may be assembled in one of the following patterns: (1) Religion 101, one intermediate level (200) course from each core area, and one seminar at the freshman or advanced (300) level; (2) Religion 101 and any two pairs of related sequences at the intermediate level; (3) Religion 101, one pair of related semester sequences at the intermediate level, and two seminars, one at the freshman and one at the advanced level.

Freshman Seminars

These courses are introductory in nature, focusing on the study of a specific aspect of religion, and may draw on other fields of learning. They are not intended as prerequisites for more advanced courses in the department unless specifically designated as such. They include readings, discussions, reports, and writing. Topics change from time to time to reflect emerging or debated issues in the study of religion.

Enrollment is limited to sixteen students for each seminar. Freshmen are given priority for available spaces.

Seminars may be repeated for credit with contents changed.

11. Story, Storytelling, and Religion. Spring 1990. MR. LONG.

Stories of gods, people, and sacred things. Storytelling in various religions as spiritual activity that gives fictive form to human quests for individual and social identity. Examples drawn from Christian, Jewish, and Muslim sources, along with modern interpretations.

§17. Japanese Mythology. Fall 1989. MR. GILDAY.

A systematic study of the early eighth-century imperial sacred histories of the Japanese that provide a colorful introduction to the foundations of the Japanese world of meaning. Includes comparisons of various mythic and legendary accounts both from within and outside these official texts, and with patterns and themes typical of myths throughout the world. (Same as Asian Studies 17.)

Introductory Courses

[50. The Bible in Literary Focus.]

[51. Existentialism.]

60. Myth and Mysticism. Fall 1989. MR. GEOGHEGAN.

Comparison and contrast of two fundamental motifs of religious experience and expression, myth and mysticism. Introduction through presentation of the work of Joseph Campbell in film and text and consideration of his work in the light of theorists of myth such as Frazer, Freud, Rank, Jung, Neumann, Eliade, Bultmann, and Tillich. Campbell's views on mysticism will be examined in light of major theorists such as Underhill, Stace, Zaehner, and William James. Selected whole representative primary sources will be read to illustrate mythologems and elemental patterns of mystical experience.

Emphasis on discussion, brief occasional reports, substantial term paper.

Religion 101-104 offer introductions to religion and specific religious traditions. They need not be taken sequentially.

101. Introduction to the Study of Religion. Fall 1989. MR. LONG.
Basic concepts, methods, and issues in the study of religion, with special reference to examples comparing and contrasting Eastern and Western religions. Lectures, discussions, and readings in classic texts and modern interpretations.

§102. Asian Civilizations. Spring 1990. MR. GILDAY.
Readings in original texts from India, China, and Japan will provide the basis for an exploration of basic patterns of thought and cultural expression in South and East Asia. (Same as Asian Studies 101.)

[103. Christianity.]

104. Judaism. Fall 1989. MR. LONG.
Jewish experience in sacred story, ritual, and study. The life styles of Torah, philosophy, and mysticism. Historical developments, continuity, and change, modulation of traditional forms in practice and interpretation. Readings in basic sources and contemporary texts, discussion, lectures, and field study.

Intermediate Courses

[ 200. Jewish Origins. ]

[ 201. Christian Origins. ]

[§220. Religious Thought of Ancient India.]

[§221. Hinduism in Medieval and Modern India.]

[§222. Theravada Buddhism, Culture, and Society.]

[§223. Buddhist Sutras in Translation.]

§224. Japanese Religion and Culture I. Fall 1989. MR. GILDAY.
Paradigmatic themes and problems addressed in classical literary, religious, and historical texts of the premodern period. Various ritual, theatrical, and artistic expressions provide a "textual" context for discussion. (Same as Asian Studies 285.)

§225. Japanese Religion and Culture II. Spring 1990. MR. GILDAY.
An introduction to the major trajectories of Japanese religion and culture from the seventeenth to the twentieth century with particular attention to problems of continuity, change, and interpretation in light of Japan's renewed contact with the West. (Same as Asian Studies 286.)

§226. Epic and Mythic Traditions of India. Spring 1990. MS. SOIFER.
An exploration of the Sanskrit epic and mythic literature of classical Hinduism. Study of the Māhabhārata and Rāmāyana epics with particular focus on religious themes; reading of original myths from the Puranas with attention to themes of cosmology, conflict, divine manifestation, and soteriology, as well as concepts of evil and sexuality. Some attention will be given to methodology in the study of mythology. (Same as Asian Studies 246.)

240. Western Religious Thought I: The Beginnings through the Middle Ages. Fall 1989. Ms. LICHTMANN.

A study of the nature of the person, the world, and God in such seminal thinkers of Western culture as Plato, Plotinus, Jesus, Paul, Augustine, Aquinas, and Eckhart. Emphasis on discussion of primary texts.

241. Western Religious Thought II: Modernity and the Present. Spring 1990. Ms. LICHTMANN.

An introduction to modern and contemporary religious movements such as existentialism, rationalism, and mysticism, based on a reading of works by Hegel, Kierkegaard, Buber, Tillich, and Teilhard de Chardin.

[§287. Pure Land Buddhism in East Asia.]

Advanced Courses

The following courses study in depth a topic of limited scope but major importance, such as one or two individuals, a movement, type, concept, problem, historical period, or theme. Topics may change from time to time. Courses may be repeated for credit with contents changed.

[300. Analytical Psychology and Religion.]

[301. Comparative Mysticism.]

302. The Bible in Jewish and Christian Religion. Spring 1990.

MR. LONG.

A comparative exploration into aspects of Judaism and Christianity as reflected in the distinctive, even contrary, ways in which Jews and Christians interpret a shared Bible. Reading, analysis, and discussion of key Biblical texts (Old Testament for Christians, Tanach for Jews) in the light of traditional and modern use, including historical, literary, and theological interpretations.

Prerequisite: Religion 101 or consent of the instructor.

[333. Depth-Psychology and Creativity.]

334. Creative Process in Abstract Painting, Depth Psychology, and Religious Thought. Fall 1989. MR. GEOGHEGAN.

Investigation of creativity as accountable productive originality emphasizing works of major abstract painters from 1890 to 1985, especially Kandinsky, Mondrian, Pollock, and Rothko. Artist's self-interpretations of their work and those of art historians and critics will be considered as well as contributions drawn from the dynamic psychologies of Jung, Freud, and Rank and the philosophical and religious thought of Paul Tillich. The course will be conducted as a guided research seminar with frequent brief oral reports and a substantial term project.

Prerequisite: A course in any one of the following: art history, studio art, psychology, philosophy, or religion; or consent of the instructor.

[§390. Exoticism and the East: Encounters with Holy Others.]

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

Romance Languages

PROFESSOR TURNER, Chair; PROFESSOR THOMPSON; ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR NUNN; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS DILLMAN, DUPUY SULLIVAN, AND VANDERWOLK; LECTURER PELLEGRINI; INSTRUCTORS JAFFE AND RUGGIERO; TEACHING FELLOWS CAUVIN, MARCHE, AND MATEU

The Department of Romance Languages offers courses in French, Spanish, and Italian language and literature. Native speakers are involved in most language courses. Literature courses are conducted in the respective language.

Study Abroad: A period of study in an appropriate country, usually in the junior year, is strongly encouraged for all students of language. Bowdoin College is affiliated with a broad range of programs abroad and interested students should seek the advice of a member of the department early in their sophomore year.

Independent Study: This is an option primarily intended for students who are working on honors projects. It is also available to students who have taken advantage of the regular course offerings and wish to work more closely on a particular topic. Independent study is not an alternative to regular course work. An application should be made to a member of the department prior to the semester in which the project is to be undertaken and must involve a specific proposal in an area in which the student can already demonstrate basic knowledge.

Honors in Romance Languages: Majors may elect to write an honors project in the department. This involves two semesters of independent study in the senior year and the writing of an honors essay and its defense before a committee of members of the department. Candidates for department honors should also have a strong record in other courses in the department.

Requirements for the Major in Romance Languages: The major consists of eight courses more advanced than French, Spanish, or Italian 204. In French and Spanish these will normally be 205, 209, 311, 312, and four other courses. The major may consist entirely of courses in either French or Spanish, or it may involve a combination of courses in French, Spanish, and Italian. It is expected that majors who are not writing an honors project will enroll in a topics course in their senior year. No more than two courses may be in independent study and no fewer than four Bowdoin courses should be taken. Prospective majors are expected to have completed French or Spanish 205 and 209 before the end of their sophomore year.

Requirements for the Minor in Romance Languages: The minor consists of three Bowdoin courses in one language above 204.

Placement: Students who plan to take French or Spanish must take the appropriate placement test at the beginning of the fall semester.

Freshman Seminars in Romance Literatures

Spring 1990

11. Don Quixote. MR. TURNER.

A study of the entire novel in English. Additional readings will focus on the context of its composition and on its influence on later literature.

French

101, 102. Elementary French. Every year. Fall 1989. MR. VANDERWOLK.
Spring 1990. MS. DILLMAN.

Study of the basic forms, structures, and vocabulary. Emphasis on listening comprehension and spoken French. During the second semester, some stress is placed on reading. There are regular language laboratory assignments.

Prerequisite: French 101 is open to freshmen and sophomores who have had two years or less of high school French. Upperclassmen wishing to take French 101 must have the consent of the instructor.

119. Seminars for Freshmen and Sophomores.

Fall 1989. The Modern French Short Story. MR. VANDERWOLK.

Intended for freshmen who have taken the French Literature AP, this course will examine the development of the French short story in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The course will have a seminar format, allowing maximum oral participation. Authors to be studied include Balzac, Sand, Nerval, Flaubert, Mérimée, Colette, Sartre, Camus, Yourcenar, and others.

Prerequisite: French Advanced Placement Examination or evidence of significant French literature study in high school.

203. Intermediate French I. Every fall. Fall 1989. MS. DILLMAN.

Texts of contemporary literary or social interest provide the focus for conversation, reading, and composition. Systematical review of basic grammatical concepts. Three class hours a week, plus regular language laboratory assignments and sessions with the French teaching fellows. Conducted in French.

204. Intermediate French II. Every spring. Spring 1990.

MR. VANDERWOLK.

Texts of contemporary literary or social interest provide the focus for conversation, reading, and composition. Systematical review of basic grammatical concepts. Three class hours a week, plus regular language laboratory assignments and sessions with the French teaching fellows. Conducted in French.

Prerequisite: French 203 or placement.

205. Advanced French I. Every fall. Fall 1989. MR. NUNN.

Aims to increase fluency in spoken and written French. Grammar review, one hour a week plus language laboratory. Reading and discussion of short fiction, two hours a week. Conversation with French teaching fellows, one hour a week. Frequent written and oral assignments.

Prerequisite: French 204 or placement.

206. Advanced French II. Every spring. THE DEPARTMENT.

Continuation of French 205. Reading and discussion of articles and books dealing with contemporary France, two hours a week. Conversation with French teaching fellows, one hour a week. Regular written and oral assignments plus language laboratory.

Prerequisite: French 205 or placement.

209. Introduction to French Literature. Every fall. Fall 1989.

MS. DUPUY SULLIVAN.

An introduction to the appreciation and analysis of French literature through close readings, short papers, and discussions of selected poems and short prose works from various periods of French literature. The major writers selected include Molière, Corneille or Racine, Ronsard, La Fontaine, Hugo, and Sartre. The aim is to introduce the student to a critical approach to literature in general and to French literature in particular. Though this is not a survey course, it provides illustrations of chronological succession in French literature. Papers and class discussions in French.

Prerequisite: French 205 or placement.

[311. Survey of French Literature I.]

[312. Survey of French Literature II.]

313. French Poetry I. Fall 1990. MS. DILLMAN.

A study of French poetry from the Renaissance to the late nineteenth century. Emphasis on the nature of poetry as a play upon and with language. Close attention to active understanding of the "rules of the game:" the poetic devices and generic conventions and their evolution. Conducted in French.

Prerequisite: French 209 or consent of the instructor.

314. French Poetry II. Fall 1989. MS. DILLMAN.

Modern poetry, like all modern forms of artistic expression, is an attack on established forms of organization and of perception. It aims to abolish or at least to rethink traditional notions such as prose and poetry, art and non-art, conscious and unconscious, subject and object. The course examines these aspects of modernism in the works of Rimbaud, Baudelaire, Breton, Césaire, Michaux, and Ponge. Conducted in French.

315. French Drama I. Fall 1990. MR. NUNN.

French drama of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. A survey of classicism and the major new currents of the eighteenth century. Plays by Corneille, Molière, Racine, Marivaux, Beaumarchais, and others studied. Close interpretive reading of texts and viewing of taped performances.

- 316. French Drama II. Fall 1989. Ms. DUPUY SULLIVAN.
Critical study of dramatic theory and practice of the modern period. The principal authors studied are Artaud, Arrabal, Beckett, Genêt, Ionesco, and Sartre. Conducted in French.
Prerequisite: French 209 or consent of the instructor.
- 317. The French Novel I. Spring 1990. MR. VANDERWOLK.
The development of the genre during the nineteenth century, with emphasis on the works of Balzac, Stendhal, Flaubert, and Zola. Conducted in French.
Prerequisite: French 209 or consent of the instructor.
- 318. The French Novel II. Fall 1990. THE DEPARTMENT.
Development of the novel in the modern period. Close attention to critical theory in order to redefine the novel as a genre. Principal authors studied: Gide, Proust, Sartre, and Robbe-Grillet. Conducted in French.
Prerequisite: French 209 or consent of the instructor.
- [319. French Women Writers and Writing.]
- 320. Topics in French Literature and Culture I. Every fall.
Designed to offer students who have a general knowledge of French literature and civilization the opportunity to study in greater depth individual authors, particular themes, or aspects of French civilization. Conducted in French. The course may be repeated for credit with the contents changed.
This course is intended primarily for seniors.
- Fall 1989. Jean Jacques Rousseau. MR. NUNN.
A study of the most complex figure of the French Enlightenment. Principal works to be read: Le Discours sur les origines de l'inégalité, Le Contrat social, Julie ou La Nouvelle Héloïse, Emile, Les Confessions.
- [321. Topics in French Literature and Culture II.]
- [322. French Literature in Translation.]
- 400. Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.

Italian

- 101, 102. Elementary Italian. Every year. Ms. PELLEGRINI.
Three class hours a week plus drill sessions and laboratory assignments. Study of the basic forms, structures, and vocabulary. Emphasis in the first semester is on listening comprehension and spoken Italian. In the second semester, more attention is paid to reading and writing.
- 203, 204. Intermediate Italian. Every year. Fall 1989. Ms. PELLEGRINI.
Spring 1990. Ms. RUGGIERO.
Three class hours a week and one weekly conversation session with assistant. Aims to increase fluency in both spoken and written Italian. Grammar fundamentals are reviewed. Class conversation and written assignments are based on contemporary texts of literary and social interest.

Prerequisite: Italian 102 or consent of the instructor.

205, 206. Advanced Italian. Every year. Fall 1989. Ms. RUGGIERO.

Intended to increase proficiency in the four skills. Written and oral work based upon readings in modern Italian literature. Emphasis on spoken language as well as expository and creative writing. Visual media used to introduce the study of culture.

Prerequisite: Italian 204 or consent of the instructor.

321. Modern Italian Culture. Fall 1989. Ms. RUGGIERO.

An introduction to modern Italian literary culture from Romanticism to Futurism and post-war movements through a selection of literary as well as philosophical and political texts. Emphasis on the relationship between literature and ideology. Class discussion and written work based also on movies from neorealism to new "comedy" and on a one-week workshop on a modern play.

Course open to all students. No previous background in Italian required.

322. Italian Literature in Translation. Spring 1990. Ms. RUGGIERO.

A critical reading of selections from the founders of Italian literature: Dante, Petrarch, and Boccaccio. Emphasis on poetics as well as philosophical and theological concerns. Intended also as an introduction to the study and criticism of Italian literature, the course examines the ways in which the three major Italian figures of the Middle Ages establish an authorial voice within and against tradition.

[400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors.]

Spanish

101, 102. Elementary Spanish. Every year. Ms. JAFFE.

Three class hours a week plus drill sessions and laboratory assignments. An introduction to the grammar of Spanish, aiming at comprehension, reading, writing, and simple conversation. Emphasis in the first semester is on grammar structure, with frequent oral drills. In the second semester more attention is paid to reading and writing.

Prerequisite: Spanish 101 is open to freshmen and sophomores who have had two years or less of high school Spanish. Upperclassmen wishing to take Spanish 101 must have the consent of the instructor.

203, 204. Intermediate Spanish. Every year. Mr. THOMPSON.

Three class hours a week and a conversation session with the teaching assistant. Grammar fundamentals are reviewed and class conversation and written assignments based on reading in modern literature.

Prerequisite: Spanish 102 or placement.

205. Advanced Spoken and Written Spanish. Every fall. MR. TURNER.

Intended to increase proficiency in the four skills. A variety of texts will be assigned with the aim of improving speed and accuracy of reading and will also serve as the basis for controlled discussion aimed at spoken fluency. Visual media will be used to develop aural comprehension and as the basis for the study of culture. There will be frequent written assignments.

Prerequisite: Spanish 204 or placement.

209. Introduction to the Study and Criticism of Hispanic Literature.

Every semester. Fall 1989. Ms. JAFFE. Spring 1990. MR. THOMPSON.

Intended to develop an appreciation of the major genres of literature in Spanish and to foster the ability to discuss them orally and in writing. Personal responses as well as the use of critical methods encouraged in discussions. Conducted in Spanish.

Russian

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR KNOX, Chair (spring semester); ASSISTANT PROFESSOR MILLER, Acting Chair (fall semester); INSTRUCTOR AND MELLON FELLOW LAHTI; TEACHING FELLOW SHULSKY

Requirements for the Major in Russian Language and Literature: The Russian major consists of ten courses (eleven for honors) including Russian 101, 102, 203, 204; four courses in Russian above Russian 204; one approved course in either Russian literature in translation or Slavic civilization, or an approved related course in government, history, or economics; and one semester of independent study (for honors, two semesters). A student may work solely within the Department of Russian or jointly with both a member of the department and a faculty member from outside the department who is an expert in some area of Soviet/Russian studies. Students will be encouraged to spend at least one semester in the USSR. Three advanced Russian students will be chosen each year to study in the USSR as part of the Consortium of American Colleges exchange.

The Minor in Russian consists of seven courses (including the first two years of Russian). At least two of these may be taken outside the department with the permission of the department chairman. Courses outside the Department of Russian which may be counted for either the major or the minor are Economics 214; Government 230, 235, and 271; History 217 and 218.

Independent Language Study: In addition to courses in Russian, independent language study of Serbo-Croatian may be offered with the approval of the dean of the College.

101, 102. Elementary Russian. Every year. Fall 1989. Ms. LAHTI. Spring 1990. Ms. KNOX.

Emphasis on the acquisition of language skills through imitation and repetition of basic language patterns; the development of facility in speaking and understanding simple Russian. Conversation hour with native speaker.

203, 204. Intermediate Russian. Every year. MR. MILLER.

A continuation of Russian 101, 102. Concentration on maintaining and improving the student's facility in speaking and understanding normal conversational Russian. Writing and reading skills also stressed. Conversation hour with native speaker.

Prerequisite: Russian 101, 102.

305, 306. Advanced Readings in Russian. Every year. MR. MILLER.

Intended to develop the ability to read Russian at a sophisticated level by combining selected language and literature readings, grammar review, and analysis of Russian word-formation. Discussion and reports in Russian. Conversation hour with native speaker.

Prerequisite: Russian 203, 204.

309. Special Topics in Russian Literature. Every fall. Fall 1989.

Ms. LAHTI.

Intended to enable the student to utilize knowledge of Russian as a research tool in the investigation of Russian literature of the nineteenth century. Special attention paid to the genre of the short story and the povest' (short novel).

Prerequisite: Russian 305, 306.

310. Special Topics in Modern Russian Literature. Every spring. Spring 1990. Ms. KNOX.

Intended to enable the Russian student to read and discuss in Russian various works of modern Russian literature (Soviet and emigré). Special attention placed on the development of the short story and the skaz (folk tale). Discontinuity and commonalities between prerevolutionary and contemporary Soviet literature examined. Short term papers to be written in Russian.

Prerequisite: Russian 309.

290. Intermediate Independent Study. THE DEPARTMENT.400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors. THE DEPARTMENT.

An original piece of research in which an attempt is made to elicit from the student a contribution to the field of Russian studies. Major primary and secondary sources should be read in Russian. This course may be repeated for credit with the contents changed. Upon demand this course is conducted as a small seminar on topics not covered in the above courses, such as Soviet press, Russian poetry, or scientific translations.

Prerequisite: Russian 310 or consent of instructor.

In English Translation

320. Nineteenth-Century Russian Literature. Every other fall. Fall 1989. MR. MILLER.

This course traces the development of Russian realism and the Russian novel. Discussion will touch upon pre-nineteenth-century literature, the origins of realism as a movement, and the intellectual and political milieu of the time. Writers to be read include Pushkin, Lermontov, Gogol, Goncharov, Dostoevsky, and Tolstoy. Majors are required to do some of the reading in Russian.

- 321. Twentieth-Century Russian Literature. Every other spring. Spring 1990. Ms. KNOX.

A two-part discussion of twentieth-century Russian prose before and after the official proclamation of Socialist Realism. The first part is devoted to the innovative period of modernism and the avant-garde in the 1920s. The second half examines the return to didactic realism and the emergence of an underground dissident movement. Special attention given to the recurring Eastern or Scythian theme. Writers discussed are Andreyev, Bely, Zoshchenko, Bulgakov, Sinyavsky, Solzhenitsyn, Aksyonov, Brodsky, and others. Majors are required to do some of the reading in Russian.

- 322. Topics Course. THE DEPARTMENT.

This course may be repeated for credit with contents changed. Majors are required to do some of the reading in Russian. This course is offered only when staffing permits.

Fall 1990. Women in Russian Society and Culture. Ms. KNOX.

Examination of the roles women have played in Russian literature and Russian society. Special attention given to women revolutionaries and the "new status" of women guaranteed by the Revolution. Readings include short stories, novels, autobiographies, and non-fiction works. Authors include Pushkin, Tolstoy, Dostoevsky, Chekhov, Kollontai, Tsvetaeva, Akhmatova, M. Ginzburg, and others. Russian majors will do some reading in Russian.

- 323. Dostoevsky and the Novel. Every other spring. Spring 1991. Ms. KNOX.

An examination of Dostoevsky's use of the novel to portray the "fantastic" reality of the city and its effects on the human psyche. Special attention given to the author's quest for guiding principles of freedom and love in a world of violence, cynicism, and neuroses. Emphasis on Dostoevsky's anti-Western and anti-materialist bias in his portrayal of the tragic struggle between extreme individualism and self-renunciation in a utopian brotherhood. Majors required to do some of the reading in Russian.

- §325. Slavic Civilization. Every other spring. Spring 1991. MR. MILLER.

An introduction to Slavic Eastern Europe, its ethnic and linguistic background, its ancient history, its subsequent political and cultural movements, its relationship to the West, and continuing problems of nationalism within Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. A wide range of readings assigned from various fields.

Sociology and Anthropology

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR FLOGE, Chair; PROFESSORS KERTZER, McEWEN, AND ROSSIDES; ASSOCIATE PROFESSORS BELL AND BOLLES; ASSISTANT PROFESSORS KAPLAN AND DICKEY; INSTRUCTOR CROSS; RESEARCH ASSOCIATES CRAWFORD AND PHILLIPS

Requirements for the Major: In consultation with an adviser, each student plans a major program that will nurture an understanding of society and the human condition, demonstrate how social knowledge is acquired through research, and enrich his or her general education. On the practical level, a major program prepares the student for graduate study in sociology and anthropology and contributes to preprofessional programs such as law and medicine. It also provides background preparation for careers in urban planning, the civil service, social work, business or personnel administration, social research, law enforcement and criminal justice, the health professions, journalism, secondary school teaching, and programs in developing countries.

A student may choose either of two major programs or two minor programs:

The Major in Sociology consists of eight courses, including Sociology 201, 209, and one course at the 300 level or above. A minimum of six courses in sociology may be supplemented by two advanced courses from anthropology or, as approved by the department chair, by two courses from related fields to meet the student's special needs. Sociology 201 should be taken in the sophomore year.

The Major in Anthropology consists of eight courses, including Anthropology 101, 102, 201, and 301, and one course with an areal focus (numbered in the 130s and 230s). One or two of the eight courses may be taken from the advanced offerings in sociology or, as approved by the department chair, from related fields to meet the student's special needs. Study abroad programs are encouraged as part of a student's study of other cultures.

The Minor in Sociology consists of five sociology courses, including Sociology 201 and 209 and one course at the 300 level or above.

The Minor in Anthropology consists of five anthropology courses, including Anthropology 101 and 301, either 102 or 201, and an area study course (130s and 230s).

For either major or minor program, one semester of independent study may be counted.

Departmental Honors: Students distinguishing themselves in either major program may apply for departmental honors. Awarding of the degree with honors will ordinarily be based on honor grades in major courses and a written project (emanating from independent study), and will recognize the ability to work creatively and independently and to synthesize diverse theoretical, methodological, and substantive materials.

Sociology

- 13. Freshman Seminar. The United States in the World System: An Introduction to Macrosociology. Fall 1989. MR. ROSSIDES.
An examination of the United States as a social type, its efforts to understand the outer world, and its relative, and perhaps absolute, decline in power. Short written papers, oral reports, and discussion format.
- 101. Introduction to Sociology. Every semester. THE DEPARTMENT.
The major perspectives of sociology. Application of the scientific method to sociological theory and to current social issues. Theories ranging from social determinism to free will are considered, including the work of Marx, Weber, Durkheim, Merton, and others. Attention is given to such concepts as role, status, society, culture, institution, personality, social organization, the dynamics of change, the social roots of behavior and attitudes, social control, deviance, socialization, and the dialectical relationship between individual and society.
- 151. Sociology of Health and Illness. Every fall. MS. BELL.
This course examines the social contexts of physical and mental health, illness and medical care. Deals with such topics as the social, environmental, and occupational factors in health and illness; the structure and processes of health care organizations; development of health professions and the health work force; doctor-patient relationships; the illness experience; technical and ethical issues in medical research; health care, and social change.
Prerequisite: Sophomore standing.
- 201. Introduction to Social Research. Every spring. MS. FLOGE.
Provides firsthand experience with the specific procedures through which social science knowledge is developed. Emphasizes the interaction between theory and research, and examines the ethics of social research and the uses and abuses of research in policy making. Reading and methodological analysis of a variety of case studies from the sociological literature. Field and laboratory exercises that include observation, interviewing, use of available data (e.g., historical documents, statistical archives, computerized data banks, cultural artifacts), sampling, coding, use of computer, elementary data analysis and interpretation. Lectures and laboratory sessions.
Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.
- 203. Families in American Society. Fall 1989. MS. BELL.
An examination of contemporary research on kinship, household composition, and the family life cycle in modern American society. Considers how family life has changed and why it varies today, drawing from several theoretical perspectives.
Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

206. Urban Sociology. Spring 1990. Ms. FLOGE.

An investigation into the diverse social patterns of urban life. Attention given to the expansion of urban populations in different cultural settings, contrasting the course of urbanization in the West and in traditional societies. The changing relation of urban centers to the rest of society is also analyzed, along with some of the problems generated by urbanization and contemporary approaches to resolving them. Students have an opportunity to study a particular aspect of urban society in depth.

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

§208. Race and Ethnicity. Fall 1989. MR. MCEWEN.

The social and cultural meaning of race and ethnicity with special emphasis on the politics of events and processes in contemporary America. Analysis of the causes and consequences of prejudice and discrimination. Examination of the relationships between race and class. Comparisons between the status of racial and ethnic minorities in the United States and their status in other selected societies. (Same as Afro-American Studies 208. )

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

209. Social Theory. Every fall. MR. ROSSIDES.

A critical examination of some representative theories of the nature of human behavior and society. Social theory is related to developments in philosophy and natural science, and symbolic developments as a whole are related to social developments. The thought of some major figures in the ancient world (especially Plato, Aristotle, and the Stoics) and the medieval world (especially St. Thomas and Marsilio of Padua) is analyzed, but the main focus is on the figures who have struggled to explain the nature of capitalism, especially Hobbes, Locke, the philosophes, Comte, Spencer, Sumner, Ward, and with special attention, some of the great theoreticians of the "contemporary" world: Marx, Durkheim, Weber, Simmel, Pareto, Lenin, Cooley, Mao, Marcuse, Parsons. The course's main purpose is to provide the student with an opportunity to test familiar ideas and to acquire new ones about the nature of society, especially the structure and dynamics of industrial society.

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

210. Sociology of Work and Organizations. Spring 1991. Ms. BELL.

Exploration of the structure, function, and meaning of work in modern industrial society, especially the United States. Examination of the rise and composition of the industrial labor force and the experiences of workers in different occupations and professions. Also analysis of the growth of complex organizations (bureaucracies) as well as their impact on and response to broader society from a variety of sociological perspectives. Consideration of alternatives (e.g., cooperatives, collectives). Students may study a particular occupation or profession in depth.

213. Social Stratification. Spring 1990. MR. ROSSIDES.

A critical examination of representative theories of inequality which opens with a review of the basic questions and concepts in social stratification, and then develops case studies of three types of social inequality: caste (India, South Africa), estate (feudal Christendom, imperial China), and class (USSR). The heart of the course is an extended analysis of the American class system to determine sources of stability and conflict, and to identify legitimate and illegitimate forms of inequality. Considerable attention is given to theories of imperialism and to determining the United States' role in the international system of stratification. The final theme examines the theory which purports to see some form of postindustrial society emerging in the West.

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

214. Science, Technology, and Society. Spring 1990. MS. BELL.

Examines the progress and problems associated with scientific and technological changes such as the space race in the 1950s and 1960s, nuclear power, and the production and distribution of pesticides and other hazardous substances. Considers the social and intellectual origins of these technological innovations and their impact on society from different theoretical perspectives. Identifies the social structure and dynamics of science as an institution and examines the relationship between the institution of science and the content of scientific knowledge. Explores the role of science and scientific knowledge in technological innovation.

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

215. Criminology and Criminal Justice. Spring 1990. MR. MCEWEN.

Focuses on crime and corrections in the United States with some cross-national comparisons. Examines the problematic character of the definition of "crime." Explores empirical research on the character, distribution, and correlates of criminal behavior and interprets this research in the light of social structural, cultural, and social psychological theories of crime causation. Discusses implications of nature and causes of crime for law enforcement and the administration of justice. Surveys the varied ways in which prisons and correctional programs are organized and assesses research about their effectiveness.

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

218. Sociology of Law. Fall 1989. MR. MCEWEN.

An analysis of the development and function of law and legal systems in preindustrial and industrial societies. Examination of the relationships between law and social change, law and social inequality, and law and social control. Special attention is paid to social influences on the operation of legal systems and the resultant gaps between legal ideals and the "law in action."

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology or government.

219. Sociology of Gender Roles. Fall 1989. MS. FLOGE.

Various theoretical perspectives, including role theory, are used to study gender roles and their implications for society and individuals. The extent and possible causes (including biological, cultural, social, and economic) of sexual differences in behavior are examined. Topics include historical changes in gender roles as well as cultural and national differences.

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

§230. The Populations of Asia. Spring 1991. MS. FLOGE.

Analysis of the components of population composition and dynamics in various Asian countries, in particular China, India, and Japan. Both the causes and consequences of population changes will be examined. Attention will be given to such issues as population growth and economic development; trends in mortality and life expectancy; labor force changes; the demographic transition; national and international migration; changing age structure; family planning programs; zero population growth; and women's status. Special consideration will be given to the relation between population dynamics and public policy decisions (i.e., one-child policies, day care, mandatory retirement). (Same as Asian Studies 210.)

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology or consent of the instructor. Not open to students who have previously taken Sociology 217.

235. Comparative Societies. Spring 1991. MR. ROSSIDES.

An analysis of the various types of society in human history and their interrelations. After a brief discussion of hunting-gathering, horticultural, and agrarian societies, and the hybrid societies of ancient Israel, Greece, and Rome, the course will focus on representative types of developed and developing societies in today's world.

Prerequisite: Previous course in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

250. Collective Behavior. Fall 1990. MR. MCEWEN.

An examination of the nature of collective behavior with primary emphasis on social movements. This course describes and analyzes social phenomena such as crowds, audiences, publics, riots, reform movements, conservative movements, and revolutions. Students may study a selected aspect of collective behavior in depth.

Prerequisite: Two courses in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

310. Advanced Seminar: Selected Topics.

This course may be repeated for credit with the contents changed.

Spring 1990. Sociological Perspectives on Medical Knowledge.

Ms. BELL.

Examines the social character of concepts of health, illness, disease, and healing. First, considers modern medical knowledge as a cultural product. Next, compares a variety of medical traditions. Throughout, explores the relationship of the production of medical knowledge to the institutionalization and practice of medicine as well as to political, economic, and social structure.

Prerequisite: Two courses in sociology or anthropology, or consent of the instructor.

290. Intermediate Independent Study in Sociology. Ms. BELL,

Ms. FLOGE, MR. MCEWEN, AND MR. ROSSIDES.

400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors in Sociology. Ms. BELL,

Ms. FLOGE, MR. MCEWEN, AND MR. ROSSIDES.

Anthropology

11. Freshman Seminar: Family Life in the European Past. Fall 1989.

MR. KERTZER.

Study of how and why family life changed over the past two thousand years of European history, with particular emphasis on the period 1700-1914. Among the topics to be covered are extended family households and the emergence of the nuclear family, the question of patriarchy and the position of women in the family, the changing lives of children, explanations for the emergence of widespread birth control, and the relationship between economic and political change and change in family life. Differences in family relations among different parts of Europe are also identified and explanations explored.

101. Introduction to Cultural Anthropology. Every spring.

MR. KERTZER.

An introduction to the concepts, methods, theories, findings, and applications of cultural anthropology. Study of the differences and similarities among the cultures of the world and attempts by anthropologists to explain them. Among the topics to be covered are: anthropological fieldwork, the nature of culture, the relation of language to culture, the relation of the environment to culture, family and kinship, political and economic systems, religion, and ethnocide.

§102. Introduction to World Prehistory. Every fall. MR. CROSS.

An introduction to the disciplines of anthropology and archaeology and the studies of human biological and cultural evolution. Among the subjects covered are conflicting theories of human biological evolution, the debates over the genetic and cultural bases of human behavior, the expansion of human populations into various ecosystems throughout the world, the domestication of plants and animals, the shift from nomadic to settled village life, and the rise of complex societies, the state, and civilization.

[§131. African-American Cultures.]*[§132. Latin American Societies.]*133. Modern Italy. Fall 1991. MR. KERTZER.

An overview of the development of modern Italian society, beginning with the unification of Italy in the mid-nineteenth century. Particular attention is paid to topics in social and political history, including the changing role of the Church and religion, the creation of a national identity, the rise of the peasant leagues and the early socialist movement, life in the Fascist period, the successes and crises of the Italian Communist Party, changes in family life and in male-female relations, the enduring conflict between northern and southern Italy, and the social implications of migration.

Prerequisite: Sophomore standing.

201. Anthropological Research. Spring 1990. Ms. DICKEY.

Anthropological research methods and perspectives are examined through readings of a sample of the "best" classic and recent ethnography, computer literacy, and the student's own fieldwork experience. Topics covered are: ethics, analytical and methodological techniques, the interpretation of data, and the use and misuse of anthropology.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology.

203. Psychological Anthropology. Fall 1989. Ms. Dickey.

This course focuses on four topics in psychological anthropology: the interaction of culture, society and personality; the effects of culture on cognition; definitions and treatment of mental illness in different cultures; and the application of psychoanalytical theory in anthropology. Different approaches are examined to show how anthropological theories and cross-cultural studies can be combined with psychological analysis to provide a more complete understanding of cultural influences on human mental processes.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology, or consent of the instructor.

§206. A Cross-Cultural Perspective on Families. Spring 1991.

Ms. BOLLES.

A cross-cultural view of family types and of household organization among traditional and contemporary societies. The focus will be on how families and kin groups are organized at different points in time, under varying social, cultural, and economic conditions. Contemporary issues affecting families, such as urbanization, suburbanization, labor force participation, and migration, will be examined.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology, or consent of the instructor.

207. Ritual and Myth. Fall 1990. THE DEPARTMENT.

Designed to provide a social scientific perspective in the study of religion. Various modes of analysis are considered, including evolutionism, functionalism, symbolic structuralism, psychoanalysis, cultural ecology, and Marxism. A wide range of religious phenomena from diverse societies is examined, including magic, sorcery, witchcraft, shamanism, revitalization movements, cults, and civil religion. Emphasis is on the place of ritual and myth in the larger social context.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology, or consent of the instructor.

209. Politics, Culture, and Society. Fall 1989. MR. KERTZER.

The cross-cultural study of politics ranging from nomadic bands to nation-states. Issues examined include: How egalitarian are nonstate political systems? How is social order maintained in societies lacking centralized government? How is warfare waged? How are inequalities of political power within a society legitimized? What is the role of symbolism in political legitimation and in revolution? What social processes are involved in attracting and mobilizing political support?

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology, or consent of the instructor.

§220. Hunters and Gatherers. Spring 1992. Ms. KAPLAN.

Hunters and gatherers have been characterized as being small groups of people who are constantly on the move and exhibit the simplest levels of social, political, and economic organization. This course traces the origins of this thinking and challenges this stereotype. Topics to be examined include hunter-gatherer adaptations to the world's changing environment, strategies of resource procurement, settlement patterns, technological complexity, levels of social, economic, and political integration, and religious life. This cross-cultural study compares such groups as the Australian Aborigines, Bushmen, Native Americans, and New Guinea Highlanders.

Prerequisite: At least one previous course in anthropology or sociology and sophomore standing.

222. Culture Through Performance. Fall 1990. Ms. DICKEY.

"Cultural performance" covers not only drama, dance, and music, but also such cultural media as ritual, literature, celebration, and spectacle. The anthropological study of these media examines their performers, producers, and audiences in addition to their form and content. Cultural performance will be approached in two ways: first, to see what it uniquely reveals about a culture to both natives and outsiders; and second, to consider what social, psychological, and political effects it can have on participants and their societies.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology, or consent of instructor.

[224. Women in American Society: Implications of Race, Ethnicity, and Class.]*§231. Native Peoples and Cultures of Arctic America. Spring 1991.

Ms. KAPLAN.

For thousands of years Eskimos (Inuit), Indian, and Aleut peoples lived in the arctic regions of North America as hunters, gatherers, and fishermen. Their clothing, shelter, food, and implements were derived from resources recovered from the sea, rivers, and the land. The characteristics of arctic ecosystems are examined. The social, economic, political, and religious lives of various arctic-dwelling peoples are explored in an effort to understand how people have adapted to harsh northern environments.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology.

232. Peoples of Northernmost Europe. Fall 1990. MR. BIGELOW.

An examination of the past and present cultures of Northern Scandinavia and the far northern islands of the North Atlantic: the Orkney, Shetland, and Faeroe Islands, Iceland, and Greenland. The anthropology of societies ranging from the early Viking explorers of North America to the reindeer herders of modern Finland will be discussed. Archaeological, ethnohistoric, and ecological evidence will be reviewed in outlining the interplay of environmental and human factors which influenced the growth, and in some cases the extinction, of the northernmost Norse, Sami (Lapp), and Celtic cultures.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology.

§235. South Asian Cultures and Societies. Fall 1990. Ms. DICKEY.

An introduction to the cultures and societies of South Asia, from Himalayan kingdoms and island nations to the vast sub-continent of India, Pakistan, and Bangladesh. Issues of religion, family and gender, caste, and class are examined, and current and historical changes discussed. (Same as Asian Studies 235.)

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology, sociology, or South Asian studies.

Ms. DICKEY.

In South Asia, political identity is often based on “primordial” ties such as caste, religion, ethnicity, language, and region. Political leadership involves various strategies for addressing and transcending these communal interests. The importance of issues such as personality politics and patronage in electoral leadership in several South Asian countries is examined. (Same as Asian Studies 236.)

This course focuses on relations of power based on gender and class, making a comparison between India, where gender and class hierarchies are firmly institutionalized, and China, where official attempts have been made since the Revolution to remove class and gender-based discrimination. The interrelationship of gender and class are examined, as are their influences on and connections with division of labor, religion, and health. Dominant and subordinate models and types of power are considered throughout the course. (Same as Asian Studies 237.)

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology, sociology, or Asian studies.

§239. North American Indians. Spring 1990. Mr. CROSS.

An overview and analysis of American Indian societies from pre-Columbian times to the present. Topics include the political, economic, family, and religious organization of native American societies; the impact of European expansion on Indian societies; and the current situation—both on and off reservation—of North American Indians.

Prerequisite: Previous course in anthropology or sociology, or consent of the instructor.

301. Anthropological Theory. Every spring. Mr. KERTZER.

An examination of the development of various theoretical approaches to the study of culture and society. Anthropology in the United States, Britain, and France is covered from the nineteenth century to the present. Contemporary controversies in anthropological theory are discussed. Among those considered are Morgan, Tylor, Durkheim, Boas, Mauss, Malinowski, Radcliffe-Brown, Mead, Geertz, and Levi-Strauss.

Prerequisite: Two courses in anthropology or consent of the instructor.

290. Intermediate Independent Study in Anthropology.

Mr. CROSS, Ms. DICKEY, Ms. KAPLAN, AND Mr. KERTZER.

400. Advanced Independent Study and Honors in Anthropology.

Mr. CROSS, Ms. DICKEY, Ms. KAPLAN, AND Mr. KERTZER.

Theater Arts

DIRECTOR OF THEATER RUTAN, Chair; ASSISTANT PROFESSOR AND DIRECTOR OF DANCE VAIL; VISITING INSTRUCTOR MCCUSKER;
 MS. JONES, Program Coordinator (fall semester);
 MS. PHILION, MR. RODERICK, MR. SARVIS

The Department of Theater Arts comprises two divisions: Dance and Theater. Although there is no major offered, students with special interest are encouraged, with faculty advice, to self-design a major.

Division of Dance

The Division of Dance provides a coherent course of study in dance history, theory, and criticism, choreography, and performance studies, including dance technique and repertory. The division's humanistic orientation emphasizes dance's relation to theater and the fine arts as well as its fundamental connection to the broad liberal arts curriculum. The program's goal is dance literacy and the development of skills – keen perception, imaginative problem solving, concentration, and respect for craft – important to original work in all fields.

101. Introduction to Dance. Every other fall. Fall 1990. Ms. VAIL.

A general introduction to dance as a technical, creative discipline and cultural/historical activity. Students will learn basic techniques for strength, flexibility, alignment, and coordination. They will explore social, ritual, and theatrical forms such as American swing, Balkan folk dance, Indian Bharata Natyam, English Morris dance, European ballet, and post-modern choreography. Studio work will be augmented by reading, discussion, videos, visiting experts, and field trips. No prerequisites.

121. Topics in Dance History. Every other fall.

Fall 1989. Twentieth-century American Dance Forms.

MR. MCCUSKER.

An examination of American concert dance from Isadora Duncan to the performance art of the 1980s. Films, videos, live performances, and visiting artists will supplement readings and discussion. This course may be repeated for credit with the contents changed.

141. Approaches to Choreography: Dance, Text, Image, Sound.

Every spring. Spring 1990. Ms. VAIL.

A studio course, augmented by reading, discussion, and viewing, in which students learn to craft dances and multi-media performance works by exploring various improvisational and compositional methods. Readings, films, field trips, and visiting choreographers supplement class work, which results in a final project. Enrollment limited to fifteen.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor. This course may be repeated for credit with contents changed.

291. Intermediate Independent Study in Dance. Ms. VAIL.

401. Advanced Independent Study in Dance. Ms. VAIL.

Performance Studies

Performance studies courses earn one-half credit per semester. Each course may be repeated a maximum of four times for credit. Students may also participate in all classes on a co-curricular basis, space permitting, and with the consent of the instructor. Visiting instructors for 1989-90: Paul Sarvis, Gwyneth Jones, Christine Phillion.

171. Modern Dance Technique. Every semester.

Training for flexibility, strength, musicality, and coordination. Studio classes include exercises and movement combinations. Two 90-minute classes per week and participation in rehearsals for required performances. One-half credit. Graded credit/fail. Classes at the introductory and intermediate levels taught by visiting instructors on Monday/Wednesday (Intermediate) or Tuesday/Thursday (Introductory), at 3:30 - 5:00 P.M.

181. Dance Repertory and Performance. Every semester.

Students learn faculty-choreographed works or reconstructions of important historical dances. Class meetings are conducted as rehearsals for performance at the end of the semester. Two 60-minute classes or one 120-minute class per week, and rehearsal and performance participation required. Taught at the introductory and intermediate levels. One-half credit. Graded credit/fail. Limited to twelve students.

Division of Theater

The Division of Theater in the Department of Theater Arts offers courses in acting, directing, set design, technical theater, and, upon occasion, courses in areas of special interest. The theater technician teaches stagelighting.

[63. Playwriting.]

70. Acting and Directing. Every semester. MR. RUTAN.

A studio class for students interested in the fundamentals of acting and directing. Enrollment limited to fifteen.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

[71. Set Design.]

72. Technical Theater. Every semester. MR. RODERICK.

An introductory course in the fundamentals of stagelighting. Enrollment limited to ten.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

[$73. Asian Rites and Theater.]

290. Intermediate Independent Study in Theater. MR. RUTAN.

400. Advanced Independent Study in Theater. MR. RUTAN.

Women's Studies

Administered by the Committee on Women's Studies

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR MAY, Program Director

Women's Studies is an interdisciplinary program that incorporates into the curriculum recent research done on women and gender. The Women's Studies Program explores the relationship between traditional disciplinary approaches to women's roles and emerging perspectives in the arts, humanities, and natural and social sciences. The program addresses women's experience on its own terms, and, using gender as a category of analysis, examines the status of and the relationship between women and men.

The Minor consists of Women's Studies 101, normally taken in the freshman or sophomore years, and four additional courses. To ensure the interdisciplinary nature of the minor, three of these courses must be outside the student's major department, and one must be outside the division of the major.

The Women's studies courses below may also be used to formulate a student-designed major that emphasizes women's studies. Related independent studies are offered in all humanities and social science departments. Further information on women's studies is available at the Women's Resource Center.

101. Introduction to Women's Studies. Fall 1989. Ms. MAY.

Provides an interdisciplinary overview of issues and approaches central to the study of women and gender. Through historical and literary analysis, a series of cross-cultural themes is examined, including images and stereotypes of women, identity and role issues, creativity, work, feminism, and other gender-related concerns.

Enrollment limited to twenty-five.

304. Feminist Theory. Spring 1990. Ms. MAY.

Examines major political and literary theories which explore the social construction of gender and the relationships between gender and power. This course will use an interdisciplinary approach to consider analyses from diverse perspectives such as radical feminism, French feminism and post-structuralism, and Marxist-feminism.

Prerequisite: Women's Studies 101 or consent of the instructor.

Hawthorne-Longfellow Library

THE STRENGTH of a college library rests in its collections of books and other library materials and in the ability of its staff to make the library useful to students. Bowdoin's Nathaniel Hawthorne-Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Library is exceptionally strong in its reputation as a college library. Totalling more than 747,000 volumes, its collections have been built up over a period of more than 190 years and include an unusually large proportion of distinguished and valuable volumes. Similarly distinguished has been the roster of librarians of the College, a list that includes John Abbot, Calvin Stowe, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, George T. Little, and Richard Barksdale Harwell. Its present full-time staff includes thirteen professional librarians and seventeen library assistants.

The first books that belonged to the library—a set of the Count Marsigli's Danubius Pannonica-Mysicus, given to the College in 1796 by General Henry Knox (who had been a bookseller in Boston before he achieved fame as George Washington's chief ordnance officer)—are still a part of its collections. In the early decades of the nineteenth century Bowdoin's library, largely because of extensive gifts of books from the Bowdoin family and the Benjamin Vaughan family of Hallowell, Maine, was one of the largest in the nation. It has been maintained as one of the larger college libraries of the country, but its areas of growth are now defined by the curriculum of the College and restrained by the desirability of containing it as a collection to which students can have easy, and almost complete, access. In addition to its 747,000 volumes (a count which includes bound periodicals and newspapers), the library has a collection of approximately 60,000 maps, over 2,000 photographs, and more than 500,000 manuscript items. The current annual rate of acquisition is about 18,000 volumes, and the annual expenditure per student is more than $1,000.

The Hawthorne-Longfellow Library building was opened in the fall of 1965. The library occupies 60,000 square feet of its floor space and will eventually incorporate the 26,000 square feet presently used for the College's administrative offices. An expansion project completed in 1984 provided more seating, additional open stack shelf space, and climate control for Special Collections. The library has seating for more than 575 readers, of which over 500 are at individual study tables and carrels, and shelving to house all of its collections (with the exception of the rare materials in the Special Collections Suite) on open stacks.

The entrance level of the building contains the portions of the library of most immediate use to its readers: the circulation desk, the card catalog, the reference desk, reference books and bibliographies, current newspapers, current periodicals, periodical indexes, and two large and handsome reading areas. Study stations are conveniently dispersed on this floor, as they are throughout the building.

The lower level of the library houses Bowdoin's extensive collection of bound periodicals, its collections of microfilm and other microforms, government documents, and the reserved reading shelves.

Special features of the second floor are an exhibit area and the President Franklin Pierce Reading Room, informally furnished and giving a broad view through floor-to-ceiling windows. Near this room are more newspapers and magazines for recreational reading. Also on this floor are two suites of ten faculty studies each and small rooms for student typing or group study. The rest of this floor is shelving surrounded by carrels.

More shelving and carrels occupy the principal portion of the third floor. There are nine additional faculty studies on this floor. The eastern end of the third floor is the Special Collections Suite. This includes, in addition to shelf space in a climate-controlled area for Bowdoin's rare books and manuscripts and space for their use, a conference room, and a staff and faculty lounge.

The collections of the library are strong (though inevitably of varying strength) in all areas covered by the curriculum of the College, and a constant effort is maintained to see that representative publications in fields outside the current curriculum are added to the library. There is special strength in documentary publications relating to both British and American history, in the books relating to exploration and the arctic regions, in books by and about Carlyle, in books and pamphlets about Maine, in materials about the Huguenots, in books and pamphlets on World War I and on the history of much of middle Europe in this century, and in the literary history of pre-twentieth-century France.

The reference collection includes most of the English-language encyclopedias and a good representation in original editions of major foreign encyclopedias—from two editions of the monumental eighteenth-century Encyclopédie of Diderot to such modern works as the Grand Larousse Encyclopédique, Der Grosse Brockhaus, the Enciclopedia Universal Illustrada Europeo-Americana, the Bol'shaya Sovetskaya Entsiklopedia, and the Enciclopedia Italiana de Scienze, Lettere ed Arti. In it also are the principal national bibliographies and other major bibliographical tools. Dispersed in their proper places throughout the collections are such distinguished sets as the Studies and Documents of the American Institute of Musicology in Rome, Armando Cortesaëo's Portugalise Monumenta Cartographia, the elephant-folio edition of John James Audubon's Ornithological Biography (his "Birds of America"), E. S. Curtis's The North American Indian, the Rerum Britannicarum Medii Aevi Scriptores, Jacques Paul Migne's Patrologiae (Latina), the Scriptores Rerum Germanicum, Reuben Gold Thwaites's Early American Travels, and The Victoria History of the Counties of England. Scholarly sets include the publications of the Camden Society, the Early English Text Society, the Egypt Exploration Society, the Geological Society of America, the Hakluyt Society, the Henry Bradshaw Society, the Huguenot Society of London, the Prince Society, the Royal Historical Society, the Royal Society, the Scottish History Society, the Scottish Text Society, and the Société des Anciens Textes Français. Of comparable, or perhaps even greater, distinction is Bowdoin's collection of more than 100,000 bound volumes of periodical publications.

Special collections in the Hawthorne-Longfellow Library comprise extensive collections of books, manuscripts, and other materials by and about both Hawthorne and Longfellow; books and pamphlets collected by Governor James Bowdoin; the private library of James Bowdoin III; an unusually large collection of late eighteenth- and early nineteenth-century books (particularly in the sciences) collected by Maine's distinguished Vaughan family; books, periodicals, and pamphlets contemporaneous to the French Revolution; the books, papers, and memorabilia of the Abbott family; an unusually fine representation of the items published in the District of Maine and in the state during the first decade of its statehood; and the books printed by the three most distinguished presses in Maine's history: the Mosher Press, the Southworth Press, and the Anthoensen Press.

Also in the Special Collections Suite are the printed items relating to the history of the College and the chief collections of manuscript archives of the College. These include much material on Bowdoin alumni and extend far beyond a narrow definition of official college records. Here also is the library's general collection of manuscripts. Outstanding among the manuscripts are the collections of the papers of Generals O. O. Howard and Charles Howard, of Senator William Pitt Fessenden, and of Professors Parker Cleaveland, Alpheus S. Packard, Henry Johnson, and Stanley Perkins Chase; collections of varying extent of most of Bowdoin's presidents, especially Jesse Appleton, Joshua L. Chamberlain, William DeWitt Hyde, and Kenneth Charles Morton Sills; manuscripts by Kenneth Roberts, Robert Peter Tristram Coffin, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Charles Stephens, Edwin Arlington Robinson, Elijah Kellogg, and such contemporary authors as Vance Bourjaily, John Pullen, and Francis Russell.

The books and manuscripts in Bowdoin's special collections are not treated simply as museum pieces. They are freely open to use by qualified scholars and are extensively used in introducing undergraduates—in their research projects and other independent work—to the variety of research materials regularly used in the scholarly world that they can expect to use if they continue into university graduate work.

Special collections include also the Bliss collection of books on travel, on French and British architecture, and other fine books (miscellaneous in nature but largely relating to the history of art and architecture) which are housed in the extraordinarily handsome Susan Dwight Bliss Room in Hubbard Hall. These books are additionally distinguished by their fine bindings. The books in this room and the room itself (with its Renaissance ceiling which once graced a Neapolitan palazzo) were the gift of Miss Bliss in 1945.

During term time the library is open from 8:30 A.M. to midnight Monday through Saturday, and on Sunday from 10:00 A.M. to midnight. When the College is not in session, the library is open 8:30 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. Monday through Friday. Small departmental collections in art, biology, chemistry, mathematics, and music are housed contiguous to the offices of the departments and are available for use on separate schedules of opening.

A new science library, now under construction, is expected to open for the 1990 fall term. The building will have the capacity for shelving 70,000 volumes, accommodating readers at 120 study stations, six faculty studies, and office and work areas for staff in 14,000 square feet on three levels. It will house all of the College's science-related materials with the exception of mathematics. The science library will offer the full range of library services, and its collections will be available on the same schedule as the Hawthorne-Longfellow Library.

The operations of the library and the growth of its collections are supported by the general funds of the College and by gifts from alumni and other friends of the library and of the College. The library is annually the recipient of generous gifts of both books and funds for the immediate purchase of books or other library materials. It is always especially desirous of gifts of books, manuscripts, and family records and correspondence relating to the alumni of the College. The income of more than a hundred gifts to the College as endowment is directed to the use of the library.

Bowdoin College issues a separate publication honoring those in whose names scholarships and book funds have been donated.

MUSEUM OF ART

AN ART COLLECTION has existed at Bowdoin almost since the founding of the College. The earliest acquisition of major importance was a group of 141 old master drawings bequeathed to the College in 1811 by James Bowdoin III. This was the first public collection of its kind in America and contains, among many treasures, a superb landscape by Pieter Bruegel the Elder. James Bowdoin III's collection of old master paintings came to the College in 1813; the Bowdoin family portraits were given in 1826 at Mrs. Sarah Bowdoin Dearborn's bequest.

Although various parts of the College's art collection were on view during the first half of the nineteenth century, it was not until 1855 that a special gallery devoted to the collection came into being in the College Chapel. This gallery was made possible by a gift from Theophilus Wheeler Walker, a cousin of President Leonard Woods. It was as a memorial to Walker that his two nieces, Harriet Sarah and Mary Sophia Walker, donated funds in 1891 for the erection of the present museum building, designed by Charles Follen McKim of McKim, Mead & White. Four murals of Athens, Rome, Florence, and Venice by John La Farge, Elihu Vedder, Abbott Thayer, and Kenyon Cox, respectively, decorate the museum's rotunda.

The museum holds an important collection of American colonial and federal portraits, including works by Smibert, Feke, Blackburn, Copley, Stuart, Trumbull, and Sully. Among the five examples by Robert Feke is the full-length likeness of Brigadier General Samuel Waldo, generally regarded as the finest American portrait of the first half of the eighteenth century. The nine paintings by Gilbert Stuart include pendant portraits of Thomas Jefferson and James Madison. A complete catalogue of this collection, Colonial and Federal Portraits at Bowdoin College, was published in 1966.

The College's collection of ancient art contains sculpture, vases, bronzes, gems, coins, and glass of all phases of the ancient world. The most notable benefactor in this area was Edward Perry Warren h '26, the leading collector of classical antiquities of the first quarter of the twentieth century. Five magnificent ninth-century B.C. Assyrian reliefs from the Palace of Ashurnazirpal II, the gift to the College of Henri Byron Haskell m 1855, are installed in the museum's rotunda. Ancient Art in Bowdoin College, a descriptive catalogue of these holdings, was published in 1964.

The College has been the recipient of a Samuel H. Kress Study Collection of twelve Renaissance paintings; a large collection of medals and plaquettes presented by Amanda Marquesa Molinari; a fine group of European and American pictures and decorative arts given by John H. Halford '07 and Mrs. Halford; a collection of Chinese and Korean ceramics given by Governor William Tudor Gardiner h '45 and Mrs. Gardiner; and a collection of nineteen paintings and 168 prints by John Sloan bequeathed by George Otis Hamlin.

The College's Winslow Homer Collection comprises paintings, drawings, prints, and memorabilia pertaining to his career. The first painting by Homer to enter the museum, a watercolor entitled The End of the Hunt, was contributed by the Walker sisters from their personal collection. In the fall of 1964, a gift from the Homer family brought to Bowdoin the major portion of the memorabilia remaining in the artist's studio at Prout's Neck, letters written over a period of many years to members of his family, and photographs of friends, family, and of Prout's Neck. A large collection of woodcuts was later purchased to augment these holdings and create an important center for the scholarly study of the life and career of this important American artist.

In the late 1960s and early 1970s, the museum acquired through gifts and purchase a survey collection of paintings, drawings, and prints by the American artist and illustrator Rockwell Kent.

The permanent collections also contain fine examples of the work of such nineteenth-century and twentieth-century American artists as Martin Johnson Heade, Eastman Johnson, George Inness, Thomas Eakins, John Singer Sargent, William Glackens, Marsden Hartley, Jack Tworokov, Arshile Gorky, Franz Kline, Andrew Wyeth 1870-1970, Leonard Baskin, and Alex Katz.

In 1982, the museum published a Handbook of the Collections, dedicated to the memory of John H. Halford 1807. In 1985, a comprehensive catalogue of the College's permanent collection of old master drawings was published. The Architecture of Bowdoin College, an illustrated guide to the campus by Patricia McGraw Anderson, was published in the spring of 1988.

In addition to exhibitions of the permanent collections, the museum schedules an active program of temporary exhibitions of art lent by institutions and private collectors throughout the United States. Among the important shows organized by the museum in recent years have been The Haystack Tradition: Art in Craft Media; Treasures from Near Eastern Looms; Winslow Homer Watercolors; Old Master Drawings at Bowdoin College; Alex Katz: Small Paintings; Yvonne Jacquette: Tokyo Nightviews; Makers '86 (a juried biennial exhibition of Maine crafts); Twilight of Arcadia: American Landscape Painters in Rome 1830-1880; and New England Now: Contemporary Art from Six States.

The College lends art objects in the custody of the museum to other institutions throughout the United States and, occasionally, to institutions abroad. The museum also sponsors symposia and special lectures. Since 1973, symposia on American furniture, nineteenth-century decorative arts, American Indian art, nineteenth-century American architects, conservation of art, oriental rugs, and American pewter have been held.

In 1985 the Associates Program merged with other special campus support groups to become the Association of Bowdoin Friends. This organization shares even more effectively the resources of the museum and campus with the community beyond the College. Its participants have access to a wide variety of activities and programs sponsored by the museum. Another vital support group of ninety-three volunteers conducts tours and assists the museum staff with clerical activities and educational programs.

The amount of space in the Walker Art Building was more than doubled in 1976 following extensive renovation. Two galleries for exhibiting the museum's permanent collections and two temporary exhibition galleries were added on the lower level. One of the new galleries was dedicated to the memory of John H. Halford '07, another in memory of John A. and Helen P. Becker.

THE PEARY-MACMILLAN ARCTIC MUSEUM AND ARCTIC STUDIES CENTER

The Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum was founded in honor of two famous arctic explorers and Bowdoin alumni, Admirals Robert E. Peary (Class of 1877) and Donald B. MacMillan (Class of 1898). On April 6, 1909, after a lifetime of arctic exploration, Peary became the first person to reach the North Pole. MacMillan was Peary's chief assistant on the 1909 expedition. For thirty-eight years MacMillan explored Labrador, Baffin Island, Ellesmere Island, and Greenland. Twenty-six of his expeditions were made on board the Bowdoin, a schooner he designed for work in ice-laden northern waters. MacMillan took college students on the expeditions and introduced them to the natural history and anthropology of the North. He was not the first to involve Bowdoin students in arctic exploration, however. In 1860 Paul A. Chadbourne, a professor of chemistry and natural history, had sailed along the Labrador and West Greenland coasts with students from Williams and Bowdoin.

The museum, established in 1967, is located on the first floor of Hubbard Hall, for many years the Bowdoin College Library. The building was named for General Thomas Hubbard of the Class of 1857, a generous benefactor of the College and financial supporter of Peary's arctic ventures. The museum's exhibitions were designed by Ian M. White, former director of the Fine Arts Museum of San Francisco, who sailed with MacMillan in 1950. Generous donations from members of the Class of 1925, together with gifts from George B. Knox of the Class of 1929, a former trustee, and other interested alumni and friends, made the museum a reality. Continued support from friends of the College, the Kane Lodge, and the Russell and Janet Doubleday Foundation have allowed the museum to continue to grow.

The museum's collections include equipment, paintings, and photographs relating to the history of arctic exploration, natural history specimens, and artifacts and drawings made by Inuit and Indians of arctic North America. The museum has large collections of ethnographic photographs recording past lifeways of native Americans taken on the expeditions of MacMillan and Robert Bartlett, an explorer and captain who sailed northern waters for nearly fifty years. Diaries, logs, and correspondence relating to the museum's collections are housed in the Special Collections section of the Hawthorne-Longfellow Library.

The Arctic Studies Center was established in 1985 as a result of a generous matching grant from the Russell and Janet Doubleday Foundation to endow the directorship of the center, in recognition of the Doubledays' close relationship to MacMillan. The center links the resources of the museum and library with teaching and research efforts, and hosts traveling exhibitions, lectures, workshops, and educational outreach projects. Through course offerings, field research programs, employment opportunities, and special events the center promotes anthropological, archaeological, and environmental investigations of the North.

Language Media Center

THE LANGUAGE MEDIA CENTER, formerly the Film, Video, and Language Laboratories, was renovated in the summer of 1985 with the help of a gift from the Pew Memorial Trust. Located in the basement of Sills Hall, the center supports the study of foreign languages by providing a fourteen-station Tandberg audio-active language laboratory, twelve individual viewing stations for VHS, Beta, and 3/4-inch videocassettes (European and American standards), a short-wave receiving station, a videodisc viewing station, and eight Macintosh micro-computer stations.

The center offers a group viewing area which accommodates up to thirty-five persons and a lobby area for informal viewing of live television transmitted from an eleven-foot domestic satellite dish reception system located on the roof of Morrell Gymnasium. Students are able to watch live French, Spanish, and Italian language television on the C and KU bands from this system. A sixteen-foot international reception system, located on the roof of Sills Hall, enables students to watch live programming from the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, South America, and the Middle East.

In addition, the Language Media Center provides an array of audio and video services, such as the high-speed duplication of audio tapes and the duplication of video tapes, cataloging and storage of A-V materials, and display of popular foreign language newspapers and periodicals. The center also sponsors weekly foreign films on video in Smith Auditorium. Installation of a new video projection system in Smith Auditorium was completed in the spring of 1986.

DRAMA

THE DIVISION OF THEATER within the Department of Theater Arts consists of the director of theater and the technical director. The main thrust of its activities is in making possible extensive extracurricular participation in the theater. The student drama group, Masque and Gown, was founded in 1903.

Credit courses in acting and directing are taught by the director of theater. Lighting is taught by the technical director. Each year at least three major productions are produced by the Masque and Gown on the stage of Pickard Theater. For many years one production each season has been a musical. In March 1989, Of Thee I Sing was presented to capacity houses. One very popular production each year is usually a Shakespeare drama or classical play. In the fall of 1988, The Importance of Being Earnest was presented. There are about eleven different productions during the school year.

Pickard Theater, the generous gift in 1955 of Frederick William Pickard, LL.D., of the Class of 1894, includes a modern, 500-seat theater with proscenium stage equipped with a hemp and counterweight system for flying scenery and an electronic lighting control system. In addition, Memorial Hall contains a scene shop and, on the lower floor, the G.H.Q. Playwrights' Theater, a 100-seat open-stage theater for experimental work by students.

Membership in the Masque and Gown results from major work on one or minor work on two of the plays produced each season. An executive committee of undergraduates elected by the members consults with the director of theater to determine the program for each year, handles publicity of the club, and organizes the production work. The Masque and Gown needs box-office workers, publicists, directors, designers, builders, painters, electricians, stage hands, and costumers, as well as actors, actresses, and playwrights.

One of the most important activities of the club has been its encouragement of playwriting. For over fifty years the Masque and Gown has sponsored an annual student-written one-act play contest, with cash prizes. The contest is now underwritten by the generous gift of Hunter S. Frost '47.

DANCE

The Division of Dance within the Department of Theater Arts evolved from the Bowdoin Dance Program, which began in 1971. Each year the Bowdoin Dance Group, the student performing ensemble, presents a major spring performance of student and faculty works in Pickard Theater. Students also perform annually at Parents Weekend in the fall and in the Museum of Art in May, in addition to presenting informal studio shows. Performances are linked to participation in technique, repertory, and choreography classes, held in the Dance Studio at Sargent Gymnasium.

The Division of Dance offers a comprehensive academic curriculum, including courses in dance history, theory, criticism, and choreography taught by the director of dance. Performance studies courses, on an academic or co-curricular basis, are taught by the director and visiting dance professionals.

The foundation for performance studies classes in dance technique and repertory is modern dance, including a wide spectrum of styles that may include aspects of ballet or jazz. The program focuses principally on an inventive, unrestricted approach to movement. Modern dance offers an appropriate format in which to explore the general nature of dance and the creative potential of undergraduates at a small liberal arts college. Classes in ballet and jazz are also offered on a co-curricular basis.

Since 1973 the Division of Dance (then the Dance Program), often as part of the Bates-Bowdoin-Colby Dance Alliance, has invited nationally known dance companies, choreographers, and critics to the campus for teaching residencies and performances. A partial list includes Meredith Monk, Douglas Dunn, Pauline Koner, Kei Takei, Pilobolus, Wendy Perron, Dana Reitz, Phoebe Neville, Impulse Dance Company, Sukanya, The Court Dance Company of New York, Susan Foster, the Copasetics, Art Bridgman and Myrna Packer, Doug Varone, Johanna Boyce, and critics Laura Shapiro, Marcia B. Siegel, and Jill Johnston. These performers teach master classes and offer lecture/demonstrations as part of their visits to campus.

MUSIC

Bowdoin offers its students a variety of opportunities in music. Undergraduates participate in the Chamber Choir, College Chorale, the College-Community Orchestra, Concert Band, and student-sponsored ensembles such as the Polar Jazz Ensemble, Meddiebempsters, and Miscellania. Students also perform as soloists in informal repertory sessions and in solo recitals.

The Chamber Choir is a mixed ensemble chosen by audition. It concentrates on the performance of serious choral literature from the Renaissance to the present. Its activities include on-campus concerts, national and international tours, contemporary choral festivals, and performances with early-music instruments.

The College Chorale, a large mixed chorus of students, faculty members, and townspeople, presents one major choral work with orchestra each semester. Past performances have included Schubert's Mass in G, Vaughn Williams's Fantasy on Christmas Carols, Mozart's Vesperae Solennes, the Bach B-Minor Mass, and Handel's Israel in Egypt.

The Bowdoin College Community Orchestra includes students, faculty, staff, and community members. It comprises two groups, a string orchestra and a large orchestra, and usually performs two concerts each semester. In the last two years the orchestra has performed standard works by such composers as Beethoven, Schubert, and Bach, as well as twentieth-century works by Cowell, Ives, and Copland, and music by women such as Vivian Fine and Joyce Mekeel. The orchestra features winners of a concerto competition each spring, and also collaborates in performances with the Bowdoin Chorale and the Chamber Choir.

The Concert Band plays on-campus concerts and often performs at academic festivities, such as the annual James Bowdoin Day ceremonies.

The Polar Jazz Ensemble performs standard and contemporary jazz in concert and at college functions. The Miscellania, a women's augmented double quartet, and the Meddiebempsters, a men's double quartet, perform popular music on campus and on tour.

Contemporary music plays an important role in Bowdoin's musical life. Student composers may prepare performances of their own works in special concerts, using the services of student, faculty, and visiting instrumentalists. Visiting composers frequently appear on campus and have included Milton Babbitt, Elliott Carter, George Crumb, Vivian Fine, Otto Luening, Thea Musgrave, and Pauline Oliveros. Bowdoin operates an electronic music studio with synthesizers, tape decks, and mixing and editing facilities, used by students in the electronic music courses and for independent study projects.

Bowdoin is also concerned with music composed before 1750 and has a fine collection of early instruments for student performance. Included are a number of recorders, krummhorns, cornetti, shawms, gambas, and rauschpfeifs. The collection also includes a single-manual Challis harpsichord and a dual-manual Martin harpsichord built expressly for Bowdoin, a Renaissance lute, and a vihuela. Early music is stressed in the department's choral activities as well.

Bowdoin has two organs on campus. There is a 1927 Austin organ in the Chapel, the gift of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, and a 1975 tracker action Jeremy Cooper organ, gift of Chester William Cooke III '57, in the Gibson Hall recital room.

When an artist is invited to perform at Bowdoin, the visit often includes discussions with small groups of students, appearances in classes, and the reading of student compositions. The Curtis-Zimbalist Concert Series, established in 1964 and the principal program through which musicians are invited to perform at Bowdoin, has included the Wesleyan University Gamelan, the Elizabethan Dance Ensemble, the Chinese Music Ensemble of New York, Joan Morris and William Bolcom, the Emmanuel Wind Quartet, the Apple Hill Chamber Players, the Lydian String Quartet, and Kurt Ollmann, baritone.

Professional teachers are available to give instruction in voice, piano, and other instruments to those students who wish to continue their study of applied music. The College provides practice rooms without charge, and instrumental and music lockers are available in Gibson Hall for a small fee.

Department of Athletics and Physical Education

---

BOWDOIN BELIEVES that physical education is an important part of the total educational program. The Department of Athletics provides students with opportunities for satisfying experiences in physical activities for the achievement of health and physical fitness. The physical education program includes classes which emphasize instruction in sports activities with carry-over value, intramural athletics, and intercollegiate competition. Students are encouraged to use the athletic facilities to participate in free recreational play.

Intercollegiate Athletics: During the past year, Bowdoin offered intercollegiate competition in the following varsity sports: men's teams were fielded in football, cross-country, basketball, track (winter and spring), skiing, swimming, hockey, wrestling, lacrosse, tennis, baseball, soccer, and squash; women's teams were fielded in cross-country, tennis, field hockey, ice hockey, squash, skiing, swimming, track (winter and spring), soccer, basketball, lacrosse, volleyball, and softball; coed teams were offered in golf and sailing. Junior varsity or freshman teams are maintained in intercollegiate sports whenever possible.

Physical Education: The instructional program includes a wide variety of activities utilizing campus and off-campus facilities, both natural and man-made. The activities have been selected to provide the Bowdoin community (students, faculty, and staff members) with the opportunity to receive basic instruction in exercises and leisure-time activities. It is hoped that participants will develop these activities into lifelong commitments. The program varies from year to year to meet current interests.

Intramural Athletics: Men's, women's, and coeducational leagues at the novice, intermediate, and advanced levels are offered in touch football, outdoor soccer, indoor and outdoor volleyball, golf, bicycling, box lacrosse, hockey, basketball, and softball. All students and members of the faculty and staff are eligible to participate in the intramural program unless they are playing for a corresponding varsity, junior varsity, or club team.

Outdoor Facilities: The outdoor athletic facilities of the College are excellent. Whittier Field is a tract of five acres that is used for football games and also includes a 400-meter, all-weather track. It has a grandstand with team rooms beneath it. Pickard Field is a tract of seventy-five acres that includes baseball and softball diamonds; spacious playing fields for lacrosse, soccer, football, touch football, and softball; eight tennis courts; and a cross-country ski track. The new athletic facility, including a field house and pool, is attached to Pickard Field House.

Indoor Facilities: The College possesses indoor facilities that are the equal of its outstanding outdoor facilities. Morrell Gymnasium contains a modern basketball court with seats for about 2,000 persons; two visiting team rooms; eleven squash courts; a locker room with 480 lockers; shower facilities; a modern, fully equipped training room; adequate offices for the director of athletics and his staff; and other rooms for physical education purposes. Sargent Gymnasium includes a wrestling room, a weight-training room, a Nautilus room, a special exercise room, a regulation basketball court, a training room, and locker rooms with 470 lockers. The William F. Farley Field House contains a 200-meter, six-lane track, a weight room, and four tennis courts adjacent to a 114-by-75-foot, 16-lane pool with two one-meter and one three-meter diving boards; a trainers' room; locker and equipment rooms; space for aerobics; and meeting rooms. Completing the athletic facilities is the Dayton Arena, which has a 200-by-85-foot refrigerated ice surface and seating accommodations for 2,600 spectators.

Student Life and Activities

BOWDOIN provides for its students a campus life that combines traditional features of the liberal arts college with modern facilities and programs to enrich the experience of undergraduate life. The curriculum offers formal instruction in those subjects appropriate to the development of educated and enlightened citizens. Within this framework students are encouraged and are permitted sufficient flexibility to develop their talents and capacities for leadership. Along with the library, laboratories, art museum, visual arts center, concert and lecture halls, social center, health center, and athletic facilities, continuing attention is given to the less tangible—but more important—intellectual resources of the College. Art shows, lectures, concerts, films, and dramatic productions are all planned to provide stimulating experiences that will enhance the student's everyday work within the formal curriculum.

Honor System: A student-initiated proposal, it places complete responsibility upon the individual students for integrity in all academic work, including the use of the library. During registration, students sign a pledge signifying that they understand and agree to abide by the Bowdoin College Honor System. In so doing, students pledge neither to give nor to receive unacknowledged aid in any academic undertaking. In the event that students witness a violation of the Honor System, they are obligated to take action consistent with their own sense of honor. The task of instructing students about their responsibilities under the Honor System resides with the Student Judiciary Board, a five-member body that also conducts hearings and recommends action to the dean in the event of a reported violation. The provisions and administration of the Honor System and other explanatory information are published in the Bowdoin College Student Handbook.

Board members for 1989-1990 are: Paul D. Popeo '90, Chair; Halley K. Harrisburg '90, Vice Chair; Gilberte R. Seymour '90, Thomas R. Johansson '91, Mitchell S. Zulkie '91. Alternates: John J. Doherty, Jr. '90, Matthew T. Schechter '91.

Social Code: The responsibility for creating a harmonious community among students with different backgrounds and conflicting personal values rests, in large part, with students themselves. Conflicts arising from these tensions and other individual indiscretions are adjudicated through the Bowdoin College Social Code. This unique code of conduct resulted from the cooperative efforts of faculty and students, and it governs undergraduate behavior at the College.

Similar to the Honor Code, students must subscribe to the Social Code at registration. The code clearly states that "the success of the Social Code requires the active commitment of all members of the community to the principles on which life at Bowdoin is based." When instances of suspected misconduct occur, the code recommends an informal resolution, initially. Persistent and serious violations of this Social Code may be brought to the attention of the dean of students and to the Student Judiciary Board. Specific provisions and administration of the Social Code are found in the Student Handbook.

Living and Dining Accommodations: The College provides living and dining accommodations for its students. Entering freshmen must reside in college-owned facilities. Most students dine at Moulton Union or Wentworth Hall. Those electing to join coeducational fraternities may take their meals at the fraternity house. Students who request and accept room accommodations in the fall are obligated to pay a full academic year's rent for those accommodations. Further, students who live in campus dormitories or fraternities are required to maintain a regular board contract with the Centralized Dining Service. Students living in college apartments are not required to take a regular board contract. The fraternity chapter houses furnish dining accommodations for their members and living accommodations for a proportion of the sophomore and junior classes (the final arrangements for living quarters being contingent upon the size of enrollment and other factors).

Moulton Union: The Union serves as the community center for the College.

The main lounge is arranged for informal use as well as college gatherings: lectures, recitals, receptions, and banquets. The Lancaster Lounge, in the wing opposite the main lounge, and a smaller lounge add flexibility to the main floor area. Also on this floor are the information desk and the offices of the director of the union, the director of events, the student activities coordinator, and the campus scheduling supervisor.

A large, self-service bookstore, which features a broad selection of paperbacks, is located in the southeast corner on the main floor and supplies textbooks and sundries to members of the College.

Extracurricular activities such as the Student Executive Board, Student Union Committee, the Camera Club, and WBOR have headquarters in the Union. The Career Services Office is on the second floor of the building.

On the lower floor, food service is provided in a variety of dining rooms, one of which serves as a banquet room for groups of less than one hundred. The Bear Necessity, opened in 1981, provides an informal gathering place for members of the college community. A light supper menu and entertainment are available. Also on this floor are a game room, a mail room, a student-operated used-book store, and an automated bank teller machine.

The formulation of policies and the planning of the many-sided program of activities are the responsibility of the student activities coordinator and the Student Union Committee. By sponsoring concerts, art exhibitions, tournaments, and other entertainments, the committee contributes to the social life of the entire college community.

Coeducational Fraternities: Approximately 40 percent of all Bowdoin students join one of the coeducational fraternities at some time in their career at the College. Local membership is open to all undergraduates, although some national fraternities do not recognize women as members. The Governing Boards have mandated that, by 1991, all fraternities recognized by Bowdoin must be open to all men and women on a fully equal basis. One-third of the upperclass fraternity members normally live in the fraternity houses, which are located adjacent to the campus and are independently owned and operated by alumni house corporations. Most other members live in college housing but frequently eat meals in their fraternity dining rooms. All Bowdoin social and safety regulations apply to fraternity members.

For their members, fraternities are an important part of college life, providing a focus for social activities. In addition, fraternity members enjoy many benefits derived from the sharing of educational concerns and daily living experiences within the organizations. Membership affords students an opportunity to assume significant responsibilities in self-governance within the fraternity organizations and offers exposure to the history and traditions of the fraternities and the College.

Student Executive Board: Student social life at Bowdoin, the operation of student organizations, and the canvassing of student opinion to advise faculty and administrators on issues of general campus concern are entrusted to student governance. Undergraduate self-government is vested in the Student Executive Board, which makes recommendations about student affairs to the student body and to the faculty. In addition, the Student Executive Board participates in the broader governance of the campus through representatives chosen by the board to be members of the various committees of the faculty and the Governing Boards.

Student Judiciary Board: The Student Judiciary Board is responsible for maintaining college standards of behavior through the enforcement of the Honor System and the Social Code. The board conducts administrative hearings on suspected misconduct and renders its findings to the dean of students in the form of recommendations. The board comprises three seniors and two juniors, all selected by the Student Judiciary Board with the approval of the Student Executive Board.

Student Representatives to Committees of the Faculty and Governing Boards: Most of the committees of the faculty and Governing Boards have invited student representatives to be voting members and to sit with them in their deliberations. This representation has facilitated the exchange of information and points of view between the various constituencies of the College.

Board of Proctors: The general comfort of residents, informal peer counseling, and the maintenance of order in the residence halls are the responsibility of the proctors, who are appointed by the assistant dean of students.

Organizations

Afro-American Society: The Afro-American Society, formed in 1968, was created to preserve, establish, and promote the Afro-American heritage within the Bowdoin community. Educational, cultural, and social activities are generally focused on the special experiences of Afro-Americans. Membership is available to all students who share similar interests. The general public is invited to participate in the Afro-American Society's varied activities throughout the year. In cooperation with student and faculty groups, the society has regularly sponsored educational programs, cultural expressions, and general entertainment for the benefit of the entire community. The society is instrumental in the recruitment of black students and assists black freshmen in making the adjustment to college life.

Alcohol Peer Advisers: The Alcohol Peer Advisers are specially trained students who have been given accurate information about alcohol and its effects on fellow students, friends, and family. APAs are willing to listen to fellow students and can act as a referral link to other resources available on campus and in the community. APAs have also developed an outreach program with the goal of educating the Bowdoin community about alcohol-related issues.

Amnesty International: Amnesty International is a campus chapter of the Nobel Prize-winning human rights organization. In addition to working for the release of prisoners of conscience, the group is concerned with promoting human rights education throughout the campus.

Asian Interest Group: The purpose of the group is to deal with Asian issues that arise in the Bowdoin College community. The group works closely with the various offices of the administration to discuss admissions, student life, and curriculum policies; to help students adjust to college life; and to promote Asian-American awareness.

Bowdoin Active in Community Service (BACS): A wide range of social service activities is undertaken by students. Their voluntary nature is their essential characteristic. Students participating in them receive no compensation or academic credit. Each of the major programs is coordinated by a student leader, and the smaller or individual activities are organized by the voluntary service programs coordinator.

Currently these activities include the Big Brother-Big Sister program, which provides companionship and activities for children of elementary and junior high school age; a program of assistance to area retarded citizens; programs which seek to help the elderly and infirm in the region; the Regional Hospital Program for those considering careers in medicine; a school tutoring program; Bowdoin Undergraduate Teachers, which is of particular interest to those interested in a teaching career since it provides opportunities for direct participation in local school classrooms; the Bath Children's Home Program, in which students offer friendship and academic assistance to youngsters living in a group home; Project BASE (Bowdoin and Sweetser exchange), which offers an opportunity to work with emotionally disturbed children at a residential school, and the Maine Volunteer Lawyers Project, in which trained students offer preliminary legal information to low-income Portland-area residents.

Bowdoin Dance Group: The group sponsors visiting performers, gives informal concerts or lecture/demonstrations, and presents a major spring performance of student works.

Bowdoin Film and Video Society: The BFS sponsors films throughout the school year. Some of the box office proceeds are used to buy films for the permanent collection.

Bowdoin Friendship Program: The program is designed to help familiarize incoming freshmen with Bowdoin on a personal level. Incoming freshmen are paired with an upperclassman who is expected to be available for advice and friendship throughout the freshman year.

Bowdoin Literary Society: The group sponsors lectures, poetry readings, and other events centered around literature.

The Bowdoin Review: The Bowdoin Review is a student essay magazine published twice in the academic year. Essays on any subject will be considered for publication.

Bowdoin Rugby Football Club: The club sponsors rugby matches with teams from other colleges and independent teams.

Bowdoin Women's Association: The BWA sponsors lectures on topics of interest to the entire college community as well as informal gatherings where Bowdoin women can get to know one another and discuss their Bowdoin experiences. The BWA has an office in the Women's Resource Center at 24 College Street.

Bugle: The Bugle is the college yearbook.

Camera Club: This informal organization provides activities and collaboration for Bowdoin's many student photographers.

Chapel Talks Program: Organized and directed by students, the program offers an opportunity for members of the community to meet weekly in the Chapel to contemplate and question talks delivered on a wide variety of topics.

College Republicans: A conservative political organization open to students of any and all party affiliations. The group sponsors speakers, has social activities, and publishes the Patriot.

Croquet at Bowdoin: This co-ed club not only plays croquet but fosters discussion of the sport.

Gay/Lesbian-Straight Alliance: The group provides an avenue for the discussion of relationships, families, love, and sexuality, and establishes a social and political support network for nonheterosexual participants. The alliance presents a number of films and lectures each year.

Interfraternity Council: The presidents of the fraternities meet regularly to discuss common issues and to review ways in which fraternities at Bowdoin may contribute more effectively to undergraduate life.

International Club: The club sponsors a broad range of intercultural events, including dances, lectures, and dinners, and helps facilitate exchange between students of varying backgrounds with international interests. The club also manages 30 College Street as the International House.

Huntington Club: The club sponsors birdwatching field trips and lectures.

Kamerling Society: Named in honor of the late Samuel E. Kamerling, Charles Weston Pickard Professor of Chemistry, the society is Bowdoin's student chapter affiliated with the American Chemical Society. The society sponsors lectures, films, and seminars for the college community.

Masque and Gown: This college dramatic organization has for more than eighty seasons provided undergraduates with opportunities to give practical expression to their interest in the theater. The Executive Committee produces full-length and one-act plays and sponsors the annual student-written one-act play contest; the committee also uses various experimental production techniques. Under the direction of the director of theater and housed in Pickard Theater, the Masque and Gown offers many opportunities for those interested in playwriting, scene design and construction, acting, business management, and publicity.

Music: Music activities include the Meddiebempsters, a men's augmented double quartet; the Miscellania, a women's augmented double quartet; the What Four, a barbershop quartet; the Bowdoin Swing Band; the Wind Ensemble; the Chamber Choir; the Chorale; the Bowdoin Precision Marching Band; and the Community Orchestra.

Orient: The Bowdoin Orient, the college newspaper, is now in its 118th year of continuous publication. There are opportunities for freshmen as reporters and for newcomers at the news desk, and advancement on the staff is rapid for those with a flair for journalism. Students interested in the business management of the newspaper will also find opportunities for work and advancement. The club also provides leadership training workshops for members of the college community.

Outing Club: Organized in 1948, the Outing Club sponsors a program of outdoor activities including rock climbing, hiking, cycling, canoeing, and skiing.

Paracelsus Society: The organization is a biological and natural science society which presents lectures, seminars, and films.

The Peer Relations Support Group (PRSG): The members of this group have been trained in the issues surrounding sexual harassment and interpersonal relationships. PRSG's purpose is to encourage healthy relationships and interpersonal communication and consideration among members of the Bowdoin community. The members organize events that promote campus awareness and are also available to provide information, one-on-one peer counseling, or crisis intervention.

Quill: The Quill is the college literary publication and is normally published once each semester. Each issue contains articles in all fields of student literary interest: short stories, essays, poems, and reviews. Contributions are welcomed from all members of the College.

Radio: In WBOR, "Bowdoin-on-Radio," the College has a well-equipped FM radio station as the result of a gift from the Class of 1924. Situated on the second floor of the Moulton Union, the student-operated station broadcasts daily when the College is in session. Positions as announcers, engineers, newscasters, and sportscasters are numerous and open to any student who has an FCC Third Class Permit with broadcast endorsement.

Religious Life: Religious activities at Bowdoin are organized by the students. In recent years the Bowdoin Christian Fellowship, the Bowdoin Jewish Organization, and the Newman Apostolate have been active. Each has planned activities appropriate to its membership.

Russian Club: The club sponsors concerts of Russian music and showings of Soviet films, holds Russian dinners, and leads discussions of current affairs involving the USSR in its efforts to promote Russian and East European culture on the Bowdoin campus.

Speech and Parliamentary Debate Society: The society promotes intercollegiate and intramural debate, campus discussion, and the development of rhetorical, analytical, and argumentative skills.

Struggle and Change: A political organization whose goal is to raise issues on campus about the larger society in which we live. Such issues include nuclear power and apartheid. The group sponsors speakers, has weekly discussions, and publishes To the Root, an alternative political newspaper.

Student Union Committee: This group is a committee of elected members which organizes, coordinates, and sponsors a number of campus-wide social activities including lectures, dances, parties, and concerts.

Thymes: The Bowdoin Thymes is the daily newspaper/calendar of the College. It is a publication of the Office of Public Relations and Publications and employs two or three undergraduates as coeditors. Each weekday the Thymes is printed and delivered to dormitories, fraternities, and other buildings on campus.

Wherefore Art: This organization sponsors a variety of events focused on art, including films, lectures, museum trips, and discussions.

Young Democrats: The group is a partisan organization which welcomes people from all parts of the political spectrum to participate. The group's goal is to promote political awareness on campus by sponsoring speakers and debates.

Career Services

---

THE Office of Career Services (OCS) complements the academic mission of the College. By increasing students' awareness of the skills they are developing through a liberal arts education, career counselors reinforce the academic focus of students' experiences at Bowdoin. At the same time, OCS seeks to dispel misconceptions about the connection between specific courses or majors and career options.

Major goals of OCS are to help undergraduates and alumni/ae better understand themselves in relation to the world of work and to introduce them to the process of career planning. In so doing, OCS assists students in their transition to work or graduate study and prepares them to deal with later career and life decisions.

A staff of five is available for individual career counseling. Workshops and presentations throughout the academic year offer assistance in identifying skills, selecting a major, locating internship and summer job prospects, and refining job hunting techniques. Information is available on more than 1,000 summer and semester internships. In counseling style and program content, OCS addresses the needs of those with diverse interests, attitudes, and expectations. Each year, more than fifty companies, sixty graduate schools, and an increasing number of secondary schools participate in on-campus recruiting programs. Bowdoin is also a member of interviewing consortia in Maine, Boston, and New York City, which affords additional employment interviews for our undergraduates.

Alumni and parents are regularly involved both on and off campus in special programs designed to enhance students' understanding of the job market and to broaden their awareness of career options. A fall Career Day, presentations on specific career fields, and on-campus interviews highlight this involvement. In addition, a computerized network allows the staff to refer students to alumni/ae and parents in locations and professions of particular interest.

The office continually updates two resource centers, located in the Moulton Union and in the Department of Education, which house materials on specific careers, companies and organizations, graduate schools, and internship opportunities. A weekly newsletter publicizes all OCS events and programs in addition to internship and job openings.

Position of Intern: Each year the College extends opportunities for graduating seniors to serve and to learn in one-year intern positions. These posts have been available within the following offices: Dean of Students, Admissions, Career Services, Financial Aid, Development, and Public Relations and Publications. Not only do the interns benefit from a broad administrative exposure, including a variety of assignments, but the College gains from the availability of opinions and experiences of these recent students in forming new policies, procedures, and programs.

Lectureships

---

THE REGULAR INSTRUCTION of the College is supplemented each year by ten or twelve major lectures, in addition to lectures, panel discussions, and other presentations sponsored by the various departments of study and undergraduate organizations.

John Warren Achorn Lectureship (1928): Established by Mrs. John Warren Achorn as a memorial to her husband, a member of the Class of 1879. The income is used for lectures on birds and bird life.

Charles F. Adams Lectureship (1978): Established by the bequest of Charles F. Adams of the Class of 1912. To support a lectureship in political science and education.

Albert C. Boothby Memorial Fund (1977): Established by the family and friends of Albert C. Boothby of the Class of 1929. Terms to be established.

Chemistry Lecture Fund (1939): Established by a vote of the Governing Boards. For Department of Chemistry special lectures in chemistry.

Dan E. Christie Mathematics Lecture Fund (1976): Established by family, friends, colleagues, and former students in memory of Dan E. Christie of the Class of 1937, a member of the faculty for thirty-three years and Wing Professor of Mathematics from 1965 until his death in 1975. To sponsor lectures under the auspices of the Department of Mathematics.

Annie Talbot Cole Lectureship (1907): Established by Mrs. Calista S. Mayhew in memory of her niece, Mrs. Samuel Valentine Cole. To contribute "to the ennoblement and enrichment of life by standing for the idea that life is a glad opportunity. It shall, therefore, exhibit and endeavor to make attractive the highest ideals of character and conduct, and also, insofar as possible, foster an appreciation of the beautiful as revealed through nature, poetry, music, and the fine arts."

The Elliott Oceanographic Fund (1973): Established by the Edward Elliott Foundation and members of the Elliott family in memory of Edward L. Elliott, a practicing geologist and mining engineer who expressed a lifelong interest in science and the sea. To support oceanographic education, in its widest definition, for Bowdoin students. It is expected that at least part of the fund will be used to support the Elliott Lectures in Oceanography, which were inaugurated in 1971.

Alfred E. Golz Lecture Fund (1986): Established by Ronald A. Golz of the Class of 1956 in memory of his father. To provide a lecture by an eminent historian or humanitarian to be scheduled close to the November 21 birthday of Alfred E. Golz.

- Cecil T. and Marion C. Holmes Mathematics Lecture Fund (1977): Established by friends, colleagues, and former students to honor Cecil T. Holmes, Ph.D., a member of the faculty for thirty-nine years and Wing Professor of Mathematics Emeritus since his retirement in 1964. To provide lectures under the sponsorship of the Department of Mathematics.
- Mayhew Lecture Fund (1923): Established by Mrs. Calista S. Mayhew. To provide lectures on bird life and its effect on forestry.
- Charles Weston Pickard Lecture Fund (1961): Established by John Coleman Pickard of the Class of 1922, in memory of his grandfather, a member of the Class of 1857. Beginning with the academic year 1963-1964, and every four years thereafter, the income is used to provide a lecture in the field of journalism in its broadest sense. "By journalism is meant lines of communication with the public, whether through newspapers, radio, television, or other recognized media."
- Kenneth V. Santagata Memorial Lecture Fund (1982): Established by family and friends of Kenneth V. Santagata of the Class of 1973. To provide at least one lecture each term, rotating in the arts, humanities, and social sciences, with lecturers to be recognized authorities in their respective fields, to present new, novel, or non-conventional approaches to the designated topic in the specified category.
- Edith Lansing Koon Sills Lecture Fund (1962): Established by the Society of Bowdoin Women to honor Mrs. Kenneth C. M. Sills, the wife of a former president of Bowdoin College.
- The Harry Spindel Memorial Lectureship (1977): Established by the gift of Rosalyne Spindel Bernstein and Sumner Thurman Bernstein in memory of her father, Harry Spindel, as a lasting testimony to his lifelong devotion to Jewish learning. To support annual lectures in Judaic studies or contemporary Jewish affairs.
- The Jasper Jacob Stahl Lectureship in the Humanities (1970): Established by the bequest of Jasper Jacob Stahl of the Class of 1909. "To support a series of lectures to be delivered annually at the College by some distinguished scholarly and gifted interpreter of the Art, Life, Letters, Philosophy, or Culture, in the broadest sense, of the Ancient Hebraic World, or of the Ancient Greek World or of the Roman World, or of the Renaissance in Italy and Europe, or of the Age of Elizabeth I in England, or that of Louis XIV and the Enlightenment in France, or of the era of Goethe in Germany."
- Tallman Lecture Fund (1928): Established by Frank G. Tallman, an honorary graduate in 1935, as a memorial to the Bowdoin members of his family. For a series of lectures to be delivered by persons selected by the faculty. In addition to offering a course for undergraduates, the Visiting Professor on the Tallman Foundation gives public lectures on the subject of special interest.

Prizes and Distinctions

---

THE BOWDOIN PRIZE: A fund established as a memorial to William John Curtis, LL.D., of the Class of 1875, by his wife and children. The prize, four-fifths of the total income not to exceed $10,000, is to be awarded "once in each five years to the graduate or former member of the College, or member of its faculty at the time of the award, who shall have made during the period the most distinctive contribution in any field of human endeavor. The prize shall only be awarded to one who shall, in the judgment of the committee of award, be recognized as having won national and not merely local distinction, or who, in the judgment of the committee, is fairly entitled to be so recognized." (1928)

The first award was made in 1933 and the most recent in 1985. Recipient of the award in 1985 was Joan Benoit Samuelson, A.B., of the Class of 1979.

THE PRESERVATION OF FREEDOM FUND: A fund established by Gordon S. Hargraves of the Class of 1919 to stimulate understanding and appreciation of the rights and freedoms of the individual, guaranteed under the Constitution of the United States. The prize is to be awarded to a student, a member of the faculty, or a group of Bowdoin alumni making an outstanding contribution to the understanding and advancement of human freedoms and the duty of the individual to protect and strengthen these freedoms at all times. (1988)

The first award was made in 1988 to William B. Whiteside, Frank Munsey Professor of History. Recipients of the award in 1989 were United States Senators William S. Cohen '62 and George J. Mitchell, Jr. '54.

UNDERGRADUATE PRIZES

Prizes in General Scholarship

Brooks-Nixon Prize Fund: A fund established by Percy Willis Brooks, of the Class of 1890, and Mary Marshall Brooks. The annual income is awarded each year as a prize to the best Bowdoin candidate for selection as a Rhodes scholar. (1975)

Brown Memorial Scholarships: A fund for the support of four scholarships in Bowdoin College given by the Honorable J. B. Brown, of Portland, in memory of his son, James Olcott Brown, A.M., of the Class of 1856. According to the provisions of this foundation, a prize will be paid annually to the best scholar in each undergraduate class who shall have graduated at the high school in Portland after having been a member thereof not less than one year. The awards are made by the City of Portland upon recommendation of the College. (1865)

Dorothy Haythorn Collins Award: An award from the estate of Dorothy Haythorn Collins and from her family to the Society of Bowdoin Women. Each year the society selects a department from the sciences, the social studies, and the humanities. The selected department chooses a student to honor by purchasing a book and placing it with a nameplate in the department library. The student also receives a book and certificate of merit. (1985)

Almon Goodwin Prize Fund: This fund was established by Mrs. Maud Wilder Goodwin in memory of her husband, Almon Goodwin, of the Class of 1862. The annual income is awarded to a member of Phi Beta Kappa chosen by vote of the Board of Trustees of the College at the end of the recipient's junior year. (1906)

George Wood McArthur Prize: A fund bequeathed by Almira L. McArthur, of Saco, in memory of her husband, George Wood McArthur, of the Class of 1893. The annual income is awarded as a prize to that member of the graduating class who, coming to Bowdoin as the recipient of a prematriculation scholarship, shall have attained the highest academic standing among such recipients within the class. (1950)

Leonard A. Pierce Memorial Prize: A prize, established by friends and associates. It is awarded annually to that member of the graduating class who is continuing his or her education in an accredited law school and who attained the highest scholastic average during his or her years in college. It is paid to the recipient upon enrollment in law school. (1960)

Commencement Prizes

DeAlva Stanwood Alexander Prize: Established by DeAlva Stanwood Alexander, LL.D., of the Class of 1870, this fund furnishes two prizes for excellence in select declamation. (1908)

Class of 1868 Prize: Contributed by the Class of 1868, this prize is awarded for a written and spoken oration by a member of the senior class. (1868)

Goodwin Commencement Prize: Established by the Reverend Daniel Raynes Goodwin, D.D., of the Class of 1832, the prize is awarded for a written or oral presentation at Commencement. (1882)

Departmental Prizes

ART

Art History Junior-Year Prize: A prize funded annually by a donor wishing to remain anonymous and awarded to a student judged by the Department of Art to have achieved the highest distinction in the major program in art history and criticism at the end of the junior year. (1979)

Art History Senior-Year Prize: A prize established by a donor wishing to remain anonymous and awarded to a graduating senior judged by the Department of Art to have achieved the highest distinction in the major in art history and criticism. (1982)

Anne Bartlett Lewis Memorial Fund: The annual income of a fund for demonstrations of excellence in art history and creative visual arts by two students enrolled as majors in the Department of Art. The fund was established by her husband, Henry Lewis, and her children, William H. Hannaford, David Hannaford, and Anne D. Hannaford. (1981)

BIOLOGY

Copeland-Gross Biology Prize: A prize named in honor of two former Josiah Little Professors of Natural Science, Manton Copeland and Alfred Otto Gross, Sc.D., is awarded to that graduating senior who has best exemplified the idea of a liberal education during the major program in biology. (1972)

Donald and Harriet S. Macomber Prize in Biology: A fund established by Dr. and Mrs. Donald Macomber in appreciation for the many contributions of Bowdoin in the education of members of their family—David H. Macomber '39, Peter B. Macomber '47, Robert A. Zottoli '60, David H. Macomber, Jr. '67, and Steven J. Zottoli '69. The income of the fund is to be awarded annually as a prize to the outstanding student in the Department of Biology. If, in the opinion of the department, in any given year there is no student deemed worthy of this award, the award may be withheld and the income for that year added to the principal of the fund. (1967)

James Malcolm Moulton Prize in Biology: The income of a fund given by former students and other friends in honor of the George Lincoln Skolfield, Jr., Professor of Biology Emeritus, to provide a book prize to be awarded annually to the outstanding junior majoring in biology, as judged by scholarship and interest in biology. At the discretion of the Department of Biology, this award may be made to more than one student or to none in a given year. (1984)

CHEMISTRY

Philip Weston Meserve Fund: A prize in memory of Professor Philip Weston Meserve, of the Class of 1911, "to be used preferably to stimulate interest in Chemistry." (1941)

CLASSICS

Hannibal Hamlin Emery Latin Prize: A prize is awarded to a member of the junior or senior class for proficiency in Latin. (1922)

Nathan Goold Prize: A prize established by Abba Goold Woolson, of Portland, in memory of her grandfather. It is awarded to that member of the senior class who has, throughout the college course, attained the highest standing in Greek and Latin studies. (1922)

Sewall Greek Prize: A prize given by Jotham Bradbury Sewall, S.T.D., of the Class of 1848, formerly professor of Greek in the College, is awarded to the member of the sophomore class who sustains the best examination in Greek. (1879)

Sewall Latin Prize: A prize given by Professor Sewall is awarded to the member of the sophomore class who sustains the best examination in Latin. (1879)

ECONOMICS

Noyes Political Economy Prize: A prize established by Crosby Stuart Noyes, A.M. (Bowdoin, 1887), is awarded to the best scholar in political economy. (1897)

ENGLISH

Bradbury Debating Prize: The annual income of a fund given by James Ware Bradbury, LL.D., of the Class of 1825, is awarded for excellence in debating. First team, two-thirds of the income; second team, one-third of the income. (1901)

Brown Competition Prizes: Two prizes from the annual income of a fund established by Philip Greely Brown, A.M., of the Class of 1877, in memory of Philip Henry Brown, Esq., A.M., of the Class of 1851, are offered to members of the senior class for excellence in extemporaneous English composition. (1874)

Hiland Lockwood Fairbanks Prize Fund: This fund was established by Captain Henry Nathaniel Fairbanks, of Bangor, in memory of his son Hiland Lockwood Fairbanks, of the Class of 1895. Of the annual income one-half is awarded as a single prize for excellence in English 11 and the remaining one-half, in a two-to-one ratio, is awarded as first and second prizes to the two outstanding students in English 10. (1909)

Abraxas Award

An engraved pewter plate is awarded to the school sending two or more graduates to the College, whose representatives maintain the highest standing during their freshman year. This award was established by the Abraxas Society. (1915)

PHI BETA KAPPA

The Phi Beta Kappa Society, national honorary fraternity for the recognition and promotion of scholarship, was founded at the College of William and Mary in 1776. The Bowdoin Chapter (Alpha of Maine), the sixth in order of establishment, was founded in 1825. Election is based primarily on scholarly achievement, and consideration is given to the student's entire college record. Students who have studied away are expected to have a total academic record, as well as a Bowdoin record, that meets the standards for election. Nominations are made three times a year – usually in September, February, and May. The total number of students selected in any year does not normally exceed ten per cent of the number graduating in May. Students elected to Phi Beta Kappa are expected to be persons of integrity and good moral character. Candidates must have completed at least twenty-four semester courses of college work, including at least sixteen courses at Bowdoin.

JAMES BOWDOIN DAY

Named in honor of the earliest patron of the College, James Bowdoin Day was instituted in 1941 to accord recognition to those undergraduates who distinguish themselves in scholarship. Inaugurated by Stanley Perkins Chase '05, Henry Leland Chapman Professor of English Literature (1925-1951), the exercises consist of the announcement of awards, the presentation of books, a response by an undergraduate, and an address.

The James Bowdoin Scholarships, carrying no stipend, are awarded to undergraduates who have completed a minimum of two semesters' work. The scholarships are determined on the basis of a student's entire record at Bowdoin. To be named a James Bowdoin Scholar a student must obtain three-quarters honor grades, including one-quarter high honor grades. A student must obtain two additional high honor grades to balance each grade of pass, in addition to the three-quarter honor grades.

A book, bearing a replica of the early college bookplate serving to distinguish the James Bowdoin Collection in the library, is presented to every undergraduate who has carried a full course program and has received a grade of high honors in each of his courses during the last academic year.

THE APPLIED ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE FUND

This fund was established in 1981 by gifts from Robert C. Porter of the Class of 1934, the Ivy Fund, Suburban Propane Gas Corporation, March & McLennan Companies, Inc., and Eberstadt Asset Management, Inc. It is to be used to support the research and instructional program of the Marine Research Laboratory and the Hydrocarbon Research Center.

FACULTY DEVELOPMENT FUND

This fund was established by Charles Austin Carey, LL.D., of the Class of 1910. The income from the fund is expended each year "for such purpose or purposes, to be recommended by the President and approved by the Governing Boards, as shall be deemed to be most effective in maintaining the caliber of the Faculty." These purposes may include, but not be limited to, support of individual research grants, productive use of sabbatical leaves, added compensation for individual merit or distinguished accomplishment, other incentives to encourage individual development of teaching capacity, and improvement of faculty salaries.

FACULTY RESEARCH FUND

This fund, founded by the Class of 1928 on the occasion of its twenty-fifth anniversary, is open to additions from other classes and individuals. The interest from the fund is used to help finance research projects carried on by members of the faculty.

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH ASSISTANCE

Surdna Foundation Undergraduate Research Fellowship Program

An undergraduate research fellowship program established in 1959 was renamed in 1968 the Surdna Foundation Undergraduate Research Fellowship program in recognition of two gifts of the Surdna Foundation. The income from a fund, which these gifts established, underwrites the program's costs. Fellowships may be awarded annually to highly qualified seniors. Each Surdna Fellow participates under the direction of a faculty member in a research project in which the faculty member is independently interested.

The purpose is to engage the student directly in a serious attempt to extend man's knowledge. Each project to which a Surdna Fellow is assigned must therefore justify itself independently of the program, and the fellow is expected to be a participant in the research, not a mere observer or helper. The nature of the project differs from discipline to discipline, but all should give the fellow firsthand acquaintance with productive scholarly work. Should the results of the research be published, the faculty member in charge of the project is expected to acknowledge the contribution of the Surdna Fellow and of the program.

Surdna Fellows are chosen each spring for the following academic year. Awards are made on the basis of the candidate's academic record and departmental recommendation, his or her particular interests and competence, and the availability at the College of a research project commensurate with his talents and training. Acceptance of a Surdna Fellowship does not preclude working for honors, and the financial need of a candidate does not enter into the awarding of fellowships. Surdna Fellows are, however, obligated to refrain from employment during the academic year. The stipend is $1,600 for part-time research during the academic year or full-time research in eight weeks of the summer. There are eight awards annually.

Alfred O. Gross Fund

This fund, established by Alfred Otto Gross, Ph.D., Sc.D., Josiah Little Professor of Natural Science, and members of his family, is designed to assist worthy students in doing special work in biology, preferably ornithology. Income from the fund may be used for such projects as research on Kent Island, travel to a given region or library for particular work, purchase of special apparatus, attendance at an ornithological congress or other scholarly gatherings, and publication of the results of research. Although the fund is administered by Bowdoin College, assistance from the fund is not limited to Bowdoin students.

Fritz C. A. Koelln Research Fund

This fund was established in 1972 by John A. Gibbons, Jr., of the Class of 1964, to honor Fritz C. A. Koelln, professor of German and George Taylor Files Professor of Modern Languages Emeritus, who was an active member of the Bowdoin faculty from 1929 until 1971. The income from the fund may be awarded annually to a faculty-student research team to support exploration of a topic which surmounts traditional disciplinary boundaries. The purpose of the fund is to encourage broad, essentially humanistic inquiry, and should be awarded with preference given to worthy projects founded at least in part in the humanities.

Edward E. Langbein, Sr. Summer Research Grant

An annual gift of the Bowdoin Parents' Fund is awarded under the direction of the president of the College to undergraduates or graduates to enable the recipients to participate in summer research or advanced study directed towards their major field or life work. Formerly the Bowdoin Fathers Association Fund, the grant was renamed in 1970 in memory of a former president and secretary of the association.

Research, Educational, and Conference Facilities

BETHEL POINT MARINE RESEARCH STATION

THE COLLEGE'S marine research facility is located approximately ten miles from the campus on a seventeen-acre parcel of land with considerable shore frontage. Two laboratories are situated on the land. All major coastal environments of Maine are represented in microcosm, offering a unique opportunity for study. In conjunction with the hydrocarbon research performed by Bowdoin's Department of Chemistry, the staff of the Bethel Point facility studies the chemical and biological consequences of oil spills on marine environments. While much of this study has been performed at the station and other points on the Maine coast, Bowdoin research teams have investigated spills in France, Puerto Rico, and various locations along the eastern seaboard of the United States.

Directed by Dr. Edward S. Gilfillan, the Bethel Point Marine Research Station provides opportunities for independent study during the academic year and some summer research positions for Bowdoin students.

BOWDOIN SCIENTIFIC STATION

The College maintains a field station at Kent Island, off Grand Manan, in the Bay of Fundy, New Brunswick, Canada, where qualified students can conduct field work on biological problems. Kent Island, containing about 200 acres and several buildings, was presented to the College in 1935 by John Sterling Rockefeller.

Kent Island is a major seabird breeding ground and the home of various land birds. Its location makes it a concentration point for migrating birds in spring and fall. The famous Fundy tides create excellent opportunities for the study of marine biology. The terrestrial habitats are surprisingly varied for an island of this size.

No formal courses are offered at the station, but students from Bowdoin and other institutions are encouraged to select problems for investigation at Kent Island during the summer and to conduct field work on their own initiative with the advice and assistance of the Department of Biology. Approved work at the station is acceptable for credit as independent study. Field trips of short duration to Kent Island are a feature of Bowdoin's courses in ecology and ornithology.

Faculty members and graduate students from numerous universities and colleges conduct research in biology at the Bowdoin Scientific Station. They help the undergraduate members of the station through informal instruction and as examples of experienced investigators at work.

Financial assistance for students conducting research at Kent Island is available from the Alfred O. Gross Fund (see pages 000-000). Other funds which support the Bowdoin Scientific Station are the Kent Island Fund, the Heizaburo Saito Fund, the Minot Fund, and the Roy Spear Memorial Fund.

BRECKINRIDGE PUBLIC AFFAIRS CENTER

The Breckinridge Public Affairs Center is a 23-acre estate on the tidal York River in southern Maine. The center includes a 25-room main house, formal gardens, a gymnasium, a clay tennis court, and a 110-foot circular, saltwater swimming pool. Owned and operated by Bowdoin College, the center is used for classes, seminars, and meetings of educational, cultural, and civic groups. Business and professional organizations also use the facility for planning sessions and staff development activities. River House, which accommodates nineteen overnight guests, was designed by Guy Lowell in 1905 and is on the National Register of Historic Places. The estate was given to Bowdoin in 1974 by Marvin Breckinridge Patterson, whose husband was the Honorable Jefferson Patterson of St. Leonard, Maryland. Named in honor of Mrs. Patterson's family, who built the house, the estate is available for use April 1 through July 25 and September 17 through Thanksgiving each year.

COLEMAN FARM BANDING STATION

During the course of the academic year, students conduct field study in ornithology at a site three miles south of the campus, using a tract of college-owned land which extends to the sea. Numerous habitats of resident birds are found on the property, and it is a stopover point for many migratory species. Organized by students in 1975, the Coleman Farm Banding Station is equipped by the College and a generous neighbor, E. Christopher Livesay, and operates under the direction of the Department of Biology.

WCBB-TV

WCBB-TV is a public television station formed by Bates, Bowdoin, and Colby colleges in 1961. It is licensed to Colby-Bates-Bowdoin Educational Telecasting Corporation and serves approximately 750,000 people in southern Maine and eastern New Hampshire. At the time of its founding, it was the first noncommercial television station in Maine, the third in New England, and one of the earliest in the nation. It is supported primarily by contributions from viewers, an annual auction, and grants from business, industry, and foundations.

WCBB-TV broadcasts a wide variety of programs, including programs for use in the schools and for a general home audience. In addition to local programs produced by members of the staff, WCBB-TV broadcasts programs provided by the Public Broadcasting System and the Eastern Educational Telecasting Network.

Alumni Organizations

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

THE BOWDOIN COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION has as its purpose "to further the well-being of the College and its alumni by stimulating the interest of its members in the College and in each other." Membership is open to former students who during a minimum of one semester's residence earned at least one academic credit toward a degree, to those holding Bowdoin degrees, and to anyone elected to membership by the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council.

The officers of the Alumni Council are ex officio the officers of the Alumni Association. The council members-at-large, the directors of the Alumni Fund, a faculty member, the treasurer, the director of Annual Giving, and the director of Alumni Relations serve as the Executive Committee of the council and the association.

ALUMNI COUNCIL

Officers: William S. Faraci '69, president; D. Ellen Shuman '76, vice president; Martha J. Adams, acting secretary and treasurer.

Members-at-Large: Terms expire in 1990: Anne R. Devine '81, William S. Faraci '69, Edward W. Rogers '51, Paula M. Wardynski '79. Terms expire in 1991: Anthony P. Belmont '60, Robert E. Ives '69, Edward E. Langbein, Jr. '57, D. Ellen Shuman '76. Terms expire in 1992: Helen E. Pelletier '81, Arthur L. Perry '57, Glenn K. Richards '60, George F. T. Yancey, Jr., '68. Terms expire in 1993: Sally Clayton Caras '78, Bruce Locke '68, John M. Mackenzie '69, J. Ward Stackpole '50.

Other members of the council are the editor of Bowdoin Magazine, a representative of the faculty, the secretary of the College, the director of Annual Giving, the directors of the Alumni Fund, representatives of recognized alumni clubs, and three undergraduates.

ALUMNI COUNCIL AWARDS

Alumni Service Award: First established in 1932 as the Alumni Achievement Award and changed in name to the Alumni Service Award in 1953, this award is made annually to the person who, in the opinion of alumni, as expressed by the Alumni Council, best represents the alumnus or alumna whose services to Bowdoin most deserve recognition.

The recipient in 1989 was Peter S. Smith '60.

Alumni Award for Faculty and Staff: Established by the Alumni Council in 1963, it is presented each year "for service and devotion to Bowdoin, recognizing that the College in a larger sense includes both students and alumni." The award is made at the annual Homecoming Luncheon in the fall and consists of a Bowdoin clock and a framed citation.

The recipient in 1989 was Harry K. Warren.

Distinguished Bowdoin Educator Award: Established in 1964 to recognize outstanding achievement in education by a Bowdoin alumnus, except alumni who are members of the Bowdoin faculty and staff, the award consists of a framed citation and $500. In 1985, the council voted to honor achievement both at the college/university level and the primary/secondary level.

The recipients in 1989 were Richard L. Whitmore, Jr. '65 at the college/university level and, at the primary/secondary level, David O. Solmitz '65.

BOWDOIN MAGAZINE

Established in 1927, the quarterly Bowdoin Magazine publishes articles of general interest about the College and its alumni. It is sent without charge to all alumni, seniors, parents of current students, faculty and staff members, and various friends of the College. Other alumni publications include Bowdoin Bearings, The Whispering Pines, and various newsletters. The magazine is edited by Charles C. Calhoun.

BOWDOIN ALUMNI SCHOOLS AND INTERVIEWING COMMITTEES (BASIC)

BASIC is a volunteer association of approximately 500 alumni in the United States and several foreign countries which assists the Admissions Office in the identification and evaluation of candidates. BASIC responsibilities include providing alumni interviews for applicants when distance or time precludes a visit to Brunswick, representing the College at local "college fair" programs, and, in general, serving as a liaison between the College and the public.

Those interested in learning more about the BASIC organization should contact the Admissions Office.

ALUMNI FUND

The Alumni Fund, inaugurated in 1869 and reorganized in 1919, has contributed more than $32,000,000 for the current purposes and capital needs of the College through June 1989. The fund seeks either completely unrestricted or current purpose gifts.

Officers: Samuel A. Ladd III '63, chairman; Joan Benoit Samuelson '79, vice chairman.

Directors: Samuel A. Ladd III '63 (term expires in 1990), Joan Benoit Samuelson '79 (term expires in 1991), I. Joel Abromson '60 (term expires in 1992), James W. MacAllen '66 (term expires in 1993), Gardner Cowles III '59 (term expires in 1994).

ALUMNI FUND AWARDS

Alumni Fund Cup: Awarded annually since 1932, the Alumni Fund Cup recognizes the Reunion Class making the largest contribution to the Alumni Fund unless that Reunion Class wins the Babcock Plate; in that event, the non-Reunion Class with the most money in the Fund is awarded the cup.

The recipient in 1988 was the Class of 1950, Donald B. Snyder, Jr., agent.

Leon W. Babcock Plate: Presented to the College in 1980 by William L. Babcock, Jr. '69 and his wife, Suzanne, in honor of his grandfather, Leon W. Babcock '17, it is awarded annually to the class making the largest dollar contribution to the Alumni Fund.

The recipient in 1988 was the Class of 1963, Samuel A. Ladd III, agent.

Class of 1916 Bowl: Presented to the College by the Class of 1916 in 1959, it is awarded annually to the class whose record in the Alumni Fund shows the greatest improvement over its performance of the preceding year.

The recipient in 1988 was the Class of 1968, John A. Whipple, agent.

Class of 1929 Trophy: Presented by the Class of 1929 in 1963, it is awarded annually to that one of the ten youngest classes attaining the highest percentage of participation.

The recipient in 1988 was the Class of 1978, James C. Palmer, agent.

Robert Seaver Edwards Trophy: Awarded annually to that one of the ten youngest classes raising the most money for the Fund, this trophy honors the memory of Robert Seaver Edwards '00.

The recipient in 1988 was the Class of 1978, James C. Palmer, agent.

Fund Directors' Trophy: Established in 1972 by the directors of the Alumni Fund, the trophy is awarded annually to the class which in the opinion of the directors achieved an outstanding performance not acknowledged by any other trophy.

The recipient in 1988 was the Class of 1975, Leo J. Dunn III, agent.

THE PRESIDENT'S CUP FOR ALUMNI GIVING

Established by the Development Committee of the Governing Boards in 1985, two cups are awarded annually—one for classes out of college 49 years or less, and one for classes out of college 50 years or more. The awards are presented on the basis of the total giving effort of a class, with all gifts actually received by or for the benefit of the College during the academic year eligible.

The recipients in 1988 were the Class of 1949 and the Class of 1926.

SOCIETY OF BOWDOIN WOMEN

The Society of Bowdoin Women was formed in 1922. Its purpose is to provide "an organization in which those with a common bond of Bowdoin loyalty may, by becoming better acquainted with the College and with each other, work together to serve the College."

The society has made specific gifts to the College, such as silver and china for the presidents' house. In 1961 it established the Edith Lansing Koon Sills Lecture Fund, honoring Mrs. Kenneth C. M. Sills, wife of a former president of the College, and in 1971, following the decision to admit women undergraduates, the society created a scholarship fund restricted to qualified women students. In 1978 the Society of Bowdoin Women Athletic Award was established to recognize effort, cooperation, and sportsmanship by a senior member of a women's varsity team. In 1983 the society established the Frank F. Sabasteanski Polar Bear Run in honor of the long-time Bowdoin track coach. And in 1985, the Dorothy Haythorn Collins Award was created to honor a junior student of outstanding quality in his or her chosen field of study. Contributions have also been made to the Elisabeth Clark Wilder Scholarship Fund in memory of Mrs. Philip S. Wilder, a former president and long-time member of the society. Funds have also been used to increase the scholarship endowment; to add to the Daggett Book Fund in memory of Mrs. Athern P. Daggett, the vice president-at-large at the time of her death; to purchase equipment for the Office of Career Services; to co-sponsor the New York Contemporary Choreographers Series; and to sponsor the L. L. Bean fashion show featuring college models.

Membership is open to any interested person by the payment of annual dues of $3.00. The programs and activities are made possible by the dues, contributions, and bequests.

Officers: Mrs. Joyce W. Rogers, president; Mrs. A. LeRoy (Polly) Greason, honorary president; Mrs. Anne-Marie Train, vice president; Mrs. Robert (Mary Scott) Brownell, secretary; Mrs. Kimberly Labbe Mills '82, treasurer; Mrs. Howard (Connie) Thorburn, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Debora H. Noone, activities coordinator; Mrs. Mary E. Demers, membership; Mrs. Dana (Jeanne) Mayo, nominating; and Mrs. Olin M. (Wilma) Sawyer, past president.
