Huge Turnout Attends Lorelei Held Friday Night at Sunnybrook

Six Junior Women Named to Whitians; Brackin Brothers Crowned Co-Kings

Ursinus students and their guests danced to the music of Al Raymond and his orchestra at the annual Lorelei dance last Friday evening from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Sunnybrook Ballroom.

Since the theme of the dance was St. Valentine's Day, red paper hearts had been placed on every table, and a large red heart was located at the entrance of the dance floor. Red and green lights reflected off a huge mirrored ball which hung from the center of the ballroom ceiling.

Late in the evening Mrs. Helfferich announced the election of twins Phil and George Brackin, running together as one, as co-kings of the Lorelei. Activities of the Brackin Brothers include the Varsity Club, soccer (as retired co-captains), Weekly sports staff, Demas fraternity, pre-med society, and the photography staff of the Ruby.

Six New Whitians

Marion Behler, president of the Whitian Society, woman's honorary, then announced this year's Whitians, members of the present junior class. The women chosen follow, in alphabetical order.

Barbara Greim, a math major from Norristown, is active in the Math Club, PSEA, and holds a self-help position in the biology department.

A chemistry major from Slattington, Mary Ann Haas is active in the Meistersingers, Messiah, Beardwood Chem Society, the Public Affairs Commission of the "Y," Chapel Choir, Pi Nu Epsilon, and she also holds a lab assistantship.

Patty Hill, from Oreland, is a history major. She served as

Blood Circulation in Bats Topic of Pre-Med Lecture

Last Tuesday Dr. Mary P. Wiedeman, Associate Professor of Physiology at the Temple University School of Medicine, spoke to the Brownback-Anders Pre-Medical Society. Dr. Wiedeman's subject was "Microcirculation of the Terminal Vascular Bed," and she proceeded to explain her ingenious method of studying the blood flow in the bat's wing.

The bat's wing is so thin as to be transparent and, therefore, the circulation may be observed under a microscope in the living animal. The bat cooperates by sleeping during the daytime and no anesthetics are necessary.

Effects of Drugs

Dr. Wiedeman illustrated the practical nature of her work by reporting the effects on the circulatory system of various radio-opaque drugs used by radiologists. A color film prepared by Dr. Wiedeman as a result of her research was shown.

VP Wagner Attends Seminary Convocation

Dr. James E. Wagner, vice-president of Ursinus College, recently attended Lancaster Theological Seminary's annual convocation lectures and the meeting of the North America area of the World Alliance of Reformed and Presbyterian churches.

The program featured observance of the 400th anniversary of publication of "The Heidelberg Catechism," the North American counterpart of a world-wide series of these observances. The Catechism was written by Zacharias Ursinus, a 16th century Reformer, after whom Ursinus College was named.

Bloodmobile Visit Slated Wednesday

On Wednesday the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at Ursinus from 1 until 5 p.m. to receive donations of blood from students, faculty members, and staff. Anyone weighing over 110 pounds and between the ages of 18 and 59 may give blood. Everyone giving blood through the Red Cross is protected (along with his immediate family) against all blood needs for an entire year.

Distributed to Hospitals

Most of the blood collected by the Red Cross is distributed to hospitals as whole blood to be used in transfusions. However, some of the blood is used to make such derivatives as gamma globulin, serum albumin, and fibrinogen.

If you are under 21, you must have written permission from your parents or legal guardian.

Communism Topic of Forum Speaker

by Sharon Robbins

"Living Under Communism: The Economic Man—The Political Man" was the topic of the Forum lecture given last Wednesday evening by Professor Milton Mayer. Professor Mayer has written books, magazine articles and is an educator and lecturer. His time and effort has been contributed in an effort to secure permanent peace.

"The central issue of life is bread, not liberty, but bread!" Mayer told his audience. Liberty is a luxury which the people of the United States with five per cent of the world's population and 50 per cent of the world's wealth are well accustomed to. It is not so in other areas of the world.

Czechoslovakia, one of the Central European Nations, has had only 20 years of political freedom in the past 350 years. This 20-year period fell in the 20th century.

Course in Esperanto to be Offered by Rice

Esperanto, the international language, will be offered to students of Ursinus as a non-credit course under the guidance of Dr. Allan L. Rice, a member of the language department. Classes will begin today and continue throughout the semester on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, at 2 p.m. in room 15 of Bomberger.

Esperanto is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year. It is the only one of the many manufactured languages that has endured the years. Esperanto has been recognized by UNESCO as a valuable tool for intercommunication; it is not a language meant to replace one's national language: on the contrary, it is secondary.

Annual Color Day Set for Thursday

The Junior Advisory Committee has announced that the annual Color Day Ceremonies will be held in Bomberger Chapel at 5 p.m. in Thursday. All women students are invited to attend, and all freshmen women and transfer students are urged to attend in order to receive their colors. Color Day is an annual event on the Ursinus calendar. At this time all new women to the campus officially become members of the college community.

Dr. Miller to Speak

Dr. Jessie Miller, sociology professor, will be the main speaker. Sue Honeysett, vice-president of the WSGA, will explain the meaning of the Ursinus colors. The program will be led by Carol Heber, chairman of the Junior Advisory Committee.

Debbie Glassmoyer, Sue Day, and Judy Noyes, will receive their charges for being freshman representatives to the YWCA, WAA, and WSGA, respectively. Anne Harris and Sally Miller, secretary and treasurer of the freshman class, will also receive the charge of office.

Following the presenting of the colors, the Junior Advisory Committee, presidents of the three women's organizations, freshman representatives and officers will attend a banquet.

Noted Theologian to Discuss Existentialism on Wednesday

Dr. Carl Michalson, Professor of Systematic Theology at Drew University, will speak on the topic "Existentialism and the Christian Faith" on Wednesday evening, beginning at 8 p.m. in Bomberger Chapel. Dr. Michalson visits Ursinus at the invitation of the Department of Religion.

Dr. Carl Michalson will lecture on Existentialism Wednesday evening in the Chapel, through the auspices of the Department of Religion.

An ordained minister of the Methodist Church, Dr. Michalson has been a member of the Theological faculty at Drew University since 1945. He received his Ph.D. at Yale and has since gone on to study in Germany, Switzerland, and Japan. He is a member of the American Theological Society, the American Philosophical Association, and the Society for Theological Discussion.

Noted Author

A noted editor and translator, Dr. Michalson is also the author of many significant religious works, among which are Faith for Personal Crises, a Religious Noro Book Club Selection translated into Japanese; Japanese Contributions to Christian Theology; and The Witness of Kierkegaard, his most recent book on Christian Existentialism.

Organ Concert Set for Thursday

A concert of organ music will be presented this Thursday beginning at 8:15 p.m. in the Chapel. This free concert, sponsored by the Ursinus College chapter of Pi Nu Epsilon, the National Honorary Music Fraternity, will feature Miss Margery Davis, Staff organist of the Allen Organ Company, Muncie, Ind.

Miss Davis received her Bachelor's Degree from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill. She is a member of the American Guild of Organists, has played more than 100 recitals of Allen Organs, and has held several positions as church organist.

Noyes & Day Elected to WSGA & WAA Posts

After finally getting the necessary quorum of two-thirds of the freshman women to cast their ballots last week, the Central Nominating Committee announced that Judy Noyes and Sue Day had been elected as the freshman representatives to the WSGA and WAA, respectively.

Miss Noyes, who hails from Springfield, Pa., is an English major. This year she participated in the hockey and swimming teams. She will act on behalf of the freshmen at WSGA council meetings.

Miss Day is a health and physical education major from Drexel Hill. Active in sports, she was selected for the All-College I hockey team, and she is a member of the basketball team.

Chairman Selected

Members of the Central Nominating Committee recently selected Jane Mikuliak as chairman of their group. This group consists of representatives from the WSGA, WAA, and YWCA. Its function is to conduct all elections for major offices involving these groups. Those who hold positions on the committee are Pat Born, Pam McDonough, Bitsy Lamberton, Ginny Gross, Judy Lance, Marion Behler, Joan Kleinhoff, and Valerie Moritz.

Ineligibility Claims 105 Students; Dr. Fletcher Analyzes Reasons

by Lynn Martin

One hundred and five students were recently dismayed to find that their below-70 averages qualified them for places on the ineligible list. As any upperclassman could have predicted, were the ineligible list the House of Commons, the freshmen would control Parliament. Sixty-two freshmen are ineligible—23% of the class of '66. There are 31 sophomores, 9 juniors, and 3 seniors, who are ineligible.

Why so many, especially so many freshmen?

If you ask a senior, like as not he'll tell you, "When I was a freshman, I didn't know how to study, either. Most freshmen don't." The idea seems to be that prolonged contact with the academic world induces effective study habits.

Ask Dr. Fletcher

If you ask Dr. Fletcher, you won't get such a cut-and-dried analysis. As head of the psychology department, he comes in for a routine share of counseling; along with Mr. Kirkpatrick, he meets with all the sophomores through the compulsory course in introductory psychology. They work with those students who have the other professors baffled.

Dr. Fletcher usually investigates the causes of academic distress by working in this order: (1) study habits, (2) verbal intelligence vs. quantitative or mathematic intelligence, (3) interests, (4) personality characteristics, especially attitudes toward other people, school, etc.

In Step 1 he often employs a Study Habits Check List, on which one of the questions is: "When studying, do you find that you have to stop often to

Alumni Pledge $400,000 to Fund

More than $100,000 in cash toward three-year pledges totalling $440,000 has been subscribed by 1,680 alumni of Ursinus College in their effort to raise at least $500,000 toward the college's Centennial Fund goal of $5,000,000, it was announced today by Professor Richard T. Schellhase, executive secretary of the alumni association.

He reported that among the 175 "large coeducational liberal arts colleges" as classified by the American Alumni Council, alumni of Ursinus College rank second in the percentage of their number who subscribe to the annual alumni appeal. Almost 53 per cent of the Ursinus alumni contributed during the past year, he said. The college has slightly more than 5,000 living alumni.

UC Delegation Leaves for Washington to Present Mrs. Kennedy with Special Recording of Messiah

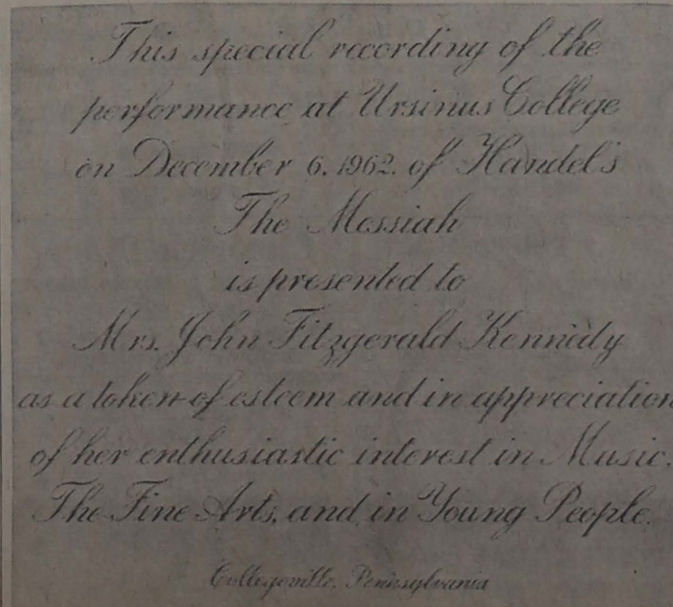

Three representatives from the college departed early this morning from Washington, D. C., to present Mrs. John F. Kennedy with a specially inscribed album recording of Handel's Messiah as sung by the 225-voice chorus last Christmas. They are students Steve Wurster (president of the musical organizations) and Bob Livingston (student conductor) and Dr. William Philip, head of the Music Department.

"Realizing Mrs. Kennedy's great interest in the musical arts, we decided to present her with a high-fidelity recording of the oratorio if she would be gracious enough to accept it," Wurster told the Weekly.

Private Tour

He and Livingston wrote to the First Lady about what they had in mind. Her social secretary, Miss Letitia Baldrige, not only set up the arrangement for acceptance of the recording by a representative of Mrs. Kennedy, but invited the students to "come early for a private tour

EDITORIAL

They've Done the Impossible

Congratulations to the new Whitians, announced at the Lorelei last Friday night. Selection to the Society is an honor which ranks them among the stand-outs in their class.

An Unsensational Apology

Last week we received a note from Mr. Dolman which he asked us to run as an apology to the student body. This "apology" is not so sensational as it sounds, however, for it merely deals with a mistake in the newly printed college catalogue.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I would appreciate it if you could print this note as an official apology to the student body for a slight error in the calendar which appears on Page 7 of the new catalogue. The calendar states that Christmas recess next year begins at 5:30 a.m. on Friday, December 20.

Sincerely yours, Geoffrey Dolman, Director of Admissions

To A Disgruntled Female: Ursinus does not breed the average man. Its offspring are the uncommon, and one should expect at least a few sex maniacs among them. Bacchus

Dear Editor, Does Disgruntled Female realize that in order to be treated as a lady, a woman must act like a lady? Perhaps more coolness and less coyness would solve her problem. It does take two to tango. Disgruntled Lady

Dear Editor: Have you been in Shreiner Hall's reception room lately? Well, I have, and I'm sorry to say that it is not one of my more pleasant memories. It is for many people their only impression of Ursinus College. And what do they see? They step into a room in which nothing matches and everything clashes. The rug is worn bare, the furniture is falling apart, and the slipcovers are in rags. The bare wood is exposed on the venetian blinds and there are no curtains on the windows. There is not a comfortable chair in the whole room, including the piano bench which sits in front of a piano in which the pedal doesn't work and the ivory is chipped off of half the keys.

Dr. Allan Lake Rice is listed in the Ursinus College catalogue simply as "professor of German," and although he "doubles in brass" as teacher of Swedish and Esperanto, assistant to the director of admissions, and advisor to foreign students on the campus, he still finds time to continue his 30-year hobby of model railroading.

The World Outside

In an effort to keep the students informed of news events outside the isolated college community, the WEEKLY feature staff has introduced the following column, which will be run occasionally throughout the semester.—ed. note.

On the International scene this past week, in Canada, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and his Conservative Party were literally "torn to bits" by an undiplomatic statement issued by the US State Department. The statement, in effect, accused the Canadian Government of failing to propose any practical arrangements contributing to the North American defense.

Diefenbaker, primarily unpopular in United States due to his avoidance of Canada's nuclear commitment under NATO, is also looked upon unfavorably by the British Conservative Party because of his attitude toward the common market.

At his press conference, held last Thursday afternoon, President Kennedy raised the issue of his tax reduction program and stated that he felt this program "would give the economy that needed shot in the arm." Although his main reasons for initiating this tax pro-

Goldman's Novel "Temple of Gold" Traces Disillusionment of Personality

by Carlton Dingman

If you know the story of Gunga Din, the significance of this novel's title becomes immediately apparent, for it is upon the tower of a temple of gold that the faithful water carrier blows those triumphant blasts on his trumpet in an attempt to save the lives of a British army detachment. Already badly wounded, Gunga Din climbs to the top of the tower only to be riddled with bullets by the enemy in an attempt to silence his lone voice.

Peek Around The Campus

by Carl Peek

I'm tired of listening to people who rip Ursinus apart at the seams. Those who wantonly tear everything to shreds and then sit back and watch the shreds blow away, should evaluate themselves before they try to evaluate anything else. One does not accomplish anything or correct an ill by simply looking, talking, and doing nothing.

An Out and Out Lie

It is said, most commonly, that nothing ever happens at Ursinus College. This in itself is an out and out lie. There is enough, perhaps too much, happening on this campus to keep

The analogy that can be drawn from the story of Gunga Din is easily seen, but it needs the unique pen of William Goldman to translate it into the life of a young lad, Raymond Euripides Trevitt.

Similar to Salinger

In a style similar to that of J. D. Salinger, but wholly distinct, Mr. Goldman relates the early growth of "Rip" and his great and close companionship with his friend and mentor, "Zock Crowe." Both boys develop side by side in the small

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Did You Know ...

by Fred Yocum

It has come to my attention that certain students of the college have become lax in the proper identification of various rooms, buildings, and other objects of note throughout the college. For instance, a negligent biology major was recently heard to say that he was going to comp. anat. lab. rather than "I am going to the Levi Jay Hammond Laboratory of Comparative Anatomy."

Mr. Hudnut's office in the library is seldom recognized as the home of the Shaw-Bernard (Museum) Collection of curios and objects d'art.

One of Ursinus' greatest football games was its 10-7 upset over Annapolis in 1917. However, the series with Navy has been discontinued in recent years.

Ursinus graduates are in the two most important positions in the public education structure of Montgomery County: Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent of Schools. Dr. Allen Harman recently became superintendent and Louis Krug was appointed as his assistant.

One or both parents of 27 members of the freshman class attended Ursinus.

Dr. Creager, College Chaplain, was Head Waiter his senior year here at Ursinus.

Losses to Delaware, PMC, and Swarthmore Spell Dismal Winter Week for Hurting Ursinus Cagers

Hens Maul Bears

Outsized and outnumbered, the UC Bears travelled to the University of Delaware last Monday evening, where the host quintet, playing more like hungry wolves than Blue Hens, mauled the Bears 105-66. Led by 6'7" Nate Cloud, who has the size of a center and the agility of a guard, the Blue Hens led from the beginning and were never pressed. For Cloud, who is the larger half of a brother act, it was a successful night, as he connected for 30 points to push his career total above 1000.

Surprise in Store

Surprising almost everyone, the anticipation being that the Bears would slow the game as much as possible, the Bruins elected to run with the much taller Delawarians, and at least for the first half, the spectacle was interesting. Delaware quickly raced to a 12-2 advantage before the Bears could manage (Continued on page 4)

UC's Hot & Cold Play Paves Way for PMC

The UC Bears' version of Jekyll and Hyde was once again staged at the T-G Gym last Thursday evening. The rendition was so realistic that it kept the audience in complete disbelief for its entire performance. Playing a small PMC team which they had previously conquered for their first victory, the Bears were hot and cold and the steady PMC squad lashed them with a 72-60 defeat.

Bears Open Fast

The Bears opened the game at a fast pace, and for the first ten minutes they played their best ball of the season. With all five players hitting with consistency and by employing a sticky defense they led throughout the opening quarter. However, as has happened on so many other occasions, the play suddenly became ragged and the defense suddenly collapsed (Continued on page 4)

Poorest Show of Year in Swarthmore Game

There were several major upsets on the college basketball front this past weekend. Among them were Cincinnati, Loyola, and Ursinus. The Bears went down to an 87-70 Swarthmore defeat Saturday night in a home game.

It was a rather typical Ursinus game as the Bears fell behind early and never could draw any closer than 13 points in the second half. It was a rather disappointing night as the team made its poorest showing of the year.

30 for Dryfoos

The only bright spot for the Bears was the scoring of Walt Dryfoos. He managed to rip the nets for 30 points and could have had many more if he had been able to hit the nets on many taps and layups. Unfortunately, his was the only real scoring the Bears could manage as the rest of the team could not hit with any consistency.

Swarthmore's Tom Towle managed to get 39 points against the lackadaisical defense of the Ursinus team. He had 27 in the first half against the zone thrown up by the Bears. However, he could only manage 12 in the second half as the team played man to man.

Netwomen Suffer 46-44 Upset at East Stroudsburg

A host of game errors and first game jitters spoiled the hopes of an unblemished season for the women's varsity basketball team as East Stroudsburg eked out an 46-44 upset last Wednesday on their home court. The Ursinus squad had difficulty from the start in trying to reach the basket for the precious points and waited until the third period before they got things going. High scorer Karen Kohn led the Ursinus attack with 17 points.

UC in Trouble

The first quarter saw UC in trouble as the home team held an 8-6 advantage in the low scoring contest. At halftime Ursinus came through with a three point lead in an attempt to get the club back on its feet. Karen Kohn turned on the steam late in the third period and for awhile it looked as though the Ursinus team would bring a latent victory.

Again a series of bad passes, short attempts at the hoop, and numerous errors in play, hit the Ursinus team in the last period and with only 23 seconds remaining, the UC charges lost their lead and East Stroudsburg took full charge of wrapping up an upset.

Gail Brinton followed the scoring pace set by Miss Kohn with nine points and Sue Day came up with third best honors with eight counters in the scorebook. Lee Spahr led the efforts of the defense by picking off rebounds when the Ursinus team began to roll.

Jayvees Lose Also

The Jayvee team followed suit and dropped a one-sided tilt to round out the early seasonal record to one victory and a loss. Judy Tignor copped first place honors in the fruitless attempt.

Intramural Story

by Denny Wilson

The favorites prevailed in last week's Intramural League games as Leber-South (7-0), Demas (7-1) and the APE's (5-2) added to their winning streaks. The league's leading scorer, Dave Kohr of Sig Rho, was held to his season's low of 16 while Demas' Tom Santucci took scoring honors for the week by netting 27 markers in the crucial Sig Rho game.

Leber-South maintained their undefeated record and stretched their two-year regular season win streak to 14 as they downed Curtis I 55-44 after building up a 33-11 halftime lead. Charlie Souders and Al Hakanson dominated both boards to spark the winners. Maples remained in contention for a playoff spot by defeating the Day Students 52-42 as Denny Beacher paced the winners with 14 points.

Demas opened the week by coming from behind to down Curtis II 46-38. Mike Bernstein with 13 and Geoff Bloom with 11 markers topped the winners while Toby Gelfand led the losers with 14 points. In the main game of the week, Demas, down 34-31 at halftime, came on strong to snap Sig Rho's four game winning streak while running their own to six. Santucci, in the outstanding performance of the week, netted 27 points while Bill Scholl added 16 to the winners' cause.

Alpha Phi Epsilon rolled to a 49-38 victory over Curtis I to stretch their modest winning streak to four as Don Zulick led a well-balanced scoring attack with 12 points. Maples added another victory to their record by trouncing Derr-Freeland-Stine 59-50 behind Frank Kunc's 20 markers. Earl Pfeiffer netted 20 points for the losers.

Curtis II, getting 22 points from both Gelfand and Dick Calvert, romped to an 85-42 decision over winless Fetterolf-724 as Vic Goldberg added another 16 points to the winners' score while Len Greenbaum paced the vanquished with 18 points.

Zeta Chi, utilizing their superior height, downed the Day Students 65-54 as Chris Smink dropped in 20 points for the Zetans and Harry Pote added 16 more.

Matmen Succumb to Delaware 17-13, Wrest 19-8 Victory from Hopkins

Bright Spots for UC in Blue Hens' Win

The Delaware wrestling squad, boasting a 7-1 record for the season, dealt the Ursinus grapplers their second straight defeat last Tuesday night by a 17-13 count. UC made a game comeback attempt and drew within one point with only one match remaining, but the 11-0 margin the Blue Hens piled up through the first three bouts proved to be the deciding factor. There were some bright flashes in an otherwise disappointing UC defeat as freshman Frank Videon, participating in his first varsity match, manhandled the Delaware captain; and Bill Siebenson, UC's 177 pounder, put the wood to previously unbeaten Don Bockoven.

UC Off to Poor Start

Delaware jumped off to a lightning fast start by capturing the initial three bouts. In the 123 pound contest Delaware's Bill Ashley proved to be a tough number as he pinned UC's Roger Dreyling in 3:30 with a beautifully executed single arm bar. In the 130 pound clash Ursinus' Kenny Dean was knocked from the unbeaten ranks as he dropped a 5-0 decision to sophomore Jay Ferrick. Ferrick was one of the better wrestlers on the Blue Hens' squad, and he gained his victory with the aid of a take-down, reversal, and riding time. U. of D. picked up 3 more points when Hank Graham decided George Davis, 9-6, by utilizing rallies in the final two periods.

Captain Dick Dean finally started Ursinus on the right track with a valiant effort after sustaining a dislocated foot in the opening moments of his bout. Dean kept going "on guts" and then in the last period he wrapped up his opponent, Bob Ruth, in a patented cradle for a pin in 6:37. However, Delaware extended their lead to 14-5 as the Blue Hens' top grappler, Bob Young, edged UC's Dale Kratz 5-4 in the 157 pound battle. Both wrestlers gained two reversals each, but Young gained the decisive point for riding advantage.

Videon Scores

Frosh Frank Videon jarred the U of P captain Jerry Beamon with an impressive 4-2 decision. Videon, an Upper Darby High grad, scored the upset victory mainly on aggressiveness and a predicament which many thought should have been a pin. In the 177 pound class UC's Bill Siebenson displayed his best form since coming to the Ursinus campus by pinning previously undefeated Don Bockoven in 6:49 of the final stanza.

At this point the Bears had closed the gap to a one point deficit, 14-13. The deciding match was the heavyweight clash and Delaware's Al Slader outdistanced Ursinus' Joe Rhile, 5-1.

Impressive Victories Set Stage for JH Upset

The Ursinus wrestlers were not favored to defeat the Blue Jays of Johns Hopkins, but a great effort by all team members allowed the Bears to easily hurdle this barrier. All of the UC victories were impressive, but special credit should go to Joe Gray and Dick Dean, who were wrestling under severe injury handicaps. However, the decisive bout may have come early in the match when George Davis, a freshman, displayed his best form of the season to launch UC into a commanding 8-2 lead.

Freshman Joe Gray fought a game battle in the opening match, as he was hobbled by a serious case of water on the knee. Nevertheless, Gray stayed with Hopkins' captain Ron Davis, and held him to a 3-3 deadlock which earned each team 2 points. Kenny Dean eased his way to his fifth victory of the year against only one defeat, as he decided Mel Ulmer on three near pins, 12-0. George Davis displayed nine good minutes of wrestling and went on to defeat JH's Mike Schneider by the count of 6-3.

Dick Dean Goes on

Dick Dean was not positive whether he could wrestle so Coach McCreary had Bob Reed waiting in the wings. But Dean came off the bench to hand Frank Szoda his initial loss of the season in the 147 pound class, by the slim margin of 2-0. In the 157 pound class UC's Dale Kratz showed his ability to come from behind as he was down 4-0 midway through the second period. But as his opponent Jim Fisher ran out of gas, Kratz got to him in the final period and scored an impressive victory, 6-4, on a reversal, an escape, and a take-down.

In the 167 pound clash both UC's Frank Videon and Johns Hopkins' John Glascock managed to draw blood, but Glascock prevailed in a well-fought contest, 10-6.

Bill Siebenson continued a good streak of wrestling, as he pinned JH's Steve Roth in 3:49 of the second period with the use of a half nelson and body press. This gave Ursinus a commanding 19-5 bulge, and the match was clinched. In the unlimited division, a larger Joe Vignotti of Johns Hopkins knocked off UC's Joe Rhile, by a 5-0 score.

Mr. Adler also warned that, as the school districts have sovereign immunity (that is, as a part of the state government, they can't be held liable), the teacher should exercise good judgment in all his actions toward students. If he doesn't he may find himself responsible for an injury to a student.

In one case cited, a teacher found that the responsibility of an injury she caused was not considered the responsibility of her employer as it is in other professions, and she paid stiff consequences.

Because teachers are in vulnerable positions, most courts will protect them. In the case of an unpreventable accident, courts will relieve the teacher of the responsibility if he has exercised good judgment and has not shown negligence.

In closing, Mr. Adler advised the PSEA members to make sure they received written contracts as professional teachers after they had served their two-year probationary period. This is necessary for a teacher to have his rights under the law assured.

Career . . .

Those interested could attend as many as three of these 30 minute seminars.

After the group meeting, the representatives dined with Mr. Minnich, Dr. Shearer, and Denny Wilson, B. A. Club vice-president. Their ideas as to how to improve next year's Career Conference were discussed.

The nine speakers were representatives of Aetna Casualty and Surety, National Drug, Federal agencies, Penn Mutual Insurance, IBM, Bell Telephone, Pomeroy's, the Atlantic Refining Company, and the Girard Trust Corn Exchange Bank.

THE CURSE OF THE CAMPUS: NO. 2

As was pointed out last week, one would think that with all the progress we have made in the education game, something might have been done by now about roommates. But no. The roommate picture has not brightened one bit since Ethan Goodpimple founded the first American college.

(Contrary to popular belief, Harvard was not the first. Mr. Goodpimple started his institution some 75 years earlier. And quite an institution it was, let me tell you! Mr. Goodpimple built schools of liberal arts, fine arts, dentistry, and tanning. He built a lacrosse stadium that seated 102,000. Everywhere on campus was emblazoned the stirring Latin motto CAVE MUSSI—"Watch out for moose." The student union contained a bowling alley, a clock, and a 16-chair barber shop.

...and as for shaving, they didn't

(It was this last feature—the barber shop—that, alas, brought Mr. Goodpimple's college to an early end. The student body, being drawn from the nearby countryside, was composed chiefly of Pequots and Iroquois who, alas, had no need of a barber shop. They braid their hair instead of cutting it, and as for shaving, they don't. The barber, Tremblatt Follie by name, grew so depressed staring all the time at 16 empty chairs that one day his mind finally gave way. Seizing his vibrator, he ran outside and shook the entire campus till it crumbled to dust. This later became known as Pickett's Charge.)

But I digress. We were discussing ways for you and your roommate to stop hating each other. This is admittedly difficult but not impossible if you will both bend a bit, give a little.

I remember, for example, my own college days (Berlitz, '08). My roommate was, I think you will allow, even less agreeable than most. He was a Tibetan named Ringading whose native customs, while indisputably colorful, were not entirely endearing. Mark you, I didn't mind so much the gong he struck on the hour or the string of firecrackers he set off on the half-hour. I didn't even mind his singeing chicken feathers every dusk and daybreak. What I did mind was that he singed them in my hat.

To be fair, he was not totally taken with some of my habits either—especially my hobby of collecting water. I had no jars at the time and just had to stack the water any-old-where.

Well sir, things grew steadily cooler between Ringading and me, and they might have gotten actually ugly had we not each happened to receive a package from home one day. Ringading opened his package, paused, smiled shyly at me, and offered me a gift.

"Thank you," I said. "What is it?"
"Yak butter," he said. "You put it in your hair. In Tibetan we call it gree see kidstuff."

"Well now, that's mighty friendly," I said and offered him a gift from my package. "Now you must have one of mine."

"Thank you," he said. "What is this called?"
"Marlboro Cigarettes," I said and held a match for him. He puffed. "Wow!" he said. "This sure beats chicken feathers!"
"Or anything else you could name," I said, lighting my own Marlboro.

And as we sat together and enjoyed that fine flavorful Marlboro tobacco, that pure white Marlboro filter, a glow of good fellowship came over us—a serene conviction that no quarrels exist between men that will not yield to the warmth of honest good will. I am proud to say that Ringading and I remain friends to this day, and we exchange cards each Christmas and each Fourth of July, firecrackers.

Wherever you or your roommate may be—on any campus in any city, town, or hamlet in any state of the Union—you will find Marlboros at your favorite tobacco counter—soft pack or flip top box.

tures on the hobby in England, Germany, and Sweden and, as he says, "even tried it in Lenin-grad to an audience of three, who turned out to be completely mystified about what a hobby was!"

Dr. Rice came to the Ursinus faculty in 1947 after an 11-year service as professor of German and Swedish at his alma mater, the University of Pennsylvania. When he showed some reluctance to come to Ursinus since it would mean discontinuing the teaching of Swedish, the late Dr. Norman E. McClure, then president of Ursinus, told Dr. Rice, "if that's all that's stopping you, why not try offering Swedish here at Ursinus?"

UC, One of Only 18

As a result, this non-Swede professor at a college founded by Americans of German background has made Ursinus College one of only 18 colleges in the country offering courses in Swedish language, literature and culture. Dr. Rice is author of a textbook in the language, now in its second edition.

In addition, each year Dr. Rice gives an informal course in Esperanto, the proposed international language, to a group of students who use this medium in developing correspondence with students of the same language in other countries.

Dr. Rice, who was a World War II member of the US Naval Reserve, holding the rank of Commander at the time he was separated from the service, was assistant naval attache from 1942-45 at the American legations in Stockholm, Sweden and Helsinki, Finland.

He is a member and officer of the Schuylkill Friends Meeting, Phoenixville, has participated in some of the Quaker "peace walks" and vigils, and was a member of the national board of governors of the "Atlantic Union" movement.

Advisor to Foreign Students

His interest in world peace and his international travels give him more than ordinary pleasure, he says, in serving as advisor to the nine foreign students enrolled at Ursinus College this year.

Recently, as happens from time to time, Dr. and Mrs. Rice entertained at dinner in their home the nine foreign students presently enrolled at Ursinus. And they, like foreign students in previous years, have found his "HO Gauge" train models from many nations, one of the evening's major interests.

Mrs. Rice, whom the professor met while he was on wartime duty in Stockholm, is a native of Sweden. His interest in that country's language and culture antedated their meeting, however. They have three children.

take a smoke?" In connection with Step 3, Dr. Fletcher sometimes administers the Kuder Preference Record, an interest test. He complains that often this test's "interpretation is abused by people who don't know how to use it."

Unusual Diagnoses

When he has finished his analysis, Dr. F. sometimes comes up with interesting and unusual diagnoses. More than one Ursinus student has had trouble with work in chemistry because of eyesight too poor for good lab work. Several students with high verbal aptitude and low quantitative aptitude have attempted, with little success, the pre-med program. At least one lad broke up with his girl friend and therefore felt too insecure to do anything well. Some people tended to give up too easily when they met frustration.

Dr. Fletcher's broad conclusions are that the same work habits aren't right for everyone ("Some work best in quiet and some work best in noise."), and that it's impossible to make one general statement about the usual cause of poor marks.

Another staff member feels differently. I quote: "The real reason is not studying enough." But who knows?

college town of Athens; both become reckoned for their exploits in juvenile pranks—not delinquency—and both find the meaning of the word "girl"—Zock in real love and Rip in passion.

The climb up the tower has been slow and tedious at times, but not difficult for the boys. When both boys enter college, however, Zock through love and poetry finds the "handle," but Rip runs smack into the biggest problem of his life. His problem is in the form of Annabelle, the beautiful and insane girl who proves to be the death blow in his life. Jilted, Rip tries to drink away his hurt; it doesn't work, and on one of his binges he pays the horrible price for Annabelle's onetime affection: the death of Zock because of Rip's own drunken insanity.

Shocked, dismayed, and miserable he joins the army—once again an attempt to escape. But here, also, death and frustration are thrust upon him. Alone, lost, and with an increasing sense of pain simply from the effort to remain alive, he wanders to Harvard and Zock's old room.

The stabs of pain are coming in rapid succession now and in an attempt to drive them off Raymond Euripides Trevitt remakes his life. He returns to school; he reads voluminously; he tries for the editorship of the Athenian, the college literary magazine; and, he marries.

Although the effort to remake his life is gallant, even valiant, it is a miserable failure. The marriage fails, and he is not made editor of the literary magazine even though he deserves the position. He is alone, having sounded his note for the world—the world hearing and forgetting.

At Zock's grave Rip confides one last time in the only person who ever really understood him. "I've come to say good-by. I'm leaving Athens for good . . . And if that sounds like I haven't found the handle, Zock, it ought to. Because I haven't. There isn't any handle, any temple of gold . . ."

plaster isn't falling off the ceiling, the paint peeling off the walls, and the linoleum disintegrating on the floor as in all the women's rooms.

The women had been considering having an open house in February but decided against it when they surveyed the general shabbiness of the dormitory. They did not want to present Shreiner as an image of Ursinus College to their families and friends.

Why must Shreiner Hall be the only women's dorm that has to put up with such shameful conditions, especially in the reception room? Doesn't the administration realize that the reception room is the only impression that many people will get of Ursinus?

For that matter why must the women put up with it themselves? They do not have a comfortable place in which to study and are embarrassed to invite people in. Is this the way to foster school pride? If the administration does nothing else for the dormitory, it can at least give Shreiner Hall some curtains and new furniture for the room that represents the whole dormitory, and for outsiders, the whole college.

Sincerely,
Sally Harding

gram stemmed from the present problem of unemployment and slack profits, Kennedy feels that his policy would be instrumental in helping "ward off a recession period."

Pressing the Button

Another subject brought to the public's attention at the conference was the question of who would be responsible for "pressing the button" to send missiles off to Russia in case of an Russian military attack on the United States. Kennedy said that this responsibility would have to be assumed by a person such as the Prime Minister of Great Britain or the President of France, if he himself were unable to issue such an order.

— DEAN'S LIST —

The Weekly learned several days ago that 135 students have earned inclusion on the Dean's List for the fall semester. This honor is awarded to students who have received at least one A or A minus and no grade lower than B minus. many, many people busy constantly, but "who wants to do that" is the cry issuing forth. It must be realized that if one doesn't like something, he can only change that something by working for the change. Idle talk creates nothing.

Granted, the Ursinus campus is not, for instance, the Cornell campus. There are not 25 booze parties every weekend—which is commendable. Ursinus is a small, liberal arts, church affiliated college, not a university, with its dubious extra-curricular "diversions."

Remember also, that anyone who is here is here not because he was forced to be here; on the contrary, any student who is here is here because he or she, theoretically at least, wanted to come.

And if one doesn't like it here and does nothing but complain that he doesn't like it here without taking any steps to work toward remedying what he does not like, who is the one to blame?

Oneself, perhaps?

and almost disappeared entirely. The Cadets, taking advantage of the temporary let-down, raced away to a 40-30 lead at halftime.

The second half began almost as poorly as the first half had ended. PMC obviously had no trouble getting started again and they quickly increased their lead to 21 points before the Bears could muster an offense. When the rally finally did come, it lacked punch, and the Bruins never got closer than bilize an offensive threat. However, with guard Jack Parker providing the impetus, the UC quintet began to find the range, and despite Delaware's superiority in almost all departments, the Bears matched them almost point for point through the opening session, and left the court at intermission trailing by 16 points.

Chaos in Second Half

The second half is best described as chaos. The Blue Hens returned to the court with feathers ruffled and visions of records dancing through their heads. Steadily they increased the lead, and to make matters worse, the Bears forward, Walt Korenkiewicz, sustained an injury which forced him to leave the game. The Hens were out to set the record straight, as they employed a partial press, obviously insecure with a 35 point lead. Fast breaking, they overran the UC defense and scored at will in the closing minutes to establish an all-time Delaware scoring record.

For UC fans who witnessed the game, the score was less distressing than might be thought. They were treated to some sharpshooting by Jack Parker which netted the sophomore 21 points. Their feelings were those of one who has lost, but who is still not totally vanquished.

For the Bears, Barry Troster led the scoring, and although all other starters hit for double figures, their efforts fell short of the Cadets' offensive production, which was paced by Gino Zuccca's 23 points.
