MSGA-WSGA Hold Banquet To Hear USNSA Speaker

On Monday, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m. the Men's and Women's Student Governments held a banquet in the President's Dining Room in Freeland Hall. The speaker for the evening was Miss Dianne Hatch, Executive Vice-President of the United States National Student Association. Miss Hatch was invited by the student governments to speak to its representative, for the student governments have taken an interest in the National Student Association. The governments know they need help in their campus problems and they feel that possibly the NSA can help them.

Miss Hatch, among other things, stated that the National Student Association is an alliance of four hundred colleges and university governments. The schools of higher education which have joined the NSA are found all across the United States. All duly authorized members of the NSA (in other words, any school that belongs) may send delegates to the annual National Student Congress which sets up NSA's policy and elects its officers.

A non-partisan, non-profit organization the USNSA represents over one million students. The fields which this organization delves into are many and should interest the student as it pertains directly to him. Rising university enrollment, segregation in US education, student responsibility, work with students overseas, student government problems, and the like, are all subjects of USNSA concern.

The keystone of USNSA is student initiative. The organization believes that students of colleges and universities are well equipped to exercise thoughtful judgment on problems affecting students themselves. USNSA believes also that student concern and student action often embody the most promising or sole solution to critical problems that face US education today.

USNSA provides valuable leadership training for students; opportunity for exchange of ideas on a national scale; an effective and democratic voice for the American student in national and international affairs; many concrete services, such as special publications, a national intercollegiate newspaper, extensive research and information facilities, opportunities for participation in national seminars, international student exchange programs, low cost student-to-student travel in all parts of the world, benefit from the Student Discount Service, and other forms of assistance in meeting the manifold needs of the student community.

When asked if USNSA could help Ursinus with its student government and other problems, Miss Hatch said that USNSA can advise and provide all necessary information concerning other systems of government, etc., but that it was up to the members of the school to push through any plan to its successful conclusion.

After her speech Miss Hatch opened the floor for questioning. Through the many questions she answered the representatives were better able to judge the benefits they could derive from the USNSA.

All students and faculty alike, should consult the Weekly—for the campus newspaper will carry any other information concerning the National Student Association and its connection with our college which may develop in the future.

Radio Station Planned for U.C. Campus

Although it is not a widely known fact, Ursinus College may soon have its own radio station. The purpose of this station will be to provide, as a club activity, an outlet and encouragement for those students interested in the production of radio programs and in the technical operation of a radio station.

In the course of carrying out its purpose, the radio station will be a benefit to the entire college community in many ways. It will provide programs of interest and will cater to the needs and tastes of the community. It will be able to extend the functions of such organizations as the YM-YWCA, the music clubs, the Curtain Club, and will provide an advertising medium for organizations, concessions, and school functions.

The club will be organized as a business operation with a station manager presiding at club meetings. There will be three departments—business, production, and technical—which will enable a member to choose the field in which he wants to specialize and be trained by someone qualified in that branch. Meetings will be held every two weeks as a means of presenting station policy to the entire organization, introducing new ideas and methods in radio broadcasting, and of providing anything else which might be of interest to the members.

It has been disclosed that there is an available room in the basement of Bomberger Hall. Since this is an ideal location as far as operating and convenience are concerned, the studio will probably be situated there.

The transmitter will be a carrier-current type which requires no licensing or approval from the FCC. A transmitter of this type uses the electric light power lines as an antenna and is thus able to broadcast at very low power. It will operate at a frequency on the standard broadcast band which has not yet been determined. The physics department has kindly given the station access to its stock of war surplus equipment and the remains of a previously unsuccessful radio station.

The coverage of the radio station cannot be determined until the transmitter is built. We can be sure that it will cover all of the on campus dormitories and those off campus houses connected to the campus electrical system. With luck, it may cover all Collegeville and the surrounding area.

Alpha Psi

The initiation of new members for the Delta Tau chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, the national dramatic fraternity, was held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 9, at 8:30 p.m., in Bomberger Chapel, with president Diana Vye, presiding. The members present were Mr. Geoffrey Dolman, Mr. H. Lloyd Jones, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Helfferich, Joan Schaefer, Katrinka Schnabel, and Ed Gobrecht. The new members are Ruth Mercer, Jack Elander, Nancy Springer, Lolly Strasser and Dr. George Storey. There was a reception after the initiation at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Helfferich.

Pi Nu Epsilon Holds Initiations For New Members

Pi Nu Epsilon, the national honorary music fraternity, held formal initiation for its newly-elected members, Linda Foard and Bob Kreisinger. The initiation was held on Tuesday, Nov. 9, in the Faculty Room of the Library. Selection for Pi Nu Epsilon is based upon the maintenance of an 80 average and the number of points received for participation in the musical organizations at Ursinus College.

Linda, a junior majoring in mathematics, is in the band, the Chapel Choir, the Messiah, and has written dialogue for band presentations. Bob, a junior physics major, is in the Chapel Choir, Messiah, Meistersinger, and has done work with the band and its skits.

The officers of Pi Nu are Sam Fogal, President; Ed Gobrecht, Vice President; Bill Miller, Treasurer and Annabel Evans, Secretary.

After the formal initiations, a short business meeting was held.

Pi Nu would like to take this opportunity to announce that the amplifier has been installed in the music room of the library, and that the room will reopen for the use of students who want to listen to high fidelity music.

As is traditional, Pi Nu held an informal reception in the student Union for the soloists and orchestra members appearing in the Messiah. The reception took place during the intermission of the Messiah rehearsal on Thursday afternoon.

Communist System in China Was Topic of Bishop Tsu's Speech Here

Every day twenty-five to thirty thousand Chinese people emigrate from China to Hong Kong. With this statement Bishop Tsu opened his address to the Canterbury Club of Ursinus on Monday, December 8. Bishop Tsu, who studied on a fellowship in the United States and earned a Ph.D. in sociology, had served as missionary Bishop of China and as National Secretary of the Episcopal Church in China. He left in 1950 about 6 months before the first official black list, with his name on it, was published.

Bishop Tsu discussed extensively the development of the Commune. Since 1948 when the Chinese Communists distributed land to 90% of the population and thus won popular support by depriving leftists of their holdings, the Chinese leftists have gradually usurped the intellectual control of the populace.

With an efficient police system and effective repression of the Church, book publishers, intellectuals and private schools, complete control of the education of the people was enforced. Professors were dictated to and told what to write.

This control of the education leaves the Chinese people completely pliable in the hands of the Chinese leftists. Thus, organization of the commune system was begun. To illustrate this system, Bishop Tsu used Montgomery County to illustrate the idea of a "Montgomery Commune." Families are separ-

Rev. Rowland Gives Talk On Marriage

An over-capacity crowd filled room 7 on Wednesday evening, Dec. 10, to hear the Rev. Osborne Rowland of the Lower Providence Presbyterian Church deliver a powerful sermon on the Protestant views of marriage.

Marriage is all of four things, stated Mr. Rowland: (1) the natural conclusion of a love affair (2) the generally accepted avenue to parenthood (3) a civil bond and (4) a working partnership between two people. The objects of this ancient institution are the increase of the race, the training and discipline of natural passions, and the securing of personal happiness and understanding between two people.

But we should remember that in this union, God is admitted as a partner; in fact, God is the Prime Mover in Holy Matrimony and it is He who brings two people together in a close and sacred union of mind and body so that the two shall be one flesh for life.

Mr. Rowland is disturbed by the fact that the Church should, but does not, play an extremely important role in helping married couple to make their union a success. So far the Church has miserably failed in this respect. The Church, according to

Dr. Heilemann Contributes To Physics Magazine

Dr. John J. Heilemann, as a member of the American Association of Physics Teachers Committee on Visual Aids, recently submitted for publication in the American Journal of Physics a review of eighteen films. The half-hour films, designed for presentation to high school students anticipating college, concerned the general topic "Light". Dr. Heilemann, head of the physics department of Ursinus, criticized omissions rather than physical correctness, and pointed out that the quantity of errors, especially grammatical, in the accompanying Teacher's Guide detracted considerably from its usefulness. However, such films, he feels, are a good medium of instruction, and are adequate for the high school level. His article appears in the November issue of the periodical.

Annual Banquet-Dance Held This Wednesday

Christmas Spirit Invades Campus; Decorations, Parties, Xmas Trees Add to Gaiety of Season

From Alpha Phi Omega's Christmas decorations atop Pfahler and Freeland Halls, to the lighted pines of Duryea and the new dormitory decorations, Ursinus is celebrating the Christmas season.

As the seasonal lights of Trinity United Church of Christ join with those of Super House and shine across the snow on the front of the campus, final preparations are being made for the annual MS-WSGA banquet-dance Wednesday evening.

The new dormitory Christmas trees have been decorated and Paisley Hall's third floor boasts outstanding door decorations.

College Students To Study In Europe

Three groups, each containing twenty-five selected American college students, will visit Berlin, Germany; Grenoble, France, and Santander, Spain, next summer to study the language, culture and civilization of these countries during an eight-week stay. Designed for serious students who do not plan to see all of Europe in a short summer, Classrooms Abroad tries to teach a seminar in area studies through a summer of actual living in one of these cities. All groups will undergo intensive language training during the boat trip. Graded classes in small sections of six to eight students each under the supervision of American and native professors will deal with the reading of classical and modern texts, the daily press, contemporary problems, conversation and composition, pronunciation and grammar. Students will also read lectures on history and literature and meet with outstanding personalities. They will have full auditing privileges at the Free University of Berlin and the Universities of Grenoble and Santander and will participate in all academic and social activities with German, French and Spanish students.

Members of Classrooms Abroad will live with German, French and Spanish families, eat many of their meals with their hosts and share the activities of their sons and daughters. They will have ample opportunity to meet young people from student, religious, and political organizations. Two visits per week to theatres, concerts, and movies as well as visits to museums, libraries, factories youth organizations, and other points of interest are included in the program.

Berlin, today, perhaps the most interesting spot in Europe, also offers opportunities to visit refugee camps, the East Sector, the East Berlin university, and Potsdam. Grenoble, "the city with a mountain at the end of every street", is situated con-

Debating Club Announces Opponents for Season

The Debating Society, which began the intercollegiate debating season on December 6 at Temple University, has announced the schedule for winter and spring tournaments.

The opening event was the Temple University Novice Debate Tournament, for beginners.

Events scheduled will include Johns Hopkins University on January 30 and 31; Harvard University on February 5, 6, and 7; and Rutgers University in March.

Other meets which the club is considering are at Morgan State College, Brooklyn College and the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Included in this schedule will be public speaking, discussion, and extemporaneous speech matches.

The Christmas season began after Thanksgiving vacation when several fraternities and sororities, including Zeta Chi and Phi Alpha Psi, Alpha Sigma Nu and Demas, held parties for orphans from nearby institutions.

Sunday, Dec. 7, was the day of Duryea Hall's Christmas Open House, at which time the hall's decorations were disclosed with each door decorated as a gift package.

Last evening the YM-YWCA cabinet held their Christmas party at Studio Cottage, beginning at nine o'clock.

This evening at 6:30 o'clock a Christmas Dessert is being held for Junior and Sophomore women at Super House, the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald L. Helfferich. The program will include discussions and presentations of European Christmas Customs.

Mrs. Helfferich will appear in a German costume and tell of her collection of German Christmas tree ornaments. Miss Urve Viitel will appear in an Estonian costume and discuss the traditions of Estonia.

The highlight of the season will be the banquet-dance Wednesday evening, followed by the traditional caroling by the boys, and women's dormitory parties.

The banquet will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the lower dining hall for men and at 6 o'clock in the upstairs dining hall for the women.

Dean Stahr and Mrs. Donald L. Helfferich will extend greetings to the women, followed by the judging of the tables which will be decorated by each of the four classes on Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Stahr and the Preceptresses will judge the displays.

Mrs. Hugh B. Monjar, who each year donates the tree, lights and Santa Claus suit for the dance in memory of her son, an Ursinus graduate, will be a guest.

The Rev. W. O. Rowland will be the speaker for the men's banquet. Other guests will include Dr. Donald L. Helfferich and the Rev. Alfred L. Creager. During the evening, Rosalie Bellairs and Jack Haag, presidents of the Men's and Women's Student Government Associations, will extend greetings to the other's association.

The Impromptones, a campus dance band, will furnish music for the dance which will immediately follow the banquet. It will be in Thompson - Gay Gym until 11:30, when the boys will begin the traditional caroling in independent groups. They will visit each of the girls' dormitories where they will receive refreshments.

Dr. Roger Staiger will play Santa Claus, as he has in the past, and will distribute gifts and lead the singing of Christmas carols around the thirty-foot high tree at the dance. Dr. Staiger will also tell the traditional story of the tree, which is donated in memory of an Ursinus graduate, the son of Mrs. Monjar.

The Christmas season will draw to a close on Thursday evening, when the candlelight communion service will be held in Bomberger Chapel.

Other Open Houses held were by Hobson Hall on Saturday, Dec. 13, and Clamer Hall, yesterday. Both were from two until five o'clock in the afternoon.

ATTENTION SENIORS

All seniors having placed orders with Merin Studios for portraits, can pick them up on Tuesday, Dec. 16, between 2 and 6 o'clock, in the Student Union. ### "Who Knows?"

With many tests staring us in the face (although vacation is less than a week away) we hardly have time to stop and reflect what Christmas and another year may mean to us. Shut off, as we are, from life and its hardships we are hardly aware that the United States is again near the brink of war, that our economy is far from stable, and that integration is still a thorn in the side of our democratic nation. We here at Ursinus live a sheltered life, as it is, and can not even comprehend the above mentioned situations ever affecting us . . . it is like a disease or an accident; it may happen to someone else but never to us. As we, and many other people of our country may discover, this is far from the truth. Our nation, as our campus, has many problems that seem insolvable, but eventually, through the intervention of good men, or through the hand of Fate all manages to right itself and straighten out. Most problems, though, are not solved by Fate but are resolved by men . . . not the most brilliant or most gifted men in the world, but men who are average, mostly honest, hard-working and persistent. These men are the foundation upon which our society is built. Without this type of person our system, our ideals, and our entire way of life will collapse without the aid of Russia, China, or the ICBM.

Thomas Paine once stated that "These are the times that try men's souls". He made this remark two hundred years ago; but it seems to me that every year, month, day, and hour is a time that tries men's souls. We, as human beings are under continual pressure, from within our country as well as without; and from within ourselves as well as from our environment. We are creatures with the dreadful ability of being able to think, and make our own decisions. Since we live neither in a stable society nor in a stable world our ideas, standards, likes, and dislikes ebb and flow continually. If we are honest with ourselves we admit that what we believe may be nowhere near the truth and, in fact, we often know more of what we don't believe than what we do believe. We don't actually know what is right and what is wrong and we don't seem to have any way of finding this out.

But what is the meaning of all this digression, our readers may well ask. You were talking about our nation, the reader says, and now you have jumped to man and his lack of knowledge. Where's the connection?

The answer is that our nation, as our campus, is composed of individuals. The people, as individuals, supposedly run and govern the country. Therefore we cannot speak of America as an inanimate object for it is composed entirely of people who make it what it is. The people is a nation and the nation is a people. Thus the only way we can strengthen and preserve our nation is by making the people stronger and wiser.

But do you, or I, or does anyone feel competent enough to step into the world and make decisions that may affect millions of people? I don't feel this confidence, nor do you. We, you and I, when we are honest with ourselves must admit that we are still children with children's ideas and ambitions.

Ah, but what should we do, and say, and feel, you ask. I don't know and you don't know, and those who say they are either fools or politicians. We are blind as our fathers before us were blind.

So what are we to do you ask.
I'm sure I don't know . . . do you?

:: SNAKE and the GLASS ::

I am going to speak to you on a ticklish subject; one that has been taking place from the beginning of history. Thousands of volumes have been published on this subject, but I am only interested in what is happening today, and what I see with my own eyes here on the campus—that is about the booze or liquor. When I discuss with anyone about the bad effect that will have on the person when used in excess—especially to the ones who over-use it, the answer usually will be "Why even the ministers, priests and rabbis, and also the big shots, use it?" "Why can't I use it?" What's wrong about that?" I will answer "You numbskull, how many ministers, priests and rabbis did you see cockeyed drunk, walking in the streets, like some of you guys, eh?"

I am speaking about the ones who abuse it and the effect of that particular person on our society. You and I know very well that we must eat and drink in order to exist, but what will happen when you over-eat or drink water in excess. You will feel so rotten with the upset stomach that you are going to lay down a bit in order to digest that overdose of food. Although you still have a clear mind.

But I want to come back to what will happen when a person drinks too much. I am going to tell you some of the things that I see around here and there. First, you started to take a shot or two at a party, outside of the campus, or in your Dorm. Of course, you know why? To show off to the other fellows what a big guy you are. To show them that you can take it, and as well as he can. Especially when a girl is around, you put out the chest more, like a rooster before a hen, and then crow—to show off. Later on some more of those Four Roses goes down the gullet, then you will start to feel a little paralyzed in your tongue and the slow movement of your eyes. At this stage is when you will start to brag to your girl how big you are, and that you can lick anyone around you. "YOU DUMB CLUCK—you can't lick a 10 year old kid in that condition." Then you will start to blow hard to your girl, what a beautiful home you will provide her if she will marry you. But you ain't got the guts to tell her that when you are sober. And GOD knows how many other false promises you will say to her in order for her to fall into your ill-minded trap. After that you don't give a damn for nobody around you. But the worst is that you have dragged the girl down into the gutter with you by coaxing her to take another drink with you. If she don't you will start to tell her "Well, Honey, that shows that you don't love me", and she, as a fool, might fall for those words until later on. She gets cockeyed drunk, then she starts to blame the poor devil below for letting her fall into the trap.

Later on, when she can't keep her head up you will try to be the Good Samaritan by taking her home. But on the way you pretend to lose your direction, your legs are getting paralyzed. Finally you will land somewhere on the grass until early morning. When you sober up you will realize what you have done. It's too late. With your character shot to pieces, also your mate's, you will soon be thinking of looking for another college, MAYBE. In that case, the Dean will help you to see where the Main Street is.

NOW MY ADVICE TO YOU, also to the girl, is that when you raise that glass of liquor, before it touches your lips, visualize before you, your loving mother, with tears flowing down her cheeks, looking down upon you, as her loving Son, sacrificing all she had in order to give you an education, and to prepare you how to learn to live as an upright citizen. Instead, she sees before her eyes her loving Son out to be a drunken bum, ruined for life. All her life's dream about you came to naught. With a broken heart, from which she will never recover, just because you wanted to be a Big Shot among your friends.

I like to give you an example of the effect to the community: When a bad character is around. One day sometime ago, my wife started to prepare to make a cake. I was resting in the living room. All of a sudden my wife called out "Bell, come here, hurry up, open all the windows." When I entered the kitchen I thought the gas pipe burst. What a stink! When I asked her what happened she said "Look here, I broke 6 fresh eggs in the bowl, and when I broke the last one I found it to be a rotten egg, which has spoiled the rest of my good eggs in the bowl, and besides, it left a bad odor all over the room, now I must throw it all away". Now then, do you see what I mean? When a low down character is around?

I will close now by saying "Thank God." Thank Him that it's only a few of the type among us. The Big Majority of you are clean, upright citizens. Thank you for your close attention.

Your Amico,
Bell

"Frosh Opinion"

I have been here at Ursinus for the last several months and the friendliness of both students and faculty, plus the closeness between the two are the outstanding characteristics of the college. The caliber of both also seems excellent, for the most part. Of course, there are exceptions to this rule.

"What, you say your sinuses are running?"

Now who has not heard this infamous line? But that is no reason for having a mass inferiority complex about the place. Next time someone asks you where you go to school, hold your head up and for Pete's sake, stop mumbling. The impression you give of your college is what other people will think of it. And

Events of Interest

by Bruce P. Sherman

Events of Interest? Ha! That's rich! Entertainmentwise, Philadelphia, that great seething metropolis, is as dead as the Christmas spirit in Arabia. Even my old standby, Mildred Martin, did nothing this week but cut up a few lousy movies. New York, however, is crawling with semi-interesting stuff. Flower Drum Song is in. It has been reviewed by numerous critics, the most respected of who . . . Brooks Atkinson of the Times (The New York Times, stupid!) gave it only a lukewarm "good for Rodgers and Hammerstein" reception. He may be obnoxious, but he's a success. Fore the Elite, Jean Shepperd is putting on a play called Look, Charlie, somewhere in the Village. See Archie McKown for details.

If you have a strong stomach, you might see the newest from the Hairless Wonder, Yul Brynner, at the Stanton in Philadelphia. It's the Buccaneers. I don't know what it's like, but somebody said it wasn't too bad. If you know Philadelphia rather well, (even if you don't) you might want to get in to the Erlen theatre on Cheltenham Ave. at 19th St. to catch one of your favorite Alfie Hitchcock movies. They're showing a different one every night. Monday it's The Trouble With Harry, Tuesday, Vertigo, Wednesday, Rear Window, and Thursday, I suspect, The Man Who Knew Too Much. It sounds good. The Ambassador Art Theatre has, for all you bon vivants, Marlene Dietrich in Blue Angel. Some of the more aged (no offense, boys) faculty members might remember that one.

Honestly Ace, there's nothing else to see, hear, or do. Well, maybe there is, but don't recommend it openly in the Weekly.

A nice place I found over the week-end is called the Covered Wagon in Haverford. It's a small club with a good band and better food and drink. There is a five dollar minimum per couple, but you drink or eat it up, so . . . if you're stuck for a New Year's destination (no, I do not get a commission, wise guy!) try it for size.

SPORTS TALK

Old Man Winter has finally given us a break. The time has once again come to re-initiate that fast growing custom which was started only one year ago this winter.

Now is the time to shun Winter's indoor sports like wrestling and basketball, at least for an evening, and go out into the cold white snow for some good healthy exercise.

As I recall, last year the fight started with a challenge which was read over the Freeland squawk-box. As might have been guessed, it was the girls who threw the challenge at the boys.

The time was set for 9:30. This was to allow some to take full advantage of the facilities of the library before it closed, to let others catch up on their studying in their rooms, and to let still others get a little sleep.

By the time the appointed hour rolled around the battle was in full swing, and those who came on time found that they were late. This situation was very confusing to everyone except those who were already packed tightly between mountains of snow.

The boys came ready to virtually bury the girls in piles and piles of snow. They were a confident lot, as I recall, as they marched over to the new girl's dorms. Were they shocked out of their minds once the battle was on! The girls really fought back.

And so the fight went on. Every minute some one was up-ended to get his, or her, face washed. Every now and then the rescue squad had to be called out to help save some poor unsuspecting young lad who had met his moment of truth when three or four damsels, the number varied, grabbed him from the rear.

By 10:30 it was an exhilarated bunch of girls and weary bunch of boys who headed back to the dorms.

This year the boys swear they will be ready for the girls. They refuse to be hoodwinked by rumor. They will be ready to catch whatever the girls toss at them. And the girls will be ready to throw their Sunday punch once again.

Good luck to both parties in the Second Annual Snow Fight, whenever it comes.

Lebanon Valley Names Petersen To All-Opponent

When the Lebanon Valley College gridgers selected an All-Opponent team, they named four Muhlenberg College gridgers to the first team and gave three more honorable mention.

Topping the list of vote-getters was Herb Owens, the Mules' outstanding halfback, who was the only unanimous selection. The other Muhlenberg selections were Jack Young, end; Clair Miller, tackle, and Don Novak, guard.

Each of the eight teams played by Lebanon Valley placed at least one player on the All-Opponent team.

The All-Opponent Team ENDS—Jack Young, Muhlenberg; Bill Huntzell, Thiel; Honorable Mention, Gary Shieler, Albright.

Wrestling Team Begins Choosing Wrestlers

This week the U.C. wrestlers will be fighting for top positions on the '59 team. The matches this week will give a good indication of who will be wrestling the first meet when we get back from vacation.

In the higher weight groups the team stands well either from point. From 147 to heavyweight the team stands well either from the point of view of experience and/or the point of view of depth. In the lower weight groups the team is in trouble. While the positions will be adequately filled for the first three meets which will take place before mid-semester vacation, there is much doubt as to the position these categories will be in after vacation.

Competing for the 123 pound position on the team are Miles Dechant and Bob Davies. There is only one eligible who is trying out for the 130 position, Don Smith. For 137 there is very tight competition between Bob Turnbull and Paul Hill.

The 147 and 157 pound positions are sewed up tightly. There Tony Cianci and Jack Prutzman have all but eliminated the competition which did turn out to face them.

In the 167 and Heavy divisions Miller Preston and Wally Nielsen seem to have won their respective positions. But in the 177 category the field is wide open with Tom Engle, Paul Simpson, Pete Petersen, and Enos Russell fighting it out.

Basketball Team Drops Third Straight Contest

This weekend the U.C. basketball team traveled to Juniata and Susquehanna only to be defeated brutally by both teams. On Friday night Ursinus faced in Juniata one of the best teams it will face all season. Juniata outclassed Ursinus with its height, rebounding, speed and well-balanced attack.

On Saturday afternoon Susquehanna defeated U.C. by a score of 79 to 47. Wenhold was again high scorer for U.C. with 10 points. Susquehanna's high scorers were Gene Witlah with 17, George Moore with 16, and Bob Probert with 15 points.

U.C. Mermaids Begin Practice For Season

The Ursinus Mermaids have begun their plunge for another season. The girls will be coached by Mrs. Beverly Rorer, a teacher at Upper Darby. Tama Williams and Jackie Robbins are the co-captains who hope to lead the team in a successful season. Old members who have returned are Linda MacFarland, Stevie Nichols, Jackie Robbins, Kathy Scheffley, Doris Schachterle and Tama Williams.

quehanna made 36 of their 65 shots from the floor and 15 out of 25 foul shots. Ursinus made only 18 out of 77 from the floor and 11 out of 24 from the foul line. Although Susquehanna's percentages look good, the game was not well played by either team.

Table with 5 columns: Player, FG, F, FM, Pts. Rows include Ursinus and Juniata players like Wenhold, Snyder, Wise, Wiest, Gould, Koff, Conn, Winchester, Detweiler, Wagner, Harper.

On Tuesday, Dec. 9, the Ursinus Bears journeyed all the way to Lancaster to meet the Diplomats of Franklin and Marshall. The Diplomats displayed a fast, well balanced squad and emerged with a 103-67 victory.

Led by Captain Bob Swetman and Al Kugle, Franklin and Marshall jumped into an early lead which they never gave up. In spite of several Ursinus drives, the Diplomats were able to hold the Bears almost from the beginning of the game and never let them come near threatening their early lead.

But, too the dismay of the Ursinus cheering section, the second half found the Diplomats even stronger than before. In spite of their large lead Franklin and Marshall continued their full court press to further fluster the Ursinus basketballers. And fluster them it did. In addition to the press the Diplomats showed great accuracy in their shooting.

Jim Wenhold led the Ursinus scorers with 16 points. He was followed by Denny Gould who had 14 and Wally Christ with 13. Unfortunately these were the only three U.C. scorers who could break the double figure barrier and so the Bears trailed by a large margin by the end of the game.

The final score was a very bad 103-67 defeat for the Bear courtmen. It was their second defeat in their first three games.

Table with 5 columns: Player, FG, F, FM, Pts. Rows include Ursinus and Juniata players like Wenhold, Becker, Snyder, Gould, Koff, Christ, Wagner, Conn, Totals.

Do You Think for Yourself? (HERE'S A TEST THAT WILL TELL YOU!*)

9 questions with illustrations and checkboxes: 1. If the salaries were equal, would you rather be a college professor than a movie star? 2. Would you rather borrow money from a bank or institution than from a friend? 3. Would you rather have tests sprung on you than be warned about them in advance? 4. Do you think it's foolish to daydream? 5. Do you believe it unwise to eat at irregular hours, even though you're hungry? 6. If you actually saw a 'flying saucer' land, would you run for your life? 7. Would you be inclined to follow the latest style in clothes regardless of how it looked to you? 8. Would you feel badly if you thought nobody at all knew where you were?

They know what they want in a filter cigarette. And they know only VICEROY gives it to them. A thinking man's filter, a smoking man's taste. Makes sense. Should you smoke VICEROY? If you think for yourself—chances are you do already!'

:: Drinking ::

by Cherrie Soper

There have been endless discussions on the vices of drinking, but I feel that I must add to the general clamor, by putting in my own views on the subject.

Why is it that many Americans cannot seem to reach a mature, level-headed attitude in respect to indulgence in alcoholic beverages? In many countries the Americans are the cause of ridicule because of these attitudes. Many of us are referred to as "Puritans" because of our total abstinence; others make fools of themselves because they can't drink without getting "stewed." In Spain, and I have heard the same of most European countries, drinking is as common in the home as eating; children are brought up with wine (even where the water is good). There are no strict age limits in bars; there are bars in the different university buildings. And I can vouch for the fact that I saw very few drunk Spaniards. The only drunks were Americans!

What is the cause of this situation in the US? I believe we have been saturated with the chapel and church sermons on the evil of alcohol. Here at Ursinus, the students are not allowed to drink in Collegeville; students over twenty-one are not allowed to drink with professors. In many of our homes, drinking is frowned upon. Isn't it obvious what the results of these restrictions must be? That which is prohibited becomes greatly desirable merely because it is prohibited. Kids don't look at drinking as an accompanying factor at a meal or at a social function; they become obsessed with the idea of drinking as an end in itself. So what happens? We have the problem of the "boozers". Other kids come to college, some feeling that one must constantly be stewed to be one of the gang.

On the other side, we have the goody-goodies who not only don't drink, but feel that others are wrong because they do. If a person does not enjoy drinking—okay—but let him get rid of his self-righteous attitude about it. He is not doing anything that is particularly good morally.

They say that virtue lies in the middle doad; that goes also for drinking. One more thought for "put down your bottle" enthusiasts and for the "booze hounds". Please don't travel outside the United States. We Americans have a bad reputation as it is.

Open Houses Held at Women's Dormitories

On Saturday afternoon from two until five o'clock, the girls of Hobson Hall conducted an open house for anyone who cared to pay a visit. Each of the rooms was very nicely decorated in the Christmas Spirit with tinsel and evergreens and other appropriate objects—with of course, little stuffed animals on the beds. Punch and cookies were served to each guest after he or she had been conducted through the house. Later in the afternoon, Dr. and Mrs. Helfferic called on the group.

And then on Sunday afternoon the girls of Clamer Hall also held an open house, with the rooms decorated according to the themes of various Christmas songs and of course there was Christmas music provided in the hallway to add to the mood of festivity. Again punch and cookies were served and the various groups of visitors engaged in small talk fitting to the occasion.

In both dorms the decorations were very nice and quite pretty and we appreciate the effort they put forth to make the visits enjoyable and worthwhile.

Quinn Water Colors on Display at Ursinus

An exhibition of water colors by Sidney Quinn, Collegeville artist, will be displayed in the lobby of the Ursinus College library between the Thanksgiving weekend and the Christmas vacation.

"Local landmarks" is the title Mr. Quinn gives to the exhibit. Paintings include subjects such as Ursinus College scenes, the Perkiomen Bridge Hotel, The Independent building and others in the area.

Frosh Opinion . . .

I would like more people to think of Ursinus as just a bit more than a post-nasal drip.

I would now like to blast away at those jackets that look like they belong to refugees from New York City's lower East side. If we are a hoody college let's not just be halfway about it. Let's at least sell brass knuckles along with the jackets to give the boys the appropriate atmosphere. They are certainly worthy of it, aren't they?

With this I quit, hoping to see you at the next basketball game, or aren't you interested?

Ursinus to Host Annual County Science Fair

Ursinus College will play host to the second annual Montgomery County Science Fair held under the joint sponsorship of the Montgomery County Manufacturers' Association and the Montgomery County Science Teachers' Association. Dates for the event will be April 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1959. Ursinus was also host to the first annual show.

- CHRISTMAS RECESS

"On Christmas"

by Sam Miller

Again we are in the midst of a Christmas season—all rushing about madly in an effort to get the usual necessary things done. We buy or make gifts—wrap them up and send them off—and then get to work on the list of cards to be sent out. When all this is done, we then must begin decorating our homes and paying calls—and after Christmas, begin to pay off the bills. Somehow, as our preachers tell us, we have lost the spirit of the whole thing. They preach sermons on things like, "Let's keep Christ in Christmas", and emphasize the experience of "Giving" . . . and pass the offering plate with: "It is more blessed to give than to receive". Now all this is very good, and has a definite place in our lives but . . . "don't let the gifts crowd the Gift". And when we think on this for a while it seems that we can say that it is more blessed to receive than to give.

It is this receiving that makes Christmas what it really is to all of mankind and to each individual, if he or she will allow it to be so. Every man has need of a religious experience of some sort and for the western world this has been provided by Christianity. Many of our expressions of Christmas are from pagan sources—but really what harm is there in that if they draw us nearer to the real meaning?

Christmas is a time of hope—hope for better lives, for peace and understanding. This hope has been made manifest in the traditional story of the birth of Christ, and from there, into all the other expressions, such as Handel's Messiah, and all the rest that we use. Yet with all these "reminders" we still forget—perhaps because we make idols of reminders or symbols. As an individual each one of us can only examine our needs and consider how the Christ event has in some measure, or perhaps, in full measure, filled these needs.

Rev. Rowland . . .

Mr. Rowland, should see to it that only qualified people are giving advice to young people. The Church must also emphasize by its teachings that marriage is a great deal more than merely a civil contract. Moreover, the Church should take it upon itself to observe and aid newlyweds in their "after the honeymoon" problems of adjustment.

"Married couples must make an effort to adjust to each other", said Mr. Rowland. "They must learn to tolerate each other's idiosyncrasies and bad qualities. They should not withhold secrets from each other. Furthermore, 'bedroom affairs' are sacred; they should be kept that way and not babbled around."

A short question period followed. When asked about his beliefs for or against divorce, Mr. Rowland expressed the view that divorces should be granted in certain cases. "No man is meant to live in a hell on earth." In respect to mixed marriages, Mr. Rowland stated that they are extremely dangerous, the belief that "those matters will straighten themselves out later" is a complete fallacy. Mr. Rowland would prefer to see a Protestant turn Roman Catholic than have the two people enter into Holy Matrimony traveling separate religious paths. Marriage is a complete union of mind, body, and spirit; this union is not fulfilled if it is not completed in one of its most important aspects.

The Y has tentatively scheduled Jan. 14 as the date for the fourth marriage seminar. A Jesuit priest will present the Roman Catholic viewpoint of marriage.

Chi Alpha

In the past two weeks the beauty of Handel's "Messiah" has reminded us powerfully of that which at Christmas we would prefer to ignore: the meaning of Christ's advent. Christmas is not the story of a baby in a manger but of one named Jesus who was to save his people from their sins. The Candlelight Communion Service on Thursday, Dec. 18, presents the opportunity for us as a community to remember this deepest meaning of Christmas.

A brief meditation will be given by the Rev. Mr. Creager. The Chapel Choir will process and a male quartet including John Deisinger, Bob Allen, Earl Boehm and Bill McQuoid will sing. Members of Chi Alpha will serve the Communion elements. The service will be held at 7 o'clock in Bomberger Chapel.

Dr. Creager will be the speaker at the regular meeting of Chi Alpha on Tuesday night, Dec. 16, at 7 p.m. in the Faculty Room of the Library. Members are reminded to bring their dues.

Dear Editor:

When will you learn to spell my name right? If you would only take your time and pronounce the name carefully three or four times, I'm sure you would have no trouble. But to me it is very aggravating, as I imagine it is to a lot of people, to have such a simple name as mine spelled wrong. Kindly try to rectify this error in the near future.

Dear Editor:

After reading the editorials in your worthy paper I have come to the conclusion that not only you, but your whole staff are all wet to say the least. Why all this picking apart the Ursinus student? Are you so good? You tell us to go out and do this or that, yet I haven't seen you do anything that is worth merit except consistently make mistakes in the rag you call the Ursinus Weekly (which in itself is a misnomer).

Before you can get up and preach why don't you learn some facts. "Know thyself" might be a good maxim for you to follow. If your knowledge is in any degree related to what type of articles you put in the Weekly, I would have to say that you're a moron.

Also I wish you would stop putting those boxes at the head of the paper to your own use. If what you have to say is private, then don't put it in the paper and don't bother us with it. One last parting shot . . . how about putting something in the paper that will interest us and not bore? Why not try to get new news instead of an article that is between two and five weeks old? Try, for who knows what is possible, even from you.

A Friend
