172 Receive Diplomas at Ursinus Today

Dr. "Sieb" Pancoast Resigns As Ursinus Dean of Men

Recently the entire student body received the news that Dr. G. Sieber Pancoast, Dean of Men, and professor of political science, is retiring from the position. Dr. Pancoast, who became Dean in 1947, has been an example to every student who has had occasion to speak to him. "Sieb", as he is fondly called by everyone, has been tireless in performing his job as Dean. There has never been an occasion when he has not had the time to sit down and speak to a student, offering whatever advice was necessary. Those students who have had the occasion to be admonished by him, have come away feeling only respect for Dr. Pancoast. His manner and personality are those which lend honor and respect to any position.

Dr. Pancoast received his undergraduate degree here at Ursinus in 1937. He received his Masters degree in 1940 from the University of Pennsylvania, and his Doctorate degree in 1956. Dr. Pancoast has been teaching here at Ursinus for twenty-two years—since 1937. Busy as he was with his duties as Dean and with his teaching tasks, Dr. Pancoast still found time to be the baseball coach, a job which he undertook in 1947, and the faculty adviser to Pi Gamma Mu, the honorary social science fraternity, and the Men's Student Government.

Dr. Pancoast, who is married to a former Ursinus graduate, is the father of two daughters. Dr. and Mrs. Pancoast live on Seventh Avenue here in Collegeville.

When interviewed about his resignation, Dr. Pancoast said that he felt the job was too much for him to handle, for in the past few years many responsibilities have been added. However, he will still be with us as a political science professor and as adviser of the aforementioned activities. In his role as disciplinarian, Dr. Pancoast has only this to say about the student body at Ursinus, "I have found that the boys and girls are all nice. They like to have fun, but basically they are well-behaved. They have been little trouble." It is this philosophy that has made "Sieb" so well-admired and respected by all of the students here at Ursinus.

Mr. Richard Schellhase Is New Alumni Secretary

Beginning on July 1, 1959, Mr. Richard T. Schellhase will succeed Dr. Roger P. Staiger as Alumni Secretary.

Mr. Schellhase attended Mercersburg Academy, Ursinus College, Lancaster Theological Seminary, and the University of Edinburgh. He has served as a pastor at a church near Harrisburg, and he also served as a Navy chaplain for two years. He came to Ursinus to teach religion and English in February of 1956. Mr. Schellhase now attends the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

As Alumni Secretary he will be in charge of overseeing seven regional alumni groups. He is responsible for the publication of the alumni journal which comes out three times a year. He will also be responsible for the administration of the Loyalty Fund, Alumni Day and Old Timers' Day.

Sincere thanks and appreciation go to Dr. Roger P. Staiger for having done such a commendable job as Alumni Secretary.

Miller Addresses Grads At 90th Commencement

Ursinus College awarded 172 undergraduate degrees and three honorary degrees at its annual Commencement Convocation held this morning in the gymnasium on the Ursinus campus. President Donald L. Helfferich conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws upon the commencement speaker, Paul Miller, distinguished newspaperman and President of the Gannett Newspapers Co. at Rochester, New York. Dr. Helfferich conferred honorary degrees of Doctor of Divinity upon the Rev. L. Harrison Ludwig, Marion, Ohio, and the Rev. Jerry W. Trexler, San Mateo, California. Dr. Trexler officiated at the Ursinus College Baccalaureate Service, held Sunday morning, June 7, in Bomberger Hall on the College campus.

Dr. Paul Miller, internationally known journalist and newspaper executive, is the son of a Southwestern minister and began his career as a reporter in Oklahoma at the age of eighteen. He graduated from Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College with the degree of Bachelor of Science, and in 1932 he joined the Associated Press of which he became the Chief of the Washington Bureau and Assistant General Manager.

In 1947 Dr. Miller joined the Gannett Newspapers at Rochester, N. Y., and by 1957 he had become President of the huge newspaper chain which includes eighteen newspapers and four radio and four television stations in New York State, New England, and the Middle West. He is President of the Frank E. Gannett Newspaper Foundation and of the WHEC and WHECTV in Rochester. He is Publisher of the "Times-Union" and "The Democrat and Chronicle."

Dr. Miller holds other distinguished positions. He is a Director and First Vice President of The Associated Press, Chairman of the Advisory Board of the American Press Institute of Columbia University, Member of the Pulitzer Prize Board, Past President of the New York State Publishers Association, Member of the Gridiron Club and National Press Club of Washington, D. C., and a Director of the Brand Names Foundation.

Dr. Miller, who has traveled in official capacity through Europe, Central and South America, and the Near East, resides with his wife and four children in Rochester. He is active in the Presbyterian Church and a host of business and industrial, civic and social organizations in his home city. He has been the recipient of numerous awards.

The Rev. Dr. L. Harrison Ludwig was born in Rahms and lived much of his early life in the Collegeville area. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Ursinus College in 1921 and his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Central Seminary in 1924. He was ordained into the Ministry of the Reformed Church in 1924.

Dr. Ludwig has held pastorates in the United Church of Christ in Ohio and is now Pastor of the Salem United Church of Christ, Marion, Ohio.

The Rev. Dr. Jerry W. Trexler was born in Florida and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Hiram College, Ohio (1941), and a Bachelor of Divinity degree from Oberlin Graduate School of Theology in Ohio (1942). He was ordained a minister in 1941. Dr. Trexler has been affiliated with various Congregational Churches in Ohio and in Holyoke, Mass. Since 1956 he has been a Senior Minister of the Congregational Church of San Mateo, San Mateo, Cal. Dr. Trexler has held various posts in the Congregational Church in Ohio and Massachusetts and since 1957 has been a member of the Executive Council of the United Church of Christ. He is married and has two children.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Dr. Donald L. Helfferich has announced the appointment of Miss Ruth H. Rothenberger of the class of 1936 at Ursinus as the new dean of women.

Miss Rothenberger was dean at Lasell Junior College, was active on the National Girl Scout Council. She took her master's degree at Columbia. Miss Rothenberger has taught in the public schools, is a member of the National Dean's Association, and is a member of the American Association of University Women.

Swinton Chosen As New MSGA Rep. From Sophomores

On Monday, June 1, in an election held among Freshman men, John Swinton was elected as next year's Sophomore representative to the MSGA. John, who is an English major from Westfield, New Jersey, is an active member of his class and participates in many campus functions. This year, he has been a regular contributor to both the news and feature departments of the Weekly. In addition, he has served as manager of the track team this year and next year he will be a member of the Soph Rules Committee.

On Tuesday, May 26, MSGA held its first meeting under its newly elected president, Jim Sandercock. Requests for concessions were reviewed by the council as were the applications for next year's proctors. In addition, a letter was submitted to the faculty regarding the parking lot and the new ruling on student cars on campus. Also, a customs report was brought up for consideration by next year's Soph Rules Committee.

SENIOR PARTY

On Saturday, June 7, members of the senior class held a party, which started at 2:30 in the afternoon. At 5:30 a picnic supper was held. The party, held at Yerkes, Penna., was the last function of the class as a whole before the seniors received their diplomas on June 8. After the picnic supper, dancing was the highlight. Dreamy music on the outdoor pavillion accentuated the reminiscent mood of the seniors as they enjoyed their final fete together.

PHI PSI

The sisters of Phi Alpha Psi wish to extend best wishes to Nancy Craft on her recent pinning to Don Bliem, a brother of Delta Mu Sigma. Best wishes are also extended to Dottie D'Agostino who was recently pinned to John Kirk, a sophomore at Bucknell. John is a brother of Phi Lambda Theta fraternity.

Beginning

Commencement is an exciting time. Parents and relatives and friends are all milling about and exclaiming and rejoicing over their favorite graduate's accomplishment. And it is proper to feel proud, for the graduate has successfully completed four years of preparation for his commencement. Now he must begin.

And beginnings are exciting times, too. For some the new beginning is just a continuation of preparation. But this time the preparation will be more advanced and intensive. Graduate and medical schools require the utmost of this preparation that a student has obtained. For other graduates, the beginning is going to be in something new. But for all the graduates, the beginning is a challenge and an opportunity, the success of which will be determined by the graduate's own ambition, hard work, and concern.

When we were in high school we were told that we were the hope of America's "tomorrow". Now that "tomorrow" is here. And the college graduates have now accepted the responsibility of adulthood. The results of their decisions will now affect many more people than just themselves.

Aside from this more serious aspect of commencement there is also a melancholy atmosphere which pervades all college commencements. Friends will be separated. There will never again be quite the opportunity that college offered to build friendships and to get to know one another. Now there will be very little time to spend long hours in discussion. People will be separated in interests and also geographically. But, one consolation is that college friendships do last, though removed from the ground of their inception. These are friendships that are made as adults; so they are usually kept as adults.

Of course, the very saddest part about commencement is the realization that college life is over. There will be no more watermelon parties, trips to Rocco's, or dinner at the Drug. There will not be any more bonfires before Homecoming or Loreleis or bridge games in the Supply. But, then, these are only the superficial joys of college life. The lasting and most valuable joy comes from the growth and knowledge that thrive in a college graduate. There is a growing sensitivity in a college student which should have matured when he graduates. This sensitivity is primarily caused by the graduate's sense of responsibility—that feeling of concern for one's fellow man.

Commencements are such a paradox. We talk of beginnings as adults, and we talk of endings—the end of joyous college days. And the seriousness of the occasion is only relieved by the excitement—the excitement of having the whole world before the graduate to make his mark in. He will not be evaluated by 70's or 80's, for 70 is no longer passing—only 100's will do. So, there is much to be accomplished and gained by the graduate.

Those of us who still have more years at Ursinus wish the very best to the Class of '59. It will be a very different Ursinus without them, but we hope it will also be a very different world with them. —Ed.

EXODUS

The world smiled on me and was too lenient. It took me from a dull, supervised high-school life and gave me the relatively unchained opportunities of a college environment.

It put me in the tiny town of Collegeville, amidst the rolling hills of Pennsylvania, and blessed me with spectacular sunrises and charming country sounds. I opened my eyes and reveled in its beauty.

I was surrounded by people who talked, and I finally learned to listen. Listening brought the realization that life was broad, varied, complex. I laughed, and ran, and played, and sang, and dreamed. I enjoyed people to their fullest.

But, as I said, the world was too lenient. It gave me much too much freedom and not enough wisdom to know it was too much.

It was sad. I ended the first semester of my freshman year with thoughts of changing my major and the second semester with plans of leaving school. The first semester of my sophomore year I sweated the possibilities of being ineligible, and now, at the end of second semester, I have accepted the inevitability of losing my scholarship. Somehow, there was never quite enough time to study, but there was always enough left over to go places and do things.

I'll miss the spring campus, and the idiosyncrasies of favorite professors, and after-dinner jaunts to the Drug, and philosophy discussions late at night, and Weekly deadlines, and spur-of-the-moment trips to Philadelphia, and stack days, and Christmas banquets, and twenty-five cent cokes-to-take-out.

I'll never decorate for a Junior Prom or a Senior Ball, or help plan a Ruby, or laugh at graduation cards, or take part in an academic procession.

So I'll shrug my shoulders and say something trite, like "That's life", or "I'm an individualist", or "I never did like chapel." But when I leave here on Monday afternoon, I'll feel like running to the top of one of those Pennsylvania hills, and yelling wildly "Stop World, I want to get off!"

It's sad because it's true, and it's tragic because it concerns me.

MEANDERING

Heifer Hall
June 5, 1959

Dear Wellington Flanders,

This week has really been a drag. I mean the most. It has really taxed my frontal lobes. The last time I'll ever have to take exams or thrill to the power of forgotten knowledge! I mean the soaring of the mind in realms unknown can really be tiring.

And the discussions in our dormitory! I mean really platonic serious, important issues that we, our generation, are called upon to work out. Like the double standard, government control of butter parity, belongs and non-belongs, how to control the divorce rate, and the single standard. These things are burning issues; I mean they are demanding and immediate and not to be scoffed at. One just can't walk right by a discussion like that. We all need to help, I mean.

And the social events this last week have been very important. At our sorority dinner Dr. Arborpot spoke about the importance of college graduates thinking like college graduates. I mean being proud that we are college graduates, the leaders in our community, and therefore remembering to think the right way. Well Patricia Havoc was just so moved by the talk and the solemnity that immediately she stood up and said, convictionately: "We must remember to think alike." Whereupon we all raised our glasses and sang the Alma Mater with many a tear in many an eye.

All week we seniors have been urged to remember our dear old Kirchoff College with small donations of our gleanings from the world. Well, I mean the nostalgia and all that when I read the notices—I get all choked up. One can't be too appreciative of one's adopted mother. I mean, charity begins at home and Kirchoff has been my home for four years so I thought I'd sacrifice wisely.

Dearest Wellington, after the commencement, Mom and Dad will bring me home. Home to you my childhood love. I'll meet you in the field behind the Wheatstone Bridge. I mean I'm glad you went to college, too. How vastly would our personalities have differed if one of us had not been given the opportunity to think, to learn, to ponder depth. I mean now we are improved together, capable of who knows what? Simplicity, clarity, independent thought are all behind us, blotted out. I mean the world needs us now to do what we can. We must be her servants, mold our minds and talents to her demands for help. I mean as college graduates we have a duty.

Existentially yours,
Conestoga Berganwhistle

: PROGRESS : : Marital Status :

The Men's Student Government Association of Ursinus has chosen the group of Sophomore rulers that will head the Freshman customs program next October. Already the Soph rules planning committee, headed by Gayle Gordinier and Jay Bosniak, has worked out a tentative schedule including the usual step shows, athletic contests, dinks, name tags, and after dinner get-togethers in Bomberger.

Except for a couple of minor innovations, like larger name tags and closer surveillance of Frosh, the customs program will be conducted in essentially the same manner as the New Deal customs program inaugurated last year. The organization of last year's program met with a good deal of success despite vociferous objections from some upper classmen who recalled with apparent fondness the duck walks, the midnight track meets and the Vasoline sessions which constituted, not orientation, but Freshman hazing of the not so far distant Ursinus past.

In an era that no longer emphasizes sports and good time hell-raising in college, but, instead, supports the serious education-conscious student, to whom hazing and initiations are read about and chuckled over in Frank Merriwell novels, Ursinus has remained curiously provincial. The MSGA, with its drastic revamping of the 1958 customs program, took an important step forward in modernizing the Ursinus academic attitude. It appears that Jay and Gayle and their rulers will continue the enlightened approach.

The planning committee will do some more work during the summer. They will return to the fall semester early to hold meetings in an effort to knit the three week period of Freshman orientation into a smoother, more continuous operation than the 1958 Soph rulers, utilizing the sketchy if new MSGA format, were able to achieve.

Frosh will still be seen at October football games and on campus with bow ties, dinks, no make-up, and name tags, but, for the duration of the customs period at least, they will be subject to the pressures of adjustment to college study demands only, not to unnecessary humiliation and physical exertion administered by the Soph rulers.

Congratulations to the following graduates of, not only the "Fightin'est College in the East" but the "Marryin'est College in East". Please blame any omissions or corrections on lack of research time due to frantic exam pushing.

I would like to commend the staff of the Lantern for the work done this year, with special credit to Sam Miller for his great effort and expertise in putting the magazine together: he sweated fondly over the whole difficult business, worrying it through to a good finish. I would like also to have it understood that Irv Moore was a willing helper in the preparation of the magazine although his name does not appear in the listing of the staff in the spring issue.

Hel's Corner

It's about the time of the year when all of us should look at this past academic year's activities in sports, and perhaps we should do so in a critical fashion more so than with the conventional sentimentality which makes even the honest game or performance appear in a good light, especially as seen through the eyes of the departing seniors. But the show must go on and the only road to any future improvement will be barricaded if we don't evaluate ourselves realistically. The fact of the matter is that we, as a school, did not do very well in almost every phase of sports. To be sure, excuses may be found if we search long enough, but we also must keep in mind that rationalizations are deceiving. After reflecting on the situation for a while we must necessarily arrive at the conclusion that our failures were largely our own fault. There was a definite lack of initiative on the side of the student body. Potentially able athletes did not do their best, and some did not even bother to compete at all in any sport. To be sure, we did have a few outstanding men in every sport, but it so happened that they alone had to carry the burden. What we need is more men going out for sports and more men willing to put forth their best than in the past years. Of course we realize that the above suggestion represents nothing new and has been made many a time before; but, it is the only solution.

Jen Shillingford Leaves Ursinus

Next year an outstanding teacher, diligent coach, and understanding friend will be sorely missed by many Ursinus women. Jen Shillingford will leave a staff position as well as a place in our hearts that shall be difficult to fill. She has most certainly executed her duties with the precision and ease of an old-timer in the business—even though she is a very recent graduate of Ursinus. Starting her college career as a Biology major in the Pre-Medical course, Jen rapidly discovered her vocation was truly that of a Health and Physical Education instructor.

Upon graduation, Jen was immediately offered a position on the Ursinus staff which she accepted. During her teaching career, girls have herded to her Atypical and First Aid classes; team members have admired her capable coaching methods in hockey, badminton and tennis; girls have been able to discuss private problems openly with her with no fear of her looking shocked or acting indifferently, and they are always assured of either a solution or helpful and understanding advice.

Jen leads a very full life aside from her teaching position at Ursinus. She has traveled summers with the All-American hockey team as the goalie; she plays Ursinus Alumnae hockey, and Club basketball; she has been a member of the All-Philadelphia Lacrosse Team; and she is a very active official in various sports. But now Uncle Sam has called Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shillingford. We know she will be successful in all she does and well loved by all associates in her future as much as she has been in the past.

Jen has left a part of herself

Baseball Team Finishes With Impressive Log

The Ursinus baseball team ended the season with an impressive 12-5 log. Coach Sieb Pancoast once again gathered together a solid baseball combine and although the Bears did not win the regional title, they proved that they were a strong club by walloping Moravian, western regional champs. The year "59" will see a host of seniors graduating and their absence next season will be sorely felt. Captain Wally Christ's position will be extremely difficult to replace as there are no competent subs to fill his shoes. "Inky" Wagner's glove may be replaced but his spark plug spirit on and off the field will be missed. "Doc" Lim's bat and glove, too, will have to be taken over and Jack Haag's mound chores; Wayne Williams' consistent clutch hitting and Jack Strunk's stick, all will have disappeared next season.

What the Bears do in the next season will depend largely on the returning lettermen. Back next year will be home-run hitting Jim Wenhold, surprising George Armstrong, clutch hitting Ed Savastio, pepper hot Davy Harper, fastballer Elmer Haigh, freshman sensation Terry Shaner, ace Lin Drummond, freshman Jack McCrae, versatile Don Henry, and hard-hitting Ted Kershner.

Some of the highlights this season were the outstanding pitching of Drummond, Haigh, and Shaner. Hitting wise, Williams and Armstrong led the parade.

with all who have come in contact with her—no matter how briefly. We shall miss you, Jen. Good luck in the future.

Cindermen End Season; Several Records Broken

The 1959 track season ended with a record of two wins and five losses in dual meet competition and a third place in a triangular meet. Lack of depth again hampered the Bears, but the performances of several outstanding men added considerable luster to the season. The scores of the meets this year were much closer than those of the past several years, indicating somewhat better balance and depth. Since only three men will be lost from the team through graduation, a fine nucleus remains for the 1960 season. In addition, there are a number of fine prospects who were not eligible in 1959. Additional men should be found in the freshman class.

Sophomore Vernon Morgan was the top scorer with 121 points. This represents the greatest points scored in one season in Ursinus track history. Some of his accomplishments follow.

Girls Undefeated In Spring Sports

The 1958-59 women's sports teams performed with amazing skill this season. Four of the seven varsity teams hold undefeated seasons. Hockey, the fall sport, coached by Miss Snell and Jen Shillingford and captained by senior Alice Irwin, had a 4-3-1 season; Ursinus bowed to Temple and ESSTC and tied West Chester. The JV team had a better season, 6-0-1, being tied only by ESSTC at 0-0. Alice Irwin, Sue Wagner and Faye Bardman brought honors home to Ursinus by acquiring positions on the All-College First team; Betty Lou Terry made All-College Third, and Carol Bentley was placed on All-College Fourth; goalie Adele Statzel was given honorable mention.

The winter teams were basketball, swimming and badminton, coached by Miss Snell, Mrs. Beverly Rorer, and Jen Shillingford, respectively. The badminton team, led on by captain Carol LeCato, emerged undefeated. The basketball team was defeated by West Chester and Temple by 4 and 3 points; the team was capably captained by Sue Wagner, while Faye Bardman led the scoring column. The swimming team showed fine performance during their season under mermaid captain Jackie Robbins. Tama Williams and Joey Ferrell held fine speed records.

Senior sports participants were given a fine send-off when all three spring sports emerged undefeated. The softball team was coached by Miss Snell and Gail Snyder was the captain-3rd baseman combined. The undefeated tennis team was coached by Jen Shillingford, who will not be with us next year. Senior Carol LeCato captained the team and placed highly in the Inter-Collegiate Tournament along with Carol Heffelfinger and doubles, Sandy Rinehart and Jeanne LeCato. The lacrosse team was the fourth undefeated women's sport of the year. Coach Marge Watson, a recent Ursinus graduate, is very proud of her record because of the short time this sport has been played at Ursinus College. At the Lacrosse Tournament, more honors were awarded the Ursinus athletes as freshman Lynne Crosley made First All-Philadelphia team; Sue Wagner and Tama Williams were placed on Third All-Philadelphia team, and goalie Janet Schneider was given honorable mention. The following week Lynne Crosley went on to attain a position on the All-American Reserve Lacrosse Team. Congratulations, Lynne! We're all very proud of you.

Well, fans, that just about concludes the summary of sports for this year. We're hoping hockey, basketball and swimming will soon equal the other teams' seasons. And to those conquering heroines who have valiantly arisen undefeated—"Keep up the good work, girls!"

Running in the Penn Relays Vern established a new college two mile record of 9:59.4. He had previously broken the old record of 10:34.0 set by Irv Sutin in 1930.

In the Middle Atlantic Championships at Swarthmore, Vern set a new record for the mile in the college class section by winning in 4:28.9. He had previously broken Lee Lawhead's 4:37.8 mile record set in 1957 on several occasions.

Running the half-mile in the same championship meet, he again set a new record with a 2:00.9. This erased the 2:01.9 record of another great Ursinus trackman, Lee Lawhead who set his record in 1957.

In addition to these outstanding performances, Vern was undefeated in the mile during the entire season, and in the half-mile during the regular season. He won the two mile five times and placed second three times in the eighth regular season meets. On five occasions then he won the mile, half, and two mile on the same day, and on three occasions won the mile, half mile, and placed second in the two mile. This is all the more remarkable because the half-mile and the two mile are separated only by the 220 yard dash, which allows fifteen to twenty minutes for recovery. This is a great tribute to his phenomenal condition, stamina, and spirit.

One of the greatest tributes that can be paid to this fine athlete is that he is a real team man. He passed up many opportunities to establish records and ran only fast enough to win in order to conserve his energy for the ensuing races. The greatest coaching problem was to keep him from working too hard!

His teammates rewarded him by electing him the most valuable track man for which he received an appropriate trophy at the Varsity Club banquet.

Another great competitor and team man was Al Walton. Al ranks with "Skip" Ruth as the best weight man in Ursinus history. Throwing the shot, discus, and javelin, he tied the previous all-time Ursinus high in points for one season of 95 set by Skip Ruth. In regular season competition, Al was undefeated in the shot except for the P.M.C. meet in which he placed second.

Al set new meet records for the shot in the F & M meet and Washington College meet and a new meet record for the discus in the Muhlenberg meet and a new javelin record in the Washington College meet.

Much of Al's success can be summed up in an oft-repeated remark of his, "It's only 5:40, Coach. I've got time for a few more throws."

Captain Cal Fox shouldered the responsibility in the sprints.

He won the 100 yard dash twice, placed second five times, and third once. In the 20, Cal won four times, was second three times, and third once. He set a new meet record for the 100 in the Muhlenberg meet. He was re-elected captain for the 1960 season.

Ben Settles, a service returnee, served in dual capacity for Ursinus as a member of the tennis team and a broad jumper in track. Ben lettered in both. He was undefeated in the broad jump and placed fourth in the Middle Atlantic.

Bob Petersen scored well in the pole vault and Judd Kinzley scored four firsts and two seconds in the high jump and tied for third in the Middle Atlantic Championships.

Peter Wise in the hurdles and high jump, and Bink Hadtke in the shot and discus contributed valuable points to the team.

Ursinus Grads to Continue Studies After Graduation

Commencement exercises on June 8, will not mean the end of their education to many of the Ursinus students who will be receiving their degrees. Many of the graduates are planning further studies in their chosen fields after graduation.

Among those planning graduate work are Bob Bond who will attend Temple; Bob Angstadt, Cornell; Margaret Follet, Judy Adams and Laura Loney, Delaware; Richard Waite, Lehigh; Bob Blew, Clark; Bill Godshalk, Harvard; Carolyn Carpenter and Elsie Catlett, University of Pennsylvania; Cherrie Soper and Ann Colbert, who will both attend the University of Kansas on teaching assistantship, and Roy Moyer and Franz Haberl.

Those who will attend divinity school include: Bill McQuoid and Al Kinloch, Princeton; Dick Maddock, Philadelphia Divinity School and Ken Trauger and Sam Fogal, Lancaster.

Richard D'Eustachio, Charles Hadtke, and Shel Wagman will attend dental school at the University of Pennsylvania.

A great number of graduates will attend medical schools. Wally Christ, Harry Zall, Marvin Koff, Ted Clair, and Fred Glauser are planning to work at Hahnemann in Philadelphia. Michael Weller, Michael Becker and Ben Houser, will attend Jefferson, while Bob Burns, Jack Jones, Carol Schreiner, Paul Constantine and Jerry Mallick continue studies at Temple and Hubert Levenson attends the University of Pittsburgh. Bob Schmoyer is also planning work at medical school.

Other students include Annabel Evans who will attend the library school at Western University and Barbara Tucker who will study medical technology at Akron General Hospital.

Among these students, Carolyn Carpenter has received a scholarship for occupational therapy at the University of Pennsylvania and Ruth Mercer received a grant to a research assistantship on the Physiology Department of Temple Medical School.

NEWS OF THE NATION

by Mary Dassler

Southern segregationists have recently uncovered a new hotbed of controversy concerning integration and civil rights, namely children's literature. Last week in Alabama a furor arose over a seemingly innocent book written for two to five year-olds entitled The Rabbits' Wedding. The book, which tells of the romance between a black rabbit and a white rabbit was strongly denounced by the Alabama press as a "technique of brainwashers." Indignant over this attempt to indoctrinate southern children with integration and intermarriage, state legislators demanded that the book be taken off the shelves and burned. Under pressure as being "controversial", the Alabama Public Library Service Division was forced to relegate it to closed reserved shelves on integration information or shelves of material which is only available by special request. All this ensued in spite of the statement made by the author, Garth Williams, that the book had no allegorical connotations.

This week the wrath of segregationists was incurred upon a classic nursery tale, "The Three Little Pigs." An astute Miami segregation leader, David Hawthorn, observed that recent publications of the story displayed a picture of a white pig, a black pig, and a black-and-white spotted pig, rather than three white pigs which had previously been depicted. Clearly this was still another plot by integrationists to brainwash American youth. In this particular version, the black pig survived the threat of the wolf, while both his white brother and his spotted brother were devoured. To Mr. Hawthorn, who demanded that it be "wiped off the state's book shelves", it was obvious that the book was preaching black supremacy over whites and mulattos.

For some years, legislators and special interest groups have tried to promote integration and equal civil rights for the American Negro. These two incidents from the deep South reveal the extreme bigotry and fanaticism which must be dealt with before these goals can be achieved. Ominously, both incidents bring to mind the Nazi tactic of burning books throughout the thirties.

SPANISH CLUB

On May 26, the Spanish Club held a banquet at the Kopper Kettle in Collegeville. The banquet ended a very successful year. Those members attending were: Pat Karppinen, Ann Colbert, Cherrie Soper, Ruth Ann Spences, Sally Garside, Ardie Mumbauer, Franz Haberl and Nancy Springer.

Mr. Wilcox, who is the sponsor of the club, and his wife, were also present at the banquet. After a delicious meal, elections for next year's officers were held. The newly-elected officers are president, Pat Karppinen and secretary-treasurer, Ardit Mumbauer. Pat, who is a Spanish major, is also a member of the French Club, sings in the Meistersingers, and is a sister of Kappa Delta Kappa. She is also a librarian. Ardie, also a Spanish major, is a member of Kappa Delta Kappa, sings with the Meistersinger, and is a member of the badminton team.

UNQUOTE

Be reasonable . . . do it my way.

When in doubt, shut up!

When a woman aggressively adopts the role of mistress of ceremonies, we may be reasonably sure that is the only thing she is mistress of.

The most common failing of would-be intellectuals is to imagine they are being profound when they are merely being obscure.

Between the intellectual who enjoys complicating the simple, and the average man who enjoys simplifying the complicated, it becomes the hardest task in the world to distinguish what is easy from what is difficult to do in the social order.
