CELEBRATE HISTORY

One might describe Ursinus College as an independent, four-year liberal arts college located in southeastern Pennsylvania. While this description is valid, it ignores the college's rich heritage in its founding and subsequent traditions established throughout the following 125 years.

Ursinus finds its roots in a theological debate in the German Reformed Church (now the United Church of Christ) of the 1840s. A group of reformers desired to change the order of the traditional service, an issue seemingly trite, but vitally important to theologians of the day. The low church party headed by Dr. John Henry Augustus Bomberger believed these changes would destroy the historic character and the mere existence of the church. Because the reformers outvoted the low church party at synods, all the seminaries and colleges switched their emphasis to the new form of worship.

Some of the low church party met in 1867 and decided to found a college based on their principles. After a brief search for land, the group discovered the Freeland Seminary in what was then called Perkiomen Bridge, now called Collegeville. The principal of the seminary wished to resign, and the property owner wished to sell the land. Within the next two years, the first Board of Directors would buy two buildings on seven acres and 39 perches of land for $20,000.

The charter granted on 5 February 1869 named the institution Ursinus College after Zacharias Ursinus, a German leader in the Protestant Reformation. In the tradition of scholars, Zachariah Baer Latinized his name to Zacharias Ursinus upon entering Wittenberg College. Devoted to academia and theology, he would later become a principal author of the Heidelberg Catechism, laying the foundations for the German Reformed Church.

One hundred twenty-five years later, Ursinus celebrates.

Ursinus celebrates a tradition of academic excellence in liberal arts education. From the first day of classes, professors and administration alike saw the need for students to not merely concentrate their studies on one field, but instead a variety of fields. The original curriculum included instruction in languages, mathematics, history, rhetoric, speech, social sciences, and natural and physical sciences--all still integral parts of the core requirements. Evidence of academic excellence abounds, with the recent installation of a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa and the recent winning of an Howard Hughes Medical Institute (HHMI) grant.

Ursinus celebrates its commitment to extracurricular activities related to academia and the arts. For 60 years, the Zwingli, Schaff, and Olevian Literary Societies maintained libraries and presented literary works of a variety of authors including talented Ursinus writers. Today, the Literary Society presents original works just as in the old societies. The Grizzly today follows in the footsteps of the Weekly (established in 1902), and likewise The Lantern consistently has presented student works since 1933. Music also has played a role throughout Ursinus's history, with a small choir that toured in 1900 as do the Meistersingers today. In each year since 1938, students have sung Handel's Messiah.

Ursinus celebrates its successes and failures in athletics. Baseball and football both boast a century of intercollegiate competition, with several sports to follow. Even with the athletic tradition, new sports may appear, such as the Men's Lacrosse team, a club sport for the last few years which may become a recognized intercollegiate team in the future.

Ursinus celebrates the life of students on campus. Many of the fifteen sororities and fraternities trace their histories back to the 1920s. Still, one fraternity and one sorority were founded in the 1992-93 academic year. Outside of the Greek system are those who choose to remain independent, a group consisting of over half the campus. All students, whether a member of a Greek society or not, attend annual functions such as Homecoming and the Lorelei Dance. Since 1926, when men and women had to sit on opposite sides of the library, women have asked men to this dance.

Above all, Ursinus celebrates all the people who, throughout the 125 years, have made Ursinus the institution it has become. Everyone involved on campus, from the administration and Board of Directors to the students and faculty have molded the college into one recognized for academic excellence. Although Ursinus may change through the years, this tradition of academia likely will not.

"We had to choose between a day-long celebration and a year-long bash," said Cent-Silversary Committee member Brian Riordan. "We chose the year-long bash!"

According to President Richard P. Richter, "This anniversary not only allows us to celebrate our healthy longevity, but also the consistency of our vision."

The Rev. M. Scott Landis served as chair of the committee on which Riordan and others served. The committee worked many long hours to plan the "year-long bash," and their work can be seen all over campus.

They chose the theme "Ursinus College - 125 - Celebrate" and developed a logo to be used on stickers, banners, t-shirts, catalogs, balloons, campus publications, and other souvenirs. The celebration was announced to the Collegeville community with large banners on Main Street bearing the anniversary logo in red, old gold and black.

The committee also planned the Founders' Day Convocation and the 125th Day Celebration. Look for more special anniversary events as the Ursinus campus celebrates 125 years with its "year-long bash."

CELEBRATE the NEWS

It was a time filled with war and peace, disappointment and hope, discovery and disaster. 1993-94 made us laugh, cry, smile, and think. Let's take a look back at the events that made it a year to remember.

First and foremost, the United States was introduced to its 42nd president. Bill Clinton, former governor of Arkansas, took office in January of 1993 and was greeted with problems such as health care and conflict in the Middle East. After one year in office, critics were still skeptical about his abilities, calling 1994 a "make or break" year for him.

September was a big month for international events. First, the Bosnian parliament rejected an international peace plan that attempted to end the ongoing conflicts between the Croats, Muslims and Serbs. The result of this was the continuation of war, leaving tens of thousands dead and over a million homeless.

On a more positive note, Yasir Arafat, the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, made history when he signed a peace treaty with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin. United States President Bill Clinton called the pact "a courageous and historic peace accord, the first step in replacing war with peace and giving the children of the Middle East a chance to grow up to a normal life."

Finally, Russian President Boris Yeltsin dissolved parliament, making a bold move to grab control in the former Soviet Union. The Russian people did not react favorably to Yeltsin's idea of taking complete control from the legislature, as they responded with riots several days later.

The year also saw three major natural disasters strike the United States. First, in the late spring and early summer, floods hit hard in the Midwest. Thousands of homes and farms were destroyed as entire towns were submerged. Iowa, Illinois and Missouri reported billions of dollars in damage, and President Clinton responded with a $5.7 million aid package to help victims.

Next, in late November, wildfires swept through the Southern California area. A total of 26 major fires burned from Ventura County all the way to the Mexican border. Over 200,000 acres of land were damaged, and 1000 buildings were destroyed. Thousands of fire-fighters from around the state were called in to fight the blazes, nineteen of which were expected to have been arson-related.

Then, in mid-January, thousands of California residents awoke to an earthquake registering 6.6 on the Richter Scale. The quake left close to 60 people dead, brought down major freeways, and severely damaged thousands of homes. Estimated damages reached $30 billion.

The major entertainment news of the year was the move of comedian David Letterman from NBC to CBS. Letterman, who has taken over the ratings and has been called "the darling of the late-night television audience," changed networks for an estimated $15 million.

In sports, we saw everything from the bad girl of figure skating, Tonya Harding, to the bad boys of baseball, the Philadelphia Phillies. First, Harding found herself in the middle of Olympic controversy after reports linked her with an attack on rival skater Nancy Kerrigan. Both skaters were able to compete in the 1994 Olympics in Norway, with Kerrigan winning a silver medal for the U.S. Harding had a disappointing showing, and faced hearings when returning home.

Finally, who could forget the wonderful roller-coaster ride provided by the Phillies? Going from worst to first in one season, the Phils held a grip on first place in the National League East the entire season. They went on to defeat the Atlanta Braves in six games in the League Championship Series, but eventually fell to the Toronto Blue Jays in the World Series.

CELEBRATE TRADITIONS

At Ursinus, traditions abound. The college is highly acclaimed for its educational excellence, and it celebrates this each year with its Academic Convocations. The field hockey team has won Division I titles, and other sports teams have also performed competitively. Community members join students every December to present Handel's Messiah, and student activities, such as Airband, Mr. Ursinus and the Lorelei, have also become traditions. And the autumn leaves which decorate the campus in October are not to be missed.

Singel Discusses Health Care November 2, 1993

While health care should be affordable to everyone, the quality must not suffer. Acting Gov. Mark Singel told a "town meeting" audience at Ursinus College on Monday night, October 11.

Lt. Gov. Singel, filling in for Gov. Robert Casey who is recovering from a heart/liver transplant, held the second in a series of town meetings. It was broadcast from Olin Auditorium on cable-televized stations 8 and 11 locally.

Ursinus Celebrates 125 Years of Academics February 8, 1994

Ursinus College began its year-long celebration on Sunday, February 6 at the Founders' Day Convocation in Bomberger Auditorium.

The convocation featured keynote speakers Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Dipko, Dr. Carol K. Haas, and the Hon. Richard A. Tilghman. Representatives from over 50 colleges around the nation were present.

Pledging Meeting: First in a Series February 15, 1994

On February 9 at 7:30 pm, the first town meeting on pledging was held. The purpose of this gathering was to bring members of each of the Greek organizations together with the Pledging Study Group to discuss the pledging concept here at Ursinus and possibly to begin to develop a new program that complies with PA state law.

Most of the discussion at this first meeting focused on the problems with pledging, interpretation of the hazing law, and alternative pledging plans.

Berry Announces Plans for Candidacy February 15, 1994

Dr. Nicholas O. Berry, professor of politics and chair of the politics department, announced on Thursday at the Perkiomen Bridge Hotel his plans to run for State Representative of the 150th District of Pennsylvania.

Berry will represent just under 27,000 registered voters in the district. The main issue of his campaign is community and growth development.

Battle Over Taxes Intensifies April 12, 1994

The tax-challenge battle involving the Perkiomen Valley School District and four local non-profit organizations, including Ursinus, intensified last week as the Perkiomen Valley Chamber of Commerce asked the school district to "cease [its] efforts" to try to collect property taxes from the groups.

Richter to Leave Presidency April 26, 1994

After eighteen years as President, Richard P. Richter has asked the Board of Directors to begin the process of finding his successor. He told the Board that he will stay in office as long as it takes for them to name a new President. He pledged to continue to lead the College decisively for the duration of his tenure.

Spring Fling '94 May 3, 1994

Ursinus' First Annual Spring Fling was a rousing success. Organization of the day's events was the result of a joint effort between students and administration.

David Spade, of Saturday Night Live fame, appeared later in the evening.

CELEBRATE HOMECON WEEK

If you stayed on campus on October 16, while many students headed home for Fall Break, you were rewarded with a crystalline autumn day and all the pageantry of a traditional Ursinus Homecoming.

On Saturday afternoon, the crowd in the stands on Patterson Field was treated to a thrilling, come-from-behind victory over Gettysburg as senior Bill Sedgwick added to his totals as Ursinus' all-time leading rusher. Against Gettysburg, he ran the ball 36 times for 159 yards and three touchdowns. It was his last score, a run from the one-yard line, that put the Bears up for good, 31-28, with 50 seconds remaining in the game. Gettysburg was unable to mount a final scoring drive against a stifling Ursinus defense.

For his efforts, Sedgwick was presented with the Kenneth E. Walker Memorial Trophy as the game's most valuable player. He is the first player in the 36-year history of the award to win it three times.

Heather Colvin, a senior economics and business administration major and member of Omega Chi sorority, was named the 1993 Homecoming Queen during halftime ceremonies.

Janene Paist, France

My study abroad experience was definitely one of the most important highlights of my college career! I learned not only more about the world, but also about what it is like to be an American citizen in another country. I also learned more about myself and that speaking French was definitely my true love! I wish everyone were able to study abroad in another part of the world, because it was definitely the most worthwhile and meaningful experience in my entire life!

Alexis Smith, Australia

During the fall semester of my senior year, I spent five months on the west coast of Australia, in Perth. With the celebrated Australian wine regions just a few hours south of Perth, my American friends and I journeyed frequently to these regions in hopes of developing our knowledge of fine wines.

On a particular visit, after hitting five or six wineries in a three-hour time span, I happened to place my wallet on the car roof, neglecting to remove it before I re-entered the car. After a frenzied night of trying to locate my wallet containing my license, traveler's checks, credit cards, and cash, a friendly Australian man approached me and said I resembled the license picture of a person he had found along the road. He was the typical honest and friendly Aussie!

PRESIDENT Richard P. Richter

"This kind of job is impossible," says President Richard P. Richter, "because of the high expectations." The job of President is that of a fund-raiser, a representative of the college, a "magnet for teachers," and a role model. As President of Ursinus, Richter must represent the college while maintaining compassion, having a sense of humor, and understanding the students as well as the professors. He must never feel not connected.

"I think of myself as a teacher," says Richter, "whether or not I am in the classroom." In fact, he worked in the classroom as an English teacher for over ten years before he became President of the College. He began his work at Ursinus in 1965 and has served in various capacities, including professor, Alumni Secretary, Assistant to the President, Vice President for Administrative Affairs, and, currently, President of the College.

Having attended Phoenixville High School and Ursinus College, Richter finds it a pleasure to be working only five miles from where he grew up. He received his B.A. in English from Ursinus in 1965, his M.A. in English from the University of Pennsylvania in 1967, and honorary doctorates from Ursinus College, Muhlenberg College, and Tohoku Gakuin University in Japan. President Richter has also had many magazine pieces published on life insurance, the gas industry, the Philadelphia scene, and higher education.

Richter's favorite part about Ursinus is its mission statement. He believes strongly in the mission of the college and hopes that students will leave Ursinus after their four years of undergraduate studies with "lifelong intellectual curiosity." According to Richter, the essence of the statement is a sense of ethical concern. He believes that Ursinus students should, above all, learn to be responsible citizens. He compares the Ursinus College community to that of a religious community and refers to "humane values which hold us together."

In the future, President Richter predicts that much of Ursinus will remain the same, especially its mission statement. "The direction will be the same," he says, "that of giving the students as intense an intellectual experience as possible." But, because the world will be different, Ursinus will also have to change. Teaching methods are in rapid transformation, and technology is already having a significant effect on the campus. Richter also foresees a less homogeneous student body with a more varied mix of racial and ethnic groups.

"I see the growth of Collegeville resembling the town of Princeton: a component of a research and corporate community." Along these lines, Richter comments, "Our business [as a college] is quality of life. It would be great just to see the continuance of the small liberal arts college, such as Ursinus."

"Baseball is life; it is reality. Everything else is detail."

Although Dean Akin's statistics indicate a dedicated education and a leader, another side reflects his passion for baseball. With an almost equal number of articles published on baseball as on academic subjects, he is a true baseball fan. In keeping with his deep historian roots, Dean Akin admits his favorite team to be the Washington Senators, a team that closed in 1972.

Born in Alabama and educated in New York, Dr. William E. Akin received both his B.A. and M.A. in history from the University of Maryland and his Ph.D. in history from the University of Rochester. After spending several years in Canada in various head positions, Dr. Akin returned to the states in 1979 and became Dean of Ursinus College. With his background in history, Dean Akin concurrently is a history professor. He attained the position of Vice President for Academic Affairs in 1989. Dean Akin presently holds all three titles at Ursinus.

As Dean of the college, Dr. Akin portrays his job as one in "helping the faculty to deliver the best education possible to the students." Through workshops and activities, he wishes to "increase the faculty's improvement" and keep the professors abreast of current methods. Perhaps the greatest honor has been the installation of the Phi Beta Kappa chapter. Since his arrival at Ursinus, Dean Akin has witnessed a "demonstrable improvement in the college" and possesses great aspirations for the future. In the years to come, Dr. Akin hopes for an "increase in the number of graduates attending professional school, from one-third of the students to one-half by the end of the century." In accordance with today's growing world, Dean Akin states, "It would benefit college life if the student were more diversified, varied more in geographical locations and cultures." He advises the graduating class to "Think big," for they now possess the necessary skills.

Annette V. Lucas

We all know Dean Lucas as that smiling charismatic woman with the slight German accent. But, there's more to her than you might think. Born in Swinemunde, Germany, Dean Lucas immigrated to the United States in 1959. With a B.A. from George Washington University, a Masters Degree from New York University, and a Ph.D. from Bryn Mawr University, Lucas entered Ursinus in the fall of 1967. Prior to becoming a dean, she taught French which she still teaches today.

Dean Lucas describes her role as a dean as "working with student areas that concern the students." She is actively involved with the liberal studies seminar held here at Ursinus. In this, she works with the faculty members in creating a main theme for the seminar. The theme this year is "Unity and Diversity." By coordinating the Freshman Advisor Program, in which members of the faculty volunteer to assist first-year students in adjusting to a new campus, Lucas is able to work with all of the first-year students. In addition to coordinating the Freshman Advisor Program, she also coordinates other campus events, such as Academic Convocation, Founders' Day, and Commencement. Furthermore, Lucas also "serves on a lot of committees." With all of these activities, Lucas still finds time to relax and enjoy reading, traveling, and volunteering.

Her favorite parts of Ursinus are the sense of community and the ability to communicate. She would still like the students to be more involved with learning, though. Looking back upon the years, Lucas' most memorable part of Ursinus was the 1993 commencement program. It was the first outdoor commencement program since the mid-fifties, and it had rained. Looking towards the future, Lucas is making plans to retire, and perhaps to "find a better hobby."

As a final informal farewell to the Ursinus Class of 1994, Dean Lucas would like to comment to the seniors, "Carpe Diem. Make the most out of what you have gotten out of your four years here at Ursinus."

D E A N Peter F. Small

Dean Peter F. Small was born and reared in Westbrook, Maine. He then attended a small liberal arts college in Tennessee by the name of Austin Peary. Dean Small received his B.S. in biology with an English minor. He received his Masters Degree in biology from East Tennessee University. Finally, Small received his Ph.D. in forest ecology from Miami University in Ohio.

Dean Small arrived at Ursinus College in the fall of 1972 as an assistant professor of biology. He began teaching genetics, general biology, evolution, and general botany. Later, Small began teaching ecology, non-majors general biology, non-vascular and vascular plants, and the senior seminar. Of his present position, Dean Small states, "I am a three-quarter time full professor and only a one-quarter time Associate Dean."

There are several things Dean Small does in his role as Dean. He oversees the first Howard Hughes grant, as well as doing the financial and annual reports. Dean Small is involved in putting together the different efforts on campus that deal with undergraduate research. Small also works with upperclassmen in academic difficulty.

In his spare time when he isn't teaching or pursuing his ecological research, Dean Small enjoys reading and collecting antiques. He enjoys various reading subjects, and he reads a number of mystery novels. In antiques, Small specializes in clocks and 18th- and 19th-century brass candlesticks and snuffers. Besides these, he also collects everything from furniture to toys.

In the future, Small would like to see more undergraduate research programs made available to all students. "I think that the next step for Ursinus should be a fully-funded undergraduate research program for all students and all majors." Small believes that independent research is of extreme value whether the student goes into the work force, graduate school, or professional school. He hopes to become involved in such a program before he retires.

J. Houghton Kane

James Houghton Kane, Dean of Student Life, has been an integral part of Ursinus College for over twenty years.

Born in Brooklyn, New York and raised in Pottsville, Pennsylvania, Kane did his undergraduate work at Houghton College. While there, he majored in History, and minored in Spanish, Economics, and Political Science. He then moved on to The University of Pennsylvania where he achieved his Masters in Political Science. Then, after serving in the army for two years as a military police officer, he attended Temple Law School, where he graduated in 1975. Dean Kane began teaching at Ursinus on a part-time basis in 1971, and started full-time in 1975 after concluding his studies at Temple.

Kane considers his role as Dean "to design programs outside of the classroom that will maximize what students learn through those experiences." When asked about long-term goals of the school, he said he would like to see the endowment of the college increased significantly. His hopes for the near future are "to see the system of pledging revised," and to see the students "take more advantage of educational and entertainment opportunities in Philadelphia," rather than limiting themselves to what happens on campus.

Kane says that after he finishes his work during the day at Ursinus, and spends some quality time with his family, he is left with very little time for any hobbies. He does, however, have another very important aspect to his life: his relationship with Jesus Christ. Kane says, "I have given my life over to Jesus Christ, and my goal is to let him control my life." He works a lot on that relationship through reading The Bible and through prayer. According to Kane, "That's what makes me tick."

D E A N Deborah O. Nolan

For Deborah O. Nolan, Director of Residence Life and Associate Dean of Student Life, Ursinus is an ideal place for a career.

Nolan was raised on the Jersey shore in Tom's River, New Jersey. Following her graduation from Tom's River High School North, Nolan went to Muskingum College, which is in many ways like Ursinus: a small, liberal arts school. The degree Nolan earned, a B.A. in Music Education, reflected one of her lifetime passions -- the piano.

After having been a Resident Assistant, Nolan became a Resident Director for her senior year at Muskingum with six Resident Assistants working under her. In the busy three years following, Nolan taught music reading, piano, and ear training, and acted as accompanist at Muskingum while serving as Area Coordinator. Although opting away from a music career, Nolan still sometimes plays at her church and often can be found at her six-foot grand piano.

After receiving her M.A. in Educational Administration from Ohio State, Nolan decided to come to Ursinus, because she liked the atmosphere and the location near to her husband. When Nolan arrived on campus seven years ago, she was the only full-time staff member in Residence Life, living in the apartment in Beardwood/Paisley/Stauffer.

Her busy schedule included working on all aspects of Residence Life, from maintenance to Resident Assistant training. Because even trying to get to know the students was a chore, Nolan has expanded the staff, hiring Area Coordinators and providing a more efficient system.

Nolan believes that one of the positive improvements for this year has been the resurgence of the Resident Hall Association in BPS and Brodbeck/Wilkinson/Curtis, providing students with a voice for change in the physical as well as social atmosphere of the residence halls.

Nolan had some advice for Ursinus students: "Make the most of your four years -- a short but intense time. Work hard, and play hard."

Alpha Sigma Nu is the oldest service sorority on campus. Founded in 1929 by Rebecca Price, the sisters' motto is "Scholarship, Loyalty and Service." Alpha Sigma Nu means "Above Sisterhood Nothing." Sorority colors are cherry for courage and silver for steadfastness. Their flower is the red rose, and Siguzmund the Bear is their mascot.

 With his soft white hair

Every year, Alpha Sigma Nu participates in several service activities. These activities include: a haunted house and an Easter egg hunt at Trinity Church, a haunted hayride, the Red Cross blood drive, BINGO at the Montgomery County Geriatric Center, and the Juvenile Diabetes Fund, to name a few. It is mandatory for every sister to do at least three service projects per semester for the improvement of the community. After Sigma Nu, it's you we cherish. Memories linger in our minds. For a firmer, truer sisterhood. Nowhere else we'd find

Kappa Delta Kappa, founded in 1938, stands for grace, purity and beauty, which are symbolized by the scales, dove and rose. The colors green and gold stand for friendship and truth. The goals set by the sorority have been achieved, maintained and passed on from year to year through activities such as mixers, sister parties, campus service projects, and the Kappa Delta Kappa tradition: "A bond that will not falter as the years go by."

Virginia Albright came to Ursin in 1907, and along with two friends organized the first sorority on campus. The colors blue and gold were chosen to represent supremacy. The white rose is the sorority's flower. The Greek letters stood for truth, friendship and sisterhood.

From 1913 to 1929, Phi Psi disbanded. In 1929, Phi Alpha Lambda was organized. The word PALS was derived from the name of the sorority, and it stands for Personality, Ambition, Loyalty, and Scholarship.

In 1950, Phi Alpha Lambda combined with Phi Psi to form Phi Alpha Psi. The ideals of the sorority were the same. Since that time, the sisters of Phi Alpha Psi have continued to keep the original goals set back in 1907.

1963 Pledge Song

I know where I'm going, and I know who's going with me
I know why there's music, in the quiet autumn morning
I've found a wealth of green, and silver I have plenty
I've found a star to guide me, when my way is dark and lonely
Where are you going? Who will walk beside you?
When the world is gloomy, where is the star to guide you?
Where is the green? And silver brightly shining?
Why is there music, in the quiet autumn morning?
I'm going where you go (you go)
And you'll be there beside me (side me)
Tau Gamma Sisters, are all I need to guide me
The green is in the pine, and the silver star above me
I went Tau Sig way, to find that star to guide me

We went Tau Sig way
We went Tau Sig way

The colors of Upsilon Phi Delta are emerald green, black and white. Emerald green represents nature and the beauty of life. Black represents the absence of color, thus denoting diversity, and white represents the sanctity and beauty of life. The sorority's mascot is "Lily," a black jaguar with emerald green eyes, which symbolizes rarity, uniqueness and strength. The lily is also their flower, which stands for strength, life and peace.

In March 1993, Ursinus College accepted a new sorority on campus known as Upsilon Phi Delta, or "U Phi D." This new sorority was formed not only with an aim to serve the community, promote diversity, and encourage sisterhood, but also with a motto of uniting all cultures, races and ethnicities into oneness.

Sisterhood in Upsilon Phi Delta means trust, honesty and respect. U Phi D is a very unique sorority, for besides emphasizing unity and diversity, it also enforces an alcohol policy which states that no sorority funds will be used for purchasing alcoholic beverages. However, if a sister wishes to consume alcohol, the money for it will come out of her pocket.

The sisters of U Phi D are very proud of their new organization and they welcome any interested females to come and find out what their sorority is all about!

So long and thanks for the memos, Ursinus. The tradition of stupid-y continues. Sixty-eight years of drunken behavior and Wismer glass reaking highlight our lives, along with shouts of lanann! While some vices have cleared, others have not. Attitudes and egos are still huge, but provide entertainment for the masses. There will no longer be genuine "Ho Haus" or shouts of "Spico." Requests for "The Wismer" will no longer echo the cafeteria. No more stealing from The Trappe or kissing up to Lisa. DEMAS was founded on the steps of Derr Hall.

Seventy-one long years later, we are still around, despite the efforts of past and present administrations.

DEMAS brothers pride themselves in their individualism, their diversity, and above all else, their eternal Brotherhood. As the Great Loft predicts, "After the Big One, only cockroaches and DEMAS will have survived."

Finally, to our alumni who are a testimonial to the loyalty we have to our Fraternity and to one another, all that's left to say is... ONE DEMAS FOREVER!

The Brothers of DEMAS dedicate this page to Justin Batton Dominic who took his life earlier this year. All brothers take with them Justin's care-free attitude and love of this Fraternity. He will always be remembered, and we pray for his peace.

We here at Pi Omega Delta have had quite an interesting and enlightening year. Ursinus has taught us many valuable lessons in life this year. We have learned the art of home remodeling (410!). We learned how to work with others (2 J-Boards). We learned how to deal with authority during our weekly meetings with Dean Kane and President Richter. We learned how to overcome fear through bridge jumping and stair diving. We learned the importance of recycling (Thirsty). Most of all, we learned that as hard as they might try, the administration can never kill Pi Omega Delta. Dirtmen forever!

SPORTS

Ursinus athletes celebrated seventy-five years of field hockey and one hundred years of football in a year which also featured personal and school records, division championship wins, and individual berths at the National Championships of several sports events.

Records highlight anniversary season

The 1993 football team had many things to celebrate. Led by captains Bill Sedgwick, Chris Bielen, Paul Guenther, and Brian Edens, the Bears recorded their first winning season since 1985. Several players made the All-Conference first team, and Ursinus placed first in the Conference in both total offense and rushing defense. The players, coaches and fans of the game also celebrated 100 years of football at Ursinus.

Twenty-one seniors and sixty-five underclassmen contributed outstanding efforts to lead the Bears to a 5-4 season record, placing them second overall in the Centennial Conference. Individual achievements in All-Conference play include first team honors for Sedgwick, Guenther, Dan Multen, and Myles Hannigan, and second team honors for Steve Wirth.

Senior running back Bill Sedgwick, a two-time Pre-Season All-American player and a team captain, registered four personal records to finish first in the Conference for rushing (1339 yards), scoring (18 touchdowns, 110 points), all-purpose running (1794 yards), and kickoff returns (24.5 yards per return).

And so, as the 1993 football season drew to a close, the Bears had a lot to celebrate. The tradition of football that was begun at Ursinus in 1893 with a 20-0 win over the Melrose Athletic Association culminated in an unforgettable centennial celebration of personal records, team spirit, a winning season ... and a one-hundredth birthday.

All-star captain leads inspired team

Field Hockey

The Bears field hockey team showed great improvement and played inspired hockey, but, unfortunately, converting scoring opportunities into goals was the missing component to a winning season.

Co-captain, four-year Varsity player, and Division I All-Star left wing Krissie Ruggiero led her senior forward teammates Kara Raiguel, Alison Burns and Anmarie Lukens. The halfback line was also all seniors: co-captain Halyna Reynolds, penalty corner shooter Kara Smith and flyer Michelle MacRone.

Krissy Teufel at midfield was superb in making penetrating passes to the forwards, and Rachel Sargent was invaluable as a back-up goalkeeper for the past two years.

Young enthusiasm drives teams

Cross Country

The men's team went through a rebuilding year. The five runners recognized their strengths and weaknesses and overcame difficult situations to be competitive at all of their meets.

Lead by team captain Ryan Savitz, the four freshmen finished eighth at the first Centennial Conference Championships. Inspirational efforts were also contributed by alumni runners Neil Schafer and Mike Mc-

Mullin, who returned to their alma mater to serve as assistant coaches.

Throughout the year, all contributed to the team's winning ways. 1994 will be something to watch as all five return to run as a solid unit.

A young Ursinus women's team, lead by returning All-American Jen Orehowsky, got off to a promising start, but injuries and inexperience caught up with the young Lady Bears.

Individually, the season ended on a strong note, but with fewer than five runners the Bears were unable to score as a team in the last three meets of the season. With five runners returning, the 1994 season has the potential to be successful.

Injuries dwindle size of women's team

Volleyball

The Ursinus women's volleyball team had a very eventful season. Unfortunately, not all events were good ones.

The team was plagued with injuries mid-season, wiping out two of the six Varsity starters. Morale was a bit low then but was quickly restored by the outstanding performances of the players who replaced the injured starters.

Although the team was a bit reluctant to join the ranks of the Centennial Conference, they held their own and finished the season with a record of 10 wins and 15 losses.

The team is anxious for next season when they can redeem themselves against teams who just barely defeated them this year. The Bears also look forward to the return of two stars: freshman setter Jenni Nelson and junior middle hitter Kelly Hoopes.

The team will miss the dedication and expertise of their three graduating seniors: Sue Camargo and co-captains Margie Slonaker and Nadine Brubaker.

Seniors provide inspiration to team

S o c c e r

Although this year's team did not have an outstanding record, it did have its moments. Kurt Bonewitz and Brad Getz were both named Player of the Week in the Centennial Conference. Bonewitz, a sophomore, was the man who made the team go, and Getz, a freshman, was the leading scorer.

Heinz Buchler, senior captain, was the club's outstanding player. His dedication, leadership and love of the game should be an inspiration to the underclassmen.

Cheerleading

Captain Barb Lampe and Co-Captain Patti Febo led the 1993-94 football cheerleaders through a spirited season that started with an exciting victory at Worcester Polytechnic Institute in Worcester, Massachusetts. The cheerleading squad psyched up the football team and the crowd at every game.

Graduating senior Kim Roussin contributed greatly to the team as a mentor to the new members. Several new faces were seen cheering on the sidelines: Semra Forman, Erin Gambeski, Jessica Hessel, Nancy Kendig, Suzanne Kunda, Sandi Mossman, and Jessica Walker.

Basketball season was also very exciting. Heidi Wushinske, the choreographer of the squad, was a vital member during both seasons this year. In addition to cheering for the football and basketball teams, the cheerleaders conducted various fund-raisers and decorated the players' locker rooms before games.

Special thanks goes to Audrey Wade, the advisor, and Paul Coppola, the dedicated and entertaining bear who helped the cheerleaders get the crowd excited for the games.

Starters pave future for team

Men's Basketball

Once again, the Bears showed an improvement over last year. Two years ago, the Bears managed only a 3-20 record in Coach Jack Spinella's inaugural season. Last year, they jumped to 7-17 mark, and this year, although the team improved only to 8-14, they were within playoff range up to the second to the last game of the season, where they fell to host Washington College.

This year, the Bears basketball team, along with every other athletic team, moved to a new, stronger conference, called the Centennial Conference. This year also marked the addition of a new Assistant Coach, Larry Morris. Coach Spinella and Coach Morris found that the Bears once again had a very strong team comprised mostly of sophomores.

Captain John Schwanholt was the only senior, and Craig Andrews, along with Blu Matsell late in the season, were the only juniors. Some of the highlights of this young team include sophomores Bernie Rogers and Jay Moran, who were both named ECAC Player of the Week during the season. Other sophomores, such as Aaron Harken, Jim Zurad, Chris Cervellero, Joe Burke, and Stu Kukla, also greatly contributed to this team. Freshman Pat Buyse also added much depth inside.

Senior John Schwanholt's career ended with four varsity letters, and his presence will be greatly missed. However, with all of these players returning, the Bears basketball program will be finding much success in the near future.

Women's Basketball

The women's basketball team finished their season with a 19 win and six loss season. They set a new Ursinus record for most wins in a season. They won 14 of their last 16 games and were Eastern Division Centennial Conference champions. The team is now third on the all-time NCAA win list with 520 wins. The Bears are 28-4 at home since 1992, including an 11-1 record in the 1992-93 season.

There were many milestones hit for the team this season as well. Head Coach Lisa Cornish got her 100th career win in a 59-55 win over Franklin and Marshall on January 15. Junior forward Ellen Cosgrove got her 1000th career point in the same game. Senior captain Heather Colvin got her 1000th career point in a 90-59 win over Washington College in the last regular season game on February 20.

Cosgrove and Colvin both received Centennial Conference Honors. Cosgrove was named to the First Team at forward and Colvin received Honorable Mention at guard. The team was also led by this duo in scoring. Cosgrove averaged 19.3 points and 9 rebounds per game, and Colvin averaged 13.9 points and 3.7 assists.

Junior point guard Chris Ferrier led the team in assists with 4.3 and steals with 3.1 per game. Sophomore center Laura Coulter was second on the team in rebounding with 6.7 per game, and freshman Stephanie Casperson was not far behind with 5.4 per game.

Congratulations to senior captains Heather Colvin and Jeannine Fleming on their great college careers!

Personal records assure bright future

Gymnastics

The 1993-94 women's gymnastics season reflects some outstanding performances and records. The season also saw the Lady Bears and Ursinus College host the Division III National Gymnastics Championships for the second time in five years. This year's competition saw defending National Champion ... Aldophus win their fifth straight National Championship.

As for the Lady Bears, the season had some very bright spots. With a team comprised of mostly freshmen, sophomores and three juniors, the future looks really bright. Freshman Carrie Luka got the season's records started with a 9.35 balance beam routine against Rutgers University early in the season. The ECAC tournament at MIT University in Boston saw the team set a new Division III score of counting four scores. The team also broke the school scoring record with a meet record of 132.525 points.

During the National Championships, Ursinus qualified two gymnasts, both freshmen, in the National finals of balance beam. Rachele Pecovsky scored an 8.65 in both the preliminary round and in finals. Freshman Carrie Luka also qualified for finals in beam and went on to finish fourth in the nation on beam, while breaking her own beam record and establishing a new Ursinus record of 9.45. A strong performance was also turned in by Co-captain Kristen Cornell and sophomore Samantha Caggiano.

With many of the gymnastic team meets against Division I and II opponents, the team posted only a 0-7 record, but with all members returning, the future looks only one way, and that is positive and going up.

Training trip garners wins

It was hard to imagine baseball season beginning with all of the snow and cold weather which continued well into the opening of the season. Fortunately, the team traveled to Cocoa, Florida for a spring break trip which provided much needed playing time.

Having the first four games of the season cancelled because of bad weather didn't stop the Bears from going on to have the most wins ever in a season. Coach Brian Thomas guided the Bears to an 18-15 record, the most wins in the history of Ursinus baseball. Because of their finish, the Bears participated in the ECAC Playoffs. "It was disappointing to end the season [with an 11-3 loss to Allentown in the postseason game], but this was a new experience for this team," said Coach Thomas.

With only three seniors graduating, we should see a competitive team again next year. But filling the shoes of All-Conference pitcher and first baseman Jamiel Ambrad, third baseman, pitcher and co-captain Todd Hearsey, and second baseman and co-captain Casey Neal will be a challenge.

Despite the harsh and late winter and what seemed to be an endless string of injuries, the Lady Bears matched their record-setting 19 wins from the previous season.

The Lady Bears opened their season with a 5th place finish in the 15-team field at the 1st annual Methodist Invitational Softball Tournament during spring break.

The team finished 4th (9-5) in the inaugural year of Centennial Conference softball competition, 3 games behind co-champions Gettysburg and Western Maryland, and 2 games behind Muhlenberg.

Barbara Golley was the team MVP. Barb batted .380 and led the team in at-bats (100) and hits (38).

Kim Sammartino set an Ursinus single game strikeout record with 14 K's vs. Washington College on April 25. Her 100 strikeouts are also a single season team record.

New conference poses challenges

T e n n i s

The formation of the Centennial Conference introduced many new challenges for the 1994 Ursinus College men's tennis team. Included within the new league were several new players who had achieved national rankings. The six-man line-up at Ursinus included only two upperclassmen, one senior and one junior. As such, many young team members were able to gain valuable playing experience.

Senior Dave Washburn was the number-one-ranked player for our team during the entire season. While his record was 6-7, he had a very respectable 129 game wins during those thirteen matches. Dave received the team's Most Valuable Player Award.

The other upperclassman in the line-up was Captain Frank Quigley. Frank competed at the number-three position and maintained the best win-loss record on the team at 7-4.

With the return of many players, the team is looking forward to the opportunities of next season.

Playing for the first time in the newly-created Centennial league also proved to be quite a challenge for the Ursinus women's tennis team. All opposing teams showed well-rounded strength. Yvonne Pirwitz, the only senior member of the team, continued to be the dominate member with her fourth winning season.

Finishing the season with three wins, plus returning an experienced team, may indicate a positive for next year. The secret of success may be the players' desire to develop and compete out of season.

Solo performances highlight season

Track & Field

One cannot but look back with pride over a season that started in late February with a great deal of promise and ended with that promise realized and with the birth of even greater promise for the future.

On the women's side, MVP Rachelle Pecovsky, a freshman, set the pace and tone for the team by qualifying for the NCAA Championships in the shot put. Through the guidance of field events coach Ibrain Modena, Rachelle and other field events personnel experienced growth which will soon be felt by other teams within the Centennial Conference. Samantha Caggiano, the Bears' leading jumper with a second-place finish in both the long jump and the triple jump at the Centennial Conference Championships, provided jumpers' coach Rick Hess with great highlights and a bright future. Distance and head coach Peter Crooke saw Faith Zerbe and Kristin Wallin turn a few heads with outstanding performances in the 500, 800, and 1500 meters. The 4 x 100 meter relay team, coached by sprint coach Aimee Puleo, excited the crowds at the prestigious Penn Relays.

On the men's side, coach Puleo trained MVP Eric Widmaier to within .7 seconds of a NCAA Championship qualifying time. T.J. Siggelakis, coach Modena's top shot putter, placed a solid fourth at the Centennial Conference Championships. Brian Delin, by improving his 800 and 400 meter times, put together a season for coach Crooke that can only promise excellence at those distances in the future. Coach Hess' charge, Troy Gehret, also delighted track fans as he flirted with a qualifying high jump for the NCAA Championships.

Through the long winter, few would have predicted the outstanding performances that were to come during the spring.

Young team records high scores

G o l f

The golf season was quite successful, and only the weather kept us from having a much better record (3 cancellations). We had our best scores in many years - 310 at Gettysburg, 4 scores counting out of 5 players, also a 395 and 397 in matches, 5 scores of 7 players. The young team has a promising future.

A Message from the President

On behalf of the Ursinus Student Government Association, I would like to welcome you to the 1993-94 school year! The year that lies ahead of us will surely be full of endless possibilities, exciting opportunities, and many chances to learn, to have fun, to get involved, and especially, to celebrate the 125th anniversary of Ursinus College. I, along with the rest of the U.S.G.A., am looking forward to a productive and fulfilling year, but we can't create this vision without you, the students. We represent your thoughts, hopes and dreams for this college and will work very hard to improve and make Ursinus an even better institution of higher learning.

Be sure to voice your opinions and suggestions throughout the year because when you do, you will be heard. You are the one to shape your experience here at U.C. We strongly encourage you to become involved in U.S.G.A. and the many other diverse and active campus organizations. At the end of each school year, the U.S.G.A. presents the Teresa Lynn Urban Award, honoring a student who exemplifies the traits that Teri possessed - "A leader who served..." This is just one example of the great rewards you can receive by being involved at U.C.

Good luck this year and remember to work hard, but have fun, too! If you keep these things in mind, your college experience at Ursinus will no doubt be the best years of your life! We look forward to working with you during another great year at Ursinus!

--Janene Paist, U.S.G.A. President

Music crescendos to new heights

Conductors, convention highlight year

The musical ensembles at Ursinus continued to grow stronger during the 1993-94 year. A guest conductor, more diversified music and a national convention added excitement to the current programs in music.

The College Choir and the Meistersingers were led by Mr. John French and guest conductor Mr. Nelson Huber, who filled in for French during the second semester. Under the direction of Huber, the Meistersingers expanded their repertoire to include South African, Native American and 20th-century popular music.

The Concert Band and Jazz Ensemble performed two concerts each (one per semester) under the direction of Mr. Anthony D.J. Branker. The bands studied works by greats such as Ralph Vaughn Williams, Sonny Rollins and Dizzy Gillespie. Leigh Woolston added her vocal talents to several Jazz Ensemble numbers.

Finally, Pi Nu Epsilon, the national honorary music fraternity on campus, hosted their annual national convention. The U.C. chapter welcomed over fifty Pi Nu members from Drexel, Millersville and Shippensburg for a weekend of fellowship and national business.

The Campus Activities Board (CAB) is responsible for the entertainment that goes on during the year. Members are always looking for new ideas and campus involvement.

CAB highlights include the Newly Roomie Game, hypnotist Tom DeLuca, the Autumn Harvest semi-formal dance, Mr. Ursinus, the Lorelei, movies every weekend, the Battle of the Bands, a New York City trip, Club Nouveau, speakers, comedians, and musicians.

CAB is trying to change by having fewer, more well-known performers. As a result of student input, the rock group LIVE performed on campus on November 12, 1993.

The members of CAB also kept busy during the year planning the widely successful Spring Fling, held on April 30, 1994. Working along with the sophomore class, they organized many activities, including a Velcro wall, Sumo wrestling and carnival games sponsored by other organizations.

Everyone is welcomed at their meetings to express any ideas they have for campus programming. CAB meets every Tuesday at 6:00 p.m. in the CAB/USGA office in Wismer Center.

Fall proTheatre

While researching the life of actress Fanny Kemble, it struck Dr. Joyce E. Henry that Kemble's life would make good theatre. She took a sabbatical during spring of 1993 to write a play about the 19th-century celebrity. The result was A Matter of Conscience, which played to packed houses in Ritter Center this November. Dr. Patricia Schroeder and Keith Strunk played leading roles in the production, which also featured six students and two other faculty members.

Henry's play chronicled Fanny's marriage to American slave owner Pierce Butler. "Fanny opposed slavery in a kind of abstract, naive way," said Henry. "But when she went [to Pierce's plantations] and saw slavery, she was horrified." The couple argued about slavery and women's rights, but Fanny eventually wrote a memoir of her southern experiences against her husband's wishes.

Of Fanny Kemble, Dr. Henry says, "Clearly a woman before her time, she is a woman for our time."

Students celebrate spooky traditions with a twist

Ghosts, goblins, witches, and monsters all conjure up traditional images of Halloween. Ursinus students, however, chose to celebrate Halloween with a twist on the expected traditional activities.

A senior tradition is to have a Halloween costume party off-campus with music, dancing and prizes for the most creative costumes. This year, the seniors decided to have their party in the Wismer dining room. Although the party was not as well attended as in previous years, those who did attend had a good time.

The Campus Activities Board (CAB) showed traditional Halloween movies in the Lower Lounge, but they also added a new Halloween activity to their schedule of events, namely a Murder Mystery night. The night of the event, sophomore Ian Rhile and senior Eric James portrayed the roles of the murderers who invited guests to their "house" (the Lower Lounge) for a retirement party.

Groups of students had their own traditional parties, but one group even put a twist on that Halloween tradition. They celebrated with a "progressive party," an idea which came from senior roommates Craig Overpeck and Erik Moore. Friends who signed up for the party agreed to host an activity or provide food in their rooms. The night of the party, the group traveled around to the different rooms, enjoying food, drink, movies, and games with a Ouija board.

And so, this year's Halloween put some new twists on some old favorites. Ursinus students had a good time celebrating, and they managed to turn those images of ghosts and goblins into something new and exciting.

Students raise money for a friend in need

In the year when Ursinus celebrates its 125th Anniversary, students help raise money for a 15-year old girl battling cancer. This is the 11th year that Ursinus students have rallied together to hold "Airband," a lip-synching contest. Each year, the proceeds are donated to a worthy cause. So far, they have collected over $17,000 for local charities. This year they raised $2,356 for Tabitha Buckingham, a Colleville resident whose father and sister attend Ursinus College.

Students raised money for Tabitha by charging a $5.00 admission fee and selling raffle tickets. Local businesses donated prizes and gift certificates that were awarded to the best groups. The contest was judged by a panel of faculty members and college administrators. All the acts were very creative and it was apparent that everyone put a great deal of work into the event.

Pi Nu Epsilon, the music honor society, won first place with their performance of "Paradise by the Dashboard Light," by Meatloaf. Phi Alpha Psi won second place performing "Y.M.C.A.," by the Village People. Finally, the current pledge class of Beta Sigma Lambda won third place with an interesting combination of "Copacabana," by Barry Manilow, and "Smells Like Teen Spirit," by Nirvana.

Tabitha, who attended the competition with her parents, said that she enjoyed Airband. "Everything was funny. I liked it a lot." Tabitha is a wonderful young lady with a lot of courage.

From April 14-16, 1994, the Ritter Center theatre was transformed into radio station WTLK, Cleveland. And if you forgot to tune in, here's what you missed...

Director Joyce E. Henry and a talented cast headed by veterans Alan McCabe and Abby Rosenbaum brought us Talk Radio, a clever modern satire by Eric Bogosian. We found ourselves listening to "Night Talk," a call-in talk show hosted by Barry Champlain (McCabe). Barry was quick, captivating and honest - with an edge. But with the help of insightful monologues by characters Linda (Abby Rosenbaum), Stu (Dan Barry), and Dan (John Barbour) we came to realize that there was more to Champlain than his "shock jock" radio persona.

The talk show callers - a cast as funny as McCabe's portrayal in their own right - also brought the play to life with their high-drama problems. They knew there would be someone at 555-TALK who would listen. And so did we...

Spring Fling

Ursinus' First Annual Spring Fling was a rousing success. Organization of the day's events was the result of a joint effort between students and administration.

Spring Fling had something to offer anyone and everyone who wished to participate. Sumo Wrestling and the Velcro Wall were big attractions for the adventuresome, but there were also activities for those less adventuresome, including a ring-toss, mini-golf, a ball-toss, and a pie-throwing booth.

And for those seeking relief from the stifling heat, there was the Fun Flush and the refreshment stand, the highlight of which was a line of kegs open to those over twenty-one.

People in attendance of the festivities seemed pleased with Ursinus' first effort at a Spring Fling. Brian Riordan, President of the Class of 1995, said, "I love it. I'm having a great time. You can't come to these things expecting the school to entertain you. You have to entertain the school."

All in all, it was a good day. Hopefully, the administration will agree, and plans for an even better Spring Fling can be made for 1995.

Graduation

BIRD'S EYE VIEW. The class of 1994 attends baccalaureate service the morning of their graduation.

For 316 students, undergraduate careers came to an end on May 15, as they received diplomas during the commencement convocation in Helfferich Hall.

During the ceremony, honorary degrees were awarded to Geneva M. Butz, pastor of Old First Reformed Church in Center City Philadelphia, and Ernest L. Boyer, president of The Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching.

Boyer, in his commencement address, stated that Ursinus, "with its unique blend of liberal learning, combined with the deepest inquiry into the human spirit and a commitment to service, is a model for the nation."

During the morning's baccalaureate service, Butz discussed her connections to Old First Reformed, where the Rev. John Henry Augustus Bomberger, first president of Ursinus and one of its founders, was the minister from 1854 to 1870. "I, as well as you, inherited the legacy left by this esteemed educator and pastor," she said.

In his final commencement as president of the College, Richard P. Richter acknowledged a moment of thanks from the assembled crowd. William F. Heefner, president of the Board of Directors, lauded Richter's accomplishments and leadership during his 18 years in office. "We regret but respect President Richter's decision to complete his tenure," he said. "President and Mrs. Richter have worked tirelessly and unselfishly to make these years outstanding ones for Ursinus and its people. Their imprint upon the life of the College, the community, and so many of us personally is profound and will not be soon forgotten."

...there's much more to do than to just roll up the ribbons and clean up the confetti.

There's the time to look back and remember all the good times that you've had planning the celebration and having fun with your friends and fellow classmates. It's time to reminisce a little; to look back on the previous year - sometimes with tears, sometimes with laughter, but always with a warm smile and a wiser look at yourself and the world around you.

For me, this time of reminiscing brings to mind memories of teachers who will be missed as their careers take them to other campuses and of times shared with these special people. Also, I will remember the memories I've shared with others and preserved in this edition of the Ursinus College Ruby.

To quote a famous entertainer, we must all say, "Thanks for the memories." The good times shared during our year-long celebration would not be possible without our friends, professors, roommates, and family members. Without them, many wonderful memories simply would not have happened.

During my year as Editor-in-Chief, so many people have helped me when the celebration was not always a happy time. They lent support, and they made the burden of producing a 208-page book much easier to bear. I would like to take this opportunity to express my deepest gratitude to these people, without whom this yearbook would never have been completed.

To Michael Antonio: Thanks for being my reliable right-hand man and doing the things which no one else wanted to do. You're the best! To Mark Leiser and Ian Rhile: Thanks for spending your holiday breaks researching and writing articles. They add so much to the book and are just perfect for the 125th Anniversary. To Marc Ellman: Thanks for the extra coverage in the Grizzly. It was a big help! To Scott Savett: Thanks for introducing me to the wonders of Instant Artist. What would I have done without it? To Heidi Wushinske: Thanks for prying me away from my yearbook pages to have "Lori doughnuts" at three in the morning. You knew I needed a break! And to Pi Nu Epsilon, the Meistersingers, and Yoshiko Kato: Thanks for doing little errands and just being there for me. Most of all, a HUGE thank you to Mom, Dad, Bunk, and Tim. I don't even know where to begin to thank you for everything you've done for me and this book. I love you all, and "thanks for the memories."

Finally, after we look back on the year and say our thank-yous, it's time to move on. One celebration is over, but another is just beginning. My year as Editor has come to an end, so as I pass the baton over to Pam Bitzer and Stacey Stauffer, I wish them the best of luck. To the Ursinus community, thanks for joining me in the celebration, and may every day be something to "Celebrate!"
