SGA's to Sponsor Forum on Gov'ts., On Monday, Mar. 4

Questions concerning the purpose, effectiveness, and needs of the system of student government at Ursinus College will be the topics of discussion at a forum to be sponsored by the student governments and to be held on Monday, March 4, at 8:00 p.m. in the chapel of Bomberger Hall. Betty Tayes, the president of the Women's Student Government Association, William Rheiner, the president of the Men's Student Government Association, and one member of each of the two student government councils will act as the panel for the forum.

Miss Tayes expressed the opinion of both councils when she said, at a student government forum committee meeting on Thursday, February 21, "There has been criticism of the student government. We want it in the 'open,' not as criticism, but as constructive suggestions."

The forum itself will be divided into three parts. The first will include a brief explanation of the structure of the governments by each of the two council members and short talks by the presidents on the responsibility of the governments. The next two phases of the forum will be in the hands of the students present. First, questions concerning the functions of the governments will be considered. Then, there will be discussion on suggestions for needed changes in the student government system.

MSGA president Rheiner said, concerning the forum: "I hope that students will realize that this is their chance to take the responsibility of becoming informed. If they do realize this responsibility, they will support this forum with intelligent questions and constructive suggestions."

Seniors to Give Original Musical Comedy, April 5, 6

On Friday and Saturday, April 5 and 6, the Senior Class will present "Two Timers", an original musical written by Karl Herwig and Ed Sella. Vincent Ryan, a student at the Julliard School of Music, has composed the score; the authors and Spike Foreman supplying the lyrics. Bobbe Hunt and Ed Sella are the directors; Wayne Millward is the producer; and Floyd Berk, the choral director. The show is being presented to acquire additional funds for the 1957 Ruby.

The speaking and singing 'leads' include nine people, who were chosen last week by try-outs. They are as follows: Kathy, Eileen Connor; Nicole, Joan Bradley; Jimmy, Harold McWilliams; Dave, Scott Taylor; Peg, Marge Dawkins; Mrs. Johnson, Barbara Olmo; Mr. Johnson, Bruce Holcombe; 'Mac', Bob Engel; and the butler, Wayne Millward. The show is a musical comedy written in three acts.

Chorus and show committees will be arranged tomorrow at a meeting of the Senior Class.

American Youth Hostels Announce 1957 Program

American students who want to travel this summer have the opportunity of going on a wide variety of low-cost hosteling trips in the U.S. and abroad, it was announced today by Mr. Richard Golder, president of the Philadelphia Council, American Youth Hostels, 1520 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

In addition to the twenty-five different trips planned by the national headquarters for small co-educational groups, said Mr. Golder, hundreds of other trips are planned by local councils throughout the United States, most of which cost as little as $1.50 a day.

Trips sponsored by the AYH national headquarters will range in length from four to eleven weeks and will start in late June and early July. Estimated costs range from $175 for a New England trip to $375 for a trip to Switzerland and the Rhine Valley. In all cases, costs cover the entire trip from starting to finishing point.

Freshman Women Receive "Colors" At Program, Thurs.

On February 21, 1957, Bomberger Chapel was the scene of the annual Color Day program, at which time the freshman women were officially made members of Ursinus College.

An organ prelude was played by Ruth Ervin until 4:30 p.m. when Lois Molitor opened the program; she introduced Dean Camilla Stahr who then gave a welcoming speech. Following this, Lynn Jewett explained the meaning of the presentation of the "colors."

The freshmen women who had recently been elected to representative offices by their classmates received nosegays of red and white carnations adorned with red, old gold, and black ribbons. Betty Tayes, president of the WSGA, presented a nosegay to Gail Snyder, freshman representative to the WSGA council. Marla Shilton, freshman representative to the YWCA, received hers from YWCA president Connie Cross. Sue Justice, acting in place of WAA president Jane Dunn, presented a similar bouquet to Jeanne LeCato, freshman representative to the Women's Athletic Association.

Mrs. Roger P. Staiger, who is an alumnus of Ursinus College and now circulation assistant in the library, gave the address for the day. She stressed particularly the point that the freshman women, now officially a part of Ursinus College, should act.

Lisle Field Representative To Visit Ursinus Tomorrow

The Lisle Fellowship offers for the summer of 1957 its summer workshops in human relations in the United States, Europe, Jamaica, Japan, West Africa, with educational tours to the near East and Soviet Russia. Miss Sonja Kareby, travelling field representative for Lisle will be available at Ursinus College on Tuesday, February 26, to discuss the Lisle program with interested students.

Students interested in the community, in sociology, in social work, in psychology, or simply interested in people, what they do, and how they live will find valuable the experience of a Lisle summer "unit." The exchange of views among the members of the "unit" who are from diverse backgrounds provides the opportunity for grinding the results of one's own educational and home environment against those of a person out of another environment.

Students wishing to obtain further information about the Lisle Program may consult the organization's travelling field representative, Miss Sonja Kareby, who will be available in the reception room of Shreiner Hall on Tuesday, February 25, from 10:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m.

Scholarship Fund Set Up at U.C. By Railroad Company

In a joint statement Dr. Norman E. McClure, the president of Ursinus College, and Mrs. W. H. Mapp, general manager of the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania - Reading Seashore Lines, have announced the establishment of scholarship grants at Ursinus for sons and daughters of Seashore Lines employees with the funds remaining in the treasury of the now discontinued Women's Aid.

Under the scholarship plan, children of railroad employees will be awarded a grant each year to cover tuition at the college. The award, which will be made by the scholarship committee of Ursinus College on the basis of competitive examinations, will begin with one student admitted to the Freshman Class next fall. One student will be admitted each year until both the principal and interest from the fund is exhausted. It is estimated that six students will benefit from the fund in a nine-year period. The awards will be continued to the successful applicants for a four-year period, provided satisfactory scholastic standards are maintained.

For many years the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines collected funds for distribution among deserving "railroad families." In November, 1955, the organization was discontinued.

Commenting on the selection of Ursinus College to set up the scholarship plan, Mrs. Mapp said that a factor in the decision was that the college offers a well-rounded program of liberal arts education designed to prepare its graduates for the teaching, legal, medical, and dental professions. Another reason was the fact that approximately one-third of the present Ursinus student body is from southern New Jersey and many of the college's graduates reside there.

Mrs. Mapp said the decision to spend both principal and interest in administering the scholarship fund was made so that the railroad people who contributed to the Women's Aid would receive the major benefits for their sons and daughters.

Four Charities to Be Supported in Campus Chest Drive, March 4 to 15

On Thursday, February 21, Joseph W. Atkins, Jr., the chairman of the 1957 Campus Chest Fund drive, conducted the first meeting of the newly chosen solicitors for the drive. He introduced to them the program for the drive and announced that the fund's goal is $1500.

As in the past, there will be a list of specific charitable organizations to which the money donated to the fund will be given; however, as an experiment, the method of choosing the charities has been changed slightly. As in previous years, a number of persons were appointed by the drive chairman to a central committee to study and discuss the merit of various charities suggested to it. From a large selection, four were chosen to receive aid through the Campus Chest drive for this year.

In contrast to past years, however, these four were, in turn, discussed and approved by the solicitors, who were chosen from each dormitory or day study and from among the members of each of the four classes. If this method should prove to be less satisfactory than the balloting of the whole student body, which was formerly the final step in the process of selection, then next year's drive will be conducted in a different manner.

As the drive chairman explained, "The new method is being tried as a means of choosing more efficiently the charities which are in particular need at

Weekly to Conduct Vote on Wed. for 'Best-Dressed' Girl

According to W. W. Montgomery, the feature editor of The Ursinus Weekly, the paper, acting through its feature staff, will conduct a balloting of the entire student body at 12:30 p.m., on Wednesday, February 27, to determine which of five nominees is to be Ursinus' candidate in the "ten best-dressed college women" contest being sponsored by Glamour magazine.

The five nominees for the candidacy were chosen, by ballot, by a committee consisting of the following students (only one of whom is associated with the staffs of The Ursinus Weekly): Dave Burger, Spencer Foreman, Alvin Hutchko, Wes Schwemmer, Penny Hill, and Connie Cross. Ann Leger, the associate feature editor of the Weekly, appointed the nominating committee and acted as its chairman.

The committee chose the following women as nominees for the campus contest: Joan Bradley, (Mrs.) Emma Bell Edson, Mary Jo Turtzo, Josie Carino, and Valerie Spencer. Of these, the student body will select one, by ballot, to represent Ursinus in the nation-wide Glamour contest. The name of the campus winner will be announced in the next edition of The Ursinus Weekly.

UC Debating Club Meets Lehigh and Rutgers of N.J.

The Ursinus Debating Club entered two teams in its opening tournament for this season, held at Rutgers University of New Jersey on February 8 and 9. Bud Walker and Ismar Schorsch (negative), and Jerry Bonn, Allen Matusow, Conrad Hoover, and Bruce Dietrich (affirmative). The combined record for the two teams was five wins and five losses. Ismar Schorsch took second place in the public speaking contest and amassed the second highest number of points for individual debating prowess.

On Sunday, February 17, Bonn and Walker appeared on WRCV-TV in a debate with Lehigh on the constitutionality of the Federal withholding tax. On Thursday, February 21, at the invitation of the American Business Club in Pottstown, the club sent two teams, consisting, respectively, of Bonn and Matusow and Hoover and McQuoid, which debated on the issue of discontinuing foreign aid.

Sonnie Smith, Marge Struth Voted May Queen, Manager

According to a release given to "The Ursinus Weekly" on Saturday morning, February 23, Sondra Kruse Smith and Marguerite Struth were chosen, in an election which took place at noon-time on Thursday, February 21, May Queen and May Day manager, respectively.

The May Queen presides over the annual May Day festivities with her court of eight girls—two chosen from each class. These latter will be elected by the women of the four classes on Thursday, February 28, at 12:30 p.m.

The May Day manager is the co-ordinator of the whole pageant, scheduled this year for presentation on Saturday, May 11. The winner of the pageant contest will be announced shortly.

Sondra Kruse Smith

Sonnie Smith is captain of the Ursinus cheerleaders, a member of the Spirit Committee, the "Y" cabinet, and Omega Chi sorority; she is serving as art editor of the 1957 Ruby. She was on the class executive committee and was elected Spring Prom 'Queen' in her junior year.

Marguerite Struth

Marge Struth has served as her class' representative to the Women's Student Government Council for three years. She is co-captain of the Ursinus Color Guard, chairman of the Big-Little Sister Committee, and co-write-up editor of the 1957 Ruby. She is also a member of Tau Sigma Gamma sorority and the Spirit Committee.

On the topic of smoking in the dining room, council president Bill Rheiner stated that the college steward does not favor smoking during or after meals; however, Dr. Pancoast informed the council that there is no rule prohibiting smoking there. It was stated that the lack of heat in the men's dorms is brought about by an inadequate heating plant. There is little that can be done to solve this problem.

The outdoor bulletin board located near the Supply Store is to be repaired when the weather becomes warmer. It was suggested that, in place of the installation of an outdoor telephone booth, more 'phones be placed in the dormitories.

Representative Ismar Schorch has questioned the need for a men's day study representative on the council. He claims that little business discussed pertains to day students. The council suggested that a "semi-representative" be elected. This representative would not be held to weekly attendance at meetings; he would appear only if a matter concerning day students were to be discussed.

WAA, Varsity Club Hold Annual Dance, Friday

"Winter Waistland" was the theme of a dance given by the Women's Athletic Association and the Varsity Club on Friday evening, February 22, in the T-G gym.

Admission was charged according to the number of inches around the waists of both the members of each couple.

A twelve-piece campus orchestra provided the music. The feature of the evening was the intermission entertainment. Eight girls from Maples Hall came equipped with bottles, jugs, a violin, and a flute. They played several well-known songs: "Little Brown Jug," "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain When She Comes," and "The Beautiful Blue Danube."

Curtain Club Group Plays For April Announced

The next Curtain Club group production will be presented on Tuesday evening, April 16. The co-directors, Bob Gilgor and Ann Leger, have announced that two one-act plays will be presented, as follows: Submerged, by H. Stuart Cottman and LeVergne Shaw; and Rehearsal, by Christopher Morley.

Future Activities Planned By U.C. Canterbury Club

At a meeting of the Ursinus Canterbury Club on February 13, plans for future programs were discussed. On Wednesday, February 27, the members of the club are to tour the Philadelphia Divinity School of the Episcopal Church.

On Sunday evening, March 3, Mr. and Mrs. William Pettit will have the members of the club at their home for a buffet dinner.

Curtain Club to Present 'Valiant'

At 8:30 p.m., on Tuesday, February 26, in the chapel of Bomberger Hall, the Ursinus Curtain Club will present a group production of Holworthy Hall's and Robert Middlemass' one-act play, The Valiant.

In the play, Warden Holt (Dave McLaughlin), the supposedly hard-bitten warden of the Wethersfield, Connecticut State Penitentiary, and Father Daly (Wayne Millward) find it hard to believe that James Dyke (Phil Rowe), a convicted murderer, is actually guilty. Dyke apparently consistently refuses to reveal his true identity. Shortly before the prisoner is to be hanged, the governor of the state sends a young woman, Josephine Paris (Marty Jo Paxson) who claims to be Dyke's sister, to see the warden. The conclusion of The Valiant is centered about the girl's visit with her alleged brother.

The production is under the direction of Ed Sella and Diana Vye.

Curtain Club Announces Name of Spring Play

At a recent meeting of the Stars and Players, Mr. H. Lloyd Jones, Jr., faculty advisor to the Ursinus Curtain Club, announced the name of the spring curtain club play, which will be given on May Day week-end.

The play is Sabrina Fair, a romantic comedy by Samuel Taylor, the author of The Happy Time. The plot is a modern version of the Cinderella tale. Sabrina is the daughter of the chauffeur for a very wealthy family; brilliant and educated, she returns from a successful career in Paris to find love at home.

Tryouts for the seven male and seven female roles in the play will be held on March 18, 19, and 20. Applications for the positions of student producer and student director must be turned in to Mr. Jones by February 27. A Curtain Club spokesman noted that the newly created position of student producer would be valuable experience for any economics major. Rehearsals will begin April 1; committees are being formed presently.

No Classes Good Friday

It was announced last week that classes will not meet on Friday, April 19, 1957, because of the Good Friday holiday, which will be celebrated on that day by Christians.

No events or meetings of any sort are scheduled for the day on the student activities calendar.

EDITORIAL

Memoranda for March 4

Last week, the leaders of the two student councils announced a joint decision to hold a public forum on March 4 for the purpose of discussing openly the aims and responsibilities—and the needs—of the student government associations. This decision itself indicates that the members of the student councils take seriously their responsibilities and that they are anxious to correct the faults in the operation of the governments. There can be little doubt that if a sufficiently large and sufficiently interested group of students attend this forum, it should prove more than a little fruitful.

There seem to be three general areas, each in itself worthy of an editorial, in which the councils, working with the student body, should seek to strengthen the government associations. A fresh re-examination and re-definition of the purposes, responsibilities, and concomitant powers of the governments by a committee composed of students and administrative officers has long been needed. In the same regard, overlappings of authority both within and among the two associations should be constitutionally eliminated.

An attempt should be made to explain more adequately the meaning of the student government system and the rights and responsibilities of campus citizenship to incoming students. Also, possible means of increasing the effectiveness of council-student body communications should receive study. Perhaps the distribution to the whole student body at the opening of each school year of a printed booklet containing all the general college rules and all the council-enacted regulations (including the student government constitutions) would not be out of order.

And, most important of all, there is a necessity for the student government associations—the councils and the student body—to realize that revision and changes in the present governmental system are not going to bring about, in themselves, more responsible government—even though they may aid in the realization of this goal. The government associations must act according to what they know to be their responsibility. No number of re-definitions of the MSGA council's legislative authority will mean a thing if the council's regulations are not or cannot be enforced because of irresponsibility on the part of the council itself or, as is often the case, because of public inertia. —Ed.

(Editor's Note: The following poem, which was written by Sandra Piper, a member of the production staff of The Ursinus Weekly, was printed in the 1957 edition of the Annual Anthology of College Poetry, a publication of the National Poetry Association. Miss Piper is a second year student majoring in English. A poem by Arthur King, Jr., a member of the Freshman Class, was also published in the anthology.)

Daily life of stress and strain
Bursts with trouble, sorrow, pain.
Anger flashes, death doth call,
And soon will claim us, one and all.

The earth be torn 'tween peace and war,
And Hell does reign for evermore.
Mephistopheles' den is open wide,
Encouraging visitors come inside;
And few willing ears remain
To hear of God's e'erlasting domain.

All this and more the cynic does insist
But how much better the earth for the optimist!

Report on the Perkiomen

by Art King

We all know the Perkiomen, brown, sluggish, and shallow, meandering on its unsuspecting way to a polluted Delaware. We have sung of it in our college song: "When the shades of evening gather . . ." Perhaps passing by in our new automobiles, we have caught glimpses of it flowing with quiet dignity in its low bed beneath the elevated roadway. Some of us have sought it out pedestrian fashion, enjoying its solitude and peace. We have seen it in the mellow richness of autumn, when the trees were daubed with yellows, reds, browns, and subtle, nameless auburns. It may be that we have even beheld the blue heron—the shy and solitary one—as he rarely glided along—the surface of the creek toward a marshy hideaway, restoring to us, without terror, some imagined mystery of a primordial landscape.

There is a sturdy, silver post planted in the pavement on the bridge which carries the Germantown Pike over the Perkiomen. About ten feet high, the post blossoms forth at the top with a black sign, on which, in dull gold lettering, the curious may find the following inscription:

Perkiomen Bridge

Built in 1799, it is one of the oldest bridges still in use in the State. A lottery was authorized by a 1797 law to raise $20,000 for its construction.

— Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission.

There is no record of battle set forth in this terse declaration. The Perkiomen itself does not, from year to year, keep a detailed account of the war of its waters. Yet, here and there a fallen tree and an overhanging bank attest in their own expressive language the power of the combatants.

This season there has already been some ice-skating on the 'Perk,' as its name is commonly abbreviated. Because the ice was covered with snow, which hardened after partial melting, the skating area was restricted toward the last days of the semester to small sections cleared shortly after the snowfall. If there were any turned ankles or other mishaps, they were not reported here. The weather was not consistently cold enough to permit much walking on the water; and since the cold spell coincided with the week before exams, few took advantage of the opportunity. The temperature rose for several days; ice could be seen floating downstream. When another cold wave hardened the creek again, forlorn patches of old ice were left imprisoned in the new. With the end of the semester the 'Perk' was permitted to freeze or thaw sans observation.

There is still some possibility of winter weather before spring raises the level of the usually docile creek with traditional showers. Then, unless nature has decided it is time for a radical departure, we shall have tad-

Star - Reaching

by W. W. Montgomery

College students have been known to sit down and think—once in awhile. I did that one day last week. My thoughts raced and tumbled in the mind's cloudless sky with such abandon that I realized I was but a child in my newly found diversion. I eagerly grasped all problems, knowing full well that my solutions would stand, out of necessity, supreme. In my personal, mental autocracy I crumbled the world's frontiers into nothingness, and bridged all the seas with roads of peace.

Man is really all one species—one great family with the individuals of equal propensity toward good and evil. I chose the former and gave the world a new Babylon—the Babylon before the tower, when culture and knowledge reigned supreme with all the people working together for a common good. I taught the children that the sun shone on them equally, and the rain nourished all the land. Each tree held leaves fed from a common earth that was meant to mirror the same heaven. I taught them that people had physical differences, but, like the trees, they were all beautiful, their visual differences necessary to make the scene alive with a variety that refuses to stagnate into mediocracy and death.

I taught them to learn of others as well as themselves, realizing the value obtained in knowledge of all things. Their ideas and ideals to flow freely to a common sea in which all men could bathe. And I gave each child a star to hold their dreams. As the years matured the child the dreams could be realized, for dreams are the progress of man, and there must be a place to store them. The star would wait, with heaven's protection, until needed.

I thought of many things that afternoon, and my world grew too solid for a dream. I reached for my star to grasp the ideal, but the world's fog blurred my vision, and I groped in emptiness. I realized that it was too early for star reaching. The world was still a child, and the rock was not yet found on which the foundation could be built.

poles and "news of buds and blossoming," together with the (likewise traditional) lassitude of 'spring fever.' It is harder to study in a chlorophyll-world of light and growth than during the grey, dull days of winter. But we are rambling here like the banks and currents of the Perkiomen itself. Let us arise and—providing we have no imperative studies to occupy us—take a stroll through the woods and down to the edge of the creek.

"Who is the best-dressed woman at Ursinus?"

by Ann Leger

"Who is the best-dressed woman on campus?" That is the question which The Ursinus Weekly is asking the student body in order to select a candidate for a nation-wide contest being sponsored by Glamour, one of the top women's fashion magazines in the United States.

This contest is being conducted on hundreds of college and university campuses: each local winner will be entered in the nationwide contest in which the ten "best-dressed college women" of the country will be selected by a special board of Glamour magazine. Pictures and write-ups of these women will appear in the August edition of Glamour.

a way which is fashionable and becoming to her.

Such a woman is aware that the college campus is not the place for very extravagant clothes, and she spends only a moderate amount on her wardrobe, for she knows that imagination and versatility are the important things in making the most of her clothes budget. The plan for her wardrobe is an 'over-all' one, and she has probably learned how to use accessories to create different kinds of looks for her basic wardrobe. She also knows her 'style' and sticks to it at all times; she does not accept, blindly, campus or off-campus fads when they do not suit her type for she believes in modifying them to fit her. With these criteria in mind, a nominating committee composed of six students from all 'walks' of college life chose five women for the campus-wide balloting which will be held on Wednesday, February 27, after the noon meal in front of Freeland Hall. The candidates are as follows: Mary Jo Turtzo, Josie Carino, Joan Bradley, Mrs. Emma Bell Edson, and Val Spencer.

Mary Jo Turtzo, a resident of Bangor, Pennsylvania, is a senior psychology major and is a member of Omega Chi sorority and the Curtain Club; she is also president of her dormitory. Josie Carino, a junior economics ma-

Bears Lose to Del., Rutgers; Meet Division Champs Wed.

by Chris Rohm

Losing has gotten to be a habit this season with the Ursinus basketball team, as they again failed to pick up a win this past week-end. In a game against Rutgers of South Jersey, which seemed as a possible victory, they managed to fall short and end up on the losing column for the 14th consecutive time this year by being defeated 70-66 on the U.C. home boards.

At halftime the score was 38-29 with the South Jersey team out in front. But a strange phenomenon happened as the Bears took the lead 61-60 in the waning minutes of the game. This, of course, was short lived and Rutgers went on to finally swallow up the Bears 70-66 in what the "supply store cowboys" would call a "good try" for Ursinus.

Bill Bretschneider led for Rutgers with 25 points and Don Sowers added 19 to the final tally for the Bears.

Lose to Blue Hen Reserves

The University of Delaware (7-3) handed the Bears their eighth straight league loss and their 13th straight loss over the season.

The Blue Hens led the contest all the way and had very little trouble in keeping the Ursinus five under control. At the end of the first half the score was 30-17, the Hens in command.

The entire second half was also dominated by Delaware, but it was the reserves for the Blue Hens that saw most of the action in this period. Even with the scrubs of Delaware in the game, Ursinus still could not pull within striking distance. The final buzzer sounded with a very one-sided 70-48 score posted on the big board.

U.C. to Send Padula, Prutzman and Knauf to Championships at G'burg

This week-end, Gettysburg College will be the scene of the new Middle Atlantic Conference Championships. The newly constructed Championships will include the entire Middle Atlantic Conference, consisting of 33 eastern colleges, of which 23 have wrestling teams. Twenty to twenty-three colleges are expected to be represented, with most teams sending from three to four wrestlers. Some of the bigger colleges are expected to send a full team.

The team scoring the most points will emerge the winning team, while the individual victor in each weight class will receive the title of Middle Atlantic Conference Champion. Some of the stronger colleges competing will be Wilkes College, West Chester State Teachers College, Hofstra College, and Gettysburg. Wilkes defeated Muhlenberg this past week-end, 26-5, while Gettysburg topped Lafayette, 18-13.

There is a possibility that there will be as many as 23 wrestlers in one weight class, which will undoubtedly cause difficulty in seeding, and may force the winner in the division to wrestle at least five matches during the 14 hour period.

Conducting the Championships will be the Middle Atlantic Conference Games Committee, which consists of several wrestling coaches from various conference teams. The preliminary matches and quarter finals will be held on Friday evening, and will be followed on Saturday afternoon by the semi finals. The final, qualifying finals, and consolation matches will take place Saturday night.

Representing Ursinus this year are three of the Bruins' best grapplers, all veterans of the MASCAC Championships. They are 137 pounder and captain Dick Padula, (7-1), 157 pounder and undefeated Jack Prutzman, (8-0), and 167 pound marval Don Knauf, (3-5). Padula, at present, holds a well known record of one defeat out of his last 61 dual meet competitions. Last year Dick emerged from the Middle Atlantic as champion of his weight class and Most Valuable Wrestler of the tournament.

Those who were present at the Championships last year will undoubtedly remember the heartbreaking decision handed Jack Prutzman in the final match. At the end of the official match Jack emerged victorious with a 5-4 decision over Lafayette's John Dillon. Jack had received his medal and was officially the new Middle Atlantic Champion in his division, when an error arose in the timing of the match giving Dillon an extra point for "riding time". The wrestlers battled for two extra two minute periods, with the Lafayette grappler winning by a close two points. Jack was forced to give up his newly attained title and medal and settle for a second place position.

Prutzman Stays Undefeated As Matmen Topple Cadets

by Warren Rybak

On Saturday the Bear matmen (3-3-2) traveled to Chester to take on the Pennsylvania Military College Cadets (4-4-1). The Bruins snapped the Cadet winning streak with a decisive 21-11 victory.

In the opening match Nick Caras decisioned Ed Marshall, 13-2. Mark Weand, sitting out the first half of the season trying to make weight, won the second match by pinning Bob Green with a half nelson in 2:29. Captain Dick Padula returned to his winning ways by pinning Len Rice with a body press in 7:40.

At this point Al Carroza gained three points for PMC by decisioning Hal Redden, 7-2. Undefeated Jack Prutzman pinned previously undefeated Lyn Marozin with a half nelson in 3:51. Don Hartman decisioned Bob Abramson 6-0. Jack Martin, PMC, then pinned Don Knauf with a body press. In the heavy-weight class popular Bops Jackson won his first match of the season decisioning Norm Stein, 4-1.

In a preliminary JV match, both Dick Erdman (177) and Bill Carson won by pins.

Drop Third Loss to Mules

Muhlenberg College kept their victory streak intact last Tuesday night, defeating the Ursinus matmen, 23-15.

Mermaids Sink to Swarthmore, Wed.

Swarthmore splashed to a 46-11 victory over the U.C. mermaids on February 20, 1957, at the Swarthmore pool. This makes the mermaid's record 1-1 so far this season. Jackie Robbins took third in the 50 yard freestyle and the 50 yard breast stroke. Merle Syvertsen came in third also. Stevie Nichols took third in the diving competition for U.C. Swarthmore also beat the mermaids in the 50 yard medley and the freestyle relay after placing first and second in every event.

The next swimming meet will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 28.

little against his heavier opponents. This year Don will be wrestling his own weight (167) and will fare a much better chance.

One hundred and thirty seven pounder Ed Marshall lost his fourth straight match to Muhlenberg's Pierce Knauth in 33 seconds of the second period. Ursinus added an easy ten points to their score, winning the 130 and 137 pound bouts by forfeit.

In a hard fought battle, the Mules' Don Simpson pinned Hal Redden with a cradle in 8:40. Undefeated Jack Prutzman came back to give Ursinus a 15-10 lead pinning Jack Dreisbock with a half nelson in 2:32 of the third period.

Bruin Don Hartman lost a close and hotly contested match to Dick Krug. Muhlenberg's captain Paul Billy then proceeded to put away Ursinus' rubberman Don Knauf in 1:20 of the first period. In the heavy-weight bout, Roger Keehn scored the final deciding points for Muhlenberg pinning Bops Jackson in 3:24.

In the preliminary junior varsity matches, both Wayne Kressly (147) and Bill Carson (HW) fell victims to Muhlenberg pins.

: Intramurals :

The Intramural basketball season winds up this week, with two games tonight. The League champions will then compete in the championship game Tuesday. As it now stands Curtis III has clinched first place in the Red League and Derr has outplayed all rivals in their league. This Tuesday night in the New Gym the two powers will clash to decide the winners of medals and team championship. Monday's game having no effect on the championship games will match Curtis III and Brodbeck III, and Freeland versus Brodbeck II.

Belles Top G-burg; Drop First Loss to Beaver On Monday, February 18, 1957, the Ursinus girls' varsity basketball team played its first official game of the season. The Belles met and defeated the weak Gettysburg team on the Ursinus court 61-24. Ursinus maintained a wide lead throughout the game, as the Gettysburg forwards were powerless against a strong defense and were held to a minimum score. The Belles' offense seemed to have little difficulty in coping with Gettysburg guards and scored the majority of their 64 points with close jump shots and lay-ups. On February 22, the Ursinus girls traveled to Beaver. The U.C. guards played a commendable game and kept the team on top for most of the game. Forward Vonnie Gros scored 28 points for the Belles. The Ursinus offense fell apart in the last quarter, and Beaver won the contest 41-36.

Color Day... (Continued from page 1) cept unflinchingly the many responsibilities which will face them and should act as mature young women. Barbara Brecht, secretary of the class of 1960, then received her "colors" from Lois Molitor. Miss Molitor also presented "colors" to Mrs. L. Pearson, the new preceptress at 944 Main Street, and to Christine Armstrong, the new WSGA council representative from the Sophomore class. "Colors" were then presented to the women of the Freshman Class and also to transfer women students. The signing of the campus song under the leadership of Barbara Althouse, closed the program.
