Gladfelter to be Speaker At Commencement on June 4

The annual Commencement Program at Ursinus College will begin at eleven o'clock on the morning of Monday, June 4. As usual, the degrees of Bachelor of Arts or of Bachelor of Science will be conferred upon the members of the graduating class, and various awards and prizes will be given. The program itself will take place on Patterson Field to the rear of the Thompson-Gay Gymnasium; in case of inclement weather, the exercises will be held in Bomberger Chapel.

Speaker

The speaker at this year's commencement program will be Dr. Millard E. Gladfelter, the vice-president and provost of Temple University in Philadelphia. Dr. Gladfelter is a graduate of Gettysburg College and was a principal and the supervising principal in the West York, Pennsylvania, school system.

In 1930 he moved to Philadelphia to direct the Temple University High School. In 1931 he was made the university registrar. He had served in this position for ten years, when, in 1941, he was elected vice-president of the University. Five years later he was asked to assume additional duties as provost.

Dr. Gladfelter's graduate degrees include those of Master of Arts from the University of Wisconsin and Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Pennsylvania. He has been awarded also a number of honorary degrees: Sc.D. in Education from Gettysburg; L.L.D., Muhlenberg; L.L.D., Waynesburg; and L.H.D., Lebanon.

Baccalaureate to Be Conducted by Methodist Bishop

On June 3 at 10:45 a.m. the baccalaureate service will be held for the Class of 1956 in Bomberger Hall. This year's baccalaureate speaker, according to Dr. A. G. Kershner, head of the college Publicity Department, will be Dr. Fred P. Corson, Methodist Episcopal bishop of the Pennsylvania diocese.

Dr. Corson received his A.B. and A.M. degrees from Dickinson College and his B.D. from Drew University. Following the acquisition of these degrees Dr. Corson was awarded the following doctorates: L.H.D. and D.D., Dickinson College; D.D., Syracuse University; Litt.D., University of Maryland; L.L.D., Western Maryland College, Allegheny College, Franklin and Marshall College, Gettysburg College, and the University of Pennsylvania; S.T.D., Temple University; and Cc.D., Baldwin-Wallace College.

Having served as a Methodist Episcopal minister in several pastorates, Dr. Corson was made superintendent of the Brooklyn Southern district of the New York Eastern Conference of Methodist Churches in 1929. He was elected Bishop of the Philadelphia Conference in 1944.

In the first part of the last decade, Dr. Corson was president

Jones and Donia Write New UC Song

At the annual Spring Concert on May Day, May 12, the Band and Meistersingers of Ursinus College performed for the first time in public a new campus song. This song is a result of the joint efforts of Mr. H. Lloyd Jones, Jr., who wrote the words, and Joe Donia, who composed and orchestrated the music. This new campus song has not yet been officially accepted by either of the student councils.

The following are the words of the new song:

Hail to three, Ursinus;
Hail our Alma Mater;
Hail the red, old gold, and black!

Noble, glorious, here our college stands

So fair and beloved
Though built by human hands,
Hail to those who had the golden dream

Of wisdom and honor
And the great gleam!

Truth abides there in the sacred flame

Of knowledge and virtue Embodied in her name.

Love and duty are enshrined for all

Who come there and learn there
In answer to her call.

Ever mindful of those joyful days,

We'll never forget thee
As we go our separate ways

Always faithful to thy memory
Though the years pass and the night comes on

Our love will never die.

Football Squad Meets; Plans For Fall Season

On Friday evening, May 13, the members of the Ursinus College football squad held a meeting to make plans for the football season beginning in the fall. To this meeting they invited all of the members of the Class of 1960 who played football while in high school in order to try to interest them in becoming members of the Ursinus team.

About fifteen prospective players attended the meeting. Four of those stayed overnight in the men's dormitories and saw the baseball game on Saturday afternoon.

Dean Pancoast To Receive Ph.D.

At the annual commencement exercises at the University of Pennsylvania on June 13, Mr. G. Sieber Pancoast, the dean of men and associate professor of political science at Ursinus, will receive his Doctor of Philosophy degree. Mr. Pancoast's dissertation was entitled "The Second-Class Township in Pennsylvania."

"Sieb," as he is called by the members of the baseball team, of which he is coach, graduated from Ursinus as a member of the class of 1937. He began teaching at Ursinus in the fall of the same year. In 1940 he was awarded his Master of Arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1944 Mr. Pancoast was drafted into the United States Navy where he served for two years. Immediately after his discharge, he began to study for his preliminary examinations which included subject matter tests in political theory and American Government. The last ten years have been spent in doing research and writing for the dissertation.

This institute will be held at the Horton home near Randolph, New Hampshire. The theme this year is "Contemporary Theological Movements and Our Preaching."

Construction to Begin Soon on Paisley, Stauffer, and Beardwood Dormitories

Architect's Drawing of the Main Reception Room for New Girls' Dorms

Above is the architect's conception of the appearance of the main reception room—when completed and furnished—in the new women's dormitories to be erected near the college library. This will be the largest of several lounges in the group of three buildings. (Line drawing courtesy of the Ursinus College Alumni Office)

The contracts have been awarded for the new women's dormitories and work will commence as soon as building materials are available for use, it was learned this week. The general contractors for the project are Irwin and Leighton, a Philadelphia concern. Mr. Samuel C. Bond, Jr., a member of the Ursinus College Board of Directors, is the architect.

Dormitories

The new dormitories will be built in three units, the central and largest of which is to be named Paisley Hall, in honor of Dr. Harry E. Paisley, president of the Board of Directors since 1910. Named after the Reverend and Mrs. George A. Stauffer, generous benefactors of the college, the second dormitory will be called Stauffer Hall. The third dormitory which will be equal in size to Stauffer Hall will be called Beardwood Hall, in honor of Dr. Matthew Beardwood's sister, Anna Beardwood.

Design

The dormitories are to be built of stone and will be architecturally very similar to Curtis and Brodbeck Halls and the college

Miss Stahr Cited For DPA Award

At the annual banquet of the Community Club of Collegeville last week the name of Miss Camilla B. Stahr, was placed in nomination by the club for a Daughters of Pennsylvania Award. The nomination was made with the following citation:

"Camilla Belle Stahr, after giving up her career in 1912 to care for her ailing father, returned to the service of youth in 1932 and has served Ursinus College with distinction for nearly a quarter of a century, 18 years of that time as Dean of Women. In this time she has been a benign influence on hundreds of college girls, and her patient understanding of human problems, her devotion to her charges, her unassuming charm and subtle humor, her unselfishness and never-failing helping hand, and above all her serene poise in dealing with headstrong youth and directing 13 preceptresses in their duties, have not only endeared her to her charges and her associates alike, but have been an inspiration and tower of strength to all who have had the good fortune to come in contact with her. At the same time she has been very active in Guild work at the Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church and in the Collegeville Community Club in numerous community projects in the Collegeville area. The community at large has indirectly benefited by her adroit guidance of more than 300 young women that the College annually adds to our local population of barely 1000. The Community Club of Collegeville takes great pride in nominating its distinguished member as a Distinguished Daughters of our State."

Black is Still Not White . . .

During the past two or three weeks, there have been several very excellent sermons delivered in the daily chapel services both by the college chaplains and by some of the outstanding members of the faculty. Every one of these deserves praise. Each of them probably struck home for every person present.

However, Dr. Maurice W. Armstrong's forceful—and forthright—talk on cheating deserves special comment—especially at this time of year. His observation that cheating—copying, cribbing, or plagiarizing—is criminal, that it endangers one's own immortal soul should make even the most apathetic (that is to say the typical) student at Ursinus sit up and take notice.

Dr. Armstrong touched upon a point which is too often unrecognized around here—that there is a great amount of cheating that goes on undetected and, therefore, unpunished. He implied also that the honest students have a right to be protected against the dishonest practices of a few.

In other words, there seem to be two points at which the problem of cheating must be attacked. The first, and most difficult, of these is the ethical code of the student himself. The contemporary idea that the failure to "get caught" makes an act right is a major block in this direction.

Even pre-theological students, who will supposedly represent the highest moral ideals of the community in the years to come, have been known to copy term papers belonging to others; one pre-theo was heard to say, "Cheating's all right in high school, but you shouldn't do it in college!" Unfortunately, not all Ursinus students have that man's acute moral perception. Even so, perhaps there is hope to be found in a greater emphasis on honest work well done as opposed to the present emphasis on marks. Good citizenship should be emphasized as much as social status.

Second, the honest student must be protected by a stricter system of proctoring. There is no reason why a teacher should leave the room during a test; there is no reason why a teacher should sit at the front of the room talking or reading the newspaper while a test is in progress.

It is unfortunate that the proctoring of tests is necessary at all; however, it is! It is unfortunate that a member of the faculty should have to tell the student body that cheating is wrong; however, unless the moral character of American thought should take a sudden turn for the better, it will continue to be so!

A Gem of A "Ruby"

On Thursday evening of this past week, the 1956 Ruby was distributed. From one cover to the other, the book is one of which the Class of '56 can be proud. The editors-in-chief and their staff have done an outstanding job. The design and content are excellent; and photography is often actually superb.

All in all, this year's volume of the Ruby is an example of creative imagination and skill combined with good taste. The book begins with the words "Join us in a Toast". The Weekly would like to propose a toast—to the editors and staff of the 1956 Ruby.

U.C. Says 'Hi' to English Visitor

by Bill Montgomery

We at Ursinus wish to extend a welcome to Miss Ethel Harvey, who has come from England on holiday to visit her brother, Mr. Philip Harvey.

Mr. Harvey, the well-known keeper and protector of Bomberger, has not seen the Thames from the Embankment, nor gazed with pride and wonder at the mass of St. Paul's on Ludgate Hill for almost fifty years. He left England in 1912, sailed to Sidney, Australia, and for the next eight years he worked on farms in Queensland before coming to the United States in 1920. In making this move, he left, as did many other Englishmen in the early decades of our century, his family and friends. His search for happiness and a fulfillment in life has happily (for us) led him to Ursinus, set amidst the rolling Pennsylvania hills—much like the countryside of his native England.

His sister, Miss Ethel Harvey, had wanted to visit her brother for a long time, and this year she announced to her London friends that she was off to America to see her brother whom she had not seen for forty-four years. At the beginning of May, Miss Harvey arrived on the Queen Elizabeth at New York. The reunion with her brother was a happy one, to say the least, and memories of childhood, family, school and old friends tempered every conversation with a welcomed and pleasant nostalgia.

Miss Harvey, who holds the executive position as supervisor of records with Armstrong-Vickers, Ltd. (where she has worked for thirty-three years), has visited New York, Philadelphia and its environs during her stay. She has also visited the campus where she saw our May Day celebrations and the play, Charley's Aunt. Much to our pleasure, Miss Harvey has expressed favorable opinions both of the United States and its citizens. Her visit has been all too short, however, for she sails on the 30th of May for England.

We all join with Mr. Harvey in wishing Miss Harvey "bon voyage", and we sincerely hope that this will not be her last trip to our country and Ursinus.

My Trip to A Grad Research Center

by Bobbe Hunt

"Do you think you could say why you do this work?" our pleasant thirtyish M.D. guide asked his colleagues for our benefit.

"I like it," one smiled and shrugged.

"I just can't help it," admitted another.

"I have to," admitted another. These answers typify the predominating spirit of graduate research scientists as evidenced to our group during a recent symposium at a city university widely known as a center of technical development. Their attitude toward factual knowledge and skills and their perspective on specialization surprised me to no small extent.

I had wondered what sort of strange, withdrawn creatures I would be meeting, and if I could ask intelligent questions of these supposedly unrealistic people. I had pictured researchers as fanatic recluses, bent on the little, obscure projects that they made their world. But then, this being a tour day, they would probably put on masks of normalcy and be merely very formal hosts. There was not even a trace of such an attitude.

We six drew as our agenda four physiological laboratories from among twenty-six possible subjects from A to Z, covering every conceivable interesting angle of biology. The program selections—a mere representation of the work being done at the school—were imaginably chosen for maximum and varied appeal, and included such topics as: Studies of Hunger and Appetite; Effects of Narcotics on Respiration in Man; Enzyme Kinetics; Antibodies in Relation to Allergies; Chemistry of Fertilization; and even the Physiology of Itching!

A bespectacled doctor, with a face and manner much like Edmund Gwenn, demonstrated his Ballistocardiograph—a recorder of the heartbeat by body motion effect on a highly sensitive platform—with detached simplicity, submerging self-credit for its development in an enthusiastic, detailed account of its originators and contributors. We, who would never again have occasion to lend even our interest to his life's work, were treated more like associates than curious students.

A Mutt-and-Jeff team working on a Body Plethysmograph explained their strange contraption in careful detail, collaborating in sarcastic repartee as well as in professional explanations. The machine—its bulk a chamber much resembling a shower stall—and the physical apparatus used to interpret the respiration experiments performed therein were demonstrated to us.

Another doctor stood before a cabinet mechanism and verbally dissembled it, enthusiastically introducing us to a technical solution of quantitative determination of pulmonary gas exchange. He disdained the "nasty, filthy habit" of smoking with a twinkle in his eye and ticked off a graph tape to show as one smoker breathed into a type of pneumograph.

We observed deceased rats in various stages—after induced starvation—from dehydration to dissolution to pulverization, while listening to the outline of a new experiment to determine what lack of food will do to body chemical content. It was a striking realization of the "... to ashes" fate of all living organisms and a new grasp of how research is initiated by a problem and worked out in a logical, economical way to get concrete results.

A strange assortment of tubing, large jars and a stack of rubber and plastic plates was defined to us as the artificial kidney, which is a valuable invention of the last decade, and is gaining wide use for alleviation of uremia in the larger hospitals. Hooked into the patient's circulatory system, this man-made organ substitutes for a vital metabolic function until the repaired tissue can assume its normal role. Slides illustrated to us its theory, principle and application as the machine pumped through a partial cycle of operation. The application of research begun on the theoretical basis was actualized. As one demonstrator informed us, most of the practical, accepted hospital apparatus today was begun as 'pure theory' research and the results "just happened".

Leaving the crowded but orderly little laboratories, we sat down to an informal meal with the grad school personnel and students. Here, talk deviated to include the exchange of personal interests and of advice on opportunities, summer jobs, and contracts that might be valuable to those entering the graduate field of biological research. We became acquainted with the leading men in the field through conversation and through evening lectures designed to give us further information and scope.

The entire symposium, geared to the interest and encouragement of the college upperclassmen attending, gave us a useful survey of not only what is being done now but of the vast amount of territory that is left for us to chart. From the research program, we could realize that the money, machinery assistance, needs and problems are available in abundance. From the research personnel, we could realize that the only obstacles in our path are the limits of our own initiative, originality, curiosity and ambition.

library. They have been designed to house approximately two hundred and fifty women students. Some of the special features to be incorporated in the dormitories are kitchen facilities, a large lounge with a fireplace, (see cut above), and several other lounges, and a large recreation room which will have facilities for shuffleboard, ping pong, television, and so forth.

Long Range Plans

President Norman E. McClure stated that the new dormitories will not replace the off-campus dormitories, now being used for housing women students. Instead, some of those dormitories will be opened for men students and others will be retained as women's dormitories. Further, the net increase in the student body between 1957 and 1961 is planned to be approximately two hundred students. The dormitories are supposed to be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the Fall semester, 1957. (Bennignus)

A. Because cellulose is a soft, snow-white material . . . the same pure, natural substance found in many of the good foods you eat every day.

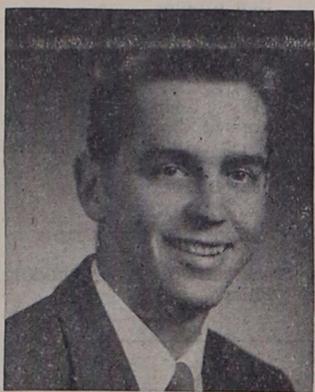

Only the exclusive Viceroy tip contains 20,000 tiny filters made from pure cellulose—soft, snow-white, natural—twice as many filters as the other two largest-selling filter brands. That's why Viceroy gives you . . .

Neborak Cops Most Outstanding Athlete Award at Annual Varsity Club Banquet Mon.

Paul Neborak, Ursinus' all-around athlete for the past four years, walked off with the top prize, the Outstanding Senior Athlete award, last Monday night at the annual Varsity Club banquet to climax the evening's festivities. The banquet was a well-rounded affair with football-track coach Ray Gurzynski presiding during the two and one-half hour shindig.

PAUL NEBORAK
Year's Most Outstanding Athlete

The banquet was held for the benefit of all Varsity Club members, coaches, and honored guests. The evening began with a steak dinner at 7 and wound up with a showing of the 1952 Ursinus-Drexel football game at 9:30.

Steckbeck Speaks

The speaker of the evening was John Steckbeck, noted author of the book, "The Fabulous Redmen," a book describing the hilarious events of the Carlisle Indians. Mr. Steckbeck also spoke at the banquet last year and was so well liked that he was asked to return.

Mr. Steckbeck spoke informally and managed to hold the interest of the audience for over an hour with his entertaining stories about the Indians, and especially the most famous Indian of them all, Jim Thorpe.

Bell Gives More Advice

Preceding Mr. Steckbeck, Bell Dillio gave another of his famous speeches, this one a four page address on the attitude of Ursinus athletes. Bell, as usual, spoke in the familiar manner known to Ursinus students, and 1949 Ursinus football squad, and many other notables. All either declined from speeches or limited them to the sweltering heat of the summer-like evening.

New Officers

The Varsity Club members climaxed the evening by selecting their future officers for next year. They are: President—Dick Padula; Vice-President—Lee Lawhead; Secretary—Karl Herwig; Treasurer—Don Carver.

Netgals Beat Penn; Drop Only Loss to Bryn Mawr, 3-2

The Ursinus girls' varsity tennis team defeated Penn 4-1 and lost to Bryn Mawr 2-3 last week to end the season with a record of six wins and one loss. Captained by veteran player Connie Cross, the girls played excellent tennis.

In the Bryn Mawr match on Tuesday, May 15, first singles Carol LeCato quickly overpowered her opponent 6-2, 6-2. Connie Cross encountered stiff competition, but her excellent ground strokes paid off after three hard-fought sets 7-5, 4-6, 6-2. Third singles player Bunny Alexander lost her match 0-6, 3-6. The first doubles combination of Ruth Heller and Vonnice Cros lost 0-6, 1-6. Sue Hottenstein and Audrey Cale turned the tables after losing the first set 2-6 and won the second set by the same score. They battled hard but finally lost the last set 3-6.

At Penn on Friday, May 18, Carol LeCato won her match 6-4, 6-2. Connie Cross outplayed her opponent 6-3, 6-1. Bunny Alexander lost after giving her opposition a hard battle 7-9, 6-0. First doubles Audrey Cale and Sue Hottenstein won 6-1, 6-3. Vonnice Gros and Jane Dunn scored the fourth point for Ursinus by winning 2-6, 6-1, and 6-3.

Bears Beat Mules; Seven Marks Set As Lehigh Romps

The Bruin cindermen traveled to Muhlenberg last Wednesday and won a decisive 86-40 victory over the Mules. It was the Bears second victory as they dominated all the running and weight events. Muhlenberg's only bright spots appeared in the jumping events as they won first places in the pole vault, high jump, and broad jump.

Ruth Breaks Shot Record

Several Bruin thinclads performed ably, but once again it was weight star Skip Ruth and versatile Harry Donnelly who shone brilliantly, emerging triple winners. Skip took the shot, discus, and javelin events and broke the Ursinus shot put record, tossing the iron ball 45' 3", bettering the old record by seven inches. Donnelly took firsts in the 100 yard dash and both hurdle events.

Miler Lee Lawhead and sprinter Ken Buggeln each racked up first places, Lawhead defeating the Mule's Ken Keyser in the mile and half mile while Buggeln took firsts in the 220 and 440.

Seven Records Set

Six meet records and one Ursinus track record fell as the Engineers from Lehigh raced to a 91-35 track victory over Bruin thinclads. The Bruins end their season with a 2-6 record while Lehigh holds a 6-1 mark.

Lawhead, Buggeln Set Marks

The Bears did come through with winners as Lee Lawhead clipped the meet record in the half mile, coming home in 2:04.6. Harry Donnelly tied for first in the high hurdles and took a second in the lows. Ken Buggeln was the star of the day for the Bruins bettering teammate Karl Herwig's 220 school record of 51.5 by coming home in 51.3 seconds.

Jay Chick led the Engineers scoring 17 points in five events. He tied Donnelly in 120 high hurdles for a new meet record, at 15.5, and set a new record in the lows at 24.8. Besides Chick, Lehigh produced five double winners.

Bruins Stopped by Dutchmen, LaSalle, Smash Rutgers; 19-1

The Bruin nine blew a 4-2 lead last Tuesday to go down to their fifth defeat, 7-4, by the bats of the Flying Dutchmen of Lebanon Valley on the Collegeville diamond.

The Bears, losing 2-0 in the bottom of the second, scored on four walks and a double by centerfielder Barry Ciliberti. The Flying Dutchmen went ahead in the fifth tallying three runs on two walks, an error, and a single off the bat of shortstop Ben Stauffer. Lebanon Valley added one score in the sixth inning and a final insurance run in the eighth.

The winning hurler was Bob Wenrich, who aside from a rocky second inning, pitched superb ball, allowing only three hits during the contest. Righthander Bob Slotter picked up his third loss for the season, giving up seven hits to the Dutchmen.

Topped by LaSalle

Two days later, Coach Sieb Pancoast led the Ursinus nine to the city of brotherly love to face a very strong LaSalle nine. It was strictly a hitters duel, as LaSalle topped the diamondmen, 18-13.

LaSalle jumped off to a quick 3-0 lead in the first inning, with

Netmen Top Hens, LaSalle & Hounds

The tennis team picked up three thrilling matches during the past week over the Hens of Delaware, LaSalle and Moravian.

In the 5-4 victory over Delaware, Pete Jespersen, Art Martella, and Gene Morita turned singles victories. In the crucial doubles matches the teams of Jespersen and Morita and Ely and Martella produced the needed victories.

Martella and Morita produced singles victories in the 6-3 victory over LaSalle on the home courts last Thursday.

The doubles teams of Jespersen and Martella, Morita and Ely, and Gilgor and Cellis emerged victorious in their respective matches.

On Saturday the netmen continued their winning streak by edging Moravian 5-4 on the Greyhounds' home courts.

Bruins Jespersen, Martella, Morita, and Ely all topped their opponents in their respective singles matches. The Greyhounds came out ahead in the doubles matches with Bruins Jespersen and Martella bringing in the only Ursinus victory.

firstbaseman John Sheehan doubling with the bases full.

The Bruins came back with two runners crossing the plate in the second inning with Al Stipa's double making the difference. The Bears added four more scores in the third on two basehits, an error, and a fielder's choice.

Neborak Homers

LaSalle came right back strong scoring two consecutive home-runs by Sal Zelinski and Don DeVincent with the bases clear. The Bruin nine piled on six more runs in the fourth as Paul Neborak unloaded his first four bagger with the bases full.

LaSalle went wild in the fifth inning bringing eleven big runs across the plate. Bruin lefthander Paul Neborak was hit hard and received his third loss of the season. LaSalle's Harry Madden took the victory giving up fourteen hits.

Clobber Rutgers

The Bruins broke their two-game losing streak with vengeance as they clobbered a very weak Rutgers of South Jersey, 19-1 on the home diamond last Saturday.

The Bruins scored in every inning except the third, with Walt Christ and Wayne Williams unloading four baggers. Tommy Ayre received credit for the romping victory giving up only one hit. Doc Carver replaced Ayre in the eighth and gave up the remaining three hits. The Bears now stand with a 8-6-1 record.

The visitors used four hurlers, none of whom were very effective, giving up a total of seventeen hits to the Bears.

The diamondmen play their last game of the season tomorrow at PMC. (H.Z.)
