British Foreign Policy is Subject of Forum Speaker

by Fred Menzel '54

Vol. 53, No. 3

The Hon. William Deedes, first Ursinus forum speaker of this year, was well received in Bomberger Chapel on October 19.

Mr. Deedes, a Conservative member of the British Parliament, presented a brief but complete summary of the present British foreign policy. He spoke of Anglo-American relations as a "condition China Collection for survival" and not merely a friendly association. This relation-ship, which is extremely important to world peace, is meeting attack Now on Display from three sides. Extremes of opinion in both Great Britain and In Library the United States are a serious threat to this alliance. While some Americans look at the English-Chinese mercantile policy as a direct aid to Communism, there are Englishmen who are little un-certain as to the next move of Senator Joseph McCarthy. The third threat to Anglo-American relations comes from the Soviet Union who has, since the death of Joe Stalin, revised its foreign policy so as to instigate friction be-tween the United States and England.

Mr. Deedes explained the British policy in regard to Communist China. He stressed the fact that although the British merchants conduct trade with China, there is conduct trade with China, there is no exchange of strategic materials, and very often it is Great Britain by were not considered fine enough for the who receives the advantages of this nobility. commerce. The Britons can find little cause to exclude communist China from the United Nations. They believe that if the United Nations is to survive, it must truly be a world organization and not merely a battleground between Com-munism and the "Free World".

In the question period that fol-lowed, Mr. Deedes explained the Trinity Church Holds British refusal to join a Federa-tion of Europe can be attributed largely to nationalism and strong British tradition. He used the Everyone is cordially invited comparison that Americans should not expect England to join any such organization that the United States would avoid. In regard to a Soviet bombing at-

"Youth Holds the Key" was the cheme of the YM-YWCA Retreat held at the University of Pennsylvania Camp near Green Lane last week-end. Approximately 125 Ursinus students and faculty members participated in the activities. Discussion, recreation, and worship were included in the program. During the Saturday morning dis-cussion led by Presidents Janet Haines and Bob Hartman, members decided to hold a work day this coming Saturday in the Rec Center. A committee was appointed to investigate the possibilities of a permanent amplifying system in the tower of Bomberger.

The Social Responsibilities Commission is planning a fine arts seminar for next semester. The Political Actions Commission plans to visit the UN on November 14. PAC will also investigate a proposed foreign student exchange program

Volleyball, boating, softball, hik-ing, a doggie roast, group singing, and square dancing provided recreation for the retreaters.

On Sunday morning, an inspirational worship service was con-ducted in the outdoor capel. Dr. Eugene H. Miller led the service and Mr. H. Lloyd Jones presented the message.

The presidents expressed their appreciation for the fine response and the dynamic participation of all persons present and hope that many more students will find it a necessary part of their college life to participate in Y activities and programs in the future.

DO WE WANT CULTURE ?

A week ago, on Sunday afternoon, a very fine string quartet pre-sented an excellent program in Bomberger Chapel. Although it was a large audience that witnessed the performance, it was hardly a representative one, considering that the program was held on the Ursinus campus. Many townspeople and members of the faculty were present, but the number of students attending was far from impressive.

We often hear complaints that the cultural phase of our schooling is neglected. It makes us wonder why so few take advantage of a program like this one. The program was given adequate publicity. Everyone should have known about it. Did the terms "string quartet" and "chamber music" sound frighteningly longhaired? They should not to college students.

If we want artistic programs at Ursinus, we must, at least, show enough interest to attend them. We hear now that, as a result of dis-cussion at the recent retreat, the Y plans to sponsor a fine arts seminar next semester. We certainly hope that this series will be met with greater response by the students.

An acquaintance with the fine arts is an essential attribute of the well-educated person. Facts and data may be memorized. Appreciation of the arts may only be acquired through the development of artistic judgment.

Thinking Out Loud

by Bob Armstrong '54 FROM SCENERY TO SEX

When you go to the movies you are probably unaware of one very important factor. There is some-thing besides the actors and the words which they speak. You would not understand or enjoy a movie if one thing were omitted which you take very much for granted. It affects everything from scenery to sex. That one thing is background music. Here are a couple examples which might prove my point.

When you see a house up a hill in a picture it most surely has very little affect on you. However, if the proper music is in the background you immediately know that it is haunted, or that a killer is hidden there. That same house might be made to seem like a haven of beauty and contentment. An airplane is heard overhead at night. Is it a friend or foe? Without music you are not sure. Think about it

A gray haired mother is handed telegram concerning her son in Korea. Is it news that he is coming home? Is it news that he has been killed in action? The back-ground music which you take so very much for granted tells you know beyond a doubt.

Did you see the movie last year called "The Thief"? Not a single word was spoken in the whole picture, yet you understood every ac-tion, every mood, every bit of the plot. You knew if the man in the overcoat was a crook or an FBI agent without the spoken word. The next time you see a movie try this. During an exciting mo-ment, close your eyes and let the music tell the outcome. It affects everything in a movie.

without a doubt. A girl is seen on the beach in a bathing suit. Is she a cute and in-nocent girl? Is she a sexie, sultry, dame on the loose? Music lets you throw beyond a doubt. That's the spirit, Bears! One more for our side and this time a holiday to boot. For the past four years we've enjoyed the "Monday off" through the efforts of a victorious team. We bequeath the same good fortune to the frosh class. Rather believe they'll make it, too, with the material displayed by the '57 gang on the gridiron.

The fall rushing season is on gals. At Ursinus, sororities serve the purpose of bringing girls, with basically the same ideals together. They also make a nice contact with the alma mater after graduation. They are not cliques. That is something of which the girls on campus may be proud. Only you can know, rushees, to which sorority you can become most closely attached. Make your choice on this basis.

The public addressing system in the dining room is on the blink occasionally. Too bad—extinction through disuse. Perhaps a few Letters to the Editor may get it into working order permanently especially for non-scheduled meetings.

Old Timers' week-end was a big and wonderful affair on campus. This particular one will be remembered for quite a while by a few couples. It will be, "Honey, remember the fall week-end at U.C. — "as Charlie washes dishes while Sue puts the three youngsters to bed — while Kit darns socks as old dad Bill smokes his pipe — and while Fred and Gem sit holding hands in front of the TV set.

Quartet Performs with Spirit and Versatility

by Dave Hallstrom '54

The Valley Forge String Quartet presented a varied program for Ursinus music lovers when it appeared for the second time in Bomberger chapel Sunday afternoon, October 18, at four o'clock. The quartet played with the same wonderful spirit that marked Studio. That was the voice of the their first performance here last year. The program opened with "String Quartet, Op. 96" in F major by Anton Dvorak. The quartet then demonstrated its versatility by playing music of composers from different centuries and countries. The oldest selection was a minuet by Boccherini, an Italian of the eighteenth century. Then the quartet played "Weddingday at Troldhaugen" by Grieg, of Norway, and after a humorous bit of contempor-ary music, "Freckles," by Isaac, concluded the program with "Traumerei," by Schumann, the nineteenth century German composer.

chapel applauded the performers more than three times without vigorously, and the quartet re-sponded with several encores. The chapel itself is perfect for string quartet performances, as no seat is too far from the slightest pianis-simo passage, and the entire chamber is resonant. It seems unbelievable that a chorus of one hundred and forty voices with chamber orchestra could give a performance there also, but we know from ex-perience that it is true. We only hope that we will have the pleasure of hearing this fine ensemble next year.

more of it. That's the goal of the Philadelphia and Camden, staying Meistersingers chorus this year. overnight in various homes in What is the Meistersingers some of Camden. Three schools, Haddonyou may ask? Well, many of you field, Merchantville and Woodbury, together on Thursday nights, drifting down from the East Music Meistersingers.

Actually, the Meistersingers is a choral group consisting of about 65 picked voices. Near the opening of the school year try-outs are held for new as well as old members in the group. In this way, there can be a more complete turnover of voices and more people will have the opportunity to be in the chorus.

For two years students may take the course for credits but, of course they must adher to the same "cut" rules as for regular classes. For students who are in the Meistersingers, and not taking it for credit hours, there is also a The audience that filled the system of cuts. If a member cuts legal excuses, he will be dropped from the chorus.

System of Alternates

This year Dr. Philip, the director, has worked out a system of alternate voices. In previous years there have not really been enough voices to work out the system effectively, but now there are alternates for every voice. In concerts here at school or in nearby areas, the alternates as well, as regular voices, all work together, but for tours unless there is a regular member unable to go, the alternate will have to wait until next year for their chance.

Spring Tour Planned

Speaking of tours, brings up a subject dear to the hearts of every Meistersinger. Last year for the first time a Spring tour was planned. It was not nearly as extensive as most of the group had hoped, but it was a start and this year in contrast to a one and one-half day tour last spring, plans have snowballed into a four-day trip. The tentative plans which are being followed up as closely as possible by the officers and college officials are as follows:

The tour will begin April 4 and perfect sing end late on April 7. On Sunday, for Ursinus.

"Music for You" and more and the 4th, the group will sing in sacred concert in Hammonton, N. J. On Tuesday again, the day will start with assembly programs in Wildwood and Ocean City. Another sacred concert at a church in Atlantic City will complete the day's round. Wednesday, on the way back to school, secular concerts will be held at high schools in Bridgeton, Millville and Pitman. There can only be one bus load of students on this tour, which is the most looked-forward-to event of all on the Meistersingers schedule.

Presents Concerts

During the year the Meistersingers present a concert of music for you. In previous years the group has put on operettas in the Spring, but it has been decided to concentrate on two large programs a year with music designed especially for easy and enjoyable listen-

As well as these two coning. certs, the Meistersingers form the background of the Messiah chorus, handling all the official duties. such as seating, programs, tickets, and orchestral arrangements.

The group feels that singing not only fosters companionship and a great deal of fun for all, but also that this group may act as a partial publicity agent for Ursinus. Many students who may never hear of Ursinus in other ways, hear of us through the high school assembly programs and sacred church concerts.

Dr. Philip, the director of Meistersingers, says that he honestly believes that this year's group, in the short time they have been working together, have already achieved a professional attitude. He be-lieves Meistersingers look, sound and act like a trained and coordinated group; and with the aid of Bob McCarty, the student di-restor, and the other able officers of the club, he feels that one of the best choral groups Ursinus has had can be modeled into a more perfect singing group for you and

As the notes of the Ursinus band | Excellent play and utter determfloated across the twilight sky late ination proved of little avail to the Ursinus soccer team on Sat-Wednesday afternoon, the Ursinus soccer team concluded its third victory of the current campaign by soundly defeating Stevens Tech 3-1 on the home field. However, the game could have easily been mistaken for a good brawl with bodies strewn over the field on various occasions, tempers flaring, and penalties be-ing called in rapid succession.

Zartman Opens Scoring

The Bears led their rugged opponents all the way. Larry Zartman opened the scoring in the first quarter with a goal from five yards out; and Ben Settles followed in the next quarter with a short kick from directly in front of the netting. The Bears held their adversaries to a score-less duel during the first half; but became an easy prey in the follow-ing 44 minutes when the opposition freely substituted while the Ursinus regulars were forced to continue. The difference in the size of the two squads was the deciding factor in the contest.

In the initial two quarters both teams were unable to score as great defensive work was prevalent throughout the field. Several times Mel Aden, Gerry Cox, and Larry Zartman saved Ursinus from humiliation by stopping determined Rutgers scoring efforts. At the half it was rather obvious that the once confident New Jersey squad was quite worried about its grim

The victors capitalized on three key Garnet fumbles and a bril-liant performance by Grizzly speedmerchant and high scoring offen-sive demon, halfback Richie Glock. The fabulous "Mr. T" tallied three six-pointers, passed to star John Conti for another score and added two conversions. Conti scored twice, bulling over from the 1 in the sec-ond to climax a 27 yard march, after a poor Swarthmore punt went out of bounds on the Garnet 27. Fullback Ben Maliken rounded out the Ursinus point parade by smash-ing over from the 1 in the third quarter.

Swarthmore Tallies

Swarthmore scored twice in the second period and once in the final frame. The losers moved for 83 yards in 10 plays to close the gap work on the defensive, since the ball stayed in Albright territory during most of the game, In the last five minutes of play it pene-trated Ursinus ground but once. for 60 yards in five carries. The other Garnet touchdown in that quarter made things tense at 19-4 when Swarthmore launched a 55-yard screen pass from Bruce to Cooper, who caught the leather on the Swarthmore 45 and followed four blockers to paydirt.

> Swarthmore added its last tally against the Ursinus second team in the final quarter. A sharp Bruce-Ludwig passing combination sparkand a 73 yard drive in nine plays. A pass-interference ruling gave the Garnet the ball on the Bruins 25. Bruce then hit Ludwig on the 5, and Simpkin carried for 5 yards on three tries to end the point-mak-ing for the day. Simpkin made all three conversion tries for the home team.

Bears Take Early Lead

Offensively speaking, however, it was the Bear's day to devour the

Apparently inspired by the pro- foe. Playing heads-up ball, the Bearville aggregation grabbed two quick TDs before the spectators had made themselves comfortable. It took the unstoppable Grizzly just five plays to move from his own 37 to the glory stripe. Glock's 37 yard sprint on a quick-opener ate up the remaining yardage and made the first scoring dent of the 59point afternoon. Alertness by Ursinus end, Dan Schwenk, enabled the victors, who now have a 3-1 for the season to take possession of a Swarthmore fumble on the Garnet 37. Eight plays later Glock squirmed and twisted for two yards and more insurance toward a holiday. The key play of the drive was a 19 yard dash on a reverse to Maliken, which placed the pigskin on the Swarthmore 16.

Glock, Conti Score

With the score still close at 12-7, the unstoppable Ursinus grid machine ground out 27 yards to the end zone when Conti put the fin-ishing touches to Mertz's out-of-bounds punt. The half ended when Glock passed to Conti for 20 yards and a TD after a fluke Swarthmore on-side kick was downed by a jittery lineman on the Swarthmore 45. Glock set up the tally with a 25-yard jog to the 20, after taking a pitchout from T-master Paul Neborak. Halftime score favored the Bruins 25-14.

Swarthmore fumbles set up two more Grizzly scores in the second half. A bobble gave the Bruin pos-session on the 15 to open the sec-ond half. Five plays later, Maliken stepped over and Glock converted. Minutes later, frosh Jerry Nunn dived on another loose pigskin to give the Bears possession on the Swarthmore 1. Glock hit the middle for the TD and split the uprights for the conversion.

Glock Fourth Ground-Gainer in State

Statistics make the game look much more even than the score indicates. In first downs, the Bruins held an 18-12 lead, but the total offense read Ursinus 369, Swarthmore 327. In passing, the losers hit (Continued on page 6) ing total to finish the day's scoring.

Though this game was marred by too much brawn the fans still witnessed some beautiful defensive work on the part of Gerry Cox, Mel Aden, and Herb Knull. Knull at one time stopped both player and ball from entering the goal when they neared at top speed. In addition, the accurate passing of Pete Foreman and Tom Ely from the wing positions to the front of the goal, was a pleasure to behold. The team's versatile play indeed served as a strong warning to future adversaries.

This game was hard fought all the way, but characterized by clean play. In addition, the fine perform-ance of two top soccer teams prov-ed a delight to all present. Last season Rutgers had one of the best soccer squads in the na-tion, and this year are proceeding

(Continued from Page 5) on 7 of 109 aerials for 187 yards, there was no question of who was the master. Ursinus rolled up 342 yards net; and Swarthmore covered 140 yards of turf. Leading ground gainer for the Bruins was Glock with 164 yards in 27 carries for a 9.1 average. Glock's total of-fense was 184 yards. His point total to date is 41, ranking him fourth in the State

Second high for Ursinus was Ben Maliken who carried for 71 yards in 16 carries for an average of 4.4. John Conti's 3.7 mark was the result of 12 carries and 44 yards.

Ursinus has had considerable difficulty in making good those conversion attempts. Dick Glock has booted only 5 for 14 for 29%, hardly an outstanding average. But for those who would blame the kicker, remember that a lot of other factors enter the picture. The Swarthmore game is a good point for illustration. Glock booted 2 for 6. However, his first successful attempt was nullified by an offside penalty and the second try was blocked. Later, a high pass from center went over holder Maliken's head; the fourth attempt and sixth try were blocked by on-rushing linemen. The third and fifth efforts counted.
