Lorelei Set for Feb. 29th; Leigh's Orchestra to Play

by Elsie Belz '55

On Sadie Hawkins day, February 29, tradition will be forgotten as the girls escort their men to the Lorelei, to be held at Sunnybrook under the auspices of the Interfraternity, Inter-sorority Council, WSGA and MSGA.

Mens' Student government has had charge of getting Sunnybrook and booking the orchestra, which will be Woody Leigh's band. Womens' Student government is decorating the dance hall and getting tickets, and the Interfraternity, Inter-sorority council has charge of programs for the dance.

Thus far, decoration plans are still under consideration.

Need the co-eds be reminded that 1952 is Leap Year? Therefore, if you haven't leaped for your man yet, you'd better start moving for time flies and the 29th is fast approaching.

Soph Class to Aid Former Member

In mid-November a member of the class of '54 was forced to drop out of college because of serious illness. His name is Dave Ruccius. Since that time, his condition, a streptococcal infection of the blood stream, has grown more and more serious. Dave, now confined to a bed in Montgomery hospital, is so ill that he must be injected with eight million units of penicillin daily in order to keep him alive. This medical care has placed a great financial burden on his family.

Tomorrow, February 12, the class of '54 is going to sponsor a drive on campus in an attempt to help Dave out as much as possible. At lunch time a collection will be taken up in the dining halls by several sophomore girls. It will be greatly appreciated if everyone will come to lunch prepared to make a donation. A box will also be placed in the supply store.

Anyone wishing to send Dave a card is urged to do so. His address is: Dave Ruccius, Montgomery Hospital, Norristown, Pa.

President Ed Sella opened the Sophomore class meeting Wednesday with plans for the Soph weekend, March 7-8.

On Friday night, March 7, at 8 in the T-G gym, there will be a dance, entitled Dancing Tambourine. The theme of the dance will be gypsy life and there will be no cost to Ursinus students. Dance programs will be sold in the Supply Store and in the gym. There will be an orchestra, entertainment provided by the class of '54, and a mysterious surprise disclosed sometime during the evening.

The plans for March 8 have not yet been formulated.

Curtain Club Groups To Stage Two Shows

Two more Curtain club group productions will be presented on March 4. Both groups have chosen plays and completed casting.

The group headed by Molly Hall '52 and Ed Abramson '54 will present a comedy entitled Period Piece. The plot concerns the efforts of a housewife to redecorate her home in the style of 1750 and the despair of various members of the family as their comfortable furniture is replaced by period pieces. In the cast are: Irene Schweitzer '53, Gene Pascucci '52, Jim Scott '53, Chloe Oliver '54, Lloyd Shaver '55, Glenna Faust '54, Roberta Samler '55, and Judy Miller.

Shall We Join the Ladies by J. M. Barrie will be presented under the direction of Myrna Feldt '53 and Ivy Leaman '52.

A play reading committee for the spring play has been considering a number of plays for presentation on May Day week-end. Their decision will be announced at a Curtain club meeting which will be held next Tuesday evening, February 12. Casting for the production will begin the last week of February.

Art Instructions Now Offered by Teacher

An opportunity for art instruction is being offered to the students of Ursinus college by John E. Smith R.D. 4, Pottstown. Mr. Smith is an ex-Marine who graduated from the Philadelphia Museum School of Art in June, 1950. He teaches art in three small local schools, and has begun an extensive extra-curricular art training program for children between the ages of 10 and 15. He has hitchhiked throughout New England, painting and sketching, and occasionally selling pictures or trading them for room and board.

Mr. Smith is interested in teaching a Saturday morning class of students of college age in the fundamentals of drawing and painting, mainly in the mediums of water color, ink and drawing charcoal. He is essentially a realist who believes in a careful development of perceptual skills as well as manual ones, and who places emphasis on pattern and values.

The lessons will be $1 per person per session. All those interested should drop a card requesting an interview to John E. Smith, R.D. 4, Pottstown, or telephone 192-J-1. State time and place for an interview after 6:30.

Pianist, Violinist To Play Here in Bomberger Concert

Nathalie Boshko, internationally known violinist, and Barbara Elfenbein, gifted American pianist, will give a recital of violin and piano music in Bomberger hall Thursday night, February 21, at 8:15.

of the nature of personality and the mode in which the infant grows up.

The infant goes through three different periods of development of his personality: the "I love me" or omnipotent stage, the "you love me" or secondary selfishness stage and the development of an object relationship or love of others which becomes the super-ego. This absorption of other personalities forms an ideal ego which is looked for in a mate.

The Y cabinet held their annual mid-year retreat at Abington Friends' Meeting House on Feb. 9. The day's discussions covered the work accomplished during the past semester and the many things to

EDITORIALS

THIS WAS NO FLOP

Flops and fiascoes at Ursinus are usually explained by lack of efficient organization. All too often such criticism is justified, and it is refreshing as well as encouraging to note the proverbial exception.

On the second day of this semester, on the second day when May Day petitions could legally be completed, five were in circulation for queen and three for manager. Four of these were completed before the day was over. This was quick, gratifying support from the women students. How was it encouraged? What was the formula?

Perhaps it was a sudden rebirth of that elusive quality called school spirit. Or an arousal of student interest. Or perhaps the fruit of energetic and efficient organization.

It seems to us that school spirit and student interest were both results of the third factor—organization.

For two weeks before semester vacation we heard announcements urging us to start petitions for May queen and manager. We saw posters explaining how to start these petitions. We knew the rules; we couldn't help but know them. And no sooner were we back from vacation than we again heard announcements and saw posters.

The results of this publicity campaign have already been noted.

No doubt there were other factors contributing to this immediate response by the students. Because of a later Ruby picture schedule, it was possible to wait longer this year to begin the petitioning. Women students had more time to make their choices and back their candidates than in previous years.

Nevertheless, the obvious fact is this: an energetic committee—the Central Nominating Committee—took the little bit of extra time and effort necessary to do a thorough job. Results prove that they were justified. Other organizations would do well to follow their example.

AMIDST THE MADDING CROWD

Elizabeth Must Provide Symbol Of Solidarity for English People

by Richard Richter '53

The world bared its head and mourned the death of King George VI of Great Britain. The little as well as the mighty of the earth expressed their grief. Political and social figures the world over bestowed upon him the highest praise as a monarch and as a man. At NATO headquarters in France, flags were lowered to half mast; in Berlin, even the Red flag dipped.

SYMBOL OF SOLIDARITY

His ability to provide a symbol of solidarity and steadiness during the anxious years of World War II and the austere post-war period won George the affection of both his subjects and the rest of the free world. With virtually no political power under the British Constitution, the king nevertheless exerted a very great amount of influence over Britain and the Commonwealth by virtue of his upright, kindly and noble character. His death was indeed a severe blow to Britain.

CAPABLE NEW QUEEN

However, as the shock of his death slowly subsides with the passing of time, it is certain that Britain will come to realize that through its great loss it has acquired a new monarch who shows every promise of being able to continue the beneficent influence that her father exerted. Queen Elizabeth II, as beloved of her subjects as was King George, is a twenty-five year old matron whose youthfulness and good spirits won great acclaim in the United States when she and her husband, Prince Philip, visited here last year.

The Great Britain of Elizabeth II is, unfortunately, far different from the England of the first Elizabeth. When that composite of tact, firmness and high-mindedness ruled, the certainty of England's future greatness made the realm a land of hope and optimism. Now, however, the uncertainty of England's very future makes the new Elizabeth's realm a land of something less than optimism.

It will take a courageous and able monarch to exemplify the fortunate, the strength of character, and the willingness to sacrifice which Britons must have in the next few years, if their country is to survive intact. We feel certain that Elizabeth II will have that courage and that ability, just as George VI did.

LETTER FROM ABROAD

English University has 88 Clubs; Atmosphere is International

Wills Hall, Stoke Bishop Bristol 9, England December 2, 1951

To the editor:

Before coming to England, I had the idea that English universities had little time for extra-curricular activities, but I've found that I was mistaken. The University of Bristol has no less than eighty-eight (88) different clubs and societies! (I'd like to hear Dr. Brownback's first comment about that.) Actually, twenty-six of these organizations are sports clubs to which you must belong in order to play a particular sport. These clubs for rugby, soccer, rowing, and infinitum, each have their schedule of games with other university teams, YMCA's, physical training colleges, and industrial teams. If you are good enough, you will play on the "A" squad and the poorer members of the club will join the B, C, or D teams, depending on the number of students in the club. Graduate students may participate, also. The clubs have an "honorable president" (usually a faculty member), a team captain elected each spring by the club members, and other officers such as treasurer and secretary. (Somewhat like the Varsity Club in that respect.) Each club makes its own arrangements for travel, generally by rail, and each player making the trip pays a half-crown (35 cents) to help defray travel expenses, while the Student Union pays the remaining costs.

Sports Informal

Sports are played rather informally, taken much less seriously, and attract small and generally spiritless crowds, unless it is an important association football (soccer) match or rugby football match. (English enthusiasm, I understand, at cricket matches is contained in such utterances as "Well done, sir", or "That was jolly good.") Team practice occurs, at best, once or twice a week, and that gripping tension which American football or basketball players feel is almost non-existent in these games which are played mostly for "the sake of sport" and not for "the glory of the college." I've mentioned the major sports above. The minor sports are lacrosse, netball, fencing, field hockey, rowing, and, alas — basketball.

I can give you a personal account of basketball in England because, surprisingly enough, I am playing varsity basketball for the university. Basketball is still in its introductory stages in England, and Americans and other foreigners are eagerly sought to play basketball. The starting five players include two of us Fulbright students, a Polish and a Welsh chap, and the other position is held down by 3 English blokes, an Egyptian, and a Greek in alteration. A team is generally rated according to the number of Americans on the team.

State of the Game

We practice Monday evenings and play games on Wednesday and/or Saturday afternoons or evenings. The two best indications of the state of basketball over here are: (1) the fact that I am varsity material and am even helping to coach the freshers; and (2) the fact that we have already had two away games postponed because the opposing team was unable to get the gym for that afternoon's game! But it's great fun to be playing (reminds me of intramural games) and, in addition, it's a splendid way to get to know and understand fellows of different nationalities.

In addition to 26 sports clubs, there are 23 Faculty and Departmental Societies, such as the German society, the Classical society, Law club, Denta Student's society—in fact, a club for almost every subject. There are eight religious organizations, the chief of which is the SCM in which I am taking an active part. Each political party, including the Communists, have a society. And there are 26 miscellaneous groups, among which are the International Society and the United Nations Student Association whose meetings I attend. Of course, there are too many organizations (understatement) and that is accepted as inevitable (like the rain) and all you have to do is make your choice.

Students Reserved

The average English student is essentially like an American student. Some of them are rather more reserved and frown at talking to total strangers, but most of them are as gregarious as the average Ursinusite, and I have been able to make many close friends. Among my best friends are two Australians (really great blokes), a Canadian, two Scots, a Frenchman, a Nigerian, a Polish chap, Sudanese and Egyptians, an Argentinian, the son of a missionary in Kenya, and the brother of the King of Uganda. This should give you an idea of the truly international atmosphere at Wills Hall, which is true of all English universities.

Sincerely yours, Robert C. Herber

They Say...

by Jonnie Graf '52

Fall semester, nineteen fifty-two; the last for some, the first for some, but one of many for most. What will these next five months and some odd days bring to you; success, happiness, fun, failure, sadness? We hope they bring you what you want, but — point of thought — they will bring to you, what you bring to them. So much for philosophy, who's for a coke?

Salute and bravisimo to our unsung heroines, the Mermaids of Ursinus college! Do not be too quick to judge. The gal who looks, on Saturday night, as though she hasn't gotten over Friday yet, is probably the free style swimming champ. Practice is held on Friday night and Chlorine is the beautifier of eyes and hair!

Tuesday evening found Shreiner hall flower bedecked, with Rosies on the first floor and Petunias on the second. Question popularized this season, "Are YOU a crustacean?"

Freshmen are now allowed in the back room of the Drug. Isn't it exciting!

During the past vacation, on January 30th to be exact, the gals of Omega Chi Sorority explored the wilds of New York City. It was their theater party, so after luncheon at Toffinetti's they were entertained by Ethel Merman in "Call Me Madam".

We of Ursinus are not unknown in the midwest! The Nebraskan, logically, of the U. of Nebraska, has seen fit to quote one of the Weekly's jokes, (stolen from Penn State I believe). Jokers sure do get around.

Did you hear? Swarthmore varsity has surrendered unconditionally to the Bruin basketball prowess. Both the men and the women handed them a nice defeat on the court.

Seating facilities were rather nil at Haverford Saturday aft. It was an interesting match, however, and you just wait until next time!

There is a new religious sect on campus. It is rather inglorious, but evident enough to warrant mention. Any discriminating person could have detected it had he been on his toes this past Sunday. It seems their most significant ritual concerns offering a sacrifice of burnt flesh to Vaca. We feel this is a practice that should be halted; also we can do without the smoke.

Leap Year Tactics Are Disclosed; Sirens Have A Heyday-- Males Beware

by Jean Stewart '52

PARTING GIFT: Myk Saporoschenko, who has accepted a position at Washington University, St. Louis, is shown trying on the gold watch presented to him by his Ursinus friends before his departure.

Saporoschenko Takes Teaching Assistantship at Washington U.

Mykola Saporoschenko, who completed his undergraduate work at Ursinus at the end of last semester, has accepted a position as assistant instructor in the department of physics at Washington University, St. Louis.

Saporoschenko, a native of Ukraine, will also work towards a master's degree at the Missouri University. He started there February 1 and is specifically engaged in work on a cyclotron, an atom-smashing machine.

Washington University's cyclotron is one of very few in this country, because of the great expense of the device. Myk will work eight hours a day on it until next September when he will begin to work for credits toward a degree. He has written: "One trouble is the professor in charge of the cyclotron considers me a 'smarty' and expects me to run the cyclotron in a week."

As a parting gift, 99 Ursinus students presented Saporoschenko with a gold watch inscribed "To Myk, from your Ursinus friends" before he left for St. Louis. It was given to him in the library Tuesday night, January 22.

While at Ursinus he was a member of Beta Sigma Lambda fraternity, International Relations club and Chess club.

Myk's address is: Washington University, Department of Physics, St. Louis 5, Mo.

Ha, girls, I hate to be trite, but do you know what year this is? Yes, it's the year of the highest taxes in the country's history, and it's the year of the presidential election, and to a majority of people this may be all it will mean. But there is a desperate minority—among which I am forced to number myself—which finds one thought continually lurking in the deepest abyss of its collective mind—LEAP YEAR!

After a certain point in the life of the average girl she stops sharpening her knives, dragging out her rusty brass knuckles, and oiling her bear trap in anticipation of the event. Her approach becomes more subtle. She may linger for five or more cups of coffee at the nearest tea shop, she may frequent the business section of town at regular intervals, or she may chuck her old perfume in favor of Attar of Old Brandy or a similar scent particularly inviting to the male animal.

There are three types of girls who observe the presence of this unusual period known as Leap Year. They are: 1. the interested type, 2. the eager type, and 3. the really desperate type. Most all of the types are made up of unmarried, unattached girls, but there are exceptions. (I refuse to give myself away by including myself in a category.) The first group watches with mild enthusiasm as group 2 and 3 knock themselves out, since the girls in this group are usually so sure of themselves that they have to do little more than put on one additional stroke of mascara to have a dozen more men falling at their feet. The disgusting thing is that anyone else they add to their lists depletes the amount of material available for the other girls to work on. The members of this group go into the affair with a rather lighthearted attitude and usually come out with a bruise or two.

The second group makes use of the idea "if you are where men are, chances are that sooner or later something in trousers is bound to notice you", and they do nothing more obnoxious than make themselves obnoxiously available.

The third group is the frightening one. Their methods are pretty much the knock-down, drag-out variety, and the results may be horrifying at times. Their ages may range from seventeen to seventy, and the ages of their targets vary equally, but not in direct proportion. Tired old bachelors must learn to beware of matronly women with overdeveloped mother complexes and exuberant teen-agers, and any single man must keep up a constant vigil if he is to escape intact and in the same solitary

Curtis and 724 Lead League

As the men's intramural basketball leagues start their third week of play Curtis I and 724 (Todd Hall) are leading, each with three wins and no defeats.

In the first game of last week 724 swamped Fetterolf 71-26. George Sensenig again led 724 with 23 points. His teammate Ed Denkin accounted for 21; Dick Bowman took third honors with 10 points. The men from 724 dominated the entire game and allowed their rival off-campus dorm only two points in the final period—a field goal by Bob Guth.

Off-campus I stayed on the heels of 724 by romping over Curtis III 37-18. Don Whitney, a transfer student accounted for half of the losers points. Radel, Allebach, and Manning led. Off-campus I staged a come-back from a 4-1 deficit in the first quarter to win by more than twice the score of their opponents.

In other games during the week Brodbeck II got their first win by trouncing Derr II 42-26. Curtis edged Freeland 41-35 and Brodbeck I defeated Brodbeck III 49-16. It was Brodbeck III's first game while it was Brodbeck I's second win, keeping them in the runner-up spot of League II.

Jayvees Trounced by Lehigh Quintet, 78-43

The Grizzly Jayvees absorbed a lopsided 78-43 setback at the hands of the young Lehigh quintet last Thursday evening. Although the locals broke the ice by netting the first goal, the visitors soon opened up with a wild scoring spree. The engineers managed to compile a 6-2 lead in the early moments of play and continued to hike their tally to 23-5 at the close of the first period. Employing fast drive-in shots and utilizing their height superiority in gaining the majority of the rebounds they increased the margin at half time to 44-11.

Despite the high tally registered by the Lehigh hoopsters they didn't have one player who scored over 13 markers. The wide gap in the score enabled the opposing coach to test all his cohorts and also to give his starters a rest. Right forward Tom Gleode and left guard Fred Stein Kamp netted 12 and 9 points respectively for the victors while playing in only the first half. Substitute guard John Simglo and Ray Vartanian counted for nineteen points between them, while replacement Don Hutchinson garnered ten.

The only bright spot in the one-sided fray was the all-around sparkling performance of little Gene Harris who paced the baby Bruins with fourteen points. Other stalwarts like Dan Schwenk, Charley Matchet and newcomer Paul Schwartz were held to six count-ers apiece. Despite the over balancing in the score the home forces continued to show plenty of scrap.

Robert Swett is Honored By Philadelphia Scribes

On the afternoon of Tuesday, January 15, the Pen and Pencil club, an association of prominent Philadelphia sportswriters, gave a banquet for the purpose of handing out a basketball "player of the week" award to two players. Representing the large colleges was Tom Gola, freshman sensation from La-Salle, while the small college circle was represented by Bob Swett, Ursinus court star.

Has 17.6 Average

There is not much doubt that 6' 8" Bob is the backbone of this year's court squad as evidenced by his performance on the hardwoods. In ten games the lanky pivot man has poured 176 points through the hoop for a 17.6 average per game.

It was simply a case of the advantage of height and experience.

Totals	17	9 43

This places him high among the leading scorers in the Philadelphia district.

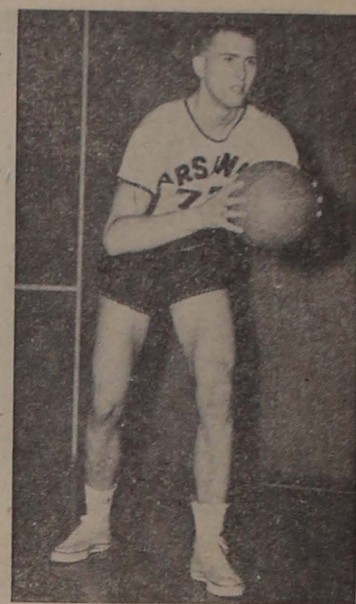

Bob started playing basketball for Ursinus in his freshman year, when he alternated between varsity and jayvee action. Since then Bob has been playing strictly varsity and continues to increase his scoring prowess.

Bob's talents are by no means restricted to the court game for sport enthusiasts will remember his feats on the gridiron, where he played left end. He also did the punting and carried a very enviable average yards per kick. When springtime rolls around Bob will be performing for the track team. He throws the shotput and flings the discus. A letter winner in all three sports has given Bob the distinction of being one of the most outstanding athletes ever to perform for Ursinus, following right on the heels of Don Young.

Hails from Madison

Bob hails from a small town in North Jersey called Madison. It was there that he performed in the aforementioned sports for Madison high school. Here at Ursinus Bob is also very active off the athletic fields. He is a member of Zeta Chi fraternity and the Varsity club.

With another year to go there is a strong chance that Bob may shatter the basketball scoring record by an individual player which was established by Bob Jaffe a few years ago, himself a pivot man. Bob has already scored 30 points in a single ball game against Drexel which represents his one game high. There is not much doubt that he was deserving of the basketball "player of the week" award.

TID BITS

My observant Assistant Sports Editor, Paul Jones, came up with an interesting item from the Swarthmore Phoenix the other day. He passed it on to me and I think it worth repeating. The following appeared in the January 8 issue of the Swarthmore publication:

"Didn't undernourished Bob Sweet (sic) of Ursinus pull the rock of the young basketball season a few weeks ago? With thirty seconds to go and Ursinus trailing by two points, Swett took a pass at mid-court and, undaunted by the frantic shrieks of his teammates he dribbled the rest of the way and curled a lay-up for the other team..."

I must say the Swarthmore columnist certainly has an active imagination. Where he ever dug up such a disgustingly inaccurate account I'll never be able to guess.

It seems that we did have a player score a field goal for the opposition, but that is the only bit of the above item that is the least bit correct. It was not Bob Swett who made the error, nor did the player dribble from mid-court to make the basket, nor were there thirty seconds remaining to play, nor were we two points behind, and even more, the shot was not a lay-up! I suggest that the sports staff of the Swarthmore Phoenix check page 6 of the January 7 issue of the Ursinus Weekly for a more accurate story on the incident.

Bob Swett certainly was putting the ball in the right basket on Saturday night at Swarthmore. Big Bob chalked up an impressive 32 points against the Garnet. Apparently the floor was not slippery for the little boy with the big eye—Joe Carroll by name—racked up 28 markers. We certainly have noticed a big change come over Carroll this season. He seems to have harnessed his temper and it looks like his scoring has profited from it.

Congrats Dept.

Congrats to Janice Christian, who was recently elected to captain the 1952 version of the Ursinus badminton team. This will be Chris' fourth season of Badminton, which last year was elevated to a varsity sport... Congrats to Mary Schoenly. The J.V. basketball team chose Mary captain of the understudy hoopsters... Congrats also to Ed Dawkins for constantly amazing wrestling prowess. In the four matches to date the little atom has registered three pins and one decision. Not only that, but Dawkins has yet to be scored upon.

Until further notice the "Old Gym" will be open on Saturday afternoons from 1:00 to 5:00. As usual the gym is open Saturday mornings from 9:00 to 12:00. The gym is NOT open on Sunday!

The senior class is now in the process of deciding what to give the college as a class gift. We have a big project in mind and I hope for the good of the whole college that it works out; however, if there happens to be a little extra money laying around it could be put to good use. Wouldn't it be great to have a timer in the football scoreboard with the following inscription: "Presented by the Class of 1952." Well, it's a thought.

Haverford Matmen Beat Ursinus, 18-16

The Haverford College wrestling team handed Ursinus its second loss in four starts last Saturday on the victors' mats by the score of 18-16. Both squads captured four wins, however. The Fords registered three pins and Ursinus could manage but two.

Ed (the little atom) Dawkins continued his sensational wrestling and chalked up a pin for the Bears in the initial contest. Dawkins used a body-press to down Harry Bair in 4:57. Co-captain Ed Miller tallied Ursinus' second pin over Hi Rickert with a stack up in 7:03.

Hewitt Sangree turned the tables on Paul McCleary of Ursinus in the latter's first collegiate match. McCleary was pinned with a half nelson and body press and the time was 6:44. Dave Foulke used a stack up to score a five pointer over Charlie Pritchard, local 167 pounder, in 6:25. Tap Webb was pinned by Don Chandler in 2:45 with a body press.

Bob Davis, in the heavyweight division, and Al Paolone, in the 137 pound class, tallied decision victories over their opponents, while Bob Guth was the only local who did not lose by a pin.

Swarthmore Defeats Junior Varsity Squad

The Ursinus jayvees played its second game of the new semester Saturday night on the Swarthmore floor, and were defeated 74-42. Charles Kenny, the jayvee's center jumper, led the team with three field goals and four successful foul attempts for ten points. Gilleland led the Garnet five with seven field goals for a total of fourteen points. He was followed closely by center James with twelve points.

The Bruin's Kenny was followed in the point scoring by Charlie Matchett and Sam Brown, each having Oddly enough, both made one field goal and three foul tries.

The Bears held the Garnet within range during the first two periods. At the end of the first quarter the score was 16-12. By the end of the second quarter the Garnet pulled up with an eight point lead with the score 29-21.

After the half time, the hosts came out to pull out and lead by a 55-32 score. The Little Quakers once again poured on the steam in the fourth period to bring the score to 74-42 at the final whistle.

Engineers Win Over Grizzlies

by Paul Jones '52

A smooth Lehigh quintet, who were billed to win without needing their second wind, were forced to resort to a five-minute freeze to cool off a hot Ursinus squad here last Thursday evening by a 62-51 score.

The hustling Bears, after holding their talented visitors to a four-point margin at the half, fell victim to four straight Brown and White baskets after intermission to lag behind by 12 points. Herb Knoll, highly disgusted with the situation, personally ushered a thrilling comeback by flipping in seven straight points and the club was moving.

Ralph Schumacher, Bill Burger, and Bob Swett joined the festivities and with only five minutes to play the Bears were within three points. But then the ice fell and the Engineers put on a perfect demonstration, despite the extreme displeasure of the crowd, of how to use freezing the ball as an offensive weapon.

When the Bruins, anxious to gain possession of the ball, became overeager, the visitors drove for four straight "ducks" without rebuttal from the home side. During the last five minutes Ursinus controlled the ball for only 30 seconds as the winners ran up a 62-51 final score.

The first half was a battle of two good zone defenses with neither team able to pull away. Lehigh's Ed Cahn, who was the game's high scorer with 24 points, kept the Engineers ahead with his drives down the middle. With Swett, Knoll, and Schumacher accounting for the twelve first quarter points, the Bears were off to a good start in what turned out to be a relatively low scoring game because of the zone stymie systems. The game slowed down in the second quarter as the action consisted mostly of outside shooting as both defenses aimed at clogging the center lane.

Garnet Basketball Team Downed by Bruins, 69-61

by Ted Wenner '53

In the most exciting game of the year the Ursinus Bears put on one of their most potent shooting displays of the season last Saturday to upset Swarthmore on the losers court, 69-61, for the first time in three years.

Shooting was far from being the whole story though as the Bears thwarted Swarthmore's every attempt to win by brilliant team play and defensive work. The expected scoring duel between flashy Joe Carroll and Bob Swett materialized and the whole game was built around their scoring efforts. The Ursinus pivot man played his finest game in three years by pouring in eleven field goals and ten fouls for a total of 32 points. Swarthmore's Joe Carroll almost matched this scoring effort by scoring nine field goals and ten fouls for 28 points.

Reice Plays Well

Another big factor was the brilliant work of captain Dave Reice who netted twelve points and teamed up with Ralph Schumaker and Bill Burger to break up Swarthmore's zone defense by handing out numerous assists to Swett. Reice's field goals, most of them one-handed jump shots, came at crucial moments and he and Swett combined to score 17 out of 24 second quarter points. This spurt brought Ursinus from a 16-11 first period deficit to a 35-33 halftime lead.

The turning point of the game came when the Bears gained an eight point lead in the third period. Joe Carroll scored fourteen of the fifteen Garnet points in this stretch.

Subs Come Through

As the last period opened the Bears were in a dangerous position with three of the starters having four personal fouls. With five minutes remaining to play and the Bears holding on to a dwindling five point lead these three men fouled out. With Joe Carroll still in the game Swarthmore's chances took a big jump, but subs Burnett Eddy, Frank Kiefaber and Ted Chantler effectively kept the ball away from the pressing Garnet.

In general, the game was cleanly played with little fouling. Swarthmore exhibited a slow starting game which never gathered as much speed as was necessary to outrun and outpass the Ursinus defense.

Snell's Belles Win Basketball Opener

by Jean Leety '52

Friday afternoon the Ursinus girls basketball team defeated the Swarthmore college squad 39-21. It was the first contest of the season for both squads; the game was held here in Collegeville. Although the scoring was well distributed among all six of the Ursinus forwards, Captain Marguerite Spencer was high for the Belles with thirteen points.

The contest got off to a slow start, and at the quarter time whistle the Belles had scored only six points and their opponents four. With neither team being able to live the pace, the half ended with the Ursinus team out in front 14-12.

Third Period Attack

In the third period the Belles started to move the ball and were able to find several openings in the Swarthmore defense. The Ursinus guards, Adele Boyd, Sal Parent, and Marjorie Merrifield, who played well throughout the game, held the opposition scoreless in this period.

During the last quarter both squads countered several times from the court and also the foul line to make the final score 39-21.

Junior Varsity Girls Basketball Squad Beats Swarthmore Team

The Ursinus junior varsity basketball team defeated the Swarthmore girl's team by 25-13 on Friday in the T-G gym. Mary Schoenly and Lois Leonard led the Ursinus scoring with six points each. Barbara Turner, however, outscored them with eight markers for Swarthmore.

Captain Mary Schoenly started the scoring in the first quarter to lead the Belles to a 6-1 margin. With prospects of an easy game, Coach Eleanor Snell inserted substitutes in forward and guard positions, but the scoring parade continued as freshman Lois Leonard and Jen Price brought the score to a 16-7 half-time lead.

The second half found the third string duplicating its predecessors' feat. The guards continued to hold the Garnets to less than four points a quarter. Freshman Liz Mason dipped four points to keep the score ahead. Gladys Evans, and Bunny Hockenbury did most of the Ursinus scoring in the final period as the Belles went on to win their

Pre-Medders Hear Arthritis Lecture

The subject of Arthritis was discussed by Dr. Sprecker of the University of Pennsylvania at a meeting held Tuesday night in S-12 by the James M. Anders Pre-Medical society. The address by Dr. Sprecker was preceded by a short business meeting at which the site and date for the coming pre-med dinner-dance were discussed and voted upon.

In the address of the evening, Dr. Sprecker, a former graduate and now a teacher at the U. of P. outlined the history of arthritis, the different forms it takes, and its treatments, past and present. He particularly stressed the fact that although there are three million more sufferers of arthritis in the United States than there are heart disease sufferers, there are less than 24 specialists in this branch in the U.S. Dr. Sprecker discussed the so-called "miracle drugs," ACTH and cortisone, and said although they are of great importance their use is strictly limited, mainly because of the many undesirable side-effects and after-effects they produce. At the end of his discussion Dr. Sprecker answered questions from the members of the society.

WSGA Discusses Plans for Future Events on Calendar

The Women's Student council discussed plans for Color Day, the Lorelei and May Day at their meeting on February 3 in Miss Stahr's office. President Martha Daniels '52 presided.

Mary Ann Townsend '53, chairman of the Junior Advisory committee, reported that Anne Hughes, president of the WSGA in 1950, had consented to be the speaker for Color Day this Thursday. It was reported that the Lorelei would be held on February 29 and that May Day petitions were in circulation under the supervision of the Central Nominating committee, headed by Laura Bechtle '52.

Miss Daniels told the Council that it had been suggested, at the last Senate meeting, that students be allowed half hour permissions after sports events and plays as well as dances. This matter was referred to a Senate committee for further investigation and discussion.
