Anti-Nuclear Crowd Rallies at Limerick

by Jack Hauler

Carrying signs reading "Long Life, Not Half-life" and "Hell No, We Won't Glow," an energetic crowd of approximately 6000 rallied last Sunday at the nearby Limerick Atomic Power Plant facilities presently under construction.

The demonstration was sponsored by Keystone Alliance whose goal is to urge Philadelphia Electric to halt the construction of the Limerick plant and its Peach Bottom and Salem operations. Already up at Limerick are the main building and foundations for the two cooling towers. Construction is estimated at 45% complete. The first reactor is scheduled to be in operation in 1985 and the second in 1987.

Drawing from a wide geographical range, the crowd contained quite a cross-section of demonstrators including housewives, senior citizens and babies in strollers lettered with the popular "NO NUKES!" slogan. Amidst a picnic-like atmosphere and relying heavily on the Three Mile Island incident, speakers and singers alike called for the end of atomic power in the tri-state area. The two and a half hour rally took place on a stage which had as an ominous backdrop the partially completed power facility. Referring to the large turnout, Alliance spokeswoman Betsy Wright believed that people will now "stop thinking of anti-nuclear groups as a subculture of the '60's."

Keystone believed the rally to be the largest of its kind in Pennsylvania thus far. No violence was reported and no arrests were made.

Although PE was surprised by the large throng, PE spokesman Ronald Harper said that the rally would in no way encourage the

Honorary Degrees Given to Speakers

College to Graduate 272 at Commencement

Ursinus will graduate 272 students and confer their undergraduate degrees during commencement exercises Sunday, May 13, according to Dr. Evan S. Snyder, acting dean of the college.

Baccalaureate services will be 10:30 a.m. in Bomberger Hall, and commencement ceremonies will follow at 2 p.m. in Helfferich Hall. The public is invited to both events.

Graduates will receive the following degrees: bachelor of science, 118, and bachelor of arts, 110, for a total of 228 graduating seniors from the day school.

And, bachelor of business administration, 28; associate in business administration, 14, and associate in arts, two, for a total of 44 graduates from the Evening School.

Thirty students are listed for honors upon graduation as follows: summa cum laude, two; magna cum laude, six, and cum laude, 22.

Valedictorian

Mark Stephen Arena, an English major from Norristown, is valedictorian, with a 95.18 average, and James Kilgore Grosh, economics major from Ephrata, is salutatorian, with a 94.80 average.

Departmental honors in nine subject areas were attained by 28 graduating seniors.

Honorary Doctorates

One of the leaders in the world of music will be the commencement speaker at Ursinus 2 p.m., May 13, and will receive the honorary doctor of humane letters degree.

He is renowned musicologist, William Smith, associate conductor of The Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Rev. H. Daehler Hayes, pastor of Old First Reformed Church in Philadelphia, will be baccalaureate speaker 10:30 a.m. the same date, and will receive the honorary doctor of divinity degree.

H. Ober Hess, prominent Philadelphia lawyer and 1933 Ursinus College graduate, will receive the honorary doctor of laws degree.

Smith joined the orchestra in 1952 and heads its keyboard section besides his regular duties as "standby conductor" of maestro Eugene Ormandy.

It is through Smith's efforts that the orchestra has developed an extensive series of educational concerts and adult subscription series. When going into Philadelphia public schools, the orchestra invites selected student musicians to sit in with its regular members for in-school performances.

Smith also conducts three senior student concerts, two junior student concerts, five children's concerts, two annual performances of Handel's "Messiah," and the exciting New Year's Eve concert.

He also trains and conducts orchestras at the Curtis Institute and the New School of Music, is a founder-member of the Philadelphia Baroque Quartet, musical director of the Trenton Symphony Orchestra and the Amerita String Orchestra, and the coordinator of the "Today's Concert" series.

Also, he is commentator of the Philadelphia Orchestra's series of transcribed radio concerts over nearly 80 subscriber stations throughout the United States.

Last month he received the Philadelphia Art Alliance's 1979 Medal of Achievement, conferred by Ormandy, who was the award's first recipient, and in 1977 Smith received an honorary doctorate from the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts.

Baccalaureate Speaker

The Rev. Hayes has since 1971 been pastor of the Old Church, founded in 1727. During his ministry there, he has conducted an extensive restoration program of the historic church and grounds, and coordinated the televised interfaith worship service at In-

Grosh Wins Award

Besides being an outstanding student, Grosh is also the historian of his fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega. He also is a member of Omicron Delta Epsilon, honorary economics fraternity, president of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science society and the Cub and Key Society.

For three years, this senior also played on the tennis team. His participation in Superstars competition shows his dedication to his field. On the back of his Myrin Mauders jersey are the call letters for Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations.

Upon graduation, Grosh would like to pursue a career in finance with a banking firm. In his quest for an MBA, he has already been accepted at Cornell and Carnegie-Mellon and is awaiting word from Wharton and Chicago. He sees the advantages of the MBA as

Middle States Visitation Completed

Dr. Allan A. Kuusisto, chairman of the Middle States Evaluation team, outlined a tentative summary of the team's report at a final luncheon meeting with the Campus Planning Group on April 25 after a three-day visit. The official report of the team will be received in June.

Dr. Kuusisto's tentative oral report consisted of a list of the strengths seen by the team in its three-day visit and suggestion for study or action to keep Ursinus on a course of improvement. The team members generally were

COMMENT...

Defrost Frozen Rooms

In a very startling move, Dean David Rebeck "froze" two rooms for freshmen in Curtis Hall during room drawing. Dean Rebeck has defended this move by saying it is an effort to "break up" the Curtis II "lifestyle," which allegedly hampers studying in Old Men's. Besides being previously unannounced, this move is also unfair.

Only two of the rooms on the hall were "squatted" this year, so there is no definite way to conclude that the new people moving in would maintain that so-called "lifestyle." By freezing these two rooms for freshmen, sophomores have been forced to reside in Wilkinson or New Men's. This is a violation of the seniority philosophy that theoretically characterizes room drawing.

Also, this solution will not be effective because people wishing to engage in that "lifestyle" could easily draw for another floor in Old Men's next year. The entire problem arises from Ursinus' need for frat houses, a need that the administration should look into in the near future.

The entire concept of pledging is to promote unity, something that should extend past sitting at the same lunch table. Houses would give a frat, or sorority, a place to gather and not disturb the rest of the campus. Also, the true sense of brotherhood could be used in a cooperative effort to maintain the house.

But, before houses become a reality, we must not let the administration break up certain frats' strongholds on sectors of the dorms. By allowing them to take Curtis II from Beta Sig, they may next try to take 205 away from Zeta Chi. Unity is the word.

No Deans In Quad

One of Ursinus' most outdated policies is that of having two deans and a housemother reside in the Quad. The lifestyle of a modern liberal arts college should be a facsimile of life in the real world. A girl scout camp atmosphere is hardly conducive to developing a student's independence and maturity.

In the past, such a policy was largely typical of most colleges, but such surveillance and supervision has since become antiquated at most schools and is one of the most embarrassing anomalies on the Ursinus campus. The round-the-clock supervision that the majority of the school's female population is subjected to is far from healthy. It is a suffocating backwards policy whose worst offense is the invasion of the individual's privacy.

How can three authoritarian figures patrolling the Quad with passkeys give students the opportunity to make sound judgments on their own? Apparently the administration feels that adult students are not capable of learning responsibility on their own and that personal growth will be nourished to maturity by having it spoon fed in small, unreasonable doses to adults in a crucial period of personal growth.

The keepers of the Quad obviously consider themselves in loco parentis, in spite of the fact that college years are the years in which students should learn how to cope with any situation independent of direct parental influence. Dormitories should not be playpens or even sheltered havens, but healthy dwellings that will not hinder students from mainstreaming into the outside world after their four-year stay.

Pay For Wismer

As the end of each semester nears, students are constantly complaining about the food served at Wismer. It's always "highly throwable," but recently its edibility had been in question.

We find the best remedy for this problem to be a per meal charge as opposed to a set fee for the entire semester. This should promote quality in the meals, because if we don't like the food, we will more readily go elsewhere to eat. When less and less students attend meals, the food service will either have to improve or lose its customers.

Also, this method will benefit students who go home on weekends. This way they will not be charged for meals they will never eat, which is only fair.

Although this system may prove inconvenient for the food service, it should be looked into. After all, we are the ones paying the bills.

Wilson Rebutted

This is a complaint concerning the article in last week's issue on Songfest. We would like to know if the author of the article was present at Songfest, or did he get a hold of a program a couple of days later and envision the event for himself? The wrong songs were mentioned for Apes and Sig Rho and they had KDK doing the whole show! Mr. Wilson made several generalizations concerning the crowd's opinion on the participants' presentations. We feel the choice of words describing some of the frats' performances were in poor taste. (It was really RAUNCHY of you to do that!) We also would like to know how a freshman knows what is traditional for Demas, when he is not in the frat and was not here last year to see the show.

Why APO Won

This letter is written in response to Mr. Jim Wilson's article "Songfest 79." Mr. Wilson, like many other people, has lost sight of the basis of Songfest. In his own personal, uninformed judging, he makes some fundamental mistakes.

His basic mistake, which I have already mentioned, is that he has lost sight of or just doesn't realize what the goals of Songfest are. The main idea of Songfest is to put on a musically sound program of song. The majority of the fraternities might choose not to do this, but that is still the main idea. The music must be chosen so that a large group of voices is able to perform it. Because, as rule two of the entrance requirement states, "No solo numbers will be considered, but the numbers may contain short solos within them." Certain music cannot be done if an organization wants to win. For this reason, Mr. Wilson, the outcome of the judging could not be changed. The musical aspect of the performance cannot be overshadowed by the creativity. As I've already stated, the main part of Songfest is singing. One must also remember, Mr. Wilson, that accompaniment is optional and should also not be the focus of the performance.

For these reasons I find that your statement, "The voices were perfect, the timing was excellent and, with rehearsal and effort in mind only, APO truly deserved the first place awarded to them. Needless to say creativity and reality considered would have changed outcome of the judging..." is only partially true. Yes the voices were perfect, and APO truly deserved to win, but the result of that statement is a pile of garbage. Mr. Wilson, when writing a criticism, which in

POD Responds

We, the Brothers of Pi Omega Delta, would like to express our dissatisfaction at the lack of true journalism with regard to the Songfest article last week. Although it has been brought to our attention that the author of the article, Jim Wilson, was not present during most of the performances at Songfest, the point we would like to make is that a true journalist should not allow personal commitments to interfere with an unbiased critique.

Regarding Mr. Wilson's remarks about our fraternity's performance, we do not feel his judgment was valid in stating "... perfection comes with experience..." For your information, Mr. Wilson, Pi Omega Delta placed third in the competition; however, you wouldn't know because you were not there.

Incidentally, we are sure other fraternities would like to thank you for giving them credit for songs they did not even perform.

Finally, we are not really interested in the reasons for your bias, Mr. Wilson, whether it be to have won brownie points with other organizations or persons of your interest and presence, or to prove The Grizzly was desperate for an article about Songfest. We simply would like to suggest that in the future, the only thing absent from Songfest next year should be your opinion.

Sincerely,
The Brothers of

Clouser Revisited

I wish to help clarify the situation concerning the International House. In his letter of April 20, 1979, Tom Ward, after blasting Dr. Clouser for his article of the week before, states that "an explanation of these inaccuracies is in order." He is right. However, the only inaccuracies are on his part, not Dr. Clouser's.

As Brian Barlow, in his editor's note, has stated, Dr. Clouser does not accuse USGA of being against the International House, unless, of course, "postponed" means cancelled to Mr. Ward. Ward further assaults Dr. Clouser for "cynically denouncing 'squatters' rights." Since when is an admission of ignorance on a subject, if somewhat tongue-in-

Inaccuracy

I'm writing this letter with the intent of offering constructive criticism to the new staff of The Grizzly. I was very disappointed by the article covering Songfest in last week's edition. Not only was most of the content fictitious, but the style of writing and quality of journalism was lacking, especially in comparison with the publications of the past year. It was obvious that the reporter missed Songfest, or else was sleeping during the performances. There is no excuse for inaccurate reporting on a campus of this size. I can sympathize with the disorganization and confusion that a new staff experiences, but the printing of low grade material will only serve to set The Grizzly back three years in time.

Sincerely,
Janet Brown

Students' Fault

Normally, I would not remark on statements made in The Grizzly, but the comment "Clean Mailroom... How Long? was particularly misleading to readers and deserves to be clarified.

The headline of the comment printed Friday, April 6, is analogous to and could be converted to "Clean Campus... How Long? or "No Dormitory Damage... How Long?"

In September of each year, the College tries to provide an environment which is conducive to a well-rounded educational experience. The campus is cleaned and readied for incoming students and generally everyone looks with pride at our beautiful surroundings. It is disappointing to many that, short weeks after the students arrive, paper and trash litter the Campus, particularly in and around dormitories. The College expects a level of responsible adult behavior from students. Too often, in the view of many, they

Security Change

by Guen Norris

Ursinus hired two full-time security guards Monday, April 2, and expects to hire a part-time man to work weekends.

In the past Ursinus has dealt with protection agencies such as Miley, from 1969 to 1978, and Pinkerton, from 1978 to 1979. The new guards, Mr. John Kelley and Mr. John Meyer, are under direct supervision of Mr. Howard W. Schultze, the Director of Physical Facilities, and Mr. Frederick Klee, the Assistant Director of Physical Facilities.

The security office is still located in the corner of the maintenance building closest to the women's-dorm. The security procedures will remain the same. The guards are reached in an emergency through a professional answering service located in Royersford.

The only major change is that the guards will be working more closely with the administration.

Klee stated the new guards have a professional attitude.

"They have the college interests foremost. We hope to provide more effective service for the educational buildings and the students without encroaching on their privacy."

Kelley has had experience working in a security agency and he had worked on the Ursinus Campus for over five years before 1973.

"We have some new plans and we hope to rectify a few things but not all at once," said Kelley. "We are here for the protection of the students and the college."

This new system is more expensive than hiring an agency because the college pays the guards a salary and benefits. Formerly, a flat rate was paid to the agency.

Both the new guards live in West Norriton which is near Collegeville. They work alone on one of two shifts which begin in the afternoon and end in the early morning.

They noted in particular a sense of openness and feeling of participation by members of the campus community.

The team will recommend actions designed to further improve such areas as career counselling, the operation of the dean's office, and offerings in social sciences and the arts. Recommendations for the most part will reinforce insights already expressed in the task force reports and the self-study document.

Dr. Kuusisto expressed high praise for the mechanism for planning, the preparations for the evaluation visit, and the poise and courtesy of students, faculty and staff.

Responding to Dr. Kuusisto, President Richter thanked the team members for their thoughtful analysis of Ursinus. He expressed appreciation for the favorable comments about the College and said that the team's suggestions will help validate and refine our agenda for further institutional development in the future. He reaffirmed a commitment to the continuation of the Campus Planning Group and to the methodical definition of goals and objectives for the College.

Breakfast In America — Supertramp's Masterwork

by Jennifer Bassett

It's a comfort to know that there is one progressive rock band that isn't progressing towards disco or punk. Supertramp is a member of a minority that doesn't have to sell out to glitter or shock appeal — they merely evolve.

Supertramp's latest album, Breakfast In America, is sound proof of their progress. Even more so than on previous albums, many cuts both exhilarate and tranquilize, making the album ideal for almost any situation, from the rowdiest to the mellowest.

Besides continuing their unique tradition of discussing childhood in songs such as this, there is a greater variety of moods and attitudes than in any of Supertramp's previous albums. All of the album's choicest cuts are earmarked by a new kind of bittersweetness and subtle sarcasm that could only come across in Supertramp.

"Goodbye Stranger" is a tribute to hedonism and although the tone is happy-go-lucky, the song aptly explains that freedom doesn't have to be selfish.

"Oh Darling" is the album's

One is a quasi-religious tune called "Lord is it Mine", a rather nasal appeal to Providence and another, "Casual Conversations", sung in the style of Paul McCartney, falls a little short of Supertramp's characteristic punch, originality.

However, the majority of Breakfast's cuts are filled with powerful insight. With all of this backed up by powerful melodic lines and superb instrumental work, Breakfast In America may well become Supertramp's masterwork.

Rick Davies and Rodger Hodgson, Supertramp's writers, have continued the group's tradition of creating tunes that are psychologically deep, instrumentally as well as lyrically. Breakfast's lyrics use a stream of consciousness with more depth than Genesis, and make strong social statements without the pretentiousness of a group like Styx.

One of the album's choicest cuts is "The Logical Song." Its lyrics start from childhood and progress to some very adult disillusion. As in most of Breakfast's songs, the lyrical development is closely paralleled by stunning instrumental backup, notably John Helliwell's magnetic sax and the magical keyboards of Davies and Hodgson.

most romantic number with its sensual beat and words that any lover would love to hear.

"Take the Long Way Home" is one of those bittersweet success story songs done by groups that have reached superstardom. However, it also discusses routes of escape and postponement and how you can still never escape yourself.

"Child of Vision" is the album's most powerful cut, on par with Crime of the Century's masterpiece, "Hide in Your Shell". It's a creative cry for closeness and an emotional communion that soars way above the average relationship.

There are only a couple of tracks on Breakfast that are not as intensely eminent as others.

P.S. Seriously, Songfest is a traditional thing for sororities and fraternities. It is a good time which all usually enjoy. It doesn't matter who wins, but that we all had fun doing it. When someone abuses a group for their performance at Songfest, it is uncalled for and totally unnecessary. There is competition involved but not to the extremes. When you get involved you will understand more fully the meaning off Songfest, Jim. Until then, leave those alone who do understand.

cheek, a callous dismissal of anything?

Ward wonders where Dr. Clouser got his information. He got it as a result of being concerned enough about not only the students in his department, but about the entire student body and the betterment of its lifestyle.

Once the International House had been approved, Drs. Clouser and Lucas had to find a site which was within their budget of zero. They chose 777 Main Street, Unfortunately, all this had taken place only a week before women's room drawing. By this time, anyone eligible to live in an off-campus house had already made plans to do so. With "Sevens" closed, many people would be displaced, including two who had squatters' rights.

Those students involved took their case to USGA, and to myself, because of my affiliation with the Campus Planning Group. Dr. Clouser and I met to discuss this problem of timing and squatters' rights. President Richter then called a meeting of everyone involved. Seeing that the consensus of the meeting was just "anti-timing" and not "Anti-International House" altogether, Dr. Clouser recommended postponement of any action for a year. This would allow those who had made plans for "Sevens" to keep them, and still kept the International House alive.

It was not, as Mr. Ward so vividly asserts, Dr. Clouser's account that was "completely UNTRUE," but rather his own. Ward goes on to call for an explanation, using fact, not inaccuracies. I believe I have done so. I now call for a PUBLIC apology to Dr. Clouser.

essence you did, you don't say, "Needless to say." If you don't like something, state what you didn't like rather than hiding behind words. Also, what does rehearsal and effort actually have to do with winning? Of course you have to rehearse to win, but rehearsing doesn't mean that you win. Mr. Wilson, you say that our performance lacked creativity. Sometimes the choice of music hampers creativity, but that doesn't mean that the performance wasn't creative. The theme of the show was in context with the music. It would be stupid to jump around and do "Mammee." Finally, considering reality, there is a set of rules. Well Flung Spring Fling

Ursinus' first, and hopefully annual, Spring Fling was held on the spacious fields of a nearby farm last Saturday. It was an eleven hour event with many planned and unplanned events that were all dedicated to the pursuit of pleasure.

Sponsored by Demas, Beta Sig and USGA, it was largely a well-organized party that featured plenty of day and nighttime action. The afternoon's activities included twenty-three kegs of liquid refreshment, an outdoor barbecue, which could have been started a little earlier since most of those there were severely munched-out, and various competitions.

There were four rounds of each contest, which included egg toss, three-legged races, human pyramid and pie-eating. Teams of representatives from each sorority and fraternity competed against one another.

After dark, the party moved to T.G., where the remaining kegs were finished off to the music of Northern Lights. The Slave Auction, emceed by WRUCs Rick Morris, was also held in T.G. since the games had taken so long. Several members from each sorority and fraternity were auctioned to the highest bidders to perform various services, such as cooking dinner for two.

The balmy weather and picnic-type atmosphere contributed to an afternoon and evening of enjoyment. It would be nice to see an event of this nature take place next semester.

Men's Lacrosse Falls Hard

by John O'Neill

The men's lacrosse team finished up its tough season with three consecutive losses to Academy of New Church (14-11), Millersville (8-5) and Penn State (12-8). The Penn State game, at home this past Wednesday, was the last game of the season, leaving the team with a 1-5 season record. The team's performance against Penn was typical of their play all season; when it came down to conditioning the opponents had the edge.

Penn took the face-off and scored in the first six seconds of the game to take an early lead. A few minutes later they scored again on a long drive, passing around the Ursinus defense and setting up nicely. Having now tasted blood, Ursinus rallied and set up their first goal of the day, with Dave Coffey doing the honors. Bruce Kuo added another soon after when an opponent was penalized for being off-sides. Penn was penalized again for slashing and the Ursinus offense celebrated once again when Rob Randleman scored with an assist from Kuo. Penn came back to score once more before the end of the quarter to make the score 3-3.

Bruce Kuo scored his second goal of the afternoon at the opening of the second quarter to put Ursinus ahead, but the success was short lived. Ursinus was penalized for slashing, which set up a quick score by Penn in a nicely executed offensive effort. Penn broke the tie this time with another offensive drive on the Ursinus net. Ursinus retaliated though, when Mike Chiarappa scored his first of the day, coming around from behind the Penn net. Penn scored again, taking advantage of an Ursinus slashing penalty, but the Bears came back again with another goal scored by Chiarappa. This tied the score at 6-6 at the half.

Penn dominated the second half throughout, scoring another five goals, while Bucky Smith and Mike Chiarappa accounted for Ursinus' other two. We were out-conditioned by Penn, who clearly benefitted from a large lacrosse program. They made this obvious in their second half effort.

Ursinus' defense made up for its inexperience by playing a good physical game. Defenseman Bill White led the team in bone-crushing hits, doing a fine job keeping Penn's offense off their feet. Bucky Smith, a senior midfielder, did a fine job the entire afternoon, playing a physical game and scoring a goal. Freshman midfielder Kevin Podlaski, although inexperienced, played a hard-nosed game with good break-a-ways and hard hits. Kuo and Randleman, at the attack positions, played a good physical game offensively for Ursinus. Mike Chiarappa led the team in scoring with three goals, while Tom Walter played well offensively also. Goalie Kevin Burke made numerous saves against Penn as he has throughout the season, rounding out the Ursinus defense.

Ursinus News In Brief

Espadas Receives Grant

Dr. Juan Espadas, instructor of Romance Languages, received a research grant from the American Philosophical Society, Philadelphia, for study in Spain during the summer of 1979.

He plans to spend the entire summer in that country, visiting libraries for the study of manuscripts, continuing work he undertook as part of his doctoral dissertation.

He received his doctoral degree from the University of Pennsylvania in December, 1978, and received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Illinois.

Espadas, a native of Spain, joined the Ursinus College faculty in 1972.

College Hosts Perspectives

Some 30 students accepted for admission to the Class of 1983 at Ursinus College were guests of the College for dinner on April 25. Host of the program was Dr. John Pilgrim, Chairman of the Department of Economics and Business Administration.

Students currently attending Ursinus and faculty members of the departments of Economics and Business Administration, Political Science, and Psychology discussed educational and vocational opportunities available in the social sciences. Dr. Robert Cogger, Director of Placement, discussed the positive relationship between a liberal arts education and vocational goals.

One senior who is planning to come said the dinner "was an ideal opportunity to reassure myself about my decision to attend Ursinus."

Another senior, who is wavering between Ursinus and another college, said at the end of the evening, "I think Ursinus is the place for me."

The program is one of a series of spring dinners sponsored by the College for prospective students to better acquaint themselves with the curriculum and faculty.

Zucker Premier Composition

A musical composition by an Ursinus professor will receive its choral premier at a concert 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 28 in Bomberger Hall, during Spring Parents' Day activities. The public is invited.

The work is "Fantasia on Puer Natus in Bethlehem," which had its Philadelphia premiere last December at a concert of the Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia. The composer is Dr. Donald Zucker, professor of political science, who holds a master's degree in music from Bryn Mawr College. Under the composer's direction, the piece will be performed by the 30-voice student-faculty choir, and the 16-piece Bomberger Chamber Orchestra, consisting of students, faculty, and area musicians.

William J. Gatens, music department chairman, will conduct the "Mass in G," for chorus and orchestra by Schubert, with the following soloists: Maryanne Carney, soprano; Holly Frost, soprano; Alan Gerber, tenor; and Scott Trezza, bass.

Zucker's work takes as its subject a 14th century plainsong nativity hymn, stated at the opening by the cellos and bass.

Variations on the original hymn are then reflected in five segments: prelude, response, song, march and a closing benediction.

Zucker has been at Ursinus since 1958, and holds both master's and doctoral degrees from the Pennsylvania State University. He will also conduct several orchestral selections: "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," by Mozart; "Contrapunctus I," by Bach; and "Kanon," by Pachelbel.

A Dump For All Seasons

Some things never change. And the wooded area behind the women's quad is no exception.

Early last fall, The Grizzly featured a story about the "College Woods Gone Junkyard." It was pointed out that this "ravine" was at the time not only an eyesore but a safety hazard. This situation has not changed. The hillside is still cluttered with junked vehicles, defunct refrigerators, and the remains of what appears to be dormitory furniture.

In the October 20 issue of The Grizzly, Howard Shuitze, head of maintenance, remarked that "the situation was temporary" and that "the refuse had been placed there only recently for the purpose of being moved in the very near future."

If this year's progress can be used as an indication of this area's fate, it is a wonder as to how many more seasons will pass before clean-up action is taken.

Linksmen Victorious

Four more victories last weekend enabled the golf team to hike its record to 13-1. On the two balmy days, the linksmen carded five-man totals of 394 and 395.

Kevin Davies and Dave Clare led the way to a 17-stroke win over defending MAC Champion Western Maryland. Both finished up with 75's, while Paul Zieders and Bill McDonald each were six shots back. Rand Middleton carded an 83.

A day earlier, Middleton's 74 on the Limerick course paced wins over Fairleigh Dickinson, Delaware Valley and Philadelphia Textile. Clare and Dave Trumbower both followed with 79's.

Davies and Zieders rounded out the scoring with 81's.

The team is looking forward to the MAC championships at Hidden Springs Country Club on April 30 to try to avenge their only loss of the season against Lebanon Valley.

Late News: The Ursinus golf team beat their own school record of 385 by seven strokes Wednesday afternoon. Dave Clare led the way with a one-over-par 72. Trumbower (75), Davies (76), McDonald (77) and Middleton (78) capped off the record-breaking performance. F&M was far behind, shooting 437 at the Limerick course.

provided two-set victories, while Bozzelli and West nabbed wins at first and second singles, respectively.

Washington became the team's first victim, falling to the Bears by a 9-09 score a day earlier. Shanker, Messner, Milich, Good, and West came away with rather easy victories while Bozzelli had to rally back for a three-set win. The triumph was badly needed for the Bears who had played so well in their first seven contests, but had nothing to show for it. With renewed confidence the squad enters its last few matches and the MAC team and individual competitions knowing that they can do well.

It took eight matches, but the Ursinus men's tennis team finally broke loose and recorded their first triumph. Following an 8-1 setback at Johns Hopkins on April 19, the Bears proceeded to whitewash Washington, Eastern and Moravian, giving them three wins in four matches played in five days. The consecutive triumphs pumped new life into the team's belief that they can finish the season with at least a .500 winning percentage.

On April 23, Ursinus journeyed to Moravian where they smashed the hosts by an 8-1 count. Sophomore Craig Bozzelli and junior Ken West notched wins at first and second singles, respectively, to pace the netmen. The three doubles teams of Bozzelli and West, juniors Bennett Shanker and Pete Messner and sophs Chris Good and Allan Johnson all logged impressive wins to make the final 8-1.

Against Eastern on April 21, the Bears swept all nine matches. Good led the way for Ursinus with a 6-0, 6-0 triumph at fourth singles. Junior Geoff Dalwin, Johnson, and frosh Don Milich

Marathon Men

by Wesley Emmons

Senior Keith Kemper, averaging just under six minutes per mile, placed 16 in last Sunday's Penn Relays marathon. He was joined in the event by another senior, Tom Isban, and a frosh, Jon Perrotto. Kemper's time was 2:36:44, while Isban crossed the line in 3:15:39. Perrotto did not finish.

Both Kemper and Isban are experienced marathoners, and some may remember that both finished the same race last year. Kemper's time is a considerable improvement over last year's, but Isban's remained essentially the same. Kemper was very excited about his race, and could be seen walking with a noticeable limp Monday through Wednesday. He says he can't wait until next year, when he hopes to again improve on his time. He adds that the race was good publicity for the school's running program. Isban was slightly disappointed with his time, but was nonetheless very happy to finish.

Perrotto reported starting out too quick, coming through 8.5 miles at a 5:24 per mile clip. Sunday's heat took its toll miles later, whereupon he became delirious and dropped out after 17 miles. He also looks forward to more races in the future, and will probably run another marathon.

Lacrosse Continues Winning Streak

The women's varsity lacrosse team has tallied their record to 12-1. Ursinus had a carnival of shots, as each attacking player scored at least once, annihilating University of Delaware (11-3) and Franklin & Marshall College (20-1). Ursinus also ripped East Stroudsburg State College (16-3), with Sue Morley scoring a phenomenal eight points.

In other action, although gaining victories, Ursinus had to fight an uphill battle. In one such instance against West Chester State College, Ursinus found themselves down 5-1 with little time remaining in the first half. However, within the span of 30 seconds, Laurie Holmes and Debbie Tweed fired in a goal a piece which sparked the team's spirit for the remainder of the game. The varsity women tallied four more goals winning the game, 7-5. At Temple Stadium between the raindrops, Ursinus women were victorious over Temple University, 7-5. Sue Morley led the scoring with four goals. Sue Kelley, Dawn Anthony, and Gina Buggy added a goal apiece. Under the lights of Franklin Field, Ursinus' dynamic defense, consisting of Beth Burr, Debbie Tweed, Janet Miller, Sue Hawes, Sue Darwin and Jan "Wink" Zanger, were in top form allowing their opponents to score only two goals. Ursinus' attack came through to help defeat University of Penn, 5-2. Last Saturday, the Varsity captured another victory over an aggressive Lafayette team. Sue Morley and Laurie Holmes each had a pair of goals and Gina "Butch" Buggy added one to end the game at 5-3.

The Women's Junior Varsity Squad is also having a respectable season with 10 wins and two losses.

Women's Tennis Up and Down

The undefeated doubles team of Betsy and Patsy Cox have led the girls' tennis team to a 5-4 record thus far. Third singles Laura Ludwick has been a stalwart at 7-1.

In recent action, Kutztown edged Ursinus 4-3, with Ludwick, the Cox sisters and second doubles Jan Galen and Sue Santanasto accounted for the three wins. First singles Lisa Wilson was the only one to see victory in a 6-1 loss at Franklin & Marshall.

On home courts, the girls downed Cedar Crest, but then lost a squeaker to Villanova, 3-2, Ludwick and Donna Arenth at singles and the doubles teams of Betsy Cox and Alcsa Jespersen, Jan Galen and Sue Santanasto, Eileen James and Barb Scott, and Joyce Pandelidis and Sharon Balsam volleyed to beat Bryn Mawr, 6-4. Albright College faced a long afternoon, losing 7-0.

Bears Fall to Widener

by Joe Lazar

The Ursinus baseball team played the Widener Pioneers in a doubleheader last Saturday that could have decided who would win the MAC championship. Ursinus came into the game in first place, 4-0 in conference play, while Widener, in second place, was 3-1 conference action. Last year the situation was reversed. Widener was in the driver's seat and the Bears had to sweep a doubleheader in order to finish in first. But Ursinus lost a heart-breaker in the first game and was blown out in the second. On Saturday, the results were the same as last year as Ursinus lost the opener, 4-3 and dropped the nightcap, 13-6.

Both teams pitted their aces against each other. In the first game, the Bears' Ray Dougherty faced Don Hagenauer of Widener. Tim Todd faced Widener's Tom Miller in the second.

In the opener, Widener scored a run in the top of the first. The Bears' DH, Tom Ousey, then tied the game with a homerun over the left field fence. In the top of the fifth, Widener's Oswald put the Pioneers in front 4-1 with a three-run homer to left. Ursinus came back with two in the bottom of the sixth. Shortstop Craig Walck opened the inning with a walk and moved to second on a wild pitch. Then Ousey hit his second home run of the game to close the score to 4-3. In the bottom of the seventh, center-fielder Bill Sutherland opened the inning with a walk. One out later, third baseman Jim Dreves singled and Walck loaded the bases with an infield hit. But Tom Miller of Widener came in relief to retire Ousey and John Blubaugh to end the game.

In the second game, two walks, an error and catcher Jim Gasho's double gave Ursinus a 3-0 lead after the first inning. But Widener countered with four runs of their own in the top of the second. Two walks, two singles, and a double, with two errors sandwiched in-between did the damage. In the top of the fourth, Widener broke the game open with five runs and sent Todd to the showers. A walk, two singles, a double, and a triple, made the score 9-3 in favor of Widener. Walck came in to relieve Todd, and in the top of the fifth, Widener scored three more runs to lead 12-3.

Ursinus got one run back in the bottom of the fifth when Walck doubled and Jeff Grassie singled him home. In the bottom of the seventh, outfielder Tim McKee singled, pinch hitter George "Danny" Marateo doubled and Walck singled to score two runs. When the dust settled, though, Ursinus lost the second game, 13-6.

The losses leave Ursinus with a record of 9-5 overall and 4-2 in the conference. The Bears have four league games left, including a doubleheader at home tomorrow against Haverford College, "led" by former Ursinus coach Carson Thompson, and a doubleheader on Monday at Johns Hopkins. In order to win the division title, Widener has to lose at least one of its four remaining league games, while Ursinus has to sweep Hopkins and Haverford.

Bear Briefs: Batting averages through 14 games: Walck .577; Gasho .411; D'Ascenzo .333; Sutherland .323; Ousey .302. Pitching records: Dougherty 5-2, 2.54; Todd 3-2, 5.03.

Cindermen Rip Up

by Wesley Emmons

Looking at the shorter races, Dan Stella had a fine day, winning both the 120 HH (15.71) and the 440 IH (57.9). Leroy Kent won the 440, and then anchored the mile relay team of Jim Donaghy, Rory Wade, Bill Hutchinson and Kent to another first. Kent also ran in the winning 440 relay, which also featured Craig Davis, John Sweeney and Steve Payton.

Sweeney Sets Record

Adding history to victory, John Sweeney pole-vaulted 13'4" to set both a new school and meet record, surpassing Dave Dahrouge's old record by one inch. Sweeney had previously nabbed points by taking second in the 100-yd. dash with a 10.2. Other field events included Steve Schaffer winning the triple jump, propelling himself over 41 feet. Tom Broderick high jumped a respectable 6'4" to complete another chapter in the Bear's success story.

Looking ahead to MAC's, which are going to be here on May 4 and 5, it seems that the Bears are certainly going to do better than they did last year, which is one of coach Gurzinski's "cinder tinder" goals. Just recently, another goal was successfully met as the Bears downed track powerhouse Widener (last year's MAC champs) by one point. This especially exciting meet came down to the last event, the javelin, in which Mike Arcieri threw his all-time best to beat Widener's man by just one inch.

The undefeated track team downed Johns Hopkins and Dickinson to up its record to 9-0.

In the mile, Dave Garner once again proved to be the dominant force as he came through with a victorious 4:22. Garner followed this with a third in the 880, as Rory Wade ran a 1:59 to place second. Pat Walker won the three mile with a 15:06, and Garner was second in this race.

LATE NEWS: The track team remained undefeated Wednesday in a classic meet, narrowly defeating Haverford and tying track powerhouse Delaware Valley.

Special awards to Leroy Kent, Pat Walker, Dave Garner and Jim Mulroy for clutch performances and exciting races. Current record now stands at 10-0-1.
