14th 'Messiah' Will be Given December 7th

Chorus, soloists, and orchestra will combine under the baton of Dr. William F. Phillip on Thursday night, Dec. 7, in the 14th annual production of Handel's Messiah.

Soloists for this year's presentation are Martha Wilson, soprano; Laura Grauer, contralto; Arthur Bailey, tenor; and William Maun, bass.

Miss Wilson, who sang here last year, is soprano soloist at St. Ann's Episcopal church, Brooklyn Heights, N.Y. She has appeared in opera, concert, and oratorio in New York City and Eastern States, and in summer stock in Maine.

Well-known in the Midwest in oratorio and concert, Miss Grauer has appeared with the Central City Opera and the Denver Grand Opera company. She has also appeared as soloist with the Denver Symphony.

Bailey Studied in Canada

Mr. Bailey came to the United States from Canada, where he had studied at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. He, too, appeared in last year's production of the Messiah. He has appeared as soloist with the St. Thomas Church choir, New York, the Schola Cantorum, and the New York Oratorio society.

Soloist at the Riverside church in New York, William Maun is also appearing in the Messiah at Mercer university, Macon, Ga., and at Annapolis as well as at Ursinus. He has sung with the Handel and Haydn society of Boston and has appeared in Handel's Samson in Baltimore, St. Matthew's Passion in Philadelphia, Brahms' Requiem in Washington, and Don Pasquale in Baltimore.

The chorus will include 137 Ursinus students plus approximately 15 alumni. This is the largest group of graduates to return for the presentation up to this time.

The Ursinus orchestra will be supplemented by 14 musicians from the Philadelphia orchestra.

Tickets will go on sale Thursday. (Continued on page 6)

MSGA to Seek Vote on Dorm Amendment

At a meeting last Monday night in the Library, the Men's Student council approved the proposed dorm government amendment and moved to present it to the students for discussion and vote.

A government association meeting has been called for tonight in Bomberger hall for discussion, and the vote will be taken on Wednesday, Nov. 29. The approval of 75 percent of those voting at an association meeting is necessary for ratification of an amendment to the MSGA constitution.

Dean of Men G. Sieber Pancoast stressed the need for some sort of dorm rule. And the students' choice, he added, lies between establishing some sort of effective rule among themselves or having school personnel supervise the dorms.

Would Create Dorm Councils

The student council proposal would allow each dorm to establish its own type of intradorm government, for which charters would be formulated in the individual dorms.

Each dorm would in addition be represented on the interdorm judiciary board, an intermediate between the dorm units and the student council.

The text of the proposed amendment follows:

Article I—Intra-dorm Organization

Sec. 1. Purpose: The organization of intra-dorm bodies to perform intra-dorm functions.

Sec. 2. Representation: The organization of each intra-dorm body shall be at the discretion of the residents of each dorm provided that each floor of each dorm shall have at least one representative in its intra-dorm body.

Sec. 3. Cl. 1. Intra-Dorm Charter: It is required that within two weeks of the effective date of this amendment each dorm shall submit to the Student Council for approval a Charter setting forth the organizational plan of the intra-dorm body. Cl. 2: These charters shall be ratified, revised, or modified within three weeks after the beginning of each semester and notice of student action in this respect shall be formally given to the Student council within the aforesaid period of time.

Sec. 4. Intra-Dorm Regulations: Each dorm may make and enforce its own rules through the intra-dorm body so long as the rules (Continued on page 6)

EDITORIAL

The Spirit of Thanksgiving

A few years ago I took a group of high school youngsters about eighty miles to the city. They had the full of their lives, and when we finally got home that night were still full of enthusiasm about the trip. As they got out of the car I was surprised to note that not one bothered to say "Thank you." So I opened the car window and called out, "It was nice of you to ride along." But my attempt at sarcasm was lost, for the jaunty reply came back from one of them, "Oh, that's all right." It did not matter a great deal to me that they failed to express thanks, but I was concerned about them.

Ingratitude is unlovely in itself, but it saddens me especially because it is a fault that inevitably has companionship with envy, pride and greediness. Examine that statement and see how true it is. Envy causes us to think more of what others have than our own blessings. Pride turns our eyes inward upon ourselves rather than upon our benefits. Greediness sets us to yearning for more and more instead of enjoying what we have. Show me an ungrateful person and I will show you evidence of these three unlovely faults.

But show me a person who knows how to count his blessings with gratitude, and who turns to God with a sincere "thank you" and there you will see a measure of quiet happiness which is the result of a tranquil heart. Shakespeare understood these matters well. "Blow, blow, thou winter wind, thou art not so unkind as man's ingratitude.—Freeze, freeze, thou bitter sky, thou dost not bite so nigh, as benefits forgot." The Bard also knew the loveliness of a grateful spirit. "God's goodness hath been great to thee.—Let never day nor night unhallowed pass but still remember what the Lord hath done."

Dorm Government — Its Meaning

A constitutional amendment which if ratified would greatly affect every male resident student has been proposed by the Men's Student Government association.

The importance of the dorm government proposal was illustrated at last Monday night's Men's Student council meeting when Dean of Men G. Sieber Pancoast said that the choice confronting men resident students is between establishing some sort of effective rule among themselves or having school authorities supervise the dorms.

Herein lies one of the foremost advantages of the projected program (the text of the amendment appears in a story on page one). Its establishment would enable the students to maintain a greater degree of self-government than they now possess. Dorms in which the students are active and interested enough could settle any or all of their own problems without any recourse either to their student government or to the disciplinary action of college personnel. In this way order in the dorms could be maintained at the proper level—within the dorms themselves—and the student council would be freed for the execution of other duties.

The individual dorms, and consequently the individual students, would derive another advantage from the ratification of this amendment. The machinery created in each dorm for the operation of the intradorm council would afford a cohesive force for dorm unity which has been totally absent up to this time. The dorms could use this unity for the achievement of other projects and a greater spirit and a greater amount of activity would be the end result.

The proposed amendment is of paramount concern to every male resident student at Ursinus. If you are a member of this group, you owe your student government and your college one important consideration. Regardless of your decision as to the merits or shortcomings of the proposal, you should familiarize yourself with the projected plan and then exercise your right to vote in the election on Nov. 29.

The essence of good government, whether it be in national affairs, community politics, or college activities, is whole-hearted participation on the part of the many. Let's show a sincere interest in our government here at Ursinus through a large turnout at the polls.

Counsel for the Councils

Apparently few students are yet aware of the role their student governments are playing in relation to the improvement of food.

Representatives of the councils have been meeting at intervals during the past weeks with the steward, the headwaiters, and a Weekly representative, at which times they have been presenting for consideration complaints, compliments and suggestions which have been received from students.

Much of constructive value has been accomplished at these meetings. The reinstitution of the practice of serving coffee in the kitchen from 8:45 to 10 a.m. every day was a direct result of the first meeting, held approximately three weeks ago. Many other changes have also been effected, examples of which are the discontinuance of chipped beef and the provision of more seconds on milk.

The student councils have expressed a sincere concern over the situation and a determination to do something for the students; and the kitchen has amply demonstrated that it is willing and anxious to make such changes which are requested by the student body as can be effected within the definitely limited budget under which it operates. But one consideration of utmost importance if such a plan as these meetings is to produce any real results has always been conspicuous by its absence. That consideration is an indication of the opinion of the majority of Ursinus students on the matters brought up for discussion.

In the first place, all of us must ever remain conscious of the fact that we pay comparatively little for board, and that consequently we can expect only a certain degree of achievement, regardless of how skillfully or intelligently we make the most of what we have.

But the fact remains that we can make the most of what we have and that in this respect the student governments' meetings with the kitchen staff can reap great benefits for the student body—if the councils devise a means of bringing to such meetings considerations which represent student majorities. As it now stands, the matters presented represent individual or, at best, majority preferences which cloud the discussions and obscure the attainment of any overall improvement. No institutional cooking anywhere can cater to individual preferences.

The MSGA and the WSGA derive their value on campus from the extent to which they represent their constituents, the members of the student body; and it seems to us that to create any constructive improvement in the food situation through the medium of these meetings with the kitchen staff, these groups must bring to such meetings the opinions and suggestions of majorities of their constituents.

Other Person's Job . . .

Frosberg Has Three-Fold Job

by Nels Fellman '52

Harry M. Frosberg takes the limelight in this week's version of "The Other Person's Job." However, this "other person" has three jobs. Mr. Frosberg is the Public Relations director of Ursinus, Alumni secretary, and Director of Business placement for students.

A graduate of Temple University in 1939, Mr. Frosberg majored in journalism. Before taking his position at Ursinus in July, 1949, he did both newspaper and magazine work as well as instructing in photography.

The job of Public Relations director, which was created at Ursinus only last year, includes a great deal of work. The director supervises all contacts outside of the college. Preparation of news stories about Ursinus and its students—especially in the sports field—for hometown newspapers and radio stations takes a great deal of Mr. Frosberg's time. Maintenance of friendly relations with the community of Collegeville is also an important part of his responsibility.

As Alumni secretary, Mr. Frosberg is coordinator of the work and the program of the Alumni association. Much of the work that is required to publish the Alumni magazine falls on Mr. Frosberg. Also, a complete record of all Ursinus graduates and where they live and what they are doing is kept in his office.

Mr. Frosberg's third job is the one that is most important as far as many of the students are concerned. The Director of Business Placement makes contacts for those students who wish to enter the business world. He does not claim to place the students directly, but helps them decide into what particular field they wish to enter and then sends them to meet the right people. From then on it is up to the students to sell themselves.

"Sure," said the manager.

After the two had their sodas, the manager asked:

"What is that bet of yours?"

"Well, Jim, here, bets that when the Woolworth Building falls it will fall toward the North River, and I'm betting that it falls the other way."

Herbsleb Discusses International Law Before Local IRC

Mr. James Herbsleb, instructor in economics, spoke to the International Relations club on the topic "The New Role of the Individual in International Law" last Tuesday night in the Faculty room of the library.

Mr. Herbsleb said that there has been a new development in international legal theory. This theory holds that the individual and no longer the state or nation is to be the object of law.

This responsibility of the individual in international law has emerged from treaties, The Four Freedoms, Declaration of the United Nations, and the United Nations' Charter. The principle was put into application in the Nuremberg and Tokyo war crimes trials and perhaps has been the first step toward world government.

Mr. Herbsleb pointed out that the Genocide treaty gives the individual and minority a right to appeal to the International Court of Justice if they are maltreated. This right reaches even above the authority of the state in which the complainants live.

We are working toward adoption of an International Bill of Rights with power to enforce the freedom and rights of all, concluded Mr. Herbsleb. This would lead to a world federal state.

Undergrads Invited To Join Competition In Contract Bridge

This college is one of the more than 300 invited to compete in the 1951 National Intercollegiate Bridge tournament. Invitations and entry blanks were received this week by college officials from Kenney L. Ford of Kansas State College, Chairman of the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament committee.

Only undergraduates are eligible to play in the duplicate Contract Bridge event for the title and trophy. A preliminary round will be played by mail in February, and the sixteen highest ranking pairs will meet for the face-to-face finals in the Blackstone hotel in Chicago on April 20 and 21, with their expenses paid by the Tournament committee.

The National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament committee, which supports the event so that there is no cost to the competing colleges or the players, is a group of college alumni and officials interested in developing Contract Bridge as an intercollegiate sport in which men and women can compete on an equal basis.

The committee requires that the approval of the dean or a corresponding authority be granted before a college can be regarded as officially entered in the tournament.

Belles Edged 2-1 By Owlette Squad

by Jan Vart '53

Although losing by a close count of 2-1 to Temple University last Tuesday, the Ursinus hockey team exhibited one of its finest performances of team play. The long driving power of Ursinus' defensive players combined with the improved flicking and passing techniques of the forward line enabled Snell's Belles to outplay their opponents.

During the first half the only scoring was done by Temple's center-forward Harper, who accounted for two tallies. Ursinus continually pierced the opponent's striking circle only to be pushed back by an alert Temple defense. Mid-way in the second half, Ursinus showed that it had command of the play. Audrey Rittenhouse ran through the Temple defense and scored Ursinus's lone tally. From then on most of the action was in Temple territory, as Ursinus repeatedly drove toward their opponent's goal but did not take advantage of several scoring chances. Temple, who had fewer scoring opportunities, advantageously used them.

Leety Saved Several

In the closing minutes of play, Temple resumed new power and threatened to score several times, but goalie Jean Leety took some daring chances and kicked the ball out of scoring territory. By the aggressive play of the backfield players, Woodruff, Hunter, Keyser, Vadner, and Hooper, Ursinus was racing toward Temple's goal when the game ended.

Chestnut Hill Falls To Snell's Belles 5-0

Adele Boyd scored three times, Marge Merrifield once, and Audrey Rittenhouse once as the varsity hockey team completely smashed the College of Chestnut Hill by a 5-0 count Wednesday.

Adele's first goal completed the scoring in a rather sloppy first half played almost entirely in the losers' territory. With the play a little more evenly distributed during the second period, Audrey Rittenhouse drove for a tally, followed by Adele's accurate shots and Marge Merrifield's marker.

Belles Threaten

Few fouls marred the clean play interrupted only by many spills on the wet, slippery turf. Near scores threatened the visitors many times but Ursinus failed to take made-to-order opportunities to raise the count. This game was the Belles' third win against two losses in regular season play.

GRIDIRON GREATS

by Gene Pascucci '52

WILL LOOMIS

The big surprise of the backfield proteges this year was this speedy halfback from Marple-Newton high. Will attended Gettysburg in his freshman year and transferred to the Bear campus in his sophomore term. Although he was ineligible as a result of transferring he continued to practice with the team all last year, showing an undaunted interest despite the fact that he was unable to play on Saturdays.

This year has proved to be highly successful for Will despite the constant hampering of a knee injury. Will is the fastest starting halfback offensively and a demon as a defensive halfback, sporting several pass interceptions on his record.

Aside from his football feats Will is a track man of no little importance, which was evident when he won three events in last year's inter-fraternity track meet. He is a physical education major and a member of ZX fraternity.

HOWARD ROBERTS

It was Southern California Military Academy's loss and a Bruin gain when the clowning Long Beach flash planted his winged feet on the Bear campus.

Although Roberts is quite impressive as an actor, he can and does settle down to some hard football. His backer-up playing of these last few weeks is one of the brighter aspects of the team's record.

"Howie" has been used primarily as a defensive man and has done justice to a position that usually requires a man with about twenty-five more pounds than the wiry Roberts 147-pound frame. He consistently crushed larger ball carriers to the turf with devastating tackles.

The versatile Roberts is a member of the wrestling team and has been an integral part of several Curtain Club productions.

ED MEWING

A newcomer to the Bruin lineup and a very welcome one is rangy Ed Mewing, a transfer student from Clarkson College, New York.

Ed is an offensive end and a defensive backer-up. In his capacity as a defensive man, he has solved a different problem which had previously been a weak spot in the Bruin defensive setup.

The Scarsdale High school product has adapted himself to an unusually difficult position in an amazingly short span of time with the adeptness of a veteran. Ed's most valuable attribute is his ability to break up end runs, thus taking a great deal of pressure off the halfbacks.

Ed will be vieing for a position on the basketball team now that football season has ended. He is a physical education major and a member of ZX fraternity.

It was on a note of nostalgia that we sat in the stands at Selinsgrove on Saturday and watched the Bears take the field for their final game of the 1950 season against the Crusaders of Susquehanna. Not only were eleven seniors bringing to a close fine careers on the gridiron, but to ourselves it meant the end of four years of following Ursinus football.

For four long years we had lived and died with the Grizzlies through victory and defeat—mostly defeat. In that time we had seen some mighty fine football and some even better athletes. We didn't win many games, we had no All-American players and we didn't receive any bowl bids, but we played the game and we played it hard.

But Saturday's game meant more, for it brought down the curtain on one of the most colorful careers in Ursinus' history. Next year it will seem strange when the name of Don Young is not included on the Collegeville roster. It was four years ago that we had watched an unknown freshman step into the Bruin backfield in the opening game of the 1947 season to lead his mates to a 6-0 conquest of Drexel. From then on the name of Don Young was synonymous with Ursinus football. For three seasons the slippery 150-pounder ran and passed his way into the hearts of the fans. Everywhere we went our opponents' one thought was to stop Young, a feat that was seldom, if ever, accomplished.

Young Was Injured

This season was to have been his greatest, until he suffered a painful injury to his shoulder. On the strong right arm of one of the best passers in the East had ridden our hopes for a good season. It didn't take long for Young to get back in the lineup, and he continued to spark the Bears with his fine defensive play and his well-known elusiveness as a ball-carrier. But there was no more passing for the blond scatback, and the Bears' attack was crippled.

At Selinsgrove Young played brilliantly. After the Crusaders had tallied on a blocked kick, the Bruins began to roll, and it was Young, along with Bill Fischer and Gene Glick, who ripped off the yardage. As we neared pay dirt Young was injured and forced to leave the game. In his place stepped freshman Dick Glock, whose wide end sweeps paved the way for the score. It was appropriate that a freshman should pick up the slack where Young had left off, just as Don himself had done four years ago.

Others Played Finale

As the game drew to a close Young and some of his teammates left the field for the last time. We knew that we wouldn't soon forget Bill Helfferich and his long, spiraling kicks, hard-running Don Stauffer, playing most of the season on a weak knee, the passing and quarterbacking of Gene Glick, the rugged line play of Steve Muench, Frank Lafferty, John Law, Herb Fry and Joe Walker, the running of Chick Scirica, and the fine defensive play of Bob Davis. But most of all we won't forget Young, a quiet, friendly guy off the gridiron but a whirling dynamo on it. He is truly one of the finest athletes ever to don pads at Ursinus.

Diplomats Win 2-0 Over Bear Booters

The Bruins closed an unsuccessful season last Friday on Franklin and Marshall's windswept Race Avenue Field, as they lost to the Middle Atlantic Conference's southwestern division champions 2-0.

The Bears made a valiant effort to finish with a victory or at least a tie. Goalie Chris Christensen and fullbacks Jay Ely and Harry Light played magnificently with their backs to the wall most of the time, but the Ursinus offensive meanwhile couldn't find the combination to the other goal.

The two teams banged the ball around on an equal footing through the first quarter and half of the second. Then there was a scrimmage in front of the Ursinus goal, and before anybody knew what was happening the ball was inside the goal and the point was credited to center-forward Karl Klinges, who played a fine game despite the fact that he was hounded constantly by Curt Frambes and Light.

Dips Score Again

In the third period Klinges scored again. The Diplomats kept the ball in Bear territory a good bit of the time, but the defense, aided by Frambes who played a bang-up game, kept them baffled. Christensen made some fine saves, even stopping a free kick by Klinges from fifteen yards out. But again the offense couldn't help the cause.

It was the Diplomat's eighth victory with one loss and two ties, and Ursinus' seventh loss.

Dragons 5-1 Victors Over Soccer Squad

The Drexel Dragons, led by their center forward Bob Linde, defeated the Bears 5-1 Tuesday afternoon on Price Field. It was the fifth win for the Dragons, who previously tied two and lost to Gettysburg.

Bob Linde started his team off with two goals in the first period. Bob Jones promptly followed with another tally. In the second period the Bears' Ken Mammel booted one through to prevent the shut-out. However, Ed Stier, on a free kick, bounced the ball off Harry Light into the Ursinus cage.

The teams were evenly matched in the third period with neither side scoring. In the final period Bob Linde made his third goal of the afternoon to complete the scoring of the game.

Grizzlies Tie Susquehanna In Grid Season Finale, 6-6

by Roy Foster '51

Neither team really proved its superiority Saturday on University Field in Selingsgrove, Pa., as Susquehanna scored first and Ursinus knotted it at 6-6. The game was the last on the schedule for both schools, the Crusaders finishing with a 4-2-1 record, and the Grizzlies a 2-5-1. It was the first undecided scrap in a series in which Ursinus has won five and Susquehanna one.

The Crusaders put six points up on the scoreboard in the second period but their backfield had nothing to do with it. The line blocked Bill Helfferich's punt in the end zone and end Jesse Stone fell on the loose ball. A couple of times they threatened but the Bears held them off. Ursinus, on the other hand, couldn't get a sustained attack rolling but once, and had to be satisfied with Dick Glock's four-yard scamper in the final session.

Susquehanna Scores

After an exchange of punts and a fumble at midfield, which the Crusaders came up with, they started to move. Gene Fenstermacker ran a few times and threw one to Steve Torok, and just like that Susquehanna was on the six. But there they ran into trouble and lost possession when four plays flopped.

Ursinus came out to the 16 and dropped the ball again. Crusader Dick Young then tossed three short passes, two to Ken Lenker and one to Don Young, who dashed out to the 14. Then he and Bill Fischer strung together four firsts and pushed the ball out and over to the Crusader 40, but a guard, John Rhodes, caught a deflected pass and stopped the advance. Susquehanna punted twice and the Bears once and the ball ended up on the Ursinus five. They moved out to the ten but were forced to punt. Gail Moulton got in the way and the pigskin to a big hop into the arms of Mr. Stone. Torok's try for another point was bad.

The two teams took turns punting in the third quarter and accomplished little else. Early in the last quarter Young, the Crusader, kicked to the Bear 45. After a penalty, Gene Glick flipped to Fischer, who ramed across midfield and down to the 32. Three plays later Glock needed four yards for a first and took seven on a great little run that probably saved the day for Ursinus. Glick handed off to Fischer twice and passed to him once, but the Bears needed a yard for a first. Fischer got the yard, and then Glock took the leather on a pitch-out from Glick and scurried around right end to tie the score. Lenker broke through to spoil Johnny Ehnott's conversion.

Passing Duel

The game broke wide open then with both teams trying desperately to score on long passes. The Crusaders started on their own 31. Dick Young threw to Bill Prichard for 34 yards. They tried the same play again and interference was called on Don Young, putting the ball on the 11. That's as far as Susquehanna got. The Bears had to punt. After four consecutive incomplete Crusader passes the Bruins took possession again.

Glick tossed to Fischer who went deep into Crusader territory, but someone was caught using the hands illegally and Ursinus was thereby knocked back to the 19. Two forwards, Glick to Young, were good for 52 yards. After a running play Glick had time for one more heave, but this one was caught by Lenker as the game ended.
