Students Contribute Record $175 to Drive

The campus Red Cross drive was completed last week, a full two weeks ahead of the deadline, with unparalleled success. The total amount raised was $175.83, a record for Ursinus students, despite the substantially lowered enrollment.

Faculty and employees were not canvassed, since they are reached by the residential solicitors.

The Collegeville District chairman, Dr. Allan Rice, has expressed his pride in this Ursinus achievement, and gratitude to Dean Stahr and Mr. Lloyd Jones for their efficient management of the girls' and boys' teams in this campus effort.

"To every student who served as a solicitor and to everyone who contributed are due sincere thanks on behalf of the Red Cross and also on behalf of those in distress everywhere who will benefit directly from this generosity," said Dr. Rice.

The women contributed $113.76 and the men $62.07.

'Artist's Life' by Ruth Feidler Wins Pageant Contest

The five colors of the rainbow will lend their brilliance to the winning May day pageant, Artist's Life, written by Ruth Feidler '52, it was explained at a meeting of women students last Wednesday.

How to glorify the May Queen is the problem facing the artist in this pageant. In his dilemma he has a flash of inspiration; he will use color—blue, red, green, yellow and purple. Each color displays its talents in dance and pantomime to appropriate music such as "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Deep Purple." Black tries a sneak attack and is driven away, but gilt and twinkle (gold and silver) trickle in to add their sparkle to the pageant.

Written by Bio Major

The author of the 1951 pageant, Ruth Feidler, is a biology major from Northampton, Pa. Ruth is a member of Meistersingers, the chapel choir, Pre-Med society, and is secretary of Phi Alpha Psi sorority.

Chairmen of the various production committees for May day explained the functions of their committees, and students signed up for the committees at the meeting and later in their dorms. Tryouts for roles in the May pageant will be held soon after vacation.

Paynter to Manage Pageant

To weld the many parts of May Day into one coordinated program require the services of numerous committees and their chairmen. Chairman of the day is Mary Mc-

3 Seniors Named Into Honorary Dramatic Group

Three seniors were initiated last night into Delta Tau cast, the Ursinus chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, the national dramatic honor fraternity. The new members are Marjorie Taylor, Roy Foster and Aubre Givler.

Marjorie has been active in committee work for many of the Curtain club productions. She was completely in charge of the elaborate costuming for the recent Speak Easy and she staged the Old Lady Shows Her Medals. As an actress, she will be remembered for her role in Pygmalion.

Foster Star of 'Speak Easy'

Roy did much committee work as well as helping to stage The Condemned. He appeared in last spring's Junior Miss and Dusty Halo, but is best known for his starring role in Speak Easy.

Aubre has long been a faithful member of operetta casts, has assisted in committee work and accompanied Dusty Halo. He appeared in Antic Spring in the fall of 1949 and is the composer of the music for Speak Easy.

The cast is planning a theater party on April 6, for old and new members.

Plays Feature Intense Drama

The knowledge that murder is imminent and the effect of psychology on a marriage are the themes of the two one-act plays to be presented as a double bill by the Curtain club April 3, at 7:15 in the Thompson-Gay gymnasium.

First on the bill will be Fright, a mystery directed by William Degerberg and featuring James Scott, George Michaels, Nelson Weller, Jeanne Stewart and Janice Pastorius.

Production head is Susanne Deitz; the following committee heads are working with her: staging and lighting, James DeLuca and Isobel Helfferich; properties, Mary Jane Allen; program, Mabel Faust; and publicity, Irene Schweitzer.

The second play will be a psychological comedy, Suppressed Desires. Jonni Graf is the director of a cast made up of Rhoda Blumenthal, Barbara Powell and Ed Abramson.

EDITORIAL

The End — Purposive Education

Acquiring a college education is a business of considerable importance and, like any good business, it should be subject to periodic inventories. Not the least best time to conduct such catharsis is the end of one's editorship.

As a means to an end rather than an end in itself, a college education is training for the future. It is preparation for coping with the problems of decisions which will face us later. To fulfill such a function it must be dominated by a purpose and constitute for us something greater than the sum of its parts.

The data we acquire and the particular tasks we perform in the course of our daily college routines will soon be lost to our memories. Resident only will be the attitudes and techniques.

This sheds importance of considerable magnitude on our attitudes and actions here at Ursinus, for they act as a barometer with which to predict attitudes and actions to come.

One of the foremost attributes we should possess before we leave college is a high respect for opinions different from our own. Certainly we humans shall ever bring divergent views to many situations. Therefore it is not the fact that we differ that is important, but what we do in consequence of these differences.

Young people in general and college students in particular are highly critical. A college education which purposes to prepare people in a Christian manner for their station in life should give high priority to instilling in us the importance of respecting the next fellow's views.

Such respect is a mark of maturity and the key to progress. Intolerance availeth naught and often reapeth needless malcontent.

A purposive college education might well also stress respect and courtesy for the other person's rights and privileges. Undoubtedly table manners at Ursinus have degenerated in recent years, and yet we constantly ask the waiters and waitresses, for example, for more service. Is it proper to demand more of others if we ourselves fail to return, or even advance, an equal amount? Yet in this and similar fashion we constantly rationalize our actions to the extent that we criticize the other person instead of ourselves.

All of these considerations should, of course, be effected almost automatically by the "benign influence." Obviously, and unfortunately, this influence is too often conspicuous by its absence. Nothing attests to this more vividly than the fact that any reference to religion or profession thereof is widely ridiculed and jeered. Christianity to a church-related college should mean more than a mere label. It should indeed make its influence felt in all quarters of the campus — especially during the Lenten season, during the approach to the church year's greatest day, Easter.

But not all is discouraging. Indeed, in none of the last four years have we seen as much spirit and activity as was displayed here since last September.

This was especially discernible at athletic contests, where better-than-average teams were spurred on to victory by the support of the student body, support for which no small amount of credit is due the spirit committee and the students themselves.

One of the outstanding projects of the year was the rejuvenation of the Rec Center by the Y's Campus Affairs' commission. The increased facilities and longer hours both contributed immeasurably to improved recreational opportunity. The Center has at last assumed its proper role in campus life.

Such are our observations of the various aspects of a college education. At a church-related college the education must be one with a purpose coincident with Christian ideals. We trust that such it is and shall remain.

With the next issue of the "Weekly" on April 9 the incoming editor assumes her duties. We extend to her our heartiest congratulations and sincere best wishes for a successful year.

She has contributed much to the pages of the Weekly and has shown that Ursinus can anticipate a better-than-ever paper.

We would like, also, to thank all those who have contributed to the production of the paper during the past year, especially the members of the editorial staff who gave so freely of their time and talent. Their efforts made possible the production of your paper and represented the sacrifice of far more time than most people realize. Their's was a job well-done.

THE MAIL BOX

To the Editor:

Since the printing of a letter in last week's Weekly stating the existence of so-called "splits and coalitions" in the recent football captaincy election, I feel it my duty as president of the Interfraternity council and the Varsity club and as a member of the football squad to write a reply to the accusations stated. I would like to state here that I find it necessary to restrain myself from replying in the vernacular of the Anglo-Saxon.

First, contrary to the statement made in the editorial by "the editor-for-this-issue" who seems to believe that someone is trying to infringe on the freedom of the press, there was absolutely no "demand" on the editor to reveal the content of the letter before it went to press. A "request" was made that if the letter contained anything generally detrimental to the student body, the college, the captains elect, the football team, the fraternities, etc., that the contents be weighed very carefully before it was published. As a result, there was a general understanding between the persons involved that the letter shouldn't be printed because of its undesirable attitude. It was printed anyway.

In regards to the lofty ideals of the universal editorial or free press policy, may it be brought to the attention of the editorial staff that there is a difference between the "free press" that prints anything handed to them "parrot style" and the "free press" that carefully considers whether the information to be printed is fit to print or is in anyway harmful to the general well-being of society.

Had the person who wrote this letter been present during the election, he would have seen how preposterous the whole idea was. I'm not aware of his source of information, but it certainly wasn't reliable. Here are the cold facts as they actually happened. Before the election began, a motion was made by a senior member of the squad, who isn't a representative of either of the fraternities accused of "dirty politics," that co-captains be elected for next year. The idea was unanimously defeated. Next a primary election was held in order to reduce the eligible number of candidates to a workable number of three or four. This was accomplished and the list was reduced to three men. The final election was held and quite by coincidence the highest number of votes was received by two candidates, with the third man very close behind. Without anyone knowing between whom the tie existed, the idea was again presented as to the desirability of having co-captains because of the unusual outcome of the voting. Because of this situation, it was unanimously decided that co-captains would be desirable. In addition, a coalition between fraternities at this election would have been impossible because 25 percent of the eligible voters were non-fraternity members and still another 15 percent were not members of the so-called "coalition fraternities."

Not to distract in any way from the co-captains elect, this important fact probably had a great deal to do with the outcome of the election; the third candidate has just recently enlisted in the U.S. Air Corps. On inquiring among most of the voters, I found this point a deciding factor in the election. How do you feel that letter must have made two swell fellows feel? I'll assure you not very good.

The author of the letter may have had a legitimate gripe had he just complained about the general outcome of the election—period. But when he dragged in "dirty politics," his point of legitimacy went astray. It is my strong conviction that the entire reproach is a pigment of the very warped imagination of a frustrated adolescent and nothing more.

Respectfully yours,
Stephen A. Muench '51

(Thanks, Steve, for presenting the other side of the story. Please remember, though, that your report of what occurred last Friday in the Weekly office is obviously second-hand and apparently distorted. We were there and prefer our first-hand account of what transpired. We made no promise or general understanding to withhold the letter.

It was not only a matter of "weighing very carefully" the contents; we also have an obligation to our readers. The controversy centered not so much around the content of the letter, but around the practice of printing it with or without a signature—and this decision is the editorial staff's.—Ed.)

To the Editor:

If the student body is as democratic as they would have themselves believe, we cannot see how they could help but support the action of the Weekly editorial staff when they chose to print the dissenting opinion of one of the student body in regard to the election of the football co-captains. We neither agree nor disagree with the opinion of the letter, but we do whole-heartedly support the editorial staff's choice of maintaining any students right to express himself in this paper.

W. Burkhardt, Lew Cresse, Bob Healy, Roger Drechsler, Dick McKey, Wainwright Diehl

To the Editor:

Two articles appearing in the Ursinus Weekly of Monday, March 12, have prompted me to express some opinions of my own.

To begin, let me say that the coaches are highly pleased with the results of the election. Two finer choices could not have been made. Furthermore, we would have been just as proud to have any one or combination of the other eligibles to lead our team next fall. Each one of them worked and played and sacrificed in a manner befitting a participant in this great American game of football. We were proud to coach them. We would be equally proud to call any one of them our captain.

I am in full agreement with the anonymous writer's views concerning the place and stature of fraternities at Ursinus, but I cannot accept his premise that they played any part in the election results.

The decision to have co-captains was made after a tie vote resulted. To have been able to foresee how each individual present was to vote, to anticipate possible absentees, and then to line up the votes accordingly would have called for remarkable astuteness, nay, great psychic powers not present among our football players, smart as they are.

Furthermore, I am unswerving in my belief that no member of the football team would prostitute his personal integrity and honor and that of his school by participating in such a contemptible, degrading, immoral, and un-American practice.

Let us hope that the letter has served a useful purpose. Let us hope that the editorial policy of the Weekly of maintaining a free press has been served. As I see it, however, it has "served" also in the following ways:

1. Cast disrepute upon the integrity of each member of the football team in particular, and fraternities in general.

2. Possibly, (but not probably) undermined the "Spirit" of the team. A tremendous amount of time and effort on the part of the coaches, players, pep committee, student body, and yes, in a big way, the Ursinus Weekly, went into building that spirit. Why break it down?

3. Caused a great deal of undeserved embarrassment to the three individuals in particular and the team and fraternities in general.

4. Since the paper enjoys a circulation outside our school among the Alumni and among other schools, doubt, suspicion and discredit well may be cast upon our school.

I do not presume to suggest editorial policy. That is not within my province. Yet, it seems to me that an editorial board should be guided by a sense of perspective and proportion; a sense of discrimination in regards to freedom and license, truth and fiction, fact and fallacy. Did anyone take the trouble to substantiate the story?

The editorial gives the impression that the Weekly office was "stormed" by selfish interest groups. I can't speak for any visit but my own, which, I believe was leisurely, quiet, friendly and courteous. The letter was given to me quite readily, I don't recall "demanding" it. I believe my observations were quite temperate in contrast to those coming from a friendly, partisan Weekly staff. They seemed vigorously and uniformly opposed to the letter. In fact, one prominent member threatened to resign if the letter were printed. The remarks attributed to the interest groups were coming quite freely from the group in the Weekly room, most of whom, I believe, were staff members. I made no remarks concerning suppression of the letter except to say they were free to print it or not as far as I was concerned, but to allow me to reply in turn. I take issue with the editorial merely to clarify my own participation.

In conclusion, I hope the whole issue is dropped at this time. I, for one, will engage in no more pen and ink discussions, but will be glad to sit down with any party or group to talk at further length.

May I assure you that no rancor is felt, nor was any malice intended.

Yours for a better Ursinus.

Sincerely,
Ray Gurzynski, Coach of Football.

(We are very glad to print Mr. Gurzynski's letter and have him explain just how the election for football captains took place. However, his four numbered charges against the Weekly seem to us a misrepresentation since in the editorial we explained our neutral position as to the contents of the letter and merely set forth our policy concerning the publishing of it. Certainly the Ursinus football team can withstand any criticism—in this case Mr. Gurzynski has proved that it was unjust—without losing its fine spirit or becoming embarrassed. There are few organizations that can escape the inevitable "sour grapes" and we believe the football team is able to stand up under it. We reassure them of Weekly support—both to team and co-captains. The words "stormed" and "demand" did not refer to Mr. Gurzynski's visit to the Weekly office. There were other visits and we regret this was not clear to him.—Ed.)

Robert Thompson's Death Was '10 Campus Tragedy

by Don Stauffer '51

You may remember that one-half of the old gymnasium is named after George Gay '13. The other half of the edifice at the lower end of the campus is dedicated to the name of Robert Thompson.

Thompson was also an outstanding athlete and scholar. He was a huge man, standing six feet tall and weighing close to 180 pounds. Thompson matriculated from Slippery Rock Normal School, where he first learned the art of playing tackle. In his very first year at Ursinus Thompson was assigned a varsity position.

This was the era of powerful Ursinus teams. Thompson's brother, Kerr, was on the team. Ed Bronsome, who was recently featured in Time magazine was an end on these teams. The 1910 squad with Thompson at right tackle defeated powerful Penn 8-5.

In January of his senior year, Thompson contracted a case of diphtheria, but by March the dark handsome athlete was greatly improved. On the seventh of the month Thompson entered the East Dining hall to eat the evening meal. Thompson choked on a particle of his food. Fellow students rushed to his aid, he was led outside and up to his room. By the time his classmates got him to his room Thompson was dead.

Students Shocked

The students of the college were shocked by the news. Thompson was one of the most popular men of his class. A math major, he had intended to embark on a career of civil engineering following graduation. Following the catastrophe brother Kerr accompanied his brother's body to their home just outside of Butler.

On April 9th, 1912, the college officials formulated plans to build a field cage so that Ursinus could participate in basketball. Three days later a student mass meeting was held and a motion was made to name the proposed field cage in honor of Thompson. John B. Price, athletic director and coach of those great Ursinus teams was named head of the fund raising committee. The goal was $2,000.

It was mainly through the effort of Price that the money was raised. By December of 1912 the Robert Thompson Memorial Field cage was nearly completed. In the spring of 1913 the baseball team used the new field cage for baseball practice.

Track Squad Loses Three Star Runners

With three big names missing from this year's roster it looks like rough running for the track team. The '50 squad amassed a total of 334 points, and this trio of seniors, Joe Shaw, Russ Binder, and Bill Turner, rolled up better than a third of that total. Binder held a three-year monopoly over the dashes. Shaw was the man to beat in the 880 and in the mile. And versatile Turner led the field a good part of the time in the hurdles, both high and low, and in the pole vault.

But the outlook isn't entirely black. Bill Helfferich and Bob Swett should carry a lot of weight in the shot-put and discus. Don Cumpstone, who has thrown the javelin farther than anybody in the school's history, will be back to try and throw it a little farther. There is Randy DeWitt who is scheduled to emerge from the shadow cast over the pole vault by Turner in past years. In the two-mile we find the old work horse, Herm Lintner. Paul Scheirer should step into Shaw's shoes, and, if his leg mends in time, Ralph Ziegler is the logical replacement for Binder. Soph Jack Weaver has still to reach his peak in the vertical leap. Returnees to the 440 are Roy Foster and up-and-coming Bill Fischer.

Prominent newcomers are Gene Haag, Dick Eschbach, John Gruber, Floyd Fellows, and Dick Cheesman, to name just a few.

TENNIS CANDIDATES TO MEET

There will be a meeting of all men interested in trying out for the tennis team on Tuesday at 12:30 in Room 6.

Girls, Boys to Play Ball; WAA to Reap Benefits

At a meeting of the Women's Athletic association held March 15, it was decided that a basketball game will be played between the boys' and girls' teams Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the T-G gym. Twenty-five cent donations will be taken. Joan Leet '54 and Nancy Laib '54 will collect donations. Each team will wear its own original costumes. It was proposed that each member of the boys' team wear a boxing glove on his right hand as a handicap. A publicity committee consisting of Jen Price '54 and Rose Reininger '54 was selected to make posters to publicize the game.

Tentative plans for a picnic to be held in May and a sale of socks to be held after spring vacation were discussed. Joan Hitchner '53 will be in charge of the sock sale committee.

Miller Selected to Coach '51 Ursinus Tennis Squad

Dr. Eugene H. Miller, popular Political Science professor and prominent lecturer, has been selected as coach of the 1951 tennis team. He will fill the post vacated by Charles Matlack. Although he has placed himself in retirement from the courts, Dr. Miller is anxious to share his tennis enthusiasm with all those who enjoy playing the game.

Up to the last war, Dr. Miller played tennis at the Penn Mount country club. But it is here at Ursinus that he claims his greatest tennis achievements. Dr. Miller likes to recall the time that he and Dr. Mattern were playing on the local courts. The pair was approached by the tennis coach at that time. "Mattern might have been a tennis player," quipped the old pro, "but Miller would never be one."

Such criticism never dimmed his passion for the game. Dr. Miller proved his worthiness for the job of tennis mentor by defeating Everett Bailey, the athletic director. The professor adds that so convincing was the victory that "Ace" never requested a return match and, instead, found badminton a sport more to his liking.

Dr. Miller has announced a meeting for all tennis candidates on Tuesday. All those interested in playing or managing should attend. Practice will begin next week.

Returning for the season opener with Haverford on April 18 are three lettermen: Paul Jones, Jack Humbert and Joe Benanotti. Dr. Miller encourages any freshmen with or without experience to try out for the team.

As to winning matches, our new coach has a "secret weapon" — a bright plaid jacket, which if he wears to the tennis contests will undoubtedly blind our opponents.

Students Feel Press of Daily Problems; Studies, Food and Money Predominate

by Robert Jordan '51

"What is your main concern at the moment?" is a broad question. The concerns of Ursinus students, though not surprising, are illuminating, and show that college students really are interested in the more gracious side of living. The Ursinus problems are not ones of clothing, shelter and sex. No indeed! They are predominately of studies, food and money, which undeniably bring us higher on the ladder of human refinement. Unsolicited rumination gives a good idea of the kind of details involved, and a cross-section of them follows:

- "... the weather has changed." (Jim Morgan)
- "Is 'superannuated' one word?" (Jean Rinear)
- "Are you taking all those doughnuts?" (Dan Giangliulo)
- "If there's one thing I always do it's go to bed early." (Ditty Yost)
- "Tea ten cents—without lemon?" (Sue Deitz)
- "There's a very interesting article about elephants in the current Geographic." (David Hallstrom)
- "Do I smell of sauerkraut?" (Edna Markey)
- "Women are a problem—I think

- I'll go to the Drug..." (Bob Grant)
- "It's always too late for something." (Lizanne Waite)
- "T. S. Eliot? You don't have to swear about it!" (Bill Degerburg)
- "... if you accept $25 and the bill is $50..." (Loren Zimmerman)
- "Will you yell all over the store if I ask for another ice cream cone?" (Irene Schweitzer)
- "I guess I'll romp off to the library..." (Fred Baas)
- "Do you know anything about poetry?" (Jonni Graf)
- "What's on your mind? — quick now!" (Bob Healey)
- "Could we leave a note for Miss Stahr..." (Audrey Harte)
- "Here — we'll give you a job, Ed..." (Ron Frankel)
- "You were shocked, I'm sure." (Nancy Wiseman)
- "... yeah..." (Dave Winther)

'South Pacific' Remains Work of Art Worth Waiting For

by Joanne Nolt '53

When you hold tickets for South Pacific for a long, long time, you also hold your breath in hopes that no catastrophe prevents you from reaching the Majestic theatre a few moments before the curtain rises on this popular Broadway hit. On April 7, 1949, this show adapted from James Michener's novel, with music and lyrics by the incomparable Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein, opened to bring fame to its creators and stars and a pleasant glow into the hearts of the audience.

I'd heard all the stories about the ticket scarcity and the black market prices, so I really didn't mind the wait from July to February for my seat to this show which critics were hailing as the most outstanding of 1949 and 1950. It is one of the few shows which has kept most of the members of the original cast, even though now Enzo Pinza is well on his way toward a Hollywood career.

South Pacific is a work of art and it has broken records in practically every field of entertainment. Four of its songs were on the Hit Parade at one time and nearly everyone, except maybe Russians or Eskimos, has heard of "Some Enchanted Evening" or "A Wonderful Guy" or "Bali Ha'i." A stage shampoo has become a common event. I was just one out of two and half million people who have seen the show and it may be very trite to repeat that it's a wonderful show, but it is, and I loved every moment of it.

The plot of the story is fairly well known. Nurse Nellie (Mary Martin) from Little Rock, Arkansas, falls in love with the suave French planter Emile de Beque (Ray Middleton) who lives on an island occupied by the U.S. Navy in the last war. The characters are all so very human and there is a much deeper philosophical outlook on life in the story than I had realized. Fortunately the comic moments are well timed. The secondary plot of the tragic love between a Marine (William Talbert) and the lovely native girl, Liat (Betta St. John), provides some very touching, but not overly sentimental, scenes. Talbert's solo, "Younger Than Springtime" was my favorite.

The costumes for the show were appropriate though not glamorous or exotic. Miss Martin is far from being a dramatic actress who could play Lady Macbeth, and yet her own way of bouncing around on the stage matches the lilt of the tunes. In her blue denim shorts and a sloppy straw hat or an over-seized sailor's suit, she certainly gives you that feeling that she enjoys every moment of her work.

The sets vary from the disorder of a naval base to the strange beauty of a tropical island. Properties are extensive and include such things as "genuine human skulls" and "saxy grass skirts" which Bloody Mary (Juanita Hall) tries to sell to the seabees. Byron McCormick, as one of the sailors, is a character, through and through. It is he and his buddies who agree "there is nothing like a dame." The sailors all want to reach Bali Ha'i, a magical island and when Bloody Mary describes it so vividly in her solo, you feel

by Ford Bothwell '51

Scanning the various mythical basketball teams that have been selected since the close of the season, we note that Bruin captain and all-around standout, Don Young, was awarded an honorable mention berth on the Associated Press All-State Squad last week. This is indeed a fitting award to that steady workman who was such a vital cog in this year's successful team, and it was an even greater honor when you consider that PMC's Al Ingber was the only other player from our league who was honored.

However, a glance at the All-Philadelphia District Team chosen a few days later by the Philadelphia Basketball Writer's association shows that neither Young nor any other Bear performer received recognition. Included in this voting were Drexel's Al MacCart, Haverford's Sol Tollin and Swarthmore's Joe Carroll, all fine cagemen, but it is difficult for us to conceive why a team like Ursinus with a better than average record was ignored. Certainly Young deserved consideration if he was good enough to place on the All-State Team, not to mention Bob Swett, high-scoring pivotman.

And while we're discussing basketball it is interesting to note that F & M's sophomore star, Walt Lentz, was the country's rebound leader in the small college ranks this season with a mark of 20.6. Also ranked high in scoring and assists, Lentz set a new Diplomat scoring record in his first varsity season with a total of 352 points and a 19.5 points-per-game average.

Deserving a lot of praise for the planning and work involved in this year's Intramural Night are Ray Gurzynski and all those who have been assisting him in this project. The turnout of interested boxers and wrestlers this year was the largest ever and necessitated the running of semi-finals and even quarter-final matches in many of the weight classes. It's gratifying to see such a program run well and create so much interest.

While the major league teams are being put through their paces in sunny Florida, Sieb Pancoast's squad has been working out daily on not-so-sunny Price Field. There are many gaps to be filled in this year's squad before it can hope to rise to the heights enjoyed by last season's nine. The 1950 record of 10 and 4 was the best compiled by the Bears since 1922, when they equalled that mark, and hadn't been bettered since 1914's 13-5 slate.

The worst blow is the ineligibility of Ed Klein, who batted .367 last year, led the team in hits, doubles, triples and home runs, won three games on the mound without a loss and led the pitchers in strikeouts with 23. Last season's leading hurler, Big George Saurman, has graduated, after winning five games and losing two. His setbacks came at the hands of two of the best collegiate pitchers in the business last year, Swarthmore's Dick Hall and Delaware's Doc Green, the former besting George in eleven innings and the latter by virtue of a home run.

Captain Don Stauffer, Harry Light, Bill Lampeter and Joe Walker may help to fill the breach among the chuckers, but some of the regulars who will be missed are outfielder Wayne Niedringhaus, infielders Hap Hallinger, Bob Gehman, Art Baron, Don Weisel and fiery catcher Dick Cherry. Light, a .346 hitter last year, Stauffer, Don Young and hard-hitting Mel Smithgall will probably see a lot of action in the garden, but the infield is wide open with only Don Knott returning. Hal Henning and "Rip" Christensen may handle the catching chores.

The battling Bruins have quite a mark to shoot for, but with these regulars augmented by many promising newcomers they should field a scrapping club, if not as outstanding as the previous one.

Swimming Team Defeats Pennsylvania By Capturing Four First Place Honors

The Ursinus college women's swimming team turned in its third victory in seven meets by downing the University of Pennsylvania 34-23 in the Norristown YWCA tank on March 17.

Miss Waldo's mermaids took four first place honors as well as three second places and a third. Sally Lumis captured first place in the 40 yard freestyle and Joan Compton took a first in the 40 yard breaststroke.

Also winning first places for Ursinus were the medley team consisting of Ann Van Elswyk, Joan Compton and Jean Cilley; and the freestyle relay squad consisting of Ann Marzahl, Kay Hood, Jean Cilley and Sally Lumis.

Joan Strode gave the home team 3 points by finishing second to Penn's Mary Supplee in the diving department. The Quakers' only other first place honor came in the 50-yard yard backstroke when Edith Taylor finished in front of Anna Van Elswyk of Ursinus. Another second place winner was Bev Syvertsen in the 40 yard breaststroke, while Ann Marzahl finished in the third slot in the 40 yard freestyle.

Temple Hands Girls First Court Defeat

Last Monday the Ursinus girls' basketball team suffered their first loss of the season as they were defeated by the Temple co-eds 32-37.

Never far behind their opponents the Belles were unable to close the gap. The forwards displayed a pre-game tenseness which did not seem to wear off as the game progressed. Shots that were destined to be sure point-gainers for Ursinus rolled around the rim and dropped into play again. The Belles actually scored two more field goals than Temple; however, they were outdistanced by their opponents on the foul line. Nancy Vadner was high for Ursinus with thirteen points.

The guards played outstanding games. Adele Boyd had a big assignment guarding tall Joan Paul, consistent scorer for Temple. Adele not only held Joan to four field goals, but also had numerous interceptions. Captain Betty Keyser played her usual steady game co-ordinating the efforts of the Ursinus defense, while Sal Parent aided the cause by controlling the backboards.

The Jayvee squad lost 33-26. Joan Hitchner was high scorer for the second team with 13 counters. Playing outstanding games were Eddie Seifert and Molly Sharp in the guard slots.

Badminton Team Downs Pennsylvania Squad, 3-2

The Ursinus badminton team traveled to the University of Pennsylvania and defeated the Quakers 3-2. The locals won all three of their singles matches, but dropped both doubles.

Nancy Vadner had little trouble in defeating Nancy Groseclose in the first singles match 11-7, 11-3. Adel Boyd, in the second singles, defeated Jonnie Mustrude 11-7, 11-4.

Sally Lumis dropped the first game to Marty Rice 6-11, but came back to win the next two by scores of 11-9 and 11-3.

Barbara Fox and Nancy Hall of Penn defeated Marjorie Justice and Janice Christian in three games: 7-15, 15-7, 2-15. In the second doubles match Barb Loftus and Cynthia Shoult scored two 15-6 victories over Ursinus' Judy Woodruff and Barbara Landis.

Figures Released In District Scoring; Swett Places 18th

The final statistics on the basketball teams of the Philadelphia district have been released. Bill Mlkvy, Temple ace, captured the individual scoring honors with a grand total of 731 points. Mlkvy, who averaged 29.3 markers per contest, played in five less games than runner-up Bill Hennessey of Villanova, yet scored 63 more points.

Mlkvy also led in number of field goals with 303 and in foul shots with 125. The only other player to hit the century mark from the foul line was Al Derago of Phila. Textile with 108.

Big Bob Swett, Bruin center, placed 18th in district scoring with 272 points and 10th in game average with 15.1. Three other players from the Southern Division of the Middle Atlantic conference finished in the top twenty. Sol Tollin of Haverford with 301 total points and a 21.5 game average placed 12th. Al MacCart of Drexel finished 14th with an average of 17.3 per contest on 295 points. Placing 17th was Swarthmore's Joe Carroll with 280 counters and a 12.2 average.

The Villanova Wildcats took first place honors in Team Statistics by tallying 2173 points on 829 field goals and 515 fouls for an average of 72.4. Ursinus is found in the 7th place slot with a game average of 66.7 on 1200 total points. The Bears scored 459 times from the floor and 282 from the foul circle.

Only two teams in the district scored over a hundred points in a single contest. Temple defeated Glassboro Tech 111-86 and Ursinus hit three digits by beating Susquehanna 102-71.

The girls' basketball team came back onto the winning path by severely trouncing Albright 51-19 on March 14 at 3:30 in T-G gym. Marguerite Spencer had 21 points for the victors and Joanne Friedlin 10.

At the end of the first period Ursinus led 11-7, but the Belles soon pulled away with Spence's three field goals and Nancy Vadner's two and at half-time it was 25-14. The third quarter saw Jo Friedlin take over with four hook shots that saw a rapidly waning Albright team slip far behind, being outscored 13-4 in that period.

The fourth quarter belonged solely to Spencer and guards Betty Keyser, Sal Parent, and Adele Boyd. Spence scored thirteen points as the guards held Albright to one point, a free toss. Margie Abrahamson, Eddie Seifert and Marge Merrifield, second-line guards, had previously held Albright to seven and four point quarters. Pat Miller was high for Albright with six points.

In the Jayvee contest the Belles made it a perfect day by defeating their opponents, 28-19, as the entire squad saw action. Mary Schoenly had thirteen points.

Rosemont Beaten, 37-36; Vadner Tallies Fourteen

In one of the most exciting games of the season the Ursinus co-eds defeated the Rosemont College squad 37-36 on the loser's court last Thursday.

During the first half Rosemont seemed to have amazing accuracy in dropping its long shots. The Belles, having some difficulty with a slippery floor, were not quite able to match their opponents' score. At the halftime whistle the count stood at 16-18.

Throughout the second half the lead changed several times; however, neither team could gain enough of an advantage to be assured of victory. Time out was called with one minute and forty seconds to play. The score stood at 32-35. Ursinus fouled. Rosemont's foul shot was good and with a four point lead they froze the ball. The opponents were called for charging. Nancy Vadner dropped a foul shot and Audrey Rittenhouse countered soon after to make the score 35-36. Eddie Seifert intercepted, and Audrey handed the ball off to Nance, who scored to win the game. The Ursinus Jayvees won 27-19.

Forum Speaker Opposes Rearming Western Germany

"The American Occupation Forces in Western Germany have fallen for the notion that the best allies against Communists are former Nazi." This statement was made by Mr. Delbert Clark, noted New York Times newspaperman and author, at the Forum, last Wednesday evening in Bomberger chapel. Mr. Clark, who was the chief correspondent for the New York Times in Germany during the years 1946 to 1948, went on to explain why, in his opinion, we should not rearm Germany.

Mr. Clark described very vividly the typical German mind of today. He said that ever since the bloody Thirty Years War of the 17th century, Germany has never been really united unless it had some other country to fight against. Its periods between wars have been marked by a peculiar national anarchy and spiritual uncertainty.

The allies in Western Germany have now set up a government which courts the old Nazi leaders because they believe that is the only way to fight the Communists. The Russian zone in Eastern Germany has also courted the Nazi. Mr. Clark thinks that, of the two policies, the Russian one is nearer to being appropriate than ours is, since Communism and Nazism are both totalitarian forms of government appealing to an authoritative mind.

WSGA Discusses Community Chest, Changes in Elections

The Y's Community Chest plan and the MSGA plan to coordinate elections were the chief matters discussed at the meeting of the Women's Student council last Monday.

Changes in the election of class officers as proposed by the MSGA were approved. Nominations would be by petition and all the elections would be supervised by an election committee composed of the president and senior member of each student council and the deans of men and women.

The problem of getting noon time announcements to the women day students was discussed. The Council members decided to take turns in writing down the announcements and posting them in the day study by 12:30.

'South Pacific' Remains

as if everyone has his own little magic island to reach.

To me one of the funniest moments in the whole show was Ray Middleton's imitation of Mary Martin's performance of "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair." Middleton's role is that of a very polished gentleman and he certainly provides a contrast to the souvenir collecting sailors and their "projects." Nurse Nellie decides she's going to leave Emile and his island and emphatically washes her man right out of her short curly hair. However, by the end of the last act, she has changed her mind.

I always wondered if the reports that I'd heard about South Pacific were really true. Could the show be as good as every one says it is? It certainly is and its artists give you an enchanted evening.

SOPH DANCE A HIT

At the end of the rainbow was the Pot of Gold, the sophomore dance held Friday night in the T-G gym from 8-12. This semi-formal dance was well attended.

Committee heads for the dance were Doug MacMullen, decorations, Irene Schweitzer, programs and Ray Rauenzahn, publicity. Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Staiger were chaperones.

The theme of the dance decorations was based upon the Irish legend of the Leprecaun, a tiny green creature who has hidden gold in an enchanted forest.

Students Asked to Give Blood Again; 200 Pints Needed

A Red Cross Bloodmobile unit is coming to Ursinus on Thursday, April 26. In order to make the project completely an Ursinus affair, at least two hundred students must be signed up to donate blood before April 14. This is necessary in order to guarantee the minimum quota of 150 pints.

Permission blanks and appointment slips will be circulated to all the Ursinus dormitories before Thursday of this week, so that interested students who are over 18 and under 21 years of age may get the required parental permission during spring vacation.

After the appointment slips are filled out they will be collected by representatives of the Ursinus Red Cross chapter and a list of appointments will be posted on the bulletin board. In cases of conflicts between appointments and class schedules excused absences will be granted.

The Bloodmobile unit will be set up at the Hendricks Memorial building of the Trinity Reformed church. The campus representative in charge is Joanne Sherr '53.
