Administration Focuses Attention On Pledging

by Deborah Bynon '84

Sorority bids were distributed on Saturday, September 27, and the girls who received bids will go through three weeks of pledging. In an interview with Leslie March, Associate Dean of Students, the principal point of pledging was said to be "to unite the pledges and make them worthy to be sisters."

A meeting was held on Monday to discuss the administration's aims for sorority pledging. The meeting included Dean Ruth R. Harris, Dean March, and the advisors, officers and pledge mistresses of each sorority. Dean March will also be holding private meetings with each of the pledge mistresses to discuss their programs.

According to Dean March, the administration would like to see "a constructive pledging program that encourages closeness of the pledge class."

In previous years, the pledge mistresses have been creative in planning their pledge programs. There have been many activities such as group athletic activities, group study sessions, scavenger hunts, and breakfast dates. The administration would like to see these activities continue.

The administration objects to disruptive and destructive pledging, such as loud noise late at night and early in the morning. Not only is this rowdiness unfair to the rest of the campus, but late night pledging is detrimental to the pledges themselves. The administration is concerned about the performance of pledges in the classroom and in athletic activities during pledging.

The strongest objections of the administration are drinking parties and drop trips. These are considered to be destructive, unsafe, and bad for the morale of the pledges.

The administration would like to encourage the more creative aspects of pledging, but would like to see an end to the aspects of pledging which are detrimental to the pledge classes.

Strangers Vandalize Beardwood Extinguishers

by Barbara Foley '83

This past week, a report was given to Richard Whatley, Associate Dean of Students, about an incident which occurred in the women's quad at approximately 3:00 a.m. on September 19. Three males who do not attend Ursinus approached the quad at the Beardwood Hall entrance. They rang the bell and were let into the building by a female student. She did not ask for their ID's, and did not question the three as to whom they were looking for. These same young men, two high school students and one college student, proceeded into the building and took three fire extinguishers off the first floor of Beardwood. They ran out of the building where they shot the extinguishers off towards the second floor. The empty extinguishers were found on the sidewalk the next morning.

Whatley mentioned that the three males claimed that they were provoked by some U.C. students who shot the fire extinguishers at them first. Students in the hallway at the time this incident occurred say they did not see a battle between the outsiders and Ursinus students.

While this incident was occurring, the RA's had already been alerted. They collected the rest of the fire extinguishers in the quad to prevent them from being shot off. This was helpful in two ways. First, it prevented the three men from taking any other extinguishers, if that had been their intention, and second, it prevented the girls in the quad from getting fined for any empty extinguishers the males may have tampered with.

Ritter Investigation Continues

by Lisa Lepone '84

Tomorrow night, the new Ritter Center for the Performing Arts will be dedicated. Some of the optimistic feelings toward the new center will be marred at the dedication ceremony because of the theft of new television equipment from the center two weeks ago. The equipment, however, will have no effect on the center's opening, according to Nelson Williams, Business Manager of the College.

During a conference, Williams stated that although the case is still being investigated by the police who have the serial numbers of the equipment, the school is very "pessimistic" concerning its return, his reasoning being that the theft was not just a "prank."

Nelson also stated that he had sent to the manufacturer for replacement prices, since the lighting console and television monitor were parts of a complete system. He pointed out that the lighting console was shaped like a small suitcase, and that it had a handle, which made it very easy to remove from the building.

There has been a tightening of security in the building. Williams said that each time a guard walked through the building, he found one of the doors open and there is no explanation for this. Now, however, the people using the building are much more cautious, the guards are surveilling the building more frequently, and a new plan for security of the center is being looked into. These safety measures will hopefully prevent any further incidents like the theft of two weeks ago.

USGA Sponsors Alcohol Awareness Program

by Melissa Hanlon '84

Today is the last day of Ursinus' two week Alcohol Awareness Program. The program, sponsored by the USGA and aided by APO Fraternity, is designed to alert the student body of the facts, effects and dangers of alcohol and alcohol abuse.

Various activities and displays are provided around the campus. The most evident display is provided by Myrin Library and located in its lobby. It includes a mannequin dressed as a "lush" and several books and pamphlets on alcohol.

Facts on alcohol abuse were placed in the Daily Bulletin, a short article about the program was published on the back of this week's menu (Sept. 29 - Oct. 5), and fliers were distributed on tables in Wismer Cafeteria. Pamphlets, provided by the Dean of Students' Office, were placed in various spots around the campus, such as bulletin boards and lounges, to make ready reading for anyone interested. Also, two new books on alcohol abuse were purchased for the library, courtesy of USGA.

Along with acquainting the student with the facts on the subject, the program hopes to make the student body aware of the alcohol policies of Ursinus. These policies, located on pages 10-12 of the U.C. Student Handbook, state that the school "is concerned specifically about the abuse and misuse of alcohol. Students who choose to drink should drink in a responsible manner."

In past years, the USGA has made attempts at other Alcohol Awareness programs, but none were as well-organized as this. The combined efforts of various campus groups have helped make this project a success.

Off The Editor's Desk

Not too much to sound off about this week; just one observation I've made since our last issue. I've noticed something very positive around campus lately, something that has the potential for changing many people's perspective about this place.

While at the football game last Saturday, I was surprised to see an exceptionally large turn-out by the faculty and administration. It wasn't just those people who live locally. Similarly, that same morning I saw an equally impressive representation of our educators at the field hockey game. They were there with their families and friends, and apparently were very much enjoying themselves.

This is definitely a step in the right direction toward achieving a truly liberal education program. Student athletes are inspired by the presence of professors and administrators in a crowd of spectators. In addition, this conveys not only a sense of interest in the student body but also affirms an equivalent interest in the purpose of an Ursinus education.

Yes, I like what I've been seeing lately. It looks good, and it's getting better everyday.

Reader Rebound

To The Editor:

An article in last week's Grizzly inferred that fraternity members out perform non-members academically; however, there is a basic methodological problem in choosing grade point averages as the basis for comparison. If you begin with GPA's of fraternity members, or any subgroup (such as pledges), you must compare them only with those eligible in the same category (i.e. male, freshmen). As far as I know that information is not available.

You may be interested to know that a study prepared by Dr. Craft, using percentages of students attaining the Dean's List, during 1978-79 and 1979-80, reveals that membership in a fraternity has a negative correlation with academic performance, while membership in a sorority has a positive correlation. You are welcome to see the data in my office and to draw your own conclusions.

College Disciplines Two Fraternities

The Dean of Students Office has disclosed two separate disciplinary actions recently taken against two Ursinus fraternities. Both cases involved violation of the College's alcohol policy.

On September 16, 1980, Alpha Phi Epsilon was fined $200.00. The fraternity had admitted its guilt in violating the alcohol policy and asked that the case be handled administratively.

Also charged with violation of the alcohol policy, Delta Mu Sigma was fined $200.00 on September 18, 1980, for having sponsored an unregistered party. This fraternity also admitted guilt and asked that the case be handled administratively.

Women Experience the Excitement of Bid Day

by Pat Keenan '84

Once again it is sorority pledge time on the Ursinus campus. On Saturday evening, the culmination of a week of suspense came when the women who had been rushed by sororities assembled at Bomberger Auditorium to accept their bids and join their sorority sisters.

There was a tremendous amount of noise and excitement in the air as the women were making their way over to Bomberger. Once inside the building the girls with bids gathered in the chapel while the members of the various sororities, Alpha Sigma Nu, Tau Sigma Gamma, Phi Alpha Psi, Omega Chi, and Kappa Delta Kappa, each waited in different rooms. Dean Leslie March then proceeded to hand each girl a piece of paper with the name of the sorority who gave her a bid.

After the bids were accepted, the pledges met with their sisters and celebrated by singing, laughing, and crying. Following the meeting at Bomberger, the pledge classes gathered on the steps of the Union and sang their respective sorority song. Then all the sorority sisters gathered in a circle to sing the Friendship Song. Each sorority then went their separate way to begin three weeks of sorority pledging.

Some of the events the girls can look forward to are finding breakfast dates, drop trips, wall shows, parties, and dressing up in crazy costumes. So far the pledges seem to be enjoying themselves. When women were asked what they think of pledging, the most frequently heard comment was, "It's a lot of fun!" What will they be saying a few weeks from now?

USGA Notes

As the only sophomore on an Executive Committee chaired by seniors, I realize I have much to learn about the workings of Ursinus College. Each week the USGA discusses many different policies and votes on them; these decisions in turn affect both students and faculty.

This past week a topic was brought up which affects many of us: Greek society hazing. It is only a matter of time before the administration comes in to change policies. Are the students going to be there to stand up for their rights? Let's hope so!

Also, the guidelines for the new Utility Gym were worked on. The USGA, along with the administration, will decide the rules and regulations for the utilization of this building. A suggestion includes the inviting of faculty to parties, especially the sponsoring organizations' advisors. The student input on this was fantastic — we need to keep it up.

If you're interested, you need only attend the meetings to get involved. Right now there are a large number of committees on campus which have no student representative to speak up for the student body. Come to the meetings Thursday nights at 6:30 p.m., be appointed to a committee and who knows, your input may turn this whole campus upside down!!

The appointment of Thomas J. Arnold as Assistant Professor of Economics and Business Administration at Ursinus College has been announced by President Richard P. Richter.

Arnold received his B.A. degree from Syracuse University and his Master's Degree from San Francisco State University. He is presently studying marketing and completing requirements for his Ph.D. at Temple University.

Arnold is relatively new in the field of teaching. He spent the last 20 years working in such companies as Firestone Tire and Rubber, Westinghouse Electric, Noma Christmas Light Company, and Caterpillar Tractor.

He explained that he worked for companies before teaching because he has had many good teachers who also had experience in the field. He wants to teach in the classroom what these teachers have taught him. "A person who has worked outside of a college in this field has a different approach in a classroom than a scholar," he commented.

Arnold taught at West Chester State College, and most recently was the chairman of the Department of Economics and Business Administration at Beaver College. He started teaching at Ursinus College Evening School when he was still a salesman.

Arnold enjoys working at Ursinus. He commented, "I look at a college in segments. I was impressed with the faculty, administration, and students. I was very impressed with the students' level of skill. There are few poorly prepared students."

When asked about the Economic and Business Administration Program at Ursinus, he stated, "It is a successful curriculum because it takes the students to the objectives that they have chosen for themselves."

Arnold and his wife, Mary, reside in Phoenixville, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Arnold teaches at a local school. They have two sons, Clark and Stephen. Clark is a senior at University of Pennsylvania Electrical Engineering School, and Stephen is a senior at Phoenixville High School.

Besides teaching, Mr. Arnold coaches a fencing club off campus. He and Dr. Fago have been practicing fencing on campus, and they will be starting a club for faculty and students which will be held on Thursday afternoons in Helfferich Hall.

Photography Course Offered In Evening School

by Ken Taylor '84

Beginning on the evening of October 1, and for the next six weeks, Ursinus Evening School will offer a course in photography. The course will be taught by Dr. Derk Visser, a professor in the history department.

Visser's Interest in photography

Visser has been interested in photography for many years and is the faculty advisor for the Photography Club. The idea for this non-credit course has been in the making for a while, but it was not until this year that photography was added to the curriculum. Visser has been doing work on campus with photography for four years since he put on a demonstration in the student union which resulted in the Photography Club. He also photographs many of the slides featured in his various history courses.

The course itself

The photography course itself is a non-credit course which Visser says is to get people back on campus and get some interest on campus for photography. The topics discussed in the six week course will be the use of natural light, the use of the single reflex camera, composition, portraits, and two classes of project discussion. Cameras will also be discussed at great length, and Visser hopes to have an interesting class. There is no photography course scheduled for the second semester, but Visser was quick to point out that if there is enough interest on campus that he will be happy to teach another semester.

Values Education Examined By Committee

by Georgeann Fusco '84

The College has announced that it will include values education as a curricular goal and has formed a values committee so that this goal will be reached.

Values education "can't be taught in a course," states William E. Akin, Dean of the College. It is something that has to be developed by the students themselves as they exist in the campus environment.

Some weaknesses of the campus include faculty advising of freshman and the introduction to campus life. The values committee wants to develop a system which will pay attention to individual freshman students.

L. Rebeck. This committee also helped organize a faculty conference which brought the faculty up to date on the thinking of the committee.

In the summer, four members of the committee, Dr. Byerly, Dean Akin, Dr. Snyder, and Dr. Williamson, went to Colorado Springs for 2½ weeks as a result of a grant from the Lilly Endowment. Twenty colleges are invited to send faculty to Colorado Springs to attend a workshop in the liberal arts, to exchange ideas, to attend seminars, and to solve the problems of college campuses. As a result, the four members created a twenty page report on values education which has been submitted to the values committee. The committee plans to send recommendations to the faculty on this topic in October.

A Correction

In last week's issue of The Grizzly, we inaccurately reported some information in the "New Spanish Lecturers Interviewed" article on page two. Mrs. Donna Shute did not formerly teach at Temple Community College as we reported. Rather, her teaching experience includes Temple University and Community College of Philadelphia. Please accept our humblest apologies, Mrs. Shute, for this oversight by our editorial staff.

Classes of '81, '83 To Sponsor Gong Show

by Barbara Foley '83

What are you doing next Friday night before you go to that party everyone's talking about? Do you have a hidden talent waiting to expose itself?

Well, next Friday night, October 10, at 7:00 p.m. in Wismer Auditorium, you can reveal this talent to the UC campus in the UC All Campus Gong Show sponsored by the classes of '81 and '83. Any group or individual can enter: sororities, fraternities, halls, dorms — anyone interested in having a good time.

Each act can be up to five minutes long. The prize to be awarded to the number one act is $97.89. Second prize is $52.11. There will be three faculty judges and Professor Barry Bowers of the Economics Department will be the UC version of Chuck Barris.

So if you have any hidden talent, sign up before the deadline, Wednesday, with any of the class officers, or just come down to Wismer Auditorium on October 10 at 7:00 p.m. to listen to Barry Bowers emcee the UC All Campus Gong Show.

three men were apprehended. When asked how this came about, Whatley stated that "They turned themselves in and wanted to make full restitution for their actions." They were fined $300, $100 for each of the fire extinguishers that had been discharged.

The other extinguishers collected were also checked. There was some evidence that even though they had not been extinguished, they had been tampered with because the pressure needle was low. There was no evidence that this occurred that night or over the summer.

Maintenance is currently recharging the empty extinguishers.

Panorama: New View New Wave

by Jennifer Bassett '81

The Cars are driving in a new direction. Their latest album, Panorama, has more thematic and musical variety but is definitely moving away from the pop direction, more commonly known as selling out.

The Car's first two albums, The Cars and Candy-O, were strictly love or lust songs. They titillated everyone, got worn out on the radio and all the nightclub bands are still attempting to imitate them. Panorama is filled with feisty cuts that explore other areas of the psyche as well as the libido.

Once again, all the lyrics were written by the group's rhythm guitarist Ric Ocasek, who can be obscene without using four letter words and universal without using cliches. Here he's even less conventional and more meta-physical.

The title track, "Panorama," is punchy punk, piercing stiletto and probably too weird and syncopated for radio, although the sound effects, especially cymbals, are great. It's basically other ugly realities. It's a bitter-sweet number with a good driving beat.

"Don't Tell Me No" is a popular and sarcastic party tune that sounds something like Cheap Trick musically, but lyrically is definitely Ocasek experimenting with weird new analogies.

"Getting Through" is a disturbing picture of celebrity society, how celebrities and people in general are used.

"Misfit Kid" is another song about the poor little rich rock star who is on the inside and not sure he wants to be there. I guess every group feels it is their moral responsibility to inform us about the rock and roll rat race, but I never thought The Cars would complain.

Next comes "Down Boys," a song about those who didn't make it and try too hard to fit in. Here The Cars exercise their syncopated talents.

"You Wear Those Eyes" is about appreciating, or trying to seduce in this case, someone who is different. It's soft and slow, like a ballad. I never thought The Cars would say something like, "Just take your time 'cause it's not too late..."

"Running To You" is the album's lustiest and most brazen cut. The Cars certainly have developed their talent of being uninhibited and arousing without resorting to the same old boring obscenities to thrill us, even instrumentals alone in this one are enough to put anyone in the mood.

The final cut, "Up and Down," is rather harsh and dissonant, hitting in the gut level. What might have been a lovesong turn into stern criticism. It's a lot different from the idealism of the Candy-O album.

Concert at Spectrum last week... Rush Returns to Phila. After Long Delay

by Beth Harp '84

The Spectrum, last Thursday night, provided a perfect setting for the huge celebration that happened when Rush graced the stages of Philadelphia.

The excitement of the crowd pervaded the air, as was evident in the shouts and catcalls that rang outside before the show. The last time Rush performed in Philadelphia was in January of 1979, and they skipped the city on their latest tour. But, as the result of a petition containing 20,000 signatures, Rush decided to perform once in the area, which greatly pleased all the devoted Rush fans in the tri-state area.

The opening act was the British hard rock band, Saxon. They superbly performed many songs from their new album "Wheels of Steel."

Tension was high during intermission and when, finally, Rush opened the show with the overture to 2112, the applause was deafening. The trio then went on to perform both old and new songs, such as "Closer to the Heart," "Xanadu," "Free Will," and "The Spirit of Radio." Especially impressive was "Natural Science" from the latest album Permanent Waves. Rush even performed material from their unreleased new album. During the entire show, pictures that pertained to each song were shown on a screen in the background. A light show exactly matched the beat of the music.

Rush did two encores, the first being a tour de force from their live album All the World's A State. They closed with the instrumental "La Villa Strangiato" from their Hemispheres album.

For those who had waited a long year and a half, the evening was more than worth it.

"Time Square" Is Sheer Inspiration

by Kevin O'Neill '83

For those of you who, after experiencing all the stimulating attractions available in the Ursinus College Community, still desire to go out and get crazy, the Ursinus College Chapter of the I.N.W.S. (International New Wave Society) has stumbled upon an encouraging new development. Yes, there is night life outside of Schwenksville.

Two weeks ago, four members of the New Wave Society conducted an excursion to a theatre in Philadelphia. The occasion was the premiere showing of the latest New Wave movie, Time Square. Our representatives were quite excited about the premiere and had been preparing all day for the big event. When they finally got to the theatre they realized that their fellow punk-rockers has also been preparing. Several hundred New-Wavers turned out for the show, all dressed in the finest sleeze outfits. There were even some "designer punk" clothes on display. Each person attending the premiere was given a complimentary sound-track from the movie. One of our representatives liked the sound-track so much he ate it on the way home.

The first movie was Hangar 18. I won't even try to tell you how it was because some drug addicts yelled and screamed through the whole thing. But when the main event came on, things quieted down to a few bottles clanging, some girl coughing and another guy yelling, "Turn up da' sound."

Starring in the lead role, as a New York disc jockey, Tim Curry plays a slightly more subdued character than his last role as Dr. Frankenfurter in Rocky Horror. The story progresses through the lives of two runaway girls in New York City who have found a way to communicate with kids their age through a disc jockey on the radio. Of course all the background music for the picture is played on Johnnie's (Tim Curry's) station. This is a unique approach and very effective, especially since the new songs are great. The girls call themselves the Sleaze Sisters and urge their contemporaries to wear trash bags. With the help of Johnnie they become notorious in the city of New York. Eventually the runaways do a life concert on the marquis of a theater in Time Square.

Time Square is a rebellious fantasy that has arrived just at the right time. It is a Robert Stigwood production; he also produced Rocky Horror. The members of the New Wave Society were thoroughly impressed. They summarized the picture as sheer inspiration. If you're in the mood for a true heart-warming experience, get prepared, and take your folks to see Time Square. One final message from Tim Curry and the gang: If your parents treat you like garbage, wear a trash bag. If they treat you like a thief, wear a mask.

Bloodmobile October 8

The Red Cross is appealing to the public to give blood Wednesday, October 8, when the Bloodmobile will be at Helfferich Hall gymnasium, from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. Because blood supplies are at a low level, residents of surrounding communities are asked to join Ursinus students, faculty and staff members as volunteer donors that afternoon.

Dingy Room Ideas Vol. II

A couple of weeks ago we printed an article entitled "New Idea for a Dingy Room" (September ninth issue, page 6). There are some good suggestions in this previous article pertaining to various room decorating techniques. A few students have expressed difficulty in the practical application of some of these ideas.

One suggestion was the painting of your room in a light color using "a high-quality, semi- or hi-gloss paint." If you have painted your room within the past two years, you are too early (or too late) according to school regulations on room painting.

If, however, your room has not recently been painted, a light color will give the illusion of more space (though you might still trip over your roommate's shoes in the dark). A semi-gloss paint would be best — however, maintenance supplies only flat or flat. Take your pick. There exist other alternatives to brightening a room, of course, though painting remains the most obvious.

According to the "Ursinus College Room Occupancy Regulations" (item number seven in the list of sixteen), "The placing of decorations in a room must not damage ceilings, walls, or woodwork. Nothing may be pasted, glued, nailed, tacked or secured in any way on the walls, ceilings or furniture." This is not to discourage personalizing a room but to make it an adventure in itself.

Posters are both expressive and essential — if only to serve as temporary wallpaper. How, you may well ask, is it possible to hang a poster and simultaneously abide by item number seven? A sticky substance called "stick-em" (of all things) is a good alternative to the thumb tack, as is regular chewing gum. This method will probably not work well with large plaques or cardboard paintings — but we won't tell if you won't.

Q. Why is Bacon so respected?

A. Because Bacon is the best thing that ever happened to a cheeseburger.

And you can save 30¢ when you buy our brand-new bacon cheeseburger.

(Clip out and bring in.)

Absolutely! I want to save 30¢ when I buy Roy Rogers brand-new bacon cheeseburger.

Not valid in combination with other offers.

We're pretty sure that Bacon didn't write Shakespeare after all. But then he didn't invent Roy Rogers bacon cheeseburger either. It takes a real imagination to top our perfect cheeseburger with crisp, delicious bacon.

Nevertheless, even Bacon would approve of our offer. For a limited time only when you buy one bacon cheeseburger, we'll give you 30¢ off. But, Sir Francis still can't take credit for our bacon cheeseburger. So why's it named after him?

With a record of 19-9 for the first two weeks, here we go again.

New York Giants at Dallas

Cowboys have been playing good football since the Denver game. Why stop now? Giants lose this one by 14.

San Francisco at Los Angeles

Rams put DeBerg on ice as they win one by 6 points. LA now making their move to the lead in their division.

New England at New York Jets

Jets looking for their first win. Unfortunately, this one will not be that win as they come up 7 points short.

Tampa Bay at Chicago

The Buccaneers win at Soldier Field by 7 points. Payton just cannot do it all by himself.

Buffalo at San Diego

Battle of unbeaten has only one survivor and it looks like the Chargers will survive. The Bills come close but go down by 4.

Kansas City at Oakland

An old rivalry continues in this contest. Raiders play like the John Madden years and win by 10.

Pittsburgh at Minnesota

Bud Grant looks for Tarkenton and Foreman and comes up empty. Steelers romp by 15 big ones.

Cincinnati at Green Bay

Cincinnati win by 2 on the road. Green Bay just allows its opposition to score too many points.

St. Louis at New Orleans

Now that the Cards have put one in the W. column they will be tough. Hart destroys the non-existent defense of the Saints.

Washington at Philadelphia

Eagles mad about last week and cannot tolerate Vermeil when they lose. Even without Montgomery the Eagles should win by 3.

Seattle at Houston

Seattle lacks the defense to stop Stabler and Cambell. Oilers win this one by a touchdown and point after.

Detroit at Atlanta

Sims and the Lions are rolling and Atlanta just is not big enough to stop them. Atlanta loses by 6 in spite of being at home.

Denver at Cleveland

Will the real Denver Broncos please stand up? Cleveland wins by 3 as Red Miller ponders what is happening.

Baltimore at Miami

Baltimore wins a big one in the Orange Bowl. Shula stunned as the Colts win by 5.

Still undefeated...

Field Hockey Ties W&M; Beats Gettysburg

by Jean Morrison '83

The Ursinus field hockey team battled a tenacious William and Mary team to a 1-1 tie, but they refused to back down.

William and Mary started the game strong gaining the original momentum. Approximately seven minutes into the game, the Bears began to dominate William and Mary. However W & M had several chances only to have sophomore Margy Yost come up with the saves. U.C. also had many fine chances. Junior Trish Delfemie came close only to have her shot glance off the post. Co-captain Laurie Holmes and junior Jill Snyder also added pressure on W & M's defense. William and Mary's best scoring opportunity of the first half came approximately 25 minutes into the half. A scramble developed in front of the Bears goal. Yost made the original save, but was caught out of position. Senior Debbie Tweed came through to make the second save after which W & M hit the ball out of bounds. At the 32 minute mark Tweed was again involved in the play; it was, however, at the other end of the field this time. A shot was taken that the William and Mary goalkeeper cleared out, and Tweed played the clear back into the forward line. Again the ball was cleared out and this time Tweed shot the ball putting U.C. ahead 1-0. The first half ended with Ursinus ahead by the goal.

The second half opened with the majority of play in the midfield area. With 15 minutes gone in the second half the Bears received perhaps their finest opportunities of the game. Ursinus was awarded six straight penalty corners, however U.C. had trouble executing the corners and the score remained at 1-0. The momentum started to turn to W & M's favor. The Indians were awarded a penalty corner on which Yost made a beautiful save on a tough shot. Unfortunately, the momentum continued in William and Mary's favor. With approximately 15 minutes left in the game, the Indians' Karen Thorne found a hole after Yost made three consecutive saves. Thorne's shot tied the game at one. After William and Mary's tying shot, both teams had several opportunities, but the defenses held the score at 1-1. At the end of the game the teams walked off the field with a tie.

On Tuesday, September 23, Ursinus defeated Gettysburg by a score of 3-0. Ursinus dominated the game totally with the team playing a well-rounded game. Scoring first for the Bears was Holmes on a rebound. Holmes caught the Gettysburg goalkeeper out of position and put the ball in the cage. Junior Debbie Brackett scored her first goal of the season to put the Bears ahead by two. The Gettysburg goalkeeper attempted to clear the ball out of the circle, however, Brackett prevented the clear. She finished off the play by beautifully placing her shot between the goalkeeper and the post on the short side. Scoring the third and final goal of the game was junior Traci Davis. In a scramble in front of the goal, Davis found a hole and placed her shot behind the goalkeeper. The Bears held on to take the win and the shutout.

Ursinus ended the week again undefeated. Their record now stands at four wins and two ties. Games in the following week include the University of Maryland, Friday, October 3, at home; Temple on Tuesday, October 7, at home, and Princeton on Thursday, October 9, at home.

FLICK-OFFS: The junior varsity hockey team defeated Gettysburg by a score of 2-0. Scoring for the Bears was junior Vicki Videon. Assisting on her first goal was sophomore Jan Gabel. Videon's second goal was unassisted. J.V.'s record stands at three wins and one loss. J.V. schedule for the upcoming week includes games with the University of Maryland; Albright on Monday, October 6, at Albright, and Temple and Princeton.

On Tuesday, September 30, the third team came off with a 1-1 tie against Moravian. Scoring the only goal for the Bears was Sophomore Rosie Naab, assisted by Sophomore Nanette Hurtman. The third team has upcoming games with Delaware Valley; Saturday, October 4, away, Albright and Muhlenberg on Wednesday, October 8 at home.

Dave Borgstrom

Anyone can balance a check-book! As Treasurer of USGA, I plan to do this and much more. My experience as a member of the Campus Life Committee and the USGA has led me to a better understanding of student opinions. Please vote Dave Borgstrom for Treasurer of USGA.

Allan "AJ" Johnson

As current treasurer of the Biology Club, I feel I could do a very effective job as USGA treasurer. I am running for this position with the hopes of becoming more involved with school activities and feel I could offer a lot to the school if given the chance.

Steve Witmer

The office of treasurer is open. My background in representative and accounting principles is by all means adequate. For you, I will work harder than anyone. But I cannot work alone. You are my incentive. Be active. Come to the meetings. Please show your care by voting Steve Witmer on Monday.

Booters Showing Promise

squad. For the next thirty-five minutes the booters launched fourteen shots at the net.

The tempo of the game picked up considerably with end to end action. Birch was called on to make a few more good saves, but the majority of the action was in the visitors' end of the field. Senior tri-captain Jeff Jewitt dribbled and faked his way past the Leopard defense several times, but his shots couldn't seem to find the net. Sophomore Bob Thomas was denied twice on break aways in the final fifteen minutes on fine plays by the Lafayette goal keeper. Even after senior tri-captain Tony Esposito was given a red card for ungentleman-like conduct with ten minutes to play, the team still kept the pressure on despite being short-handed. Senior winger Greg Gifford tried to tie the score with a two point take down on an obnoxious Lafayette defender, but the referee gave Greg a red card instead. Following a small scuffle, senior captain Bill Morehouse, playing his usual inspired game almost got his booming direct kick past the Leopard's goalie. With less than five minutes to play, UC got three straight shots from close range but were denied by the stubborn Lafayette defense. Junior winger Jimmy Dreves caused the spectators hearts to skip a beat when he broke down the right side and launched a cross goal kick that skimmed the top left-hand corner of the goal.

Pardon the cliche, but with a little luck Ursinus could easily have turned the outcome of the game around. However, at this point the Bears are 1-3 with the meat of their schedule coming up. Tomorrow they travel to Johns Hopkins, next Tuesday the Booters journey to Washington and Thursday they entertain Lebanon Valley at 3:30.

Come out to cheer the team on, to watch Greg Gifford's acrobatic throw-ins and to see Jon Dick and Al Quasti "goon" it up.

Volleyball

Lookin' Good

After a brilliant victory over Muhlenberg, Ursinus' Volleyball Team reached a 3-0 record, making them eligible for the MAC championship. Although they lost the first game, they came back and their unified play brought three straight victories of 15-9; 15-4; and 15-11.

Intense play was the key factor in the West Chester bout. Although the team lost three of the four games, they played well in the first. Linda Hetherington's dead-eye hits and Ann Stapinski's strategy in setting helped to prove the Bears' abilities.

The Gettysburg match was somewhat of a disappointment as loss of concentration caused a three game loss. Hopefully this mental lapse will fade away before the team meets its next matches against Villanova and Lafayette on October 4. The results of yesterday's game against Harcum were not available at press time.

Resting up tomorrow

Awesome Widener Crunches Grizzlies

Coming off two disappointing outings, the Ursinus Football Team had the misfortune of meeting powerhouse Widener, which, conversely, was coming off two routs. Before the bleachers of Patterson Field, filled with many hopefuls for a huge upset, Ursinus proved no match for the much more talented Widener team. Led by halfback Hal Johnson's 160 yards rushing and two touchdowns, the Pioneers rolled to a 48-8 victory.

Widener's first score was set up by a long punt return, just as has happened so many times before in Widener-Ursinus games. Pioneer defensive back Tom Deery, an All-American last year as a sophomore, returned Craig Walck's first punt of the day 48 yards, setting Widener up at the Ursinus 40. The Pioneers chewed up nearly four minutes of the first quarter as they traveled the 40 yards in eight plays, with Johnson leading the way, carrying three times for 15 yards. Johnson's third carry covered the final two yards, and put Widener up 7-0.

Little time was wasted by Widener in building upon their lead. After Ursinus was forced to punt on their first possession following the Pioneer TD, Widener started a 61 yard drive that led to their second score. Led by quarterback Bob Cole, and running backs Gary Clofine and Alan Minker, Widener drove to the Ursinus eight, and a Cole keeper from there reached paydirt. The Pioneer extra point was blocked by Tim Reilly, holding the score at 13-0.

Widener's next touchdown came on a six yard pass from Cole to split end Gordon Stewart, who finally caught one after dropping several perfect Cole tosses for apparent TD's. This touchdown was set up by a 52 yard scamper from Johnson which got Widener away from the shadow of their goal line, and into Ursinus territory. A 26 yard Widener field goal late in the second quarter closed out first half scoring at 22-0 Widener.

Second half action saw more of the same. Widener scored four more TD's, on a 27 yard run by Johnson, a 14 yard run by Minker, a 16 yard scamper by Clofine, and a one yard keeper by sub-quarterback Joe Domsohn. The lone Ursinus score came early in the third quarter. Jim Rumer returned a Widener kickoff 37 yards to the Ursinus 47. A 12 yard Craig Walck to Jack Freeman pass followed by a Walck to Rumer pass and an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty by Widener put the Bears at the Widener 24. Three plays later, Rumer picked up nine yards on fourth and one, giving Ursinus first and goal on the six, and a Walck to John Blubaugh pass put Ursinus on the scoreboard. A successful two point conversion completed the Ursinus scoring.

Sports Profile: Debbie Tweed

by Stephanie Kane '83
Spirit, drive, and enthusiasm are key traits when you're talking about a talented girl like Debbie Tweed. Debbie, a senior Health and Physical Education major from Oaklyn, N.J., is a real asset to Ursinus' field hockey team this fall.

Debbie has a lot of experience behind her. She was a member of Collingswood High School's Field Hockey, Basketball, and Lacrosse Teams, and she continued with field hockey, badminton, and lacrosse at Ursinus. A varsity player since her sophomore year, Debbie is playing center half-back for this fall's team.

Debbie has very positive feelings for the women's team this season. She feels that the team's trip to Holland in the spring was a definite asset. "We learned a lot," Debbie says. "Their (the teams U.C. encountered) skill level is excellent . . . I personally learned a lot about ball control, dodges, and other skills." Debbie feels that this valuable experience will lead to a much improved team at Ursinus this year. "We work together really well," Debbie continued, "And we have more skill and more aggressiveness."

When asked what she thought about Ursinus' field hockey program as a perspective freshman, Debbie admits that the competition was what attracted her to the school. She wanted to be sure that she earned a position on the team, rather than having gotten one with very little effort and skill. Debbie has surely fulfilled that desire, as coach Adele Boyd supports, "Debbie is a super player."

As far as future plans are concerned, Debbie is anxious to begin teaching and coaching. With the talent and enthusiasm of this girl, any school or team would be fortunate to have such an active figure on their staff. Look out world, Ursinus has produced another champion — Miss Debbie Tweed!

Watch for the Homecoming Candidates in next weeks issue!

Cross Country Streak Alive

by Brian Ballard '81

The Bearpack traveled to Drew University in Madison, N.J., on September 27, for the league opener for the U.C. Harriers who have been terrorizing local invitational meets up to this point. The story was the same here at Drew as the Bears completely outclassed their opponents for a 15-49 victory. This latest victory increased the Bears' winning streak in dual meets to 24, with the last loss occurring two years ago, in the opening meet of the '78 season.

Ursinus had 6 runners on in before anyone from Drew crossed the finish line. Four Ursinus runners ran in a classic Bearpack tie for the victory. Dave Garner (who is well on the road to recovery from severe ankle problems), Pat Walker and Dominick and Joe Buda covered the 5 mile course in 27:27. Roland Desilets and John Doyle finished 5th and 6th respectively, turning in fine runs. Brian Clark took 8th for the Bears, rounding out the meet's scoring.

Coach Bob Shoudt was not looking to this meet as anything more than just a chance for the runners to run a controlled steady race. Shoudt had his men work through this meet pointing instead to the Mansfield State Invitational to be held on October 4.

The dual meet season is off to a flying start for the Bearpack. Hopefully, this type of showing will continue throughout the 1980 season. The next dual meet for the Bears is Saturday, October 11, in a tri-meet here against Dickinson and Johns Hopkins.

Despite 2-0 Loss...

Booters Still Showing Promise

by David Garner

With the offense on vacation for the past three games, the most recent an 8-0 drubbing at the hands of Drexel, the Soccer Team's prospects against Division I Lafayette on Monday, September 29, didn't seem very promising. But even though the U.C. Booters dropped their third straight game without scoring a goal, by a 2-0 count, the offense showed signs of regaining its explosive scoring ability of last season.

Grizzly Top Ten

Nebraska retains its No. 1 position by virtue of its 21-7 victory over Penn State. Ohio State and Alabama join Nebraska as being far above the rest. By defeating Oklahoma 31-13, Stanford cracks the top ten, and causes the Sooners to fall from the grace of our pollsters.

The visitors dominated the first half taking thirteen shots on goalie Jim Birchmeier. On both Leopard scores Birch was handcuffed, going one on one with an opponent at close range. Ursinus made several good runs at the Lafayette goal, but never really fooled the netminder with any difficult shots. Playing lackluster soccer, U.C. was lucky to go into the intermission only behind two goals.

In the second half the offense finally started to move the ball. Following a few good shots (and superb saves by Birch) by the visitors, halfback Bill Lynch was assessed a roughing penalty which resulted in a penalty kick from 12 yds. away. In a tremendous individual effort, Birch deflected the rising shot into the crossbar preventing a Lafayette score. The spectacular save seemed to inspire the entire UC
