Clouser Organizes Medical Advisory Committee

by Ken Taylor '84

A new committee has been formed this year to help students who plan to pursue careers in the field of medicine. The Alumni Physicians Advisory Committee was the idea of Dr. Robin Clouser, Ursinus' pre-medical advisor. Since Clouser is new at this position this year, he felt that he also needed advice, so the committee was formed.

Clouser began working on this idea last spring, but it was not until summer that he arranged to have four doctors, all graduates of Ursinus, come to discuss the committee. The four doctors who expressed interest were Dr. Joseph Rosen '55, Dr. Yolanda Roth '71, Dr. Robert Sing '75, and Dr. Francine Trzeciak '78.

Already this year, Sing and Trzeciak have spoken to freshmen at orientation, and several of the doctors are scheduled to speak to the Brownback-Anders Pre-Medical Society sometime in November. They have also expressed to Clouser that they would like the students to visit them and see how it all works.

Recent Committee Additions

Recently added to the Alumni Physicians Advisory Committee are four more doctors. These new members are Dr. Thomas Davis, Dr. Andrew Krick '71, Dr. Donald Parlee '55, and Dr. Sarah Sellers '74. With these new additions, Clouser has achieved what he had hoped for: balance. They are recently graduated and experienced doctors; Sing is an Osteopath, Trzeciak is a dentist, and Sellers is a Veterinarian.

This committee should greatly benefit Ursinus students interested in pursuing a career in medicine. Anyone interested in visiting or has any questions for one of the members of the committee should make an appointment through Dr. Clouser in Pfahler 311.

Allied Health Fields

There is also a group of faculty members currently being formed to advise students on humanities, such as opportunities in the Allied Health Fields and Sports Medicine. The group consists of Mrs. Jame Shinehouse, Dr. Conrad Kruse, Dr. Catherine Chambliss, Pamela Chlad, and Dr. Robert Cogger. Cogger is important to this group because he can put students in contact with alumni in their field of interest. So far there has been good cooperation on the part of the alumni, and the group may become more formalized as the interest in these fields continues to grow.

Union Rules Out Greaseband This Year

by Georgeann Fusco '84

The College Union sponsors many student activities throughout the school year, including movies, Coffeehouses, and concerts.

In the past two years The Fabulous Greaseband has been the featured concert band and has been very favorably received by all. However, this year the Union will be trying something new.

One of the major reasons for replacing the Greaseband is the cost of hiring the group for one night's performance is approximately $2,500. Even though there has always been a large turnout, the Union still loses money on this event. They are aiming for a cost of $1,500 and under, but if the students really want the Greaseband to return, which will mean a big cut in the budget, then the Union will make every effort to schedule a return performance.

Johnny's Dance Band was the original alternative for the concert, but they are unavailable for concerts this year. The College Union is now reviewing rock bands which play the top forty songs, in order to form a two or three band concert. The concert, which will be held in the Spring, will be coordinated with all campus parties so that no alcohol will be inside.

In addition to this concert, the Union is involved in other activities such as the College Bowl, the world's largest gumdrop construction, free movies on alternate Saturday evenings, all campus talent night, and the all campus calendar which lists the Union's activities during the school year.

Enthusiastic crowds filled the bleachers at Patterson Field on Parents' Day to witness the season's first victory for the football team. More on page three. (Photo by Larry Muscarella)

Some 'teacher shortages'

Education Department Optimistic About Jobs

by Stephanie Kane '83

As we all know, the liberal arts education that we receive as students at Ursinus provides us with an excellent background in many fields of study. One opportunity of which many students are not aware lies in the Department of Education, headed by Dr. Robert V. Cogger. Ursinus is proud of an excellent student teaching program which offers a comprehensive and relevant program leading to a Pennsylvania teaching certificate, which also qualifies teachers for certification in many other states. Students major in a selected subject area then elect the education program to qualify and certify them for a career in secondary school teaching.

Ursinus College has state-approved programs leading to certification in the following subject matters: English, French, German, Spanish, Latin, Mathematics, Math/Physics, Health & Phys. Ed. (grades 1-12), Biology, Chemistry, General Science, Physics and Social Studies.

Contrary to popular opinion, there are positions available, and the openings vary in terms of particular areas in each state. At present there are teacher shortages in some subject fields in most states. Although there has been a decline in teacher vacancies in recent years, the percentage of Ursinus graduates who have obtained teaching posts has continued to be higher than national figures.

In the graduating class of 1980, there were 37 people certified for secondary teaching; 29 of whom wanted teaching positions. Out of these 29 people 21 now have private or public school teaching positions in six different states (Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Ohio, Connecticut, and Texas). The other eight have entered graduate or business school.

Teacher salaries are on par with those in other fields. Beginning salaries in the Montgomery County start as high as $11,850 and have maximums as high as $30,000 for approximately 185 work days. There are many more benefits for a teaching career. Any questions concerning the Student-Teacher program can be answered by Dr. Cogger in Corson Hall—Room 113.

Freshman Class Appointments Available

by Lisa Lepone '84

The class of 1984 has just elected its four officers for the upcoming year. These four officers alone, however, cannot attend all meetings or participate in all the committees for which the class needs representation. There are seven appointments that must be made to four committees in order for the class to be properly represented.

The committees are: 1) The Dining Hall Committee.

Two students are chosen to represent the class at meetings where policies, problems and complaints concerning the Dining Hall are discussed. The committee usually meets the first Monday of every month in Paisley Lounge at 4 p.m.

2) The Student Activities Committee (SAC).

This committee is essential to the organization of all functions. The committee gives the final approval of funds allocated to various campus organizations, organizes the activities calendar, and maintains the constitutions of all classes and clubs. Meetings are held one to three times per semester, depending on the amount of business to be conducted.

The Freshman Class is allowed two representatives on this committee, who must be capable of expressing the opinions and requests of the Class.

Off The Editor's Desk

Fairness. Everybody talks about it. It's supposedly the underlying theme in the Democratic Platform. It's one of Anderson's favorite buzz words, too. I'm sure Reagan has managed to work it into most of his campaign speeches. I've even heard our own President Richter use fairness as a policy priority from time to time.

Each of these public figures is aiming at the right target. Fairness is an extremely admirable virtue. An environment of perfect fairness is an ideal one. However, too often our society never realizes this sense of fair play, and usually the people who promote this concept are not the ones to blame for having never achieved its existence. Rather, the reason for society's failure to achieve fairness is the failure of its inhabitants to be fair to one another. More explicitly, it's called hypocrisy.

Take Ursinus, for example (how very convenient!). Too often our own system, in an effort to establish a common sense of fairness, finds itself guilty to some degree of being unfair. Take a look around you, as I started doing after dinner Wednesday night. This counter productive force is prevalent all over campus. Over at Wismer, they're trying to nail all of those inconsiderate clowns who are too lazy to return their trays to the dishroom after meals. This is a great idea (or, at least, I thought, it was); it's just not fair to some people to get away with this while others abide by the system. Anyway, much to my surprise, word got back to me Wednesday night that the unbiased Wismer personnel has accused me of being one of the guilty culprits. Not only did this irritate me, but it confused me as well, since I have never once neglected to return my tray. Furthermore, it gave me reason to question the integrity of my accuser, as I have always prided myself as being one who encouraged cooperation within the Wimser system.

If that wasn't enough, I was getting in my car yesterday morning to head down to The Independent for lay-out. Looking at the cars in that area of the parking lot, it appeared as if the clouds had opened up and it started snowing parking tickets. Needless to say, one of these "snowflakes" found its way to my windshield, and it indicated that I was improperly parked. I couldn't believe it; I've been parking in that same spot for three years without a single violation. This predicament seems mighty curious to me. It appears to be the work of some rookie power-crazy ticketeer who was unfamiliar with the New Men's parking lot beat. Hopefully this situation will be rectified when all those who got snowed-under yesterday parade over to Dean Whatley's office and blow off some steam.

One other area which seems to lack a sense of fairness is the College's system for assessing damage/vandalism at the end of the year. I can appreciate the unassigned vandalism costs that are equally divided among the entire student body. However, I find myself very skeptical about cases where students are charged for damage that was already in their rooms before they moved in.

To some, these comments about fairness may seem pretty insignificant. However, I believe if a closer analysis is made of my viewpoints, it can be seen how fair treatment and cooperation share a coexistence. Fairness promotes cooperation; you can't have one without the other.

New Profs Appointed In German, History Depts.

by Sharon Stiles '84

Two lecturers have been added to the list of new faculty appointments at Ursinus College. Dr. Lynn M. Thelen has been appointed as lecturer in German, and Mr. Brian J. Fegely has been appointed as lecturer in history.

Dr. Thelen received her B.A. degree from Pennsylvania State University. She holds both her master's degree and her Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Thelen studied at the University of Cologne in Germany for a half a year as an undergraduate student. She also attended the University of Munich for a year as a graduate student.

While doing graduate work, she was a lecturer at the University of Pennsylvania. She taught at Bryn Mawr College prior to teaching at Ursinus.

Dr. Thelen enjoys teaching at Ursinus. She said, "I think that is fun. I am impressed with the students' enthusiasm. They are well prepared. I also like the supportive atmosphere of the German Department."

Dr. Thelen and her husband, Gerhard, reside in Malvern, Pennsylvania. She explained, "My husband is German. I met him at the University of Munich while I was studying there."

Her major interest is Medieval German Literature. Last summer she participated in a NEH seminar on Medieval Epic at Stanford University.

Dr. Thelen coordinated the University of Pennsylvania summer German program in Freiburg, Germany. She commented, "I am interested in starting programs for students to study abroad. This experience makes students learn quickly and makes them enthusiastic about German."

Dr. Thelen enjoys sports and impressionistic art. She loves traveling and has traveled all over Europe.

Mr. Fegely graduated from Ursinus College in 1977 with a B.A. degree in political science. He holds a master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania in international relations with area specialty in Soviet Union/Eastern Europe.

Fegely has noted some changes at Ursinus that have taken place since he was here as a student. He was impressed with the new Ritter Center. As for the faculty, he commented, "I was surprised at the number of new teachers. There have been many additions to the faculty."

When asked about the history program at Ursinus, he said, "The curriculum is much broader than when I was here. When I attended Ursinus, the emphasis of the curriculum was on European cultural history rather than on political events. I am glad to see a stimulation of activity on campus. We are being lifted out of the checkers and chess syndrome. We are getting more sophisticated games in teaching."

On the subject of teaching, Fegely commented, "I still haven't gotten used to being called 'Mr. Fegely'. There is still quite an academic motivation despite the opinions of the more conservative people of the faculty. I don't see any kind of radical activity here."

Fegely explained an interesting fact about his family. "There are four Fegelys associated with Ursinus — one is dead," he said. His mother has worked in the Dean of Students office as a secretary for 12 years. His father works part time as an assistant of programming in the Union. Fegely is a part-time history lecturer. The fourth member of the Fegely family at Ursinus is Byron S. Fegely who was in the Army Medical Corps. Fegely isn't certain how he is related. There is a memorial to this distant relative in the foyer of the Student Union Building.

Besides teaching, Fegely enjoys playing the bagpipe and fencing. At the University of Pennsylvania, he did work with the saber. He also likes war gaming, and is now negotiating to take over the advisorship of the Conflict Simulation Club.

Reader Rebound

To the Editor:

Are many students suffering from symptoms of hypocrisy? Signs are 1) constant complaints about a boring campus but still not participating in on-campus events, and 2) going to the same old parties and not making the effort to venture beyond a keg.

If so, contrary to popular belief, there are other campus happenings besides the average party. Even more importantly, most of these events are free! Student apathy has greatly increased — reasons unknown but complaints ever present.

As a class president, I often hear these complaints, but those complaining rarely show-up at sponsored activities. For those who participated and watched the Gong Show, you have my thanks. It is only when students get involved that more activities can be successful. The Gong Show, along with various all-campus functions (I.F. Picnic, Coffeehouses, films, and athletic events) were, in my opinion, "mild" successes, reasons being because of quantity not quality. The output is there but the feedback is not.

Future events include a talent show, movies, Coffeehouses, Halloween Party, and Homecoming Dance. Show that you're not as apathetic as the turnout makes it seem. Remember, rumors should be spread about activities, not people.

Your feedback is more than welcome.

USGA Notes

I would like to take this opportunity to discuss a few of the issues that the USGA has been working on for the past month and a half.

First, the USGA has provided valuable input into the formulation of the Utility Gym guidelines. These guidelines primarily deal with the parties that will be held in the Utility Gym. The guidelines represent a progressive move on the part of the USGA and the administration to change the nature of such large parties, and to make them more appealing to the entire College community. This is exemplified by provisions which encourage greater faculty and administrative participation in the parties themselves, and require the service of some type of food. I believe that such guidelines will make parties much more fulfilling and enjoyable for a greater number of students.

The USGA is also working on the laundry facility situation. Many male students are dismayed over the facilities provided in New Men's Dormitory. The performance of these machines can be enhanced if the student keeps his load down to 9 lbs. These machines are not heavy duty machines, and can only handle 9 lbs. (washers and dryers).

Dean Whatley has been receptive to our requests for improved facilities and has contacted the Calico Company accordingly. Also, he is going to have heavy duty washers and dryers put in as many off campus houses as possible.

The USGA has helped revise the van policy. The new policy is a result of greater student organization and academic use. The guidelines are quite clear and should help alleviate the problems which have come up in the past.

In conclusion, the USGA would like some input on alternative housing, student participation on faculty committees, and many other issues which are all on our current agenda. Our meetings have been moved to the Conference Room in Corson Hall. We meet on Thursday night at 6:30, and appreciate and encourage responsible input.

Staiger Named for State Committee

Dr. Roger Staiger, chemistry department chairman at Ursinus College, has been selected by the Pennsylvania Department of Education to serve on the Teacher Program Certification Review Committee for Sciences at Moravian College during the week of October 13.

Committee members review an institution's curriculum and programs to see that they meet the state's standards for preparing students to be teachers of secondary school science.

This is normal procedure every five years for all colleges and universities which have teacher education programs subject to state certification reviews. Being named to the committee is regarded as recognition of an educator's academic reputation and of the college represented.

Dr. Staiger is a 1943 graduate of Ursinus, B.S., chemistry, and became a member of its chemistry faculty the same year. He earned his master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania. His honors include the Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching and the David Laucks Hain professorship at Ursinus.

Dr. Staiger has written and lectured widely in his field, and he has been instrumental in sustaining the highly regarded reputation of the Ursinus College chemistry department. He is married and resides in Collegeville.

Parents' Day Brings Campus Enthusiasm

by Sue Colalezzi '84

Preparations for Parents' Day had been going on for some time. By Saturday morning all traces of Friday night's parties had been cleared away. Everyone wanted the parents to see the best of the campus.

Festivities began with a parent, faculty, student mixer in the College Union. At the same time some of the campus organizations held fund raisers in Bomberger. Alpha Sigma Nu and the organization of Day Students held bake sales. Omega Chi sold Pennsylvania Dutch funnel cake and apple cider. Another sorority, Kappa Delta Kappa, sold candy. The Biology Club offered plants for sale, and the Beardwood Chemical Society sold used textbooks.

Two interesting games were also set up. One sponsored by Beardwood Chemical Society involved pouring water into test tubes filled with certain mixtures. As the mixture turned the right color you won a prize. Another game was throwing darts at balloons marked with the name of your "favorite" professor. Campus Gold, the service organization, had a stuffed animal raffle. ZAK, the Ursinus mascot, was busy greeting parents and having his picture taken.

The parents were able to see a variety of sporting events, including soccer, cross country, and football. After the football team's victory over Johns Hopkins, even the pouring rain could not dampen the crowd's spirits.

The food service people outdid themselves in preparing good food for the parents. A buffet luncheon was served. In the evening there was a hot and cold buffet. After the football game, a reception was held in Helfferich Hall. The cider and donuts were appreciated after the damp football game.

President Richard P. Richter spoke with the parents during the afternoon and addressed a wide variety of issues of parent interest.

The fun-filled day was capped off with the dedication of the Utility Gym by way of a square dance. The day was enjoyed by everyone, and parents will certainly be looking forward to the next Parents Day.

College Offers Numerous Special Programs

by Leah Whitman

We, as students, often think of Ursinus College strictly in terms of ourselves — that is, what the College can do for us. But Ursinus, through the Offices of Continuing Education and the Evening School, provides services to the community at large with services other than the customary courses for degree work. There are programs for those interested in business, investing, and alternate energy sources, and programs for study tips and pure enjoyment.

During the fall a number of workshops and seminars have been planned, some currently underway, some for the immediate future. A library open-house has been scheduled and, of course, the programs in the Forum series which are open to the public are free of charge.

From Continuing Education

Continuing Education has five programs planned to appeal to a variety of interests. Dr. Erlis Glass, Director of Special Programs, has arranged a number of non-credit courses and workshops during weekdays, evenings, and Saturdays.

The first of these programs, "Antiques and the Decorative Arts," has attracted fifty adults from the surrounding communities for the five-week, Thursday morning course. Also underway is Dr. Derk Visser's photography course as was mentioned in our last issue. Visser has twenty-five students currently learning the art of producing better pictures.

Dr. John Wickersham will be discussing gender identity in the future in his series of four informal discussions of science fiction books. "Science Fiction — Females and Futurism" will be held Thursday evenings beginning October 21.

Two workshops slated for Saturdays in November should be of particular interest considering the amount of money normally invested in their topics — energy and real estate. The first workshop, scheduled for November 1, will be an all-day program on alternate energy sources. Real estate for the small investor will be the topic of the second workshop to be held on Saturday, November 15. Tuition for both also includes mid-morning coffee and lunch.

Three programs have been arranged by C. Joseph Nace, Director of Ursinus College Evening School, one for evening school students, the other for those in business. Scheduled is a Study Skills workshop for Saturday, October 25, this time for evening students. Also planned by Nace is an especially intensive program for those considering or just starting small businesses. Thursday, November 6, is the date for the all-day workshop. Also of business interest is a seminar set for Tuesday, November 18, focusing on the management of problems in the workplace.

And last but not least, since it is the event that will be of interest to the largest segment of the community, is the open-house of Myrin Library on Thursday, November 13. This event will be covered at length in another issue.

Ursinus provides more than educational opportunity for the student body. With its many programs, it reaches out far beyond the confines of our campus to the benefit of both the college and the community.

Coffeehouse Of 'Distant Admiration'

Jamison Smoothdog appeared in the International Room of the College Union Building last Sunday evening for a Coffeehouse performance. After a ten-minute delay, during which the sparse audience awaited more potential listeners, the performance began.

Mr. Smoothdog formally introduced himself (as, believe it or not, Jamison Smoothdog) and began his first set with a spoken proclamation of his musical originality and the remark, "If you want to hear somebody else, try B-25 on the juke box." (The juke box only goes up to B-8, but I'm sure that is missing the point.)

Our performer was not lacking in either originality or variety. With an acoustic guitar and a microphone, Mr. Smoothdog filled the small room with more "vibes" than your average one-man band. His instrumental technique was excellent and helped to disclose an almost raging desire he possessed for life. Mr. Smoothdog even managed to successfully pull off a forceful love song — a true rarity.

Low attendance must surely take its toll on an entertainer's energy level, if not on his attitude toward a given audience. At most, there were a dozen students in the audience at any one time.

Mr. Smoothdog lacked stage presence and a "formal sense" of the audience, which made it difficult to sense any direction in his music. Dean Leslie March, who was in attendance, seemed to think that his music "... came from his soul. But he didn't want any of us to know it."

Mr. Smoothdog's music remains worthy, if not of praise, of distant admiration.

Forum Presents

"Tyler and Althea"

The Ursinus College Forum Series will present "Tyler and Althea," a new play by New York author Michelle Herman starring Ruth Kinter and Kersten Anderson on Tuesday, October 28, p.m., in the Ritter Center for Dramatic Arts. It is free and open to the public.

Kersten Anderson

Michelle Herman is a successful short story writer for literary quarterlies, who also edits books and writes articles for Glamour and Owl magazines.

She recently completed an anthology of contemporary fiction about fathers and daughters, and presently is working on a novel. "Tyler and Althea," her first play, makes a strong statement about conditions of women in our society. Kersten Anderson and Ruth Kinter are young actresses, active in the New York theatre scene, whose reviews point to promising careers.

Both were trained at the city's prestigious Neighborhood Theatre. Their acting credits include numerous Off-Broadway productions, summer stock and repertory companies. In addition, Miss

Ruth Kinter

Anderson studied at the Shakespeare Institute, England, and currently directs "Period of Adjustment," playing in New York. Miss Kinter's background also includes classical and children's theatre, and dance experience. She is a 1974 graduate of Ursinus College.

Awaiting F.C.C. License . . .

Radio WRUC Making Slow Return

by Carl Buck '84

Slowly but surely, Ursinus' own radio station, WRUC, is arising from the ashes. Under the leadership of station manager Joe Dascenzo, WRUC has begun work which will eventually make the station functional. However, many obstacles still face the station's organizational procedures.

Dascenzo has been trying to tackle one problem at a time. Regarding the F.C.C. license, the station has obtained the services of Dr. J. Houghton Kane, who will act in his position of lawyer while assisting the station in their filling out the 60 page license. Also, Dascenzo and various members of the staff have been in contact with other local college radio stations (such as WKDU of Drexel University) regarding the appropriation of the F.C.C. license.

A Minute Mountain

There are many other minor problems facing the station. A few of these are obtaining the services of an engineer to conduct a "frequency search," finding adequate equipment for the station's transmitting power, and getting enough faculty backing to prevent the dissolving of Station WRUC once again. There is also a plea by the station for any extra furniture available (desks, filing cabinets, etc.) for use by the staff.

One sure sign of life in the station is the demo's and tapes which are coming in from various record companies who want air time for them. But as the weeks drag on, one question commonly given to staff members is "When will the station be on the air?" And their answer simply given is "When you help."

The main problem facing the station is regaining their F.C.C. license with the little equipment that the station now has in its transmitting room in the basement of Bomberger Hall. There is a "Catch-22" situation involved here because the F.C.C. license cannot be obtained without the proper transmitting equipment, and the proper transmitting equipment cannot be obtained without an F.C.C. license.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

Parents' Day Sees Gym Dedication

by Beth Harp '84

The Utility Gymnasium was officially dedicated Saturday night, October 11. President Richard P. Richter gave a brief speech, citing the history of the building, and explaining the purpose for which it will now be used.

Some members of the Ursinus band played a fanfare, while three college administrators cut the ribbons. Nelson Williams, Business Manager of the College, cut the red ribbon signifying the financial aspects of the gym. Robert Davidson, Director of Athletics, snipped the gold ribbon, officially signifying the financial aspects of the gym. Robert Davidson, Director of Athletics, snipped the gold ribbon, officially opening the gym to all students. Dean Ruth Harris cut the black ribbon, which symbolized the social affairs for which the gymnasium will be the setting.

A square dance was held following the dedication with the public invited. Since the affair was held on the same night as Parent's Day, a good number of students and their families took part in the festivities. A professional square dance caller was on hand to entertain and instruct those in attendance. Also, refreshments were provided for the wear square dancers and guests. The new Utility Gym offered plenty of room for its very first social event.

At this point the gymnasium still has the empty, hollow grey-ness of a new building, but with the variety of functions it offers, the gymnasium promises to become one of the hottest spots on the Ursinus College campus.

SAC Approves Two New Clubs

by Pat Keenan '84

Two new clubs have been added to the extra-curricular activities here at Ursinus. They are the Ursinus College Classics Club and Ursinus College Women's Track. Both of these clubs submitted their proposed constitutions to the Students Activities Committee prior to the meeting on September 26.

The purpose of the Classics Club is to promote the study and understanding of the classics and their context in classical culture. The club also hopes to organize the people interested in classics so that they can share their knowledge and experience.

The purpose of the Women's Track Club is to enable Ursinus women to participate in organized track and field events, and to promote physical fitness through aerobic exercise. Meetings will consist of practice sessions held during the spring sports season. These sessions will include extensive training and running in preparation for competition.

Anyone who is interested in either of these clubs and feels they could make a valuable contribution by participating should contact either Dr. John Wickersham, who is organizing the Classics Club, or Mr. Mark Davies who is in charge of women's track.

'Gong Show' Provides Friday Night Fun

by Deborah Bynon '84

Classes of 1981 and 1982 berger Auditorium last Friday evening, October 10, and provided enjoyment for all who attended. Derek Pickell, Carol Stevens, Grace Litka, and Kay Buckwalter were responsible for organizing the show.

Professor Barry Bowers did an excellent job emceeing the show with his lively personality and corny jokes, he seemed very much like Chuck Barris of the real "Gong Show."

The judges, Dr. Ross Doughty, Mrs. Cathy Wilt, and Miss Eileen Kraus, did a good job of scoring the participants.

The first prize, $96.84, went to Steve Woodward, with thirty-one points. Steve recited a humorous

Four other acts which did not win, but received scores instead of the gong, were Ron Baltz, who played the guitar and sang a song he composed himself, "I'll Go Mine," Glenn Fuir, who played a variation of the song, "Mediterranean Sundance," by Al Dimea, on his guitar; The College Village People, dancing to "YMCA;" and The Players featuring The Player, Bill White, who did a very lively dance to Boataj's Rubber Band.

There were a few acts gonged by the judges. The Alpha Sigma Nu pledge class danced to "Time poem called "Horace."

Dan Lewis, with 29½ points, won the second prize of $52.13 for playing the guitar and singing "Ugly."

Warp," but was gonged. Carol Waters and Kay Buckwalter, singing "The Watermelon Song," and The Worms, singing "The Littlest Worm," were gonged. The winner, Steve Woodward, had his share of gonging, too. He performed in a Monty Python skit with Cookie Schwalm and was gonged.

The Gong Show was a great success. The participants had as much fun performing as the audience had watching them.

College Bowl Season Officially Opens

by Pat Keenan '84

This past week Ursinus scholars began to put their knowledge to the test by competing in the campus College Bowl. Every Wednesday evening at seven o'clock in the College Union, various teams contend with each other in answering questions that range from sports to science to literature. Some of the questions are relatively easy; however, the majority of them are mind-bogglers such as, "How many teeth do turtles have?"

Two teams, each with four panelists, compete at one time. The rules of the College Bowl are very simple. Toss-up questions which are directed to both teams are worth ten points. If one of the panelists interrupts while the question is still being read and answers correctly, his team gets a bonus question. If he answers incorrectly the team receives a five point penalty. During a toss-up question there can be no consultation among team members.

There were a total of four games last Wednesday evening. The first two teams to play were TLS Limited, whose captain is Dan Lewis against Taylor's Pork Roll whose captain is Eric Taylor. TLS Ltd. won by a score of 160 to 130. The second game was won by the team called Bowler's Anonymous which is headed by Scott Bowerman. They beat Tau Beta Alpha whose captain is Larry Muscarella by a score of 260 to 35. The third game was between Jim Albright's team called Martintz and Slabata (FACE) and and Slabata (FACE) and the Bonzo Brothers. The Bonzo Brothers headed by Ed Wikoff managed to come from behind and beat their opponents by a score of 200 to 185.

The final game of the evening was won by Christopher Kile's team, the Fetterolf Fearsome team, the Fetterolf Fearsome Foursome plus One with a score of 195 against Linda Smith's team, Trouble at Clamer with a score of 40.

Anyone who wants to test their knowledge or learn new facts such as turtles have no teeth, should come out and watch the competition on Wednesday evenings. As the season progresses competition will become more intense.

Thornburgh Restores Aid To Colleges

Gov. Dick Thornburgh today signed a package of legislation restoring $336 million in aid to state-related colleges, universities and cultural institutions in Pennsylvania.

"By signing these bills today, I am providing these institutions of higher education the level of funding for fiscal year 1980-81 that I originally proposed to the legislature last February," Thornburgh said. "We have been able to overcome the revenue shortfall created by the Liquor Control Board which forced me to cut the original appropriations by 10 percent."

The legislation includes a technical measure raising the Commonwealth's official revenue estimate for the year. There are also 51 non-preferred appropriation bills that increase the financial assistance to the institutions to the governor's original levels.

Thornburgh, in his February budget message, proposed funding the state-related colleges, universities and other institutions at the level of $336 million. In framing the aid package within the requirements of a balanced budget the governor was relying on an LCB commitment to provide an additional $26 million in revenues as well as $15 million through increased fees for certain state services.

He was forced to cut each institution's appropriation by 10 percent on July 11, 1980 when the LCB failed to act on its commitment to place a 10 cent charge on each bottle of liquor sold and the legislature did not pass a fee increase bill.

The funding problems were solved when the LCB enacted a new pricing policy and the administration initiated several fee increases which do not require legislative concurrence.

Strong-Campbell Interest Inventory

The Strong-Campbell Interest Inventory will next be offered to interested students in all classes on Thursday, October 30, 1980 from 12:15 to 1:00 P.M. in Wismer 004. By assessing a variety of interests in areas such as school subjects, amusements, types of people, occupations, etc. and presenting the results in terms of general and specific occupational patterns, this instrument can be most effective in promoting self understanding and career awareness. The $15.00 fee for this service, which includes all test materials, a computerized profile of individual inventory scores and personalized career counseling, must be paid at the Treasurer's Office by Wednesday, October 29, 1980. Your receipt will be your admission ticket at the actual testing.

If you have any questions or would only be interested in taking the test at a different time, please call the Career Planning and Placement Office, ext. 274 or 226.

CAMPUS FOCUS

Liquor Quicker But Pot More Popular

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (CH) — Marijuana is now more popular than alcohol among teen-agers, says U. of Michigan researcher Dr. Lloyd Johnston.

In a report submitted to the National Alcohol and Drug Coalition, Johnston said his survey of 16,000 teen-agers shows 10% reported using marijuana or hashish daily compared to 7% using alcohol daily. Johnston called this change "one of the most potentially important phenomena to come onto the American drug scene in the last decade."

Johnston's report, sponsored by the Institute for Social Research, doesn't try to explain its results, although Johnston does say that much of the increase in marijuana use "took place during a period in which marijuana appeared to the public to be getting a fairly clean bill of health."

The most disturbing aspect of the report, says Johnston, is its indication that daily marijuana smokers are more apt to use other drugs, and with greater frequency, than those who don't smoke. The other drugs can include alcohol, nicotine, LSD and PCP. "I consider the high overlap in these drug habits to be a basis for some real concern about the long-term physical health of this segment of the population," he says.

The survey shows the prototype daily pot smoker is a white male with liberal political and religious views, few academic ambitions and a hectic social life. Most smokers also indicated they intend to continue smoking for at least five years.

Dognappers Repent, Return Handsome Dan

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (CH) — Handsome Dan is back on the Yale University campus, apparently none the worse for a summer spent out of his usual confines in the Yale Trophy Room at the Payne-Whitney athletic building.

Handsome Dan, Yale's original bulldog mascot which was stuffed and embalmed after his death in 1898, was stolen last April. Associate Athletic Director Joni Barrett offered the thieves a midnight pool party in Payne-Whitney for the dog's return, but that bait apparently wasn't taken.

Instead, two men drove up to Barrett's house, carried the dog in its bronze-and-glass case into her living room, said "Here's your dog" and left. Their identity is still unknown.

Barrett says she was never really worried about Handsome Dan. She believes he was stolen by pranksters who enjoyed the challenge of getting away with it.

Handsome Dan himself may have enjoyed the change of scenery. The last time he was successfully stolen (and returned) was in 1939.

Heathens Take Intramural Title

The Heathens, led by an aggressive defense, edged Zeta Chi 20-19 on Tuesday to win the 1st Annual Jim Sakell Bowl and claim the Intramural Football Championship. In what can be described as an all out hard hitting but cleanly-played game, the undefeated but once tied Heathens stormed out of the blocks to a 20-6 halftime lead. The Zetans came back in the 2nd half led by the running of their halfbacks, but it was not enough as some great defensive play by Mike Mulligan and Jim Jeffers helped the Heathens hang on.

To get into the Sakell Bowl both teams had to survive a tough semi-final round. The Heathens, led by a Skip Feraco interception return for a touchdown, scored 16 points in a 2½ minute span to forge to a 26-6 halftime lead over Delta Pi. The Deltans made a noble comeback in the second half before finally being subdued 32-25 in a game that was not as close as the score indicates. Referee Jay "The Whistle" DeFuscio did an excellent job as he has done all season, in what can be termed a very controversial game.

The Zetans also had a tough semi-final game, edging Sig Rho 18 to 13 on a touchdown with 36 seconds to play. Sig Rho seemed to have the game wrapped up only a few seconds earlier, but an apparent interception was disallowed and the Zetans made the most of their new life. Ron Kaznel played an outstanding game for ZX in the light-marred game. The Rhoans, the only team which the Heathens have not beaten, had an outstanding team effort, but fell just short.

Scott Kreiger has been named "Coach of the Year" in a voting among his peers! And rightfully so. Barring free agents, Krieger will only be losing senior captain Dan Parenti thru graduation, with the rest of the squad returning. "The Greek" has installed them as 9-5 favorites to win it again next year — but didn't he do the Jets?

Grizzly Top Ten

There is upheaval in the Top 10 again this week, as Alabama barely retains its share of No. 1 with a close decision over Rutgers. UCLA's victory 35-21 victory over Stanford shoots the Bruins into a share of the lead. USC and Texas retain their places in the first five, while Florida State's upset of Pitt shoots the Seminoles into this select group, and knocks the Panthers into oblivion. Others missing from this week's Top Ten include Ohio State and Miami (Fla.), while Penn State appears for the first time.

Booters Kick Del Valley

by David Garner '81

After last Saturday's 3-0 manhandling of visiting Delaware Valley, the Ursinus Soccer team appears to have fully recovered from the mistake-ridden, nonchalant style of play which plagued them during the four game losing streak of two weeks ago. The Parent's Day victory gave the Booters three wins and a tie in their last four outings. With two critical contests against MAC schools slated for the up-coming week, the Bears could have picked no better time to regain their 1979 form.

Despite the wet, chilly weather that Parent's Day morning had to offer, Ursinus came out fired-up and ready to play. From the opening kick-off, UC dominated the Rams with its own brand of "total team soccer." The slick field conditions did little to hamper the well-executed passing game of the Bears. With Jeff Jewitt and Chip Montgomery leading the clinic on dribbling and fancy passing, the Booters moved the ball into scoring range with relative ease. The visitors managed a few runs on UC goalie Jim Birchmeier, but most attempts were cut-down by the outstanding defensive efforts of fullbacks Jon Dick, Bill Morehouse, John Signorino and Ricky Hope. Even though Ursinus peppered the Delaware Valley keeper with seventeen first half shots, the only score came at 36:50 when Tim Howard, playing right wing for law-boarding Greg Gifford, took a pass from Montgomery and beat the goalie on a crossing shot to his right from 12 yards out.

A ten minute lapse enabled the Rams to make a few runs at the start of the second half, but the Bears quickly regrouped and took control of the game once again. Bob Thomas made it 2-0 Ursinus, with an unassisted break-away goal at 24:30. After dribbling to the right of the goal, Thomas lofted a fine crossing shot into the net. Five minutes later, Jim Drevs out-ran the Delaware Valley fullbacks and blasted a bullet from twenty yards out past the DV netminder. With the win secure Coach Walt Manning rested his starters and watched as the substitutes continued to control the tempo and to preserve the 3-0 margin.

At 4-4-1, the UC Booters are now entering the crucial part of their schedule. After tomorrow's tune-up game against the Alumni, the Bears travel to Albright on Monday and Haverford on Wednesday for tough MAC contests. It is important that Ursinus win every game against MAC opponents in order to qualify for the play-offs. So far, the Bears are 2-0 in the Southeast Division of the MAC, and a successful week could help them on their way to a division title.

Hockey Record

the team. This past week the Bears played the type of hockey that they are capable of and the result was total domination of two very competitive teams.

The games for the upcoming week include Trenton on Tuesday, October 21, at home at 3:00, and West Chester on Friday, October 24, at West Chester at 3:00.

FLICK-OFFS: The J.V. hockey team finished their week with a loss and a win. The team lost to Lock Haven on a goal late in the second half. The Bears beat Princeton by a score of 1-0 on a goal by freshman Linda Lippincott. The J.V. record is now 7-2-0. The upcoming games for J.V. are with Trenton and West Chester.

The third team lost to Muhlenberg on Wednesday, October 8, by a score of 1-0. The goal came with a minute and a half left in the game. Even though a loss was suffered, the play of the team was greatly improved over previous games. The third team has the upcoming week off with their next game against Widener on Homecoming.

Women's Volleyball

Faces Tough Schedule

by Diane Vinciguerra '84

In the last few days the Ursinus Volleyball Team has had an extremely tough varsity schedule. On October 10, the Bears hosted Kutztown State College; the following day they participated in an invitational tournament at Muhlenberg College; three days later, on October 14, they hosted Trenton State College.

The Bears lost to Kutztown in three straight matches, but not without a fight. Super spikes by Margaret Tomlinson and Gwen McKeon kept the team within three points of the lead throughout the entire game. Unfortunately the Kutztown squad answered each spike with returns which were too much for the Bears to overcome.

During the Muhlenberg tour-namment, Ursinus showed their superior abilities by capturing second place, losing only to Muhlenberg. The key to the Bears' success was their great team effort and the consistent support and leadership of captain Patsy Cox.

On Monday, another super team effort, highlighted with a great performance by Junior Linda Hetherington, was not enough to overcome Trenton State, as our team was defeated by a score of three games to one. A lack of concentration and a few costly mistakes were the only barriers preventing Ursinus from capturing the win.

The team hopes to add a few wins to its record in today's game against Swarthmore and again in Tuesday's trimeet with Lehigh and LaSalle.

Overpowers Johns Hopkins

Football Finds Season's First "W"

A two touchdown fourth quarter explosion by an offense that until that point had seemed bent on self-destruction led Ursinus to its initial victory of the season in a 23-19 thriller over Johns Hopkins.

The first three quarters of this game had followed the pattern of the entire season so far — the score did not reveal the true nature of the game. Despite dominating Hopkins both offensively and defensively, Ursinus found itself trailing 19-8 entering the fourth quarter as a result of a horde of penalties, two blocked punts, and one case of lost footing on the wet field. However, once the fourth quarter started, the Grizzlies got their act together, the mistakes were overcome and Ursinus had the win it deserved.

The Ursinus comeback started right after Hopkins had taken its 19-8 lead on a 30 yard touchdown return of a blocked punt. Starting on their own 22, the Bears drove the 78 yards in 16 plays for their second touchdown of the day. Quarterback Craig Walck was the leader of this drive, which overcame 20 yards of penalties and ended on Jim Rumer's 14 yard TD scamper. Walck ran 5 times during the drive for 34 yards, including pickups of 17 and 10 yards. The key play, however, was Walck's gain of 4 on fourth and three at the Hopkins 26. Craig also passed for 44 yards on this march to the goal line, hitting Jack Freeman once for 17 yards, and the now healthy Jay Repko twice for 27 yards. After Bruce Fensterbush's conversion, Ursinus trailed by only 19-15.

Little time was then wasted by the Bears in grabbing the lead. The defense soon forced a punt, and the offense was given good field position at the Hopkins 47.

Fullback Lonney Grove gained four on the first play, and then on the next play burst over right tackle, ran through several tackles and went all the way for a 43 yard TD. When Craig Walck crossed the goal line on a keeper for a two point conversion, Ursinus had its final margin of victory, which held up thanks to a fumble recovery by Nick Sabia, and an interception by Brian Lyman, both turnovers aborting Hopkins comeback attempt.

Hopkins opened the game's scoring early in the second quarter. After a blocked punt, Hopkins started at the UC 30. Six plays later, a Jim Margraff-Bill Stromberg pass had the visitors ahead 7-0.

Ursinus came back to take an 8-7 lead on a 9 play, 63 yard drive. Jim Rumer carried six times for 40 yards, including the touchdown scored from four yards out, and two Walck-to-Repko passes spearheaded this drive. John Blubaugh then found Dave Dougherty in the end zone for the two point conversion.

Hopkins' big quarter was the third. Facing a fourth and three at the UC 44 during the second Hopkins possession of the quarter, the Blue Jays took to the air.

When cornerback Matt Delao lost his foot and slipped, the path was clear for a Margraff-to-Bruce Kane touchdown pass. Two Ursinus possessions later, Hopkins scored on the blocked punt, but then the Bears put it all together.

BEAR FACTS: A multitude of stars from this game. Jim Rumer played his best game yet, gaining 125 yards and two TD's on 26 carries. Lonnie Grove picked up 85 yards on 9 carries. Jeff Bright 90 yards in 10 attempts, and Craig Walck ran 13 times for 73 yards... Walck passed 10-26, 128 yards to supplement the running game. Jay Repko, playing for the first time since the first play vs. Alfred, celebrated his return by catching 6 passes for 65 yards. John Blubaugh grabbed 3 for 46 yards, and Jack Freeman 1 for 17... Entire offensive line played well, as Hopkins' defensive line was blown away... Jeff Vanace has won the starting center spot from Tom Dunn... Bill White returned from off season surgery, starting at offensive left tackle and helping to stabilize line play... 488 yards total offense is the best Ursinus output since Coach Karas has been here... Defensive standouts were interior linemen Mike Fagan, Steve Kline and John Gattuso, and linebacker Terry Bazow... Sabia's fumble recovery and Lyman's interception were the defense's first truly big plays of the season... On punts that weren't blocked, Walck averaged 45.6 yards... Offense was driven crazy by holding and

by Jean Morrison '83

The Ursinus Field Hockey Team defeated Lock Haven on Saturday, October 11, by a score of 3-0. Scoring for the Bears were juniors Debbie Brackett and Traci Davis, and senior Debbie Tweed. The Bears totally dominated Lock Haven in perhaps their best game since the Penn State Tournament in early September.

The first goal by Brackett came at three minutes into the first half. Brackett gathered in a rebound and found a hole in between the goalkeeper's legs. Davis' goal at the 33 minute mark was a result of a penalty corner in Ursinus' favor. The shot taken directly from the corner rebounded to Davis, she put the ball between the goalie and the post. The last goal, the best of the game, came off Tweed's stick thirty minutes into the second half. Following a corner for Ursinus, the ball went across the top of the striking circle. Tweed didn't stop the ball, instead she shot it as it came across. The shot came so fast that the goalkeeper had no time to react and the ball found its way into the goal.

The overall play of the team was much improved over what it has been in previous games. Davis, junior Jill Snyder and senior co-captain Gina Buggy worked the right side of the field very well. Junior Trish Delfemi played a solid and effective game both offensively and defensively. Senior co-captain Laurie Holmes also had several nice rushes on goal.

On Thursday, October 9, the Bears defeated Princeton by a score of 2-0. Scoring for Ursinus were Tweed and Davis.

The first half play was back and forth, but U.C. had the advantage. Tweed's goal at the thirteen minute mark was picture perfect. It was the Bears' first goal directly from a corner this year. This is a good sign as Ursinus has been having trouble with their corners. Brackett hit the ball out from the corner to Tweed. Tweed stopped the ball and hit a beautiful shot finding a hole on the goalkeeper's right side. Princeton almost tied the score after a penalty corner. The shot from the penalty corner rebounded off the pads of sophomore goaltender Margie Yost toward the far corner. Senior Sue Darwin dived across to make the save. Princeton then pushed the ball back towards the goal. Yost made the second save and Darwin finished the play by clearing the ball out of the circle. Ursinus' second goal came off the stick of Davis at the 24 minute mark. A scrimmage developed in front of the Princeton net and Davis scored on a rebound of two previous shots.

The Princeton game was also well played by each member of
