Ursinus News In Brief

Ursinus changes Dormitory Hours

Some promising news has come to the attention of the student body. A new dormitory visitation policy has been adopted. The revision extends visitation hours on Sunday from 1:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Hopefully the plan will be extended into the spring semester.

Student Teachers Assigned Positions

Forty-two Ursinus College students will be assigned as student teachers in nine neighboring public school districts this fall, according to Dr. Robert V. Cogger, chairman of the education department.

They will be seniors in the coming school year and will take up their assignments from October to December to gain experience in both elementary and secondary classes.

Ursinus provides a half-tuition scholarship to each cooperating school district, which districts may award to students of their choice. The scholarships are guaranteed two years, and if needed may be extended another two years.

Counseling Services Discussed

President Richter met September 1st with the Director of Services of a local counseling agency to discuss student personnel services. Peter C. Weaver, Director of Aldersgate Youth Service Bureau, Willow Grove, presented plans calling for training and maintaining a student referral network supervised by Aldersgate counselors, personal counseling by contract between Ursinus and Aldersgate, and a hotline service. The cost of the plans ranged between $1000 and $4000.

Library Announces New Hours

Ursinus College's Myrin Library announces new library hours effective September 14, 1977. While school is in session hours are: Monday through Thursday 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 midnight; Friday 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.; Saturday 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.; and Sunday 1:00 p.m. to 12:00 midnight.

With the addition of Saturday evening hours, the library will be open 100 hours per week. A coin operated Xerox is available to the public at all times.

Sophomores Hold Road Rally

The 2nd Annual Road Rally, sponsored by the Sophomore Activities Committee, was held on Saturday, September 24, 1977.

Twenty-eight entrants navigating 9 cars participated in the event organized by Mark Woodland and Ronnie Cubit. First place honors went to Brian McMillan, while second place was awarded to Brad Friedmann.

Drivers navigating the rain-slicked, hour-long course placing 3rd, 4th and 5th were Paula Lopez, Jim Early and Dave Ruth, respectively.

ProTheatre News

ProTheatre will present three plays on Friday and Saturday evenings, October 28 and 29 in the Bearpit.

Ursinus Slated for Evaluation

by Sharon Tuberty

Ursinus College is presently preparing for an evaluation by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The evaluation process occurs once every ten years, and Ursinus is slated to be formally examined in the spring of 1979. Prior to this, a self-evaluation will be conducted by the college. From this self-study, Ursinus will prepare a report on the results which will then be presented to the Middle States Association. Six to eight people from other colleges, representing the Association, will spend three days at Ursinus talking to Board members, Faculty, Administration and students in the spring of 1979 and will comment on our self-evaluation and make recommendations. A report will be filed by them with the Middle States Association.

Dr. Elizabeth Shaw, a representative of the Middle States Association, will visit Ursinus on October 5th to meet with Board members, administrators, faculty and students. At this time she will talk about the evaluation process and everything that is involved.

As Dr. James P. Craft, Jr., Executive Assistant to the President, stated, Ursinus hopes to actively involve the whole campus in examining the college. Already there are three sets of Planning currently under way at Ursinus. On September 28th, there will be a joint meeting of the Academic Council and Department Heads to discuss calendar planning. Dr. Craft stated that at this meeting a revised calendar for the 1978-79 academic year will probably be agreed upon and approved at the November meeting of the Board of Directors. This calendar is based on comments from the Faculty and the two surveys of student opinion last spring. It has been discussed and approved by a group of Faculty, Students, and Administration. The College is also concerned with the criteria for promotion and tenure of the faculty. More discussion will probably be needed before it meets approval.

Planning of the Mission is also being given considerable emphasis. The mission of the College was initiated in a meeting of some 40 members of the Board, Administration, Faculty and Students on May 21, 1977, and basically its purpose is to "develop independent and responsible individuals who are prepared for a creative and productive role in a changing world." The mission seeks to attain this objective through cultivation of various ideas and concepts. The Mission is an overall statement of the purpose of Ursinus College.

The Campus Planning Group will choose a few goals for the College to concentrate upon. Associated with each goal will be a task force. On September 19, 1977, the Long-Term Planning Committee of the Board and the Campus Planning Group created a Task Force to improve the quality of Student Life. It consists of a board member, an alumnus, three administrators, three members of the faculty and four

Ursinus Logs Acceptances

Ursinus College continues as one of the most successful schools placing its students into the most prestigious medical schools in the United States, according to information released by Dr. A.C. Allen, chairman of the biology department and pre-medical advisor.

Acceptances received by 16 students this year bring Ursinus' five-year record to 78 persons who were accepted, out of 127 who applied, an impressive 61 percent which is nearly double the national average of 33 percent, Dr. Allen said.

How does Ursinus explain this record?

"By the quality of our teaching, coupled with the top quality students who are recruited by our admissions office," said Dr. Allen.

Acceptances for previous years were: 1976, 16; 1975, 14; 1974, 17, and 1973, 15.

The figures include acceptances into medical, dental, veterinary, osteopathic and optometric schools.

New Faculty Welcomed

by Larry Mroz

Ursinus College welcomes thirteen new members to the faculty and staff as the 1977-78 school year opens. The recent appointments include:

Mr. Louis Krug was appointed as Visiting Professor of Education. A 1937 graduate of Ursinus College, Mr. Krug, former assistant executive director of the Montgomery County Intermediate Unit, recently retired after a thirty-eight year career in public education in Montgomery County, Pa.

Dr. James J. Doyle, who was economic advisor to the Lt. Governor of Ohio and holds a doctorate from Penn State University, has been named Assistant Professor of Economics.

Dr. John W. Shuck holds a doctorate from Northeastern University in Boston and is now an Assistant Professor of Mathematics at Ursinus.

Dr. Patrick J. Mulvanny, starting his first year as Assistant Professor in Psychology, holds a doctorate from Brown University.

A former teaching assistant at Lehigh University has joined the mathematics department. Dr. Edward M. Corwin holds a doctorate from Lehigh.

Mr. Thomas E. Gallagher Jr. has been conducting dissertation research among the Lancaster County Amish. He has been named an Instructor in Anthropology and Sociology, and is completing work on a doctorate in Anthropology at Temple University.

U.S.G.A. Announces Plans

Ursinus Student Government Association President Angela Italiano announced in a September 25 interview that the U.S.G.A. will continue cooperation with the College administration in seeking further gains for resident students.

Noting that the increase in dormitory visitation hours resulted from a consensus between the U.S.G.A., the Deans of Men and Women and affirmation by President of the College Richard P. Richter, Italiano announced that the Campus Planning committee, a cooperative venture between student government and the College, will meet this fall to choose eight candidates for a Student Life Task Force. From these eight candidates four will be elected by students. The Student Life Task Force has been created by Richter in order to develop methods of putting into effect philosophical statements by the Campus Planning Committee.

Italiano also announced the selection of underclassman Andrew Campbell to fill an open slot in the Campus Planning Committee.

The administration has also asked the USGA to recommend 15 students to meet with Dr. Elizabeth Shaw, a representative of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Middle States is the accrediting body for east coast schools including Ursinus.

The USGA will also hold traditional campus fundraisers including a parent's day carnival for Care, and Slave Auction.

On Editorial Policy

If the Weekly is to function as a truly effective method of campus communication, the following editorial principles must be adhered to:

1. Letters to the Editor will be printed exactly as they are received, provided they do not contain unnecessary profanity or libel.
2. Letters to the Editor cannot be printed without the writer's name. However if the writer would prefer to have his-her name withheld, only the editor-in-chief must have knowledge of his-her identity. This identity will not be revealed to anyone. We encourage Letters to the Editor to be signed, however, in order that they be more effective.
3. No article will be read by anyone other than the editorial staff prior to printing, to avoid censorship.

We welcome varying points of view. In fact, in order to appeal to the campus community as a whole, this diversity of opinion in the Weekly is important. Anyone wishing to write for the Weekly should not hesitate because he-she feels unable to write effectively. The editorial staff will help in the composition of articles if a request is made.

Any suggestions regarding format or content of the Weekly are encouraged.

As part of the current editorial policy, each issue's editorial will be written by a different editor, in an effort to attain greater variety of style and opinion. Following is one such editorial by Stephen M. Lange.

We look forward to a productive year, one in which an informed campus community can effect needed change in the areas of academics and student life.

Bomberger Quaked

by Stephen M. Lange

Bomberger Hall did not shake off its foundations. Yet for at least two weeks last summer, New Men's Dormitory was a co-educational residence hall at Ursinus College.

How could that be? Ursinus eschews all that co-educational halls represent, one might well say. But nonetheless it happened. During the two week period when the state rented Ursinus facilities for a course in drug and alcohol counseling, men and women resided a mere matter of feet from each other in the men's quad. It makes sense of course; the New Men's Dorm allows a maximum of privacy with its exterior hallways; the showers are even at women's dorms' height, as some students are fond of saying.

But how could Ursinus deviate from its values to such an extent? One might think that brandy and cigars followed meals even. Brandy, at least, didn't follow meals because the staff of the state-run course pointed out to participants that the college is "dry." Ripples of laughter were heard from the audience composed of drug and alcohol counselors, bureaucrats and interestingly, recovered addicts. No belly laughter, just amused chuckles as though they knew something the college didn't.

This departure from the norm may not yield any mechanisms for social change for those who seek it; this co-educational experience may not impress anyone at all, but it is a curiosity. Perhaps a banner across the front page of the Ursinus Weekly might one-up the denizens of the cloistered board rooms by calling in outrage and horror for an immediate return to the college's stated values by bringing rental terms into line with college rules for resident students. We might press in these pages for a return to morality; perhaps a return, at last, to normalcy.

Evening School Announces Innovations

Requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Business Administration at Ursinus College were modified for the coming fall term, which should increase significantly the number of applicants for the Evening School, according to Dr. Charles L. Levesque, director.

No longer will a foreign language be required for the degree, although a wide range of courses in the liberal arts will be available for students who wish them. Students enrolled in the full-time day program of the College are still required to take the equivalent of two years of foreign language study.

The Evening School curriculum will continue to be largely concerned with preparation of its students for degrees in business administration.

Dr. Levesque announced other innovations planned for the 25th anniversary fall term, which will especially benefit women students.

He said because women now constitute 40 per cent of the student body, after a continuous rise in female enrollment, special courses are being considered for women next spring.

Also, a "women's weekend on campus" is under consideration.

This fall a special course will be offered for 15 weeks on Saturday mornings, designed for paraprofessional religious educators.

Registration for the fall term will run from Wednesday, August 24 to Saturday noon, August 27.

Further information is available from the Ursinus College Evening School, Collegeville, Pa., 19426, or by calling 489-4250.

students. The task force will examine the views of students, parents, faculty, board, administrators and alumni. Questionnaires will be sent out to facilitate their work. The various task forces will submit the results of their studies along with recommendations to the College.

The three members of the Administration, who were appointed by President Richard P. Richter, are Dr. Craft (who will head the committee), the Dean of Women (Ruth Harris) and the Dean of Men (Richard Whatley). The three members of the task force elected by the faculty are Dr. Peter Perreten, Dr. Peter Small and Mrs. Roger Staiger. The student members of the committee will be elected by the student body on the nominations of the Campus Planning Group. Students who feel that they would be interested in serving on the committee will be elected by the student body on the nominations of the Campus Planning Group. Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Having just returned from South Africa, I am more than ever convinced that it was a mistake not to permit our girls hockey team to play there this summer. If our students had gone to South Africa, they would have been able to form judgments based on things seen, rather than read, said, or fed. They would have seen, for example, that apartheid is on the way out because everybody, except the government, ignores it in practice. They would have seen plenty to admire and some things to criticize, but in the latter case they would have been free, like all South Africans, to voice their disapproval openly and publicly, which is more than can be said for most other African states. And they would have become acquainted at first hand with a people — black and white — who have nothing but the friendliest feelings toward the United States.

Danforth Announces Competition

The Danforth Foundation will award about 60-65 fellowships in April 1978 to college seniors who plan careers in college and university teaching and who intend to work towards a Ph.D. in any subject common to the undergraduate liberal arts curriculum in the U.S. Anyone interested in these fellowships should get in touch with Dr. William B. Williamson, professor of Philosophy who is the local campus liaison officer of the Danforth Foundation, St. Louis, Missouri. Undergraduate applicants must be college seniors and must be nominated by their campus liaison officer by November 15, 1977. 35-40 additional fellowships will be awarded to graduate students who apply directly to the Foundation, but direct applications are not accepted from undergraduate students.

The Foundation is trying to draw qualified members of minority groups into teaching. It is anticipated that 25 percent of the awards will go to Blacks, Mexican-Americans, Native Americans, and Puerto Ricans.

Fellowships are awarded for one year, but are generally renewable until completion of the advanced degree or for up to 4 years of graduate work. The value of the awards is based on need, but will not be more than $2,500 for a single fellow or a married fellow without children. Married Fellows or Fellows who are "head of household" with one child can get up to $3,500. There are allowances for additional children. The fellowships also cover required tuition and fees.

The Danforth Foundation, established in 1927 by the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth is particularly interested in enhancing the quality of education.

Yost Retires

by Jack Hauler

The retirement of Dr. Calvin D. Yost Jr. as professor of English at Ursinus College brings to an end a unique era of teaching by a father and son, both of whom also were librarians.

Dr. Yost taught 43 years, joining the Ursinus faculty in 1934 as instructor of English, and his father, Calvin D. Yost Sr., taught 32 years from 1910 until his death in 1942.

After graduating from Collegeville High School, he graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from Ursinus in 1930, and master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

Advancing through the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor to full professor by 1945, Dr. Yost was named librarian in 1958, a position he held until 1975.

Dr. Yost served as secretary of the faculty for 22 years until 1970, received an honorary doctorate from Ursinus in 1973, and received the Lindback Award for distinguished teaching in 1961.

He said his most memorable experiences will be his associations with many distinguished faculty, and the privilege of seeing students develop, some while they were his students, and others much later.

the project worthwhile should contact Dr. Craft. Final nominations will be made on October 10th.

The College wishes to expressly state that they are extremely interested in the suggestions and views of both the student body and the faculty. Students who have suggestions may bring them up with the student government or with Dr. Craft personally. Students have made substantial contributions in relation to the Campus Planning Group and the Sets of Planning in the past, and the college wishes for this involvement to continue in the future. The goals decided upon by the Campus Planning Group are so selected that they will be both short and long term in their scope. Since these goals are far-reaching in their impact, it will be highly advantageous to have student opinion fairly represented.

Movie Attack

Jonathan ZAP The Deep

The Deep is a breezily entertaining action movie, but for the life of me I don't know why its called "The Deep" when everything about it is so shallow.

Nick Nolte and Jacqueline Bisset for example, make one of the shallowest couples I've ever seen outside of Collegeville. All those people that said Nick Nolte was going to muscle in on Robert Redford's golden-boy market ought to have their heads examined. I don't mean to sound discouraging but Nick Nolte (rhymes with Dolt) doesn't look as good, has no style, no class, no charm, seems mildly retarded and is one of the worst actors I've ever seen in a major motion picture. With all the unemployed actors why anyone has to pick an ungracefully aging high school football player is beyond me. One almost suspects by the end of the movie that blond hair and blue eyes are somehow genetically linked to bad acting and that that was the best they could do.

As much as I enjoyed watching Jacqueline Bisset swim around in a wet T-shirt I still got the impression that she went to the Nick Nolte school of acting. You'll have to decide for yourself whether she comes off as air-headed but I distinctly saw bubbles coming out of her ears every time she went underwater.

Robert Shaw has a lot more acting ability than the two mentioned above, almost as much as an average actor, but his reincarnation as a benign but crusty gold hunter after having gotten eaten as a crusty, but benign shark hunter is awkward and strained. Shaw struggles admirably, but the old-sailor-aphorisms he has to deliver sound as authentic as a two dollar Mona-Lisa looks.

The movie does, however, have some solid action. The screen play was adapted from the novel The Deep by Peter (Jaws) Benchley and it is probably one of the ten best adaptations of a Peter Benchly aquatic novel of the year. The story line, by the way, centers around a hunt for gold. I wonder if Mr. Benchly had anything on his mind.

Art and Loneliness

by Robert Brancatelli

I

(So what are you talking about?)

I'm not talking about the Ursinus College community or student-faculty relations. Some of us are in fact very lonely so why, or rather, how can we think in mathematical terms of student-faculty relations? So let us go then you and I, to prepare for the faces we shall meet as we're walking down the street. Those lonely, half-lying faces of men and women, boys and girls we find gliding along the campus remain hidden in the usual "hello", "good-bye", "how-ya-doin?"

I'm not talking about Union coffee-houses, or the social atmosphere. I don't even know what "social atmosphere" means so I refuse vehemently to sit in on student-government meetings. In fact I don't like to talk at all. It debases things. Let's cross these intellectual voids, and dissolve the greasy mechanics of ego-building crudeness. Let us go then, you and I, and talk with our eyes. Too much reading gives me a headache, but too much talking churns my soul.

We're too lonely for the reason that there is reason. What's wrong with a simple emotion? Contemplate irrationality, have the courage to be absurd. We've grown too fat on organization — the worst Wismer meal. Let us go then you and I, and surrender to murky face in the darkness. We shall feel death and witness destruction. Our bones will grow old. There is a curse to acute consciousness, but even Harry the Steppenwolf had his day in the sun. For then we can meet with our eyes. At last loneliness will become something we can touch and then put away.

Our object is, of course, to become artists. This means not merely freedom in our thinking, but sincerity in our spirit. There are more answers than we shall ever know. So why limit ourselves to arithmetical analysis? Look for more than one answer, and you may feel the ecstasy of stumbling upon even another question. Yes it is possible, but then I only suppose. There are too many intelligent people on this campus, and not enough courageous ones. Art is courage. Art involves compassion. But then writing about it is certainly easier than practicing it. It doesn't matter what field you're in, be an artist. Find the demon in the darkness, and as you pass him by look for his eyes. He may be human.

Too often professors and students regard each other as beings of a somewhat sub-human character. That may be true. But have the courage to find out first.

I'm not talking about equality. There is no such thing. It exists merely for those with a little knowledge. But there is existence. The biggest problem for the person on our campus is loneliness. It affects our existence. Man is becoming an animal functioning in solitude. Unfortunately art is losing itself in the torn chair of a dismal room lit by a dim yellow light. For that is where the artist sits, and the results prove to be inferior. Experience life! For there is no music in stale air.

I'm not talking about games, or "cutesy" writing. I'm talking survival, as debasing as it may seem. Find a person to know and to share with. Even the lonely artist needs one friend. The artist needs someone to hear his voice shouting in the wilderness. Perhaps the greatest of artists was miserable because he neglected survival. Art is also survival. But then I don't know for sure. Who does?

Let us go then you and I, to prepare to greet the faces that we meet ...

(This is the first of a series of articles on loneliness).

Elvis What Happened?

by Rick Morris

Elvis Presley was a man who revolutionized the world of music in the 1950's with his physically suggestive style of singing and who was adored by more fans than any other entertainer in history. His earnings were greater than the combined earnings of Valentino, Sinatra and The Beatles and his first name alone won more recognition than any full name in the world. This man had the potential to continue dominating the stage for many years to come and yet, according to three of his closest friends, he was a man incapable of functioning in the slightest manner without popping a pill. In a most provocative book called Elvis What Happened?, his three bodyguards of many years reveal secrets about Presley which have been unknown to the world and tell about the side of a man that the public has never heard or seen.

These three men who constantly surrounded Presley tell bizarre tales about Elvis' obsession with death and dead bodies, his penchant for guns and police badges, (which were the underlying cause for some careless gunplay of Presley's) and his dependence on drugs which caused him to lose touch with reality and to become a menace to the people closest to him. Anyone who has done further reading about this eccentric recluse must question the validity of some of these stories in light of the fact that they so drastically contrast the man presented in other biographical works on Presley. While author Steve Dunleavy points out that the press never picked up on several incidents, such as Elvis dropping a concealed magnum as he left a plane with a large throng on hand, or the time he gave a 28-minute karate exhibition during a concert in Las Vegas which had people walking out in disgust, he offers no explanation as to why the news hungry media never noticed these public displays. Dunleavy makes no effort to obtain verification of these stories beyond the word of these three men who could have been using the book to slander Presley and use it as a vehicle to avenge him for their sudden dismissal.

Yet one is left with serious doubts about the emotional stability of Elvis after reading quotes from men who loved him enough to take a bullet in defense of his life. Quotes like, "You never know from one minute to the next whether he is going to point a gun at somebody, or he is going to kiss them." While the book contains a lot of favorable biography about Presley, the astounding stories that degrade him and cast a new light on the Presley image are so verisimilitudinous in appearance that I find it difficult to pass them off as totally fictitious. The ex-bodyguards' vivid descriptions of very specific incidents about Presley's blind rage and his physical abuse of people around him are very graphically presented and show the way in which power and fame can affect a man and produce for him an entourage of blind loyalists.

Dunleavy's book is complete and now is being read by millions, millions who will question the truth of various parts of the book because they hate to see the image of a superstar shattered. Ironically, we will continue to question and we will continue to see the image shattered posthumously, because on August 16, 1977, Elvis died prematurely at age 42, one day after the book reached the shelves of bookstores across the country and before he could answer America's questions.

Ottenberg Speaks At Ursinus

by Kamala Chapman

The series of forums for this fall got off to a good start on Wednesday, September 21, with Dr. Donald J. Ottenberg, executive director of Eagleville Hospital and Rehabilitation Center, speaking on "Alcohol and Drug Abuse: Some Views from Inside and Outside." The doctor has devoted himself to the treatment and study of alcohol and drug addictions for the past ten years, after practicing as a medical doctor in Philadelphia for twenty years.

He is now the clinical associate professor of medicine at Temple University School of Medicine where he trained for his degree. He is also the Eagleville center's medical director and has held his position since its inception in 1966.

This forum was outstanding, not only because it was very interesting and dealt with a topic that students can relate to, but also because Dr. Ottenberg was accompanied by three residents the Eagleville Center who joined in the discussion and gave personal accounts of their experiences. They also answered numerous questions which were asked by the students regarding how they got involved with alcohol and-or drugs and how they overcame their problems.

The doctor began his discussion academically, giving various meanings of alcoholism, since there is no single definition for it. The most obvious effects of alcoholism are psychological and social. Any individual whose drinking causes him obvious difficulties drinks more in an attempt to overcome them, which makes it a trap. Soon the problem becomes involuntary with the person increasing his consumption of alcohol without realizing it. Drinking begins in one way and winds up in another. It may begin as something enjoyable, but lead to unplanned consequences, such as dependence.

Dr. Ottenberg continued by saying that a person may not be addicted physically, but he becomes dependent in a psychological sense. Addiction is a way of life; a means of dealing with difficulties, of escaping fear, anger, or depression. It is a false mechanism of soothing and a person turns to it to cope with factors that he doesn't like. From

Paisley to Exhibit Art Works

by John Ingeholm

Ursinus College will be exhibiting a collection of nearly 100 works of art by Dr. Ellwood S. Paisley during the month of October in the Wismer Hall Gallery. A reception for the artist is scheduled on Sunday, October 9, from 3 to 5 P.M. in the Parents' Lounge.

Dr. Paisley enrolled at Ursinus in 1910, majored in chemistry and began a life long hobby in art. This presentation, covering 66 years of work, consists of religious art, portrait sketches, nature scenes, and recent Bicentennial pieces completed in 1976.

After graduation in 1913, Dr. Paisley was employed by the National Drug Company of Philadelphia as a chemist. He was named secretary of the company in 1926 and later became treasurer before retiring in 1957.

Elected to the Board of Directors of Ursinus in 1959, Dr. Paisley, who is now 86, held the position of secretary and treasurer from 1962 to May of 1976, resigning to become assistant secretary. His father, Dr. Harry E. Paisley was president of the board from 1910 until his death in 1961.

Dr. Paisley's works may be seen at various places on the Ursinus campus. The College seal picturing Zacharias Ursinus hangs in the Myrin Library. The bear seal in Helfferich Hall lounge is based on the design of the Omwake gold metal, an award given by President Omwake from 1926 to 1940 to senior students for athletic achievement. These two seals were presented by the Class of 1913.

An oil portrait of Dr. Russell D. Sturgis, member of the chemistry faculty from 1925 to 1969, hangs in the Sturgis Reading Room in Pfahler Hall. A carbon pencil portrait of Zacharias Ursinus can be seen in Corson Hall.

The organ pipes in Bomberger Hall were restored to their original style by Dr. Paisley in 1972-73.

Included in his exhibit at Ursinus will be original drawings published in the 1913 Ruby.

New Zealand Trip

On Saturday, June 4, 1977, the Ursinus Women's Field Hockey Team left for a five-week playing tour in New Zealand. The THIRTEEN PLAYERS, ALONG WITH COACH Adele Boyd and assistant coach Libby Williams, were involved in seventeen games, sporting fourteen wins and only three losses. Quite a feat!

Staying with families as they arrived in the various towns, the players received a tremendous view of how New Zealanders live. A population of three million with sixty million sheep was quite a shock to all. Needless to say, their meals consisted mostly of lamb along with peas and potatoes.

The players played New Zealand Club, Association and representative teams, who were quite skilled, playing most of the games in the rain and cold. In their one tournament, all the teams played seven a side having the Ursinus players meeting each other in the finals! Their three losses came to New Zealand's best teams which would be compared to our U.S. teams.

The New Zealanders were quite impressed with the style of play shown by the Ursinus women and had them run several clinics involving their teams. Ending their successful tour in New Zealand, the team spent four days in Honolulu, recovering.

A tremendous experience was felt and shared by all. Everyone wished it could have been longer. Their never-ending drive and hard work helped them to come out on top.

Varsity Soccer Looks Strong

While most of you ardent soccer fans were still sipping cool drinks by the Jersey shore, there were 15 veterans and 25 newcomers competing in a two-week pre-season for a birth on the 1977 Ursinus College Varsity Soccer Team. Co-captained by junior goalkeeper Rod McCuen and junior fullback Dave Ferrari, this year's soccer team also features returning 1975 lettermen Dave Kennedy and Fred Ferrari. The Ferrari Brothers, along with McCuen and Kennedy, are the only upperclass starters on this year's squad. Seven freshmen balance out this young, but talented group of starting eleven.

Captain Dave Ferrari had this word about the team. "We are working with a very young team with as much if not more individual talent than any team we'll face this season. As usual though, putting this talent together into one working unit is the very difficult job that lies ahead of us. Our first four games put us against the top four teams in the MAC, all division winners last year. We are looking for one strong game to put all our pre-season's efforts together and spark a winning season for the soccer team this year."

The seven freshmen starting are Matt Pastore, Brian Barlow, Bill Morehouse, Jeff Jeewitt, Greg Gifford, Tony Esposito, and Chris Goode. Freshman goalkeeper Joe "Frampton" Dalaney provides a sure-handed back-up to Rod, and Joe also fills in at striker to bolster the offense. Returning Lettermen include Tim Ely, Greg Kern, Kevin Davies, Ben Shapiro, Hoyt Jones, Terry Lopez, and Bob Dean.

After viewing the soccer team during their 2-week pre-season which included 3 scrimmages, I can say that the talent does exist to make Ursinus College Soccer a respected name in future years. The only ingredient to be added for a winning season is the support of the many fans on campus.

If you missed Pele and the Cosmos, you won't want to miss the 1977 Ursinus College Soccer Season.

Lack of Consistency Haunts Bears

by Kevin J. Griffin

weather conditions, the game was a defensive struggle.

The Bears scored first on a 13 yard pass from freshman quarterback Craig Walck to tight end Jeff Carlow. RPI answered quickly with a 31 yard pass to split end Mike Parker to tie the score at 7-7. RPI threatened twice at the end of the first half but goal line stands by the defense allowed them only a field goal to make the halftime score, 10-7. RPI opened the second half with a sustained scoring drive to make the score 17-7. The defense forced a fumble at the 7 yard line but a field goal attempt sailed wide.

Dave Dougherty, another freshman quarterback, engineered a late fourth quarter drive but the two point conversion failed leaving the score at 17-13 following a five yard TD run by Jerry Browne. The defense held RPI and forced a punt, with Ursinus regaining possession on their own 20 yard line but they were unable to move it. RPI received the ball on a punt and was able to run out the clock with the final score 17-13. Individually Dean Perrong, the freshman fullback, and Craig Walck showed some strong running despite the unsure footing. Defensively Bill Bingaman and Bill Masciulli each had key interceptions. Dave Dougherty looked good running the offense in the fourth quarter. Ursinus was penalized over 150 yards, many of which were called at crucial points in the game and were of a questionable nature.

Despite the results of the first two games the young Ursinus Bears are far from being a beaten team. The defense and offense at times have been brilliant but have lacked the consistency necessary to produce winning efforts. The Bears will attempt to achieve this consistency when they play Lebanon Valley this Saturday. Kickoff for the Parents' Day game will be at 2:00.

Another recent graduate is now an Admissions Counselor. Susan Kimberly Clark received a Bachelor of Science degree from Ursinus in 1976.

Leslie S. March also joins the Ursinus staff. She will serve as the Assistant Dean of Women and the Director of the College Union. In 1968, Ms. March received a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Ursinus and later she received a Master of Arts degree in English from the University of Delaware.

Everyone on the Weekly staff welcomes the new arrivals and wishes them the best of luck in the future!

this method of coping, he attains counterfeit joy, love, security, and meaning. It is a means of engaging life that one may fantasize or dream about, and, at the same time, gives him individual identity so that he becomes someone. The important thing is that he is drinking as an adapting mechanism despite the fact that it does not work in actuality. Addiction moves in and pushes all the other struggles out.

Cross Country-Undefeated

by Keith Kemper

The Ursinus College cross country team arrived on campus two weeks before classes started. Now it looks as though the two weeks of hard work is paying off. On Sept. 10, the team traveled to the Lebanon Valley Invitational and took third out of a field of 17 colleges. Among the teams that the Bears defeated were Gettysburg (last years Middle Atlantic Conference Champs) and four other MAC schools. Then on September 17, the Bears arrived at Belmont Plateau for a tri-meet with Haverford College and Delaware Valley College. They left with two awesome victories downing Haverford 16 to 63 and shutting out Del. Val. 15 to 50. Of the first eight runners to cross the finish line, seven were from Ursinus.

This weekend the team had a tri-meet with Eastern College and Drew University. Ursinus' Harriers took the first five places as they shutout Eastern 15 to 50 and Drew 15 to 44. After these impressive victories, Coach Shoudt and his team are expecting to have an excellent season.

The Jr. members of the team are co-captain Chris Duvally and co-captain Keith Kemper, Tom Isban, and Steve Payton. Sophomores are Joe Figurelli and Bill Boeger. The Freshmen consist of Joe Longo, Jeff Barastasian, Ron Shaiko, Jim Parsons, John Carter, John Squire, Harry Dochelli, Wesley Emmons, Dave Garner, and Brian Holly.

Hockey Team Opens Season

by Denise Davis

The Ursinus College third and fourth women's hockey teams opened their season Friday with a game against Lehigh University's varsity and JV teams, coached by Ursinus alumna Judy Turner. Despite the rain, the third team played a tough aggressive game; unfortunately the final score was 2-1 in Lehigh's favor. Lehigh scored both goals in the first half, while the lone Ursinus goal was scored by Sue Kelley in the second half. The fourth team game was called after twenty minutes of play due to rain. There was no score.

Although the results of the first game were disappointing, the team has hopes for a good season. The coach, Mary Ann Harris, who is new to the Ursinus staff, has new ideas and provides excellent motivation, so the team is looking forward to another winning season this year. They play Widener away on the 28th of Sept., and MCCC at home on the 30th at 3:30. Come out and support the team.
