Brooks Hays Selected Speaker at Graduation

Brooks Hays, Director of The Ecumenical Institute, Wake Forest University, has dedicated his entire career to public service. For 16 years he represented the Fifth Congressional District of Arkansas in the United States Congress, and he has served as Special Assistant to two Presidents. He is also one of the country's leading churchmen, having been elected to two consecutive terms as President of the Southern Baptist Convention (1957-59).

Mr. Hays was born August 9, 1898, near Russellville, Arkansas. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Arkansas in 1919 and his Juris Doctor degree from George Washington University in 1922. He holds honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Humanities.

Seven Terms in Congress

Mr. Hays served from 1932 to 1939 as Democratic National Committeeman from his State. In 1928 at the age of thirty, he ran unsuccessfully for Governor of Arkansas. He was elected to Congress in 1942 and re-elected for seven consecutive terms, serving until January 1959. In June of that year President Eisenhower asked him to become Assistant Secretary of State and later to serve as Special Assistant to the President.

He has long worked for the extension of educational and economic opportunities for Negroes in the South. As a result of his constructive work in Congress for civil rights legislation he was twice named to the Platform Committee of the Democratic National Convention.

Racial Understanding

This interest in building bridges of understanding between the races led Mr. Hays to arrange the Newport Conference between Governor Orval Faubus and President Eisenhower at the time of the Little Rock school desegregation crisis. This was the principal issue in the eight-day campaign which resulted in his defeat for re-election to Congress in 1958.

During his career in Congress, Mr. Hays was at various times a member of the Banking and Currency Committee, the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, the Select Committee on Space Exploration and Astronautics, and acting chairman of the Select Committee to Investigate Tax-Exempt Foundations. In 1935 he was a member of the United States Delegation to the United Nations.

Noted Political Author

Mr. Hays is much in demand as a speaker, and is the author of several books, including "A Southern Moderate Speaks" (University of North Carolina Press) and "Hotbed of Tranquility" published by the McMillan Company in 1968.

He is a member of the governing boards of George Peabody College and George Washington University. He served for two years (1964-66) as the Arthur Vanderbilt Professor of Public Affairs at the Eagleton Institute, Rutgers University. In addition to his current duties as Director of the Ecumenical Institute, he finds time for lectures at the University of Massachusetts as "Distinguished Visiting Professor of Government."

Mr. Hays was a founder, and is chairman of the Southern Committee on Political Ethics. He is also a member of the Board of the National Conference on Citizenship.

Two hundred and fifty-three Ursinus College seniors and 36 Evening School students receive their diplomas in Commencement ceremonies at 11:00 a.m. today in Wismer Hall. Of the College students, 128 graduate with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, 125 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. Eighteen seniors graduate with College honors, nineteen with departmental honors. In the Evening School, two students graduate with the Associate of Arts degree, fourteen with the Bachelor of Business Administration degree, and 20 with the Associate in Business Administration degree.

Honorary Degrees

Five honorary degrees are being conferred in the proceedings. Commencement speaker Brooks Hays, Special Assistant to President John F. Kennedy between 1961 and 1963, receives the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. Retired Methodist Bishop Fred Pierce Corson, speaker at the June 7 Baccalaureate service, received the degree of Doctor of Letters. Ursinus College Board Member Mrs. H. Alarik W. Myrin receives the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. The degree of Doctor of Science is being conferred upon Mr. H. Robert Sharbaugh, President of the Sun Oil Company. The Reverend Paul P. Haas, Pastor of Phoebe Devitt Homes in Allentown receives the degree of Doctor of Divinity. The Reverend Haas is the father of senior Chemistry major Carol Haas who is graduating magna cum laude.

Student Honors

Eight of the students graduating with honors are receiving the Arts degree, ten the Science degree. Graduating summa cum laude are German major Mary Havens and Math major Jeff Karpinski. Graduating magna cum laude are Diann Leiby Anders, French major Cheryl Lee Beadle, Biology major Dorothy Brower, and Psychology major Edwin Moore, Jr. Cum laude honors graduates with the B.A. degree are Jeffrey Beck, an economics major, Spanish major Vinnie Lee Black, English major Susan McCoy, Political Science major Frances Tolotti, and Political Science major Elaine Yost. Honors graduates receiving the B.S. degree are Math majors Linda Foley and Robert Frank, Chemistry majors Donald James and Alice Johnson, Math major Kathy Kasley, and Health and Physical Education major Jean Ramsey.

Commencement itself has been preceded by a week-end of activities starting with Alumni Day on Saturday, June 6. Alumni Day centered around a music festival featuring the former students of Dr. William Phillips. Highlighting the day was a seminar on campus unrest dealing particularly with Ursinus, and the dedication of the New Administration Building. The Baccalaureate Service was held at 11:00 a.m. in Bomberger Chapel with Bishop Corson as the guest speaker.

1970 COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER BROOKS HAYS

1970 Honorary Degree Recipients

H. ROBERT SHARBAUGH

Mr. Sharbaugh became president of Sun Oil Company on January 1, 1970, at the age of 41—some 24 years after he was first associated with the Company as a summer student engineer in 1946.

He joined the Company as a permanent employee in 1948 following his graduation with honors from Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Born October 22, 1928, in Pittsburgh, Pa., Mr. Sharbaugh was graduated in 1945 from the Central District High School in Pittsburgh. He received a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering at Carnegie Institute of Technology, where he was a member of Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honor fraternity.

Following his employment by Sun, Mr. Sharbaugh continued his education by studying two years at the Night Graduate School of the University of Delaware. In 1961 he received a master of science degree in industrial management from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which he attended under a one-year Sloan Fellowship.

From 1946 through June, 1954, Mr. Sharbaugh held various positions in Technical Service at Sun's Marcus Hook, Pa., Refinery.

Mr. Sharbaugh married the former Ivy Gallacher of Twin Oaks, Pa., on April 17, 1951, in Chester, Pa. They live with their children Robert, Stephen and Jeanne at 449 Garnet Mine Road, Boothwyn, Pa.

BISHOP FRED P. CORSON

Bishop, author, and former college president Fred Pierce Corson has dedicated his strenuous life to public service and accomplished a great deal. Born in 1896, he was graduated from Dickinson College in 1917 and ordained into the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1920. He was consecrated Bishop in 1944. He married the former Frances Beaman in 1922.

From 1934 to 1944 Bishop Corson served as President of Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania. He also is a trustee at Drew University, Westminster Theological Seminary, and Lycoming College. He is also Honorary President of the Trustees of Temple University.

Bishop Corson served as President of the Methodist Council of Bishops in 1952 and 1953, as Vice President of the Methodist World Council from 1956 to 1961, as observer at the Second Vatican Council in Rome, Italy, as official Methodist Representative at the Kirchentag Assembly, Stuttgart, Germany in 1952, and as President of the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church from 1948 to 1960.

Bishop Corson, a Phi Beta Kappa, has written many books including The Obligation of the Church-Related College to the Future, Christian Imprint, and How Good Is Communism?

PAUL P. HAAS

The Reverend Paul P. Haas of 1056 North Tenth Street, Whitehall, Pa., is a minister of the United Church of Christ and Pastor of the Phoebe Devitt Homes in Allentown.

Reverend Haas was born on March 7, 1918, in Trexlertown, Pa., the son of Milton and Minnie Haas. He graduated Ursinus College cum laude with Honors in History in 1939. In 1942, Reverend Haas was graduated from the Lancaster Theological Seminary and ordained to the ministry by the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

In the past years, Reverend Haas' ministerial service has included: Bern-Spies Charge of the Evangelical and Reformed Church (1942-50), Zion's Church (1950-53), St. John's of Slatington (1953-1963), and currently Pastor at the Phoebe Home since 1963. At the Phoebe Home he is responsible for resident and church relations and is the Director of Home Life.

Reverend Haas is married to the former Mildred Kressler. The Haas' have two daughters: Mary Ann Haas Gregory, Ph.D., a 1964 graduate of Ursinus College; and Carol K. Haas, a member of the 1970 Ursinus graduating class. Carol is graduating magna cum laude with Departmental Honors in Chemistry.

MRS. MABEL PEW MYRIN

Mrs. H. Alarik W. (Mabel Pew) Myrin has devoted her life and energy to helping others. She lives in Kimberton Hills, Kimberton, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Myrin has been a member of the Ursinus Board of Directors since 1964. She founded the Kimberton Farm School (with her late husband) in 1941.

Mrs. Myrin's interest in the field of medicine has been great throughout her life. She has been President of the Woman's Board of Jefferson Medical College Hospital where she received that institution's first Jefferson Service Award in 1960. She has served as trustee and Gray Lady at Phoenixville Hospital and has been Branch Chairman of the Phoenixville Red Cross. She is a board member of the Chester County Hospital and the Chester County American Cancer Society. She received the American Hospital Association Award in 1948 and Valley Forge General Hospital honored her for her service in 1959.

Mrs. Myrin is a former Board Chairman of the Phoenixville Community Fund. She is currently a Board Member of the Phoenixville YMCA, the Saunders House of Philadelphia, and the Curtis Clinic of Jefferson Medical College. She was an honorary Vice Chairman of the Philadelphia Orchestra in 1965 and a Friend of the Robinhood Dell.

Presidential Message TO THE 1970 GRADUATING CLASS OF URSINUS COLLEGE

You graduate at a time when established institutions and ideas are being questioned as they have never been questioned before in our history. Much of this questioning is being done by the members of your generation, and it is your generation which ultimately will have to provide most of the answers to those questions.

I hope that as you look for those answers, you will remember the obligation of every educated man and woman to draw careful distinctions between those ideas which must be readjusted and those which should be preserved. The fact that many accepted ways of thinking seem artificial and unjust does not warrant the rejection of all established standards. Nor should our proper respect for the past and our legitimate desire for stability lead us to defend thoughtlessly that which is outmoded and obsolete.

Your challenge will be that of reconciling continuity and change, of giving new applications and fresh expressions to our traditional values—especially our concern for the dignity and integrity of every individual. By meeting that challenge you can make this time of rapid change a time of substantial growth and fulfillment—for yourselves, for your community and for your nation.

As I extend to you my personal congratulations and best wishes, I look to the future with greater confidence because I know of the exceptional qualifications you bring to the exceptional demands of our time.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"AS I REVIEW WITH THIS CLASS THE EVENTS OF THE LAST FOUR YEARS MARKED BY SIT-INS, PROTESTS, RIOTS & GENERAL CAMPUS UNREST, I CAN FRANKLY STATE THAT I'M DAMN GLAD TO SEE YOU GO."

FOCUS:

By MARC HAUSER

Robert E. Keehn III is a senior Political Science major from Berwyn, Pa. As president of his class for four years at Ursinus, he has developed some interesting ideas on the role of students here.

"I think that the changes in the class have been more individual than as a group, because after freshman orientation, you don't see them as a whole except for the class meetings, when 80 or so people show up. At times this is discouraging, but students do have other interests. Every semester, our class is given an allocation of money by the student activities committee. It's our opinion, as class officers, that the money is there, so why not spend it? Over the four years, our class has promoted just about all of the concerts. After all, the money comes from the student activities fees, so we've tried to promote as many social events as we could. We've had 'Showboat' the last two years, and I think that this year we had a very successful Junior/Senior Prom. We brought the Intruders and our Freshman year, the Magnificent Men; there had been a history of bad concerts before this. The result was that we broke even on the Magnificent Men and the Intruders and lost money on the Soul Survivors. Now we weren't really out to make money, but we just felt that it was our job to spend the money and give the students something to see, something to do."

"Since I've been here, students have really changed for the better. Every year behind me, I can look back and see really concerned students."

"When we were freshmen, this really was a suitcase college, there was nobody here on weekends and that's one change I've seen—that kids are sticking around a lot more. Things have gotten pretty tough for fraternities, because no one will rent out to them anymore. There were a few bad instances where damage was done, plus the accidents and the word traveled. I think that I've seen fraternities fading, and people going to their individual interests; they don't need the group as much, plus the fact that a fraternity has limited membership and you have many friends outside—all these are contributing factors. When you wear a different colored jacket, it comes between people. The fraternities are there purely for a social function, and they'll probably stay there until there's an alternative. Organizations like Stuics and Cub and Key have less support than they used to—they're not the prestigious groups that they once were. But I think the general deterioration of certain organizations and the individuality of the students have all played a role."

"Now I see the class as a whole again, getting ready for graduation, and it's interesting to see the changes that have taken place. I can almost say that I know most of the kids in the senior class, and it's a feeling that I like."

On the Administration

"As I said, the class generally operates as a social organization, and we never really had a conflict as a class with the administration. It's usually an individual conflict or a group conflict. As a graduating senior, I'd like to see changed what everybody else would like to see changed. I feel that there should be open dorms; I feel that there should be drinking on campus, at least for those over 21; I think that the Bill of Rights is one of the greatest things to have come along; and I think that the people responsible for writing it should be commended. It puts down on paper some things that you should never take for granted, that ARE taken for granted. In time, things are going to change here, and there are going to be conflicts a lot bigger than we've had so far, and it's good to have those things on paper. I think I'd like to see all the major restrictiveness done away with. Other colleges don't have all these rules, and while I know that the grass always looks greener on the other guy's lawn, it creates a touchy situation—that they have it and you don't. We're supposed to be mature college students. As Dr. Helfferich or Dean Whatley says, they give us a little responsibility and we blow it, and you have to show that you're responsible before we give you these things, but how can you show that you're responsible when you're treated like a ten-year-old?"

"In time, things are going to change here, and there are going to be conflicts a lot bigger than we've had so far."

"Since I've been here, students have really changed for the better. Every year behind me, I can look back and see really concerned students. This is good, because the more of them that there are, the more pressure we'll see and consequently more results. When I was a Freshman, it was all 'old school'."

"I think that my most valuable experience here hasn't been academic, because I'm not academically-minded—I could have gotten a lot more out of my courses than I did. A lot of times here, you're not as motivated as you could be, but the ones that want an education can get one, and they are into the spirit of competitiveness. I guess I've been more socially minded. I definitely got out of college what I came for: a lot of good friends and a good job—I'm really happy. As far as the outside world goes, again, it's an individual thing. If the student wants to know what's going on out there, he can buy a newspaper and read about it, or he can go into Philadelphia and work in slum projects—the world's all around you. All you have to do is to go to classes here. It's up to the individual student to find out where his place in the world is."

On Himself

"First, I'd like to thank all those people that supported me for President. There were times when nobody ran against me and I didn't know whether to take this as an insult or a compliment. It's interesting to see the students that aren't happy and those that are, and why they are that way. As I said before, inside of myself I'm content."

"Now it's going to be really interesting to see what kind of alumni support my class is going to be giving: I think they, like myself, feel that a lot can be done here. Since many students here are children of alumni, as am I, I wonder if we'll send our kids to Ursinus."

Closing Remarks

"I'd just like to wish everyone in my class good luck, and good luck to those students that are still here. I hope that those that are here stick with it and keep their noses to the grindstone. There are good men in the Administration who will listen—try and get the things you want."
