Vol. 8. No. 29

CONGRATULATIONS . . . to Jonnie M. Simmons (center) who was recently awarded the Gavin Foundation scholarship for GSU. A student in the School of Health Sciences, she has been an active volunteer in the Marillac House child abuse program and the Cook County Hospital neglected baby ward. Pictured with Ms. Simmons are, left to right: Dr. Robert Cornesky, School of Health Sciences director, Richard Allen, Gavin Foundation executive director and former GSU financial aids director, Dr. Sang-O Rhee, university professor of Health Sciences, and Dr. Curtis McCray, provost.

A THANK YOU WOULD BE NICE . . . April 22-28 has been proclaimed "National Secretaries Week" throughout the country. GSU has almost 80 secretaries on staff, each one deserving an extra special smile and "thank you."

PFS DEVELOPMENT . . .

The Park Forest South Development Commission has voted to recommend that the Village enter into the financing of the proposed shopping center on Exchange Avenue. Leases have already been negotiated with Seehausen's Food Store in Crete, Cavett Drugs, Sherwood Inn Restaurant and Cowing Realty.

TRYOUTS . . . will be held for high school and junior high school students for a GSU dramatization of two Japanese tales. Tryouts for "Mukashi, Mukashi," the GSU summer theatre production, will be April 23-25 at 7:30 p.m. in the University theatre. For details, call x2119.

HEAR THE CHORALE . . .

The GSU Community Chorale will perform Brahms' "Requiem" in English at 4 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall Sunday, April 22. Also highlighted at the free concert will be the remarkable Allen electric organ to be used during the performance. The sound of this instrument is reputed to be so close to that of the classical pipe organ that even the most trained ear has difficulty distinguishing the two. The entire GSU community is invited to enjoy this spectacular performance. Dr. Rudolf Strukoff is director and Marilyn Bourgeois is accompanist.

PROBLEMS SLEEPING? . . . Insomniacs are being sought for a GSU research program. Individuals having problems either falling asleep or waking up frequently during the night on a chronic basis may be eligible. Persons interested in participating should contact Perry Nicassio, x2528.

PUBLISHED . . . HUGH RANK (CCS) is the author of an extensive eight-page review about books on lying and "red tape" in the April issue of College English. . . TULSI SARAL (HLD) has written a chapter on "The Scope, Content, and Process of Intercultural Communication Education" for the book Intercultural Communication in an Interdependent World which is being published by the International Communication Agency of Washington, D.C.

GLOWING GRADS . . . Denise P. Robinson, who received her master's degree from GSU, has been elected president and chief executive officer of the Chicago Urban Affairs Council, Inc. She is the first female elected to that office in the corporation's eight-year history . . . Dr. Richard Carhart who received his master's at GSU, has been named to the 17th edition of Who's Who in the West . . . Mamie Booth, who received her bachelor's degree from GSU where she is working on her master's, has been named acting director of the Chicago Department of Human Services Housing Unit . . . Betty Murray, with a bachelor's from GSU, has joined the staff of the Blake-Lamb Funeral Home in Oak Lawn.

"Mr. Nelson, when I said I wanted to see you hustle, I meant . . ."

BPS EXAMS . . . Quantitative and written competency examinations, required for BPS students, will be April 23, 25 and 28 in room A1102. Monday, April 23, they will be from noon - 3 p.m.; Wednesday, April 25, 7-10 p.m., and Saturday, April 28, from 10 a.m.- 1 p.m. Examinations begin promptly, with no one admitted after the announced starting time. Examinations cannot be repeated. BPS students unsure of their status regarding the exams should call x2241.

GSUings . . . ALFONSO SHERMAN (Dean, CCS) participating as principal judge at the National Association of Dramatic and Speech Arts Festival at Kennedy-King College April 6-7. The festival included over 35 colleges and universities . . . ANNIE LAWRENCE (EAS) speaking at the Health Careers Counseling Conference at Illinois Benedictine College April 18. She is also president of the Illinois Nurses Association . . . MANUEL CHAVEZ (BPS) preparing for the tour of the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico which he is coordinating and conducting April 28-May 5. . . TULSI SARAL (HLD) making a presentation on "Death and Cosmic Consciousness" at the April 28th Hindu Cultural Center symposium on "Death--the Beginning of Life" . . . HARRIET GROSS and SHARYNE MERRITT (both of CCS) delivering a paper entitled "The Women's Page/Lifestyle Section: Gatekeeping and the Suppression of Social Conflict" at the annual meetings of the Midwest Political Science Association, Pick-Congress Hotel. Harriet's "Couples Who Live Apart" research was the source of an April 8th Sun Times article.

STUDENT ACHIEVERS . . . Elvira Hromek, a business education student at GSU, has received the National Business Education Association award . . . Norma Pecora, working on a master's degree in counseling at GSU, has won a grant to conduct research related to the status of women in graduate education programs.

STORMY WEATHER . . . has not ended yet. In case it's necessary, WIND Radio, 560 AM will broadcast complete school closing information at 5:20, 6:20, 7:20 and 8:30 a.m.

F A Z E F O C U S O N . . . BARBARA PEARSON

When is enough enough? Each person at GSU probably has a different answer to that question. There is one GSUer, University Professor Barbara Pearson of Human Learning and Development, who simply cannot get enough knowledge. Specializing in reading, Barbara is slated to receive her Ph.D. from the University of Chicago this summer just before she enrolls in Law School at Harvard in September. With a Bachelor's degree in history from Emory University of Atlanta and a Master's degree in early childhood education from the University of Georgia, she is planning to combine her background in early learning education with law.

"Law has some impact on the availability of educational opportunities to large populations of children, especially ethnic-minorities," Barbara pointed out. Much of the overlap stems from areas involving school desegregation, financing of school systems, the availability of due process to students and curriculum. Law is used not only as a lever to open educational opportunities but also is being incorporated into Social Studies classes on the high school level.

With so many directions open, Barbara is not limiting herself to just one at this time. She enjoys university teaching and may return to it, but there are other possibilities in her future including positions in public school districts, education administration, government, industry and private business.

Barbara has not limited herself since coming to GSU as a Community Professor in 1973 when she taught Language Arts and supervised student teachers. Focusing on early childhood education and urban teacher education, she has developed research methods and is interested in the effects of urban communities on children and their early development. Barbara sees the early years as important ones in developing reading skills. "Reading is the key to school achievement. A strong vocabulary and good reading comprehension help a person through childhood and adulthood," she explained. She pointed out that an adequate degree of literacy is important for maintaining citizenship rights.

Barbara is not only a University Professor, she is also a consultant for several educational agencies. As a consultant for the Chicago Mastery Learning Reading Program, she has developed the methodology and instructional level materials to be used city-wide in the Chicago schools. She co-authored the kindergarten level materials for the new Basal Reading series "Reading Unlimited" for Scott-Foresman and Company for national use. For the EMC Publishing Company, Barbara developed the "Headliners II" teachers' guide and student activities book aimed at high interest-low vocabulary high school students.

In spite of the long hours needed for teaching, studying, researching and writing, Barbara finds time for two of her pet projects. In the area of community service, Barbara works with Chicago's parent-child centers, where the development of reading skills is dependent upon the involvement of teachers, students and parents. At GSU, she is chairperson of HLD's Community and Student Affairs Committee.

Barbara enjoys education from both ends--teaching and learning. In September, GSU will lose a top-notch professor but Harvard will gain a top-notch student.
