Vol. 6, No. 49

MAKING TRACKS TO GSU...Chicago South Suburban Mass Transit district officials have announced Nov. 1 as a target date for the beginning of commuter train service on the Illinois Central Gulf railroad extension to GSU. The long awaited track extension runs from the present ICG station at Sauk Trail in Richton Park to the new GSU station at Governors Highway and Stuenkel Road. A new South Suburban Safeway bus route will link the station with the University and Park Forest South.

UA NEWS...Florence Dunson, runner-up in the last U.A. election, will replace Jim Graham, who resigned as the Civil Service (1 yr. term) representative to the Assembly.

REGISTRATION RUN-DOWN...On-campus registration and fee payment for the Fall Trimester will be held Aug. 30-31. Classes begin Sept. 6. With the reopening of several programs closed for over a year, all academic programs at GSU are now open for enrollment. The creation of a new student classification and enrollment process will permit students to register for classes at GSU as Undergraduate or Graduate Non-Degree-Seeking Students-at-Large. GSU courses will be offered at several south suburban community college campuses during 1977-78; Danville Jr. College, Joliet Jr. College, Kankakee Community College, Moraine Valley Community College, Prairie State College and Thornton Community College.

In Memoriam

Gerald Myrow, Community Professor in the College of Cultural Studies, passed away suddenly Wed., Aug. 17. Mr. Myrow had been with the University since 1972, teaching Music Notation and Choral Arranging. A composer and performer, he had many published works for choirs and bands to his credit. He recently published Myrow Notography, a textbook on music notation, written originally for his Masters project at GSU. A memorial service will be held in Freedom Hall on Sat., Aug. 20, at 3:30 p.m. in Park Forest.

Mr. William Dodd
Collector and Disseminator of Great Thoughts
Office of Public Information
Governors State University

Dear Bill:

I offer for your approval and dissemination some lines from William Wordsworth, which I suggest should be made the Foreword for all educational planning documents at GSU.

... a multitude of causes, unknown to former times, are now acting with a combined force to blunt the discriminating powers of the mind, and unfitting it for all voluntary exertion to reduce it to a state of almost savage torpor. The most effective of these causes are the great national events which are daily taking place, and the increasing accumulation of men in cities, where the uniformity of their occupations produces a craving for extraordinary incident, which the rapid communication of intelligence hourly gratifies. To this tendency of life and manners the literature and theatrical exhibitions of the country have conformed themselves. . . . The invaluable works of our elder writers . . . are driven into neglect by frantic novels . . . and deluges of idle and extravagant stories When I think upon this degrading thirst after outrageous stimulation, I am almost ashamed to have spoken of the feeble effort with which I have endeavoured to counteract it; and, reflecting upon the magnitude of the general evil, I should be oppressed with no dishonourable melancholy, had I not a deep impression of certain inherent and indestructible qualities of the human mind, and likewise of certain powers in the great and permanent objects that act upon it which are equally inherent and indestructible; and did I not further add to this impression a belief, that the time is approaching when the evil will systematically be opposed, by men of greater powers, and with far more distinguished success .

--William Wordsworth
Preface to Lyrical Ballads (1802)

I need not, of course, point out to a person of your parts, the aptness of the quotation, nor do I have to make the obvious points that (1) the passage, by itself, by its prescience, makes the case for reading the non-contemporary, and (2) enrollment in classes in which Wordsworth and other worthies are studied is the obvious consequence of understanding the passage, for all right-thinking persons. It may be necessary, however, for you to make these points for those of our readers who may not as yet have discovered what is good for them.

Your obedient servant,

Daniel Bernd
University Professor of English and
Proprietor of the Wordsworth Franchise
