REVOLUTIONARY HISTORY.

Col. William Washington at the Battle of Cowpens.

(From the Gaffney Ledger.)
Chapter I.

Our histories do not accord to Col. William Washington the honor due to him in the great struggle for American independence, and doubtless there are many in the country who do not know the conspicuous part he took in the battle of Cowpens.

After the fall of Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S. C., and the annihilation of Gen. Gates' army at Camden by Lord Cornwallis, South Carolina and Georgia were in a deplorable condition. Cornwallis at Camden would send out his subordinate officers from point to point in the cruel work of subjugation. At this terrible crisis of our history Gen. Green, with Daniel Morgan and William Washington, was sent south to check the ravages of the British and Tories. From his position at Cheraw, Green, having only two thousand men, gave nine hundred of them to Morgan and Washington and sent them westward to what is now Cherokee county. Morgan and Washington pitched camp at Grindal Shoals, to awe the Tories, who had murdered Col. John Nuckolls and others and had a stronghold on Jones' creek, near Waight. Cornwallis at Camden, wishing to enter upon the conquest of North Carolina, but unwilling to leave Morgan and Washington in the rear, sent the brave but cruel Col. Banastre Tarleton with eleven hundred men against them. Tarleton's legion comprised light infantry and cavalry, with a few field pieces—a little army in itself. Being largely made up of New York and South Carolina loyalists, it was characterized by butchery as well as desperate courage. Tarleton, who from his many acts of undue severity, had earned for himself the title of "Bloody Tarleton," now flushed with his victories over Sumpter at Fishing Creek and at Waxhaw, where he put the most of Col. Buford's command to death, left Camden early in January to destroy the forces of Morgan and Washington. On the evening of January 16, 1871, Washington and Morgan, not being satisfied with their position at Grindal Shoals, moved westward toward Cowpens, with Tarleton about two hours behind them. Raining, Cowpens, Morgan and Washington determined to risk a battle against Tarleton. The American forces were drawn up in two lines, the militia in front under Pickens, the Continentals under Howard one hundred and fifty yards behind. Some distance behind these waited Col. Washington with his admirable cavalry. When the British attacked Pickens' line, after a brief resistance the militia divided and retired behind Howard's line of Continentals. As the British advanced to attack this line it retreated slowly so as to give Pickens time to reform his militia. Presently Pickens swept around Howard's right and attacked the British in the left flank. At the same moment Washington swung around Howard's left and charged upon the enemy's right flank; while Howard's line, after a few deadly volleys at thirty yards, rushed forward with leveled bayonets. Thus finding themselves outflanked most of the British were driven back and surrounded, while the remainder were scattered in flight. They lost two hundred killed and wounded, and six hundred prisoners, two field pieces and one thousand stand of arms. Their loss, eight hundred men, was nearly equal to the American force engaged.

A Remarkable Record.

Blitt's Emulsified Oil Liniment has made a remarkable record as a cure for stiffness of muscles and joints. It relieves not only the pain, but also causes a spasm or cramp, rheumatism or other cause. It will relieve the nervous and painful spasms and reduce the swelling. It relieves the stiffness. It is a sure cure. Full size price, 50 cents. Put your price on the wrapper.

A Forgotten Hero.

The Hudson River tunnel was recently opened with much ceremony and rejoicing, and fifty so, writes Rebecca Harding Davis in Success, for there is probably in the world no more signal triumph of mechanical skill over apparently insurmountable obstacles. But the present generation has quite forgotten a very different struggle and victory which once took place in this same tunnel.

In the summer of 1880 a leak occurred in the main shaft. Twenty-eight workmen in an instant found themselves facing death. The river was bursting in upon them. They saw no escape. But the head of the gang, Peter Woodland, a Dane, who was in a smaller chamber, saw that if the glass bulb's eye in its door were broken the water would be turned into it and most of the men would have time to escape. His own death would be certain and instant. His hesitations were a young and well educated man, and he had a wife and child.

One of the survivors said afterward: "I saw his face as he looked at us through the glass. It was a ghastly pale. He gave the order, 'Break the bulb's eye!' We did it. The majority of the men were saved. Woodland and four others were drowned."

We have been chanting for ages psalms to the great heroes in whose death was the only pilot of a burning boat who would "hold his nose" against the bank till the last gallop's shore." In almost every day's paper we read as a matter of course of firming giving their lives to rescue women and children whom they never saw before, or railway engineers who face certain death to save the passengers on their trains, whom they never see. The courage that counts death when duty—its peculiarity American.

His Honey Was Gone.

A country newspaper man who is very fond of honey visited a neighboring city recently and at one of the hotels he was served with some delicious honey. He enjoyed it so much that he told his wife all about it when he returned home, says Lippincott's Magazine.

On his next trip to the city she accompanied him. They visited the same hotel, and when the noon meal was being served he said to his wife that he hoped they had some more of that honey. It did not appear, however, and the newspaper man, therefore, beckoning to a waiter, said: "Say, Sambo, where is my honey?"

He was almost paralyzed when that worthy grinned and replied: "She don't work here no more boss. She done got a job at the silk mill."

The wife received a handsome new dress before they returned home, after which she solemnly refused to tell the story.

Something That Everybody Knows.

Everybody knows that sick headache, biliousness, aallowness and constipation are caused by a disordered liver. But everybody does not know that fatigues, that tired feeling, apathy, the blues, irritability and sleeplessness are also due to the same cause. If your liver is acting well, your skin will be clear, eyes bright, spirits buoyant, appetite good, health good. Rydala's Liver Tablets will make it so.

It is such a pleasant way that you will hardly realize that you are taking medicine. Rydala's Liver Tablets are given in a pleasant and palatable form, and all live diseases caused by a disordered liver are cured. You may be sure that these tablets do not give

SOUTHERN MORTGAGES.

Their Utility in Financing the Farm—Safer than in Any Other Section.

Without detracting from the value of the observations of "bonds and mortgages" in this issue of the Field—remarks which are made from the standpoint of the investor, while dealing with the element of security rather than the question of benefits accruing to the south from the investment of outside capital in this form—it may be added that the singular absence of the farm mortgage—its comparative absence—is one of the most striking features brought to the attention of the home-seeker. In the west the farm mortgage was the precursor of development; it largely preceded all else in the nature of development, while dealing with the south, proceeding along different lines, performed the work of creating the best of home markets and the highest prices for farm products without incurring the chief source of the south's wealth—its soil. In other words, the industrial development of the south has so greatly improved the status of the southern farmer, by multiplying the demands for his products, both at home and abroad, but more especially at home, that many of the considerations which moved the western and northern farmer to mortgage his holdings do not apply in the south. There the burden of initial exploitation and development has been borne by the manufacturer and the railroad, while in the west it fell upon the shoulders of the farmer.

In the south, the farmer's opportunity has come to him quickly, largely through the efforts of other factors in the west it came by slow gradations, marked by heavy duties upon his substance to meet interest payments on mortgages, which are now being canceled. In a word, the west mortgaged its reality, while the south, for the most part, has only incumbered some of its dreams.

On the other hand, from the view-point of the investor, there can be no doubt about the attractions of the south as a field for farm mortgage investments. As "bonds and mortgages" points out, the security is relatively safer than in any other part of the country; for there is no other section where values put upon land are so disproportionate to its earning power, whether it is employed in agriculture or allowed to lie idle and grow up in timber.

It has often been said by shrewd observers that if only a small percentage of the money employed to give the west its start—and of course the major part of this money introduced at an earlier period, before the stridles in industry and transportation placed the southern farmer in his present position of comparative independence respecting markets and market prices.

The utility of the mortgage is of course the same in financing a farm that it is in any other business undertaking; and the essential, or primary difference between the west and the south has simply been the order in which resources have been taken up for development. In the west the farm lands came first; in the south they are coming last, their attractions heightened by all that has gone before in the development of other things.—Southern Field for September.

A Blotch in Time.

The old adage applies to disease as well as to dress. One dose of Rydala's Blizz will arrest or clear an attack of Pains in the Back, Stomach, Headache or Liver troubles. Keep a bottle of Rydala's Blizz in the house, so the "blotch" can be taken in time.

Perils of the Submarine.

The narrow escape of the crew of the submarine torpedo boat "Porpoise" from a terrible death during some recent practice off Boston's Reef, again brings forcibly to mind the great perils which attend "submarine work." As far as can be learned it seems that the "Porpoise," in charge of two lieutenants and eight men, took a position off the Lighthouse and was engaged, intending to make a run at the depth of 30 feet. The type of submarine to which the "Porpoise" belongs accomplishes its diving by maintaining a slight reserve of buoyancy, and then setting the submerging rudders so that they carry the boat beneath the water, the depth of submergence being determined by the angle at which the rudders are set. It seems that, in the present case, the rudders became jammed, so that they continued to carry the vessel down until she rested on the bottom at a depth, according to her reports, of 120 feet. To raise the vessel, an attempt was made to blow out the water-tanks; but, of course, at this great depth, the water pressure tending to crush the "Porpoise" was considerably greater than that which she was designed to stand, amounting to 52 pounds to the square inch, or about 3.4 tons to the square foot. It seems that when the valves of the "blowing tanks" were opened in the tanks, it was found that they would not operate. Moreover, the enormous crushing pressure upon the boat started leaks, and the water began to come in through the seams of the plating and around the joints of the torpedo tube. In this emergency, which was about as terrible as could be imagined, Lieut. Nelson, who was in charge, utilized an air pump worked by hand, to expel the water, and after a long period of hard work on the part of the crew the boat slowly rose to the surface and was towed into Newport.

It is supposed that the trouble was due to the fact that the boat had not been overhauled for cleaning for nearly twelve months, and that, consequently, the sea cocks had become choked. The terrible plight in which the crew found themselves brings to mind the recent accident in the British fleet when a submarine was run down and lost with its entire crew. If the accident proved to have been due to negligence in the upkeep of the boat, of course there will be nothing in the incident to shake the faith of those who believe in the submarine as such. On the other hand, the incident serves to illustrate the special perils that attend this form of naval service, unless it be conducted with extreme caution and unremitting watchfulness.—Scientific American.

CO. G. AT MANASSAS.

How the Hazelwood Rifles are Spending Their Time in the Manoeuvres at Manassas.

Maneuver Camp No. 1, Manassas, Va., Sept. 6, 1904.

John Barberton has promised to write you but as he is very busy, made me promise to write for him, but you will have to correct for me if there are any mistakes, as I am in such a hurry. We arrived here at 10 o'clock Sabbath evening without an accident of any kind, except Sabbath that was spent any other than the way that it should have been. We had to sleep without a shelter the first night, as we did not get our tents up, but none seem to be the worse for it. I think every one slept so soundly that he didn't have time to take a cold, as we were up all night the night before. The army started on the march this morning, had everything at three and started to march at five. The boys had a very good load, for so long a march each one had his haversack, canteen, half of shelter tent, blanket, thirty rounds of ammunition, with gun and belt and two days' ration; so you can see we will have some tired boys by the time they get back. I can hear the artillery as it is writing. It sounds like I might be 8 or 10 miles away. I don't know whether they will come near enough to hear the small guns or not. We are camped beside a New York regiment, and they seem to be a very pleasant set of men. They do everything they can to help us in any way they can. I want to take a trip to Washington one day before I go home. As I know there is a great deal to see, as I have never been to the capital city.

Respectfully,
H. W. MILLER.

Field Hockey for Girls.

"Field hockey for women is a new thing in American athletics, but a sport that is destined to have a large following," writes Christine of Tarbone Herrick in The Delineator for October. With the aid of some striking illustrations she describes the details of the game, as well as the rules for playing and sets forth its advantages over other sports, so that one gets a very agreeable impression of field hockey as an athletic pastime for girls. The game has long been played in England, but was introduced in this country only recently. It partakes some thing of the nature of the "shinny," familiar to small boys, but variously regulated in its playing places, and as a result, the "happy medium," might be welcomed. If one may judge from the vogue it has already gained in the women's colleges it is rapidly taking its leading place among the sports of the American girl.

The people of the ninth district have of now more reason to be proud of their new and sane young Congressman, Hon. E. Yates Dennis. His prompt and sensible address to the people who gathered at Shelby early yesterday morning, presumably bent on doing violence to the slayer of Chief-of-Police Hamrick, doubtless averted an ugly blot on the state's escutcheon. The people who heard and heeded his wise counsel are likewise to be congratulated for "his that ruleth his spirit," is greater than he that taketh a city."—Charlotte Observer.

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irrigation living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Discovery will adjust this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Reunion Spratt and White Families.

The following is an account from the Fort Mill Times of the Spratt-White annual reunion held at "The Holly, N. C., Mr. B. M. Spratt's family, of Chester, being in attendance: "The annual reunion of the Spratt and White families was held last Thursday at Mt. Holly, N. C., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Rankin.

The families of Mr. Jas. Polk Spratt, of Livingston, Ala., A. S. Wright, Fred Nims, J. M. Spratt, J. W. Spratt, H. Spratt, of Chester, W. B. H. K., J. L. Spratt and Mrs. W. E. Spratt, amounting to 47, left Fort Mill by private conveyance Wednesday morning, and after a picnic dinner at Steel Creek church, reached Mt. Holly about dark.

Wednesday night 50 people sat down to supper in the dining room and to those who have visited at this delightful country home it is unnecessary to state that the large tabled out as usual and entertained for the two days and two nights of their stay as well as were an every day occurrence for three score people to drop in for dinner or supper.

The younger people spent the days in various forms of amusement, while the older ones sat around and talked of the good old days gone by; of what happened at the Wilderness and what Aunt Smartt went when she danced with Uncle Jimmy McKee at the old log school in 55.

Thursday evening a business meeting was held and it was decided to hold the reunion next August at the home of Mrs. W. E. Spratt, which is the old Spratt homestead.

Friday morning after a very reluctant farewell, the Fort Mill party started for home, and after another picnic dinner at Ranelagus, reached home about dark, tired but happy.

How to Secure a Vigorous Body and Mind.

Health of body and mind depend upon the health of the stomach. The brain, the blood, the nerves, all depend upon the stomach for sustenance. The stomach's power to digest and assimilate food measures the strength of the body and mind. If you are below the normal strength and flesh, Rydala's Stomach Tablets will help you out of your trouble. They insure perfect digestion and assimilation and these secure health of body and mind. Rydala's Stomach Tablets cure the worst forms of dyspepsia and indigestion and all forms of stomach trouble. Trial size, 25c. Full size, 50c. The large size contains 2 1/2 times the quantity of the trial size. T. S. Leitner.

Civilities.

Capt. J. Hampden Brooks, a brother of the elected Preston S. Brooks, has been selected Senator from Greenwood and there will be no finer gentleman in that body. It is a peculiar coincidence that the Senator from Richland, J. Quilman Marshall, is his son-in-law. An other coincidence is that two brothers, E. S. and C. L. Blessie, will represent Saluda and Newberry counties in the Senate. A few years ago A. H. Doan represented Greenville in the Senate and his father, A. H. Doan, Sr., was in the Senate from Spartanburg; about the same time Gen. E. J. Dennis was Senator from Berkeley and his son, E. J. Dennis, Jr., was a representative from the same county; two Ragdale brothers from Fairfield and their nephew from Florence were in the general assembly at the same time.

Fearful Odds Against Him.

Bridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief, was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Vassalboro, Co. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctor nor medicine gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bells. It put him on his feet in short order and now he is feeling living man's derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Discovery will adjust this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at the Woods Drug Co. and Johnston Drug Store.

The Three R's.

For some years The Post stood almost "solitary and alone" in its contention for the maintenance of a free school system in accordance with the objects for which the system was founded. The tendency to belittle the importance of the indispensable items of the public school's curriculum was so strong as to be well-nigh irresistible. The lower grades of all city schools were being starved in order to support the higher grades, into which only a small percentage of the children ever enter, and from which a still smaller number are graduated. And in the lower grades so many studies were introduced that the indispensables were neglected. To some extent those abuses continue in most cities, but there has been a deal of reformatory work accomplished, and it is still going on. The Chicago Journal calls attention to it in an editorial entitled "Another Champion of Sane Education," which we reproduce:

"Present reaction against fads and frills in the primary education has resulted in a decided champion in the Whitehall Road, of the board of relatives of the state of New York.

"Mr. Reid wants the three R's well taught. His holds that secondary or special studies are not justified until ample provisions has been made for giving every child a thorough primary education.

"Schools managed on advanced pedagogical lines are doing more harm than good Mr. Reid avers, and he cites the startling fact that a large proportion of candidates for admission to West Point Military academy are rejected for lack of basic elementary qualifications.

"It is encouraging to note a strong tide of public sentiment has set in against fads in primary schools.

"School authorities should not insist upon giving a child baubles when it asks for the substantial."

Modish Millinery.

The newest hats have extremely high crowns, a decided change from the flat-topped hats that have been in favor recently. The Louis XVI, and Director shapes are the season's novelties. The effect of the high crown is considerably modified in some models by folds and bands of ribbon or tulle puffings or ruchings, a trimming that will undoubtedly have great popularity. A favorite shape is the medium-sized capeline with slightly drooping brim and high crown, and its trimming is a puffing of tulle or velvet around the crown, and perhaps a paradise feather at the left side. The paradise is this season's most fashionable hat trimming.

Vivid colors and rather startling blends continue to be striking features in fashionable headgear. Framboise (a raspberry pink), cog de roche (reddish orange), Victorian or "bottle" green, mauve, "cactus" brown, and purple in all tones are used in hats of general wear. The flat, oval circular crowns of the picture hats are this season higher than they were, and set off by trimmings arranged around and against the crown as a narrow band of trimming.—From The Delineator for October.

Send to School.

Vacation days are almost over and the children will soon be in school again. On Monday the city schools will be opened. A large number of schools of the county have already started. It is incumbent upon the parents not only of Chester county but of every county of the state to place their children in the school room and keep them there. The country is calling for educated men and women. Educated men are needed in the various callings of life, they are needed as citizens, so that they can think and vote and redeem the fair name of our beloved state. May it not be that it is the lack of proper training of the whole mass, so much lessness prevails in the land today?

While South Carolina does not stand at the foot of the states in illiteracy, a good percent of her citizens are illiterate. Between the ages of 10 and 21 the illiterates in the United States are 4.9 per cent. of the entire population, those in Massachusetts form 9 per cent, in South Carolina 13.3 per cent, and in North Carolina 18.9 per cent. The only way to cure this illiteracy is to send the children to school.

Chester county has good schools, and they are being improved from year to year. The average length of school term is 145 days, while the average in the state at large is 111.5 days and that of the United States 144.2 days. The average monthly salary for teachers in the state is $25.96, the average monthly salary for teachers in Chester county is $12.23. In this county the schools are run longer than in any other county in the state with the exception of two, Charleston and our sister county, Fairfield, and at the end of the year a larger balance is left on hand than in any other county except one, Charleston. The schools of the county are in excellent condition. They are among the best in the state. What we want to do is to place the children in school and keep them there. In the year 1902-03, 1,908 white children of the county were in school, and 9,807 colored, 2.02 times as many colored as white. White parents, therefore, can ill afford to keep their children at home, while the colored people are taking full advantage of their educational opportunities.

Some people are distressed about what is to take the place of the dispensary in counties where it may be voted out. It may be some comfort to them to know that sober people don't want anything to take its place. When they asked for the abolition of the saloon they did not ask for anything to take its place. Temperance people don't want liquor from any source, and tipplers would find that they can get along without it better than they imagine.

Jewish New Year.
The Jewish new year 5665 begins today at sundown and the observance continues for two days. It is regarded as a very holy day among the Jews, but only the most orthodox observe the entire time. Most of the stores of Jewish merchants in Chester will close until sundown Saturday evening.

Proceedings of Court.
Court is still progressing, but as is usual in civil cases, not very rapidly. It is most probable that the entire two weeks will be required for the completion of the work.

When The lantern went to press Tuesday the case of Walker vs. Sayers & Scovill was being tried. The jury gave the plaintiff $200. The case of James Benson vs. S. A. L. Ry. Co. was then taken up, Hemphill and Henry & McClure representing the plaintiff and Glenn & McCadden the defendant. The plaintiff was given $1,000. Messrs. Glenn & McCadden gave notice of motion for a new trial.

The case of Orr vs. L. & C. Ry. Co., with W. H. N. Seward for plaintiff and Glenn & McCadden for defendant, was begun Wednesday afternoon and continued through all of yesterday, the lawyers for the defendant having yet to address the jury.

Mr. Alex. McAlley left this morning for Clemson college.

Improvements at Springglen.

The Springglen cotton mill company will enlarge their mill in the near future, a squad of men already at work are excavating preparatory to laying the foundation for the additional building, which will be 110 by 50 feet and two stories high. It is proposed by the authorities to add 6,000 spindles, with necessary machinery for opening and preparing cotton. More dyeing machinery will be put in, and additions will be made to the finishing plant. The company a few weeks ago purchased the old colored school property to the north of the mill, and it is at this end of the mill that the new building will be erected.

Work has recently been resumed after being suspended for three weeks, during which time quite a number of improvements were made. Three new one hundred and fifty horse-power boilers, and new engine cylinders were put in and other improvements made.

Night work has been shut down altogether, and it is the impression of one of the men prominently connected with the mill that it will never be resumed. It will therefore not be necessary to erect any new buildings for the operatives, as about the same number of hands will be employed as when the mill ran both day and night. About seven hundred hands will be necessary to operate the machinery.

The mill capacity will therefore be 14,112 spindles and 902 looms, and about three thousand bales of cotton will be used per year. The Springglen is one of the best mills in this section, being among the few in this part of the country which manufactures only standard staple gingham. It is excellently managed, as is shown by the additions which are necessary to be made.

The management is in no hurry to complete the new building and equip it with machinery, at the market at this time is rather dull. It is thought, however, that the buyers' stock on hands will soon become exhausted and business will necessarily pick up a little later, and the mill with all its improvements will be running to its full capacity.

SEABOARD WRECK.

Southbound Passenger Last Night Went Through a Trestle near Catawba Junction and an Extra Followed a Train of Cars and was Injured.
No. 41 on the Seaboard Air Line, the passenger train which is due in Chester about 2 o'clock at night, crashed through a trestle about three miles north of Catawba Junction last night, and a light extra which was following the passenger plunged in on top of the wreck. It is not known at this time how great the damage is, but it is reported; not authoritatively, that two or three passengers were killed and two or three of the trainmen and several seriously injured. An extra train with doctors was sent to the scene of disaster from Monroeville.

Telegraph Operator Parry, of the post Western Union office, was informed this morning from Charlotte that eight persons have been taken to Monroe dead, and several seriously wounded. Later, Mr. Womble, agent at Chester, who is at the scene, says that four persons are killed and 15 or more wounded.

It is an especially notable and sad fact that the death of Prof. Ernest P. Mangum, principal of the Wilson Graded schools, who died here Sunday, was due directly to his having been struck across the nose with a base ball while a student many years ago. When You Buy FURNITURE

You must depend to a large extent on the honesty of the dealer.

WE ARE NOT ANGELS

(If we were we would be out of business) but whatever you buy of us must be as we represent it or you get your money back. In all the years that we have been selling goods to the people we have not had one person to say we cheated them or misrepresented our goods. WE NEVER MAKE A STATEMENT WE CAN'T BACK UP and we want to make one right now.

We Can Save You One-Fourth on Your Furniture Purchases.

Come to see us. Get our prices and let us show you how we get goods at such a big discount below our competitors. There is a way to prove our statement too: Compare our prices with those of our competitors. Man came in our store the other day, said he wanted some furniture, picked out a lot, he was fifty dollars; Man was surprised and said: "Why, that bill was a duplicate of a list I had picked out at a Furniture Store down street only your goods are much newer and they wanted seventy odd dollars." We have his name if you want to know. Also Man had of others who have had similar experiences. Moral is shown in our illustration.

WORSE EVERY YEAR

Plenty of Chester Readers Have the Same Experience.

Don't neglect an aching back. It will get worse every year. Backache is really kidney ache. To cure the back you must cure the kidneys.

If you don't other kidney life follows kidney troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease.

A Newberry citizen tells you how the cure is easy.

Mr. H. Harris, chief of police of Newberry, South Carolina, writes: "I suffered for some years from my back and kidneys and a dull aching across the middle of my back made me miserable especially at night when it was much worse. I could not rest in any position, the aches were very dark and full of sediment and the backache was so intense that I was unable to get to sleep which was fastened a number of remedies but until I saw the advertisement about Doan's Kidney Pills and purchased a box, the medicine gave me relief. The use of this remedy brought about a decided change for the better. After using two boxes the backache all left me, the kidney secretions cleared up and regained their normal action and appearance."

Plenty more proof like this from Chester people. It is directed to Drug Co. store and ask what their customers require.

For sale by dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble prevails upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beaury, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order.

Kidney trouble has a prevailing habit of attacking a child to be born. It is not uncommon for a child to be born with a weak kidney. If the child urinates the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble and the remedy should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a disordered condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon apparent. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a full-sized bottle by mail for $1.00. Send for a free sample bottle by including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured. In writing to Dr. J. C. Binham, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

War in the East.

Russia has met with another defeat. Liao Yang, an important Russian position has been captured and now the flag of Japan proudly flies on the air at this place, the result of the valor, the excellent fighting qualities of the Japanese soldiery.

The flag of Japan flies over Liao Yang. Field Marshal Oyama, who led his famous second army in to Port Arthur during the China-Japan war of 1894 '95, and who in that struggle also captured Wei Hai Wei and Tientsin, today by dint of incessant fighting in which his men were spared neither because of casualties nor because of hardship, holds sway over Liao Yang and Gen Kurapatkin, through whom Russia believed its army would be served, is in full retreat northward, while one of his chief aides, Gen. Stakeberg, with his command, the First Siberian army corps, numbering 25,000 men, is cut off to the westward of Liao Yang.

"The Russians are concentrating at Yantai, but the dispatches that have given no intimation as to whether or not they will make a stand there, or even if the Japanese are pursuing their own flight. This last blow to Russian arms, though it is spoken of in St. Petersburg as the logical consequence of Russian plans, doubtless will be taken much to heart by the subjects of Emperor Nicholas who, after a succession of defeats and retirements by the army, have been expecting a finality of the struggle at Liao Yang in their favor.

"In the loss of Liao Yang by the Russians the Japanese probably will gain little except in the way of a strategic point, for the Russians still have the magazines and set fire to the enormous quantities of army stores and provisions there before they evacuated."

Officer Obeeyed Orders.

A smart young officer belonging to a cavalry corps in India was sent on sick leave to the convalescent station of Simla, and while recovering his health among the hills there, was robbed of his heart and in return captivated the charming girl. The young fellow proposed, and was accepted, and with all possible dispatch the wedding day was fixed. But the colonel of the expectant bridegroom's regiment was strongly opposed to the litigation marrying, and telegraphed an unwelcome "join at once" to the amorous sub.

The chagrined soldier handed the preemptory message to his fair one. She glanced at it and then with a becoming blush of sweet simplicity, remarked:

"I am more than glad, dear that your colonel so approves of your choice; but what hurry he is in for the wedding! I don't think I can be ready quite so soon, but I'll try, for, of course, the colonel must be obeyed."

"But you don't seem to understand the telegram, sweetheart," said the lieutenant. "It upsets every plan we have made. You see he says, 'Join at once.'"

"Certainly he does, dear," replied the lady, looking up with an arch smile; "but it is you who don't seem to understand it. When the colonel says 'Join at once,' what does he mean but get married immediately? What else, indeed, can he possibly mean?"

"What else, indeed, darling?" delightedly exclaimed the ardent lover, re-joining in the new reading, which he received with the utmost alacrity. "So 48 hours had scarcely passed before the colonel received the following: 'Your orders have been carried out. We were joined at once.'—London World."

Autumn Fashions.

The vogue of Louis XVI, and Directorate styles is now assured, says The Delineator for October. All dresses are lavishly decorated, and the hand work on even the simplest frock makes it a costly affair. These styles, however, are for a certain extent adaptable to individual tastes and needs.

The greatest feature of the tailored coat is a tight fitting affair thirty-six or fifty inches in length, and its success lies in perfect adjustment and finish. Many of these long jackets are made very tight back and front, or loose all around in tourist effect. Some of the smart people will adopt, this season, the velvet Louis coat, with the cloth skirts of the same color, and shades of tan are the choice of the most fastidious. There are those who will reverse this idea, and wear the velvet skirt with the cloth coat, which is quite as modish.

The stomach, as the long-boned, deep point of the fashionable bodice is called, is much in evidence. Deep pointed girdles and belts distinguish many of the most stylish gowns, and in these a touch of harmonizing or contrasting color can be introduced.

A striking feature of the season's styles is the recurrence of brilliant silk costumes. Liberty stain, mes-saline and brilliant taffets being most in evidence. The newest colors are maroon and ochre, greenish-gray, bright and Dalt blue, and co. de rose, the last being most effective as a relief note with the gray-green and brown.

Recourt for Sha. II.

There will be a special primary next Friday between the hours of 8 a. m. and 4 p. m., to determine the question whether the democratic voters of York county intended Mr. Hugh G. Brown or Mr. S. S. Plexico to be in the second race for sheriff with Capt. E. A. Crawford. This is the conclusion reached by the executive committee last Saturday as the result of its efforts to adjudicate the contest instituted by Mr. Plexico.

On the face of the returns it will be remembered Mr. Brown had 569 votes and Mr. Plexico had 568. This was after certain county votes that had been deposited in the state box at Rock Hill had been counted in favor of Mr. Plexico. Mr. Plexico took the position that inasmuch as the result was so close, a recount was justifiable and he demanded that the same be made.—Yorkville Enquirer.

Want to Know They're Riding.

An old farmer, who by his work and parsimonious habits, had gotten together a little fortune, decided that the time had at length arrived when he was justified in ordering a family carriage. He went to a carriage builder and described in detail what kind of vehicle he wished to buy.

"Now I suppose you want rubber tires," said the carriage builder. "No, sir," replied the old farmer, in tones of resentment. "My family ain't that kind. When they're riding they want to know it."—Cottish American.

GRADUAL DECLINE

This is the fate of sufferers from Kidney trouble, as the disease is so insidious that often people have serious Kidney trouble without knowing the real cause of their illness, as diseased kidneys allow the impurities to stay in the system and attack the other organs. This accounts for the many different symptoms of Kidney Disease.

You begin to feel better at once when taking as it stimulates the heart, increases the circulation and invigorates the whole system. It strengthens the urinary organs and gives you new life and vigor.

J. J. STRINGFELLOW

Chicago Business Man Cured

Foley & Co., Chicago, Gentlemen—About a year ago my health began to fail. I lost flesh and never felt well. The doctor thought I had stomach and liver trouble, but I became convinced that my kidneys were the cause of my ill health and commenced taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. It increased my appetite and made me feel stronger, and the annoying symptoms disappeared. I am now sound and well.—J. E. HARRIS, 1354 Divisadero Street, Chicago, June 15, 1902. Cured His Wife

Mr. C. Watkins, agent of the Methodist Church, Springfield, Pa., writes: "My wife has been very bad with kidney trouble and used several remedies without benefit. After taking one bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE she was much better, and was completely cured after taking four bottles."

One Bottle Cured Him

A. H. Davis, M.D., writes: "I have treated many cases of kidney trouble. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE offered a permanent cure."
