"Those dope people at camp here don't strike me" he said in an exaggerated Polish.

household tales that were prized like pieces of the Burrell plate, beautiful and precious of sentiment that have the honor of high blooded blood, follow in the way of the legend of the night scene to mock him. He was a strong man, and to his veins ran the blood of warm forefathers who were wont to possess that which they conquered in the life of love, mingled with which was the blood of spirited southern women who had on occasion loved not wisely, according to Kentucky rumor, but only too well. Nevertheless they were wise and women, if ornamentally, and had transmitted to him a heritage of clarity and a high sense of honor and courage. Her love had placed a barrier between them greater and more insurmountable than her love. He greatly withdrew his fingers from her grasp and, seeing the other side of the world, looked himself over with wonder, and in them at the warm of the legend: bright, blotted with the trust of a new born virgin love.

"That's right," said Gale. "The only other way across is by Black Bear creek, and there ain't a half dozen men ever been up to the head of that stream, much less over the divide, so I don't allow there's any use to fret ourselves."

"Well, I shouldn't care to publish the tale of this excursion of ours. Would you?" "I don't see any reason against it. I have often taken trips with Polon and he has been with him for days and days at a time."

"No Creek! Lee, the one-eyed miser who had made this lucky strike, told his own words with a certain stately court, when his luck had risen with him at the dawn and misfortune."

"I am not so sure. He doesn't know you, Lee and Polon and you do. I think we had better say nothing at all about you and me to any one."

"Well, if Lee hasn't brought himself back he had stalked beside him as he drifted and a glow of a settled pessimism over him, and now began to stum him because of the still that seemed to follow in his steps."

"I think we are very smart to come so far," he said. "You travel like a deer," he declared admiringly. "Why, you have tried me down." Removing his park he stretched the belt and shook out the corners of his slippers.

"I've been rainbow chased forty years," he said, "and never caught snail, but cramps and epidemics and inflammation. I'm the only miner in the county that ever made a discovery of gold and never had a creek named after him."

"I'm so glad to be alive and to love you like this!" she continued dreamily, starting into the fire. "I seem to have come out of a gloomy house into the glory of a warm spring day, for my eyes are blinding and I can't see now as I used to. I wonder there are so many about my age."

At a prayer meeting a good old brother stood up and said he was glad to give testimony.

"My wife and I," he said, "started in life with hardly a cent in the world. We began at the lowest round of the ladder, but the Lord has been good to us, and we have worked up to what we have prospered. We bought a little farm and raised good crops. We have a good home and a nice family of children, and," he added, with much emphasis, "I am the head of this family."

After he sat down his wife promptly arose to corroborate all that he had said. But she added, with satisfaction "I am the neck that moves the head."

"My three year old boy was badly constipated, had a high fever and was in a awful condition. I gave him two doses of Foley's Kidney Pills and the next morning he was better, and he was cured."—Mrs. J. O. O'Connell, "Foley's Kidney Pills saved his life." A. W. Cook, "Cassins, Wis." Leitner's Pharmacy.

Some men are born fools, but most of us acquire foolishness.

Epidemic of Hydrophobia.

There is an epidemic of hydrophobia down the line of the Carolina and North-Western railroad, extending from the southern part of York township, through Batesville and on to and beyond Lowryville, and many people down that way are very much concerned about it.

As to the origin of the epidemic, Mr. Jackson could not say, but the existence of hydrophobia had been known for several weeks. A large coil belonging to Rev. J. K. Gill, ran about and bit several other dogs and a number of other animals, including two calves and a pig, belonging to Mr. J. P. Moore. The dog was killed near Lowryville and the calves and pig afterward developed rabies and were killed. Another coil belonging to Mr. Mason Bratton ran amuck and bit a number of dogs. This dog came back home and Mr. Bratton had killed Mr. John A. Harshaw had two fine bull dogs that he prized very highly. In a wire enclosure. Another dog came along and bit them through the wire. Not caring to take any chance Mr. Harshaw had the bull dogs killed.

A small pug dog followed some children and bit several other dogs and a number of other animals bitten are keeping the animals up awaiting developments.—Yorkville Enquirer.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. Cures backache and irregularities that if neglected might result in Bright's disease or diabetes. Leitner's Pharmacy.

In days of old—
When knights were bold
And quirt to draw the blade,
Their endless scrapes
For writing chaps
A deal of copy made.
And it was well,
That they did slash and carve,
For had they not,
Today a lot
Of novelists would starve.

When a particle of food has become lodged between the teeth it can be removed by pulling an ordinary rubber band between the teeth. This will be found much better than a toothpick, which breaks, leaving a piece of wood. The rubber will not injure the teeth.—Exchange.

How Sound Waves Move.

The speed with which sound waves are transmitted through the atmosphere depends upon several conditions. When the temperature is at 32 degrees F. sounds move at the speed of 1,090 feet per second, the velocity increasing with the temperature at the rate of about one foot of speed per second for each degree above the freezing point. Then again, in damp air sound moves with a greater velocity than it does in dry air, no odds if the dry air be warm and the damp cold. In water sound moves more than four times as fast as it does in air, or say at about the rate of 4,700 feet per second.—Exchange.

Simple Remedy for La Grippe

Rev. Joseph B. Pepperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed many quantities day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy."—Leitner's Pharmacy.

How can any person risk taking some unknown so-called remedy when Foley's Money and Tar coats them no matter how bad the case, and cures the most obstinate coughs and colds. Why experiment with your health? Insist upon having the genuine Foley's Money and Tar.—Leitner's Pharmacy.

The wonderful versatility of President Taft and the wit of Archbishop Ryan was evidenced during a brilliant talk on the occasion of a T. T. Taft visit to this city a few days ago.

The occupant of the White House in congratulating his grace on how well he looked and how proud he should be of his diocese, remarked: "I understand you have in your cathedral the best sample of Romanesque architecture in this city, if not in the country."

"Yes," replied his grace, "and I would be very glad to have you visit it."

Then, with a significant look, he added: "If I cannot receive you into my cathedral, will you at least take you into my cathedral."—Philadelphia Press.

His awful illness, who said the poisoned blood had been cured him, and he was able to give him his mother. "Seven bottles of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured him," writes his mother, "and he is now a healthy, happy child."—Philadelphia Press.

It's Your Kidneys

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Chester Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back, they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary troubles occur in their system, they will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It cures all ailments which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Chester people testify to permanent cures.

J. B. Lee of Chester, S. C., says: "I am glad to acknowledge the benefit I derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back gave me a great deal of trouble and at times I was so weak I could scarcely attend to my business. My back and I have since been strengthened and I feel like a new man."
