THE EXPERIENCE

THE IMAGE 1993

Rowan College of New Jersey
201 Mullica Hill Road
Glassboro, New Jersey 08028

Enjoy the outdoors.

The Thomas E. Robinson classroom building holds a computer lab, psychological testing center and what most of us go there for: classrooms.

In Mimosa Hall, a resident shows off how much he or she can drink, without using the typical alcohol containers. Uh-huh!

On the road again, toward Edgewood Park Apartments.

Wilson Music Building is the finest center for fine and performing arts in southern New Jersey.

Professor Ottiano created the popular art sculpture in front of the Student Center that we all pass every day.

A lasting tribute to Glassboro State College will remain at Rowan College of New Jersey.

Art supplies and girlfriend in hand, these students head toward the Student Center.

Enjoy the Student Center — the perfect hang-out

Where else but the Student Center can you hang out with friends, play pool and pick up the newest The Whit or Venue publication? You can buy a tuck-in for a friend, check your mailbox and do some laundry, do your homework, sleep in the pit and listen to tunes in the gameroom. It is a great place for socializing and the perfect place to eat.

Who doesn't love to cruise the area outside the food court looking at vendor's wares?

— Dawn Modernity

Finding mail in the mailbox always cheers up a resident's day.

Students show they are not apathetic and try to get out the vote.

The cafeteria food may not be tasty, but you can't beat the quantity of food for the price.

Pool sharks are bred at college.

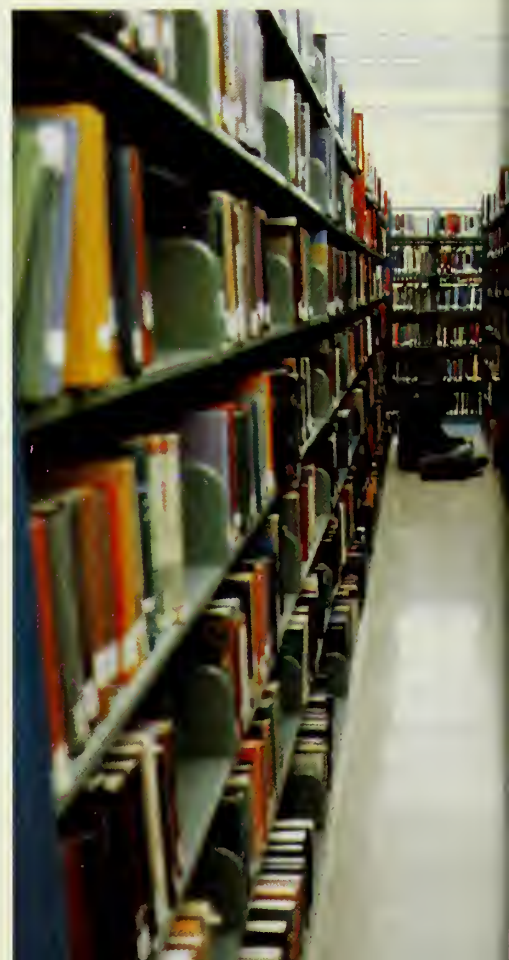

Enjoy the solace

Even in these modern times with computerized index catalogs, sometimes the old fashioned card catalog still works best.

A new library will replace Savitz in a few years. Good-bye Savitz sign.

The library offers solace and free newspapers for those students who want to keep current with events happening off-campus.

A new computer network is being installed this year.

Savitz was named after the first college president.

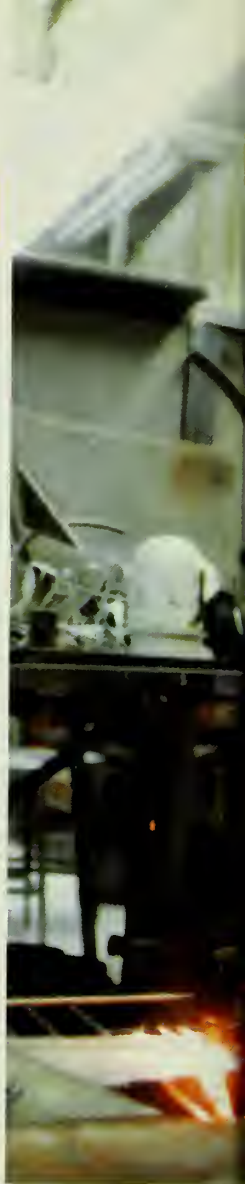

Enjoy the fine and performing arts

This student learns the beauty of hand-crafted work.

Computer art is a new direction the art world must take.

Fighting the sexual stereotypes: this student works on a metalry project.

All majors learn the elements of dance if they take an introductory dance or rhythm class.

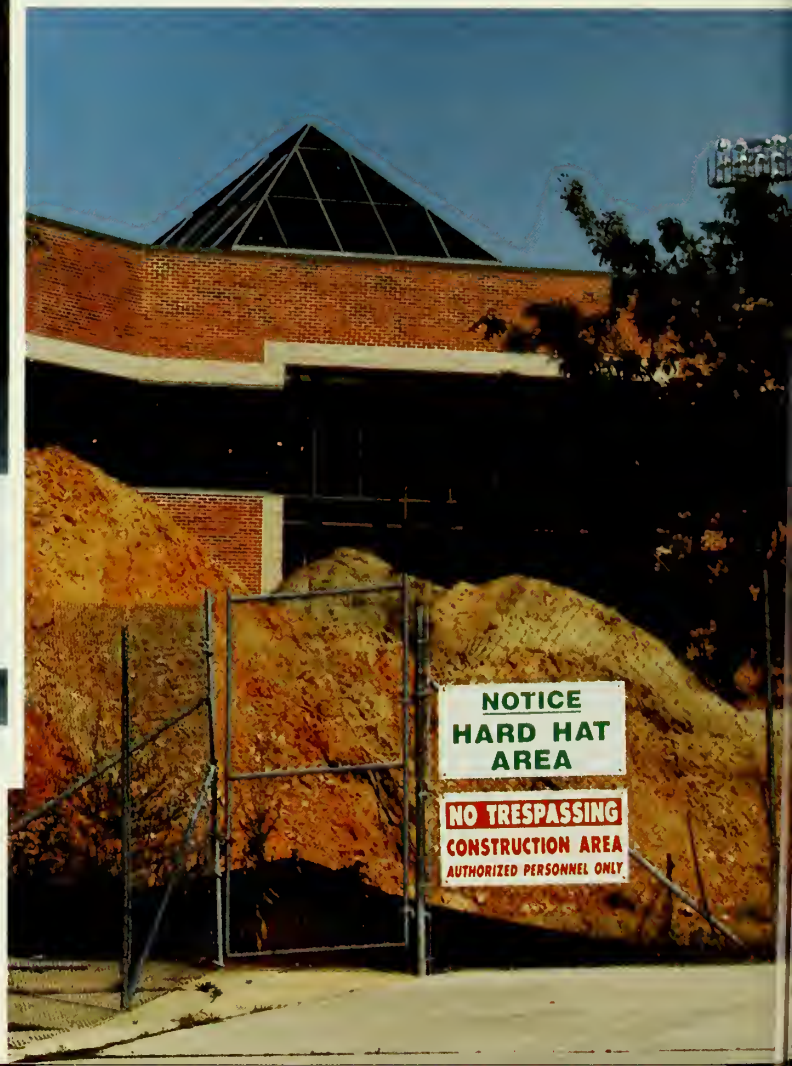

Enjoying the time between classes.

Real men wear black . . . and hot pink and fluorescent green among other colors.

These students catch up on organization information and flyers outside of the student center.

We anxiously await the opening of the recreation center. Another beautiful building added to the campus.

Casual conversation between casual friends walking along Route 322.

Members of the sorority Theta Pi Omicron enjoy an evening out with each other.

25 Years on the Silver Screen

Homecoming has always been an exciting time of year. It is a time when people come together to have fun. Many groups worked hard this year, building floats for the parade and preparing their skits.

Many alumni returned, supporting their favorite organizations and school. Local residents came together to watch the parade. It was a time to celebrate; the parade was a success, friends and family visited together and Rowan won the football game.

The winners of the Homecoming floats were Delta Zeta and Kappa Sigma with Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory in first place, Sigma Sigma Sigma and Theta Chi with Dick Tracy tied for second place with Alpha Epsilon Phi and Delta Kappa Epsilon with The Muppet Movie, and Phi Sigma Sigma and Delta Chi earned third place with Mary Poppins.

Dawn McDermott and Amy Bogdanoff

Homecoming King Mark Tronicke and Queen Patty Gorskie celebrate their titles.

Mary Poppins flies into Glassboro for the Homecoming parade.

The Tau Kappa Epsilon brothers performed an elaborate step routine from Stripes to an enthusiastic crowd.

The dancing girls from Dick Tracy sing for their hero.

Alpha Chi Rho and Kappa Lambda Psi performed scenes from Robin Hood, Prince of Thieves.

For those who enjoy British humor, the Newman Club and Alpha Phi Omega performed a skit from Monty Python and the Holy Grail.

Dr. and Mrs. James tour the town during the parade.

Have you ever seen so many Muppets at one time? Thanks Jim Henson.

Willy Wonka and Charlie pal around during Homecoming.

Johnny B. Goode whoops it up for this '90s crowd.

Sebastian the crab was cute and all the mermaids befriended him during his solo.

Hamlet did not die, he was quite alive and entertaining during Homecoming 1992. Alas, he was in a play before a movie, so he could not win an award for best actor.

Enjoy the spirit of friendship

Student publication editors and staff members engaged in friendly competition for new recruits at the organization jam held fall semester.

Banners hung around campus celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Summit at Hollybush.

Two friends catch each other in between classes.

See ya, 'Boro, or should I say Rowan?

It's been a great 2,3,4 or more years.

ROBERT J. CRESSEN

Many people on campus may know Robert Cressen from his duties as Student Government Association, SGA Senate Chair, his position as News Director of WGLS, the college radio station, but Robert involves himself in numerous other activities in addition to these two.

Robert is a radio/TV/film major and serves as the supervisor for the Communications Department in the TV Lab.

He is the president of Gamma Tau Sigma: Senior Honor Society and is also a member of the Club for Exceptional Children.

During his junior year of college, Robert was voted homecoming king.

"When I was chosen, I was really surprised because I was the only junior to get it. In the past, only seniors have received it."

Robert is serving in his second consecutive year as Senate Chair of SGA. He became involved with the running of student government because he became upset over some of the things occurring on campus. He was advised by the person who previously held the position that even though he didn't have a vote, he could make a change within the student population. According to Robert, everyone has an opinion, and when things get out of hand he must let people speak.

As he put it, "I have no reservations about suspending speaking privileges when a person has nothing new to add to the debate." As Senate Chair, Robert must also serve as a voice in the Inter-Greek Council.

Robert has remained on the dean's list since the beginning of his freshman year, and last year he received the Sam Donaldson Communication award.

He recently has been inducted as an honorary member of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences (NATAS).

In addition to academics and politics, Robert immersed himself in athletics. He swam for the men's swim team for four years.

Sharyn Finno holds a position most college students never even heard of: student member of the Rowan College Board of Trustees. She votes on every issue that the board votes on, in the students' interest. This position enables her to act as an ex-officio member for the executive board of the Student Government Association.

Sharyn became actively socially on campus by helping to found the Phi Sigma Sigma National Sorority chapter at Rowan College. She holds the corresponding secretary position for the chapter.

Academically, she is an elementary education major with a coordinate major in psychology. She is in the reading certification program too and holds an honors concentration.

Her academic extra-curricular activities include acting as vice president of the Student Honors Organization, president of Kappa Delta Pi: Education Honor Society, member of Psi Chi: Psychology Honor Society and member of Gamma Tau Sigma: Senior Honor Society. She earned a 3.8 GPA to join these organizations. Sharyn won several scholarships while in college, too, thanks to her strong academic record.

Off campus, Sharyn involves herself with the International Reading Association, Reading council of Southern New Jersey and the New Jersey Education Association.

The activities do not end with school-related topics. The AIDS Coalition of Southern New Jersey enlists Sharyn as a "buddy" in its friends of AIDS patients program. Sharyn helps fundraise for AIDS and attends speaking engagements on AIDS education.

She was nominated for USA Today's Top 20 College Students in America for all of these accomplishments.

FACULTY, STAFF and ADMINISTRATORS

Faculty, staff and administrators teach us innumerable aspects of life.

They show us what we want to be and what we know we do not want to be. They show us how to conduct and not conduct ourselves in front of and toward other people.

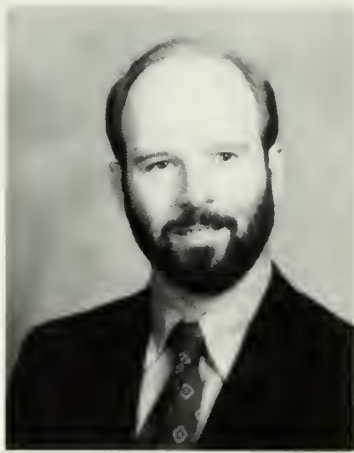

They have the wisdom and the knowledge to share with us their achievements and failures to enable us to succeed in our own lives.

They give us hope that we will accomplish all we can to enrich ourselves and the world around us.

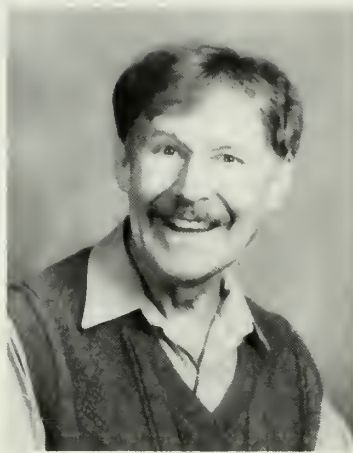

Pictured are some of the faculty, staff and administrators who we spent time with while attending GSC/Rowan.

An apology

Unfortunately, track and field and softball photographs were not taken last year do to professional and student photography errors.

Both teams performed exceptionally last year, with the track and field team winning the NJAC conference easily.

The softball team recorded its best season ever last year. Both teams look forward to successful seasons again.

What a fad!
Troll mania.

No matter how much studying a student needs to do, he or she always finds time to play hard. Intramurals offer students a chance to let off some steam and play a sport with some friendly competition. The recreation center hosts the intramural teams.

These are a few of the student organizations of Rowan College of New Jersey.

Many other organizations did want to be photographed, but due to a problem with the professional photography studio, they were not able to be photographed. The Image staff regrets any inconvenience caused to these organiza-

Also, some of the organizations are not identified because the staff could not identify who each group is. Again, The Image regrets any problems this causes.

I, Amy Bogdanoff, editor for the past two years did not make yearbook my life. I involved myself in many other activities on campus.

Consequently, my dreams of having an ideal yearbook did not come about. My preliminary layout for the book reads like a wish list now. Of course, much of this is due to the apathy on campus. If students like this book and are happy to have it, then I have done a good job. If you do not like this book, then make a difference next year or in your life and change what you do not like or help out when help is needed. I got what I could out of this job; I am grateful to have had the opportunity to work on the yearbook. I learned from my experience how to manage and mismanage time, people and resources. I learned how impatient and irrational I can be. However, I also learned that I have many good skills, such as organization, creativity and a flair for interacting with people.

During my three years at Rowan, I worked for the Office of Marketing and Publications; edited the yearbook; acted as secretary and president of the Bureau of Student Publications; vice president and president of Hillel, the Jewish Student Organization; vice president of the Bureau of Religious Organizations; a member of Avant; a member of PRSSA, the Public Relations Student Society of America; secretary and vice president of Theta Pi Omicron sorority; delegate to the Inter-Greek Council; a member of Gamma Tau Sigma, Senior Honor Society; a member of Who's Who Among College and University Students; an executive board member to the Jewish Community Relations Council of Southern New Jersey; a Hebrew School teacher and a sailor in the Columbia Sailing Association.

I am happy my brother, Aron, attends Rowan and I know he will succeed in his endeavors.

Thank you Ed Ziegler, Penny Whilden, Phil Tumminia, Peggy Veacock and Kathy Rozanski for teaching me many things.
