Class of 1992 Presents

Homecoming hit the 'Boro earlier than expected this year, but all were ready to participate in the fun-filled weekend. The weekend got off to an early start when the Rat hosted an alumni return on Thurs. night.

Fri. night began the building of the floats. The Class of '92 let students begin to create their musical fantasies at 8:30 p.m. and finish at dawn.

Then the parade came and each organization tried to prove that its float was the one with the best cast. Floats from the traditional, Sound of Music, to the obscure, Little Shop of Horrors, were represented in the parade.

After the parade, the undefeated Profs football team played Salisbury State, Md. The Profs won 34-7.

At halftime, the judges announced that Theta Chi and Tri-Sigma eased on down the road with first place and their theme of The Wiz. Phi Sigma Sigma and Sigma Pi carried away second place with West Side Story. Delta Zeta and Tau Kappa Epsilon flew away with Peter Pan and third place.

Also at halftime, 1991 Homecoming King and Queen Robert Cresson and Janine Aruanno rode in a car around the track for all to admire.

Halloween Hits Glassboro

The Club for Exceptional Children, CEC, held its annual Halloween dance on Oct. 21. The club has sponsored the well-liked dance for several years.

Between 100 and 200 adults and children attended the dance. The CEC invited clients from various state institutions, such as Ancora State Hospital, to participate in the dance.

Lainie Gulick, the corresponding secretary for the club, said, "This year was one that had many people show up and everyone had a good time."

Many student organizations help the CEC run the dance by serving food and drinks and dancing with the clients.

On Dec. 9 the CEC will sponsor a holiday dance for the clients. It should prove to be as successful as this one.

GSC students sponsored a yard sale, carnival and auction on Sept. 29 to benefit the Histiocytosis Association of America (HAA).

"Histiocytosis is a mysterious and sometimes fatal disease that affects about 2000 children and adults each year in the United States," said Jeff Toughill, director of security at GSC and co-founder of the HAA.

Father Mike Mannion of the Newman Center conceived the idea of the carnival and yard sale to promote awareness of histiocytosis. He said, "The HAA is one of the charities that fall between the cracks because no one knows about it."

GSC students are now aware of histiocytosis thanks to the organizations that participated in the fundraising day. Organizations such as the men's basketball team, PRSSA, and Greeks helped the Newman Center run the event.

Phi Sigma Sigma sorority hosted the first annual pledge break dance on Oct. 25. Phi Sigma Sigma created the dance to give the pledges a fun break from the hectic schedule of pledging. About half of the Greeks on campus sent their most recent pledge class to dance to music played by Sigma Pi's Todd Drew.

In the middle of the dance, Phi Sigma Sigma called each pledge class and the respective pledge master/educator/mom to the stage to introduce each pledge class to the college community.

Hasta la vista, 'Boro!

How many people do you know who actively belonged to six clubs, worked 20 hours a week and maintained over a 3.0 GPA for most of his college career?

Now you can say you know of at least one: Michael Clipper. As an economics major, Michael served as president for both the Student Economics Society and the Bureau of Education Organizations for 1991-92.

"Attending GSC taught me that getting involved outside the classroom is half of the educational experience," Mike said.

Mike's concern for the environment consumes most of his time. As a member of the Glassboro Environmental Organization, he helps begin recycling projects. Mike also is involved with NJPIRG's environmental education program.

Through this program, Mike visits schools and speaks to young children about the environment.

"By talking to children about the earth's problems, I hope that I will be able to help them make a difference in the future," he explained.

Mike's strong conviction to saving the environment inspired him to join a missionary. After graduation, Mike will teach environmental science to poor high school students in St. Croix.

Ultimately, Mike plans to earn his Ph.D. and teach college students.

"Who knows? Maybe I'll even come back and teach GSC students," he said with a laugh.

"Don't let the world pass you by. Stop and be a part of it." These are words that Kelly Galloway lives by.

Kelly, a music education major, hasn't let the world pass her by. In fact, the world may have to hurry up to catch up with this talented young woman.

"The music teachers here have well prepared me for the music field, especially Mr. Miller. I learned so much from him — not only about choral and vocal music but about life in general. He taught me not to take things for granted," Kelly said.

Although Kelly is graduating Cum laude, she has not made academics her sole forte. She served as Opera Workshop treasurer, Bureau of Music Organizations vice president and the GSC concert choir president.

"I loved performing with the concert choir," Kelly said.

"It's such a thrill to see the emotional response you get from the audience and director."

Pi Kappa Lambda, a national honor society for music honored Kelly last year by selecting her for membership.

Kelly hopes to use her talents to be a choral director in a high school where she can also direct and run student musicals.

"I really want to make a difference in students' lives," she said.

If you don't know Karl Ludwig, then you did not spend much time on campus. Karl was involved in many clubs and participated in many of the events that GSC offered. He will graduate with a law/justice degree.

When Karl entered GSC, he earned a place on the varsity swim team. He also pledged the national fraternity of Tau Kappa Epsilon his first semester here. He held several positions in TKE, including rush chair, SGA representative, judicial board coordinator and project director.

During his years at GSC, Karl represented TKE in the Inter Fraternal Council and the Inter Greek Council, IGC. He also participated in the Glassboro State Bando Club, was an admissions ambassador, and a member of B.A.C.C.H.U.S., an organization that promotes responsible drinking.

Moreover, when Karl became a senior, he became an officer in several organizations. He became IGC president; he led the Greek community in following school policy and promoting Greek unity.

Karl also was involved with the Newman Center, took yearbook photos and played intramural sports.

Karl was dedicated to every organization he was in and tried to improve collegiate life at GSC for everyone.

"I want to get things done and I want to get them done the right way."

Sound like a lofty ambition? Well, that's what advertising major Paul Petrella wants out of life.

"I came to GSC because of the communications department's excellent reputation," Paul said.

As a transfer student, Paul joined the GSC scene by becoming managing editor of The Whit. He was instrumental in forging the paper into the age of desktop publishing.

After retiring from the editorial staff of The Whit, Paul built a solid foundation for his future advertising career by becoming the CEO for Ad Dynamics, a student run advertising agency. As CEO, Paul oversaw all of the senior ad majors handle corporate clients.

"As CEO, it felt great to actually put to use what I learned in the classroom," Paul said.

What does the future hold in store for this go-getter? After he gains experience working for an ad agency, Paul will go back to school. He plans to get his Ph.D. and share his experiences by teaching college students.

Christine Zulla will graduate with a communications degree; she plans to use it to go into the advertising field.

She has been very active since her arrival to GSC.

Christine pledged Alpha Delta Epsilon, ADE, her freshman year. She excelled in her sorority by holding positions such as public relations director, social and rush chairs. She also was elected pledge mother, an executive board position. Her knowledge of advertising and her ADE membership qualified her to become a member of the IGC public relations committee.

Christine was also in the Advertising Club for two years. She contributed to Venue magazine and was a member of Women in Communications.

Christine also was a member in Ad Dynamics. She did work on the Faber Castell account which created the ad for the brand new paint marker.

By working two jobs, Christine put herself through school. She maintained a 3.0 GPA, while doing all of this.

Christine sums up her experience at GSC by saying, "At GSC I've learned that who you are consists of what you do. So when I reflect on my years here and see my scholastic and social accomplishments, and all the close friends I've made along the way, I'm proud of the decisions I've made. I truly believe in the person I have become."

An Enchanted Evening

On Saturday, December 14, 1991, the Resident Student Association sponsored its annual Snowball Semi-formal. It was held from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m. in the Owl's Nest.

All who attended enjoyed a fun evening of dinner and dancing. The "Snowball" theme was enhanced by the wintry decorations of snowflakes and streamers.

Overall, it was a great success, helping to shake off the winter blues.
