Low resale baffling to students

Semester－old textbooks worth more in return than wholesale price

| With the end of the semester and finals coming up．I＇m sure that a vast majority of students at Forit Hays State are coniemplating selling back their books．  Although some people will be lucky enough to make a litile money off of those precious books． most of us will leave the book store with an amazed look on our face．  We will be baffled at the ridicullously low price we are being offered for the books that cost us so much money．  How can the worth of a book deteriorate so quickly？The words are all sill there．  I don＇t think the next person will have a lot of trouble trying to read those words just because they have becn read before．  In my threc and one half years of school at FHSU it seems that most of the time I can resesll my old books for less than one half of what 1 originally paid for hcm ． | In the worst case scenario a student may face，a professor may switch texts or a new edition may come out．  If this event should occur，that precious leaming tool is only worth its wholesale cost，which believe a large sum of money．  In another situation，students may go to the bookstore to find them already full of the text that they wish to sell back．  If this unlucky event happens to | again be be treated to that wonderful wholesale price．Doesn＇t that sound great？  I can＇t seem to get the idea behind this．  If the bookstore can sell a book， don＇t you think they can buy them back with at least the paltry buy－ students who don＇t even study and scll their books early？  It seems that students are really coming out on the short end of the stick in this situation． stick in this situation．  But what can we do？We are college students and need the books to study and learn．  The options are very limited． guess they really have us over a  We the students of FHSU seemingly can＇t do anything to remedy this situation，because seems to get just a litle worse every semester． | Hopefully，in the future，as a result of some Christmas miracle， students may receive a decent price for their books．  I，for one，would be both surprised and pleased to accept an adequate amount of money for my books．  Don＇t get me wrong，I＇m not only bagging on the bookstores colleges have bookstores with pitiful buy－back policies as well．  It would be nice if there was a viable alternative to the process that we must go through at the end of every semester．  It is such a drag to sit back and look at the simall sum of moncy we have after selling our books．  Good luck to you in the strenuous ordeal of selling your books next week．  May they all be worth loads of cash and may you not have to wait in too long of a line． |

Tigers to take on Ichabods

The Fort Hays State men's baskethall squad hosts Washthurn University tonight in the Tiger first non-lournament game. first non-tournament game.
The Tigers take a $5-0$ reco into tonight's match-up while Washbum brings a 3-0 record. Head Coach Gary Garner said he believes the math-up between the long-time rivals typifies college basketball. college baskebbal.
"When you have this type of rivalry that we have with

Washburn that's what college basketball is all about, so the guys are really anxious and ready to play," Gamer said. Garner said the Tigers will have to play better than they have in previous contests if they want averaging 103 points a game. but is confident the Tigers will be able to do just that. "Washburn has a really good baskethall tcam and they're toting it as one of the best teams they've had. We have to play they've had. We have to play better than we have in our prev
win.
"Ten days ago I don't think we could have beat Washburn but we ve really improved since our last game. I'm really pleased with our effors in practice. They have really been practicing hard and logether," he said.

- Garner is hoping the Tigers will come out on top in the contest to give the squad confidence as they take to the road with their next home game not coming until mid-January.
