FOR RELEASE
October 11, 2002

DURHAM, NH -- Republicans Jeb Bradley and Charlie Bass hold sizeable leads in races for New Hampshire's 1st and 2nd Congressional Districts.

These findings are based on the latest WMUR / UNH Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. The WMUR / UNH Poll is sponsored by WMUR-TV of Manchester, New Hampshire. Six hundred fifty-one (651) New Hampshire likely voters were interviewed between October 3 and October 8, 2002 (margin of sampling error, +/-4 percent). Included in this sample are 339 likely voters in the 1st Congressional District (margin of sampling error, +/-5 percent) and 312 likely voters in the 2nd Congressional District (margin of sampling error, +/-5.5 percent). (For more detailed results, visit the Survey Center web site at www.unh.edu/survey-center and click on Press Releases.)

1st Congressional District

In New Hampshire's 1st Congressional District, Democratic State Representative Martha Fuller Clark is running against Republican State Representative Jeb Bradley. Clark is making her second run at the seat (she lost a close race to John Sununu in 2000) and has been very effective raising money for the race. Clark also had the benefit of not being challenged in the Democratic primary. Bradley is making his first run at a Congressional seat after serving 12 years in the New Hampshire House of Representatives. Bradley survived an eight person primary in September.

In the most recent WMUR / UNH Poll, Bradley holds a sizeable lead over Clark. Currently, 47 percent of likely voters in the 1st Congressional District support Bradley, 34 percent support Clark, 1 percent support Libertarian Dan Belforti, 5 percent support some other candidate, and 13 percent are undecided.

Bradley holds this lead over Clark in part because voters in the 1st District have a favorable opinion of him. Currently, 34 percent of likely 1st District voters say they have a favorable opinion of Bradley, 15 percent have an unfavorable opinion, 15 percent are neutral, and 35 percent don't know enough about him to say. Bradley's net favorability rating (the percentage who have an unfavorable opinion of him subtracted from the percentage who have a favorable opinion) among 1st District likely voters is a solid +19 percent.

Voters in the 1st District do not have a favorable opinion of Clark. Currently, 30 percent of likely voters in the 1st District have a favorable opinion of her, 37 have an unfavorable opinion of her, 12 percent are neutral, and 21 percent don't know enough to say. Clark's net favorability rating is -7 percent in the 1st Congressional District. It is extremely difficult for candidates with negative net favorability ratings to win elections.

Clark gets her strongest support from Democrats, liberals, voters 65 and older, and supporters of legal abortions. Bradley's strongest support comes from Republicans, voters living in the Central/Lakes region, abortion opponents, and gun owners.

There is also a gender gap in this race. Clark holds a 41 percent to 26 percent advantage among women while Bradley holds a 55 percent to 38 percent advantage among men.

2nd Congressional District

Incumbent Republican Charlie Bass currently holds a comfortable lead over Democrat Katrina Swett in New Hampshire's 2nd Congressional District. In the most recent WMUR / UNH Poll, 52 percent of likely voters in the 2nd District support Bass, 30 percent support Swett, 5 percent support some other candidate, and 14 percent are undecided. Support for Bass has declined somewhat since June when 58 percent of likely voters said they planned to vote for Bass in November, 32 percent favored Swett, 2 percent favored some other candidate, and 8 percent were undecided.

Bass looks hard to beat as he also enjoys high favorability ratings within the 2nd District. Fifty-one percent of likely voters in the 2nd District have a favorable opinion of Bass, 25 percent are unfavorable, 11 percent are neutral, and 13 percent don't know enough about him to say. Bass's net favorability rating among 2nd District voters is a high +26 percent.

Swett's favorability suffers from lack of name recognition in the 2nd District and is viewed unfavorably by voters who have an opinion. Among 2nd District likely voters, 26 percent have a favorable opinion of Katrina Swett, 33 percent are unfavorable, 15 percent are neutral, and 27 percent don't know enough to say. Swett's net favorability rating in the 2nd District is -7 percent. Again, it is very difficult for a candidate with negative net favorability ratings to win elections, particularly when they are facing a popular incumbent.

Bass holds leads over Swett among most demographic groups in the 2nd District. His strongest support comes from Republicans, men, gun owners, and abortion opponents. Swett's strongest supporters are Democrats, women, and voters with a post-graduate education.

NH SENATE & NH HOUSE

Turning to the New Hampshire Senate, likely November voters were asked if they would vote for the Democratic or Republican candidate from their district. In the most recent WMUR / UNH Poll, 40 percent of likely voters say they plan to vote for the Republican candidate in their NH Senate District, 35 percent favor the Democratic candidate, and 25 percent are undecided.

In generic New Hampshire House races, Republicans also lead. Currently, 39 percent of likely voters say they will vote for the Republican candidate for the New Hampshire House of Representatives, 32 percent favor the Democratic candidate, and 29 percent are undecided.

WMUR / UNH Poll Methodology

These findings are based on the most recent WMUR / UNH Poll conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center from October 3 to October 8, 2002. A random sample of 651 likely voters in New Hampshire was interviewed by telephone. Included in this sample are 339 likely voters in the 1st Congressional District (margin of sampling error, +/-5 percent) and 312 likely voters in the 2nd Congressional District (margin of sampling error, +/-5.5 percent). In 95 of 100 cases, the statewide estimates will be accurate to plus or minus 3.8 percent. Results reported for other subgroups have potential for somewhat larger variation than those for the entire population.

The data have been weighted to adjust for numbers of adults and telephone lines within households, respondent sex, and region of the state. In addition to potential sampling error, all surveys have other potential sources of non-sampling error including question order effects, question wording effects, and non-response.

Respondents to the WMUR / UNH Poll were asked:

"Next, I'd like to get your overall opinion of some people running for office in November. As I read each name, please say if you have a favorable or unfavorable opinion of this person - or if you have never heard of him or her.

- "Charlie Bass."
- "Craig Benson."
- "Jeb Bradley."
- "Martha Fuller Clark."
- "Mark Fernald."
- "Jeanne Shaheen."
