

Perspectives

Spring 2014

Article 7

5-1-2014

Biographies

Perspectives Editors

University of New Hampshire, Durham

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholars.unh.edu/perspectives>

Recommended Citation

Editors, Perspectives (2014) "Biographies," Perspectives: Vol. 6 : Iss. 1 , Article 7.

Available at: <https://scholars.unh.edu/perspectives/vol6/iss1/7>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Journals and Publications at University of New Hampshire Scholars' Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Perspectives by an authorized editor of University of New Hampshire Scholars' Repository. For more information, please contact nicole.hentz@unh.edu.

Biographies

Undergraduate Student Contributors

Abigail Burmeister is a junior at the University of New Hampshire. She is a Sociology major and Recreation Management and Policy minor. This research paper was written in her Methods of Sociological Research class. She spent a semester studying abroad in Budapest, Hungary, learning about European culture and history. Her interests include traveling and learning about different cultures, helping those with disabilities (especially children), and sports.

Danielle Ennis is a senior with a dual major in Sociology and Justice Studies with a minor in Forensics. She wrote her paper, "The Effects of Caffeine on Health: The Benefits Outweigh the Risk" for her Drugs and Society class. After graduation she will be pursuing a Master's Degree in Social Work and continuing her education here at the University of New Hampshire.

Nick Pacheco is junior dual major in Sociology and Justice Studies with minors in Economics and Forensics. His paper on the effect of strategically reducing US military involvement was written for a course on Terrorism, while the paper on student exercise and academic achievement was written for Research Methods. After graduating, Nick plans to intern in Washington D.C. and apply to graduate school for an MBA.

Alexandru Panait is a senior Sociology major and History minor at the University of New Hampshire. He wrote this paper for Cesar Rebellon's Terrorism course. Alex is a regular participant in the UNH Undergraduate Research Colloquium. After graduating he plans on applying to sociology grad programs to study sociology of contemporary culture focusing on media and technology in the United States and Japan with a background in criminology and quantitative sociology.

Undergraduate Student Editors

Benjamin Bullock (Co-Editor) is a senior Sociology major and Women's Studies minor at the University of New Hampshire.

Sharon Tarleton (Co-Editor) is a senior at UNH. She double majors in Sociology and Psychology with minors in Classics and Political Science. She is a recent recipient of the UNH Movers and Shakers Collaborative Leadership Award which she would like to dedicate to her invaluable Perspectives team, every member being deserving of the highest levels of recognition and praise. After traveling extensively, especially around the Mediterranean, she intends to further her education through graduate studies most likely in the field of social work with an emphasis on policy. Her hobbies include reading, writing poetry, singing, and talking comics.

Graduate Students and Faculty

Anne Shattuck (anne.shattuck@unh.edu) and Nick Adams (nau56@wildcats.unh.edu) are the graduate student editors and mentors for Perspectives. Anne and Nick are both Sociology Ph.D. students at the University of New Hampshire.

Thomas Safford, Ph.D. (Tom.Safford@unh.edu) is an Associate Professor in the Sociology Department at UNH. Dr. Safford is the Director of Undergraduate Studies and the faculty advisor / mentor for Perspectives (2013-2014).