INTRODUCTION

This guide to the Nyanza Province microfilm collection of the Kenya National Archives consists of daily correspondence and reports for the Province from 1930 to 1963. It pertains to Section 10, the third and most substantial section of the Nyanza Province Archives, and is to be published in two volumes. Like Section 10B, also a predominantly post-1930 collection of documents, the records are arranged and filed according to the departments within the provincial administration to which they pertain. These departmental divisions provide the main headings under which the titles of the various files appear in the index to this Guide. The only way in which the organization of Section 10 differs from Section 10 B is that, with the latter, series title cards appear at the beginning of each group of administratively related files. No such title cards appear in the files comprising Section 10. In every other respect, the researcher will find that the format of this Guide conforms to the Guide for Section 10B, and he should consult p. iv of Occasional Bibliography No. 22 for a useful explanation of the "Use of the Guide." He also should take note of the fact that approximately thirty per cent of the files in Section 10B are duplicated in Section 10. Files 3/1576 (ADM. 1/1) to 3/1950 (ADM 8/35 Vol. II) in reels 243 to 271 of Section 10, and listed in Volume II of this Guide, are duplicates, with occasional exceptions, of reels 32-49, Section 10B, listed on pp. 92-133 in Occasional Bibliography No. 22.

Unlike the 10 A Section, the administration's key to the filing system for the post-1930 documents (Sections 10 B and 10) of the Nyanza Province collection has not been located. It seems quite clear that the filing system used prior to 1930 became inadequate for the post-1930 period, due probably to the considerable increase in the volume of correspondence and paper work which then occurred. Reference is made in the Correspondence files to a new standard filing system issued by the central Secretariat in 1928 or 1929, entitled "An Outline of the Revised Filing System." This system, if located, would probably have provided only a partial key to the filing system since considerable improvisation was necessary to account for the growing number of files as time went on. In consequence, there is apparently no comprehensive key to the filing system used during the 1930-1963 period which might serve as a topical aide or reference tool.

In order to insure maximum use of the documents cataloged in this Guide, the researcher should be aware of certain idiosyncrasies in their organization. First of all, one must become thoroughly familiar with the various boundary changes occurring at all levels of administration for such changes have had an obvious effect on the unit of administration from which the files of any such area originated. The researcher should check the relevant files titled "Boundaries" in this collection, and should also read the introduction to the Guide to the Kenya National Archives, edited by Dr. Robert G. Gregory (et. al.), pp. 9 - 19. Another irregularity involves the titles of the files in the list. A few such titles are misleading, and the files bearing those titles do not always include what one might expect. No attempt has been made by the compilers to list these titles. It is assumed that the researcher will find it necessary to familiarize himself with the materials to such an extent as to obviate the need for any such listing. In every case, he is left with the necessity of making his own judgments, and must be forewarned to expect the unexpected.

This Guide, cited as Occasional Bibliography No. 25 of the Program of Eastern African Studies publications, is the third such guide pertaining to the extensive Nyanza Province collection. The first, Occasional Bibliography No. 22, listed the 49 reels of Section 10 B and was published in March, 1974. The second, Occasional Bibliography No. 24, listed the 36 reels of Section 10 A and was published in Fall, 1974. Due to the voluminous size of Section 10, the current bibliography is to be published in two volumes. It is important for the researcher to understand that the editorial decision to divide the list into two volumes was governed only by the maximum size permissible for P.E.A.S. publications, and is not related to any intrinsic distinction in the organization or content of files comprising the collection. Neither of the volumes can be regarded as a complete list in itself, as the files pertaining to most topics will be found interspersed throughout the two volumes. Consequently, the researcher will find it necessary to purchase both volumes of the list for Section 10.

Several persons have made valuable contributions to the preparation of the Guide. Peter Dalleo and Robert Greenstein deserve thanks for their roles in the collection and organization of the Nyanza Province

Archives in Nairobi. Special gratitude is also owed to Gloria Katz for her advice and criticism of the list, and to Rebecca Blossom for the considerable task of typing the final copy. As with the previous indexes to the Kenya microfilms, this Guide was prepared under the supervision of Dr. Robert G. Gregory, Professor of History and Director of the microfilm project. The compilers also wish to acknowledge the generous financial support of the National Science Foundation, without whose assistance neither the Guide nor the microfilm project itself could have been undertaken.

Maxwell School

Founded in 1924, the Maxwell School for fifty years has been training and educating young men and women for public service and academic careers. From the beginning the School has included all the University's social science departments, and this combination of professional and academic programs has enriched the content of all Maxwell's offerings. In addition to the traditional social science disciplines (Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, Political Science, and Sociology), the School provides interdisciplinary degree programs in International Relations, Public Administration, the Social Sciences, and Urban and Regional Planning. Of the School's approximately 700 candidates for advanced degrees about half are in the traditional social science departments and the other half in interdisciplinary programs.

Today, the Maxwell School has 130 faculty members and approximately 700 students enrolled in graduate degree programs. Each year approximately 225 students receive master's degrees and 70 students Ph.D. degrees. In the three-year period, fall 1970 through spring 1973, Maxwell faculty members authored 78 books, 53 monographs, 296 articles, and 133 conference papers.
