A Message from the Chancellor

Generous support from Syracuse University alumni and friends made 2002-03 a banner year for the University. Your gifts have enabled us to move ahead with our Academic Plan, and begin implementing some of the key building and renovation projects outlined in the Academic Space Plan.

It was also a banner year for our men's basketball team, which brought home SU's first ever NCAA championship. Our student-athletes are expected to perform equally well in the classroom, and thanks to ongoing donations to the Department of Athletics' academic support program, our student-athletes consistently meet a 92 percent graduation rate. I'm proud to say they are champions both on and off the field.

Another outstanding example of the impact donor gifts can have on our continuous pursuit of excellence is the $15 million gift from the S.I. Newhouse Foundation and the Newhouse family toward construction of a third building in the Newhouse School's communications complex. Newhouse III will increase classroom and office space and provide an array of new facilities needed to train our students to meet the challenges of the digital communications age.

I would also like to express my gratitude to Martin J. Whitman '49 for his pledge to name the School of Management. With his long-term financial commitment—one of the University's largest gifts—the Martin J. Whitman School of Management will continue to improve its performance and reputation for years to come.

We are able to achieve such high standards and aim for new heights because of you, our donors. Your gifts provide the support we need to continuously enhance the quality of our curricula, attract outstanding faculty, offer scholarship support and innovative student programs, and upgrade our facilities and equipment. It is gratifying to know so many of you care so deeply about SU.

Sincerely,

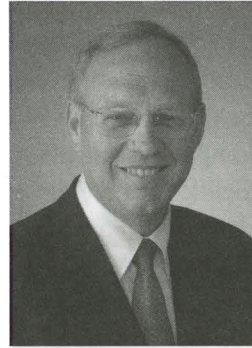

Kenneth A. Shaw
Chancellor and President

A Message from the Senior Vice President for Institutional Advancement

This past year we reached the highest yearly fund-raising level in SU history—$70.1 million. This achievement is a true testament to the generosity of Syracuse University's alumni and friends, and I am continually touched by their devotion to and affection for the University. However, it is also evident to all of us at Syracuse that this support has been inspired by the outstanding leadership provided by Buzz and Mary Ann Shaw and their dedicated service to SU. It shows quite clearly how much SU alumni and friends have come to love and respect the Shaws over the past 12 years.

Another key player in helping us achieve this unprecedented funding level is Joseph O. Lampe '53, G'55, now in his last year as chairman of SU's Board of Trustees. Joe has been a tireless ambassador for Syracuse, and his devotion to securing a strong foundation for the University is greatly appreciated. He has been an encouragement to us all.

At the helm of the schools and colleges are the academic deans, active and vital participants in our fund-raising efforts. Their leadership and collegiality have been crucial as we put together plans for our next campaign. Although some deans are retiring, some are just joining SU, and many are providing interim guidance while we search for the best candidates to fill these important posts, all have made invaluable contributions to our advancement initiatives.

Our continued success at this level of giving will require the best efforts of all who share our belief that SU is an original and outstanding university. Thank you so very much for showing your love for SU through your financial support.

Thank you,

Chancellor's Council

Cumulative Giving

Founded in 1987, the Chancellor's Council is a recognition society that honors a select group of donors who have demonstrated a truly outstanding commitment to the University. Each member of this philanthropic society has made gifts to date of at least $100,000, and many have given much more.

Chancellor's Council members have a strong belief in the future of Syracuse University. Their support is marked by a generous sharing of resources, a close involvement with the University, and a personal concern for the success of our students. They enable Syracuse to attain the highest levels of quality for scholarship, education, and research. Their philanthropy provides a margin of security that today's students' needs will be met and even exceeded. Their gifts and, just as important, their wisdom and experience, are vital to the University's mission and its vision for the future.

Members of the council are involved with the University in a number of ways—as trustees, as participants on school or college advisory boards, as emeriti faculty, as sponsors of scholarships, and even as classroom educators. In these capacities they contribute their expertise to enhance the educational experience of our students.

There are three levels of giving within the Chancellor's Council: Gold ($1 million or more), Silver ($500,000 or more), and Member ($100,000 or more).

Founders Society Planned Giving

Established in 1990, the Founders Society recognizes generous alumni, parents, and friends who have made a commitment to Syracuse University's future through planned gifts. These gifts are provided by means of bequests, gift annuities, charitable trusts, and life insurance.

The society owes its name to a small circle of dedicated men and women whose commitment helped create Syracuse University. A fledgling institution in 1870, the school quite literally depended on the vision and support of its founding members. Many of them knew the value of gifts that would offer long-term benefits—gifts that would continue to provide for the University far into the future.

Accordingly, five of the most visible founders—Jesse T. Peck, George F. Comstock, J.F. Crawford, Eliphalet Remington, and Francis Root—made the first planned gifts of $25,000 each, to be left as bequests. Their foresight and enthusiasm influenced others to do the same, thus helping to maintain a solid foundation of fiscal responsibility for the University.

Society of Fellows Annual Giving

Founded in 1985, the Society of Fellows recognizes annual supporters whose generosity reflects a strong commitment to the everyday success of Syracuse University. This support provides student scholarships; helps attract, retain, and reward distinguished faculty; enriches academic programs; and significantly enhances the Syracuse University student experience.

This tradition of excellence has been made possible at Syracuse University through the continuing support of alumni, parents, and friends. The leadership of these individuals provides the resources that give Syracuse a rich heritage and a promising future.

Members in this group have made a cumulative contribution of $2,000 or more during the fiscal year (July 1 through June 30). Because of the annual nature of current giving recognition, Society of Fellows membership extends from the date of membership notification through the balance of that fiscal year, plus all of the following fiscal year.

Society of Fellows recognition levels are: Gold ($25,000 or more), Silver ($10,000 or more), Bronze ($5,000 or more), and Member ($2,000 or more). For recent bachelor's degree recipients (classes within the last six years), the Member level is $500.

The following list reflects giving at all Society of Fellows levels from July 1, 2002, through June 30, 2003.

1870 Society Annual Giving

For Syracuse University, 1870 was the cornerstone year. Today, the 1870 Society recognizes donors who constitute the cornerstone of the University's future years. The University has benefited from the strong partnerships that have been developed with loyal alumni, parents, and friends, and honors them for providing it with essential resources.

Within the 1870 Society, there are four recognition levels: Gold ($1,000 or more), Silver ($500 or more), Bronze ($250 or more), and Member ($100 or more).

Recent bachelor's degree recipients (classes within the past six years) are divided into slightly different categories: Gold ($250 or more), Silver ($100 or more), and Bronze (less than $100).

This Report of Donors includes individuals with cumulative giving of $1,000 or more, and recent graduates with cumulative giving of $250 or more, during fiscal year 2002-03. A full report of 1870 Society members, which includes individuals with cumulative giving of $100 or more, and recent graduates with cumulative giving of up to $250 during fiscal year 2002-03, can be found on the University's web site at reportofdonors.syr.edu.

The following list reflects giving at the 1870 Society, Gold Level, from July 1, 2002, through June 30, 2003.

Corporations and Foundations

Annual Giving

Syracuse University endeavors to form mutually beneficial relationships with corporations and foundations. The synergy developed between the University and a corporation or foundation furthers the goals of both organizations.

Corporations of all sizes and scopes select Syracuse University students for internships and permanent employment. They solicit the expertise of SU faculty, use the University's educational and training capacities to provide professional development to their employees, and receive positive media exposure. Corporations also collaborate with SU on a wide array of research projects, with the corporations benefiting from commercial applications derived from this research. The University requests and receives financial support for academic programs, construction and renovation of buildings, and student scholarships.

Philanthropic foundations, though diverse in focus, share a common mission to improve society by providing financial assistance to projects in education, social services, environmental improvement, research, and various other areas. The University shares common goals with many of these foundations, and has the intellectual resources to propose and implement such worthwhile projects. In consideration of their common goals and symbiotic capabilities, SU has formed partnerships with leading foundations that have endowed professorships, begun scholarship funds, erected buildings, equipped laboratories, carried out research, and delivered social service programs to the community.

Corporate and foundation gifts of $1,000 and up during the fiscal year of July 1, 2002, through June 30, 2003, are listed in this section.

With Gratitude

Though space does not permit our listing every SU donor, we are most grateful for the thousands of loyal donors whose contributions for the fiscal year were under $1,000. We extend our warmest thanks to them for supporting the work of the University, at whatever level. The complete listing of Syracuse University donors for 2002-2003 can be found on the web at reportofdonors.syr.edu. You will need your I.D. number and last name from your magazine label to log in.

Although great care has been taken to list all names accurately, we would appreciate your calling to our attention any errors or omissions. Please contact the Office of Donor Relations, Syracuse University, 820 Comstock Avenue, Syracuse NY 13244-5040, 315-443-3325.

A Message from the Chair of the Board of Trustees

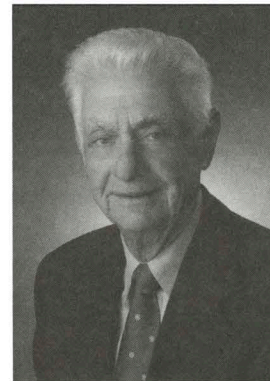

In my capacity as chair of the Board of Trustees, I am gratified to have the opportunity to work with so many remarkable alumni and friends who give their time, energy, and financial resources to our great alma mater. Together we have helped SU move forward, and I thank all of you for your unselfish generosity and charitable spirit.

To those who serve on regional alumni boards, I extend an enthusiastic round of applause to you for personally carrying SU's message across the country and around the globe. You are the heart of SU's extensive network of caring individuals who dedicate themselves to securing the University's future. I also would like to thank the many alumni and friends who make room in their busy schedules to come to campus several times a year to participate in various school and college advisory board meetings. Your counsel is an invaluable source of wisdom and strength to the University as it faces the challenges of an increasingly complex global society.

I look forward to working in partnership with all of you in the coming year as we prepare to launch a new campaign that will ensure Syracuse University's continued success. Thank you for your support and for giving me such a wonderfully rewarding experience.
