FOREWORD

The preservation on microfilm of documents in the Kenya National Archives has a history beginning in 1963. In that year, Mr. D. Charman, Chief Archivist of the Kenya Government, sought assistance to collect archival material which was known to exist at outposts scattered throughout Kenya. The importance of many of these documents was especially great since a fire had destroyed most of the first copies of reports housed in Nairobi. Throughout 1964 and 1965 representatives of the Kenya Government, the Program of Eastern African Studies of Syracuse University, and the National Science Foundation of the United States developed a plan whereby these documents, in varying stages of decay, would be safeguarded and made available to scholars on microfilm.

The records to be microfilmed contained information on events as recent as 1963 and many were classified as "secret" or "confidential." Due to the desires of the Kenya Government to maintain normal archival control over the collection and those of Syracuse University and the National Science Foundation to make it available to scholars residing in North America, an agreement was reached whereby Syracuse would provide the films to scholars on an individual basis, through interlibrary loan, but would not duplicate them for sale. In addition, Syracuse would require of each viewer a signed pledge that no manuscript based on, or making use of, the Kenya records would be published without the express consent of the Kenya National Archives. Only the Legislative Debates, which had already been published and made available at several locations in Europe and Africa, would be available for purchase at cost. Syracuse University would see to the purchase and shipment to Kenya of equipment and materials. The Kenya National Archives would make negative films for itself and Syracuse, as well as a set of positives for scholars in Kenya. The reproduction of positive films for interlibrary circulation in North America would fall to Syracuse University.

The heavy expenditures of this project were underwritten in December, 1965, by a generous grant from the U. S. National Science Foundation and by substantial, although smaller, contributions from the Syracuse University Library, the Program of Eastern African Studies and the Kenya National Archives. Despite problems of technical coordination over long distances, the far-flung documents were collected, organized, and microfilmed under the supervision of Mr. Nathan Fedha, who had by then succeeded Mr. Charman as Kenya's Chief Archivist. In June, 1966, Syracuse received the first installment of sixty-six negative reels and an additional ninety-one reels arrived in December, 1966. Positive copies of the collection became available to scholars in the United States and Canada in February, 1967.

The documents in the collection of 157 reels are divided into the following seven sections:

- (1) Provincial and District Annual Reports (66 reels).
- (2) Provincial and District Record Books (16 reels).
- (3) Provincial and District Handing Over Reports (14 reels).
- (4) Miscellaneous Correspondence (11 reels).
- (5) Intelligence Reports (12 reels).
- (6) Secretariat Circulars (5 reels).
- (7) Debates of the Legislative Council and the National Assembly (33 reels).

As source material for historical and scientific study, the microfilms have exceeded expectations. They provide a remarkably full account of the political, social, economic, and religious problems of development in equatorial Africa. The progress of education, medicine, sanitation, agriculture, forestry, and many more specialized categories of development is recounted in detail. The microfilms also contain material for many historical and anthropological studies of the various tribal groups. Much of the oral history of the different peoples has been preserved by some of the more zealous district officers. Although the full value of the microfilms cannot be assessed until many detailed studies have been made, it is evident that they constitute an invaluable record.

Several steps were taken to facilitate use of the microfilms. A Catalogue of the Kenya National Archive Collection on Microfilm at Syracuse University compiled by Nathan W. Fedha, Chief Archivist of the Kenya National Archives and by John B. Webster, Head of the Bibliographic Section of the Program of Eastern African Studies at Syracuse University, was published as Occasional Bibliography #6 in April, 1967. This Catalogue... also described the interlibrary loan procedures for utilizing the microfilms and was distributed to libraries at universities with African studies programs, while individuals would purchase copies for fifty cents. The collection was also described in Vol. X, no. 1, 1967 of the African Studies Bulletin, p. 93, and library journals. At Syracuse the films were kept under close surveillance in the Manuscript Division at Carnegie Library, but they were made freely available to all students, faculty, and visiting scholars who wished to view them in the library. They were also made easily available to scholars at other institutions through the normal channels of interlibrary loan, once the applicant had signed his pledge to the Kenya Government. The only restriction imposed was that the documents on microfilm could not be reproduced.

Soon after the microfilms were made available, it became evident that a guide in the form of an annotated index should be compiled. For example, at the end of the first semester at least twenty students in the history department had written term papers from the films, and several Ph. D. dissertations and M. A. theses were in preparation. The heavy use of the films by scholars visiting Syracuse, and by graduate students and faculty elsewhere using the interlibrary loan indicated that there was a pressing need for a comprehensive, annotated index. There were thousands of documents, all loosely organized under a few general headings, and apart from the very brief Catalogue... by Fedha and Webster, there was no key to the factual content. A scholar, to feel confident of a thorough search for material, often had to peruse the whole.

The preparation of an annotated index thus appeared desirable for many reasons. Although it could not be expected to have a wide sale, a guide would be a very important reference work. If properly compiled, it would enable documents, subjects, and persons to be located rapidly. It would suggest many fertile topics for research. It would be a useful work in many libraries, especially in East Africa, Britain, and the United States, and it would be valuable to many scholars with an interest in the humanities and social sciences.

In June, 1967, the Program of Eastern African Studies assigned two senior graduate students, Robert Maxon and Leon Spencer, to assist with the preparation of the index. The two were especially well qualified. Both held M. A. degrees, knew Swahili, and were concentrating on Kenya history in studying for their doctorates. Maxon had lived three years in Kenya, and Spencer had field experience in West Africa. During the summer of 1967 and 1968 and the intervening semesters, the two carefully read and took notes on approximately 102 reels and completed the annotation and indexing of the Annual and Quarterly Reports, the Political Record Books, and the Handing Over Reports. The PRB and HOR sections were typed under their supervision. Maxon and Spencer made many of the important decisions in determining the length of the work, its organization and form of annotation, the cross-indexing, and the printing and binding. At the end of the summer of 1968, Maxon and Spencer left to pursue independent research projects in Kenya. Rodger F. Morton was then assigned a graduate assistantship to annotate the Miscellaneous Correspondence section and to supervise the completion of the guide. Jean R. Surena prepared the LegiCo section and another graduate student, P. David Wilkin, provided valuable assistance to the project in compiling the major share of the Intelligence Reports. Miss Judy Breslof was responsible for putting the Organization and Personality Index into final form.

Several others made valuable contributions. Fred G. Burke, Director of the Program of Eastern African Studies until September, 1968, played a major role from 1964 onward in stimulating American interest and support for this microfilming project and constantly imparted to all concerned his usual enthusiasm and sense of direction and purpose. John B. Webster provided valuable assistance as Syracuse's technical coordinator throughout late 1965 and 1966. Mrs. Gloria Katz, the Program's financial expert, held all to a strict accounting of expenditure. Mrs. Ann Gaither and Miss Judy Breslof, whose patience, good cheer, and uncommon alertness were most appreciated, did the typing of the photo-offset forms.

The expenses of preparing this Guide... are being largely met through a second National Science Foundation Grant awarded in February, 1967. Indeed, without the understanding, interest and encouragement of Dr. Murray Aborn, the Foundation's Program Director of Special Projects in Social Sciences, the preservation of these valuable records and the preparation of this Guide... would probably never have been undertaken.

THE USE OF THE GUIDE

The Guide is intended to provide for the scholar as easy an access as possible to the microfilms of the Kenya National Archives. To meet this aim it has been necessary to consider two factors: the nature of the documents, and the arrangement of the documents on film. The manner in which the various documents were organized by the colonial officials and the role they were intended to serve in the colonial administration are described in the section "The Organization of the Documents" and in the introduction to each section of annotated entries. To describe the arrangement of the documents on film required that the most logical organization for a guide be somewhat compromised. Filming errors, the original arrangement of the documents before filming, and the random selection of documents from a larger but unfiled section (e. g., Miscellaneous Correspondence) suggested that the Guide's utility would be impaired if it did not reflect the actual order in which materials were filmed, whether or not they were filmed in logical sequence. To meet the problem of inconsistencies in filming, a series of indices have been included with the larger annotated section. The divisions of the Guide are as follows:

- I. "The Organization of the Documents" describes briefly the functions reserved by the colonial administration for particular types of documents (see Item IV below) and the form of organization the documents may be expected to take. A description of the subject headings for Annual Reports - headings which were also applied to Handing Over Reports and Intelligence Reports - is particularly detailed and is based principally upon material from the mimeographed Kenya Government report, "Archives Microfilming Programme," compiled by D. Charman and issued in March, 1964.
- II. "The Description of the Districts and Provinces" provides details regarding changes in the administrative units, including name and boundary changes and transfers of districts from one province to another. Because documents are entered in "The Annotated Guide" (Item IV) under the name of the district or province in use at the time, an awareness of the various changes is essential.
- III. "A Listing of Ethnic Groups" correlates ethnic groups with districts. The data is based on the population census of 1963.
- IV. "The Annotated Guide" itemizes each document as it appears on film and is divided into the following sections:
 - Section I. Annual Reports (AR)
 - Section II. Political Record Books (PRB)
 - Section III. Handing Over Reports (HOR)
 - Section IV. Miscellaneous Correspondence (MC)
 - Section V. Intelligence Reports (IR)
 - Section VI. Legislative Council Debates

Each document, or in the case of MC and IR each grouping of documents, receives a separate entry number (AR/1, AR/2, PRB/1, PRB/2, etc.), and each entry includes brief annotation as to the content of the document. The nature of the annotation system varies according to the section of documents. Since AR, HOR, and IR were organized under established subject headings (see "The Organization of the Documents," p. 1), it was not considered necessary to annotate general subjects dealt with in these reports. Rather, annotation of that which is distinctive to a particular document, such as ethnological data, appended reports, particular issues, and statistics, seemed to be a more valuable indication of the usefulness of the document to the scholar. In contrast, PRB and MC annotations tend to be exhaustive since there was no set structure on which these materials were organized. In all annotations, many words, titles, and organizational names, when appearing regularly, have been abbreviated. A list of these abbreviations is found on p. x.

Legislative Council Debates, since they are published materials, are not annotated.

The system of entries in the Guide centers about the inserts, which are labels photographed by the Kenya National Archives citing the subject matter of a particular set of documents and including a statement of responsibility to the Archives. As an entry in the Annotated Guide, each insert is always capitalized (see, e. g., AR/698, AR/705, and AR/728). Generally, an insert, as in AR/698, covers a series of documents (AR/699-702) which appear routinely, and thus entry AR/698 serves but to introduce the section. In some cases, however, documents that do not require separate citation appear in an insert section and are thus annotated under the insert entry itself (e. g., AR/705). Revenue and famine correspondence, in this example, occurs between AR/705 and AR/721, along with ARs which receive separate citations (AR/706-720). In some cases inserts cover only one document (e. g., AR/728), and the insert entry and the complete document citation combine to form one entry with normal annotation.

Filing and document numbers assigned by the Kenya National Archives are included as the first item in either an insert entry or a document citation. Where numbers are absent, they were not provided by the Kenya National Archives. Further information regarding the particular methods of citing and annotating various sections of documents is to be found in the section introductions.

- V. The "Province and District Index" provides a quick reference to all documents of the particular district or province as well as a check against discrepancies in filming. Thus materials of all types (AR, PRB, etc.) and from all locations on the film (e. g., scattered ARs) are brought together in an alphabetical listing of the administrative units. References to account for district and provincial name changes are included. The indexed item includes a reference to the numbered citation in the annotated portion of the Guide (i. e., AR/1, PRB/1, etc.). Further information is found in the introduction to this index.
- VI. The "Index of Personalities and Organizations" includes both government officials and non-government individuals and major non-government organizations and societies. Government officials are indexed only if they, in the course of their terms of service, attained the rank of District Commissioner or above. Such officials are then indexed as district officers as well. District officers who did not advance, however, are not included. Non-government individuals, as well as organizations and societies, were included or omitted on the basis of the personal judgment of the compilers. Spatial limitations prohibited the inclusion of all such entries in these categories, and while recognizing the difficulties of a partial listing, the compilers considered the inclusion of a limited index preferable to no index at all. Each indexed item includes a reference to the numbered citation in the annotated portion of the Guide (i. e., AR/1, PRB/1, etc.). For further information see the introduction to this index.
- VII. The "Subject Index to Miscellaneous Correspondence" is designed to provide guidance to the one section of documents for which there is no other indication of subject matter. As noted below, the AR, HOR, and IR sections of the Guide follow subject headings established by the government. The PRB entries, while having limited consistency in organization, are restricted in number as regards each district or province and are exhaustively annotated. Thus a reading of several annotated entries by the scholar appeared to the compilers as an adequate solution to the subject heading problem of the PRB. Miscellaneous Correspondence, the entries of which in contrast to those of PRB are numerous for each district and province, could not easily be dealt with in a similar manner. As a result, a brief subject index has been prepared to assist in the location of random files of correspondence. Each indexed item includes a reference to the numbered citation in the annotated portion of the Guide (i. e., MC/4, MC/42, etc.). Further information is provided in the introduction to this index.

In order to use the Guide most efficiently, one must be familiar with the administrative units which form the geographical basis for his investigation. If the topic centers about a particular ethnic group, "A Listing of Ethnic Groups" should serve to identify the districts and provinces in which the group is present in reasonable numbers. The "Description of the Districts and Provinces" further defines the administrative units by accounting for name and boundary changes and transfers of districts from one province to another. With relevant districts and provinces identified, one should then refer to the "Province and District Index" for entry numbers in the Guide. He should then consult the Guide under these numbers and ascertain the usefulness of the document by its annotation. Should he want to obtain the document, he should locate the reel number for that particular entry on the same page or on the immediately preceding pages of his entry number.

Instructions for the ordering of relevant microfilm reels through interlibrary loan are found on p. viii.

In the same manner, one who seeks to locate material on a particular individual or organization should consult the "Index of Personalities and Organizations" and obtain the necessary entry numbers in the Guide. For particular subjects in Miscellaneous Correspondence (MC) he should refer to the "Subject Index" and also obtain references to the MC section from the "Province and District Index" and the "Index of Personalities and Organizations."

PROCEDURES FOR OBTAINING MICROFILM REELS
FROM THE KENYA NATIONAL ARCHIVES MICROFILM COLLECTION

For those at Syracuse University who wish to make use of the Kenya National Archives Collection, the reels are available in the Manuscript Division of Syracuse University Library. Since the personal removal of any of the films from the Manuscript Reading Room is not permitted, the Manuscript Division has provided adequate viewing and writing facilities for all resident and visiting researchers. The hours of the Manuscript Reading Room are from 8 to 5 on weekdays.

For those outside the University, requests are to be submitted to the interlibrary loan department of one's own university library. These requests, in turn, will be sent to the Interlibrary Loan Department, Syracuse University Library, Syracuse, New York, 13210. Upon receipt of this first request, the Interlibrary Loan Department will send a form, entitled "Request for Access to the Kenya National Archives Microfilm Collection," which is to be completed in full by the person wishing to use the microfilms. Once this second request has been received and has met with the approval of the Interlibrary Loan Department and the Manuscript Division, the requested reels will be forwarded to the interlibrary loan department at the university library from which the requests originated. The need to submit a first informal request may be eliminated by making an acceptable typed copy of the sample form, "Request for Access to the Kenya National Archives Microfilm Collection," which appears on the next page. Copies are to be placed on 8 1/2" x 11" white paper, medium to heavy weight. Proportionate spacing and pica type are to be used.

A limit of 4 reels is placed on all requests. Reels may be used up to 4 weeks and only at the viewing facilities provided by one's own university library. A service charge of $1.00 will be made for each reel loaned and is subject to change by the Manuscript Division.

Further inquiries should be addressed to the Manuscript Division, Syracuse University Library, Syracuse, New York, 13210.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE DOCUMENTS

PROVINCIAL AND DISTRICT ANNUAL AND QUARTERLY REPORTS (AR)

Although the precise date is difficult to establish, the Government of the Colony and Protectorate introduced the submission of Annual and Quarterly Reports early in its administration, apparently in 1904/05. The organization of these documents was haphazard in the early years, and to meet the need for some form of standardization Governor Sir Percy Girouard established headings for the reports in a circular of October, 1909. The Quarterly Reports of 31 December 1909 embodied the new format, as did Annual Reports for 1909/10. A "Memoranda for Provincial and District Commissioners" from the Governor on 18 May 1910 further described the nature of the new format.*

The Governor's Memoranda established subject headings for Quarterly Reports (QR) but permitted the addition of others at the discretion of the commissioners. Full reports of "all tours through new country" and reports of political officers accompanying troops in the field were to be attached to these QRs. Subject headings for the QRs were to be lettered as below, with distinctive subjects within each heading numbered. The Governor commented on the reports and submitted his comments to the commissioners without returning the reports, and therefore an "accurate system of lettering and numbering" became essential. The headings were as follows:

- (a) General Administrative and Political:
The chief work undertaken by the commissioner and his staff during the quarter; progress in compiling provincial records; surveys with routes and maps; work of the native staff; attitude of chiefs and headmen; general political subjects; and historical data. The Memoranda cautioned that ethnological information should be submitted in the form of separate reports.
- (b) Judicial.
- (c) Native Courts or Councils.
- (d) Trade.
- (e) Departmental:
 - 1. Police.
 - 2. Prisons.
 - 3. Military.
 - 4. Posts and Telegraphs.
 - 5. Medical
 - 6. Public Works:
"With special reference to the treatment of natives and supply of labour and food."
 - 7. Veterinary and Stock Diseases.
 - 8. Agricultural and Forestry.
 - 9. Mining.
- (f) Revenue and Taxation.
- (g) Transport.
- (h) Labour.

The report was to be accompanied by the return of revenue for the quarter and by a statement "showing where each member of the European Staff is quartered, and the number of days absent on tour during the quarter."

The Governor's Memoranda was not strictly followed. In 1911, for example, the Provincial Commissioner for Nyanza announced that his District Commissioners would be permitted to blend their QRs for the last quarter of each year (the year then ending 31 March) into the Annual Report, preserving quarterly statistics only. Quarterly Reports were discontinued in late 1912.

*This memorandum is located in file DC/FH 7/1 in the Kenya National Archives, Nairobi.

Annual Reports, according to the Memoranda, were to be submitted no later than 1 July and were to include the following topics:

- (a) General:
Progress in compiling provincial records; white population itemized as farmers, commercial persons, and civil servants; African population by district itemized by tribe and race; general political and administrative subjects; social condition of the people; and native affairs.
- (b) Townships:
Population; revenue and expenditure; water supply; and sanitation.
- (c) Judicial:
Work of the European courts; methods regarding the serving of summons, making of arrests, and response of witnesses; table of criminal and civil cases and results, with comparisons with the previous year; number of native courts, a note on cases tried in each court, and a judgment on the efficiency or corruption of the courts.
- (d) Revenue and Taxation:
Returns with comparisons of previous years; returns of custom stations on the class, value, and duty of imports and exports.
- (e) Departmental:
 - 1. Staff:
European changes with average number; number of clerical and Native staff; total aggregate pay.
 - 2. Police:
Numbers; functions; efficiency.
 - 3. Prisons:
Average number of prisoners; employment, buildings, and food.
 - 4. Medical:
General health of Europeans and Natives; diseases.
 - 5. Posts and Telegraphs:
Efficiency and progress.
 - 6. Public Works:
Road progress; new buildings.
- (f) Economic:
"General notes on progress in agriculture and industries, taking up of waste lands, and formation of new villages; whether the harvest and rains have been or promise to be good or bad; increase or decrease in livestock; quantity of economic products offering for export, and general prospects; notes on any special industry and on the principal class of local trade in the Province; state of European farms; notes on deforestation and afforestation."
- (g) Miscellaneous:
Education; missions; game preservation; minerals; concessions; openings for investment of capital. In practice the first two items received widespread comment in the reports.

With variations dependent upon local conditions, commissioners filed Annual Reports based upon the above format until 1924, at which time the Native Affairs Department, in its circular no. 47 of 5 December 1924, introduced new headings. The subjects again were lettered:

- | | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| A. Administrative Staff. | K. Education. |
| B. 1. Political and General. | L. Public Works. |
| 2. Native Councils. | M. Agricultural and Meteorological. |
| 3. Native Tribunals. | N. Post Office and Telegraph. |
| C. Native Affairs in Non-Native Areas. | O. Veterinary. |
| D. Trade and Industry. | P. Military. |
| E. Labour. | Q. Judicial. |
| F. Revenue and Expenditure. | R. Police. |
| G. Missions. | S. Prisons. |
| H. Townships. | T. Game. |
| I. Habari . | U. Miscellaneous. |
| J. Medical. | |

By its circular no. 59 of 22 December 1933 the Native Affairs Department again altered its organization for Annual Reports:

- | | |
|---|-------------------------------------|
| A. Administrative Staff. | I. Public Works and Communications. |
| B. Political and General: | J. Agricultural and Meteorological. |
| 1. Administrative and Economic. | K. Veterinary. |

In 1948 the African Affairs Department designed chapter headings with detailed sub-topics for the organization of the Annual Reports. This formula continued until the regional system was instituted in 1963:

Chapter I. Social and Political:

1. General Picture.
2. Political Events; Movements; Societies.
3. Social Events of Importance.
4. Internal Tribal Affairs.
5. Inter-tribal Relations.
6. Sociological; Anthropological Matters.

Chapter II. Central Government:

1. Changes in Set-Up or Organisation.
2. Staff.
3. African Assistant Administrative Officers.
4. Chiefs and Headmen.
5. Divisional and Locational Matters.
6. Kenya Police.
7. Tribal Police.
8. Crime.
9. Judicial Matters.
10. Native Tribunals.
11. Military Matters.
12. Prisons.

Chapter III. Local Government:

1. Indigenous Authorities.
2. Locational and Divisional Councils.
3. Other Advisory Bodies.
4. Local Native Councils (African District Councils).
5. Methods of Nomination of Election to Local Government Bodies.

Chapter IV.

A. Farming:

1. Rainfall and Seasons.
 2. Food Situation; Harvests.
 3. Famine Relief; Sources of Relief Funds.
 4. Famine Prevention Measures.
 5. Improvements in Farming Methods and Results.
 6. Soil Conservation.

7. Betterment Schemes.
8. Settlement Schemes.
9. Population: Distribution, Re-distribution, and Problems Arising.
10. Infiltration.
11. Livestock.
12. Land Management; Bush-clearing; Grass-planting; Water Supplies.
13. Grazing Control.
14. Stock Marketing Methods.
15. Veterinary Matters; Control of Disease.
16. Entomological Controls; Tsetse; Locusts.

B. Natural Resources:

17. Forests.
18. Mines.
19. Game.
20. Fish.

Chapter V. Education:

1. Educational Facilities.
2. Demands for Facilities.
3. Funds.
4. District Education Boards.
5. Categories of Schools.
6. Comment on Each Category.
7. Distribution of Schools.
8. Teacher Training.
9. Vocational Training.
10. School Inspection.
11. Secondary Education.
12. Female Education.
13. Agricultural Instruction.
14. Instruction in Animal Husbandry.
15. Religious Education.
16. Social Welfare.
17. Information Office.
18. Mass Education and Literacy.
19. Sports and Games.

Chapter VI. Public Health:

1. Medical Services.
2. Hospitalization.
3. Cottage Hospitals.
4. Dispensaries.
5. Maternity Services.
6. Ante-natal and Post-natal Clinics.
7. Diseases.
8. Epidemics.
9. Health Services.
10. Nutrition.
11. Any Vital Statistics.

Chapter VII. Trade, Economic and Taxation:

1. Exports from Native Areas.
 2. Imports into Native Areas.
 3. Marketing.
 4. Internal Trade; Inter-District Trade.
 5. Licencing of Traders.
 6. Transport.
 7. African Trading Companies.
 8. African Co-operative Societies.
 9. Banking.
 10. Economic Problems Arising Out of African Customs.
 11. Taxation.
 12. Inter-Relations.

Chapter VIII. Public Works:

1. Works, Completed and In Progress.
2. Sources of Funds.
3. Works Required.
4. Comments on Buildings, Roads and Bridges, Water Supplies.

Chapter IX. African Affairs in Non-African Areas.

1. Political and Social.
2. Political Societies and Associations.
3. Tribal Associations.
4. Race Relations.
5. Relations Between Non-African and African Areas.
6. Judicial, Including African Tribunals.
7. Local Government, African Advisory Councils, Village Committees.
8. African Representation on Non-African Local Bodies.
9. Education.
10. Social Welfare.
11. Public Health.
12. Housing Conditions.
13. Cost of Living.
14. Labour, Strikes, etc.
15. Unemployment, Vagrancy.
16. Trade Unions, Workers' Associations.
17. Trade, Municipal Trading, etc.
18. Taxation.
19. Boundaries.

Provincial and District Commissioners and district officers in general respected the format established by their superiors. On occasion officials devised their own organization, but a more usual deviation from the precise format occurred when the author of the document had nothing to report on a topic or when a topic (e. g. , "Native Affairs in Non-Native Areas" in a district composed solely of reserves) did not apply to the district. Rather than dutifully letter the topic with the comment "nothing to report," the official omitted the topic entirely and relettered his report accordingly. Thus for certain reports the lettering will be inaccurate in respect to the secretariat circulars, whereas the remainder of the report will adhere to the usual organization.

POLITICAL RECORD BOOKS (PRB)

The Governor's Memorandum of 1910 described the nature and organization of the proposed Political Record Books as well as that of the Annual Reports. These documents were designed to provide reference materials for district and provincial officials and a permanent record of the administration. The PRBs, according to the Memorandum, were to "constitute a complete history of the native administration of the country."

At the beginning of each PRB there was to be a brief record of administrative history. This introduction was to include names of past officers, particulars of former administrative acts, revenue, staff increases, and inspections by governors. It was to be paralleled by a brief history of the peoples of the district, with notes on laws and customs. The body of the book was to be organized as follows:

- (a) Trade, Prosperity of the People, Crops.
 - (b) Revenue.
 - (c) Names, Record, and Personal Character of Chiefs and Headmen.
 - (d) List of Local Councils.
 - (e) Particulars regarding Medicine Men, Wizards, or Witches.
 - (f) Names of Competent Guides.
 - (g) Public Works.
 - (h) Prisons and Prisoners.
 - (i) Important Verbal Arrangements with Natives.
 - (j) Stock Diseases.
 - (k) Program and Influence of Mission Societies.

- (l) Changes of Staff.
- (m) Inspection Visits.
- (n) Methods of Obtaining Intelligence.
- (o) Progress of Settlers.
- (p) Labour Supply.
- (q) Ordinances Affecting Native Affairs and Effect.
- (r) Progress in Education of Sons of Chiefs.

In general the compilation of Political Record Books occurred in the early years of administration, and they were rarely updated past the 1940's. On occasion an official revised and reorganized the record books for his particular district or province, but his activity in many cases was an independent venture, and the result was an absence of consistency among record books, whether reorganized or not. There is evidence that at least the Provincial Commissioner of Central Province established a new format for the record books of his districts in 1920, but it is unclear as to whether this new organization was created on the initiative of the Provincial Commissioner or of officials in Nairobi. * Subject headings established in this directive were as follows:

- | | |
|---|------------------------------------|
| 1. General Geographical and Agricultural Description. | 13. Communications. |
| 2. History. | 14. Agriculture. |
| 3. Locations. | 15. Afforestation. |
| 4. Native Customs. | 16. Diseases of Human Beings. |
| 5. List of Chiefs and Headmen. | 17. Diseases of Animals. |
| 6. List of Kiamas. | 18. Missions. |
| 7. Native Authority Ordinance. | 19. Police. |
| 8. Labour. | 20. Prisons. |
| 9. Census. | 21. Townships and Trading Centres. |
| 10. Hut and Poll Tax. | 22. Trade. |
| 11. General Revenue. | 23. List of Officers. |
| 12. Boundaries. | 24. Clerical Staff. |
| | 25. Rainfall Records. |

HANDING OVER REPORTS (HOR)

Handing Over Reports from outgoing District and Provincial Commissioners and district officers to their successors first followed the suggested headings in the Governor's Memorandum of 1910. These headings were not itemized in outline form, as were those for ARs and PRBs, and presumably the actual organization of the reports was left to the discretion of the compiler. Topics were to include:

capabilities of clerks; condition of buildings; condition of roads; state of Government transport; note on Europeans, Indians, or Somalis in district; complaints by Europeans against any chief or headmen; sections of easily-obtained labour; current rates of wages; methods of tax collection; number of cases pending; statement of any seed issued; summary of any native schools; possibility of irrigation.

Normally the outline of the report followed the organization of Annual Reports, and thus the HOR format was altered in 1924, 1933, and 1948 (see pp. 1-5). In view of the role of the Handing Over Report in facilitating the transition from one official to the next, the outgoing officer was permitted the option of varying the outline of the report. The detailed elaboration of personal views and recommendations, confidential comments on personalities, and other items not normally appearing in Annual Reports were often included in these documents, and on occasion their inclusion necessitated a deviation from the usual organization of the Annual Reports.

*Provincial Commissioner, Nyeri, to District Commissioners in Province, 10/6/20, in file PC/CP 15/1/1 in the Kenya National Archives, Nairobi. Later correspondence indicates that items 3 and 5 may have been combined.

MISCELLANEOUS CORRESPONDENCE (MC)

Although the Government maintained an organized system for dealing with district and provincial correspondence, the system is not apparent in this Guide. Particular subject files obviously vary in significance from district to district, and presumably with this fact in mind the archivists directing the microfilming program chose random files for filming. Unfortunately since several files or portions of files were filmed between a single set of inserts, easy reference cannot be made to file titles and numbers. As a result the compilers of the Guide established a system of grouping that should facilitate ready access to a valuable set of documents.

INTELLIGENCE REPORTS (IR)

Since Intelligence Reports, submitted monthly, followed the subject headings of the Annual Reports, their format was altered accordingly by changes in the organization of Annual Reports. The organization of Annual Reports was never entirely suited to the function of the Intelligence Report, however, as is evidenced by the frequency of "nothing to report" written under many of the headings. Regardless, the compilers of the Intelligence Reports adhered in general to the AR annotation structure. The organization of the military IRs, which are intermixed in this set of films, may vary somewhat from that of their civilian counterparts.

DESCRIPTION OF THE DISTRICTS AND PROVINCES

The following notations on the provinces and districts of Kenya describe the various changes which occurred in these administrative areas during the colonial period. Since districts and provinces are cited in this Guide under the name officially recognized at the time a given document appeared, a brief introduction to administrative changes seems essential. Provinces, in this listing, appear in alphabetical order, and the details of each district are given under the province in which it was first administered. Cross references are provided to account for both name and administrative changes. The compilers are again dependent for the bulk of this material upon the mimeographed Kenya Government report, "Archives Micro-filming Programme," compiled by D. Charman and issued in March, 1964.

CENTRAL PROVINCE: In 1934, Ukamba and Kikuyu Provinces were merged, without Taita, to form the Central Province. The new province included Kiambu, Fort Hall, Embu, Meru, South Nyeri, Machakos, and Kitui as African reserves, and Nairobi and North Nyeri as settled districts. Nairobi was reorganized at that time to include the settlers of Limuru, Kiarabu, and Ngong. Thika was assigned separate district status. In 1953, Machakos and Kitui Districts were transferred to the newly formed Southern Province. At that time Nairobi again became extra-provincial, and Limuru and Kiambu returned to Kiambu District.

EMBU DISTRICT (see EMBU under KENIA PROVINCE).

FORT HALL DISTRICT (see FORT HALL under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

KIAMBU DISTRICT (see KIAMBU under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

KITUI DISTRICT (see KITUI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

MACHAKOS DISTRICT (see MACHAKOS under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

MERU DISTRICT (see MERU under KENIA PROVINCE).

NAIROBI DISTRICT (see NAIROBI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

NORTH NYERI DISTRICT (see NYERI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

SOUTH NYERI DISTRICT (see NYERI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

THIKA DISTRICT (see THIKA under KENIA PROVINCE).

COAST PROVINCE (see SEYIDIYE PROVINCE).

JUBALAND PROVINCE: Although a post was situated at Mfudu to serve Gosha District in 1897, this province initially was not subdivided into districts. In 1910, other posts were established, and in 1914, four districts - Gosha, Kismayu, Afmadu, and Serenli - were created. Under the convention of 1924, the British ceded Jubaland Province west of 41 degrees longitude to Italy.

KENIA/KIKUYU PROVINCE: The province was created in 1902 from Kikuyu District of Ukamba Province. Headquarters were located at Fort Hall, which also formed the base for Fort Hall District. The other district was Nyeri. In 1906, Meru District was added, and in 1908, Embu. Provincial headquarters were shifted to Nyeri in 1912. The provincial name change from Kenia to Kikuyu occurred in 1920/21, at which time Kiambu, originally Kikuyu District, was transferred from Ukamba. Dagoretti substation, closed in 1919, was re-opened in 1922, but was finally closed in 1929. In 1921, Nyeri District was split into North, for Europeans, and South, for African areas. North Nyeri served for one year as an extra-provincial district and in 1922 was returned to the province. In 1927, Thika substation was opened. In 1929, Nairobi District, containing the settled areas of Fort Hall and Kiambu, was formed as part of the province. Until 1933, Kikuyu Province thus consisted of five African areas - Kiambu, Fort Hall, South Nyeri, Embu, and Meru - and two settled districts -

Nairobi and North Nyeri. It was then merged with Ukamba, but without Taita, to form the Central Province.

EMBU DISTRICT: Opened in 1906, this district was first in Kenia Province, then in Kikuyu, and from 1933 in Central Province.

FORT HALL DISTRICT (see FORT HALL under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

KIAMBU DISTRICT (see KIAMBU under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

KIKUYU DISTRICT (see KIAMBU under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

MERU DISTRICT: Opened in 1908, this district was first in Kenia Province, then in Kikuyu, and from 1933 in Central Province.

NAIROBI DISTRICT (see NAIROBI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

NORTH NYERI DISTRICT (see NYERI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

NYERI DISTRICT (see NYERI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

SOUTH NYERI DISTRICT (see NYERI under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

THIKA DISTRICT: Created as a sub-district in 1927, Thika assumed district status in 1934. It then included portions of Fort Hall, Nairobi, and Machakos Districts.

KERIO PROVINCE/SUK-KAMASIA RESERVE: Established in 1921 when it was removed from Naivasha Province, this province was at first apparently known as the Suk-Kamasia Reserve. By 1923, it had been given the name Kerio Province. With headquarters at Eldama Ravine, the province initially included Eldama Ravine, Elgeyo, Marakwet, Kabarnet/Baringo, and West Suk/Kacheliba Districts. North and South Turkana were added in 1926. The unit was dissolved in 1929.

BARINGO DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

ELDAMA RAVINE DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

ELGEYO DISTRICT (see ELGEYO-MARAKWET under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

MARAKWET DISTRICT (see ELGEYO-MARAKWET under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

NORTH TURKANA DISTRICT (see TURKANA PROVINCE).

SOUTH TURKANA DISTRICT (see TURKANA PROVINCE).

TAMBACH DISTRICT (see ELGEYO-MARAKWET under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

TURKANA DISTRICT (see TURKANA PROVINCE).

WEST POKOT DISTRICT (see WEST SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

WEST SUK DISTRICT (see WEST SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

KIKUYU PROVINCE (see KENIA PROVINCE).

KISUMU PROVINCE (see NYANZA PROVINCE).

MASAI PROVINCE: In 1895, the Masai territories were divided between the Uganda and East Africa Protectorates. The Masai of the East Africa Protectorate were administered from Fort Smith in Ukamba with assistance from 1895 until 1899 from the Ngong station. The Masai in Uganda were transferred to the Protectorate in 1902, falling under Naivasha Province, while Masailand District, in Ukamba, administered the remaining Masai and a number of Kikuyu. The western Masai were moved to a reserve in Laikipia in 1904, and in 1905 Masailand District was split, with the Masai areas forming the basis for the Southern Masai District, with headquarters at Nairobi. Ngong was reopened in 1908 with an Assistant District Commissioner supervising the Southern Reserve. By treaty in 1911, the Laikipia Masai moved into an enlarged Southern Reserve. Two districts, Narok and Ngong, were formed from the Reserve in 1913, with an additional military post at Mara. Narok served as the reserve's headquarters, nominally under the control of Naivasha. Mara, increased but not gazetted to district status in 1915, was reduced to a substation in 1921, and was closed in 1925. Laitokitok, opened in 1920, met the same fate in 1923. The reserve became a province in 1924, and two years later its headquarters were shifted from Narok to Ngong. District headquarters for the latter became Kajiado. The Masai Province was reduced to an extra-territorial district in 1934 and was absorbed by the Southern Province in 1953.

KAJIADO/NGONG DISTRICT: With the division of the Masai Reserve in 1913, the eastern district was established with headquarters at Ngong. In 1926, with the shift to Kajiado, the district was renamed Ngong. In 1953, it was joined to the Southern Province.

NAROK DISTRICT: Established in 1913 after the division of the Masai Reserve, this district, with headquarters at Narok, remained within the Masai Reserve (and Province). It was absorbed by the Southern Province in 1953.

NGONG DISTRICT (see KAJIADO above).

NAIVASHA PROVINCE: Naivasha was one of two provinces created from the area transferred from Uganda to the East Africa Protectorate in 1902. Considered suitable for European occupation, Naivasha was reorganized in 1920/21, with the settled areas becoming extra-provincial districts and the African areas forming the basis for the new Kerio Province. These extra-provincial districts were returned to provincial control in 1929, and the entire area was redivided to form Nzoia, Rift Valley, Naivasha, and Turkana Provinces. Nzoia and Naivasha merged into Rift Valley, and thus by 1935 the boundaries of the Rift Valley Province strongly resembled the Naivasha Province of 1902.

BARINGO DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE below).

ELDAMA RAVINE and BARINGO/KABARNET DISTRICTS: In 1902, Eldama Ravine, established in 1895, and Baringo, established in 1899, were transferred from Uganda to the East Africa Protectorate. Headquarters for Baringo were first at Kolloa, then in 1904 at Ol Arabel, and after 1914 at Mukutan. In 1904, the Turkana and Suk, who had been under Baringo, were placed under the new Ngabotok station. Beginning in 1910, Komalwa, the new substation of Ravine, administered the Ndo and Marakwet. Baringo became a sub-district of Ravine (though maintaining a separate Annual Report) from 1914 to about 1924, and its headquarters were shifted to Kabarnet. Elgeyo and Marakwet were transferred to Uasin Gishu District, the former in 1913, the latter in 1917. Ravine station was terminated in 1933. Its settled portions were transferred to Nakuru; and the Southern Kamasia, the Uasin Gishu Masai, and the Wanderobo were moved to Baringo. Ravine was reopened in 1946.

ELDORET DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU below).

ELGEYO-MARAKWET/TAMBACH DISTRICT: The Elgeyo and Marakwet areas were first administered by Eldama Ravine and beginning in 1913 for the former and 1916 for the latter, by Uasin Gishu. The two functioned as separate districts from 1920 until 1926 when they were merged.

KABARNET DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE above).

KACHELIBA DISTRICT (see WEST SUK below).

KITALE DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU below).

LAIKIPIA/RUMURUTI DISTRICT: Transferred to the East Africa Protectorate in 1902, Laikipia was administered under Naivasha Province until 1921, when it became an extra-provincial district. In 1929 it merged with Naivasha Extra-Provincial District to create a new Naivasha Province. Laikipia was administered by Rift Valley Province with the absorption by that province of Naivasha. Rumuruti became the headquarters for the newly merged Laikipia and Samburu Districts from 1935 until 1947, when the two settled districts were again separated.

MARAKWET DISTRICT (see ELGEYO-MARAKWET above).

MASAI DISTRICT (see MASAI PROVINCE).

NAIVASHA DISTRICT: Following its transfer from Uganda in 1902, this district was administered by the province of the same name. It assumed extra-provincial status from 1921 until 1929, and in the latter year was merged with Laikipia to create a new Naivasha Province. With the termination of the province in 1933, this settled district was administered by Rift Valley, but in the following year it lost its district status and joined Nakuru-Ravine District. In 1953 it reacquired its district position.

NAKURU DISTRICT: Likewise a part of the territorial transfer of 1902, Nakuru functioned as a district within Naivasha Province until 1921 when it assumed extra-provincial status. In 1929 it became part of Rift Valley Province. With the closing of Ravine station in 1933, the settled areas of Eldama Ravine District were administered by Nakuru. Naivasha District was incorporated from 1934 until 1953.

RUMURUTI DISTRICT (see LAIKIPIA above).

SUK-KAMASIA RESERVE (see KERIO PROVINCE).

TAMBACH DISTRICT (see ELGEYO-MARAKWET above).

TRANS NZOIA DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU below).

TURKANA DISTRICT (see TURKANA PROVINCE).

UASIN GISHU/ELDORET and TRANS NZOIA/KITALE DISTRICTS: Transferred from Uganda in 1902, the Uasin Gishu administrative area was undefined until 1905/06, when it was placed in Naivasha Province as a district. It then contained the Trans Nzoia, and in 1913 it obtained the Elgeyo and in 1917 the Marakwet. In 1919, Trans Nzoia was separated from Uasin Gishu, and two years later the two became extra-provincial. At the same time, Elgeyo and Marakwet, then sub-districts, were joined to the Suk-Kamasias Reserve. In 1929, Trans Nzoia and Uasin Gishu helped to make up the new Nzoia Province and in 1934 shifted, with that province, to the Rift Valley. In 1945, the two settled districts were joined, only to be separated in 1949.

WEST POKOT DISTRICT (see WEST SUK below).

WEST SUK/WEST POKOT/KACHELIBA DISTRICT: Originally administered as part of Baringo District upon the territorial transfer of 1902, the Pokot joined the South Turkana in 1909 to create Turkana District of Naivasha Province. In 1918, when military supervision came to the South Turkana, the West Suk became a separate district first under Naivasha Province, then in 1921 under Kerio Province, and finally in 1929 under the new Turkana Province. District headquarters were shifted from Kacheliba to Kapenguria in 1930. The administrative structure was again altered in 1941 when West Suk was transferred from Turkana to Rift Valley. In that year West Suk was administered jointly with the Trans Nzoia District. It was separated the following year but continued to be governed from Kapenguria.

NORTHERN FRONTIER DISTRICT/PROVINCE: The administration of the Northern Frontier District began unofficially in 1909 with stations at Marsabit and Moyale and a police post at Uaso Nyiro, later called Archer's Post. Nominally under the provincial commissioner of Naivasha, the district was officially established in 1910 with headquarters at Moyale. The military occupied posts at Loiyangalani near Lake Rudolf in 1911, and at Wajir and Gurreh in 1912. The three were evacuated during the next several years, although a new post was instituted at Buna in 1915. Bulesa was designated a sub-district in 1916, achieved full district status in 1917/18, with headquarters at Garba Tula from 1919, but it reverted to a sub-district in 1919/20. In 1919 the headquarters of the N. F. D. were changed to Meru, in Kenya Province. In 1921, with military administration, Telemugger with its headquarters at Sankuri was shifted to the district from Jubaland; the Samburu received a new headquarters at Barsaloi; and the administrative base for Gurreh was established at Mandera two years later. In 1925, the military gave way partly to a civil administration, except for Wajir and Mandera, which became civilly administered the following year. Districts of the newly-titled Northern Frontier Province included Moyale, Gurreh, Wajir, Telemugger, Garba Tula, Marsabit, and Samburu. In 1929 the seven became five: Isiolo, Marsabit, Moyale, Wajir, and Telemugger. The provincial headquarters were then shifted from Meru to Isiolo. Provincial status was withdrawn in 1934, and the Samburu were transferred to the Rift Valley Province. Moyale and Mandera were evacuated in 1940, but civil administration returned the following year. Turkana and the extra-provincial areas of the Northern Frontier were joined in 1947 to form the Northern Frontier Province, including the districts of Turkana, Isiolo, Marsabit, Moyale, Mandera, Wajir, and Garissa. The province was administered from Marsabit.

ARCHER'S POST DISTRICT (see ISIOLO below).

BARSALOI DISTRICT (see ISIOLO below).

BULESA DISTRICT (see ISIOLO below).

GARBA TULA DISTRICT (see ISIOLO below).

GARISSA DISTRICT (see GARISSA under TANALAND PROVINCE).

GURREH DISTRICT (see MANDERA below).

ISIOLO/BULESA/GARBA TULA/ARCHER'S POST/BARSALOI DISTRICT: Garba Tula, or Bulesa, District, the area of which was extracted from Wajir's administration, was established in 1917/18. Headquarters were shifted from Bulesa to Garba Tula in 1918/19. The district returned to sub-district status under Wajir in 1919/20. Garba Tula remained without effective administration from 1925, when civil administration was reinstated, until 1928. Until 1921, Archer's Post was the base for the control of the Southern Samburu. The northern and southern segments merged to establish a new district with headquarters at Barsaloi. Samburu and Garba Tula joined in 1929 to form Isiolo District. Provincial headquarters shifted the same year to Isiolo from Meru and remained there until 1947.

MANDERA/GURREH DISTRICT: Despite its separate district status within the N. F. D. from 1921, the Gurreh area was evacuated in 1916 and had no established headquarters until 1923, when Mandera was created by the military administration. The district was administered separately after the reinstatement of civilian control in 1926. But between 1929 and 1941 it functioned as a sub-district of Moyale. Though evacuated in 1940, Mandera re-acquired district status upon its reoccupation in 1941.

MARALAL DISTRICT (see SAMBURU below).

MARSABIT DISTRICT: Instituted in 1909, Marsabit station served as the headquarters for the administering of the Gabbra and, until 1921, the Northern Samburu and the Rendille. The station became the headquarters for the province inaugurated in 1947.

MOYALE DISTRICT: Moyale station was established in 1907 to supervise the frontier between the Protectorate and Abyssinia. In 1910, it became headquarters both for its district and the N. F. D., but in 1919, the headquarters for the latter was shifted to Meru. Administration of Gurreh from Moyale prevailed from 1912 to 1923. During the military control of the area, Mandera substation was established, but with the return of civil administration in 1926, Gurreh was administered as a separate district. It merged with Moyale from 1929 until 1941, with Mandera functioning as a sub-district.

SAMBURU/MARALAL DISTRICT: The Samburu were administered from Archer's Post and Marsabit as part of the Northern Frontier District until 1921 when they were formed into a separate district with headquarters at Barsaloi. In 1928 the district was merged with Garba Tula, creating Isiolo District, but in 1934, it was separated and joined to the Rift Valley Province. The next year when Samburu and Laikipia were merged, the Maralal headquarters were reduced to a substation. Separation re-occurred in 1947. Despite the several mergers, district officers at Maralal often filed supplementary reports.

SANKURI DISTRICT (see GARISSA under TANALAND PROVINCE).

TELEMUGGER DISTRICT (see GARISSA under TANALAND PROVINCE).

WAJIR DISTRICT: Wajir District was established in 1912. The headquarters at Wajir were evacuated for several months in 1916. Bulesa, the temporary headquarters during the evacuation, functioned as a sub-district until it acquired district status in 1917/18. Wajir was not lost to the Italians in 1940, but its headquarters were evacuated temporarily.

TANA RIVER DISTRICT (see TANA RIVER under TANALAND PROVINCE).

NYANZA/KISUMU PROVINCE: Transferred from Uganda in 1902, this province consisted of the highlands areas of Nandi, Lumbwa, and Kisii, and the lowlands of Elgon, Kisumu, and Ugaya. The Uasin Gishu and Trans Nzoia areas were considered within this administrative structure until the arrival of European settlers in 1905-08, at which time these areas were placed in Naivasha Province. The province was renamed Nyanza in 1909. Nandi District was transferred to Nzoia Province in 1929.

CENTRAL KAVIRONDO DISTRICT (see CENTRAL NYANZA below).

CENTRAL NYANZA/CENTRAL KAVIRONDO/KISUMU DISTRICT: In 1902, after the transfer from Uganda, this district was named Kisumu. With boundary alterations in 1920/21, the name was changed to Central Kavirondo. In 1948, the district was renamed Central Nyanza.

ELGON DISTRICT (see NORTH NYANZA below).

ELGON NYANZA DISTRICT: Created in 1956 by the division of North Nyanza, the district headquarters were located at Bungoma, on the Uganda Railway. The largest ethnic group in the district were the Abaluyia with smaller groups of Teso and Kolengin.

KERICHO/LUMBWA/SOUTH LUMBWA DISTRICT: In 1902, Lumbwa District was transferred to the East Africa Protectorate. In 1921/22, it was renamed South Lumbwa, and in 1935, it became Kericho. In 1948, when Kisumu-Londiani District was terminated, its settled areas were added to Kericho.

KISII/UGAYA/SOUTH KAVIRONDO/SOUTH NYANZA DISTRICT: From the territorial transfer of 1902, Kisii District was administered from Karungu in Ugaya District. Kisii station was established in 1907, and two years later it served as headquarters for Ugaya, including the Gusii. In 1948, the name was altered from South Kavirondo to South Nyanza. In 1962, the district was split to create Kisii and South Nyanza/Homa Bay Districts.

KISUMU DISTRICT (see CENTRAL NYANZA above).

KISUMU-LONDIANI DISTRICT: Administered by a resident commissioner after its creation in 1921, Kisumu-Londiani was controlled first by the provincial commissioner of Nyanza, then in 1947 by the district commissioner for Central Kavirondo. In 1948, when the district was abolished, its territory was divided between Kericho and Central Kavirondo.

LUMBWA DISTRICT (see KERICHO above).

NANDI DISTRICT: In 1902 when transferred from Uganda, this district became part of Kisumu Province. It remained so until 1929 when it was shifted to the new Nzoia Province. In 1934, with the absorption of the province by Rift Valley, Nandi was joined to the latter province.

NORTH KAVIRONDO DISTRICT (see NORTH NYANZA below).

NORTH NYANZA/NORTH KAVIRONDO/ELGON DISTRICT: Originally in Kisumu Province following the transfer of 1902, this district had headquarters first at Mumias, then beginning in 1920/21 at Kakamega. Division of the district occurred in 1956, forming Elgon-Nyanza. The name of the district changed in 1909 from Elgon to North Kavirondo, and in 1948 to North Nyanza.

SOUTH KAVIRONDO DISTRICT (see KISII above).

SOUTH LUMBWA DISTRICT (see KERICHO above).

SOUTH NYANZA DISTRICT (see KISII above).

TRANS NZOIA DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

UASIN GISHU DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

UGAYA DISTRICT (see KISII above).

NZOIA PROVINCE: Established in 1929, this province was absorbed by the Rift Valley Province in 1934. During the five years it consisted of Elgeyo-Marakwet/Tambach, Uasin Gishu/Eldoret, Nandi/Kapsabet, and Trans Nzoia/Kitale Districts.

ELGEYO-MARAKWET DISTRICT (see ELGEYO-MARAKWET under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

NANDI DISTRICT (see NANDI under NYANZA PROVINCE).

TRANS NZOIA DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

UASIN GISHU DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

RIFT VALLEY PROVINCE: This province was established in 1929 from Kerio Province, and contained Eldama Ravine, Baringo/Kabarnet, and Nakuru Districts. The latter had been an extra-provincial district since 1922. In 1930, Naivasha Province and in 1934, Nzoia Province were incorporated in the Rift Valley Province. In the same year, Samburu/Maralal District was shifted from Northern Frontier administration to that of the Rift Valley. In 1941, West Suk/West Pokot/Kacheliba District was added.

BARINGO DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

ELDAMA RAVINE DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

KABARNET DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

KACHELIBA DISTRICT (see WEST SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

LAIKIPIA DISTRICT (see LAIKIPIA under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

MARALAL DISTRICT (see SAMBURU under NORTHERN FRONTIER DISTRICT/PROVINCE).

NAIVASHA DISTRICT (see NAIVASHA under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

NAKURU DISTRICT (see NAKURU under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

NANDI DISTRICT (see NANDI under NYANZA PROVINCE).

RUMURUTI DISTRICT (see LAIKIPIA under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

SAMBURU DISTRICT (see SAMBURU under NORTHERN FRONTIER DISTRICT/PROVINCE).

TRANS NZOIA DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

UASIN GISHU DISTRICT (see UASIN GISHU under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

WEST POKOT DISTRICT (see WEST SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

WEST SUK DISTRICT (see WEST SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

SEYIDIYE PROVINCE: At the outset this province contained Malindi District with a substation at Takaungu, Mombasa District with a substation at Rabai, and Vanga District with headquarters at Shimoni. These districts stretched beyond the ten mile belt on the coast and included areas later known as the Nyika Reserve. An assistant district commissioner took charge of Nyika Reserve about 1912, and following the 1913 Giriama rising, it formed the basis for a separate district in 1914, with headquarters at Kakoneni and a substation at Rabai. In 1919, the headquarters and substation were reversed. During the 1920/21 reorganization Nyika Reserve was abolished, with portions of territory going to Vanga District, the new Kilifi District, and Malindi District. Taita District, originally a part of Ukamba Province, was joined to Seyidiye in 1902, returned to Ukamba in 1920/21, and re-joined to the Coast Province in 1933 with the creation of Central Province.

DIGO DISTRICT (see KWALE below).

KILIFI/MALINDI DISTRICT: In 1895, the former I. B. E. A. station formed the headquarters of Malindi District, with Takaungu becoming a substation. In 1913, following the Giriama rising, the hinterland of the district inhabited by the Giriama was established, with areas from other districts, as the Nyika Reserve. The sub-district headquarters of Takaungu were shifted to Kilifi in 1916, and the latter formed the basis for a separate district in 1921 with the abolition of the Nyika Reserve. Rabai and Kakoneni stations were closed in 1921, and Kilifi met the same fate in 1922, when its territory was merged with Malindi. Kilifi was reopened the following year as a sub-district headquarters. Malindi and Kilifi reversed roles in 1927, the former becoming the sub-district headquarters and the latter the district headquarters.

KWALE/VANGA/DIGO DISTRICT: Vanga station became, in 1895, headquarters of Vanga District. Headquarters were shifted to Shimoni before 1902. Portions of the Nyika Reserve were included in the district in 1921. In 1922, Kwale substation was opened and became headquarters for the district two years later, at which time the district was renamed Digo. The district was renamed Kwale in 1946.

LAMU DISTRICT (see LAMU under TANALAND PROVINCE).

MALINDI DISTRICT (see KILIFI above).

MOMBASA DISTRICT: Mombasa served as headquarters for the I. B. E. A. until 1895, for the protectorate until 1907, for Seyidiye and later Coast Province, and for Mombasa District. In 1914, the hinterland, which until then had been administered from Rabai as part of the district, was with Rabai included in Nyika Reserve. The Reserve, discontinued in 1920, was not returned to Mombasa District. Between 1921 and 1929 Mombasa maintained the status of an Extra-Provincial District. The district then reverted to the Coast Province, while the township became a municipality. The Majengo substation was opened in 1948, and in 1959 the township of Mombasa acquired self-governing municipal status.

TAITA DISTRICT (see TAITA under UKAMBA PROVINCE).

TANA RIVER DISTRICT (see TANA RIVER under TANALAND PROVINCE).

VANGA DISTRICT (see KWALE above).

SUK-KAMASIA RESERVE (see KERIO PROVINCE).

TANALAND PROVINCE: In 1897 Tanaland consisted of three districts: Tana River with headquarters at Kipini, Lamu, and the Sultanate of Witu. In 1920, administration of the Telemugger was transferred to the military at Sankuri. It remained under the nominal control of the senior commissioner, Kismayu, until 1921 when a new district was incorporated into the Northern Frontier Province. Tanaland Province was abolished in 1920 and its districts were joined to those of Seyidiye Province to form the Coast Province. The Sultanate of Witu and Tana River District were amalgamated with Lamu District in 1923. Tana River again became a separate district in 1927.

GARISSA/TELEMUGGER/SANKURI DISTRICT: Originally under the nominal administration of Tanaland Province and Tana River District, the Telemugger in 1920 fell under the control of the military at Sankuri and the senior commissioner of Jubaland Province. The Telemugger were transferred to Northern Frontier control in 1921 and became a district of the N. F. P. in 1925 when civilian administration was reestablished. Headquarters shifted from Sankuri to Bura in 1925, and to Garissa in 1931.

LAMU DISTRICT: The Lamu archipelago, certain coastal areas, and the hinterland became a district in 1897, with Lamu serving as headquarters for the district and for Tanaland Province. In 1920 when the province was abolished, Lamu, without its hinterland, was joined to the Coast Province. In 1923, Lamu, the Sultanate of Witu, and Tana River District were amalgamated. Kipini, closed in 1922, was reopened in 1925 as a sub-station, and Tana River was again separated in 1927. Lamu and Tana River were jointly administered in 1935 and from 1944 to 1948.

SANKURI DISTRICT (see GARISSA above).

TANA RIVER DISTRICT: Formed in 1897 with headquarters at Kipini, Tana River was initially a part of Tanaland Province. In 1920 when the province was discontinued, part of the district was first administered from Kismayu and then in 1921 was transferred to the Northern Frontier. Kipini was closed in 1922, and the headquarters for the administration of Tana River was moved to Lamu, with temporary camps elsewhere in the district. In 1923, Tana River was combined with Lamu and thus fell within the Coast Province. Kipini was reopened as a sub-district in 1925, and Tana River acquired district status again in 1927. Tana River and Lamu were administered jointly during the year 1935 and from 1944 to 1948. In 1959 headquarters were shifted from Kipini to Gahole, and the boundaries were changed. Portions of Kitui District were joined to Tana River, while much of the hinterland of Tana River was transferred to Garissa.

TELEMUGGER DISTRICT (see GARISSA above).

TURKANA PROVINCE: In 1902 when transferred to the East Africa Protectorate, the Southern Turkana fell under the control of Baringo District of Naivasha Province. In 1909, the Southern Turkana and the Suk formed the basis for the new district of Turkana, with headquarters at Kacheliba. With the Southern Turkana under military administration from 1918, the West Suk were administered as a separate district. The Northern Turkana were transferred from Uganda in 1926 to form a district in Kerio Province. Regaining civil administration the same year, the Southern Turkana were also administered as a district within Kerio. The districts of North Turkana, South Turkana, and West Suk formed Turkana Province, with headquarters at Kapenguria. The headquarters for South Turkana underwent many alterations from the original station at Kolosia to Lokichar in 1928, to Loperet in 1929, and to Kaputir in 1931. In 1933, a single Turkana District was created from the merger of North and South Turkana. In 1934, the province was downgraded to an extra-provincial district and included both Turkana and West Suk Districts. In 1940, the district commissioner, Lodwar, assumed control of Turkana, with West Suk joining the Rift Valley Province the following year, and in 1947 Turkana District functioned within the Northern Frontier administrative structure.

BARINGO DISTRICT (see ELDAMA RAVINE under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

KACHELIBA DISTRICT (see SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

WEST POKOT DISTRICT (see WEST SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

WEST SUK DISTRICT (see WEST SUK under NAIVASHA PROVINCE).

UKAMBA PROVINCE: In 1895, the "up-country" administrative structure of the I. B. E. A., consisting of stations at Ndi, Machakos, and Fort Smith, was placed by the Foreign Office in one province, Ukamba. The original districts included Taita, Ulu (then named Athi and later Machakos), Kitui, and Kikuyu with their respective headquarters at Ndi, Machakos, Kitui, and Fort Smith. The Kedong portion of the Rift Valley and the Masai territory were also administered within Ukamba. In 1896, Ngong was opened temporarily as a military post. Taveta was also opened in that year. In 1899, provincial headquarters shifted from Machakos to Nairobi and Fort Smith was closed. Mbiri station was opened in 1900 and renamed Fort Hall in 1902. Nyeri was established in 1901. Boundary alterations in 1902 left Ukamba without Taita but with Ulu, Kitui, and Masailand. The latter included Kikuyu areas, and Dagoretti was reopened in 1902 to serve the Kikuyu. In 1905, Masailand was divided into Kikuyu District with headquarters at Kiambu and South Masai District with headquarters at Nairobi. The latter was absorbed by the Masai Reserve in 1912 and thus fell into the administrative realm of Naivasha Province. Kiambu District was added to Kenya Province in 1920/21, while Taita rejoined Ukamba. In 1933, the province, without Taita, was merged with Kikuyu Province to form the Central Province.

FORT HALL DISTRICT: Mbiri station was established in 1900, and two years later, renamed Fort Hall, it became headquarters for Kenya Province. The headquarters were shifted to Nyeri in 1912. In 1933, the district became part of Central Province.

KIAMBU/KIKUYU DISTRICT: Kikuyu District was established from the division of Masailand District in 1905. Kiambu was the headquarters, and Dagoretti a sub-district station. Dagoretti, closed from 1919 to 1922, was reopened when the newly named Kiambu District was shifted to Kikuyu Province. In 1929, Dagoretti was closed permanently. In 1933, Kiambu fell within Central Province.

KIKUYU DISTRICT (see KIAMBU above).

KITUI DISTRICT: Built in 1898, Kitui station was gazetted in 1902. The district was situated in Ukamba Province until 1933, in Central Province until 1953, and in Southern Province thereafter.

MACHAKOS/ULU DISTRICT: Machakos station served as headquarters for Ulu District and Ukamba Province until 1899 when the headquarters for the latter was shifted to Nairobi. The district changed names from Ulu to Machakos in 1920/21. In 1933, it became part of Central Province and in 1953, was transferred to the Southern Province.

MASAILAND DISTRICT (see MASAI PROVINCE).

MBIRI DISTRICT (see FORT HALL above).

NAIROBI DISTRICT: The provincial headquarters for Ukamba from 1899, Nairobi District and municipality shared identical boundaries until 1911, when the district was expanded to cover outlying areas. The township was incorporated in 1919. The district assumed extra-provincial status in 1920/21, but was joined to Kikuyu Province in 1929 and to Central Province in 1933. The district included Kiambu and Fort Hall settler lands as of 1929, and Limuru and Ngong settled areas as of 1934. In 1953, with the district's return to extra-provincial status, control of the Kiambu and Limuru settled lands was transferred to Kiambu District.

NYERI DISTRICT: Nyeri station, established in 1901, served as headquarters of the district from 1902 and of the province from 1912. The division of the district in 1920 created a settled area, North Nyeri, and an African reserve, South Nyeri. The two districts were merged in 1939 but divided again in 1948, with the northern district named Nanyuki. From 1933, the two districts were within Central Province.

SOUTH MASAI DISTRICT (see MASAI PROVINCE).

TAITA DISTRICT: In 1895, Ndii station served as headquarters for Taita District in Ukamba Province. In 1900, Ndii was closed, and Taveta, the sub-district headquarters, became the administrative center for the district. In 1902, the district became part of Seyidiye Province with headquarters at Mwatate. Mwatate gave way to Voi as headquarters in 1911. In 1914, following the German occupation of Taveta sub-district and its re-occupation by the British in 1916, this sub-district was administered as part of Moshi District of Tanganyika. It was rejoined to Taita in 1921, and the entire district fell under Ukamba Province, only to return to the Coast Province in 1933. Mackinnon Road operated as a sub-district headquarters between 1948 and 1950, when Wundanyi station was opened.

ULU DISTRICT (see MACHAKOS above).

LIST OF ETHNIC GROUPS

The following list of ethnic groups, arranged according to Province and District, is based on the provincial organization as it existed just prior to the changes of 1963. The districts retained the same ethnic character throughout most of the period covered by the Archives. Names appearing in parentheses next to districts and/or ethnic groups represent alternative spellings or names frequently used in lieu of the more accepted form.

THE ANNOTATED GUIDE

SECTION I:
 PROVINCIAL AND DISTRICT ANNUAL AND QUARTERLY REPORTS

Comprised of 66 reels, the Annual and Quarterly Reports make up the largest and most comprehensive section of administrative documents in the microfilm collection. In numbers alone, this amounts to more than 2,000 reports, most running beyond 20 pages in length, which may be applied to approximately 60 years of Kenyan history. Almost all administrative units from sub-district and above are represented here, and the collection of Annual Reports for some districts and provinces is complete. Aside from their abundance, the particular value of these reports rests in the wide range of information they were required to supply and in the important role they played at the provincial and colony-wide level in the review of all aspects of colonial policy. All matters of importance, at least to colonial personnel, one may expect to be dealt with here, and often in considerable detail.

Entries are arranged in the following manner: capitalized citations (e.g., AR/1) are taken from the Kenya National Archives inserts, each of which precedes a series of documents on a given reel. Each document heading (e.g., AR/2, AR/3) begins with the Province, District, or other administrative unit from which the adjoining document originated, unless the unit has been cited alone in the previous insert. The year (for ARs) or months (for QRs) included in the report, the author, date of authorship, and total pages then follow. Should any of these items be followed by a question mark and enclosed in brackets, the item is subject to question and represents only a reasonable guess by the compiler. Annotations for each document contain references to only the distinctive portions of the report, whereas items appearing regularly from year-to-year have not been mentioned (see 'The Annotated Guide', under 'The Use of the Guide', p. ix; also see 'Provincial and District Annual and Quarterly Reports', under 'Organization of the Documents', for a comprehensive list of subjects dealt with in Annual and Quarterly Reports). Statistics, because of their irregular appearance in reports, are also cited.

In compiling other sections of the Guide . . . , it was discovered that Annual and Quarterly Reports sometimes appeared amidst Handing Over Reports, Miscellaneous Correspondence, etc. So that the reader may be assured of locating all documents originating from a given administrative unit, the Province and District Index has been provided (see p. 415).

Native Affairs Department Annual Reports, since they are published materials, have not been annotated. They appear on Reels 61 through 64 (pp. 204-205).

Meanings for the many abbreviated statistical entries, as well as for a number of annotated organizations, may be found on pp. xv-xvi.

SECTION II
PROVINCIAL AND DISTRICT RECORD BOOKS

The sixteen reels of Political Record Books (PRB) contain materials that were originally intended to be a continually expanding collection of data and source of information for use by colonial officials. As such, subjects found in these records range from character evaluations of headmen, comments on various tribes, oral tradition, and lengthy analyses of tribal law and customs, to land and boundary issues, education policy, and statistics. News-paper and magazine clippings, correspondence, and departmental and administrative reports are included. Political Record Books, in short, contain such information considered by officials as of sufficient importance to meet the needs of their successors in terms both of historical background and current administrative problems. District and provincial officers regularly updated these records, and although on occasion certain record books underwent major reorganization, the arrangement of the records vary considerably from one record to another and in fact often leave a great deal to be desired in terms of organization. Headings found in the record books, e. g., are not always indicative of the material found therein. The bulk of the materials were compiled before World War II.

Entries are arranged in the following manner: citations on the Kenya National Archives inserts appear as elsewhere in capitals. Due to space limitations and to updating or absence of date and author, subjects within a particular record book have been grouped into a lengthy annotation under the insert label. Reports that are clearly separate documents within a record book receive separate citations, as does correspondence that lends itself to grouping, either by subject or correspondents (see p. 305 [MC introduction]). Scattered and unrelated correspondence and reports, however, are included in the annotation. This method, then, lacks the obvious merits of separate citation for every distinct document, but it does provide in rather simple fashion an exhaustive indication of subjects with which the Political Record Books deal.

In view of the exhaustive nature of the annotations, there is little justification for a subject index; the usual entries, however, are incorporated with other sections in the Index of Organizations and Personalities.

SECTION III
HANDING OVER REPORTS

The fourteen reels of Handing Over Reports (HOR) generally were prepared by District Commissioners, District Officers, and other government officials for the benefit of their successors. Their organisation is much the same as that used in the Annual Reports (see pp. 1 - 5). Likewise, the information provided is quite similar. Handing Over Reports, however, often contain summaries of events and policies and an identification of leading personalities in the district not normally found in Annual Reports. They are thus often a more useful starting point for research on a particular district than are Annual Reports.

Entries are arranged in the following manner: citations on the Kenya National Archives inserts appear as elsewhere in capitals; material not specifically cited between inserts is annotated below the insert citation. Handing Over Reports are preceded by the citation 'HOR'. Documents not preceded by 'HOR' fall into various categories, identifiable by annotations. Correspondence serving as Handing Over Reports where no formal reports exist are cited separately. For Handing Over Reports written by District Commissioners only the names of the officers are given; for all other reports, the position of the officer handing over precedes the names (if available) of the officers involved.

Handing Over Certificates often accompany the reports. These attest to the fact that items such as furniture, books, stores, etc., have been handed over. They are cited as 'certs', with the number of pages in parentheses. For example, certs (10) means ten handing over certificates were included in the Handing Over Report.

SECTION IV:
MISCELLANEOUS CORRESPONDENCE

The eleven reels of Miscellaneous Correspondence (MC) include reports and circulars, as well as correspondence, on a wide variety of subjects. Complete subject files are on occasion reproduced, while other sections of Miscellaneous Correspondence contain materials similar to those found in Political Record Books. (For the nature of this type of document, see pp. 5-6, 211.)

Entries are arranged in the following manner: citations on the Kenya National Archives inserts appear as elsewhere in capitals; material not specifically cited between inserts is annotated below the insert citation. Documents pertaining to a particular subject are grouped, citing the correspondents and the inclusive dates. Isolated material, insufficient in terms of numbers to permit grouping but requiring separate citation, is not annotated with the KNA insert but is given its own entry. Secretariat circulars, when appearing in substantial numbers, will be grouped on an annual basis to avoid confusion, for these circulars in later years were organised in that manner. All subjects in these circulars will be annotated.

References to District Commissioners and Provincial Commissioners, etc., indicate those officials stationed in the district or province cited on the KNA insert, unless otherwise noted. Since names and boundaries of districts, etc., varied throughout the colonial period, mention of the location of particular officials will follow that which was indicated on the particular correspondence. Names and titles are abbreviated after the initial citation.

In view of the nature of Miscellaneous Correspondence, a subject index has been compiled (see pp. 449). The usual entries are incorporated with other sections in the Index of Organizations and Personalities (see pp. 419).

SECTION V:
INTELLIGENCE REPORTS

The twelve reels of the Intelligence Reports (IRs) contain reports of Provincial Commissioners, District Commissioners, and lesser civil administrators, and the reports of military and police personnel often appear. In contrast to the Annual Reports and the Handing Over Reports, the Intelligence Reports were normally issued, from month-to-month, and they should therefore lend themselves to a fuller account of recurrent events. Though Intelligence Reports are also brief in comparison, some can be quite detailed and lengthy, as the Northern Frontier District IRs of the 1930's attest.

For the purposes of this guide the IRs have been grouped according to the administrative units and the year in which they were written. The known authors of the reports and the months for which the reports were submitted are listed in the heading. Annotations under each heading generally refer to those local events and developments given most attention by the author or refer to the sort of information which appears irregularly or unexpectedly. Annotations do not refer to information which appears in the reports regularly and which the researcher may expect to find without annotation. These excluded items are public works (e. g., buildings, roads, communications, dams, etc.), posts and telegraphs, and information of a medical, meteorological, and agricultural (i. e., food crops) nature.

Almost three-fourths of the IRs are made up of documents from the northern areas (i. e., NFD and Turkana). In using these particular reels, one should be familiar with the administrative changes in the name and areas before proceeding to the documents themselves (see Description of Provinces and Districts, p. 9). Turkana District/Province, especially, poses many problems owing to the constant moving about of administrative headquarters, the frequent changes in organization taking place in Kenya as a whole, and the often confusing references made by officials to the administrative units and peoples in this area. Though the proper use of district and provincial titles has presented its own problems to the compilers of this section, the researcher may be reasonably certain that the titles which appear in the headings are accurate for the year cited.

Insert headings in the northern areas sections might also cause some difficulties for the users of the guide. In scanning the inserts one should be aware that the headings can be misleading when describing the documents that follow. Throughout Reel 117, for example, "Northern Frontier District" has been misrepresented as "Moyale District". Also, the Northern Frontier District IRs in other reels, are occasionally referred to as "Marsabit Provincial Commissioners Monthly Intelligence Reports" (see, e. g., IR/260, IR/264).

In annotating the Northern area IRs, numerous references to affairs in Ethiopia have been made. However, the term "Abyssinia" is used much more frequently by officers in their reports, and the IR annotations reflect this choice of terms.

SECTION VI:
LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL DEBATES

The thirty three reels of the Legislative Council Debates constitute a rich source for the study of Kenyan political and administrative history. Beginning with 1907 and continuing through 1965, the Debates provide extensive commentaries on many of the important events, attitudes, and personalities of the colonial period and the first years of independence. For those wishing to purchase microfilm reels of the Debates, positive copies will be supplied, at cost, by Syracuse University (under an agreement with the Kenya National Archives, Syracuse University is not permitted to sell reels from the other sections of the microfilm collection). Inquiries should be addressed to the Manuscripts Division, Syracuse University Library, Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York, 13210.

The early organization of the Debates, as is reflected in the index below, is by no means uniform. Variations in pagination and titles of sessions, for example, occur frequently, and not until the late 1920's do the Debates begin to appear in more or less standardized form. It was also discovered, when the index was being compiled, that a few sessions appeared to be missing. Since new difficulties would be added were we to compile an accurate list of all sessions for which there is a printed record, it was thought best to mention only the sessions which appear in the microfilm collection.

For the purposes of the Guide... references are confined to volume, session, and inclusive dates of sessions (in the earlier years, volume and session may not be available). In order to provide some further idea of the amount of sessional materials available, references to total numbers of pages or columns per session have also been given. (After March 2, 1937, the Debates were numbered by column, two columns per page.)

Indices of the texts of the Debates did not appear until May 16, 1924. Since their appearance can be unpredictable, the location of each Index has been indicated with an 'I'. Unless otherwise indicated, the dates covered by a given index include all sessions prior to its appearance and subsequent to the previous index.

INDICES

PROVINCE AND DISTRICT INDEX

With the aid of the index below, one may expect to find in the Guide... all of the documents relative to each administrative unit, from Sub-Districts and above.

For the convenience of the reader, the Index has been divided into three sections:

a) Provinces; b) Districts, Sub-Districts, and Reserves; and c) Miscellaneous, which includes Kenya Colony, the Native Affairs Department, and the King's African Rifles. Districts, Sub-Districts, and Reserves are grouped under the provinces whose histories and organizations are outlined in the 'Description of the Districts and Provinces', on pp. 9-19. Since documents originating from divisions and locations appear so infrequently and are always located alongside reports from their parent administrative units, they have been left unindexed.

All names of the administrative units entered below correspond to the names contemporary with the document referred to. No attempt has been made to combine under a single heading all references to Kikuyu and Kenia Provinces, for example, even though both names represent, historically, the same administrative unit. South Nyanza and South Kavirondo Districts are further examples.

PROVINCES

Central Province - AR/92-121, 2549, 2572; PRB/220; HOR/957-61; MC/479-92; IR/1-10.

INDEX OF PERSONALITIES AND ORGANIZATIONS

For indexed personalities, the rule of thumb has been to enter the names of those who are the authors of documents, those who play an important part in reported events, and those for whom some evaluative material is provided. References to administrative officers, however, may include documents in which their names appear only on staff lists (especially in Annual Reports). Some of the compilers also chose to enter names of the more notable visitors to a district or province, even though little other information about them may appear in the pertinent documents. Excluded from the index are those administrative officers who did not rise above the rank of District Officer (this includes Assistant and Acting District Commissioners).

References to organizations have been made on much the same basis as references to personalities. European missions have not been included, though numerous references to missionary personnel appear.

It should be kept in mind, however, that the following index is not felt to be a complete one, even in respect to the guidelines established, and that no list of references for any individual or organization should be considered exhaustive.

SUBJECT INDEX TO MISCELLANEOUS CORRESPONDENCE

The following is a list of provinces and districts for which documents are to be found in the Miscellaneous Correspondence section (pp. 305-357):

Province	District	Province	District
Central		Nyanza (cont.)	North Kavirondo North Nyanza South Kavirondo
Coast	Kilifi Kismayu Mombasa Tana River	Rift Valley (no documents available)	Trans Nzoia West Pokot
Northern	Isiolo Marsabit Wajir	Southern	Embu Fort Hall Kajiado Kiambu Kitui Machakos Meru Nanyuki Narok Nyeri
Nyanza	Baringo Central Kavirondo Elgeyo-Marakwet Elgon Nyanza Homa Bay Kericho Kisii Kisumu Kisumu-Londiani Nandi	Turkana

The subject entries appearing below have been derived primarily from the MC subject headings rather than the detailed annotations, and they are only intended to itemize the main bodies of material to be found in the section.

Subject entries are grouped under the district or province to which they most directly apply, and the inclusive dates for each subject appear in parentheses to the right. The numbers to the extreme right of each entry represent the MC index number with which the more detailed annotation may be located in the Miscellaneous Correspondence section.

The names of Provinces correspond to those found in the MC inserts and which were in use just prior to the Regional Constitution of 1962. The names of Districts, on the other hand, may include older forms, and each has been placed under the Province within whose administrative boundaries the District was at one time included.
