Celebrating the Past, Embracing the Future: A Select Bibliography of Published and Unpublished Materials Authored and Edited by Members of CARALL during the period 1984-2005

JOAN A. BRATHWAITE*

PREFACE

This Select Bibliography, with Appendices, chronicles the published and unpublished work of Members of the Caribbean Association of Law Libraries (CARALL) over the past 21 years of its existence. In this regard, only materials produced between 1984 and 2005 have been included, with the exception of one item which predates this period. This item is not only a significant and seminal work, but in fact laid the foundation for the establishment of the CARALL, and indeed, the future development of law libraries in the Commonwealth Caribbean. The item, therefore, holds its own place, and could not be omitted.⁷⁴

The parameters of time and membership in CARALL, precluded the inclusion of other materials on law librarianship and Commonwealth Caribbean legal literature. Nor were contributions of CARALL Members made prior to 1984 accommodated. The Bibliography is arranged by subject, and in some cases, the bibliographical materials have been placed within that arrangement. The Style followed is the Chicago Manual of Style, 5th edition, 2003.

I should like to thank CARALL President, Junior Browne, for inviting me to prepare this Display “to Celebrate the Past and Embrace the Future 1984-2005” on CARALL for its 21st Anniversary. I would also like to thank all those members of the Association who responded to my request to submit information on their publications for inclusion in this select bibliography, and, most especially, the staff of the Public Services Division, Faculty of Law Library, for assisting in the preparation of the materials on display.

* Joan Brathwaite, B.A., LL.B., M.Lib., M. Phil., DipLS., is Senior Librarian II and Head, Public Services Division at the University of West Indies Faculty of Law Library. Ms. Brathwaite was also President of CARALL from 1996 to 2000.

It would be remiss of me if I did not thank Leonie Asgarali, on behalf of all of the Members of the Association, for being in effect the Historian/Librarian of and for CARALL. She has single-handedly documented the various Meetings and Seminars, the Membership, and the ebb and flow of the Association over the period of its existence, both in the written word, and in photography. We wish her every success in her future undertakings as she retires from the Hugh Wooding Law School Library where she gave yeoman service for almost thirty-two years, commencing with being the Librarian in charge of that fledgling Library from 1973 – 1977, when June Renie, the current Librarian, was appointed to the post.

Assistance also would have been given in many ways by members of Local Organizing Committees, members of national Library Associations, members of the legal profession, administrative and clerical staff in the various Governments, states and territories in which the Conferences were held. And last, but by no means least, CARALL appreciates the many efforts by the members of staff in the libraries of the countries in which any given annual conference was held – academic, court, governmental and law firm libraries.
