

UPS To Pit Forces Against Oregon Foes Over Vacation

The UPS Loggers clash with the Linfield Wildcats and Lewis and Clark Pioneers at the Memorial Fieldhouse on December 18th and 19th respectively. These two home games will mark the last encounter UPS will have with the Oregon schools this season. In its dual action against these institutions last week in Oregon, the UPS forces were able to beat Lewis and Clark after losing to Linfield the night before.

The Linfield Wildcats lost just two seniors off a club that came close to beating the Loggers twice last season. The team is composed primarily of juniors and seniors this year.

The Lewis and Clark Pioneers appear to be about the same outfit that dropped two encounters to the Loggers last season 85-55 and 68-67 except for one big difference: Jim Boutin, the Pioneers super-scoring star graduated last June. If adequate replacements can be acquired for the departed Mr. Boutin the Pioneers could make trouble for everyone on their schedule this winter, as they proved by beating PLU last Friday night.

As of now I rate the Loggers to take both encounters. Even though the Wildcats beat UPS decisively at McMinnville, Oregon earlier this season. Look for the maroon and white tide to upset Linfield and roll past the Pioneers.

Loggers Break Even Against Oregon Schools Over Weekend

Linfield's fast-breaking Wildcats outscored the University of Puget Sound 117-95 last Friday night in a non-conference basketball game. It was Linfield's first victory over UPS in their last seven meetings.

Logger senior forward Mike Havnaer bucketed a 15-foot set shot to open the game but that was the only lead UPS held. The Wildcats quickly tied the score and went ahead, but the maroon and white tide came back to knot the count at 10 apiece.

The unbeaten Oregonians then took command and built a 53-42 halftime margin.

After UPS had moved to within five points, 71-66, midway through the second half, Linfield broke loose to sew up the verdict.

Linfield canned 48 of 79 shots in the game for an amazing 60.8 percentage while the Loggers connected on 42 of 81 attempts for a commendable 51.9 percentage. The teams also were successful at the free throw line as UPS sank 11 of 15 tries and Linfield 21 of 2.

Howard Nagle 5-10 junior, led all scorers with 26 points. The Logger Ace scored on 10 of 13 field tries, mostly long set shots or short hooks from either side of the basket.

Sophomore Gary Birchler contributed 19 points as he hit on nine of 16 field attempts and did miss one free throw.

The maroon and white tide of UPS swept past Lewis and Clark College 71-58 last Saturday night in an upset non-conference basketball victory.

The victory is mostly due to Gary Birchler's great second half performance. The 6 foot 5 sophomore center from Tacoma's Wilson High School scored 18 points in the contest, 14 of them in the second session as the Loggers rallied from a one point halftime deficit.

Puget Sound broke to an early eight-point lead as Nagle and Post racked up points for the Loggers. But with only two minutes left in the half, Lewis and Clark Pioneers began scoring with out giving up points. Led by Dan Acker the Pioneers were able to capture the half-time honors by leading 31-30 at intermission.

As the second half began Birchler scored on a turnaround 20 foot jumper to give UPS a 32-31 lead. The Loggers never trailed from that point on.

The Loggers shot at a 40.3 per cent clip and the Oregonians were held to a 26.8 percentage mark. The visitors had a slight edge in rebounds, 44-40, with Birchler pulling down 14 to take game honors in that department. The Logger pivot connected on eight of 14 field attempts.

The win was the fourth in a row for UPS over the Pioneers and chopped off a three game losing streak this season, giving the Loggers a 2-4 mark.

Fast action and low scoring prevailed when UPS met PLU last week. The final score: 54 to 52 in favor of the Lutes.

More Jews in College

(CPS) — Nearly 80 per cent of American Jews of college age are enrolled in schools of higher education in the United States, according to the 1964 American Jewish Year Book.

This figure is about three times higher than the over-all national average of 27 per cent enrollment of eligible students throughout the country.

The statistics on college attendance appear in an article, "Jewish College Students in the United States," by Alfred Jospe, director of programs and resources of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation.
