May Day Festivities Set For Saturday

'Melody In May' Dance Will Climax Celebration

"Melody in May," the queen and her court, and Pete Weaver's Virginians will join to set the tempo for the 1952 May Dance to be held in the College gymnasium Saturday, May 3 at 8 p. m.

The dance will center above the theme "Melody in May" which is to be carried out in decorations, music, and the figure by the May Court Pink, aqua, white and lavender will be the colors used to decorate. The ceiling will resemble a Maypole and the walls will be hung with streamers and sheets of music picturing the words and music of May Day songs. Figures dressed in May Day costumes complete the decorations.

Featured event of this, the last formal dance of the college session, will be the figure performed by the May Queen and her court of college beauties. The figure will carry out the dance theme, but the exact nature of it will not be revealed until that night.

Pete Weaver and his Virginians, from Emporia, will provide the music for the evening. They are expected to play songs with a spring theme to help set the mood for the dance. The Virginians have played for several other Longwood dances.

Members of the faculty and administration who have been invited to chaperone the dance are Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Coyner, Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Landrum, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Brumfield.

Tickets for the dance, priced at $1.20 stag and $2.40 drag, may be purchased after dinner at the table across from Dean Savage's old office or from any member of Orchesis.

The May Day Dance is sponsored annually by Orchesis, the college modern dance group. Advisor to the group is Mrs. Emily K. Landrum, professor of physical education.

Science Students Make Field Trips

During the past week, students from both the biology and geography departments made all day field trips to out of town places that are of special interest to their particular types of study.

On Friday, April 25, accompanied by Dr. Robert Brumfield, associate professor of biology, the members of Longwood's biology seminar journeyed to Gloucester Point to the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory.

The trip was made to observe the laboratory, methods of conservation, and various types of marine life. Dr. L. J. McHugh, director and secretary of the laboratory, met the group and pointed out the necessity of the bureau and the work it is doing.

Longwood students making the trip were Marian Beckner, Lou Jamison, Mary Meade Robertson, and Jackie Lackey.

On Thursday, April 24, the geology class under the leadership of Dr. Charles Lane, head of the geography department, also went on an all day field trip covering about 250 miles through the Piedmont, Blue Ridge, and Ridge and Valley regions.

The different classes of rocks were studied in each region, and the ages of the rocks were also observed.

A highlight of the trip was a conducted tour through the Calco Chemical Division of the College President Attends Meeting Held At Richmond

Dr. Lancaster Talks On Education Phase

This past week end, Dr. Dabney S. Lancaster attended a meeting of the Virginia Social Science Association at the University of Richmond.

"The morning session was devoted to the present political situation, led by the managing editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, Mr. Colbourne," remarked Dr. Lancaster. Mr. Colbourne attended the President's recent press conference and will represent the Richmond papers at both political conventions this year.

On Saturday afternoon, a panel discussion was held dealing with Federal and state responsibilities in the fields of education, public welfare, public health, and economics and business.

Dr. Lancaster talked on the educational phase of the discussion; Dr. W. C. Sanger of Randolph-Macon, on public health; Senator Charles Fenwick of Arlington, on public welfare; and Dr. W. H. Stauffer, Research Director of the State Chamber of Commerce, on economics and business.

Dr. Edward Gregory, President of the Association, and a professor of Sociology at the University of Richmond, spoke at the evening meeting. Colonel Herbert Fitzroy, Director of the Richmond University Center, also delivered a message at that time.

Attending the meeting with Dr. Lancaster were Dr. C. G. G. Moss, Dr. Francis B. Simpkins, and Dr. M. W. Schlegel.

On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of this week, Dr. Lancaster will represent the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education at a conference called by the Federal Office of Education for the Preparation of Teachers for the Elementary Schools in Washington.

Jones Reveals Names Of Committee Heads

Ann Jones, incoming president of Y. W. C. A., has announced the new committee heads. The girls who will have charge of the various committees are Ann Carter Wendenburg, Helen Barrow, Nell Cake, Joyce Cutrell, and Nancy Nelson as chairman of Membership, Social Service, Library, and Sing committees respectively.

Also, Bobbie Assaid, Ann Crowder, Carolyn Stanley, Dolly Horne, and Fay Greenland will head Public Affairs, Church Co-operative, Publicity, Music, and Prayers committee respectively.

JEAN RIDENOUR, who will serve as maid-of-honor to the 1952 queen.

FRANCES TURNER, who will reign as queen of the 1952 May Day festivities.

College President Selects Ridenour Festival Princess

Jean Ridenour, a senior from Richmond, has been selected by Dr. Dabney S. Lancaster to represent Longwood College as princess at the twenty-fifth Annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival to be held on May 1 and 2 at Winchester.

She will serve along with 35 other princesses from Virginia and surrounding states as attendants to the queen, Nina Warren, daughter of Gov. Earl Warren of California. Among the activities planned for the two days will be a tour of the apple orchards, formal luncheons and dinners, parades, Princesses' Ball, Queen's Ball and the Coronation and Pageant.

Jean is president of Alpha Kappa Gamma, vice-president of the senior class, figure leader of Cotillion Club, and a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority. Also, she is on the A. A. Council, in Who's Who, and active in varsity sports.

Dr. Wynn Publishes 'General Education,' New Book On Theory

A new book on the theory and practice of general education by Dr. John P. Wynn, professor of education and philosophy at Longwood College, has just been released by Bookman Associates, New York publishers.

In "General Education," Dr. Wynn analyzes the aims, techniques, tools, and pitfalls of this new educational concept. He delineates the roles that administrators, faculty members, and students must play in the construction of a total program of general education. It is his aim, states the Longwood philosopher, "to assist in the systematic, critical analysis of the idea of general education."

Dr. Wynn wrote "General Education" for use as a textbook, as a reference work, or as general reading on the subject. His accomplishment in his latest work has been called "a landmark in the development of education in the twentieth century" by Dr. E. George Payne, vice-president of New York University.

College Gets Applications For 1952-'53

One hundred sixty students have applied for admission to enter Longwood next fall according to Mrs. Mary Watkins, executive secretary.

These applications have come from West Virginia, North Carolina, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania and 55 Virginia counties. The largest number of applicants come from the Roanoke, Richmond, and Norfolk areas and Mecklenburg County.

Applications have also come from west of Roanoke, Montgomery, Pulaski, Wythe, Tazewell, and Wise counties. However, the majority of applicants were sent in by students in Eastern sections of the state. To date there are 45 counties from which no applications have been received. Of these Botetourt, Bedford, Buchanan, Fluvanna, Louisa, and Greensville are installing the 12 year school system this year and will not have any graduates. Longwood normally receives several applications from these six counties.

According to Mrs. Watkins, the 160 applications are a normal number for this time of year. At this time the number of students is very tentative and many changes will be made before September.

Association Selects Longwood Professor President Of Group

Dr. Charles Lane, head of the Longwood geography department, was elected president of the Virginia Geographical Society at the fifth annual meeting of the group held at Longwood, on April 19.

Peter T. Sardo, assistant professor of geography, was named counsellor. Other officers were also elected. C. W. Crittenden of the department of geography at the University of Virginia was chosen vice-president, Miss Rosalind Carter of John Marshall High School in Richmond was elected secretary.

Dr. Lane has been a member of the Longwood faculty for two years. Before taking up his duties here, he was assistant professor of geography and geology for three years at the University of Georgia.

Students Will Present 'Scandinavian Festival'

With the traditional folk songs and dances of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland, "Scandinavian Festival" will be the theme of the 1952 May Day celebration at Longwood. 215 students will present this first all folk festival in the Longwood Estate amphitheater at 2:30 p. m., on Saturday.

Frances Turner, from Cheriton, will be crowned Queen of May Day. Reigning over the festivities with her will be Jean Ridenour, Maid of Honor, from Richmond. They, with a court of class beauties, will be presented at the pageant Saturday.

LC Art Students To Display Works In Annual Exhibit

Display Opens May 5 In Art Dept.

The annual student art exhibit will go on display in the art department and the browsing room of the library on Monday, May 5, and will continue through May 9. This annual exhibit is representative of the types of art work completed by the students in the department during the year and includes a variety of mediums and subject matter.

Outstanding in the exhibit is the work of 6 upperclassmen art majors. These are Margie Steele, Blanton Ferguson, Mary Jean Sandvig, Bunny Ricks, Mary Moore Karr, and Gene Moore.

The feature of the exhibit will be the oil paintings hung in the browsing room. Also featured will be a one man watercolor show by Margaret Perrow. This will be displayed in the entrance hall to the art department.

Works on exhibition will include examples of drawing, painting, design, color, oil painting, water color, crafts and art education.

The exhibits will be from all classes and will include work by both art majors and non-majors.

Work by five outstanding freshmen art majors will also be shown. Ann Carter Wendenburg, Mary Need, Carolyn Stanley, Patsey Waite, and Margaret Perrow are majors exhibiting for the first time.

According to Mrs. Janice Lemmen, assistant professor of art, Lucy Jane Morton, Harold Griffin, Elizabeth Forrets, Joan Prichard Mathews and Betty Jones have done outstanding work in oil painting.

Other students whose work will be represented in the art exhibit are Barbara Assaid, Janet Cline, and Mary Anne King. Beth Kent, Marlene Lucas, and Clair Davis will also contribute selections.

Underclassmen Elect New Class Officers

Election of officers for the 1952-'53 session have been completed.

The sophomore class elected Ann Moore, secretary, of next year's junior class with Joyce Cutrell as treasurer. Serving as Student Standards representatives will be Lib Boswell and Lou Kitts.

Nancy Franklin was chosen treasurer for next year's sophomore class. Barbara Assaid and Shirley Ward will serve on Student Standards. Re-elected to act as class sponsor is Miss Nancy Chambers.

CORRECTION

The Rotunda staff wishes to correct an error made in the last issue. Faith Smith, a sophomore member of Theta Sigma Upsilon social sorority, will serve during the 1952-'53 session as president of the Pan-Hellenic Council.

Be Satisfied

Maytime and roses and room assignments—it is that time of year again, when Longwood's students can be seen scurrying back and forth between Ruffner, Tabb, and Cunningham Halls, deciding upon their room and floor preferences for next year. There is the familiar routine of filling out application blanks with all the required information and leaving them in the Dean's office. Suspense, mystery—will it be the room requested or the one on the end with the drab view of the back drive?

Every student wants her room to be near her best friend's; to be convenient to telephones, pressing rooms, kitchen, and stairs; to have sun in the morning, noon and afternoon; and to have all new furniture. Rooms and roommates are among the most important parts of college life, and every girl, naturally, wants hers to be perfect.

Sometimes, however, it must seem to those who make the room assignments that only one room in each dormitory fits these requirements and that the entire enrollment of each class desires to live on the same floor. By simple mathematics, one can see that it is impossible for six girls to live where two are supposed to fit. Thus, it is a particularly hard job that the Dean of Women and her assistant have in making room assignments. It requires diplomacy and tact to please every girl, and, usually, the majority of girls are satisfied. The method by which assignments are made is the one which is most satisfactory to all and more often than not everyone finds that she is well pleased with her room for the coming year.

Many colleges give their student bodies no choice at all as to where they will live. Students draw slips from a hat, are assigned alphabetically, or get their rooms in some other equally impersonal manner. Longwood students should realize how lucky they are to have so much voice in the question of where they will live.

It is a part of Longwood's good sportsmanship policy to understand and accept the decisions which the administration has made. We should appreciate the fact that assigning rooms is a long and complicated task and should show our appreciation by being satisfied with the assignments we receive.

Farewell

In the few days that Dean Savage has been away from Longwood, the student body has keenly felt his absence. They have missed his friendly word of greeting in the hall, his understanding word of advice, his quiet work "behind the scenes." Indeed it is hard to believe that the person who had become such an indispensable part of Longwood has actually left for good.

Last Wednesday night the student body joined in giving the Savages a farewell serenade. As they stood in front of the familiar white house on Pine Street, many were suddenly struck with the realization that the man who had been their Dean through the whole of their college career was leaving Longwood. No longer would he be on hand to approve their schedules, to advise them on their problems or to perform all the multitude of little jobs that a Dean has on his shoulders. Yes, the man who had served as a member of the administration for five years was leaving to assume a new position.

Longwood has profited much by Dean Savage's stay. While here, he instigated many needed changes and improvements. It is hoped that the administration will continue to follow the practices which he initiated. Among other things, Dean Savage was influential in the change to spring registration for classes and in the doing away with the professor's signature on absence slips.

Besides helping along administrative lines, Dean Savage was also a personal aid to many students. More than one bewildered girl turned to the Dean as one person who could be depended on for good sound advice.

Though there were pangs of regret and sorrow in the hearts of the student body last Friday, when in midst of an April downpour, the Savages and their furniture left Farmville for Chicago, most Longwood students realized that their friend was leaving to assume the position of co-ordinator of the program consultant services of the Midwest Administration Center at the University of Chicago. This is a promotion for Dean Savage and Longwood's best wishes for success go with him.

Thus the students of Longwood join in saying thank you, Dean Savage, for your invaluable service during the past five years and the best of luck to you in the future.

Spectra-Scopic Views

The human mind is a wonderful thing. There is no point in making an issue of the superiority of the human mind over the other animal minds, or of the superiority of some minds over others, since by this time every college student is well aware or he isn't capable of awareness. Some people are today criticizing their contemporaries for not using their intellect to full capacity, and maybe this is just criticism, although there have been individuals who have made this stab at mankind for generations. Evidently there is some gram of truth in this.

The art of concentration seems sadly lacking in our college today. Many students study while listening to a conversation. Sure, he can say he went over the lesson, but it did seem vague. Well, why not? He probably knows more about the conversation than text materials.

This whole topic is really aimed at the end-of-the-term rush to finish up term papers, parallel, reading, text reading, and any left-over projects. There is a difference between running through this work and acquiring a vague idea of the subject matter, and of concentrating and deriving some knowledge from it. Why go to college if you don't want to learn? There are certainly less regimented ways of passing four years. With only five more weeks of the semester remaining, why not make them productive and of personal value?

Social Notes

by Carolyn Stanley

With the big May Day week end on its way, cabin parties galore and a host of other things to keep them busy (not to mention the big dance down yonder a piece) the Longwood gals, for the most part, stayed pretty close to home. never a dull moment though!

Hampden-Sydney

Our own "other half" staged their final dances this past week end and everyone seemed to agree that they were tops! As per usual the Longwood girls were well represented (and chaperones, too!) at the gala occasion! Among those that attended were Pat Altwegg, Sadie Bain, Dot Baldwin, Betty Bentley, Barbara Blackman, Sis Burton, Judy Cable, Mary Cowles, Ellen Brent Dize, Martha Donaldson, and Blanton Ferguson.

Also there and looking their best were Betty Lou Garrett, Jeanne Hobbs, Peggy Ilyus, Joyce Karlett, Beth Kent, Pat Lee, Louise Lloyd, June Manlove, M. Katherine Miller, Harriet Minichan, Ann Murphy, Betty Ann Myers, Nancy Norfleet, Stokes Overbey, Ann Ross, Jean Southern, and Betty Jane Staples.

Others that attended were Pat Taylor, Mattie Thomas, Martha

Tomlinson, Ruthie Van Houten, Carolyn Vanture, Ann Carter Wendenburg, (pause for breath) Phoebe Warner, Donna Kunkler, Jo Ann Yow, Joyce Hunt, Mary Ann King, Patsy Lynch, Liz Crockett, and Moneda Key—whew! A Madison girl couldn't have gotten in, if she tried! Ho! ho!

V. M. I.

The Easter dances at V.M.I. were held this week end, too, and several girls attended, among them, Mary Ann Breslin and Diane Murray.

Ann Bryan also attended the dances and while there she received a V.M.I. miniature from Swede Larson—mucho congrats, Ann!

University of Virginia

Visiting at U. Va. this week end were Betty Bazemore and Fan Phillips.

V.P.I.

Mary Brame and Betty Barnes visited their cadets at Tech this past week end.

Engaged

Dawn Estridge received a diamond from Jimmie Stout this past week end and wedding bells will be ringing soon I hear! Best of luck to you, Duffy!

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

(Seniors in last week's spotlight were "Cookie" Cook and Mary Crawford.)

"Five foot two, eyes of blue," describes this mystery senior who is appearing in the spotlight.

This busy girl is probably best known for her work as editor of the Colonnade.

At present she is looking forward to what is to be her most exciting moment—getting married. Her roommate declares that this Miss talks in her sleep of bridesmaids and how many more days until June 14.

This secret lass is an English major and is now experiencing true excitement in her student teaching. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma, Kappa Delta Pi, Boerc Eh Thorn, and Longwood Players. Miss G was chosen to be in Who's Who among seniors and was vice-president of Zeta Tau Alpha, social sorority.

If you're still in a daze maybe things will be clearer when I tell you she has a special interest in a student at Washington and Lee. As of late this senior has taken up tumbling and has become quite a sport.

Long, lean, and lanky, with big feet, and a red raincoat, is the young lady who has been chosen as one of the outstanding members of the senior class.

During her four years at Longwood, this secret Miss has become noted for her wide variety of interests and capabilities. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Delta Epsilon, Future Teachers of America, Kappa Delta, and the college choir. She was also chosen to be in Who's Who and Alpha Kappa Gamma leadership fraternity. This outstanding senior reigned as queen of Circus and was recently revealed as a member of Chi. She is president of the Spanish Club.

For those of you who need still more hints to her identity, she hails from Lexington, Virginia, and is known throughout school for the way she sings the song, "A Good Man Is Hard To Find." This gal also likes camping, and I imagine she's the life of any camping party she attends.

Idiotic Interview

by Barbara Caskey

Rain, rain, go away!
Little Sally wants to play.
How can Sally sit in the sand,
If the rain has come and not the man?

Mr. Mackintosh was going to speak to us today, but he has gone hunting because it's fowl weather. We would like to give you a public service feature, however—the weather report.

Havana, Cuba: a Cuba ice moved on Havana last night.

Moscow, USSR: Something has very definitely gone wrong.

London, England: The weather has been kind to our fair city. The fog has lifted, and as I walk out of my door (slam, crash, ouch!), window, I can see the leaning tower of Pisa.

Rome, Italy: It is rather rainy here. We just lost the isle of Sicily.

Hollywood, U.S.A.: At their present personal appearance, the City "Slickers" are enjoying much popularity — playing "Drip, Drip, Drip, Sloppy Lagoon."

Haiti: We Haiti weather.

Bull Moose, Jacksonville: The favorite song here is "Drinking Muddy Water."

Quebec: Contradictory; Canada Dry, Sparkling Water.

Farmville, Virginia: The town is washing away. All the students at the college are fighting for the flood-free third floor dormitory rooms.

Mexico City, Mexico: Cold today, but Hot Tomale!

Learn anything?

I've been asked to announce that the dining room will serve Hungarian Goulashes tomorrow evening.

Now wouldn't you know it would stop raining just when I thought I was giving you a scoop!

That nasty rain
It went away
So I'm left with an inch
And nothing to say.

Campus Cogitations

by Naomi Reed

Now that summer vacation is only a month away, to what do you look forward most?

Mary Jane Tyus: "Loafing."
Carolyn Van Ture: "Going to the beach and playing."

Barbara Allen: "Rest."

Ellen Sinton: "Work and play as usual."

Julia Rowe: "Sleeping."

Joan Curles: "I'm looking forward to the first week end when school's out and the parties at the beach."

Barbara Mitchell: "Summer school."

Mary Lou Burnette: "Home cooking and plenty of sleep."

Margie Smallwood: "Beach parties and slot machines."

Barbara Hough: "Same as Margie."

Dot Baldwin: "Relaxation."

Pat Bodkins: "Raymond."

Mason Moore: "I ain't looking forward to nothing."

Anne Parsons: "Just Willie."

Betty Goodson: "The joy of summer school."

Eugenia Korahaes: "Fun at the beach."

Gaynelle Edwards: "Being able to ride to the movies instead of walking."

Hazel Hartis: "I'm looking forward to living; instead of just existing."

Nancy Taylor: "Lazy living."
Jeanne Lynch Hobbs: "Masses of men."

"Skee" Gillikin: "To a summer time job and going to Illinois."

Matilda Creasy: "Summer school."

Hilda Brown: "Sleep and food."

Jean Partridge: "Getting out of school for three months."

Betty Tuck: "Working on the farm and painting."

Dot Boswick: "Eight very hot, very boring, and very uneventful weeks at Longwood College."

Celeste Bishop: "Just make up something and write it down."

Betty Jo Jennings: "Not quotable."

Crowder and Wiatt Announce Dates For Intercollegiate Swimming Meet And Annual Color-Cup Competition

Two swimming meets have been scheduled to take place in the Longwood pool during next week, according to Ann Crowder and Roberta Wiatt, new swimming managers.

On Monday, May 5, Longwood will take part in a Virginia Intercollegiate telegraphic swimming meet. Ann explained that in a telegraphic meet each college swims in its own pool and wires the results to the sponsoring school.

The annual swimming competition between the Red and White and Green and White classes will be held on Wednesday, May 7. This year many unusual events are being featured. The events include a 10 yard kicking race, a 25 yard free style, a 20 yard side stroke, a 50 yard back stroke, a 10 underwater race, and a 50 yard breast stroke.

Other events are the 20 yard free relay, a 100 yard free style, a 15 yard individual medley, a 150 yard medley relay, and a 25 yard pajama race.

Thus far more Red and Whites than Green and Whites have signed up.

Swimmers are urged to come out and support their colors. The variety of events should provide a chance for everyone from the beginner to the senior life saver.

LIBRARY WILL DISPLAY ORIGINAL ILLUSTRATIONS

An exhibition of original children's book illustrations will be on display in the Browsing and Periodical Rooms of the college library on May 14.

Barlow Announces Softball Date Set

Mary Lou Barlow, newly installed softball manager, has announced that dates for the softball tournament have been tentatively set as May 5, 6, and 7.

To be eligible to play in the tournament, the students are required to have the usual eight practices. Mary Lou added that freshmen who are now playing softball in Miss Brockenbrough's and Miss Iler's gym classes need only four practices.

Tournaments in all sports must be played off by May 15.

Alpha Kappa Gamma Honors Miss Burger With Recognition Pin

The National Organization and local officers of Alpha Kappa Gamma presented Miss Elizabeth Burger, associate professor of Science, with a jeweled pin. The pin was given in recognition of her eight years' outstanding services as national executive secretary.

Miss Burger, has been a member of Alpha Kappa Gamma since she was initiated into the Joan Circle while a student at Longwood College. Although she has recently resigned her national office, she will remain closely affiliated with AKG as advisor for the local chapter.

"Miss Burger has been so keenly interested in AKG that she has practically made it her life's work," was the tribute made to her by Jean Ridenour, president of the Joan Circle. The presentation of the pin was made at a recent meeting of the Longwood chapter at which time those girls who were tapped at the last Alpha Kappa Gamma chapel program were initiated into the organization.

Dr. Simonini Writes Essay

Dr. R. C. Simonini, Jr., professor of English at Longwood College, has contributed an essay to a volume of Renaissance Studies just published by the University of North Carolina. In his study of "The Italian Pedagogy of Claudius Hollyband," Dr. Simonini analyzes and evaluates the work of Claudius Hollyband, a refugee teacher and scholar living in Elizabethan England.

Dr. Simonini studies particularly the innovations in both method and materials of Hollyband in the development of early language teaching techniques. Hollyband, concludes the Longwood professor, was one of the first writers to emphasize an early reading facility of a foreign language rather than becoming entangled in rules of grammar at the outset.

LC Radio Shows Change Air Time

As a result of time changes, "News and Views," a weekly program presented by Longwood, is now heard every Monday at 5 p. m. instead of 3 p. m. Jeanne Lynch Hobbs is student reporter for the program.

Also the Longwood Hour is now heard at 5:15 p. m. on Thursdays instead of 4:30 p. m. Jeanne acts as announcer for the broadcast. These time changes are a result of the opening of the baseball season.

Tomorrow, the Longwood Hour will feature a fifteen-minute sketch on the lives of the famous Bronte sisters to be given by the speech class under the direction of Dr. C. L. S. Earley, head of the speech class. Ann Thaxton will read the part of Charlotte Bronte who narrates the story.

Through tentative arrangements, the program on May 8 and May 16 will be the great tragedy, Medea.
