Men Choose Bradshaw To Presidency of SGA, Peace, Vice-Presidency

Robinson, Parks Fill Other Posts

Bob Bradshaw, Longwood College junior, and John Peace, Longwood College freshman, were elected to serve as president and vice-president, respectively, of the Men's Student Government Association for the 1951-52 session as a result of elections held last Thursday and Friday. Eric Robinson, freshman from Cumberland, and Edward Parks, junior from Farmville, were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Bob Bradshaw, Men's Student Government president for the coming year, attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute before coming to Longwood. He was graduated from Farmville High School, where he was a member of the monogram club and the athletic association. A member of the junior class at Longwood, he is also a member of the basketball team and of Tau Theta Pi fraternity.

Vice-President

John Peace, vice-president for the association for the 1951-52 session, is a graduate of Farmville High School. Vice-president of his senior class and treasurer of his junior class, John was a representative to Boys' State in 1949. He is a freshman at Longwood and is also treasurer of Tau Theta Pi for the coming year.

Eric Robinson, newly elected secretary for the Men's Student Government, attended Cumberland High School. There he was president of his sophomore class, president of the student government, and president of both the local and state organizations of the Future Farmers of America. A freshman at Longwood, Eric served as treasurer of the Men's Athletic Association for the past year.

Ed Parks, Men's Student Government treasurer for next year, is a graduate of Tangier High School, Tangier, Va. There he was a member of the student council and of the athletic association. A junior at Longwood, Edward served as chairman of the Men's Athletic Association last year.

Old Members Present Rules To Cotillion Club Aspirants

Cotillion Club "Goating" will be held on Thursday, April 26, from 6 a. m. to 5:15 p. m., according to a recent announcement by Peg Peery, head of "Goating" for this year. Nearly 100 new members of the Cotillion Club will be initiated at this time.

Goat court will be held the same night from 10 to 11 p. m. in the small auditorium, with all goats present dressed in green and yellow, the club colors.

Cotillion members have compiled the following rules which will be imposed on all goats on the day of initiation.

1. Goats must address Cotillion Club members as "Miss" and must know the last names of all members.
2. Goats must attend all meals in the dining hall and must not go to the post office until 5:15 p. m.
3. Goats must convene in front

Officers Elected By Upperclassmen For Coming Year

Harris, Harvie To Head Classes

Peggy Harris from Emporia was chosen by the juniors to serve as president of next year's senior class. Peggy was elected at the monthly meeting of the junior class held Tuesday, April 10.

Vice-president of the senior class will be Jean Ridenour from Richmond. Anne Oakley, from Danville, will serve as secretary, and Rebecca Mann, from Cyress Chapel, will act as treasurer. Maria Jackson, from Lexington, was reelected to serve as house president.

Government representatives of the senior class will be Anne Mitchell Motley, from Sharps and Shirley Livesay from Emporia. Maxine Watts from Lexington and Dorothy Gregory from Skipwith will be the student standards representatives.

Sophomores Elect

The sophomore class also held their elections for next year's officers on April 10. Sarah McElroy Harvie, from Richmond, was reelected by the sophomores to head next year's junior class.

Joanne Steck from Fredricksburg was chosen to serve as vice-president. Secretary of the junior class will be Anne Jones from Christiansburg, and Barbara White from Roanoke will act as treasurer. Judy Cox from Christiansburg, was reelected as house president.

of the library before and after lunch.

4. Goats must carry cigarettes and matches for old members. They must carry their books in a pillow case decorated with green and yellow streamers.

5. Goats must also carry one all day sucker for their favorite Cotillion Club member.

6. Goats must have their appointments clearly printed on 8½X11 inch paper. Appointments may be as often as 20 minutes apart.

7. Goats must wave and give a friendly "hello" when they pass Joan of Arc.

8. Goats must wear a sign on their back with their name and home address on it and the name and full address of the person they are portraying is to be worn on the front.

9. Goats must impersonate in dress and manner a senior Cotillion Club member. They must

Cotillion Features Thornhill

'Dance of the Violets' Will Highlight Decoration, Figure of Annual Dance

"Dance of the Violets" has been announced as the theme of the annual Cotillion Club dance being held in the College gymnasium Saturday, April 21, from 8 to 12 p. m.

Claude Thornhill, his orchestra and his piano, will set the tempo for the evening's entertainment. His band features the "Snowflakes" and Christy Conner, vocalist. Decorations for the dance will carry out the theme in both colors and figures used.

Claude Thornhill, whose orchestra and featured vocalists will set the tempo for the Cotillion Club Dance. The festivities will be held in the College gymnasium Saturday, April 21.

Mosque Fete Includes 18 LC Dancers

The stage of the Richmond Mosque will be the scene of the southern district convention of the Southern Music Educator's Association Friday, Apr. 20, when 18 modern dance students from Longwood will give their interpretation of an episode from "History Sings", a historical pageant based on Virginia's musical history.

Edith Duma, a senior from Portsmouth, will dance the part of the colonial dancing master, a teacher of motion, manners, morals and music. She will lead her charges, children from several plantations, in a lesson typical of the days during the period 1810 to 1840.

Dancers Named

Marian Beckner, Ann Boswell, Ann Crowder, Peggy Harris, Marian Higgs, Margie Hood, Donna Kunkler, and Erma Poarch, dressed in white tights and blue jackets, will be cast as boys for the performance.

Dancing the parts of girls will be Nan Bland, Helen Egerton, Margie Hall, Bobbie Pollard, Conway Rice, Jean Ridenour, Pat Tuggle, and Charlotte Williams, dressed in costumes of pastel organdies.

The Longwood group, which is under the direction of Mrs. Emily K. Landrum, associate professor of physical education, will appear second on the festival program in the episode entitled "Plantation Life" with Lou Beavers as accompanist.

Performance Previewed

As the curtain rises, the children stand grouped in two's until the teacher of motion and manners enters. They stand at attention, eager to begin the lesson which will consist of the six radical motions, the change, the slide, the step, the leap, the hop, and the halt, which in plantation days, precluded all steps in dance.

The group is guided through the precise and stately motions of the Boccherini Minuet which, though highly stylized for the occasion, still retains the authenticity of that period in Virginia's dance history. A Waltz Quadrille, consisting of three figures, makes up the third part of the episode. The observer is reminded of how great, great, great grandmother must have appeared when the young of her day clamored for "une valse."

Longwood's part in the festival will be climaxed by the Virginia Reel, to be performed as a stylized theater piece of the Sir Roger de Coverley original.

Marian Beckner, president of Orchestras, speaking for the group, stated that the episode "is utterly

LC Students Will Register U S Army Film

Students planning to return for the 1951-52 session will register for first semester classes during the period from Monday, May 7, through Friday, May 11, according to an announcement just released by Dean William W. Savage. Those who fail to complete their registration during this period will be required to register next fall. They will find it necessary to return earlier than those who complete their registration during the period of May 7-11.

All students should confer as quickly as possible with the heads of the departments in which they are majoring and make plans for the courses in which they will enroll for the 1951-52 session. Dean Savage has called attention to the fact that this is essential in the case of freshmen and sophomores who must be approved by these heads before they may major in the subject or field of their choice.

As in the past, members of the faculty will post notices on their office doors indicating the hours

New Late Light Law Effected By Council

According to a recent House Council amendment, new late light rulings will go into effect immediately. These changes have to do with the Saturday night laws only.

The new rules state there will be unlimited lights in the junior and senior buildings, 2 o'clock lights in the sophomore building and 1 o'clock lights in the freshman building.

The laws were passed by the administration and House Council only on the condition that the new rules would be enforced more rigidly, with call downs given for all unnecessary noise after the designated hours. They were passed also on the condition that there would be a trial period, to run for at least a month and possibly until the end of the present semester.

Terrifying atrocities in Nazi concentration camps of World War II, long hidden behind the censorship of the United States Army Intelligence, are revealed in one of the United States Armed Forces films to be brought to Longwood College Thursday and Friday.

The two-hour film, including D-Day, the European Theater of Operations, and the Battle of Okinawa, was photographed in actual combat by United States Army and Air Force newsmen and cameramen and is narrated in sound by behind-the-scene observers.

Dr. Gibson To Speak In Thursday Chapel

Dr. Churchill Gibson, rector of St. James Episcopal Church in Richmond, will speak to the student body in assembly Thursday, April 19.

Dr. Gibson is a native of Richmond, son of the late Robert Gibson, former Richmond Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia and the Virginia Episcopal Seminary in Alexandria. He received his Doctor of Divinity degree from Washington and Lee University.

The speaker was rector of the Robert E. Lee Memorial Church in Lexington for about ten years. He accepted a call in Philadelphia and then returned to Richmond where he has been for about twenty-five years.

Charlotte Williams, the figure leader of the Cotillion Club, will be escorted by David Martin. Jeanne Farmer, president of the Club, will lead with Charlie Agee, and Mildred Evans will lead with Bob Ingram. Jill Pifer will take part in the figure with Frank Blanton.

Receiving Line

Jeanne Farmer will head the receiving line which will form at 3 p. m. in the Student Lounge. Following Jeanne will be Mildred Evans, Jill Pifer, Charlotte Williams, Dr. and Mrs. Dabney S. Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Coyner, Dean and Mrs. William W. Savage.

Members of the faculty and administration who have been invited to the dance as chaperones are Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Coyner, Dr. and Mrs. Lancaster, Dean and Mrs. Savage, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Brumfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Ebersole.

Claude Thornhill's orchestra, selected by the Club for this year's dance, has been acclaimed among the most original of modern dance bands. He is known for his distinct piano stylings and unique orchestrations. The orchestra was picked as the band to watch in 1951. Releases from the Press Relations Department of the Music Corporation of America state that Mr. Thornhill's training at both the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the Curtis Institute of Music are prime factors in making the band what it is today . . . something new on the musical horizon.

Cotillion "Goats" will decorate for the dance, carrying out the selected theme. They will also clean the gymnasium after the dance.

Kappa Delta Obtains Highest Grade Rating For Fall Semester

The local chapter of Kappa Delta scholastically led the other seven social sororities with an average of 1.97 for the fall session 1950-51, according to a recent announcement made by Miss Vera Baron, adviser to the Pan-Hellenic Council.

Zeta Tau Alpha placed second in the scholarship race with an average of 1.93. Alpha Sigma Tau followed with an average of 1.85 and Sigma Sigma Sigma had an average of 1.82.

Alpha Sigma Alpha made a scholastic average of 1.77 for the semester, and Theta Sigma Upsilon had a 1.68 average. Pi Kappa Sigma followed with a standing of 1.66 and Delta Sigma Epsilon with an average of 1.41.

The sorority which attains the highest scholastic average for a year is annually presented with a scholarship plaque by the Pan-Hellenic Council. It is awarded in the fall to the sorority with the highest standing for the entire preceding year.

Scholarship averages are computed on a basis of three which is considered the equivalent of an "A" grade average.

The fall semester average for the entire student body was 1.53, according to Miss Virgilia Bugg, registrar.

We Want More . . .

The students of Longwood received an unexpected and VERY pleasant surprise this past Thursday in the form of an assembly speaker. The majority of us walked from what has so often been termed "boring" chapel, discussing earnestly the topic of speech that had been presented.

Those who did not discuss the speech evidenced their satisfaction by remarking that the assembly speaker was one of the best. And if there were those who did not mention their feeling orally, it seems that they showed how they felt by the enthusiastic applause at the end of the program. Regardless of the manner in which we told how we felt, it was plainly evident that the students heartily approved of the last Longwood assembly.

Orchids are due the administration who can bring to a college campus, a speaker who can find in almost every student of a body as large as this, a bit of interest; one who makes us forget to study, dream, or attempt an hour's nap. But we have a question: Are there only enough men and women in the United States to provide no more than two or three really interesting speakers a year?

We want more of what we tasted Thursday. Our appetites have been whetted by what we consider a delicacy, and we're eager that it become at least a weekly serving. The students have been told that it is important to them to attend a cultural program for their own good, and in turn the students ask how much good a cultural program can do if the speaker cannot put over his point.

We, the students of Longwood, thank those responsible for surprising us so pleasantly and ask that they do it again and again.

Investigate . . .

Another year is almost gone. It is impossible to say just where it has flown to, but nevertheless, we must admit that it has gone by. For many of us it has been a scholastically successful year; for others, it has not been quite so good. And for everyone, excluding the rarity, an all "A" student, it might have been better.

As we think back on the year's work, it would be profitable, too, to consider not only the grades made on courses, but also just how much we have gotten out of these courses—just how well we seem to fit in the curriculum of our choice. Freshmen, especially, should be doing this sort of evaluating, in preparation for making their choice of subjects for next year.

And that is just what every freshman, sophomore, and junior will be doing less than two weeks from now, signing up for the classes they will take next year.

How many of us have been to our faculty advisers to talk over plans for next year? How many of us realize that there have been drastic curriculum changes made during the past year, and several requirements for graduation have been changed recently. Of course, many will say that their curriculum plans have been made since their freshman year, all the way through. But they will be sadly surprised and utterly dismayed when, a month or so before that date in June some years in the future, when they had planned to graduate, these plans are suddenly changed because of a few hours lacking in some place.

We are intelligent college people. But even the most intelligent people make mistakes, and it is usually so much easier to correct mistakes early in the game, than to wait until they have had some permanent harmful effect. The really intelligent Longwood students, whether they be freshman, sophomores, or juniors, will be making an appointment to talk with their faculty adviser, the head of the department in which they are majoring, and in many cases, Dean Savage, in an effort to make their college work more worthwhile in personal satisfaction, and in hours of work toward that all cherished prize, a Bachelor's Degree.

Regarding

A MAN OF ACTION

General Douglas MacArthur

From the beginning it seemed that Douglas MacArthur was slated for a military career. After early schooling in a military academy, he went to West Point where he showed brilliant military promise. During his four years at the Academy he starred in sports and, by his fourth year he held the highest student military rank, captain. He also held a four year scholastic average of 98.14 per cent and graduated in 1903, Number One honor man of his class. He was to return later as West Point's Superintendent.

It also seemed that he was slated to spend much of his career in the Philippines. After graduation, MacArthur was commissioned second lieutenant in the Engineers and sent to the Philippines. But, by no means was he to stay in one position for long.

1914 found MacArthur a captain in the Vera Cruz expedition in Mexico. Then there was World War I, in which he entered as a 37-year-old major and emerged a brigadier general. During the campaigns in Europe, MacArthur caused a sensation when he insisted on fighting with his men. He was twice wounded and gassed.

In 1935, at the request of President Queron, MacArthur returned to the Philippines to build the Philippine army. His "reputation" for attracting unfavorable criticism had already begun.

Then there was Pearl Harbor in 1941. MacArthur was made a four-star general, the first to be promoted in the second World War. On orders from the president he was removed from the Philippines and made Supreme Commander of all Allied forces in the Southwest Pacific. For the defense of Bataan he was awarded the Medal of Honor.

Army Chief of Staff, Field Marshall of the Philippine Republic, Commander-in-chief of the Southwest Pacific, Supreme Commander of the Allied Powers: And this is also the man who has not seen his own country for almost fourteen years. He has been too busy. The President visits him. It seems incredible that such a man can be forced into inactivity by the very men whom he has served with utter self-sacrifice and diligence.

Hello, Joe

Barbara White

Dear Comrades

Now that summer is rapidly approaching, the golf classes are beginning their long treks to the Longwood Estate. Why should young girls take golf? That is the game to give men who are too old to chase anything else a chance to chase balls. I know when I play I do not need clubs; what I need is a good compass. Once when I was playing with a friend we were neck in neck to the first hole, neck in neck to the second hole, and by the time we got to the eighteenth hole we were so tired from all that necking we never found out who won the game.

My psychology teacher who was raised on a farm, told me that time was when he could knock a turnip into a hungry hog's mouth from one hundred feet. I will not vouch for the truth of that and I doubt if he will either.

The student versus faculty basketball game will be coming up soon. What a great opportunity that will be for some failing or falling students. My interest in sports is only casual but how I would love to be in this game. No doubt, several scores will be settled.

This past week-end several girls went home to date some of their old flames. One was telling me all about dating an innocent baby-faced boy. She remarked that he had a Sunday morning face with Saturday night ideas. As Pope would say, this is something often thought, but never so well expressed.

As you have probably guessed, Comrades, little has happened this week, and I am just filling in with all of this corn. Here is a final joke. Stop me if you have heard it.

Once three deaf Englishmen were walking down the street when one of them pointed and said "Why look, there is my friend Wimsley." The second said in a surprised voice, "Oh, no it is not; today is Thursday." To which the third replied, "So am I. Let's go get something to drink."

Well, I told you to stop me if you had heard it!

Comrade White

Strolling With Stokes

by Stokes Overbey

Some time ago, this column, through one of the weekly questions, found that certain parts of the Rotunda went unread and unnoticed by many students. In hopes of remedying that situation, this week's question is: "What changes or improvements in the newspaper can you suggest?"

Pat Lee declared, "I think we should continue having articles on world affairs since it is part of our education as students to be conscious of prevailing world conditions." Helen Tanner suggested printing a summary of the developments in world affairs during each week. "This would bring busy college students up-to-date because they read the Rotunda when they often do not read daily newspapers," she added. Allie Beale and Mildred Blesing also recommended the addition of a summary of current events.

Several people expressed a desire to see more jokes printed. Among them were Mary Helen Cook, Juanita Hudson, and Harriet Gutterman. Maxine Patterson would like to see a column of jokes about people in school in place of "Hello Joe" which she feels is pointless. Jerry Korbach favored the addition of a comic strip depicting college life and Edith Goff said, "I would like to see a little section of jokes similar to those in the Va. 'Spectator' and V. M. I. 'Turn-out.'"

Another frequent criticism was the small number of pictures used. Louise Trinkle considered this the greatest fault of the newspaper. Termit Tyler and Edna Rodriguez both thought that some sports action pictures of Longwood girls would be interesting. Termit also wished to see more news about collegiate sports. (Editor's note: There are few qualified sports writers on the Rotunda staff due to lack of interest on the part of sports-minded members of the student body.) Clara Borum stated, "Jimmy Thompson's column should be about girls' sports instead of boys' because then girls would be more interested in it."

Madeleine Bigot declared, "The stories could be written in a peppier style. The newspaper strikes me as being more for information than for entertainment when the two purposes could be combined." Sarah Graham also wanted news stories written in a more sprightly style, and Lucy Page Hall asked for "more good features written by Steck, Caskey and Jonesy."

A large number of the students questioned had no criticism to make and seemed to share Maria Jackson's opinion: "It's a miracle that a paper so full of good news is turned out every week."

And then there was the person who suggested that more sarcastic letters from the faculty be printed for laughing material.

Better Weeds Than Nothing Admit Victory Gardeners

Barbara Caskey, Judy Cox and Ann Jones

Organizing: Speaking from experience, the first step in the organization and planting of a victory garden is to obtain from some place, five healthy, husky country girls, preferably ones who come from a long line of soil soldiers. This group may contain two types; three attractive, energetic girls and two chubby, lazy girls. The problem of laziness is being taken care of by the three energetic girls who make up the council. Secretly, the council has set aside a date in the early fall, at which time the two unattractive girls, Miss Partridge and Miss Steck, will can our year's harvest. We recommend, for the best possible results, three caretakers, a weeder, a hoer, and a raker.

Choosing a Site: A spot must be chosen away from the observation of the administration, faculty, Student Government, House Council, Athletic Association, Y. W.C.A. and Spanish Club. The land must be fertile, with good red mud, grainy soil, plenty of worms and other miscellaneous insects.

Digging: The next step involves the digging process. A steam shovel, ditch digger, bulldozer and trowel are employed in this capacity. The soil must be turned over at least a quarter of an inch to insure the root plants an easy, unobstructed passage into the interior of the earth's surface and to anchor the seeds to the ground. Then, we lightly drop a single seed into each of the holes made by a well-digger and pat the seeds into the ground with a sweeping, rhythmical motion.

Features - - Masterpieces; All Take Work, Work, Work For Poor Feature Writer

Jean Jinnett

Well, here it is Monday at 5 o'clock again, and time for me to sit down at my typewriter, get my nose to the grindstone, and pound out another of those colossal literary masterpieces called features.

Ah, me—I have approximately 45 minutes to work, and as per usual, I'm so well prepared! I haven't the slightest notion of what to write about. Let's see, now—theme. "Oh, I know," I says to myself. "Why don't I let all the boys in on the art (???) of feature-writing?"

The fundamental part of the feature is the theme, which is necessarily (check the way I'm improving my vocabulary) something that is off the beaten track, on account of when people read features (I'm told that a few hard-up, unsuspecting morons even stoop to reading mine occasionally, they want something that doesn't tax the brain in any way. This incidentally, is heartily disapproved by me, who definitely believing in spending all my spare time engrossed in real thought-provoking reading activities, like True Love, or the Spectator.

Well, you take this theme-see, and then go to work saying the silliest, funniest, most fantastic (occasionally even untrue) things you can think up about it.

Read it over, and if everything an it sounds absolutely too silly to be appreciated, even by your most asinine acquaintances, then by all means leave it in the article, go to work making the rest of it just as silly, and there you have a feature! It's really extremely easy and the nicest part about it is that features are usually written, read, understood, and appreciated only by people of average or lower mentality, which means that a large part of the Longwood student body should be feature-lovers.

Another unique trick is to always mention the name of one of your popular friends. She will be sure to read the article and will also manage somehow to subtly indicate to all her friends that the article is well worth reading. For instance—suppose I just casually happened to mention that Jose' Cox is currently referred to as one of the larger girls of Third Floor Annex. I am now assured of the fact that she will see to it that her entire table, all of Third Annex, the crowds in the Snack and Tea Room, and the smart upper set up on the roof are all informed that it is me—I mean it is I, not her—I mean she—who is referred to as one of the larger girls.

Incidentally, speaking of the larger girls reminds me of gaining weight, which makes me think of my appetite, which reminds me that it is 6 o'clock, and time for me to quit writin' an' get the heck down to the dining hall for my usual steak dinner. Be seen' ya.

The Spectator

By JIMMY THOMPSON

MEN'S A. A. TO SHOW WAR MOVIE:

Through the co-operation of the U. S. Army and the American Legion, the men's A. A. has managed to obtain three movies that deal with the activities during World War II, both in the European and Pacific theaters of operation. One entitled "ACTIVITIES IN THE ETO" gives a resume of the activities that took place in getting prepared for D-Day. Another is titled "ACTIVITIES ON OKINAWA". This tells about the Marine invasion of Okinawa. The third and last is about the German concentration camps and goes under the name of "LIFE IN A CONCENTRATION CAMP." For all you students who are interested in seeing what really went on during the war don't miss these pictures. I can promise that you won't regret one minute of the time spent watching them. The place is the little auditorium, the time is 7:15, and the price is only a small quarter. Looking for everybody to be there now. One last thing, I haven't said when all this is to take place. There are going to be two showings, Thursday night and Friday night. This will give the ones who saw it the first night a chance to tell their friends not to miss it the next.

TIPS ON THE FACULTY-STUDENT GAME:

In an interview with "Cookie" Cook, she informed Ye Ol Spectator that the basketball game between the faculty and students was tentatively set for the 26th of this month. She also added that Miss Nichols and Miss Draper had signed up for the faculty and were raring to go. This ought to turn out to be quite amusing, don't you think?

MAJOR LEAGUES OFFICIALLY OPEN:

Last Monday, the 1951 major league baseball season opened with the Washington Senators engaging the world champion New York Yankees in Washington. And do you know who the starter was? None other than Harry Truman, the worst to ever come out of the Washington bullpen. I've often wondered how the D. C. club ever expects to win if they continue to keep pitchers like him on the payroll. However, one of these days they'll wise up and get rid of such poor material. That's the day the whole country will profit by it. Could be in 1952, couldn't it?

Orchesis Re-elects Beckner President; Bids Eight Students

Marian Beckner, junior from Lynchburg, was re-elected to serve as president of Orchesis, modern dance club, for the coming year. Serving with her will be Marjorie Hood and Peggy Harris as secretary - treasurer and costume chairman respectively.

Orchesis has recently bid eight new apprentices to the organization. Lib Boswell, Barbara Hamner, Betsy Hankins, Challice Hayden, Lou Jamison, Diane Murray, Margaret Taylor and Doris Underwood have been bid to the organization.

May Day Ballet Group Completes Full Cast, Begin Final Practice

Final casting for May Day has been completed with the announcement of the dancers of the Parisian Ballet group.

Marian Beckner, Helen Egerton, Marian Higgs, Margie Hood, Hilda Lewis, Joan Missimer, and Nancy Walker were chosen for this last group which is also the second episode of Polka Mania in the plan of May Day.

Dresses for the May Court beauties have arrived and material for the ballet group is expected during the week, according to Mrs. Emily Landrum, modern dance instructor and head of the May Day activities.

Song and dance practices have begun for freshman with second rehearsals scheduled in Wednesday classes. Both afternoon and evening practices will be scheduled next week to make up for time lost in the Richmond Convention program.

Now that spring is in full swing, we're all ready to descend upon the athletic field and the tennis courts—too bad the weather man has different ideas. Have no fear though; the rain will stop eventually.

When it does, don't forget those eight practices you need for the archery tournament. The spring doubles tennis tournament is ready and waiting for you too. If you haven't signed up for one of these yet, don't let the opportunity pass you by. It's all for the glory of your colors, and your class needs you to participate.

This Friday at 9 p. m. the H2O club is giving a repeat performance of their Christmas water pageant. It is being given for, and at the request of the Southern Conference of College Women. The formations will be presented in their original form, but the Christmas theme has been discarded.

The end of May will bring something new this year. There will be a non-telegraphic class swimming meet then. Previously the class swimming meet presented annually consisted of a series of races following the telegraphic form. That is, plain free style 40 yard and 100 yard races, breast stroke races, and relays of these were offered.

This year something new has been added, so that anyone who can swim the width of the pool may enter. These races will consist of swimming short distances while carrying a potato, wearing pajamas, or swimming with one arm. The idea isn't to make swimming difficult, but to add a new and interesting element to something that was previously cut and dried. The distances have been greatly cut down in hopes that even beginning or intermediate swimmers will enter. The old type races will still be run for anyone wishing to enter them. You're free to sign up for the races you want and for no others. Of course, eight practices will be needed to enter the meet.

Remember the important thing isn't speed or form, but merely your participation! The H2O Club has tried its utmost to offer you something you'll like and be able to participate in without experience, so sign up for the meet at your first opportunity.

beautiful with the fluffy, frilly and frothy costumes which are being made for us and which Orchesis will inherit." According to Mrs. Landrum, "It is the most exciting undertaking we have ever attempted. It isn't easy to keep a college group dancing or moving constantly for twelve minutes on the stage; but the honor of appearing on the Mosque stage before music educators from twelve states makes it worth the while."

"Farmville girls always come through; they make dance worthwhile at Longwood whether it be for such a performance as this, recital, May Day or Dance Day," Mrs. Landrum finished.

Library Receives Autographed Copy Of New Art Book

The Longwood College Library has recently received an autographed copy of the book, "Constantino Brumidi", by Myrtle Cheney Murdock, author of another successful book, "Your Uncle Sam in Washington."

The book is a gift of the Washington chapter of Longwood College Alumnae and Emily W. Johnson, a member of the Washington chapter. Miss Johnson visited Longwood on Founders Day and announced the presentation of the book.

Constantino Brumidi was an Italian artist who became an American citizen and spent the years from 1855 to 1880 painting the frescos which decorate the United States capitol.

The book consists of letters, official records, newspaper articles, color reproductions of allegorical and historical paintings, and portraits which Constantino Brumidi executed on the interior walls and ceilings of the capitol.

Books of 1950
The Longwood College Library now has on exhibition many of the notable books of 1950. The books on display have been taken from lists compiled by the American Library Association.

Included in the exhibit are several historical books, such as Winston Churchill's "The Grand Alliance" and "The Hinge of Fate," "The Emergence of Lincoln" by Allan Hevins, "John C. Calhoun" by Margaret L. Coit, and "The Papers of Thomas Jefferson." Also included are "The Complete Poems of Carl Sandburg," Boswell's "London Journal," "Eleanor of Aquitaine" by Amy Kelly, and Louise H. Tharp's "The Peabody Sisters of Salem," and many others.

Club Will Show Film, 'May God Repay You'

The Spanish Club will present an Argentine-made movie, "Dios se lo Pague" or "May God Repay You", starring Arturo de Cordova, on May 10. The movie will be shown in the small auditorium, the exact time to be announced later. Admission price will be thirty-five cents.

Arturo de Cordova, who starred in "Frenchman's Creek", plays a double role as a beggar by night and a great gentleman by day. Playing opposite him is Zully Moreno as a gambling casino girl. The Spanish dialogue is supplemented by complete English sub-titles.

"May God Repay You" is the second of the two movies presented by the Language department for the purpose of bringing to Longwood College, foreign films which students might otherwise not have the chance to see.

Tickets will be sold in the hall or may be purchased from any Spanish Club student.

First Peter with Barbara Cotton leading the discussion. Inter-Varsity recently elected new officers. Barbara Cotton, sophomore from Danville, was chosen as president. Dorothy Stringfield, freshman from Elberon will serve as secretary-treasurer, and Virginia Manvell, sophomore from Vienna, will act as prayer chairman.

Who's —in the— Senior Spotlight

The seniors in last week's spotlight were Helen Agnew and Nancye Gillie.

Short of stature with curly blond hair and big blue eyes is the young lady who has been chosen this week as one of the outstanding members of the senior class.

This secret Miss is a major in art and plans to teach that subject in the elementary school. During her four years at Longwood, she has become noted for her wide variety of interests and capabilities. She is active in the Dramatic Club, a member of the H20 Club, and a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary fraternity in journalism. This year our outstanding senior served as art editor of the Rotunda.

For those of you who need still more hints to her identity: she is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha social sorority and hails from some place up north called Quantico, Va. And (this oughta do it) she is the talented young miss who painted that excellent portrait used in the recent Dramatic Club play.

Goating Rules
