

2nd International Conference of Fish & Shellfish Immunology

Sponsor Brochure

June 26th – 30th, 2016
Holiday Inn By the Bay
Portland, Maine

The International Conference of Fish and Shellfish Immunology is a scientific congress of the International Society of Fish & Shellfish Immunology held every three years, where fish immunologists and fish pathologists meet to discuss recent advances in fish immunology. Over 200 international delegates representing researchers and students from universities, research institutions and industry participate in the event. The ambitions of these scientists are to reduce disease in aquatic animals including farmed fish and shellfish, improve animal welfare, reduce the impact of antibiotics on the environment through the use of vaccination, and ultimately to produce a superior market product for the consumer. The next meeting will be hosted by the University of Maine's Aquaculture Research Institute in Portland, Maine, June 26-30, 2016. The Aquaculture Research Institute is an international center for aquaculture research and development and home to the Sustainable Ecological Aquaculture Research Network (SEANET). The main conference will last for 4 days and will consist of plenary lectures, and oral and poster presentations covering a wide range of topics including immunology, molecular biology and microbiology. We proactively encourage participation of undergraduate, and graduate (MS/PhD) students and young researchers and welcome your support for making this possible. We would like to invite you to participate in the ISFSI meeting as a sponsor. Please find enclosed a list outlining the levels of sponsorship available and a booking form for sponsorship. We would value your support and participation at the conference, and look forward to your response.
