To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Bluehill:

For the second time it becomes my pleasant duty to submit to you a report of the condition and progress of the schools of Bluehill.

In many respects the past year has been the most profitable the schools have experienced for some time. A number of changes have been made in the school system, and new customs inaugurated which have had the tendency to make for improvement and progress. These changes have been by no means radical, for I question the propriety of attempting to supplant a well-working arrangement by one which is not readily adaptable, or which requires a long time for the system to adjust itself to it. Only in rare instances would the necessity arise justifying it. However, this does not preclude the introduction of things which are in keeping with the changes in our home and industrial life, and which must be given attention if we would keep pace with the march of progress. This constitutes growth.

We have been exceedingly fortunate this year in being able to continue to the end of the fiscal year without being compelled to close the schools for long periods on account of epidemics, as was the case last year. Then, too, the weather has been very propitious until the very last day of the term. It has been intensely cold, to be sure, and has had a very disastrous effect on the woodpiles, but did not influence the attendance, as a glance at the statistics will show. All this has been conducive to much better work than we could possibly do last year under the heavy handicaps imposed.

We have had a fiscal year of thirty-five weeks in nearly every school in town, although as a school year it amounts to only thirty-two weeks, the usual length. This thirty-five-week fiscal year was made necessary by the fact that last year we were obliged to close for four or five weeks in the fall term on account of the epidemic. When we finally reopened, there were not sufficient funds, owing, in part, to less money received from the State, to make up the time lost by lengthening the winter term. Consequently, three weeks were added to the spring term.

Thirty-two weeks is a very short school year, especially with the eighth-grade system which prevails here. A great many places in the State have a thirty-six week year, and in Massachusetts forty weeks. It can readily be seen that if a town has a ninth-grade system and thirty-six weeks in the year, it gains a whole year on places having an eighth-grade system and thirty-two weeks. There is a vast amount of work to be done in preparing a child for high school in eight years, especially if the years are but two weeks above the minimum required by law.

TEACHERS.

We are facing a shortage of teachers at present which is very acute. I made mention of this fact in my report last year, and hazarded the hope that this year the condition would be greatly alleviated, but I am forced to admit that it was a very forlorn hope, and that at the present time the problem of getting qualified teachers for positions is more difficult than it was before.

Teaching is getting to be a very shifting profession, or, to quote Dr. Thomas, "procession." They come into it, stay a little while, and then leave it for other lines of work which are more remunerative. Attendance and graduation from our normal schools have slumped tremendously since the war. In three years the graduations have been cut 50 per cent. This shows a deteriorating condition. Inasmuch as these same normal schools are our only source to draw from aside from the experienced teacher, it can readily be seen that the prospect in store for the schools is not very inviting.

The only remedy is in making the profession of teaching so alluring by increasing the wages, and making them commensurate with the service rendered and the increased cost of living, that teachers will be induced to remain in the work which they are now deserting.

Many towns have increased teachers' salaries 20 per cent. to 50 per cent., others have established a minimum which is a thrift wage, not a mere living wage, and below which they do not ask any teacher to teach. The slogan everywhere now is: "Better pay for better teachers." This enables towns to engage and retain the best teachers, whereas those places not increasing the salaries will be obliged to take mediocre service, if, indeed, they are able to open their schools at all. However, increases are only made to those who are qualified by experience or training, otherwise it would be placing a premium on not being prepared.

COURSE OF STUDY

This year the course of study compiled by the State department was introduced into all our schools. We have had the promise of this for some time, and had it not been for that fact I should have formulated one myself, for I realize how necessary it is to have a well-defined outline of the work to be accomplished in each grade.

This is a well-balanced course of study, conservative in its scope, recognizing the newer subjects which our changing industrial and home life demands to be introduced, but stressing and emphasizing the fundamentals which have been and will still continue to be the most important in acquiring an education.

Some schools can follow the suggestions in this outline more rigidly than others for the reason that they have less grades and consequently more time to devote to a subject. The course is intended more especially for schools of only one grade as in the large towns and cities. However, we are deriving a great deal of good from this outline as it renders the work accomplished in all the schools in town uniform.

SCHOOL EXHIBITION.

At the end of the school year last June an exhibition and entertainment was given with every school in town taking part. This was a new departure in school activities, but meeting, as it did, with the instant approval of the parents it is intended to make this an annual event hereafter.

It was designed, primarily, to show the character of the work done in the schools; since it was impossible, owing to press of work and business, for parents to go in to visit the schools, we thought we would, in a measure, bring the schools to them. The teachers were requested to save the best papers, in different subjects, from day to day. They were to be selected from the regular work of the day and not done especially for the occasion. In this way the parents and friends would see the same work that would be seen could they spare the time to come in and visit. The exhibition was held in the town hall, and each of the seventeen schools was allotted space along the walls. When all the exhibits were in place, it presented a very pretty sight, and many people remarked that they didn't know the schools did such splendid work.

In the afternoon an entertainment was furnished by the outlying schools. The children taking part in this were sent for and brought to the town hall in automobiles. Although the program was long, in order to give every school several numbers, so systematically was it carried out, and with such despatch that it came to a close all too soon.

The program in the evening was furnished by the village schools. The audience that night was the largest but one that ever gathered in the hall. That the numbers were appreciated was attested by the fact that although fully half in the audience were obliged to stand, many times they insisted on the children responding to several encores.

This year, being Maine's centennial, we intend to make our program of a patriotic nature, with local history given, State of Maine songs sung, and in other ways to tell of the exploits of this grand old State and the achievements of its famous sons.

REPAIRS.

Last year we adopted the policy of taking several schoolhouses each year, as our appropriation permitted, and placing them in a good condition, rather than to distribute the fund among all the schoolhouses and consequently doing only part of the work necessary to be attended to.

Many of the schoolhouses need new outbuildings, and it seems to me that the suggestions made by the State department relative to these are excellent. It suggests that the outbuildings be connected with the main building by a covered ventilated passage-way. We are obliged to meet these requirements in making use of our apportionment from the equalization fund, for repairs, in Sedgwick. Already we have this arrangement at North Sedgwick, where it is working out splendidly. We have the money available for this arrangement at Sedgwick Ridge school, and will start work as soon as weather conditions permit. Thus we will take each school in town until we have the improved conditions. I wish we might do the same in Bluehill.

South Bluehill.....This is one of the schoolhouses that we put in excellent repair this year. A new chimney was built, new windows furnished, new steps built, schoolhouse and wood-house shingled, schoolhouse painted inside and outside, seats varnished, boards painted and floor oiled. Cost, $250.

This is getting to be a large school and gives promise of continuing so. There is practically no land belonging to the school which is of use, so we are placing an article in the warrant to purchase a piece of ground for a playground for the children.

Bluehill Falls.—Although this schoolhouse is not in use, it was rapidly falling into decay, so it was necessary to shingle one side, furnish new windows and paint the outside of the building.

Beech Hill.—This schoolhouse was shingled this year, painted inside and outside, ceiling whitewashed, walls tinted, seats varnished, windows and doors repaired and floor oiled.

Village school.—This building was shingled on one side, and minor repairs made.

The following schoolhouses should have some repairs made on them this year: Hinckley, Wescott, Billings, Witham. Outbuildings should be repaired at Mines and Grindleville.

East Bluehill.—New seats are needed for these schools, and the heating arrangement of the primary room improved.

A number of insurance policies expire this year and must be renewed.

BLUEHILL-GEORGE STEVENS ACADEMY.

At the beginning of the school year it became necessary to engage new teachers in all the departments. This was no easy task to do, under the existing circumstances, but we were finally successful in securing the following teachers to have charge of the work for this year:

V. G. Smith, principal—Science, mathematics and English.

Elizabeth Eames—Latin, French and public speaking.

Hilda Packard—English, history and teachers' training course.

These teachers are all eminently qualified to handle the work in their departments, and the school is, without question, in the best condition it has been for years.

The tuition has been reduced from thirty dollars to fifteen dollars per year, and this has been the means of bringing in students from the surrounding towns.

We are asking for more money from the town for the tuition of the town scholars. The amount contributed by the town is entirely inadequate to help the trustees meet the increases in teachers' salaries and the general increase in cost of maintenance. As a matter of fact, the amount appropriated by the town has always been very small; even high schools in the neighboring towns, with an enrollment less than half that of the academy, are raising $1,200 and $1,500 each year for the support of their secondary schools.

The laboratory needs a chemical hood very badly; some gasses cannot well be generated without it. The State department is sending out a blue print showing a hood to be fastened to the sill and frame of a window so that the window serves for the front. The floor of the hood is covered with sheet lead or sand, and it is painted on the inside with acid-proof paint.

I have had this arrangement made for the high school at Brooklin. It is very inexpensive, and answers the purpose in every way.

For a detailed account of the academy I refer you to the principal's report that follows:

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

To the Trustees, Superintendent and Citizens of Bluehill:

I herewith submit to you the following report of Bluehill-George Stevens academy: Sixty-six pupils have enrolled during the year; 9 seniors, 15 juniors, 17 sophomores and 25 freshmen. Of these, 3 have transferred to other schools and 3 have left school. The average attendance has been good, despite bad roads and illness.

With an entire new faculty, a new school organization became necessary and has been the object of much effort. Both assistants are well qualified for their positions, and give unceasing and conscientious attention to their work.

Our policy is one of strict and unswerving adherence to the highest standards. Our curriculum conforms to the requirements of the College Entrance Examinations Board of New England, and our graduates readily obtain admission to college. Our teacher training course is being carefully conducted with a view to producing capable teachers. The last two years of this course include a great deal of actual practice in conducting recitations.

An especial effort is being made to obtain careful home study, and to this end the curfew law is being rigidly enforced so far as possible. Co-operation of parents is earnestly desired in this enforcement.

Attention is being paid to public speaking, and every student is required to participate. The first public reading will take place at an early date. Miss Eames has displayed especial ability in this work to which she has devoted much time and effort.

The students will shortly present a play, which is but one of the outside activities of the school. The annual school paper is soon to be published. New song books are being obtained through the efforts of the students.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public, and especially to the parents, to visit the school at any time. Such visits are pleasing both to teachers and students.

We sincerely appreciate the co-operation and interest shown us in our work by the trustees, superintendent and citizens of Bluehill.

Respectfully submitted,

V. G. SMITH, Principal.

GENERAL REMARKS.

There are several schools with a small enrollment this year. All the scholars in the Hinckley school are small, and although it did not maintain the required average, we would recommend that it be continued for the coming year. The Billings school may be automatically discontinued after the spring term for lack of scholars, as with the graduation of the present eighth grade, there would be really only one child left that belonged in that district. However, if families should move in or some of the eighth grade elect to remain another year, there might possibly be enough scholars to maintain a school there.

In many of the schools this year we have instituted the custom of serving hot lunches to those children who take their dinner. Some serve hot cocoa, some hot soups, the requirement being that it be nourishing and that it be hot. Various ways are employed to defray the expense. In some schools an assessment is made on each child taking his lunch, to pay the cost of the milk and cocoa, while in other schools the children take turns in furnishing the ingredients for the hot lunch. The scheme is working out splendidly, and when I informed the county Red Cross nurse of what we were doing, she said it was the most encouraging thing she had found in her work for some time.

Of course it makes extra work for the teachers, but those who have been trying it out are unanimous in the belief that the beneficial effects upon the entire school work are great enough to pay for the extra service involved.

This year, for the first time, each teacher has kept a plan book. This has been found to be of great service to her in taking up each day's work with a well-considered definite outline and plan in mind. It also shows her at a glance the progress she is making in the different subjects. Should necessity arise, a substitute teacher could carry on her work without an appreciable break. And, lastly, it is of great benefit to me in noting where each class is working and the progress being made.

While this entails much extra work on the part of the teachers, they have undertaken it cheerfully, as they do their other work and any extra tasks, as teachers' reports, etc., that I ask of them. And while I am speaking of teachers, may I say at this time that there are no more faithful, conscientious, hard-working teachers anywhere than we have in the town of Bluehill. I personally know of several instances in the last few months where these teachers were offered as much as $6.50 more salary per week, and would not leave their present position because they felt a moral obligation to remain for the year, as they had given their word to do so. I know of teachers in other places who had no such scruples. That is why I think our teachers are entitled to every consideration we can show them.

In conclusion I wish to thank the members of the school committee for their advice and assistance, the selectmen and other town officials for their help to me, and the citizens of the town who have been very charitable toward me in my often futile efforts to do the best thing for the schools. I think they realize that a superintendent's position is by no means "a flowery bed of ease."

Respectfully submitted,

E. L. LINSOTT,
Superintendent of Schools.

Recommendations and table of statistics follow:

RECOMMENDATIONS.

We would recommend the following appropriations to be expended under different accounts for the ensuing year:

Common schools,	$5,000
Repairs,	800
Text-books	875

We realize that this is a marked increase over former years, but as I have explained several times in this report, it is due to the increased cost of everything connected with the schools. We have canvassed the situation very carefully, and are making the very lowest estimate in each instance.

In the matter of text-books, during the past fiscal year the academy alone required one-half of the appropriation. This left only about $250 to be divided among sixteen common schools, with which to purchase text-books, paper, chalk, maps and other equipment. In speaking of the amount the academy required, there is no imputation intended that this school asked for more books than were really needed, the teachers have been very considerate in their requests for equipment with which to work, but it was simply to prove how inadequate the appropriation really is. Many firms have withdrawn the custom of granting discounts on text-books; if they have not revised their price lists altogether, with a very pronounced upward trend, the old prices still prevail, but are now net instead of being subject to generous discounts as heretofore.
