Sidney Homer originally wrote these charming little songs for his own family to sing together, "a large family", to use his own words. But they are not just children's songs, for the child of every age can and does enjoy them. Mme. Louise Homer, and Miss Louise Homer, have been singing them to grown up audiences all over the United States. And wherever they have been sung they have "gone over" in a really big way. That is the reason these delightful little ballads, first written for the intimate enjoyment of the home circle, are now published to give enjoyment to thousands.

THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT

...By...
SIDNEY HOMER

ISSUED IN TWO KEYS

Price, 60 Cents

Your set of Sidney Homer's "Mother Goose" songs will not be complete without "The House That Jack Built". Just as Group One is the companion of Group Two, "The House That Jack Built" is the companion number of "I Love Sixpence, Pretty Little Sixpence". It is a song that has the touch of bravura, of brilliancy, needed to top off the charm, pathos and humor of the shorter numbers of either Group One or Group Two of the "Mother Goose" ballads. If you sing it - either in public or in private - you will probably have to repeat it. It is that kind of a song.
