ALBERT PIANTADOSI.

Moderato.

The road is get-ting short-er, ev-'ry day, dear Our foot-steps fal-ter as our way we
The vows we made sweetheart were never brok-en But tried and true we've traveled thro' the wend Your locks once gold-en now have turned to gray, dear Life's years A word was ne-ver heard in an-ger spok-en Tho' mile-stones say our jour-ney's near an end But sweet-heart you are just as good and smiles were of-ten mingled, love, with tears If at the end our wish-es could come true As on the day I start-ed, love, with you.
true I'd wish, sweet-heart, to start a-gain with you.

Chorus. (Slowly)

On the same old road — Mid sorrows and smiles, we've covered the miles to - p-f geth - er On the same old road — Our hearts just as gay, tho' steps are a lit-tle bit slow - er With the same old love — The longer it goes, the stronger it grows for ev - - er And just like the day when we two start-ed Sweethearts will be 'till part - ed On the

1. same — old road. On the road.

2. On the road.

AMERICA'S FOREMOST COMPOSER

Have you ever stopped to consider what a writer's name means on a popular Song? Probably not, altho the first thing most people do after playing a number that impresses them is to see "who wrote it."

The name of

AL. PIANTADOSI

means the same on a sheet of music as "STERLING" on silver or "18 KARAT" on gold, for the simple reason that there is hardly a home in the United States without one or more PIANTADOSI compositions on its piano.
