THAT WONDERFUL SONG OF THE WEST

OUT WHERE THE WEST BEGINS

Out where the hand-clasp's a little stronger,
 Out where the smile dwells a little longer,
 That's where the West begins,
 Out where the sun is a little brighter,
 Where the snows that fall are a trifle whiter,
 Where the bonds of home are a wee bit tighter,
 That's where the West begins

Out where the skies are a trifle bluer,
 Out where friendship's a little truer,
 That's where the West begins,
 Out where a fresher breeze is blowing,
 Where there's laughter in every streamlet flowing,
 Where there's more of reaping and less of sowing,
 That's where the West begins

Out where the world is in the making,
 Where fewer hearts in despair are aching,
 That's where the West begins,
 Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,
 Where there's more of giving and less of buying,
 And a man makes friends without half trying -
 That's where the West begins

Poem from "Out Where the West Begins," a book of Western Verse by Arthur Chapman, used through courtesy of Houghton Mifflin Company. The three sketches are reproductions of original pen sketches by Harold Hill Wright, made to illustrate his recent novel "When a Man's a Man" and are used by permission of his publishers, the Book Supply Company.

"BABY CURLS"

In "BABY CURLS" we are presenting to the public what we consider one of the most beautiful and appealing songs that has ever been published.

"BABY CURLS" is a ballad, a story, a lyrical gem set to a snappy, dancey melody that "gets" you. It is a song that will appeal to everyone. You may not have the real "BABY CURLS" in your home, but you have probably many times longed for the charm of their silken ringlets.

Deep down in your heart, sheltered from the gaze of even your nearest friend, nurtured, cherished, revered, always and forever is the hope that some day you may caress the "BABY CURLS" of a Heaven sent little bundle of sweetness who is blood of your blood, soul of your soul and heart of your heart.
