WAR RECORD

OF

GREAT WORLD WAR

1914 · 1918

“Lest We Forget”

FOREWORD

The Great War of 1914-1918 was perhaps the greatest test in all history of the heroism, fortitude, and devotion of mankind. In the loyal and unhesitating response of young manhood to the call of sacrifice, nothing finer was seen than the example of the students and graduates of the colleges and universities of America, by reason of their fidelity to right principle and the unusual service in leadership which they were able to render.

This memorial is designed to perpetuate the remembrance of those men of the University of Maine, in the Phi Eta Kappa Fraternity, who proved the reality of the ideals derived from their alma mater and their brotherhood by giving their utmost service to the cause of human freedom and lasting peace, and in particular to the four who gave up their lives in that cause. To these, and to the thousands of other young men like Brown, and Hunton, and Hurd, and Wells is due our undying admiration, whether they were destined to sink in heroic maintenance of duty, or pay with life for the effort to rescue other lives, or, greatest tragedy of all, to die before a chance was given to face the foe—those whose pathetic service was only to stand and wait.

RICHARD RUNDLETT WELLS, '18

Class Track (1), (2), (3)

Richard Randlett Wells, the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Wells of Christmas Cove, Me., enlisted in the Navy in 1917, a Junior at Maine, and was stationed at Bar Harbor in the Summer of 1917, was later transferred to the Navy Auxiliary, attended Pelham Bay Training School, and was commissioned as Ensign. He was assigned to the ship Ticonderoga, made two trips to France and was making his third voyage, leaving Norfolk September 20th, when his ship was destroyed on September 30th. He had charge of the forward gun and was trying to put his gun in commission which had been hit by a German shell, when the ship went down.

The following is taken from a bronze tablet placed in a large boulder and set up overlooking the sea and the place where "Dick" spent his boyhood days:

"In Grateful Memory of Ensign Richard Rundlett Wells
U. S. N. 1896-1918

who was born and grew to young manhood at Christmas Cove. Bred in the tradition of the sea, he was swift to volunteer when his County entered the Great War. He won a commission for meritorious service and gave his life in heroic performance of his duty as an officer of the U. S. S. Ticonderoga when she was sunk in action with the German Submarine U-152, in mid-Atlantic, Sept. 30, 1918. His example will speak to coming generations."

ORAMAL ELWOOD HUNTON '20

Varsity Football (1); Maine Masque (1)

Private Hunton enlisted in May 1917, in the Ambulance Unit formed at Portland and trained at Allytown, Pa. He went overseas in April, 1918, and was killed while standing beside his car at an advanced outpost. He had been engaged previously in carrying back to safety the wounded men of the Second U. S. Army. He gave his life on Blanc Mont Ridge, a hill that will ever be a monument to American courage and fearlessness. For "carrying on his work with great courage under the most trying conditions, setting a remarkable example for the other men of the Section," he received a Croix de Guerre.

TO MEL HUNTON

(Member of the Maine Masque, 1917)

"I am glad I could stay to the end, boys, and play my part,
Though somehow it hurt tonight.
Good-bye and good-luck—I am leaving for twelve for home
To enlist and get into the fight."

He smiled at the door as he went, to serve. His hour—
That field of glory ahead.
He sailed; an ambulance man, bent to play his part,
Though he take his cue from the dead.

Back to hope, back to life and the joy of the folks at home,
The wounded he bore each trip;
Till a shell—then that fearless instant of joy when
He died, with a smile on his lip.

Windsor P. Daggett.
