Portland Head Light

Claimed by most historians to be the first structure of its kind in the country, Portland Head Light first sent its beams out to guide sailing ships into harbor on January 10, 1791. Oil lanterns were used, necessitating the constant presence of an attendant to trim the wicks and adjust the flame.

Started in 1787 with an appropriation from the Government of Massachusetts the lighthouse was finally completed with a grant of $1,500 from the Federal Government. It was built by John Nichols and Jonathan Bryant, master masons of the day, of native stone to a height of 72 feet. The topmost 15 feet of its 87 foot height were taken up by the unwieldy "lanthorn."

The wooden pyramid in front of the lighthouse housed a bell which was rung in foggy weather to warn ships off the rocky coast, before the days of fog horns.

Many citizens of the town deemed the great height of the lighthouse to be unnatural and unsafe. Their objections were so strong that in 1810 twenty feet were lopped off. The structure left was still beautiful and awesome, and Portland Head Light through the years has become one of the most photographed and depicted historical structures in the country.

AS WE SEE IT

The November issue of The Maine Bulletin, the student list, fall semester, has just been printed and is an improvement over the previous years' lists when students were listed by classes. This year, Registrar James Gannett '09, has set up the list alphabetically with the class, major subject, home and campus addresses following.

The names, 4,759 of them, run from Abbott to Zwicker, with the Smiths having 52 entries. Fortunately for harassed faculty, none of the five Robert Smiths major in the same subject. The Browns, with twenty-six names, are in second place, with 15 Jones in third place.

Twenty-six states and ten foreign countries are represented in the student body. Farthest from home is Hou Ling of Kirin, Manchuria, a city of almost 150,000, between Mukden and Harbin. Three students are from India, two from South America and China, one from Pakistan, two from Greece, and one each from Norway and Czechoslovakia.

Of students living in the United States, George Garland '48 (Philip Garland '12) of Port Angeles, Washington, travels the greatest distance. Bill Alexander '48 lives in Hawaii, but finds the traveling too far for his wife (Zoe Pettingill '41) and young son.

Many alumni sons and daughters are found among the student body. Five Foglers, Henry, a graduate student; John '50; Martha '50; and Ruth '49 all at Orono and William '51 at Brunswick, not only are the largest number of brothers and sisters in college, but also represent somewhat of a record of an alumni family enrolled at one time. They are the children of Raymond H. Fogler '15.

DOUBLE STATE

Maine's athletic fans were riding high this month as the varsity football and varsity cross country teams came through at the close of the season with double victories for state championships. Highpoint in the record was the winning of the state football title for the first time in 13 years. A superb team, finely coached, and playing with an unbeatable spirit, came up with victories over the traditional state rivals to set a mark for future football teams to shoot at. The editors of The Alumnus feel that recognition to the football players and the cross country runners as well as the widespread interest in the season's results, justifies a complete, detailed story of the final contests.

We present below, therefore, newspaper accounts from the Bangor Daily News covering in full detail the games which climaxed the championship season.

TS first state crown in 13 years was a step nearer today for the University of Maine football team that used every able-bodied man on the squad in charging past Colby's Mules 33-6 here Nov 1

Bowdoin Next

The easy conquest of the thinly-manned Waterville club was accomplished under wraps with reserves carrying on for most of the second half. Thirty-six men were rushed into action by Coach Eck Allen. Only halfback Don Card, who has a bad shoulder, failed to see action.

Sticking largely to fundamental football and keeping the floss away from the eager eyes of Bowdoin and Bates scouts, Maine was in control every minute in giving its best football display of the year.

Phil Coulombe and Henry Dombkowski, diving through gaping holes torn by the big forward wall, went through and over the tackles almost at will for steady yardage. Hal Parady changed the pace with occasional aerials, although Maine kept most of its passing potentialities locked in the vault for use on days of greater emergency.

Coulombe Unrelenting

Coulombe, short and stocky and unrelenting, was the wheelhorse. Fifteen times he was handed the ball by Parady from the T-formation. Only twice was he stopped. Once he went for 26 yards, and he totaled 86 yards for the day for an average of 5.73 per carry.

Dombkowski carried 11 times for 38 yards, an average of 3.45. But he also picked up 97 yards on punt runbacks, his best effort being a sizzling 58-yard scamper on which he nearly went the distance.

Gordon, Murdock Say No

But Sherwood Gordon and Moose Murdock, in the center of Maine's line, took over on the next two plays to knock Colby back to the six. Coach Walt Holmer then rushed in the speedster, Bill Igoe, for a naked reserve that almost fooled Maine, but Reggie Lord caught him by the foot as he appeared to be getting away and spilled him for a four-yard loss. Mahoney's pass on last down went over the end zone.

Marden finally gave Colby a touch-down in the fourth period on a pass similar to the one that put the Mules in a contending position earlier. This time Don Zabriskie threw it on a play that started from the Colby 18, Marden grabbed the ball on the 26 and sped up the sidelines 74 yards for the score that momentarily lifted the Colby stands out of the gloom that had gripped them from the opening moments.

Scoring Plays

This was how the scoring went:

1. Starting from its own 49 the first time it got the ball, Maine moved to the Colby 28 in nine plays. Parady then fired a long pass that travelled 40 yards through the air to lanky Bob Emerson, alone just over the goal line. Dombkowski's kick for the point was wide.

2. Dombkowski's 58-yard punt return put Maine on Colby's 15 later in the first period. Coulombe and Dombkowski alternated once more, and Coulombe carried over from that one. Dombkowski booted the point.

3. Caught deep in its own territory when Reggie Lord kicked out on the three-yard line, Colby fumbled two plays later and Don Barton recovered for Maine on the 14. It took Dombkowski two plays to put it over and he added the point to make it 20-0 at the half.

4. Maine drove 51 yards for a score

CHAMPIONSHIPS

PACED by lanky Elmer Folsom, who set a new Maine Intercollegiate Cross Country Meet record at the Augusta Country Club, the University of Maine harrier squad retained its state title Nov. 3, defeating Bowdoin and Bates.

Folsom ran the 3.5 miles course in 18 minutes, 53 and two-tenths seconds, shattering the existing record set in 1940 by Bob McLaughlin of Bates.

Maine took the event with little trouble, placing five men among the first six, and scoring 19 points. Bowdoin came in second with 44, while Bates was third with 75. Colby did not sponsor a varsity harrier squad this season.

Folsom and Bob Hanson took the lead immediately after the starting gun went off, Folsom pulling ahead after the first mile. At about the one and one-half mile marker, John Wallace and Bowdoin's Joe Woods passed Hanson, and at the three-mile spot Woods surged ahead of Wallace, taking advantage of two or three small foot bridges over which the course ran.

On the final stretch, Wallace cut down Woods' lead somewhat, and was only about five yards behind the Bowdoin runner, and steadily gaining, when Woods early in the third period. Coulombe's 26-yard scamper eating up a big chunk. The scoring play started at the 20, Parady tossing a screen pass to Dombkowski and the little speedster racing down the sidelines into the end zone. Dombkowski's kick was wide.

5. Ray Rideout covered a fourth period Colby fumble on the Colby 33. Art Clark passed 12 yards to Dick Tamm. Then Phil White barged through the center of the line from the 21 and was in the end zone before the weary Colby defenders realized what had happened. Phil Coulombe came in to give the customers a treat—a left-footed dropkick that split the uprights for the point.

6. Two plays after the following kick-off, Zabriskie tossed his scoring pass to Marden, the play covering 82 yards. Marden's attempted placement was wide.

crossed the finish line, 35 and one-tenth seconds behind Folsom.

Dick Lane, Doug Morton, and Hanson, all of Maine, tied for fourth position, with Auten of Bowdoin finishing behind them.

The summary: 1-Folsom (M), 2-Woods (Bow.), 3-Wallace (M), 4-Hanson (M), Morton (M), Lane (M), (all tied for fourth), 7-Auten (Bow.), 8-Everett (M), 9-McLellan (Bow.), 10-Silsby (M), 11-Howard (B), 12-Jackson (Bow.), 13-Mahancy (B), 14-Lund (Bow.), 15-Brown (B), 18-Wiley (Bow.), 19-Quigley (B), 20-Colburn (B), 21-Cloutier (B). Winning time: 18 53 02 (new course record).

New Englands

With Elmer Folsom finishing ninth in a field of 112, Maine's state harrier champs placed fourth in the thirty-fifth New England Intercollegiate meet held last Monday over the four and one-half mile course at Franklin Park, Boston.

Rhode Island State College won the team title for the fourth consecutive year, with Bob Black of the Rams winning his second successive individual title, despite a recent illness. Ted Vogel of Tufts, national AAU marathon champion, finished second behind Black just as he did last year.

Maine finished only three points behind third place Springfield, and would very likely have moved up a place in the final standings if Doug Morton had not been sidelined with an injured leg.

Maine men who placed in scoring positions were, besides Folsom: Wallace (21), Hanson (26), Lane (44), and Everett (47).

Although Brown was the only Rhode Island runner who finished in the first ten, the Rams finished far ahead of the other teams with only 63 points.

First ten finishers and times in the varsity race.

1. Bob Black, R.I., 22:29
2. Ted Vogel, Tufts, 22:55
3. Robert Knowles, Springfield, 22:59
4. Silas Dunklee, New Hampshire, 23:19
5. F. A. Johnson, Wesleyan, 22:32
6. Joshua Tobey, Brown, 23:25
7. Edward Lemieux, Trinity, 23:33
8. Lou Clough, Massachusetts, 23:44
9. Elmer Folsom, Maine, 23:45
10. Kevin Delaney, Williams, 23:46

With Irving Smith of the Brunswick Annex finishing sixth, the Maine freshman harriers took third place in the frosh division, behind Boston University and Connecticut who were tied for first. Rhode Island finished fourth in this division.

Other Maine entrants scoring were Bob Eastman (14), Bob Bradford (22), Clifton Tripp (29), and Bob Bailey (32).

New Dormitories Named

The two men's dormitories erected this summer on the site of old Alumni field just north of Hamlin Hall were named by the Trustees at their meeting on November 7. Temporarily called Units One and Two, these halls have been named Dunn and Corbett Halls to perpetuate the names of men long connected with the University.

The late Justice Charles J. Dunn was born in Houghton County, Michigan. He came to Maine when he was very young and was instructed by his mother until he entered Blue Hill Academy. Later he attended school in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

He began his study of law in the office of Judge E. E. Chase, Blue Hill, completing his legal education in the office of Hale and Hamlin, Ellsworth. He was admitted to the Hancock County bar and in 1892 moved to Orono where he began a career that was to make him one of New England's distinguished jurists, culminated in 1935 by his appointment as Chief Justice of the Maine Supreme Court.

Elected a member of the Legislature in 1901-02, Justice Dunn served on the committees on Elections and Library, and was chairman of the committee on the University of Maine. He was delegate-at-large to the Republican National Conventions of 1908 and 1916.

He became treasurer emeritus of the University in 1923, but he continued to serve as a member of the University's board of trustees. In 1920, the University awarded him an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, the same year that his daughter Barbara (Mrs. E. Reeve Hitchner) graduated. Another daughter, Mrs. Lillian Dunn Sayford, graduated in 1912. Justice Dunn received an honorary Doctor of Laws from Colby in 1939. Mrs. Dunn, the former Alice Ring, is also an alumna of Maine.

In 1938 Justice Dunn was elected a trustee of the Eastern Trust and Banking Company and the following year became chairman of the board. He served also as a trustee of Westbrook Junior College.

He was a member of the Universalist Church and served as president of the corporation of the Maine Universalist convention in 1937, and was vice-president of the general convention at the national assembly in 1938. Justice Dunn died in November 1939.

Unit Two, facing the Memorial Gymnasium and field house, was named for the late Lamert S. Corbett in recognition of his long service as first Dean of Men and his deep interest in athletics as shown by his many years as chairman of the Athletic Board.

Born in Jamaica Plain, Mass., the late Dean had attended Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst, receiving the B.S. degree. In 1909, he was awarded his B.S.A. degree from Boston University, and in 1913 his M.S. degree from the University of Kentucky.

First employed by the United Fruit Company in foreign service, he later entered the field of agricultural teaching, serving as assistant professor of Animal Industry at the University of Kentucky before coming to the University of Maine.

He was appointed professor of Animal Industry at Maine in 1913 and served in that capacity and also as head of the department of Animal Industry until 1939. In 1939 he resigned as head of the department of Animal Industry to devote full time to the work of the office of Dean of Men. In this capacity he devoted much time to improving men's housing and was instrumental in the planning of

Homecoming Program Highly Successful

"Welcome Alumni" signs at the Orono bridge and North campus greeted alumni returning for Homecoming on November 7 and 8. But these were not the only signs of welcome, for fraternities and dormitories were decorated in the welcome-alumni theme for Homecoming.

Alumni responded to the warm welcome to campus by enjoying to the fullest their return. The program commenced Friday evening with a meeting of the Union Building area chairmen at which Governor Horace Hildreth and Raymond H. Fogler '15 spoke.

At the same time the traditional football rally was held in Memorial Gym. Alumni and students thoroughly enjoyed the skits produced by Campus Mayor Bob Merchant '48, Delta Tau Delta, and his cast of students.

Following the rally the Alumni Athletic Advisory Committee held its first meeting. A full discussion of the athletic program and policies of the University by the Committee and Cliff Patch '11, Chairman of the Athletic Board, laid the groundwork for future meetings of this Committee.

The "M" Club held its annual meeting after the rally and elected as officers: George Ginsberg '21 of Bangor, president; T. S. Curtis '23 of Orono, secretary-treasurer; and five vice presidents, W. C. Elliott '02, Newell Emery '48, Sam Sezak '31, Harry D. Watson '18 and Charlie O'Connor '31.

Activities, Saturday, commenced with a meeting of the Alumni Council at breakfast, with the annual "hats off" field hockey game between freshmen and sophomore women. The sophomores won 6 to 1. The varsity field hockey team found the alumni a poor match in the game which the undergrads won.

The dedication of the New Library, exactly six years after the laying of the cornerstone, was crowded by alumni, faculty and students. Dr. Hauck; Dr.

Oak Hall, an example of a modern dormitory. In that capacity he also served as chairman of the University Health Service.

Dean Corbett was a member of Alpha Zeta, Phi Kappa Phi, QTV and the Senior Skulls. His son Alan graduated from Maine in 1936 and is now a member of the faculty at the University of New Hampshire. His daughter, Barbara, '39 (Mrs. Thomas L. Barker) lives in Orrington. Mrs. Corbett lives in Orono.

Speaker—

Rev. E. Stanley Jones, internationally known missionary, addressed the University Assembly on November 25 on the topic "After India's Independence, What?" Dr. Jones pointed out that India was one of the brightest spots in the post-war world having achieved independence and self-government against great obstacles with relatively little difficulty. The success was won, he said, largely by non-violent means with Ghandi the father of India's freedom.

Dr. Jones spoke to the students against a background of experience of nearly half a century of missionary work beginning in 1907. Through this personal experience, he has become keenly aware of the problems of the Indian people and of their possibilities. His work has likewise earned him wide fame and respect throughout India. In the new developments ahead of India he sees a blow against the caste system and the beginning of the end of illiteracy.

K. C. M. Sills, president of Bowdoin; Edward E. Chase '13, president of the Board of Trustees; Raymond H. Fogler '15, chairman of the Library fund; Louis T. Ibbotson, librarian; and June Swanton '48 were the speakers.

An historical exhibit of the University of unusual interest attracted hundreds of alumni and students during the weekend.

Wally Honored

Football fans had the opportunity of watching the Maine freshmen drub Kents Hill 34-0 preceding the luncheon at which Prof. Stanley "Wally" Wallace was honored for 25 years service.

The ovation "Wally" received was evident testimony of high esteem with which he is held by alumni. Paying tribute to Wally, R. H. Bryant '15, graduate manager of athletics when Wally first came to Maine, speaking for alumni, closed his tribute with these words: "Wally means more to Maine men than can be named just by citing the job he has done, fine as that has been. His friendly understanding, wit and wisdom, have made him a personal friend to all his 'boys' during the years."

During the morning the fraternity and dormitory Homecoming decorations were judged with the following winners: Women's dorms—North Estabrooke; Men's dorms—North Dorms; Fraternities—Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Homecoming was climaxed when Maine defeated Bowdoin in a tense game and thus keeping intact the record of not having been defeated by Bowdoin at Orono since 1932.

A tea dance in the gym after the game and fraternity open houses closed the program which many alumni agreed was the most successful one in many years.

Alumni NAMES in the NEWS

Dr. Lowell J. Reed '07 of Johns Hopkins University has been honored by presentation of a Lasker Award at a recent meeting of the American Public Health Association.

Lasker Award.—At the recent meeting of the American Public Health Association in Atlantic City, Dr. Lowell J. Reed, Vice-President of Johns Hopkins University, was presented a Lasker Award by Dr. George Baehr, president of the New York Academy of Medicine.

Dr. Reed served as instructor and professor of mathematics during 1907-1912 at Maine, following his graduation from the University in 1907, and after receiving his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania, served as Assistant Professor of Mathematics at his Alma Mater from 1915-1917. Since then he has been Director of the Bureau of Tabulation and Statistics for the War Trade Board in Washington during 1917, and at Johns Hopkins, where he went in 1918, has been Associate Professor and Professor of Biostatistics, Head of the Department in 1925, Dean of the School of Hygiene and Public Health in 1937, and is the University's Vice-President

The citation accompanying the award read in part as follows: "The Lasker Award of the American Public Health Association represents the appreciation of the workers in public health and medical care for the scholarly achievement of the United States Committee on Joint Causes of Death under the chairmanship of Dr. Lowell J. Reed. The work of this Committee will greatly facilitate the exchange of statistical information on health and medicine between the countries of the world and serve as one of the effective links in binding them together under the banner of the United Nations."

New Bulletin.—Andrew E. Watson '34 (M.S. '36) is the author of a new bulletin recently published by the Agricultural Experiment Station, "Poultry Products Used by the Summer Trade in Maine" The study points out some interesting and important conclusions on problems facing Maine poultry men. Mr. Watson, assistant agricultural economist with the Experiment Station, is the author of several other studies. He returned to the University after serving with the Navy in the armed guard, and the Watsons (Mabel Robinson '34) live in Old Town.

Publications.—Three graduates of the College of Technology at the University have recently had technical articles published.

Phillip M. Trickey, formerly of Bangor, now chief engineer for the Diehl Manufacturing Co., Somerville, N. Y., has had a bulletin published entitled "Performance Calculations on Shaded Pole Motors" Trickey received his B.S. degree in 1928, his M.S. in 1931, and his E.E. in 1934, all from the University.

"Resonant Cavities for Dielectric Measurements" is the subject of an article by C. N. Works, formerly of Portland, reprinted from the Journal of Applied Physics in bulletin form. Works received his B.S. in 1934 and is now with the Research Laboratories, Westinghouse Electric Corporation, East Pittsburgh, Pa.

D. F. Alexander, formerly of Bangor, chief electrical engineer for the Frigidaire Division, General Motors Corporation, has had a bulletin published entitled "Self-Contained Power Unit for Railway Cars."

New Book.—Weybosset Bridge, a new book written by Reverent Arthur E. Wilson '23, pastor of the Beneficent Congregational Church in Providence, R. I., is a story of the opposing concepts of religious freedom which resulted in the establishment of the Congregational Church just 204 years before the book's publication. Of historical significance, Weybosset Bridge is likely to prove both valuable background material for students of Rhode Island history, as well as a colorful addition to the history of religious freedom. The book was released by Beacon Press early in November, and is at the top of the best-seller list in Rhode Island.

CAMPAIGN LEADERS

"It is inspiring to those who are concerned with the affairs of our State to find alumni of this University raising funds for such a worthy purpose which will mean so much to future generations of our sons and daughters. It indicates that you appreciate what the University and State have done in making an education possible. Moreover, it is an impressive demonstration of alumni interest and loyalty which will be an emissary of good will that is sure to work to the advantage of the University in years to come. It makes us all more proud of the University and its many achievements."

These statements were made by Governor Horace Hildreth in addressing 110 Union Building Fund chairmen and workers at a dinner November 7 in Estabrooke Hall. He congratulated them on their progress and expressed confidence in the ultimate success of the campaign.

This dinner marked the reactivation of the continuing campaign, the tempo of which will increase during the weeks ahead. Chairman Raymond Fogler stressed the fact that this is not a second campaign but will be continued and intensified until the necessary funds have been raised. President Hauck paid high tribute to all campaign workers on the excellent progress which has been made, emphasizing how much the University needs the facilities which this Union Building will provide and what a wonderful living memorial it will be to the men whom we seek to honor. Other speakers were Hazen H. Ayer '24, president of the General Alumni Association, James M. Sims '32, chairman of the Special Gifts Committee, and James F. Donovan, chairman of the student campaign.

At this meeting chairman R. H. Fogler announced that the subscriptions total had jumped to nearly $555,000, since which date the total has increased to more than $565,000.

Rhode Island Exceeds Quota

A surprise announcement at the Union Building Fund dinner was that Rhode Island alumni had exceeded their quota of $14,200, one of the highest per capita quotas in the entire campaign. The vigorous leadership of chairman Alfred B. Lingley, the hard work of his associates, combined with the generosity of alumni in Rhode Island and southern Massachusetts, is a tribute to their loyalty and devotion to the University.

Particularly significant is the fact that the alumni in Rhode Island have reached or exceeded their quota in every fund raising campaign which Maine alumni have sponsored. Only one other area, Maryland, can match that superb record.

New Sagadahoc Co-chairmen

Harold E. Pratt of Brunswick and Arthur M. Bowker of Bath have been appointed co-chairmen of the Fund for the Merrymeeting Bay area. They were named to succeed the late Worthen Brawn '17.

Both Pratt and Bowker have been active in local alumni affairs, the former being president and the latter vice president of the local association. Pratt was graduated from the University of Maine in 1921. He is superintendent of the Pejepscot Paper Co. Bowker, a native of Portland, was graduated from the University in 1922 and subsequently received a professional degree in mechanical engineering. He is affiliated with the Bath Iron Works Corp. as a senior marine engineer.

7,711 Subscriptions Received

At mid-November a total of 7,711 alumni, students, faculty and friends had subscribed $565,809 as shown by the table which accompanies this article. This num-

Leading Areas

Rhode Island has moved into first position in the standing of areas. It is expected that with the reactivation of the campaign in early January there are likely to be changes in standing since a number of areas are close to the high ten in percentage of quota achieved. The members of the class of 1915 have always kept their class among the leaders in any alumni activity, reunions, class letters or fund raising. They are showing that leadership again in the Union Building Fund campaign. It is of passing interest to note that three of the five highest classes appear in both the amount subscribed and percentage of members subscribed tables. A summary of the leaders follows:

Amount Subscribed	Per cent Subscribed
1915 — $32,254	1899 — 40%
1917 — 20,483	1900 — 40
1911 — 18,269	1915 — 40
1909 — 14,095	1909 — 39
1916 — 14,073	1917 — 39

Elected—

An attempt at class elections, free from politics by use of a primary election, was initiated by the General Senate this year.

A total of ninety names were placed on the ballot through primary elections and these names were narrowed to the four officers for each four classes in voting held on November 24.

Willard Moulton of Sebago Lake was elected president of the senior class. Moulton, a major of Engineering Physics, is president of Phi Mu Delta, a member of the Interfraternity Council, the Union Building Committee and a Senior Skull.

Vice president, is Robert L. Browne, Beta Theta Pi, a major in Economics, active in the Masque, Prism and Radio Guild and class president his sophomore year.

Florence C. Bruce (Harold L. '20), the treasurer, is one of the most active and popular girls on campus. An All Maine Reserve Hockey player, she also plays basketball. A member of the band, the WSGA, the Panhellenic Council, the W.A.A. and the General Senate brought her election to the All Maine Women.

Elected as class secretary, Pauline True (Elmer L. '14) of Hope, has made All Maine in both basketball and hockey for three years. A dean's list student, she was a sophomore eagle, president of Neai Mathetai, and a member of the Union Building Fund.

Elected as junior class officers were: Ralph Barnett, Augusta, president; John P. Zollo, Danvers, Mass., vice president; Alfred P. Savignano, Newton Highlands, Mass., treasurer; and Cynthia J. Hayden, Raymond, secretary.

Sophomore class president is Harold M. Peasley, Bath; with Reginald E. Lord, Brunswick, vice president; Edward J. McDermott, Fairhaven, Mass., treasurer; and Elaine Lockhart, Belmont, Mass., secretary.

The freshman class (Orono) named Robert Duddy, Bangor, president; Joan Cunningham, Old Town, vice president; Ann M. Cedarstrom, Southport, treasurer; and Mary Marsden, Lewiston, secretary.

Art—

Recent exhibits at the University Art Gallery include a display of fifty paintings and drawings by Ernesto Lothar, noted Viennese artist, which was shown early in November through an arrangement with the George Binet Gallery in New York. The current exhibit, showing November 12-29, is a water-color display by Miss Gertrud Ebbeson, former University student, who has done outstanding architectural design as well as painting and sketching. She recently lectured on "Expressions in Watercolor" before a meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Campus NEWS of the MONTH

Honors—

The State Department gave recognition to the work of a Maine instructor last month when it asked permission to reproduce an article written by Dr. Leonard S. Silk, instructor in economics. Dr. Silk's article "The Postwar Program of Swedish Labor" was published in the South Atlantic Quarterly in October; from the editor of the Quarterly has come word that the State Department desires permission to reproduce the article for possible distribution abroad by the U. S. Military Government.

Success—

The International Relations Club at the University of Maine, one of the outstanding organizations on campus, with a membership close to 50, is stimulating considerable interest in world affairs. This is being accomplished through visiting speakers, panel discussions, and student participation. There are no qualifications to become a member other than an interest in what is going on in the world.

There were several attempts to start such an organization at the University back in 1930, but they were not successful. A new organization, "The International Club," made its appearance on the Maine campus during 1934 and despite an overcrowded field found immediate opportunity for expression.

The new club was organized under the late Dr. Rising Morrow, of the history and government department. It was for students and faculty interested in world affairs.

Member—

Dr. Charles Dickinson, professor of Psychology, has been named a member of the Council of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene. His appointment to this important group was announced at the 38th annual meeting of the Committee last month. Dr. Dickinson attended the two-day session and opened the discussion at one of the sessions concerning educational problems. Members of the Council are expected to advise and counsel the Board of Directors of the Committee.

English Hockey—

Miss U. Dulcie Scougal, English hockey coach, was present at an afternoon practice on November 5th to act as coach for University women participating in field hockey. Her services were made available through the courtesy of the United States Field Hockey Association.

Prologue—

A new venture in a literary magazine sponsored jointly by the students of Bowdoin, Bates, Colby, and Maine will make its debut this month. Prologue has been chosen as the name of this newest publication in Maine collegiate circles.

A five man board will edit material in their individual colleges and submit them to the central board of editors.

The sponsors of Prologue believe it to be "an opportunity to formulate ideas and express them on the professional market, and as a chance for keen young minds to find out if their ideas and opinions on religion, literature, science, economics and politics are sound."

Elected—

Earl O. White, Orono, has been elected president of the Men's Senate, a representative group from the entire male student body, and William R. Hopkins, North Haven, and Frederick Libby, Bangor, have been elected vice president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

Kenneth Vennett, Orono; Joseph M. Murray (Joseph M. '25, Frances Kent Murray '25), Orono; Robert G. Nisbet, Portland; Earl White, Orono; and Frederick Libby, Bangor, will act as the executive committee.

Masque—

"Angel Street," by Patrick Hamilton, a "Victorian Thriller" in three acts, is the Maine Masque production now in rehearsal for production on December 10, 11, 12, and 13. Leading roles are to be played by Marilyn Hoyt, a freshman from Fort Fairfield, and George Berger, president of the Masque and a veteran actor.

Hardison Prize

George E. Smith, Jr., of Bangor, has won the first Hardison prize for the best essay submitted by senior English majors as part of their comprehensive examinations, Dr. Albert M. Turner, head of the English Department at the University, announced recently.

Smith is a veteran and lives with his wife and three months old daughter in Bangor.

The second Hardison prize went to Margaret A. Gowdey of Bath. Others whose essays received honorable mention were Ruth E. Preble, of Waterville, and Richard Cutts, of Kittery Point.

The Hardison prizes are the gift of Helen Crane Hardison, of Santa Paula, Cal., a member of the class of 1937.

Bowdoin Game

Henry (Rabbit) Dombkowski and his University of Maine football mates have their best display of championship class handsomely engraved in the record books this morning along with the iron-clad guarantee that Maine at least will share in its first state title in 13 years.

Hard-Earned Victory

Solidly kicked around for better than half the contest, Maine virtually had to come off the floor to swing a pair of knockout punches at an alert and driving Bowdoin team for a 13-0 verdict before 9,500 fans on wind-swept Alumni field at Orono Saturday, November 8

Dombkowski, swift junior who has been Maine's biggest punch most of the year, was the lad who suddenly turned the tide against a Bowdoin club that had kept Maine back on its heels in the first half and for much of the third period.

The stiff wind that swept the length of the field most of the afternoon caught a Gordon Beem punt and whirled it out of bounds on Maine's 37, just five yards from the point where the play started. In three plays Maine moved to Bowdoin's 48, and then came the play that settled the eventual outcome.

Dombkowski Goes

Dombkowski started off his own left tackle, found an opening and suddenly was driving through the Bowdoin secondary. He cut to his right after going 10 yards, then opened the throttle wide as he set sail for the far corner of the end zone. Safety man Jim Pierce chased him desperately and finally caught him at the goal line, but Dombkowski fell in the end zone for the touchdown.

What could have been an all-important point was missed when Dombkowski's placement drifted off to the left, but the point wasn't needed.

After halting two threatening Bowdoin drives in the fourth period, Maine started moving against the tiring Polar Bears who had been hitting with everything all afternoon. Six plays carried Maine from its own 20 to Bowdoin's 14. But Bowdoin held and pushed Maine back to the 18 where the Polar Bears took over. Dombkowski's 36-yard jaunt was the big bite in the advance, Pierce again just catching him at the Bowdoin 20 when it appeared he might go all the way. Trailing by six points Bowdoin was forced to go into the air. A Dave Burke pass down the middle went astray, and Dombkowski plucked it out of the air. Off he went along the right sideline, Jim McBrady throwing a perfect block to shake him loose, and only a desperate lunge by Charley Lovejoy knocked him out of bounds on the Bowdoin seven.

Bob Emerson '48 of Bangor, end

Norm Benson '48 of E. Berlin, Conn., tackle

Phil Coulombe '50 of Augusta, back

Phil Coulombe, who was held to no gain on only one play during the day, blasted through the line for the touchdown with Bowdoin men bouncing off him in all directions. This time Dombkowski added the point.

Extra Drama

Those were the scoring plays. But there was extra drama, too, and most of it was on the Bowdoin side.

Superbly ready to upset the favored Pale Blue, Bowdoin dominated the play for the first 40 minutes and could have had at least a couple of touchdowns for its efforts.

A Maine fumble in the opening minutes which was recovered by Jim Pierce on the Maine 49 gave Bowdoin an early opportunity, but Maine held, Gordon Beem kicked out of bounds on the Maine 14, carefully keeping the ball away from Dombkowski, Maine moved almost to midfield before being forced to punt, and Jim Fife roared on to block partially the kick Reggie Lord was trying to get away. Bowdoin took over on the Maine 43, but again had to kick.

This time Pierce lugged the ball back 23 yards to Maine's 32. Four plays left the Polar Bears inches short of a first down, but Maine fumbled on its first play and Jim Draper recovered on the Maine 26. Bowdoin returned the compliment, on its first play, and Maine was out of danger once again for the moment.

Maine Takes Over

Only in the final minutes of the second half did Maine threaten to score, driving 46 yards to Bowdoin's 28. A pass from Hal Parady to Phil Coulombe, chewed off 24 yards in the advance. But Bowdoin dug in there, and on the last play of the Period Bob Speirs, a terrific defensive end, spilled Parady for a 13-yard loss on an attempted pass.

The real heart-breaker for Bowdoin came in the third period. Bowdoin took the kickoff on its own 37 and applied the power to the best march of the day. Nine running plays, featuring McAvoy's hammering blasts through the line, carried inside Maine's two-yard marker for a first down.

Then came the key play, the turning point of the game. McAvoy hit the middle of the line and was stopped in his tracks by Jack Zollo. The ball squirted out of his hands and Zollo fell on it for Maine.

That was the decisive play. Bowdoin threatened on several occasions thereafter, but Maine never let the threat get too dangerous.

Bates Game

One of the University of Maine's most successful football seasons since the early 30's, climaxed by uphill displays of championship class on two successive Saturdays, has added the first state title in 13

All-Maine Team

The "All-Star" teams have been selected, giving an opportunity for Monday quarterbacks to present their differences of opinions. However, the selections show some unanimity on certain Maine Players.

The "All-Maine" team, selected by Portland newspapers, has been long considered "the team" in State Series play. This year Maine placed four men on the team.

The Coaches "All-State" team picked by the coaches of the four Maine colleges was: ends, Cunnane of Bates, Ireland of Bowdoin, and Wing of Maine; tackles, Sibson of Bowdoin and Leahy of Bates; guards, Zollo of Maine and Puiia of Colby; center, Angelosanti of Bates; backs, Blanchard of Bates, Marden of Colby, McAvoy of Bowdoin, Dombkowski and Coulombe of Maine.

The "All-Maine" team selected by the Boston Post included Norm Benson, Flash Gordon, Phil Coulombe, and Rabbit Dombkowski.

The Associated Press in an Eastern "All-Star" team gave honorable mention to "Rabbit" Dombkowski as a back.

years and a brilliant record of six wins in seven starts to Maine's long football history.

Maine grasped the state crown, its first since Fred Brice's eleven won in 1934, by refusing to stay back on its heels where Bates had placed the Pale Blue at Lewiston (Nov. 15), putting on a comeback fight that resulted in a hard-earned 19-13 victory before 6,000 cold fans. Only the week before, Maine had performed similarly to down Bowdoin 13-0.

The victory, which appeared almost beyond reach after a hectic third period in which Art Blanchard and the Bates team had roared back with two touchdowns for a 13-13 deadlock at that point, gave Maine a clean sweep in the state. The Black Bears had romped against Colby 33-6 before overcoming Bowdoin and Bates. The latter two clubs, by the way, tied with Colby for the runnerup berth as a result of Bowdoin's 21-6 triumph over Colby.

Only Loss To N. H.

Only New Hampshire, rated as one of the finest small college teams in the East and invited to the Glass Bowl, marred the Maine record for the year. New Hampshire downed the Pale Blue of Coach Eck Allen 28-7, but Maine soundly defeated Rhode Island (33-13), Northeastern (26-7) before starting its sweep of the state.

The climactic victory was a team affair, as was the season's success, but three underclassmen in the backfield—Henry Dombkowski, Phil Coulombe, and Reggie Lord—and the team's seniors played vital roles.

It was Dombkowski, running with even more drive than usual, who spearheaded the Maine attack from quick-opening T plays. Coulombe and Lord also performed valiantly in carrying roles.

Quarterback Hal Parady, one of the seniors who will be missed badly in another year, was the guiding genius of the attack, directing his club smartly, handling the ball deceptively, and passing perfectly to Bob Emerson, a senior end, for one touchdown.

Four other seniors—Phil Murdock,

Henry Dombkowski '49 of Paterson, N. J., backfield star, was named All-Maine back and also placed on a second, All-New England Small College Team.

Sherwood Gordon, Norm Benson and George Marsanskis—were vital factors in the line, which paved the road to the title by winning the decision over the strong Bates wall. Steve MacPherson, capable reserve fullback, and Pete Tsacalotos, reserve back, are the only other men to leave via graduation.

13-0 At Half

After Maine drove to a pair of second period touchdowns and a 13-0 lead over Bates at half-time, the only question appeared to be how large a margin the Black Bears would amass in rolling to the title.

Maine used a new wrinkle in driving to those scores; Allen used an offensive backfield consisting of his three best runners—Dombkowski, Coulombe and Lord—with Parady. Coulombe replaced big Alton Sproul, the blocking fullback.

It worked effectively, too, although Maine couldn't get a scoring advance underway in the first period. Maine had the edge in ground gained during those 15 minutes. Dombkowski contributed 26 yards on the first play from scrimmage, but the Pale Blue was deep in its own territory most of the time.

At the outset of the second period, Maine was back on its own 30 where an Art Blanchard boot had carried. And then Maine started to go. Six plays carried to the Bates 30, including a 15-yard plunge by Coulombe when Maine gambled from the Bates 45 on fourth down, three to go. Seven more ground plays carried to the Bates one, Dombkowski picking up 24 of the yards, and the Rabbit drove over for the score, Jesse Castanias, a big man for Bates, blocked Dombkowski's placement for the point.

Scoring Pass

When Maine took over on its own 48 a few minutes later after a short Blanchard punt, the Bears wasted no time in scoring again. Parady sent Dombkowski into the line for three yards, and Bates bunched closer to halt the ground attack which had hewed out a score earlier.

But Parady was ready. He dropped back, sighted lanky Bob Emerson outdistancing the Bates right halfback, and dropped a perfect pass into his arms at the Bates 25. Emerson's long legs ate up the remaining yardage for an overall gain of 49 yards and a touchdown. This time, Dombkowski's kick went squarely through the uprights.

The possibility of a runaway was squelched at the very start of the third period when Art Blanchard, proving his greatness once again, and his Bates mates drove 79 yards on nine plays for a score after the kickoff.

The big bites were a 22-yard pass from Blanchard to Bill Cunnane, a grand end, a 36-yard toss to Dick Scott that brought the ball to Maine's 15, and Castanias' 15-yard sweep for the touchdown. The latter was a beautiful thrust, Castanias moving to his right, sweeping past two Maine men who had clean shots at him and bursting through the secondary for the score. Johnny Thomas placekicked the point, and things were looking differently.

A 15-yard penalty and a short kick gave Bates possession on Maine's 35 later in the quarter, and Blanchard again powered the way for a touchdown that equalized matters. Blanchard lost a yard, Castanias made five and a pass went incomplete to give Bates a fourth down, six to go on Maine's 31.

Many teams might have passed, but Bates gave the ball to Blanchard, and the little guy with the big heart didn't fail. Sweeping to his right, Blanchard evaded two Maine defenders, jumped another who had been knocked down, outraced a fourth and cut to his left as he went into the secondary. Frantic Maine men finally corralled him at the 10, but as he went down hard, he tossed a lateral off to the trailing Al Howlett, and that speedster was in the end zone before Maine realized what had happened.

That made it 13-13, and the way the game was going the try for point was all-important. Johnny Thomas' first boot had been low, just clearing the crossbar, and this time Allen instructed Alan Wing, the lanky end, to swap positions with one of the backers-up, Sherwood Gordon. When the ball was snapped, Wing raced into the line, leaped high into the air and deflected the low kick with one arm.

So it was a 13-13 contest, and all Maine needed to earn the title outright was a deadlock. But the Pale Blue wasn't content with a tie.

Starting from its own 29 after the kick-off, Maine ate up yardage in huge gulps, the big line outcharging Bates' forwards and tearing open holes for Dombkowski, Lord, and Coulombe. Five plays carried to the Bates 34, Dombkowski going 12 yards in one gallop and Lord sweeping 10 in another try. A short pass from Parady to Wing picked up 14 more and Maine resorted to power from there on.

Dombkowski and Coulombe alternated to the Maine six, where Norm Parent stopped one play, but Dombkowski bulleted over on the next for what proved to be the winning margin.

But Bates wasn't finished. A 32-yard kickoff return by Castanias gave Bates the chance to pin Maine deep in its own territory,

Here came Bates' dying gasp, and it almost turned the tide. Nick Valoras passed to Scott for 10 yards. Blanchard fired a long one to the right, and there was Howlett, all alone, racing madly for the ball. If it had connected it would have been a certain touchdown, but Howlett's desperate efforts couldn't quite get him to the ball.

One more play remained, and this one, too, almost went all the way. Valoras fired an aerial to Cunnane, who grabbed the ball, raced up the left sideline and appeared on his way. But Reggie Lord came over fast, caught the lanky end on the 29, and the dramatic contest was over.

South Campus: A late October afternoon view shows the latest developments on the southern end of the campus. The farm buildings in the foreground do not include the large poultry plant of the experiment station. Nor is the Cabin and Trailer colony, south of South Apartments and Estabrooke Hall, shown.

The following buildings are identified: 1. Agricultural Engineering Building with Rogers Hall directly to the west; 2. the observatory; 3. South Stevens; 4. Lord Hall; 5. Wingate Hall; 6. Fernald Hall (old Brick Hall); 7. Alumni Hall; 8. New Library; 9. Coburn Hall; 10. Holmes Hall; 11. Winslow Hall and Judging Pavilion; 12. The Maples (now used for office space); 13. Merrill Hall; 14. Poultry Buildings; 15. Horticultural Building; 16. Colvin Hall; 17. Balentine Hall; 18. East and West Halls; 19. Carnegie Hall (old Library); 20. President's House; 21. Steam Plant; 22. SAE; 23. Dean's House; 24. Delta Tau Delta; 25. Kappa Sigma; 26. Phi Eta Kappa; 27. Sigma Chi; 28. New women's dorm under construction.

Apologia

The Alumni Homecoming Committee, desirous of avoiding one of last year's mistakes, planned to have the Homecoming program in the hands of alumni in ample time for them to make plans for returning to Orono on November 7-8.

And so the layout for the announcement, complete with Phil Brockway's clever sketch showing alumni coming from all directions (which they did), was sent to the University Press. Mechanical difficulties in addressing the announcements after delivery from the Press delayed the mailing a day. But the mail sacks with 5,000 announcements were delivered to the Orono Post Office on October 24.

What happened from then on is both history and mystery. Many thoughtful alumni advised the Alumni office of the date of delivery of the program to them. One week later some of them were delivered by letter carriers in Portland. Two weeks later, November 7, the announcements had reached Boston, and Worcester on November 9. Another Alumnus reported receiving his copy in New York City on November 15.

Some letters from alumni viewed this in a slightly humorous way, others were critical, and rightfully so, in their reproach. We are much indebted to those alumni for their letters for without them we would not have known that third class mail could be SO slow.

Many alumni could not be accommodated at the Homecoming luncheon honoring "Wally" Wallace. Because of the overload that the University kitchens are now working under it was impossible for manager Bill Wells '31 to set places for more than four hundred in the gym. Also because of these conditions a hot meal could not be served, but alumni were agreed that the luncheon was a good one.

Hell Week

Citizens in the vicinity of Orono no longer close their shutters, take in everything that is movable from their property and ominously warn their youngsters to stay indoors when fraternity Hell Week begins. Informal initiations take place in three days and are limited to the fraternity house and property.

Gone are the days when some initiate must find the epitaph of one Silas Ephraim Salter, the only chance being that it can be found in a cemetery within fifteen miles of Orono. Nor, is the sleep of the co-eds disturbed at 3 a.m. by some Romeo urged on by upperclass paddles. The thousand and one "missions" to various points in Penobscot County have given way to informal house initiations.

Some alumni bemoan the passing of he-man initiations, but the townspeople and the campus agree that the new order involves less wear and tear on everyone.

Fire Fighters Praised

Although the forest fire emergency in Maine is now well past, letters of commendation and appreciation for the work of University of Maine faculty and students during the crisis continue to arrive at the University.

Dr. Arthur A. Hauck read excerpts from several of the letters at the general assembly on November 25.

"Just a note of appreciation to you and your student body and faculty that I may in some degree express my gratitude for their splendid efforts and contributions of time and services in our recent emergency," Governor Horace Hildreth wrote in part.

The selectmen of Bar Harbor, Southwest Harbor, and Tremont, and the town manager of Mt. Desert wrote jointly, in part, as follows: "May we express to you our gratitude for the assistance rendered us by the men of the University of Maine in the disastrous fire which lately swept a considerable part of this island.

"Some 1200 men from the University in relays fought the fire on this island. Aside from their numbers, they proved amazingly effective in achieving success, as their organization, discipline, and leadership made them successful out of all proportion to their numbers.

"Those of us who saw them in action in the forests and on the mountains are proud of them and are glad to state that to them, in a high degree, we owe our undestroyed and undamaged towns in the western and southern parts of our island, and the untouched beauty of some two-thirds of the forests surrounding us."

This letter was signed by Seth E. Libby, chairman, selectmen, Bar Harbor; H. A. Thomas, town manager, Mt. Desert; Stanwood H. King, first selectman, Southwest Harbor; J. E. Wooster, first selectman, Tremont.

Raymond E. Rendall '16, forest commissioner, wrote: "I am taking a brief minute to acknowledge the very great help your students have been in our present fire needs. The way they have been quickly dispatched in organized groups has been of valuable help to our wardens in the field..."

Captain Edward Ellsberg, USNR, coordinator of fire defense, Southwest Harbor, wrote: "I wish to express to you my personal admiration for the conduct and effectiveness of your students in this operation."

The chief of the Somesville Fire Company, Isaac E. Parker, wrote: "They (the students) were tireless in their efforts to do everything physically possible to aid us in our danger; they showed the finest spirit of cooperation, and certainly demonstrated the highest type of American manhood by their courteous and constructive attitude..."

Hollis M. Smith, postmaster, Mount Desert, wrote: "I can't begin to tell you how much we all appreciate the splendid job which was done by the Maine students. They worked like beavers and did their work efficiently. Without their aid the fire would not have been controlled as soon, giving it plenty of opportunity to devastate more of our homes and land..."

The Rev. Allan McGaw of Mount Desert, wrote: "I wish to express my personal appreciation for the excellent work of the students from your institution...and to convey thanks of many people from whom you may not hear."

O. C. Nutting of Mount Desert, wrote: "...I feel I bespeak the opinion of all our people when I say that it is doubtful that our village could have been saved had not their help come at such a critical time..."

Among those received by the Brunswick campus was one from the selectmen of Hollis: "The cooperation and help rendered by the students and members of the faculty in this town during the recent fire was greatly appreciated.

"All the residents of this town are indebted to these willing volunteers."

The fire chief of Topsham wrote, as follows: "We wish to thank all those from the Brunswick campus who helped in fighting the recent fires. They proved to be a fine group of boys who cooperated in every way."

Mary Ellen Chase Gives Manuscripts

The original manuscripts of five of the best known works of the noted author, Mary Ellen Chase '09, have been presented to the University. These were displayed in a special exhibit in the New Library during November and attracted much interest.

Dr. Mary Ellen Chase received her M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Minnesota. She was a member of the English department at the University of Minnesota from 1918-1926; and since 1926 she has been a member of the English department at Smith College, receiving the rank of full professor in 1929.

The original manuscripts which are now on display are Mary Peters, which Miss Chase began in Cambridge, England, in August, 1933, and finished in Northampton, Mass., on July 6, 1934; Silas Crockett, which she began in January, 1935, and finished in Boston in October, 1935; Dawn in Lyonesse, which is a revised manuscript written mostly at Juniper Lodge, Chocorua, N. H., in the summer of 1937; Uplands, which was written in Northampton, Mass., between September, 1926, and March, 1937; and This England, which was begun at Goasse Province, France, in April, 1936, continued in Cambridge, England, and finished in Blue Hill, Maine, where Miss Chase was born and brought up.

Other books written by Miss Chase which are also on display are The Silver Shell, A Goodly Heritage, A Goodly Fellowship, The Golden Asse and Other Essays, Windswept, Mary Christmas, The Bible and the Common Reader, and The Writing of Informal Essays.

Fred P. Loring '16, assistant to the dean of agriculture, University of Maine, has been named chairman of the program committee of the New England Feed Dealers' Conference for the coming year. The next annual conference will be held at the University of Maine campus on September 9 and 10, 1948.

Scholarships—

Three college scholarships have been won by a Maine 4-H club boy and girl who are now attending the University. Miss Mary Elizabeth Putnam of Monroë, who has an outstanding 4-H Club record of 8 years duration, has been named winner of the Eugene Hale scholarship of $50, awarded for outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, and character, and of the 1946 National Girls' 4-H record scholarship of $200, awarded for the best record of their year's club work. William H. Annis of West Rockport has been chosen as a winner of the Esso scholarship of $100 a year for four years of college.

More Pictures?

Is your November Alumnus at hand? Page through the first two-thirds of the magazine. You will find only twenty pictures. Not enough pictures would you say?

"One picture is worth a thousand words," says an old Chinese proverb, and we heartily agree. But one small picture costs more than one annual dues. The total cost of pictures including the cover last month was over $100—thirty-five $3 dues payments.

You want more pictures. Your editors want more pictures. Your Alumni Association needs more dues payers!

Local Associations

Philadelphia Alumni

A joint dinner meeting of Maine and Bates alumni of the Philadelphia area was held on October 24. In spite of the postponement of the Bates-Maine football game the following day, the meeting was declared a success by both groups. The Maine contingent counted 26 members and guests against 24 for Bates. Moving pictures of the Bikini bomb tests and of the Bates-Maine football game of 1946 were enjoyed.

Rochester, N. Y., Alumni

Dean Joseph Murray '25 was guest of honor at the meeting of the Rochester, N. Y., alumni in that city on November 12. Also present as a guest was Placement Director Philip J. Brockway '31. Latest reports of campus developments were given by the speakers and supplemented by several color slides of campus scenes shown by retiring president George Hill '38. During the business meeting Theodore Zak '28 was elected president.

Eastern Association of U. of M. Women

Speaking on the topic "Along the Way" Miss Josephine W. Gray delighted members of the Eastern Association of University of Maine Women at an evening meeting on November 19 at the Bangor House, the speech being an account of Miss Gray's experiences as a teacher of speech and elocution.

Miss Mary Quinn, president, presided at the meeting which was attended by 35 members. Refreshments were served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hester Hanson, assisted by Miss Pauline Dunn, Mrs. Winona Sawyer, and Mrs. Julia Maines.

Portland Club of U. of M. Women

A meeting of the Portland Club of U. of M. Women was held on November 6 at the Graymore Hotel. The program consisted of a panel discussion by the league of Women Voters. Business transacted included the announcements of a food sale on November 13, a Christmas party to be held December 22, and co-chairmen for a scholarship dance to be held in February.

CORRECTION

The Alumnus editors in announcing the death of Amon B. Brown '07 last month incorrectly gave his fraternity affiliation as A.T.O. Mr. Brown was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. Your editors present apologies for the error.

OTHER COLLEGES

The editors believe that Maine alumni are interested in developments at the other colleges in the state and from time to time will present news of these institutions.

Colby College has moved to its new campus on Mayflower Hill, a beautiful site a mile and a half west of Waterville overlooking the Messalonskee valley. While some students are still housed on the old campus, it is hoped next fall the college will be completely moved.

Buildings now in use include the Lorimer Chapel, Miller Library, Roberts Union, Women's Union, women's dormitory, three men's dormitories and some athletic facilities

The entire cost of this new campus, one of outstanding design, has been financed through the subscription of millions of dollars by alumni and friends. Colby is now raising more than two million dollars among alumni for additional buildings.

A campaign to raise six and one-quarter million dollars has been launched by Bowdoin College as a Sesquicentennial Fund. Their immediate goal is three million, with the remaining three million to be realized by 1952.

The funds will be used for a new classroom building, a chemistry building, an addition to the library, remodeling the science building, a covered hockey rink, a theatre, an arctic museum, an addition to the gym, and endowment for these and for teaching.

Early in November, Colby announced a change in its player probation policy to allow any student in the college to participate in extracurricular activity, including varsity sports, except in extreme cases of low marks.

The Associated Press reported that this actually gave the college a "stricter eligibility" ruling, raising the academic standards while lowering requirements for participation in sports.

Previously any student who flunked two or more courses was ineligible for extracurricular activity. Under the new ruling any student regularly enrolled and carrying a normal course is eligible for participation in any extracurricular activity.

JUAN VERNET CILLEY. At the age of 83 Juan V. Cilley, outstanding pioneer and leader in the railroad industry in Argentina, died in Buenos Aires on October 9, 1947. He had been responsible for the construction of many important railroad lines in Argentina, and had been General Director of the Midland Railroads. He had been retired for several years, and had been gravely ill for some time. He is survived by his wife and eight children, who reside in Belgrano, Argentina. He was a member of Beta Theta Pi.

1896

FRANK P. PRIDE. Judge Frank P. Pride died on July 20 of heart disease after a very brief illness at his home in Westbrook. Long active in civic affairs, Judge Pride served for 24 years as judge of the Westbrook Municipal Court. He was active in the practice of law until his death, and also was serving as clerk of the Westbrook Trust Company. He was a member of Kappa Sigma and a graduate of Boston University Law School.

1904

LEONARD ALEXANDER LAWRENCE. Word has been received at the Alumni Office of the death of Leonard A. Lawrence, who was associate professor of civil engineering at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. No details of his passing are available.

1905

LINCOLN ROSS COLCORD. The death of Lincoln R. Colcord, author, literary critic, and editor, occurred on November 16 in a Belfast hospital. He attended the University intermittently from 1900-1906, and wrote the words to Maine's beloved "Stein Song" in 1909. He had been a civil engineer on the Bangor-Aroostook Railroad, a newspaper correspondent, a critic on the New York Herald Tribune, and associate editor of "The Nation" magazine. He was the author of a number of books of sea stories and nautical history, helped to found the Penobscot Marine Museum in Searsport, and was one of the founders and editors of "The American Neptune," a quarterly founded in 1940 and devoted to marine stories. He was the recipient of an honorary Master of Arts degree from the University in 1922 and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in 1924. He is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter, and a sister. He was a member of Kappa Sigma.

1906

CHARLES PATRICK CONNERS. On Nov. 4 Charles P. Connors, prominent Bangor attorney, died following a period of illness. A graduate of the University Law School, Mr. Connors was a former member of the State Legislature and served in the Bangor City Council, and was active in civic affairs. Funeral services took place Nov. 6

1907

FRED POTE HOSMER. The Alumni Office has been notified of the death of Fred P. Hosmer, formerly of Sunset, who graduated from the University with a B.S. degree in chemistry, and was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity; however, no details concerning his death are available

1910

THURLOW TRACEY WORKMAN. At the age of 61 prominent Bloomington citizen Thurlow T. Workman died at a California hospital following a period of illness. He had been in business in San Bernardino and was very active in church and civic affairs in Rialto and Bloomington for 33 years. He was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Mr. Workman was one of the pioneer citizens of the Bloomington area.

RALPH ROSCOE DAY. At his summer home in Cornish Ralph R. Day died on November 1. Professionally Mr. Day had achieved distinction as a construction engineer. He was cited by the Navy Department for his valued services as a consulting engineer in World War II. His work had taken him to many parts of the world including Hawaii, Canada, Alaska, Haiti, Mexico, and several Central and South American countries. During recent years he has been associated with Sander-son & Porter, a prominent New York firm of construction and consulting engineers.

Always interested in the University, he had had relatively little opportunity to render personal service because of his location outside of the United States. But in those projects in which he had a part, he did a conscientious, constructive and efficient job. His quiet, tactful leadership had won for him the esteem of his associates. He was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma.

RAYMOND HENRY COHOON. On November 22 Raymond H. Cohoon died in Portland. He had been an agent with the Travelers Insurance Company for over 20 years. A native of Bucksport, he graduated from the Seminary there and also attended Pratt Institute. He was a Mason and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

1919

FRANK EDWARD DONOVAN. On October 15th Frank E. Donovan died at his home in Norwell, Mass., at the age of 52, following a period of ill health. While at the University he was active in many college functions and was a member of Theta Chi fraternity. He entered the waterproof paper field in 1919 with the United Paper company, and became its president, remaining in this capacity until his death. He is survived by his wife, a son, and a daughter. He was a member of Theta Chi.

1920

ERMONT GETCHELL FROST. On Nov. 14 Ermont G. Frost of Springvale died in Sanford at the age of 52. He was a graduate of the University with a B.A. in Economics and Sociology and was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. Funeral services were held in Springvale.

1940

FLOYD MOULTON SEVERY. The death of Floyd M. Severy in California at a Naval Hospital on April 18 has been reported to the Alumni Office. He succumbed to heart illness following pneumonia and was ill for several weeks previous to his demise. He was a veteran of the Marine Corps, joining the service in January, 1942, and being discharged in June, 1945, with the rank of sergeant. He served overseas in Samoa in 1942 and was in the Intelligence Division at the time of discharge.

MARJORIE WHITEHOUSE PETERSON. The death of Marjorie W. Peterson occurred suddenly on October 21, following infantile paralysis. She is survived by her husband, Roy A. Peterson, Jr., and a baby son, born in May, 1947.

Last week, my firm, The Pilgrim Press, published a book by "Pete" Wilson '23 (Reverend Arthur Wilson of Providence). We had a publication date party at Beneficent Church, Providence, on the evening of November 10, with speeches, reception, refreshments and exhibit of original drawings and paintings from which the book jacket was made. Incidentally, we sold a good many copies of the book autographed by Pete. The title is Weybosset Bridge, a narrative of early Rhode Island history, and it bids fair to do quite well for itself. You may remember that Pete married Mabel Peabody '23.

1923 Mrs. Harry E. Knight,

Hello Gang—

First thing this month we have a number of things which should have been mentioned before, but were late in reaching me. Among these items are many marriages.

Georgia Parsons and Penn Eustis were married in June and are living on Penobscot Street in Orono. Fay Jones and Gin Shiang Eng of New York and Jacksonville, Florida, were married on Oct. 12 at All Souls Church in Bangor. Fay's husband is manager of the "New Canton" restaurant in Jacksonville where they are living. Another October wedding was that of Mary Burpee and Kenneth Crabtree. Mary is assistant credit manager at the Montgomery-Ward Catalog service in Bangor and Kenneth is a sophomore at the University.

On August 23, Marian Littlefield and Leroy Hussey were married in Augusta. They are living on Hemingway Street in Boston, while Leroy is attending Boston University.

The latter part of August, the 24th, to be exact, is the date that Arlene and Moe Pilot tied the knot at "Lakeview Lodge" in Newport in a lovely outdoor ceremony. The Pilots are in Boston where Moe is attending B. U. Millie Coles and Dick Geisberg were also married in August. "Freddie" Amborn and Al Morton were married during the summer and are both teaching at Calais High School.

"Bob" Johnston, who is teaching Aggie and coaching at Mapleton High School, was married to Inez Perkins of Westfield on July 12th.

June 28th is the date of the wedding of Barbara Potts to Tommy Smith at Waban, Mass. Barbara graduated from Simmons in June. Tommy was a chief engineer in the Merchant Marine during the war. They are living in Boston.

Prudence Speirs and Leon Higgins were married on Sept. 4 in Bangor. Leon is still a student at Maine.

At Winn, late in August, Ralph Hooke and Janet Wyman were married. Ralph served in the Infantry overseas and was discharged Nov., 1946.

Another June wedding is that of Pauline Stevens and Al Clements in Bangor. Polly and Al are living at 810 Congress Street now. They were both in the service; Polly in the WAVES and Al in the 503rd Parachute Infantry Regiment in the Pacific.

Last March (seems a long time ago, doesn't it?) Helen Strout of Old Town and Ralph Peavey were made one. Ralph is working in Cranston, R. I., and they live in Providence.

September 21 is the date of the wedding of Marian Pike and John Reece of Millville, Pa., at Westboro. John is a student at M.I.T. and Marian works at the college. The couple live in Boston.

The most recent marriage that I have heard of is that of Wilfred Cote and Irene Campbell. Irene has been teaching at Erskine Academy in South China. They are living in a trailer in Orono.

Here are a few engagements, too: Louisa Bacon of Naples to James Duffus of Saco. Louisa is home demonstration agent for the University Extension Service in Kennebec County. Her fiancé is employed by Central Maine Power Co. in Biddeford. Carol Ann Rice and Richard Keiser of Wilmette, Ill., are engaged. Both graduated in June, and Dick is employed by the Hollingsworth and Whitney Corp. at Waterville.

Gay Weaver graduated from Jackson College in June and is engaged to Ten Broeck Cornell of Newton Highlands, a student at Tufts.

I know there must be many more marriages and engagements which have somehow slipped by my trusty bloodhounds! Wish you would pass any information on to me.

Others in the class are employed in various fields: Charles Webb is Principal of Castine High and is teaching mathematics and coaching; Charles Chapman, Jr. of Augusta is an engineering instructor at good old Maine; Eugene Mawhinney served as Washington County 4-H Club agent during the summer; Charles S. Cushing is working at Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, N. Y.; Harriet Woodsum is teaching mathematics at Washburn High School; Esther Ring is Home Economics teacher at Harmony; Francis Farnum is employed in the sales department of Bangor's new radio station, WGUY; Helen Whitney has been elected to the Wilbert G. Mallett School faculty in Farmington as a teacher in the upper grades; Aubrey McLaughlin is a 4 H Club agent for the University Extension Service; Alge Vaitones is teaching Commercial subjects at Easton High School; Starr Roberts is at Miliken Memorial Hospital in Island Falls, assisting the hospital manager and having charge of the operating room; and Paul McGouldrick, Jr., is in the South German U. S. Occupation Zone, studying military government for the U. S. War Department.

I have high hope that many of you will drop me a line with some "red-hot" news.

MILLIONS OF TELEPHONE USERS

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF MANAGEMENT IN THE BELL SYSTEM

IT USED TO BE that the owners of practically every business were themselves the managers of the business. Today, as far as large businesses are concerned, a profound change has taken place. In the Bell System, for instance, employe management, up from the ranks, and not owner management, is responsible for running the business.

This management has been trained for its job in the American ideal of respect for the individual and equal opportunity for each to develop his talents to the fullest. A little thought will bring out the important significance of these facts.

Management is, of course, vitally interested in the success of the enterprise it manages, for if it doesn't succeed, it will lose its job.

So far as the Bell System is concerned, the success of the enterprise depends upon the ability of management to carry on an essential nationwide telephone service in the public interest.

This responsibility requires that management act as a trustee for the interest of all concerned: the millions of telephone users, the hundreds of thousands of employe, and the hundreds of thousands of stockholders. Management necessarily must do the best it can to reconcile the interests of these groups.

Of course, management is not infallible; but with its intimate knowledge of all the factors, management is in a better position than anybody else to consider intelligently and act equitably for each of these groups—and in the Bell System there is every incentive for it to wish to do so.

Certainly in the Bell System there is no reason either to underpay labor or overcharge customers in order to increase the "private profits of private employers," for its profits are limited by regulation. In fact, there is no reason whatever for management to exploit or to favor any one of the three great groups as against the others and to do so would be plain stupid on the part of management.

THE BUSINESS cannot succeed in the long run without well-paid employe with good working conditions, without adequate returns to investors who have put their savings in the enterprise, and without reasonable prices to the customers who buy its services. On the whole, these conditions have been well met over the years in the Bell System.

Admittedly, this has not been and is not an easy problem to solve fairly for all concerned. However, collective bargaining with labor means that labor's point of view is forcibly presented. What the investor must have is determined quite definitely by what is required to attract the needed additional capital, which can only be obtained in competition with other industries.

AND in our regulated business, management has the responsibility, together with regulatory authorities, to see to it that the rates to the public are such as to assure the money, credit and plant that will give the best possible telephone service at all times.

More and better telephone service at a cost as low as fair treatment of employe and a reasonable return to stockholders will permit is the aim and responsibility of management in the Bell System.
