A Thought for Maine Colleges

Satisfaction with Claude Thornhill's orchestra at the Military Ball was very evident last week. And announcement was made at Bowdoin a short time ago that Count Basie would play there just before Christmas.

All of which brings this thought to mind. Could not the colleges in the state get together and arrange to engage the same orchesthey not then be able to secure "big time" bands without overly straining their finances?

The Colleges and the Far East

Between bomb-blasts in London and Berlin, Americans catch glimpses of another war. Many see in the Sino-Japanese conflict Llewellyn's "How Green Was My Treasury of the World's Great Letfar-reaching influences on the western world. In the American college press, opinions differ as to the imminence of hostilities with Japan. But continued aid to China and ever-stiffening resistance to Tokyo find vociferous support.

Fact that the recently reopened Burma Road stays open is York Times has said, "This is the best Boothe, whom most of us remember Lohengrin. called "significant" by the University of Minnesota Daily. The book Ernest Hemingway has written, as author of "The Women"; "New road, comments the Daily, "symbolizes the remaining bonds between the fullest, the deepest, the truest. It England: Indian Summer," by Van Free China and the democratic west. British reversal of policy will be one of the major novels in Wyck Brooks; and Osa Johnson's "I therefore stiffened Chinese morale-and Secretary Hull's overtures, which prompted the British action, strengthened Chinese faith in the United States' Far Eastern policy.'

American extension of credits to China is applauded by the Eastern Illinois State Teachers College News, which says: "Despite the fact that our chances of getting our money back from destitute China are slim, the loan will further spur her dogged resistance to Japan, at least delaying, if not preventing, our entry into a Japanese war. Far more important than the loan, however, is the embargo put on scrap iron.... We furnish the market for about 75 per cent of Japan's raw silk and we still buy most of her manufactured wares. Our own industry would benefit greatly and Japan might be brought Friday quickly to her knees if a boycott was placed on her merchandise."

At Massachusetts Institute of Technology, The Tech concludes that "although the attendant risk is heightened, the steps we have taken in the east ought not to be revoked. This aggressive policy, of course, slices our security in the east. The Philippines are still highly vulnerable and the position of Americans in China becomes more perilous. Apart from these conditions, however, no major risk is involved."

More concerned is the Daily Northwestern. "There can be no doubt," declares this publication, "that a situation is fast developing in the east which could very possibly end in war with Japan. It certainly means that we have abandoned any pretense of neutrality in the Sino-Japanese struggle. It also means that we are perhaps closer to war today than we have been since 1918."

Summing up and appealing for more aid to China, the Daily Texan points out that "the spirit of China is undaunted. There is no sign of weakening, no sign of surrender. The military might of Japan is at a stalemate. On the other hand, for the tens of millions of the Chinese people who are directly involved in this invasion the condition is tragic. Let us help our own people and one another, but let us not forget the plight of a noble people whose wisdom and learning were ancient and great when the people of the western lands were little short of savages."

While Bob Willets is taking time out from civilization in order to delve into the colder aspects of forestry, I'll try to disclose some facts I've learned since I have been at Maine.

Once Upon a Time

THESE facts all date back to a statement Ted Curtis made at the football banquet. It was something to the effect that Maine played fifteen games away and two in Orono. This all happened in the basketball schedule nine-

At that time the facilities for basketball were very limited. The Alumni gym was the only place the games could be held in Orono, but Maine played week of actual practice time left betwo games in the Bangor City Hall. There were two games in Orono that fore the opening of the season, there year, also, and both of these resulted in overwhelming victories for the Bears. The Portland A.C. lost by a score of 48-21 and the New England College Five was held to 11 points while Maine scored 35. In all of her home games it was unusual for Maine to use over nine or ten men, and the quota for the trips averaged seven men.

Toured New York and Ohio

THE following is a schedule of the 1921 basketball season, just to show you what a chore the boys had ahead of them at the beginning of the season.

Portland A. C. at Portland	17	46
New Hampshire at Durham	15	9
New Hampshire at Durham	24	35

Imagine the number of classes the fellows missed while on these trips. This, combined with the lack of co-operation from the student body, resulted in basketball being dropped from the list of varsity sports in 1929. The lack Lowell Ward and Dick McKeen. of school spirit was due to the fact that there wasn't room enough in Alumni Hall to hold everyone who came to see the games.

In 1934 the Memorial gym was built and basketball came into its own at Maine. From two home games in 1921 to six games this year, and finally to seven next year when Bowdoin will join the schedule, basketball has grown in no small way. According to Ted Curtis' figures, there were 1,000 people turned away at the Rhode Island game alone last year.

Last year there were fourteen men who went on the trips each time the team played away. On one trip in 1921, seven men played four games in four Curtis back to guard on his number days. Basketball Squads Have Week to Work Before First Games

Workouts for the varsity basketball team became much more strenuous this week, as Head Coach Bill Kenyon drove his charges hard in preparation for the coming season. With but a remained many details to be ironed out before the Bears tackle Rhode Island on the evening of Jan. 9th.

Squad Scrimmaging Daily Daily scrimmages marked the sesions of the candidates all during the week, with every man on the squad seeing plenty of service in the hardfought inter-team battles. Coach Kenyon devoted some time to a thorough explanation of the 1940 basketball rules, believing that every player should be familiar with all the fine Announce Rankings points to be found in the current rule of the game.

Kenyon also emphasized the several sections of the rulebook, in which stress is placed on the players' offensive actions when he is not handling the ball himself.

Sophomores Looking Good Coach Kenyon was particularly pleased with the work of several of his sophomore candidates in practice.

New Events on Interclass Track Meet Program

Worlds Record in 28-Pound Weight Toss Predicted; 5 Dashes

An unusual schedule of events, including five hurdle races, three short dashes, and two shot put and two weight throwing events, will feature the annual interclass track meet, to be held Friday and Saturday afternoon in the field house.

The sophomores, winners in last week's Frosh-Soph meet, 108-27, will again be overwhelming favorites, with neither the juniors nor seniors expected to give them much opposition The two upper classes, in fact, will be hard put to defeat the freshmen, with only the juniors given much chance of doing so.

First Competition for Stars

The meet will be the first competition for several men who are expected to star this winter, including Stan Phillips, sprint ace and 100 yard dash winner at the State Meet last spring; Ken Robertson, sprinter and broad jumper; Franklin Dexter, pole vault-The All-Maine field hockey team er and high jumper; and Herb or boxing instruction, and have been The first team is made up of the fol- and Jake Serota, 35 pound weight star. Purpose of the unusual schedule of events is to give as many men as possible a chance to score. Each competitor will be limited to three events. Jean McDonough, c,h,b,; Cecilia Sullivan, l.h.b.; Doris Bradeen, r.f.; Eve-to the winner who breaks or ties a

Stan Johnson, who has competed for Webster, Cowin, Ward, Ashman, the varsity for three years and will may compete for the seniors. Coach Chester A. Jenkins predicts that both more, will throw the lighter of the two weights over 75 feet.

World's Record Probable

The 28-6ound weight is an event that was dropped from the schedule of track events in this country several decades ago, but will be used in the freshman meets this year between the Maine colleges. In all probability the winning distance will be a world's record in this event, for Perkins and Johnson are the best weight throwers in the world today, far better than anyone who threw in the days when the 28-pound weight was used. It is not known exactly, however, what the best record ever made with this weight

The javelin, discus, and two weight throws will be held late Friday afternoon, while the other field events and all the running events will be held Saturday, commencing at 2 p.m.

The undefeated sophomore track team rolled along to another overwhelming victory last week when the freshmen were the victims, 108-27. Only yearling winner was Al Hutchinson, who took the javelin throw with a toss of 149 feet 21/2 inches. Freshmen took all three places in this event.

Niles Perkins, former Bowdoin star. opened his University of Maine career by setting a new meet record, 48 feet 3 inches, in the 35-pound weight throw, but the outstanding performance of the meet was that by Bill Hadlock, who showed mid-season form in running the 45 yard high hurdles in 6.1 seconds,

Hadlock High Score

Hadlock was individual high scorer, with 18 points. He won both the high and low hurdles and the broad jump and tied for first in the high jump. Hutchinson was top man for the freshmen, with 11 points. He placed second in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Dick Martinez clipped 12 seconds off the meet record, 9 off the college record, as he took the mile-and-a-half run in 7:21.7. Farris, second, and Condon, third, a freshman, were both also under the old records.
