MOREHEAD STATE UNIVERSITY

GENE GRAY '70

This Cover:

It was in the fall of 1926 when J. M. Clayton, a Morehead businessman, announced he would sponsor a contest to select a nickname and a song for the athletic teams at the town's new state college.

Miss Peaches Ellis, now Mrs. Jack Cecil of Morehead, submitted "Bald Eagles" as a name suggestion and won the $10 first prize. A song also was chosen but it since has been changed.

Mr. Clayton, as a condition for sponsoring the contest, got the right to use the newly-picked moniker in naming his restaurant. Shortly thereafter, "The Eagle's Nest" was born.

"Bald Eagle" was used for a few years but it eventually gave way to "Eagles" for the sake of convenience.

Eagle athletes had worn their name for nearly 45 years when Dr. Adron Doran and the MSU Board of Regents decided in early 1970 that the university's great symbol also needed to be portrayed in some other fashion.

A color painting was chosen as the proper vehicle and Lexington wildlife artist Gene Gray, fast becoming one of America's best-known outdoor illustrators, was commissioned to put the majestic bird on canvas.

Your Alumni Association agreed to invest in a limited edition of 2,000 prints as a means of raising money for scholarships.

Homecoming '71 To Feature Bill Cosby

The 1971 Homecoming Weekend has been set Oct. 8-9 and will be one of the most festive occasions during the academic year at Morehead State University.

Alumni and friends of the University will join with the student body and participate in a series of activities starting with a Candlelight Dinner on Friday evening and concluding with the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night. Comedian Bill Cosby will entertain at the Friday night concert. The Eagles battle Austin Peay on the gridiron at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

"Homecoming '71 promises to be one of the most outstanding events in history of Morehead State University and I look forward to the return of our alumni and friends," said MSU President Adron Doran.

Mark Oct. 8 and 9 on your calendar now and plan to attend the entire Homecoming Weekend.

Dear Alumnus:

The following pages will permit you, as a Morehead State University alumnus, to observe the growth of your alma mater and learn of alumni activities. You will also find information about alumni who are making the news in various endeavors.

This magazine is in keeping with our plan to "promote by organized effort the best interest and prestige of Morehead State University." Your membership contribution helps us keep up with this growing University.

A good alumnus, then, is a good citizen of his University. He knows not only what the life of the mind was while he was a student in years past, but what it is now. Even though he may be a great distance from the campus he is still a participating member of the academic community.

He does not accept uncritically all that happens at his alma mater, any more than he accepts uncritically all that happens anywhere else. But if he believes in the institution, and since events move rapidly today and there is at least some value to being "on the scene," he gives the University the initial benefit of the doubt when tense moments arise and controversial decisions are made.

It is the obligation of the University President, the faculty, and the student body to take the alumni seriously, to assure that the alumni share all the values of the resident members of the University community, and are just as much concerned about its progress as well as its preservation. It is the obligation of the alumni to take the University seriously—its present and future as well as its past.

So to you, our graduates and friends, this publication is dedicated with warmest regards.

Dr. Doran Receives

THRILL OF A LIFETIME—Morehead State University President Adron Doran is shown accepting the 1971 Horatio Alger Award at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City. Dr. Doran, who became the fourth Kentuckian to receive one of the coveted awards, credited his wife, Mignon, with his success. "She has served as a true helpmeet, an assistant breadwinner, a competent critic, a constant companion and a responsible wife," he told the awards banquet.

A lifetime of dedicated service to Kentucky was nationally recognized in New York City on May 12 when MSU President Adron Doran became only the fourth Kentuckian in history to receive the coveted Horatio Alger Award, presented to those who have "overcome obstacles to achieve success through diligence, industry and perseverance."

Dr. Doran joined a select group of about 200 Americans who have received the award since its inception 25 years ago. Past winners include such luminaries as Dwight D. Eisenhower, Billy Graham, Bob Hope, J. C. Penney, Bernard Baruch, Herbert Hoover and Kentucky's Col. Harland Sanders.

The award presentation was made in the fabled Waldorf Astoria Hotel with nine other great Americans being honored with Dr. Doran, including news commentator Lowell Thomas and architect Edward Durrell Stone.

Dr. Doran has risen from a two-room farmhouse in Western Kentucky to national prominence as a skilled and successful college administrator. But, unlike most of the other Alger winners, his wealth is not computed in dollars.

"I have never believed that a man's life should consist of acquiring possessions but rather in taking advantage of the opportunities for personal growth and service to others," he said. "The successful lives of the young people who have come under my influence are the fruits of my labor and the wealth of my holdings."

Obsessed by his dream of making Morehead State University a model of equal educational opportunity where individual worth and human dignity were the highest priorities, Dr. Doran's compassionate administration has led MSU to more than 30 precedents in dealing with ethnic minority groups. He received the Lincoln Key of the Kentucky Education Association for "integration without fanfare."

His other campus achievements are legendary in Kentucky. From a tiny teachers' college little known outside the state, he has molded MSU into a dynamic university reaching out to serve Eastern Kentucky, Appalachia and the nation. Statistically, enrollment has increased almost 900 per cent to more than 6,000, upwards of $60 million has been expended in imaginative yet practical construction and the operating budget has mushroomed twentyfold to $16 million yearly.

Dr. Doran had one of the largest contingents of all the recipients at the award presentation as 19 alumni and friends turned out for the ceremony and luncheon.

Horatio Alger Award

The editors felt that MSU's many alumni and friends would be interested in reading President Doran's response which brought laughter and tears to the hundreds of persons attending the presentation ceremony. We also are including a poem Dr. Doran wrote upon his return, names of the other winners, a list of those who attended and two articles which appeared in the Louisville Courier-Journal—a prophetic one in 1954 and another in 1971.

THE RESPONSE

(Dr. Adron Doran)

I am exceedingly honored to receive the coveted Horatio Alger Award which places me in company with these distinguished Americans here today and those who have been so honored during the past 25 years.

I am filled with joy at the presence of my wife, Mignon; my youngest brother, Lewis, and his wife, Ruth; my hometown newspaper editor, W. E. Crutcher; my bank president, Alpha Hutchinson; and a number of distinguished friends and alumni of Morehead State University.

I read the Horatio Alger stories as a student in grade school and in high school. I have been motivated to read some of them again since Mr. Baker notified me of my selection for this Award. The stories are best known for their "rags to riches" theme. I suppose I am the only person who has ever received the Award who is still in rags.

Though I do not possess riches as men ordinarily measure wealth,

I do lay claim to riches which have come through investments in the education of the youth of America and in investments in the incomparable treasures of the Kingdom of God.

If I represent anyone today, I think I represent one who was born and who grew up in an isolated, unproductive, and underdeveloped section of Western Kentucky and Tennessee. So isolated were we that my father, his brother, and their sister married my mother, her brother, and their sister. The Dorans simply did not know nor did they ever see anyone but the Clements, with whom they went to school, to church, and to the "post office." I was half grown before I knew that the big road which ran in front of the house was the state line between Graves County, Kentucky, and Weakley County, Tennessee.

The first time that I ever heard of a high school graduate was when Francis Hill came to teach in the one-room school in which I was enrolled as a seventh grade student. The first time I ever saw a high school was when I walked five miles, from the home of an old maid aunt, with whom I was living, to enroll in the ninth grade. After graduation from high school, I enrolled at Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tennessee, which was the first time I had ever seen or been on a college campus.

The burning desire for an education, the motivation to be better than I was, and the obsession to prepare to serve my fellow man through the schools and the church account for my position as President of one of the great regional universities in America today.

My parents were honest, hard working, God fearing, and frugal people. They were the salt of the earth and provided a stable and secure home in which the five boys were reared. They sowed the seeds of enterprise, competition, excellency, enduring, and a will to work in our hungry minds and hearts. These seeds found roots in good soils to produce many fold.

While I was a junior in college, I met and married Mignon McClain on August 23, 1931. This was in the deep of one of our greatest economic depressions, but we managed together to make our way then and since by diligent application of our talents, our confidence in one another, and our faith in God. I have earned a baccalaureate, a master's, and a doctor's degree since we married. She has served as a true helpmeet, an assistant breadwinner, a competent critic, a constant companion and a responsible wife. I owe most of what I am and have achieved to her.

Whether the son of a tenant farmer, a stock boy in a clothing factory, a news butch on a passenger train, an export box maker in an auto plant, or a door-to-door cosmetics salesman — Whether in the schoolroom as a teacher, on the basketball court as a coach, in the speaker's chair as a legislator, in the pulpit as a minister, in the composing room as a newspaper editor, before the radio microphone as a singer, in the presidency of a state university or as a servant in the community, I have learned, in whatever state of being, the worth of an individual human and the dignity to which he is entitled.

I have learned the sweet uses of adversity and the bitter outcomes of success. I have learned the joy of citizenship in the great American democracy, and I have learned the sorrows of neglect, waste, and misuse of the opportunities available to the youth and adults in this great land of ours.

I want to spend my remaining days in testimony and witness of one who has learned and practiced the Horatio Alger way of life.

THE POEM

(With apology to the Pussy Cat which went to London to see the Queen.)

Adron, Adron, where have you been?

To New York City with Horatio men.

Adron, Adron, who went with you? Mignon and Ray and Betty, too.

Adron, Adron, how did you go?

On a jet airplane, but not as a stow.

Adron, Adron, who saw you off?

Forty dear friends and none did scoff.

Adron, Adron, whom did you see?

Nine other men who were honored with me.

Adron, Adron, what did you there?

Nothing but walk and stand and stare.

Adron, Adron, who were your guests?

I am sending the list who passed the tests.

Adron, Adron, what did you get?

An engraved plaque you surely can bet.

Adron, Adron, what is the sign?

You see me still riding and flying cloud nine.

Adron, Adron, what did you say?

Enclosed are the words I spoke that day.

We are back on the job we love so well!

The pleasure we get no human can tell.

Our friends, our friends, accept our adoration,

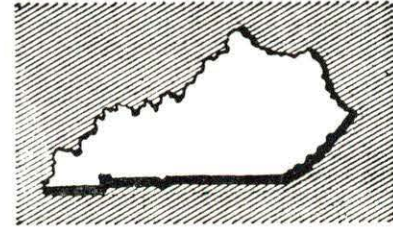

For sending to us your warm congratulations.

We want to so live when cometh the end,

That we keep the love of you as a friend.

Joe Creason's Kentucky

An honest-to-goodness, true-life success story

SO YOU'RE interested in developing a plot for a latter-day Horatio Alger sink-or-swim, do-or-die, rags-to-riches success story?

How about starting this way? Take a boy born under the least likely circumstances, say, in a two-room tenant farm house in a rural region you might call Graves County. Give him an unusual first name, Adron, and have him attend a one-room country school. Even have him fire the school stove to earn pennies to buy school supplies.

Let the boy grow up with a love for God, a fine voice and a desire to learn. But, in the Alger tradition, make the going tough for him.

Send him to live with aunts and have him walk five miles in order to attend a high school you might call Cuba. Make him a star athlete.

Let the boy dream of college, only put that so far out of reach it seems an impossible dream. Then give him a chance. Let him work as a butch on passenger trains selling something as insignificant as peanuts to get money to enroll in a small junior college. A name for the college? How about Freed-Hardeman?

Next, let his love for God and his voice send him to a senior college you might call Murray. Get him a job with a gospel singing quartet working at rural church revival meetings.

Now really hoke up the plot. Have the boy pressed into pulpit service one night when the revivalist fails to appear. From that night on let the boy never forget that at heart he's a minister of the Lord.

Don't bring on success too quickly. That's an Alger no-no.

Let the boy meet and marry a beautiful college girl. Mignon is a likely name for her. Make them an inseparable team from that point on in the story.

Side-by-side careers

Let them graduate and go into teaching. Let him teach at one small town school and she at another, and have them live in a third small town—would you believe named Benton? — where he preaches on Sundays. Have the couple live next door to a family by the unlikely name of Creason and have the two boys in that family firmly drawn to the young couple.

Meanwhile, have him complete work on his master's degree. And why not give him a bent for politics? Elect him a state representative, re-elect him three times, make him Speaker of the House.

Don't let his education end. Have his wife teach while he studies for his doctor's degree. Let him continue preaching.

Pick a date — 1954 — and have him named president of a college. Morehead is a good school name. Point out that the school has lost its accreditation, enrollment is 600, its budget only $300,000 a year. Create critics who make fun of the preacher who thinks he's a college president.

Let him never forget his humble beginning and his compassion for underprivileged. Let his become the first state-supported all-white college in his state to admit Negroes and let this be done without fanfare. Have him start 30 precedent-shattering programs dealing with minority groups. Let the college attain university status with 6,000 students, $60 million in new buildings and a $15 million budget.

Too cornball, you say, even for an Alger plot? It probably is.

But it isn't a plot at all. It's the true-life story of Adron Doran, president of Morehead State University. And it really isn't a rags-to-riches story in the Alger mold since college presidents seldom become rich except in satisfaction.

Nevertheless, on May 12 Adron Doran will be in New York to receive a high national award from the American Schools and Colleges Association for his work. Appropriately, the honor is called the Horatio Alger Award.

The award is deserved. I know. I grew up living next door to him.

SECTION 1

THE COURIER-JOURNAL, LOUISVILLE, KY.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 10, 1954.

Adron Doran: Educator, Politician, Minister

The Life of Morehead's New President Is Like Something From Horatio Alger

By ALLAN M. TROUT, The Courier-Journal Frankfort Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The life of Dr. Adron Doran, the new president of Morehead State College, contains not one, but two basic ingredients of the American success story.

As a bright-eyed but barefoot boy, Dr. Doran walked five miles to attend elementary school. Later, as a poor but striving youth, he sold newspapers to help pay his way through college.

Dr. Doran, 44, and a native of Graves County, has blended into one busy career substantial attainments as a professional educator, a Kentucky politician, and a minister of the Church of Christ.

He has played and coached basketball, organized and sung high tenor in a classical quartet, been the principal of three high schools.

He has been president of Kentucky Education Association, secretary of the Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education, director of the first two annual legislative work conferences of the Southern Regional Education Board, member of the State House of Representatives four terms, and Speaker at one regular session and two special ones.

And That Isn't All . . . !

Between times, he was editor and columnist of The Fulton Daily News two years, earned his A.B. and M.A. degrees at Murray State College, and his Ed.D. at the University of Kentucky.

When the Morehead Board of Agents picked him last Tuesday, Dr. Doran had been director of teacher training and certification of the State Department of Education for two years.

It is small wonder, then, that he has never taken a vacation. His only hobby is activity seven days a week. All this time, you see, Dr. Doran has preached Sundays. Even now, he is pastor of the Church of Christ at Lancaster.

Dr. Doran was born September 1, 1909, at rural Boydsville, in Graves County 100 yards north of the Tennessee line.

His surname, Adron, is merely a rearrangement of the letters in his family name of Doran. He explains the coinage thus:

Two Doran brothers and one Doran sister married two Clemons sisters and one Clemons brother. So many children had taken so many family names that, by the time he came along, the roster was so depleted they had to coin his.

After walking the five miles to his first eight grades of school, Dr. Doran and his people moved to Cuba, still in Graves County, where he graduated from high school in 1928. There he played jumping center on the district champions in basketball his senior year.

The principal at Cuba, Alonzo Williams, also was a minister of the Church of Christ. He guided young Doran to Freed-Hardeman Junior College, Henderson, Tenn., sponsored by that denomination.

He financed his two years there by working on the farm of Walker Jones for his room and board. For cash, he worked the first summer for a clothing company in St. Louis, and the second summer as news butch on a passenger train.

Dr. Doran enrolled at Murray State College in 1930 for his last two years of undergraduate work. There it was he organized the Doran Quartet, consisting of himself, two brothers, Curtis and Basil, and Dalton Leath, now pastor of the First Baptist Church at Winchester. His part of the fees from concerts and radio singing, plus Sunday preaching, financed him at Murray.

Upon graduating in 1932, Dr. Doran began a teaching career in Graves County that was to last until 1948. In succession, he was principal of high schools at Boaz, three years; Sylvan Shade, three years, and Wingo, 10 years.

Attained State-wide Stature

It was during his 10-year tenure at Wingo that Dr. Doran attained state-wide stature. In this period he earned his master's degree at Murray; was twice elected president of the Murray Alumni Association; was president in 1940 of the First District Education Association, and in 1946-47 of the Kentucky Education Association.

The Wingo educator was elected in 1943 to the first of four terms as Graves County member of the House of Representatives. At the outset, he was aligned with Harry Lee Waterfield, Clinton, and helped to manage Waterfield's primary race for Governor in 1947. Then he became assistant manager that fall for the primary winner, former Governor, now U. S. Senator, Earle C. Clements.

Incidentally, Waterfield and Dr. Doran were associates in the publishing venture at Fulton, which is 12 miles southwest of Wingo. For two years Dr. Doran combined his editorial duties at The Daily News with his school post at home.

In 1948, he sold his Wingo home and two Tennessee walking horses, moved to Lexington, and invested the proceeds in his doctorate in education at the University of Kentucky. It was in this period that he was Speaker of the House.

Aligned With Wetherby

Meanwhile, Dr. Doran remained aligned with the Democratic faction elected in 1947, and re-elected in 1951 with Gov. Lawrence

DR. ADRON DORAN, MOREHEAD PRESIDENT

W. Wetherby at head of the ticket. On the same ticket was Wendell P. Butler who, as Superintendent of Public Instruction, appointed Dr. Doran in January, 1952, as director of teacher training and certification.

Dr. Doran's wife is the former Mignon Louise McClain of Sedalia, whom he married when they were fellow students at Murray. Mrs. Doran is a friendly brunette of striking beauty, widely known for the chic ensembles she contrives from her modest wardrobe. They are seldom, if ever, the same any two days. She is an accomplished teacher of music.

Nunn Gets Top Award

Gov. Louie B. Nunn received one of the top honors at the 1971 Alumni Awards Banquet.

Governor Nunn, Kentucky's first Republican chief executive in 24 years, received the group's 1971 Public Service Award. The award was initiated in 1966 and presented to a number of individuals instrumental in MSU's achieving university status.

Since that time the award has gone to a number of outstanding Kentuckians. In 1970 it went to Dr. W. H. Cartmell, a noted Maysville physician and vice-chairman of the MSU Board of Regents.

Criteria for the Public Service

Award are: outstanding contribution to the nominee's professional field and service to MSU, his community and the State of Kentucky.

Governor Nunn was elected Barren County judge in 1954 at the age of 29. Since that time he has had a varied career of public service to the people of Kentucky.

His administration has made outstanding achievements in the economy and efficiency of state government. Immediately after taking office in December of 1967, he initiated an austerity program and appointed an Efficiency Task Force composed of leading Kentucky businessmen.

Under his administration the state has enjoyed economic progress. During the first three years of his administration the expansion of 334 plants and location in Kentucky of 235 industries was announced.

His administration has been focused on youth. Governor Nunn was the nation's first state chief executive to give student representatives a seat on the Board of Trustees of each state college and university.

Governor Nunn's dedication to the young people of Kentucky has involved a massive effort to improve education in the Commonwealth.

His administration has been responsible for upgrading the operation and improving the facilities of the state's mental hospitals and schools for the retarded.

By executive order, Governor Nunn established the Kentucky Program Development Office, pulling together for economy and efficiency, all of the planning and program development activities of the state government.

Kentucky state government during his administration has underway the largest highway construction program in the history of the state.

Kentucky's vacation facilities provide recreational opportunities for the people of the state.

GOVERNOR HONORED—Gov. Louie Nunn, left, accepts the 1971 Public Service Award from last year's recipient, Dr. W. H. Cartmell, a noted Maysville physician and a member of the MSU Board of Regents.

FIRST FAMILY WELCOME—President and Mrs. Adron Doran extended a warm greeting to Gov. Louie Nunn, center, when he visited the campus last spring to receive the 1971 Public Service Award.

Alumni Elect Hillman President

Newly-elected Executive Council members and officers were presented at the Alumni Association's annual Awards Banquet in May.

The new officers include Dr. Larry Hillman, '55, president; Dr. John R. Duncan, '60, first vice-president; and Harold Wilson, '61, second vice-president.

Dr. Hillman, a native of Jenkins, Ky., is now a resident of Grosse Pointe Park, Mich. and is an associate professor of education administration at Wayne State University in Detroit. He has been very active in the Alumni Association for many years, serving as a council member and as first vice-president. Larry is married to the former Patricia Lane of Morehead and is the father of two children, Kathy and Sherri.

Dr. John R. Duncan of Morehead is dean of graduate programs at MSU. John has served on the executive council for many years and more recently was the association's second vice-president. He is married to former Gretta Brown, '60, and is the father of one.

Harold L. Wilson of Mt. Sterling, Ky., is a guidance counselor at Montgomery County High School. Harold will lead the 1971-72 Alumni Association fund drive. He is married and the father of two.

Newcomers to the Executive Council include Nelson Allen, '59, Russell; Gene Carroll, '58, Louisville; Jim Finch, '70, Maysville; Jim Bob Fugate, '60, Huntington, W. Va.; Custer Reynolds, '43, Wilmore; Ruth Reeves, '47, Ashland; Dr. Richard Robinson, '62, Rochester, Michigan; James Smiley '62, Columbus, Ohio; and Harry Weber, '61, Louisville.

Executive Council members re-elected this year are: Merl Allen, '48, Morehead; Dr. William Blair,

DR. LARRY HILLMAN

'50, Paintsville; Roy C. Caudill, '36, Morehead; Jim Davis, '63, Grayson; Billy Joe Hall, '57, Mt. Sterling; Lucien Rice, '56, Hightstown, New Jersey; and Terry Wicker, '62, Dayton, Ohio.

Ruth Reeves Named Outstanding Alumnus

Mrs. Ruth Reeves, who is concluding her term as president of the Kentucky Education Association, was the recipient of the 1971 Outstanding Alumnus Award.

Mrs. Reeves has spent her life in the service of others by taking leadership positions in various professional, civic and religious organizations. Because of her outstanding leadership and personal qualities, she was voted Outstanding Woman of the Year in 1967-68 by the Ashland Business and Professional Women's Club.

She was listed in the 1970 edition of Personalities of the South in recognition of past achievements, outstanding ability and service to community and state.

The Ashland elementary teacher is a 1947 graduate of Morehead State and has done work at numerous other colleges and universities.

Mrs. Reeves, the wife of W. C. Reeves, has served in various capacities at the local, district, state, regional and national levels of education.

Florida Gathering Attracts 150

Morehead State University and the Alumni Association conducted the annual Florida gathering during early 1971. The event began with an alumni banquet at Winter Park in D'Agostino's Villa Nova Restaurant.

Dr. Ray Hornback, vice-president for university affairs, presided at the meeting which attracted more than 150 alumni and friends from the Sunshine State.

Following an invocation by Ron Barker, associate director of alumni affairs, a presentation was made to the group by Dr. Harry Mayhew, alumni director, on "Your Alumni Association".

MSU President Adron Doran delivered the main address, a "State of the University" message. Entertainment was furnished by Preston The Magician, noted performer and Kentucky native.

Many of the alumni on hand had an opportunity to view the launching of Apollo 14 during their stay in Florida.

Following the banquet meeting in Orlando, the Morehead State University group went on to Miami where the Eagles defeated Miami in a thrilling basketball game, 76-75. A reception followed in the Faculty Dining Room at Miami-Dade Junior College.

"Our Florida meetings have been highly successful over the past few years and we plan to continue our activity there and to officially form an alumni club for the State of Florida," reported Dr. Mayhew.

EKEA Banquet Held In Ashland

A joint banquet meeting was sponsored by Morehead State University and the Alumni Association during the Eastern Kentucky Education Association Convention in Ashland last fall.

The meeting was held in the ballroom of the Henry Clay Hotel and featured music by the Morehead State University Combo and the Intimate Circle under the direction of Gene Deaton and Jay Flippin.

Several hundred alumni and friends attended the banquet and were welcomed by MSU President Adron Doran.

The banquet has been held for several years in conjunction with the EKEA convention. A number of dignitaries connected with the convention were in attendance at the banquet which was termed highly successful by the alumni staff.

FAMILY REUNION—At the Florida meeting were Linus A. Fair, former MSU registrar, and Mrs. Fair, who were at the time visiting their son, Dale Fair, a 1959 graduate of the University, and his wife at their home in Babson Park, Fla.

NEW FLORIDIANS—Among the guests at the Florida banquet was Dr. Lawrence Stewart, who retired from the MSU faculty in 1970. He is now a professor of education at the University of South Florida in Clearwater. Accompanying him were his wife and his niece, Abbielynn Martin, of Largo, Fla. Abbielynn, a 1963 graduate of MSU, is an elementary teacher.

40 Scholarships Awarded New Students and Returnees

Your Alumni Association has undertaken an ambitious scholarship program which is designed to provide financial aid to deserving and worthy Morehead State students.

During the 1971 academic year, MSU alumni have provided approximately $10,000 for these scholarships.

C-J Reporter Is MSU Product

When publishers of the Louisville Courier-Journal read the name of "Richard G. Wilson" in their paper above a well-written story on higher education in Kentucky, they should thank Morehead State University.

"Dick," as he is commonly known, came to the Bluegrass State in 1955 to attend Morehead State. In two years at MSU, the Towanda, Pa. native earned two varsity letters in cross country, two more in track, was elected sophomore class president and served as sports editor of The Trail Blazer.

Wilson left MSU for the Army and, after a four-year hitch, returned to his adopted state to finish college at the University of Kentucky. His degree in journalism led to reporting jobs at the Frankfort State Journal and the Lexington Leader.

He returned to UK briefly as an instructor of journalism and advisor to the student newspaper while taking graduate courses in communications.

The call of big time newspapering found him in August, 1967, and he joined the Louisville staff of The Courier-Journal, long one of the nation's most outstanding newspapers.

Dick was promoted to the C-J's Capitol Bureau at Frankfort in September, 1969, as a specialist in higher education. He produced distinguished coverage of the 1970 General Assembly's work in public higher education.

The 33-year-old reporter consistently wins front page space with his accurate, comprehensive articles on major developments in Kentucky's higher education system.

A member of Sigma Delta Xi, professional journalistic society, he is married to the former Deborah Weimar of Springfield, Tenn. They have a four-year-old son.

"I'll always have a warm spot for Morehead State University," Dick said.

Service Awards To Lappin, Fair, Wicker

The MSU Alumni Association awarded its first University Service Awards at its annual Alumni Banquet to Dr. Warren C. Lappin, vice-president for academic affairs; Linus Fair, registrar; and Monroe Wicker, director of school relations. All retired July 1.

When the Alumni Association initiated its Distinguished Faculty Award in 1964 the criteria excluded administrators from eligibility. The Alumni Executive Council voted this year to present the three newly-created awards to MSU administrators it felt had rendered long and distinguished service to MSU.

The council decided that the award should consist of a framed resolution citing the accomplishments of these individuals and commending them for their services.

Dean Lappin taught history and mathematics and coached athletics at the old Morehead Normal School from 1920 to 1922.

He taught history and education at Morehead State from its opening in 1922 until 1927 and served as director of University Breckinridge School from 1927 to 1940.

Dr. Lappin was named dean of the college in 1940 and vice-president for academic affairs in 1966. He has twice served as acting president of MSU — in 1946 and again in 1950.

Mr. Fair has served Morehead State University continuously since 1932 when he was named an instructor in mathematics and head of the extension office. He became a critic teacher at Breck in 1936 and later a teacher of college mathematics before his appointment as acting dean of college in 1951.

Mr. Fair served 20 years as registrar of the University, keeping safe the records of all MSU students and alumni.

Mr. Wicker has been a faculty and staff member at MSU since 1947. He began his service to education in 1926 as a teacher at a rural school in Knott County at the age of 18 and later became the youngest high school principal in the state.

Head of Floyd-Knott High School from 1930 to 1936, Mr. Wicker was principal of Martin High School from 1936 to 1944 and superintendent of Prestonsburg

City Schools from 1944 to 1947.

His campus career started as director of admissions and public relations. He has served as director of student teaching, director of Breck and finally as the director of school relations.

Wicker was executive secretary of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association from 1955 to 1971 and is a former member of KEA Board of Directors.

Dr. Cain Writes Text On Statistics

Dr. Rolene B. Cain, associate professor of mathematics at Morehead State University, has written a textbook on elementary statistics.

To be published late this summer by W. B. Saunders Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., the combination workbook-reference text is designed for use by high school seniors or college freshmen.

Dr. Cain, who also has published several mathematics papers, completed a doctorate in statistics at Virginia Tech. She has been a member of the MSU faculty since 1965.

KEA Breakfast Another Success

An overflow crowd was on hand for the annual MSU breakfast held in conjunction with the Kentucky Education Association convention in Louisville last spring.

Traditionally, Morehead State University has held its breakfast in the Brown Hotel. However, the Brown has ceased operation and this year's breakfast was moved to the Rathskeller Room of the Seelbach Hotel.

Nearly 200 alumni and friends heard the main address by KEA President Ruth Reeves, a 1947 graduate of MSU.

MSU maintained a booth in the lobby throughout the convention and numerous persons registered.

Dr. Martin, (left) views the cup presented him with MSU President Adron Doran.

Morehead State University served as home base this year for the Joint Alumni Council of Kentucky (JACK). Dr. Harry Mayhew, director of alumni affairs at MSU, is concluding a one-year term as president of the council this summer.

The council is an organization of state assisted institutions of higher education in the Commonwealth—Eastern Kentucky University, Kentucky State College, Morehead State University, Murray State University, Northern Kentucky State College, Western Kentucky University, University of Kentucky and University of Louisville.

One of the greatest contributions JACK makes to Kentucky public assisted universities and colleges is a spirit of cooperation. There is a closeness among members of the council which permeates throughout the institutions they represent.

Working together for a common goal and purpose, JACK has proved to be an excellent forum for coordinating projects of mutual interest among the institutions.

The spirit of cooperativeness is evident in a number of ways. A joint effort is extended annually during the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville to encourage support of education. The public is readily impressed with the cooperative attitude of JACK members toward their sister institutions.

One of the outstanding features of the organization is the annual meeting. Last fall all council members and numerous consultants assembled on the MSU campus to discuss problems and techniques in several phases of alumni programs. This sharing of information, procedures and talent is invaluable.

The MSU conference of JACK was held in the Adron Doran University Center. Following breakfast, participants were welcomed by Dr. Ted Crosthwait, president of the MSU Alumni Association.

The main address for the conference was given by William J. Watson, Jr., director of alumni relations of the University of Florida and chairman of District III of the American Alumni Council.

A panel presentation concerned the topic, "Making Alumni Programs Relevant."

Following a dinner meeting, the group was welcomed by MSU President Adron Doran. Dr. Robert Martin, president of Eastern Kentucky University, was speaker for the evening.

Dr. Martin was named by the council to receive an award for significant contribution to the joint efforts of the alumni associations of the state colleges and universities in Kentucky.

President and Mrs. Adron Doran hosted a Kentucky ham breakfast for conference participants on Tuesday, November 10. Following the breakfast a panel on alumni programming was held. The meeting concluded with lunch and a business meeting in the afternoon.

Alumni Affairs Grows In Service To Graduates

The goals of the Morehead State University Office of Alumni Affairs are to protect, support, and generally promote the interests of the university and its alumni.

The Alumni Association strives through its activities to keep an up-to-date relationship with the more than 11,000 graduates of the university as well as former students who have not been graduated but have associate status.

The Alumni Association attempts to promote good will between former students and the university and to elicit their support for its programs. Services rendered to active alumni include a placement bureau, informative correspondence and publications.

More than $50,000 has been raised to date in a capital fund drive to finance the building of an alumni house facility on the campus. The facility will serve as the permanent home of the Alumni Association, providing space for alumni files, offices, meeting rooms, the placement service and social areas for informal and formal gatherings of alumni.

An ambitious fund-raising project is also underway in support of alumni-financed scholarships. Currently, 44 scholarships are awarded annually in the amount of $100 per semester. The grants are financed through voluntary giving by alumni and special projects of the Association. One such project was the 1970 commissioning of a painting of the Morehead State University Bald Eagle by wildlife artist Gene Gray. A limited edition of 2,000 prints is being sold to add a projected $30,000 to the scholarship fund.

The governance of the Alumni Association is determined by a constitution and is separate from the governance of the University. The affairs of the association are guided by a president, first vice-president, second vice-president, executive secretary-treasurer and an executive council.

Communication between the university and association is provided primarily through the executive secretary-treasurer, who is also director of alumni affairs on the university staff. This officer is responsible to the executive council of the association as well as to the University's President and Vice-President for University Affairs.

The alumni program is a partnership between the university and the alumni, and as a result, is financed both by university appropriations and voluntary donations by alumni and friends. The current budget is the largest in the history of the association. University appropriations include funds for salaries of staff and facilities for operation; all monies raised from annual giving are used for scholarships and capital construction.

The alumni office stays well informed about the total college program and relates this information to alumni in various ways. A close working relationship is maintained by the director of alumni affairs, the associate director and staff with the various schools of the university, placement, admissions, school relations and other areas of university affairs. The alumni director and his staff are closely engaged in public relations activities for the university, including student recruitment and the formation and promotion of regional meetings.

The Morehead State University Alumni Association has joined with the seven other public-supported universities and colleges in Kentucky in an endeavor to better serve the state.

Through the Joint Alumni Council of Kentucky (JACK), an attempt is made to develop a working spirit of cooperation among

Richmond Coed Is New Miss MSU

Lisa Palas, a 20-year-old junior from Richmond, has been crowned Miss Morehead State University of 1971.

She defeated 25 other MSU coeds in two nights of competition to advance to the Miss Kentucky Scholarship Pageant at Louisville. The blue-eyed blonde, a music composition student, sang one of her own songs in the pageant's talent phase.

Miss Palas is the daughter of Mrs. R. G. Thornberry of Lexington and E. W. Palas of Richmond. She is a member of Delta Gamma social sorority and the featured vocalist with the MSU Stage Band.

The new titlist was crowned by Miss MSU of 1970, the former Charlotte Case of Maysville. Pageant emcee was Pam Eldred, Miss America of 1970. Miss Palas received a $600 scholarship and a $300 wardrobe.

A $400 scholarship went to the first runner-up, 21-year-old Terri Williams, a senior from Dayton, Ohio. Leona Johnson, an 18-year-old freshman from Louisville, won a $250 scholarship as second runner-up. Dyan Kellogg, an 18-year-old freshman from Gates Mills, Ohio, was named Miss Congeniality and awarded a $100 scholarship. The non-finalist talent trophy went to Susan Pederson, 20, a junior from Mayfield Village, Ohio.

Special performers were Cynthia Bostick, Miss Kentucky of 1970, and Mrs. Janet Hatfield Lowman, Miss Kentucky of 1968 and a former MSU student.

The fourth annual pageant was sponsored by MSU's Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils. Jim Bailey, Flat Gap senior, was executive director.

state-supported institutions of higher learning, to develop techniques for strengthening alumni programs of individual schools and to sell the values of higher education.

JACK is a Kentucky non-profit, public service corporation. Through its president (who is currently the director of alumni affairs at Morehead State University), the organization works in behalf of public higher education in the state through the alumni associations of the eight member institutions.

The MSU Alumni Association is also a member of the American Alumni Council and actively participates in the affairs of the organization.

The association, working in cooperation with other university personnel, has a much improved publications program, including a monthly newsletter started in the fall of 1970 and The Alumnus, a magazine published twice yearly.

The Alumni Association also is engaged in an active effort to move the organization into the field where alumni reside. As a result, alumni clubs have been established in various regions of Kentucky and in other states where numbers of graduates justify the formation for a club. Regional meetings are in Eastern Kentucky, Central Kentucky, Northern Kentucky, Louisville, Southern Ohio and Central Florida.

Annual on-campus events sponsored by the Alumni Association include the Homecoming Weekend and the Alumni Awards Banquet held in conjunction with the spring graduation ceremonies.

Two alumni, one a former president of the Alumni Association, currently serve on the MSU Board of Regents and provide an effective input of alumni thinking into the institution's governing board.

ABE Center Funded Again

Morehead State University has received a $365,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education for continuation of its Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center.

This year's grant marks the fourth year the AABEDC, a "Special Project" under the Adult Education Act of 1966, has been in operation at Morehead State University.

The Appalachian Center, one of 21 similar projects throughout the country, has as its purpose the improvement of the quality of adult basic education in the Appalachian region.

The Center is operating 14 experimental modules in 11 Appalachian states. Each of the modules test or demonstrate certain components of the adult basic education program.

The project in Mississippi is testing the usefulness of a specially written newspaper for adults with low reading levels. In Kentucky, reading instruction is linked to driver education. The Ohio project is experimenting with home instruction and in Alabama, television lessons are being produced especially for adult students.

The AABEDC is also running a teacher-trainer workshop in adult reading and administering several research studies, including one on Appalachian dialects. The Center also administers MSU's master's degree program in adult education.

Former Swimmer On Apollo 14 Team

A former Morehead State University varsity swimmer played a key role in last winter's recovery of the Apollo 14 spacecraft in the Pacific.

Rudy Ray Davis, a member of the MSU swim team for three years and now a Navy frogman, swam to the capsule and helped attach the flotation collar.

A native of Boyd County, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Quentin R. Davis of Piketon, Ohio, and is a 1965 graduate of Piketon High School.

A WARM WELCOME—for Mrs. Doran came from the hundreds of alumni and friends who gathered at the Beverly Hills Country Club in April for the annual Northern Kentucky-Southern Ohio Alumni get-together.

No. Ky.-So. Ohio Meet Draws 350

One of the most impressive gatherings sponsored by the Morehead State University Alumni Association each year is the Northern Kentucky-Southern Ohio dinner meeting at Newport.

About 350 alumni and friends attended the 1971 session last spring at the Beverly Hills Country Club.

Dr. Ray Hornback, MSU's vice president for university affairs, proved to be a witty toastmaster.

Following a presentation on "Your Alumni Association" by Dr. Harry Mayhew, the group was welcomed by MSU President Adron Doran.

Featured attraction at the gathering was the MSU Jass Ensemble and the vocal group, the Intimate Cycle. Both are directed by Gene Deaton and Jay Flippin.

STAGE BAND—backed up singing group, the Intimate Cycle at the Beverly Hills gathering of MSU Alumni and friends.

"Campaign In A Box" Aiding Adult Education

From the hills of Appalachia to urban ghettos, a Morehead State University project is helping improve adult education.

Functionally - illiterate adults are being recruited for basic education classes through a multimedia "campaign in a box" developed by MSU's Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center.

Conceived originally for use in the 13-state Appalachian area, the unique enrollment promotion kits have been made available to directors of adult education in the 50 states.

Additionally, the neatly-packaged kits have been sent by special request to numerous agencies involved in the drive to upgrade adult education.

The "campaign in a box" consists of public service announcements on audio tapes, records and video tapes and printed material, including news releases, posters, billboard messages and promotional letters to agencies and civic groups.

Morehead State sent almost 400 kits to school districts in Appalachia for distribution to newspapers, radio and television stations, magazines and other media. They have been in use since last September.

HORATIO ALGER AWARD WINNER—President Adron Doran, the banquet speaker, received a standing ovation when he was introduced as the winner of the 1971 Horatio Alger Award, an announcement which came from New York during dinner.

Regents Change ROTC

The Morehead State University Board of Regents has abolished mandatory ROTC, approved a $16.1 million budget for the 1971-72 term and liberalized women's dormitory hours.

ROTC has been required of freshmen at MSU since 1968 but all military science courses will become voluntary this fall. The decision followed a four-month study by a special faculty-student committee.

The new budget, slightly increased over the 1970-71 allocation, includes $8.9 million in state funds. It provides funding for 14 fewer full-time faculty and staff positions.

Changes in women's hours, also recommended by a faculty-student committee, start with the fall semester. The new policy eliminates curfews for seniors and graduate students 21 or older and sophomores and juniors with parental permission. Freshman coeds remain under the present system. Students choosing not to observe curfews will be assessed $15 extra each semester to provide additional dorm security.

In personnel actions, the board named Dr. Paul Ford Davis as vice president for academic affairs, Dr. Morris K. Caudill as dean of undergraduate programs and Dr. Charles F. Ward as dean of the School of Applied Sciences and Technology.

Dr. Thomas C. Morrison was designated as acting dean of the School of Business and Economics, Dr. Gene W. Scholes as assistant to the president and Jerry R. Franklin as registrar. All appointments were effective July 1.

Dr. Davis, 48, has been dean of undergraduate programs since coming to MSU in 1966. Previously, he was academic dean at the University of Dubuque in Dubuque, Iowa.

Dr. Caudill, 31, presently is associate dean of undergraduate programs. He came to MSU in 1969 as director of the Accelerated Learning Program for Students (ALPS). A native of Letcher County, Dr.

Caudill holds a doctorate in educational administration from the University of Kentucky.

Dr. Ward, 37, comes to MSU from North Carolina State University at Raleigh where he is a senior research member on the staff of the Center for Occupational Education. He holds a doctorate in educational administration from North Carolina State at Raleigh.

Dr. Morrison, 49, presently is head of the Department of Economics at MSU. He joined the University faculty in 1969 after 17 years at the University of Connecticut. His doctorate in economics was completed at North Carolina State at Raleigh. He is a native of Cumberland County.

Dr. Scholes, 28, has been director of institutional research since coming to MSU last year. His doctorate in education was earned at the University of Michigan.

Franklin, 33, has been associate registrar at MSU since 1969. He has a master's degree from Xavier University and is a native of Morgan County.

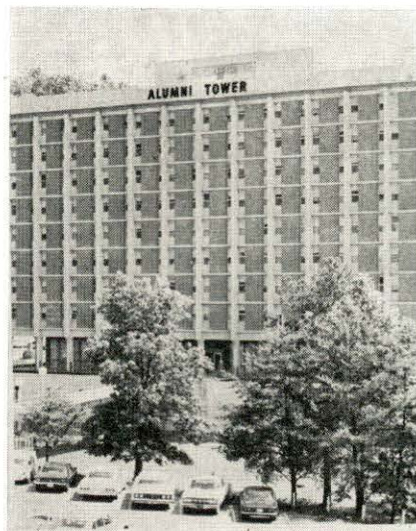

Mike Mayhew Elected Student Body President

Mike Mayhew, Morehead junior, is student body president for the 1971-72 term at Morehead State University.

The 21-year-old English major also becomes a non-voting member of the MSU Board of Regents by virtue of his election victory. He currently is president of the junior class.

Wendell Meyers, Brookville, Ohio, sophomore, was named vice president. Sue Blevins, Cleves, Ohio, sophomore, is the new secretary.

Mark Kennedy, Louisville freshman, was elected treasurer. Chris Wilson, Marion, Ohio, sophomore, is the reporter and Jack Matthews, Gallipolis, Ohio, freshman, is program director.

The beautiful, widely acclaimed prints went on sale last fall and nearly $20,000 worth have been sold at $25 each plus $2 for mailing. Packaged in an informative cover jacket, the prints bear the signatures of Gray and President Doran. The signatures of other campus personnel are available.

"We have long desired a portrait for the bald eagle because our athletic teams proudly call themselves "Eagles," Dr. Doran said when the original was delivered. "Gray's great talent has given us a painting worthy of display as the official Morehead State University Bald Eagle."

The MSU Bald Eagle painting will become a collector's item when the present supply of prints is exhausted. We have used a smaller reproduction of the vivid symbol on the cover of this ALUMNUS in hopes of showing exactly what each friend and graduate of MSU is missing by not having a framed print in his home or office.

The purchase of an Eagle print serves a two-fold purpose. It allows you to forever capture the soaring spirit of a great school and help a deserving student at the same time.

Send for yours today. They are available from the Bureau of University Affairs, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351. Use the handy order form inside the back cover.

Teacher Program Praised By NCATE

Morehead State University's teacher education program has won total and laudatory approval of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

Reaccredited for 10 years were all MSU degree programs and guidance counselors on both the bachelor's and master's levels.

The reaccreditation resulted from a two-year self study by MSU's School of Education, an investigative visit by an NCATE team and hearings by NCATE's Visitation and Accreditation Committee.

"The entire process of accreditation has been very, very profitable and given us many new ideas for further improvement of teacher education at Morehead State University," said Dr. James H. Powell, dean of the School of Education.

"We were delighted to learn that all of our programs through the master's level have been reaccredited," the dean added. "The visitation committee's report was very complimentary and we are looking forward to an even better teacher training program in the decade ahead."

NCATE is an arm of the National Commission on Accrediting and is responsible for regulating all college programs for the training of teachers and other professional school personnel.

Morehead State University is among 470 universities and colleges presently approved by NCATE.

History, Biology Grants Awarded

Two Morehead State University faculty members were awarded research grants for projects in American history and biology.

Dr. Victor B. Howard, professor of history, is investigating "the slavery controversy and domestic missions in Calvinistic churches." Gerald L. DeMoss, instructor of biology, is working on "a comparison of the invertebrate faunae of two aquatic ecosystems."

DR. PAUL F. DAVIS

Dean Davis Named Vice President

Dr. Paul Ford Davis has been named vice president for academic affairs at Morehead State University.

The appointment was approved last spring by the MSU Board of Regents and became effective July 1, the retirement date of Dr. Warren C. Lappin, the University's first academic vice president.

Dr. Davis, a native of Bowling Green, has been dean of undergraduate programs since coming to MSU in 1966. Previously, he was academic dean at the University of Dubuque in Dubuque, Iowa.

A former member of the Kentucky General Assembly, Dr. Davis has a law degree and a master's degree from the University of Kentucky and a doctorate in higher education from Indiana University.

He served as a high school teacher, coach and principal in Hardin County for 10 years. A Marine veteran of World War II, the 48-year-old educator is listed in Who's Who in American Education and is a member of the American Association of Academic Deans and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Dr. Davis is married to the former Martina Campbell of Bowling Green. They have three children.

Nursing Degree Starts In Fall

It's official. Morehead State University has a new college degree nursing program.

Creation of an associate degree in nursing at MSU has been approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration.

The program's first students are enrolling for the fall semester starting in August, according to Mrs. Doris Schmidt, head of MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health.

The two-year coeducational program will require 67 semester hours of course work and clinical training. The clinical experience will occur at St. Claire Medical Center in Morehead and Hayswood Hospital in Maysville.

New classroom, laboratory and office facilities for the nursing department will be provided in MSU's $3 million Appalachian Technical Institute which goes under construction shortly.

"Our nursing degree is aimed at helping reduce the critical shortage of registered nurses in Appalachia and Eastern Kentucky," said MSU President Adron Doran. "We are confident of establishing one of the best two-year programs in the nation."

Stanley Przygoda, Magnolia, N. J. sophomore, is leaving his mark on the newly-created nursing degree.

He designed the shoulder patch to be worn on the uniforms of all MSU student nurses. It includes the new program's motto, "Enter to Learn, Leave to Serve."

Przygoda's sketch was selected from 61 submitted by industrial design students.

Second place went to Richard Armstrong, Chambersburg, Pa. freshman, and the drawing of Donald Trimble, Ashland freshman, finished third.

The winning patch was chosen by a seven-member committee headed by Don Young of the MSU art department.

Przygoda received $10 for his design. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Przygoda, 317 East Washington Ave., Magnolia, N. J.

Veteran Newsman, Educator Receive Honorary Degrees

A veteran newsman and a career educator received honorary master's degrees at Morehead State University's 48th annual spring commencement.

Billy Thompson, news director of WLEX-TV, Lexington, and Miss George Alice Motley, superintendent of Menifee County Schools, Frenchburg, were recognized during the ceremony at Laughlin Fieldhouse.

Thompson, who was awarded an honorary master's in mass communications, has been news director at WLEX-TV since 1966. He was named Kentucky's "Sports Writer of the Year" in 1965.

A native of Georgetown, the former sports editor of The Lexington Herald began his journalism career as a high school freshman in 1935.

THOMPSON

MOTLEY

Miss Motley, recipient of an honorary master's in educational administration, has been superintendent since 1947. Previously, she taught for 15 years at Menifee County Elementary School.

The Morehead State University graduate has directed the Menifee school system through a building consolidation project and expanded several countywide academic programs.

Technical Institute Under Construction

Construction has started on Morehead State University's $3.5 million Appalachian Technical Institute which has been hailed as a "significant breakthrough" in technical education.

The five-story classroom and office structure is being built by Tenco Construction Co. of Atlanta, Ga. to house a technical education program ranging from college graduate work to high school teaching.

Scheduled for completion in September, 1972, the building will contain almost 110,000 square feet of floor space, including two levels of indoor parking.

It is financed through a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission and by the sale of university building bonds. The reinforced concrete structure has a total cost of $3,579,000 and will connect to the existing Home Economics-Industrial Arts Building via an overhead, enclosed bridge.

"This new facility will be the only one of its kind in Kentucky and among just a few in the country," President Adron Doran said as construction contracts were signed. "It is a significant breakthrough and will enable our institution to better serve the career needs of Eastern Kentucky and Appalachia."

The Institute, to be operated by MSU's School of Applied Sciences and Technology, will allow the University to expand technical offerings on the graduate, four-year and two-year levels.

A cooperative agreement with the Kentucky Department of Education will provide laboratory teaching experiences at the nearby Rowan County Vocational Extension Center, a satellite of the Ashland Area Vocational-Technical School.

Among the Institute's associate (two-year) programs will be MSU's new nursing degree.

"Not only will Morehead State University be able to improve the quality of technical education in this region but we also will be equipped to prepare more industrial technicians through our associate degree programs," Dr. Doran added.

The Institute is located at the western end of the campus. It was designed by George L. Shannon and Associates of Prestonsburg.

Another MSU First - Major In Jazz

Morehead State University will become the first school in Kentucky to offer a major in jazz and studio music.

Approved recently by the MSU Board of Regents, the program starts with the opening of the 1971-72 school year in August.

MSU President Adron Doran, in announcing the addition to the music department curriculum, noted that the University already has a "strong and growing" jazz program. The MSU Stage Band was a co-winner of the 1970 Mobile Jazz Festival.

Course work for the new major includes improvisation, arranging, keyboard techniques, jazz history and literature and rehearsal techniques for jazz and pop ensembles.

Gene Deaton, associate professor of music and director of the Stage Band, will coordinate the jazz program.

Campus FM Station Now 50,000 Watts

WMKY, the 50,000-watt radio station at Morehead State University, has joined more than 90 other non-commercial stations on the new National Public Radio network.

Financed by various foundations and federal funds, the network's first program offering is "All Things Considered," 90 minutes of news analysis each weekday at 5 p.m.

"We are fortunate to have an increase in power which makes WMKY and the network available to a large area of Appalachia," said Donald F. Holloway, the station manager.

The six-year-old FM station recently boosted its output from 10 watts to 50,000 and now serves all of Eastern Kentucky and portions of Southern Ohio and Southwestern West Virginia. It operates from noon until midnight at 90.3 megahertz.

16 Having Ties With MSU In November General Election

Morehead State University is well represented on Kentucky's November ballot for state legislative offices.

Fourteen alumni, former students, husbands and parents of students and two members of the Board of Regents are candidates for the House and Senate of the General Assembly and two state-wide offices.

Wendell P. Butler, now serving his third term as chairman of the MSU Board of Regents and state superintendent of public instruction, is the Democratic nominee for state agriculture commissioner.

The son of Drexel R. Davis, Democratic nominee for state treasurer, is enrolled at MSU. Drexel Jr., a sophomore, is a member of the Eagle golf team.

Eight legislative candidates are running as incumbents and three have no opposition. Both Republican and Democratic nominees have MSU ties in the 25th and 29th senatorial races.

The 25th matches State Rep. Charles D. Wheeler of Ashland, a Republican and member of the MSU Board of Regents, against Democrat Roy R. Ross of Paintsville, who attended MSU in 1939.

The 29th involves Democrat John C. Cornett of Mallie, a 1935 graduate, and Republican Frank P. Stewart of Langley, who received a bachelor's degree in 1951 and a master's in 1954.

Other upper chamber candidates are Sen. Joe Stacy of West Liberty, Democratic nominee in the 27th District, who attended MSU from 1942 to 1945; and Republican Herbert Potter of Yeager, who was enrolled in 1951, 1952, and 1961.

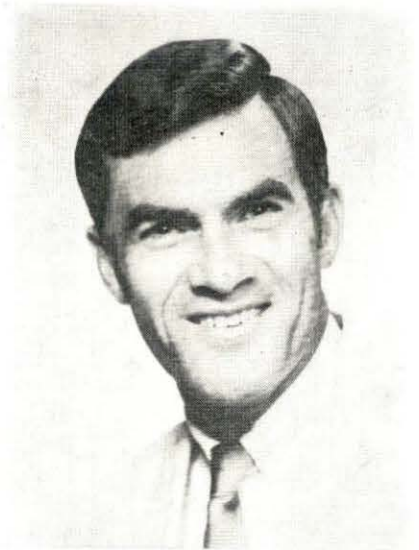

Three House candidates with MSU connections have no opposition this fall. Reelected to the lower chamber will be Rep. Darvin Allen of Royalton, a Democrat in the 92nd District, who received a bachelor's degree in 1962 and a master's in 1969; and Rep. James A. Davis of Grayson, Republican from the 96th District, who was graduated in 1963.

Also returning to the House after an absence of six years will be Woodford F. May of Woodsbend, Democratic nominee in the 71st whose wife now attends MSU.

The other incumbent candidates include Rep. W. Terry McBrayer of Greenup, House majority leader and the Democratic nominee in the 98th District, who was graduated in 1959. Rep. L. T. Hardin of Inez, Republican from the 97th, received his degree in 1958.

Rep. Thomas E. Chapman of Rush, Democrat from the 99th, attended MSU in 1940. Rep. Austin Wenz of Dover, Democrat from the 70th, has his wife and daughter currently enrolled.

Charles R. Holbrook III of Ashland, Republican nominee in the 100th, attended MSU from 1958 to 1960.

EVERETTE VARNEY

Varney Named To Cage Post

Everette L. (Mutt) Varney, former basketball standout at Berea College, has been named a graduate assistant coach at Morehead State University.

The 32-year-old Belfry native comes to MSU from Woodstock, Va. where he has been head basketball coach at Central High School since 1967.

"We're very happy and very fortunate to have Everette join our program," said MSU Head Coach Bill Harrell, who coached him at Belfry High School. "He was a dedicated player and his coaching style reflects the same determination."

Varney, a three-time All-KIAC performer, was a four-year starter at Berea where he holds all major scoring records. He is the only Mountaineer eager to have his jersey number retired.

The new Eagle assistant played four years of service and AAU basketball before going into coaching in 1966. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rush Varney of Cleveland, Ohio, formerly of Belfry, and is married to the former Nancy Golloway. They have three children.

Varney will pursue a master's degree in secondary education at MSU.

Samsel To Teach At Va. Commonwealth

Dr. Gene L. Samsel, who received a master's degree from Morehead State University in 1968, has been appointed an assistant professor of biology at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Dr. Samsel holds a doctorate from VPI. He is married to the former Candi Williams of Morehead, a 1967 graduate of MSU.

The new professor recently completed his second tour of the Antarctic under sponsorship of the National Science Foundation. He is a specialist in water pollution.

MSU On National TV

Morehead State University received national television exposure this summer on NBC's "First Tuesday" program.

The show was concerned with the growth of the college entertainment and lecture circuit and included footage of a speech at MSU last spring by Mrs. Betty Shabazz, widow of slain black leader Malcolm X.

1970-71 SPORTS IN REVIEW

Eagle Athletes Win In 7 Of 10

By KEITH KAPPES
Sports Editor

Morehead State University had a good year in intercollegiate athletics during 1970-1971 with winning teams in seven of 10 varsity sports and an unbeaten freshman basketball squad.

Winning records came in football, cross country, soccer, wrestling, baseball, golf and tennis. Swimming had a break even season and varsity basketball and track had more losses than victories.

Two more Eagles—football's Ron Gathright and basketball's Jim Day signed professional contracts and 14 MSU competitors were selected to appear in the 1971 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America."

All-Ohio Valley Conference honors were earned in football, basketball, baseball and golf. Team and individual records were broken or tied in football, basketball, swimming, baseball, golf and track.

Day and football's Larry Baldrige and Harry (Sugar Bear) Lyles each won honorable mention in All-America balloting. Golf's Bill Spannuth was invited to the NCAA tournament for the second straight year.

Football and basketball had good recruiting campaigns in the spring of 1971 and the outlook for each in the 1971-72 term is bright. Both have revised, tougher schedules.

MSU's sports year included:

FOOTBALL

The football Eagles established five records and tied three others in the 1970 season en route to a 6-4 overall record and 4-3 Ohio Valley Conference slate.

Two new marks and all three ties occurred in the season—ending 16-13 upset of Eastern Kentucky. The loss knocked EKU out of the OVC title and bowl bid.

THE BEAR DESERVED IT—MSU Head Football Coach Jake Hallum awards the Most Valuable Player trophy to Harry (Sugar Bear) Lyles, Charleston, W. Va., junior and a unanimous All-Ohio Valley Conference selection. Lyles, a rugged linebacker was twice named the OVC defensive player of the week last season. He is expected to bid for All-America honors this fall.

Sophomore placekicker Kirk Andrews won the game with a 22-yard field goal, his third of the campaign, to tie the MSU record for three-pointers in a season. He kicked an extra point earlier in the game to match the record for kicked conversions, 19. The field goal and extra point gave him 28 points by kicking for the season, eclipsing the old standard of 25.

Senior safety Larry Baldrige snared his seventh interception of the year late in the Eastern game to help preserve the Eagle victory.

The stolen pass broke the previous record of six set last season by Ron Gathright.

Baldrige also rewrote the single game interceptions record with three against Murray State and the team grabbed five in the same tilt for another new mark. The Eagle defense held Kentucky State to 74 yards total offense for a new team record. The best effort beforehand was 86 yards allowed Memphis Navy in 1961.

second straight 6-4 record. His 1968 squad was 3-6-1.

The Eagles played to more than 76,000 fans at 10 games in the 1970 season. The largest turnout was 21,000 at Eastern.

Ten MSU gridders were honored in balloting for All-Ohio Valley Conference honors including three first team selections.

Named to the primary defensive unit were senior free safety Larry Baldridge and junior linebacker Harry (Sugar Bear) Lyles. Picked for the first offensive team was senior tackle Ed Mignery.

All three also were named to the All-OVC squad selected by the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Freshman quarterback Dave Schaetzke headed the four second team honorees in the coaches' voting. Also tabbed were sophomore tight end Gary Shirk, senior center Steve Ward and senior cornerback Ron Gathright.

Three Eagles received honorable mention in the voting — junior defensive end Jerome Howard, sophomore defensive tackle Ray Mulroy and sophomore fullback Bill Cason.

Mignery, an All-OVC choice in 1968, missed the elite squad last season after an injury hampered his play. Gathright also was a second team pick last year and Lyles was on the 1969 honorable mention list.

The Eagles led the Ohio Valley Conference in four categories when final football statistics were released.

MSU had the loop's best rushing average, 174.1 yards per game; and the best total offense average, 289 yards per game; and the most first downs, 143 in 10 games.

Senior free safety Larry Baldridge, a first team All-OVC pick, led the conference in pass inter-

Six Named As Grid Captains

Six veterans have been elected captains of the 1971 football squad at Morehead State University.

Heading the defense are All-OVC senior linebacker Harry Lyles (215), senior cornerback Mike Rucker (190) and senior linebacker Ron Little (190).

Leading the offense are All-OVC senior split end John High (175), All-OVC junior tight end Gary Shirk (215) and junior wingback Dennis Crowley (200).

Lyles, twice chosen last year as the Ohio Valley Conference defensive player of the week, is from Charleston, W. Va. Rucker is from West Carrollton, Ohio, and Little hails from Fort Payne, Ala.

High, current owner of MSU's records for season receptions and receiving yardage, is from Finneytown, Ohio. Shirk is from Marysville, Ohio, and Crowley is a Cincinnati product.

"We're extremely pleased with the team's selections," said Head Coach Jake Hallum. "These young men have very definite leadership qualities and they are fine football players as well."

Lyles, Little and Crowley are holdover captains from 1970.

ceptions with seven, an MSU record.

The Eagles were fourth in pass offense with 114.9 yards per game and freshman quarterback Dave Schaetzke, a second team All-OVC selection, was second in individual total offense and second in passing. The 19-year-old speedster passed for 975 yards and rushed for another 465. He was 10th in rushing.

In other team categories, MSU was third in pass defense, allowing 92.1 yards per game, and second in rush defense, permitting 82.7 yards per game. The Eagles were a close second in total defense at 174.8 yards per game.

A long-cherished dream came true last winter when Morehead State's Ron Gathright signed a professional football contract with the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League.

The 6-3, 190-pound defensive back said he was "very satisfied" with terms of the bonus pact. New Orleans picked him in the 12th round of the annual NFL player draft. He was the second OVC player picked.

Gathright, an All-Ohio Valley Conference choice in football and basketball for the Eagles, said he had hoped to play pro football since his first game as a child on the playgrounds of Louisville.

A December graduate of MSU, Gathright taught physical education at Newburg Elementary School in Louisville. He reports to the Saints this summer.

RON GATHRIGHT

TOGETHERNESS—Buddy Harrison, left, and Ed Mignery, right, were together four years on the Morehead State University football team. "I've carried Buddy all the way," Mignery says. "Ed wouldn't have made it without me," Harrison retorted. Both were graduated in May. Mignery was a two-time All-OVC pick.

CROSS COUNTRY

MSU's cross country team placed fourth in the Ohio Valley Conference championship meet after a superb regular season.

The Eagles recorded impressive victories in the Western Kentucky Invitational, Southern States Invitational and Ashland Distance Classic plus a strong fourth place finish in the Kentucky Federation meet.

Dr. Mohammed Sabie, coaching the thinclads for the first time, said he was "extremely pleased" with the season.

Dan Price, a senior from Tiffin, Ohio, and the MSU captain, paced the Eagle harriers until an injury sidelined him prior to the OVC meet.

The Eagles won all five of their dual meets and placed second in the only triangular meet of the year.

Two sophomores — Gary White and Nick Tsanges — and four freshmen — Ron Pontrich, Jack Sivori, John Rodgers and Paul Gregory — teamed with Price to give MSU its best cross country season since the OVC began the sport in 1962.

SOCCER

Morehead State University closed its fifth straight winning season in soccer by taking third place in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Soccer Tournament at Berea.

The Eagles lost to Murray State, 3-0, in the semi-finals but came back to blank Louisville, 6-0, for third place. They finished with a season record of 7-3-1.

Standouts during the season

New Opponent On 1971 Football Card

A new opponent highlights the 10-game Morehead State University football schedule for 1971.

The Eagles of Coach Jake Hallum meet Illinois State University of the new Midwest Conference Nov. 13 at Normal, Ill. The Red Birds replace Kentucky State as the season's ninth challenger.

The schedule lists MSU's seven sister schools in the Ohio Valley Conference and non-league foes Marshall, Fairmont State and Illinois State. The traditional opener with Marshall's Thundering Herd is Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in Morehead. Austin Peay is the Homecoming Day opponent on Oct. 9 at 2:30 p.m.

The complete 1971 card:

VARSITY BASKETBALL

"Wait till next year" is not just an old saying to MSU Head Basketball Coach Bill Harrell. He really means it.

His 1970-71 varsity finished the season with an 8-17 record, the most losses in MSU cage history, but Harrell is confident better days are coming.

The 1969-70 season, his first at MSU, produced a 13-11 record and Harrell admitted that the Eagles played much better than he expected. He hopes for similar results this year but this time they didn't play up to his expectations.

Harrell's two-year record is 21-28 but he says the rebuilding is "right on schedule." "We figured to have an even record after three seasons which is average for a new coaching operation in major college basketball," he said.

To reach that goal his 1971-1972 squad will have to produce at least a 16-9 mark playing what could be the toughest MSU schedule in recent years.

Most of Harrell's optimism comes from this season's unbeaten frosh squad which averaged almost 113 points a game while demolishing 17 straight foes. Nine of the freshmen are considered candidates for next year's varsity.

"Overall, I'm satisfied with our first two seasons and I'm very encouraged about the future," Harrell added. "Another good recruiting effort this spring will put us in great shape with personnel."

As for this season, Harrell said he was pleased with the squad's improvement late in the season. The Eagles won four of their last six games, including three straight home victories against OVC teams.

"Perhaps our record would have been better if we had played more home games earlier and had better luck, but that's history now and we're looking ahead with a positive attitude," he added.

Seniors Jim Day and Jerry Hueseman had "superb" seasons, Harrell said.

Day paced the Eagles in scoring and rebounding with averages of 24.3 points and 13.6 rebounds. He closed his career with 1,158 points, good for seventh place on the all-time MSU scoring list. His season highs were 40 points against St. Peter's and 25 rebounds against Morris Harvey.

JIM DAY

Hueseman, an honorable mention All-OVC pick, was second to Day in both scoring and rebounding. He averaged 16.3 points and 9.5 rebounds. His best scoring effort was 30 points against OVC champ Western Kentucky.

Harrell said of 6-0 junior guard Eddie Conley and 6-3 junior forward Gary Cress: "They came on strong late in the year and really helped us." Conley began to develop as a floor leader and Cress emerged as a deadly outside shooter.

Bubba Abell, a 6-1 sophomore guard, and 6-11 sophomore Royce Woolever were occasional starters and provided "fine play at times," Harrell added.

Asked to comment on the team's infamous 12-game losing streak, Harrell quipped:

"I don't remember such a thing."

FROSH BASKETBALL

Morehead State University's first unbeaten freshman basketball squad in history had enough team spirit and unselfishness for 10 teams, according to Coach Jack Black.

"Their statistics are impressive and they ran over almost every opponent but their dedication to each other was fantastic," Black said. "They were determined to have an undefeated season and each made sacrifices to achieve it. We can hardly wait to see them on the varsity."

Eagle basketball standout Jim Day was swamped with honors after a great senior season.

The 6-8 forward from Ashland Fairview received honorable mention in All-America balloting conducted for TV Guide by the U. S. Basketball Writers Association and was a unanimous choice for the second straight year on the All-Ohio Valley Conference team.

Day, who led the Eagles in scoring and rebounding for two seasons, was picked by the Utah Stars in the eighth round of the American Basketball Association player draft and was named to the Kentucky team for the Kentucky-Tennessee All-Star benefit games in Louisville and Nashville.

He was drafted and signed by the Portland Trail Blazers of the NBA.

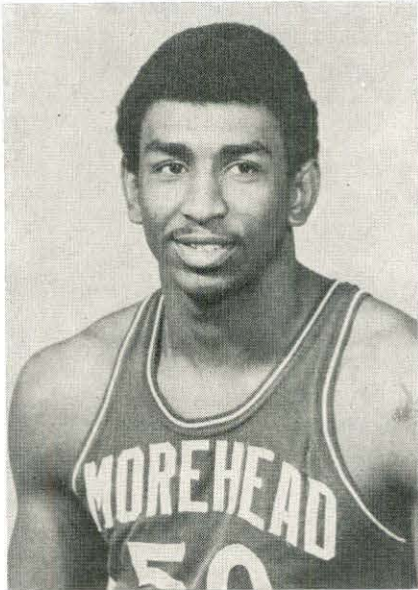

"Jim certainly is deserving of these tributes," said MSU Head Coach Bill Harrell. "He is a talented, dedicated basketball player with great character and excellent attitude."

Day won unanimous all-tournament recognition in December at the Queen City Tournament in Buffalo, N. Y.

The Little Eagles whipped 17 straight foes and averaged almost 113 points per game to the opposition's 81. They hit almost 50 per cent of their field goal attempts, outrebounded their opponents by 21 a game and rewrote 13 school records.

Leonard Coulter, a 6-5 high school All-American from Danville, led the way with 25.3 points and 17.9 rebounds. He shot 55 per cent from the floor and had 51 assists. Black describes him as "potentially one of the greatest players in the history of the OVC."

Howard Wallen, a 6-2 All American guard from Johnson Central, finished second in scoring and completed 128 assists, including 13 in one game. "Howard is a gifted passer, a fine shooter and spells trouble for varsity opponents because of his great playmaking and scoring talents."

Eugene Lyons, a 6-4 forward from Johns Creek, dazzled spectators all season with his rebounding and ball handling. He averaged 18.5 points and 9.4 rebounds. Black said he turned out to be "even better than we expected."

Bill Dotson, a 6-3 guard from Hazel Green High School, proved to be "a natural leader with extraordinary defensive skills," according to Black. He was second in assists with 55 and averaged 8.7 points a game. Black calls him "a regular in anyone's book."

The center spot was shared by 6-7 Mark Wenning of Greensburg, Ind. and 6-7 John Stacy of Breathitt County. Black says both will be "much better than average big men in the OVC." Wenning scored 7.3 per game and Stacy averaged 6.9.

Lowell Ashby, a 6-2 leaper from Shelby County, added 10.2 points a game and plays either guard or forward. Black calls him "a cool customer in hot situations."

Chief reserves at guard were 6-1 Joe Stallworth from Danville and 6-3 Ken Noll from Newport Catholic. Stallworth, a high school teammate of Coulter, averaged 8.5 points per game. Noll, a walk-on player who did not receive scholarship aid, added 7.7 points a game and, in Black's words, "made things happen on defense."

Development of a great frosh team couldn't have occurred at a better time at MSU. This year's varsity finished with an 8-17 record and lost its top two performers.

"They say it's a different story when you're a sophomore in a tough conference like the Ohio Valley but we're confident these freshmen will give a good account of themselves next year," Black added.

WRESTLING

MSU's wrestling team finished the season with a 7-5 record despite losses in its final two matches.

The Eagles were dropped by West Virginia University, 29-8, and UT-Chattanooga, 28-8.

However, the season was termed a success on the basis of two wins each over Eastern Kentucky and Dayton and single victories over Marshall, Morris Harvey and the University of the South.

"Considering our serious lack of depth, we were very pleased with the season," said MSU Head Wrestling Coach Dan Walker. "Four of our losses were to three of the top college wrestling teams in the country," he said in reference to WVU, Chattanooga and Cincinnati.

Assistant Coach Dick Roche said three individual Eagles had "great" seasons.

Sophomore Steve Morgan turned in a 9-2-1 record in personal competition.

Sophomore Bob Warren missed four matches but still finished with the team's second best record, 7-1. Co-captain Tom Beschler, a senior, had a personal mark of 7-3-2.

Roche also made special mention of freshman heavyweight Nick Nighswander who was 6-4 on the year.

SWIMMING

Morehead State's swimmers re-wrote 17 team records in 1970-71 and had a fourth place finish in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Swimming Championships.

The Eagles were 6-6 in dual meets and placed second in the Morris Harvey Relays. Victories were recorded over Louisville, Centre, Kentucky, West Virginia Tech, Union and Morris Harvey.

Freshmen Rhodes Taliaferro and Steve Milleson each participated in six records. Freshman Ken Watkins was involved in five new marks.

The season produced new times in all MSU team record events.

"It was a good showing and we hope to do even better next year with most of our young men returning," said MSU Head Coach Bill Mack. "Our first eight swimmers will be sophomores."

BASEBALL

The baseball Eagles swept a three-game series with Akron University to finish the 1971 season with a 22-8 record and a team batting average of .303.

The season included five wins in six games with both Eastern Kentucky and Western Kentucky.

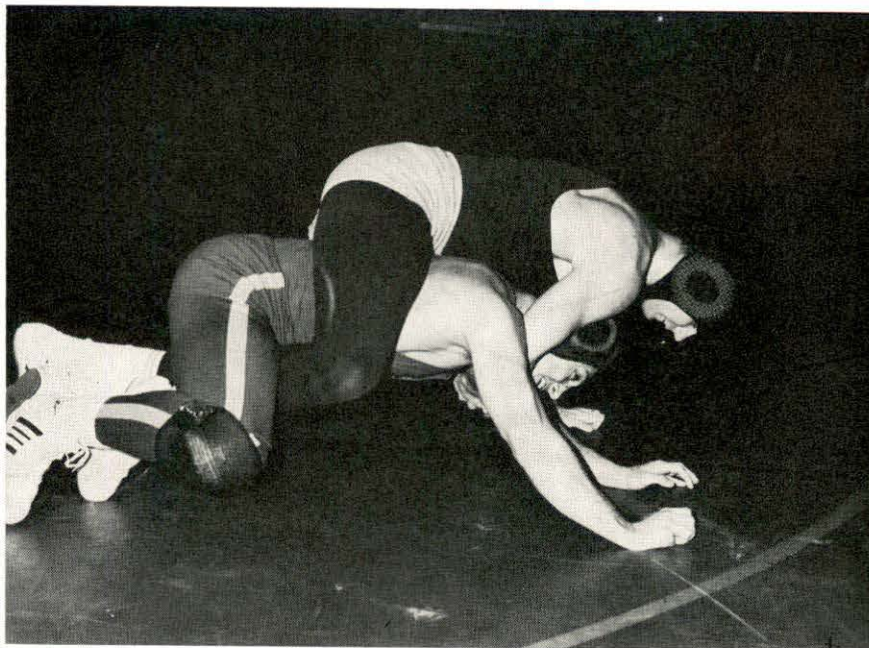

On the season, Head Coach Sonny Allen said his squad had "a real fine year." "We hit the ball well and the pitching was excellent almost all of the time," he added.

Eight seniors—pitchers Lysien, Dennis, Dave Stultz and Mike Hasselbach, infielders Reese Stephenson and Gentry and outfielders Daugherty and Tim Dawson — ended their baseball careers at MSU.

Gentry was named the team's most valuable player.

"These young men will be very hard to replace," Allen added. "They have ability and devotion, the attributes it takes to succeed in any sport. All of them have top-notch character. We're certainly going to miss them."

Stephenson, a four-year starter at first base, paced the Eagles in hitting this year with an average of .394. He had nine doubles and drove in 23 runs. Gentry batted .370 and took team honors with eight homers and 27 RBI's.

Mark Dille and Val Falcone, who missed the last six games because of an injury, each hit .359. Daugherty finished with a .333 mark, including the team high of 10 doubles.

Bobby Ison batted .281 and crashed three home runs. Jim Baron, who became a starter late in the season, batted .375. McDaniel led the pitchers with a .417 average.

Lysien's 5-2 slate was the most victories for an Eagle hurler. McDaniel finished 4-1 and Jerry Weir, the staff's ERA leader at 1.09, was 3-0. Tom Miller had a 3-0 record and Hasselbach, Charlie Whelan and Jeff Davidson each were 1-0. Dennis went 3-2 and Stultz was 2-2. Fred Fiebiger was 0-1. Lysien's 43 strikeouts was a team high.

Falcone established a school record with six hits in one game against Marshall. The team scored a record 21 runs in the same game.

TRACK

The Eagle trackmen endured a long season before strong individual performances put them in sixth place in the OVC track championships last spring, MSU's highest finish in five years.

Coach Ted Newcomb, competing without experienced sprinters and hurdlers, managed to pass Eastern Kentucky and Austin Peay in the final standings.

Four Eagles either broke or tied school records during the season. New marks included Hosea Johnson's 1:52.5 in the 880-yard run; Greg Collinsworth's 23 feet, 3 inches in the long jump and Terry Beckham's 47 feet in the triple jump. Bill Hudnall tied his pole vault record of 14 feet, 6 inches.

The Eagles lost dual meets to

BRUCE GENTRY

ON THE BALL—MSU third baseman Gary Cress follows the ball closely during the 1971 baseball action at Breathitt Sports Center. The Eagles produced a 22-8 record and placed four players on the All-OVC team.

Kentucky State, Cumberland, Ohio University and Eastern. They won one triangular meet with Berea and Marshall and finished second and third in two other three-way meets.

Other standout individual marks for the year included Dave Neely's 6 feet, 7 inches in the high jump, Gary White's 4:14 in the mile, Jay Fischer's 14.9 in the 120 high hurdles and Jack Sivori's 14:46 in the three-mile run.

Eagle cindermen also participated in four invitational meets. Injuries and lack of depth had reduced the squad to 12 men at season's end.

TENNIS

Coach George Sadler's Eagle netmen turned in a winning season but finished a disappointing last in the OVC spring championships.

The 9-6 regular season mark consisted of wins over Morris Harvey, Cumberland, Centre, Henry Ford JC, Louisville, Austin Peay and Marshall and losses to Middle Tennessee, Western Kentucky, Murray, Eastern, East Tennessee and Tennessee Tech.

A series of weather postponements forced the Eagles to play makeup matches on the two days preceding the OVC finals, a factor which contributed to the poor showing.

"We just didn't have the starch left to get the job done after playing those extra matches," Sadler said.

The squad included seniors Steve Wright, George Buck and John Schwan, sophomore Kenny Hiser and freshmen Mike Arnold, Mike Purtz and Danny Warfield.

The Eagles were seventh in the OVC in 1969 and 1970.

GOLF

MSU Golf Coach Ed Bignon was the most surprised man in Cookeville, Tenn. last spring when his team crumbled in the OVC championships and finished last.

Even more surprising was the ninth place individual finish of defending OVC champ Bill Spannuth.

"It was just an unbelievable weekend," Bignon said. "We thought we were ready to contend for the top spot but everything went haywire."

The Eagles had taken second place in the Mid-South Classic at Sewanee, Tenn. and 17th in the prestigious Gulf-American Invitational at Cape Coral, Fla. They also had won two triangular matches, including a record-setting 283 four-man total against Marshall and Bellarmine.

Spannuth, who was invited to return to the NCAA tournament despite his OVC fiasco, took the individual title in the Mid-South and was 13th in the Gulf-American out of a field of more than 240.

"Bill is a fine young golfer," Bignon said. "But he suffered under the same jinx as the rest of the team."

Eagle Cagers To Play 24 Games In 1971-72

Four new opponents and a Christmas tournament highlight the 25-game Morehead State University varsity basketball schedule for 1971-72.

The Eagles of Head Coach Bill Harrell tangle with newly-booked Oral Roberts, Duquesne, Indiana State, Toledo and Illinois State and appear Dec. 27 and 28 in the New Castle Holiday Festival at New Castle, Ind. Other entries are Tulane, Northern Michigan and St. Joseph's of Indiana.

The new card includes the usual home-and-home dates with regional foe Marshall and MSU's seven sister schools in the Ohio Valley Conference — Western Kentucky, Murray State, Austin Peay, Middle Tennessee, East Tennessee and Tennessee Tech.

Regular season play opens Dec. 2 against Duquesne at Pittsburgh, Pa. The Eagles start OVC action Jan. 15 at Murray. The 1971-72 quintet, Harrell's third, is scheduled 12 times in Laughlin Fieldhouse and 13 times on the road.

Harrell will be counting on the products of last year's unbeaten freshman team and a junior college transfer to recover from last season's 8-17 record. Four varsity lettermen also are returning.

The complete schedule:

Dec. 2	Duquesne—Away
6	Oral Roberts—Home
11	St. Peter's—Home
13	Marshall—Home
27-28	New Castle Holiday Festival
Jan. 4	Indiana State—Away

March 4	Eastern Ky.—Away

Walker Scores Ace

Dan Walker is among the coaches at Morehead State University who like to play golf at the MSU course. He likes it even better now since scoring a hole-in-one last spring.

His ace came on the 190-yard fifth hole with a 5 iron. It was witnessed by Bill Marston, Larry Baldrige and Bill Rogers.

Walker is head wrestling coach and offensive backfield coach in football. He joined the MSU athletic staff in 1968.

Hallum Signs 13 Prospects

Nine Kentucky high school standouts dominate the 1971 football recruiting effort at Morehead State University.

Head Coach Jake Hallum and his staff also have signed three players from Ohio and one from West Virginia. The 13 recruits consist of nine linemen, two running backs, a linebacker and a punter.

"We're very pleased with this year's crop of future Eagles," Hallum said. "Several of them will see action this fall as freshmen."

The signees include:

Ray Graham, 6-3, 205, linebacker, Danville.

Danny Fryman, 6-2, 205, tackle, Harrison County.

Joe Dillow, 6-2, 205, center, Russell.

Steve Iker, 6-2, 220, defensive end, Erlanger Lloyd.

Neal Wheeler, 6-1, 210, guard, Boyd County.

Mike Sterbling, 6-3, 200, center, Erlanger Lloyd.

John Wischer, 6-1, 215, guard, Newport Catholic.

Bill Seay, 6-2, 210, center, Hopkinsville.

Brett Wright, 5-10, 165, punter, Franklin County.

Jimmy Johnson, 5-11, 185, tailback, Orrville, Ohio.

Rick Sperry, 6-3, 210, tackle, Shoals, W. Va.

Rick Timmons, 6-2, 225, tackle, Cable, Ohio.

Rick West, 6-1, 195, fullback, Newark, Ohio.

Harrell Inks 8 New Ones

"An outstanding collection of talent" is how Morehead State University Head Basketball Coach Bill Harrell describes his eight recruits of 1971.

The seven incoming freshmen and a junior college transfer represent Harrell's third recruiting effort. The first was located in less than six weeks and last year's output produced the first unbeaten freshman team in MSU history.

"We're hopeful of another outstanding freshman squad," Harrell said. "These young men have the speed, quickness, shooting ability and size to do the job."

The frosh prospects include Kentucky All-Staters Arch Johnson of Breathitt County, Glenn Turner of McDowell and James Washington of Frankfort, Virginia All-Stater Gene Frye of Luray, and Kentucky standouts Eddie Scott of Lewis County, Larry Brown of Hazel Green Academy and Mark Hudson of New Richmond, Ohio.

Hudson at 6-10 is the tallest recruit and Washington and Brown, each at 6-1, are the shortest. Scott and Frye are 6-6, Johnson is 6-5 and Turner is 6-2.

Joining the varsity this season will be Ron Nicholson, a 6-8 center from Seminole Junior College, Sanford, Fla. Harrell terms him "a great leaper and a fine shooter."

14 Eagles Win National Listing

Fourteen Morehead State University students were chosen to appear in the 1971 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America."

Named in football were Ed Mignery and Larry Baldrige. Basketball honorees are Jim Day and Jerry Hueseman. Gary Cress, Reese Stephenson and Val Falcone represent baseball.

Dave Neely and Jim Bayes are listed in track and Dan Price in cross country. Others are Ahmed Sabie, soccer; Dave Lawson, wrestling; George Buck, tennis; and Bill Spanuth, golf.

Football Eagles To Return 37 Veterans

MSU Head Football Coach Jake Hallum is cautiously optimistic about the 1971 season his fourth at MSU, because of 37 returning lettermen.

"With 15 seniors this is the most experienced group we've ever had but it's not going to be easy replacing key men in the secondary and offensive line," the 32-year-old Hallum said.

The offense, tops in the Ohio Valley Conference last year with 289 yards a game, will be without three All-OVC performers but MSU has one of the nation's best young quarterbacks in sophomore Dave Schaetzke, All-OVC last year as a freshman. Behind him are promising sophomores Alex Brawner and Lou Mains.

Also returning are All-OVC tight end Gary Shirk, All-OVC split end John High and veteran running backs Bill Cason, Doug Moore and John Coning. Doug McCray and Mike Mattia are potential stand-outs.

Back for line duty are tackle John Slaughter and guard Tom Lehman. Mike Hawkins, Arnold Drury, Chuck Steiner and Tommy Bryant will join them. Mo Hollingsworth, Dennis Crowley and Jeff Perkins give depth at wing-back.

The defense, second tightest in the league, has nine starters re-appearing but lost All-OVC secondarymen Ron Gathright, now with the New Orleans Saints, and Larry Baldrige plus Clint Walker, a key reserve at end.

All-OVC linebacker Harry (Sugar Bear) Lyles, an All-America candidate, again sparks a seasoned unit which includes ends Jerome Howard, Jim Edwards, and John Lemke, tackles Ray Mulroy and Mark Sheehan and linebackers Charlie Arline and Ron Little. Mike Rucker, Ken Hass and Jim Bayes are the best in the secondary.

Hallum sees Western Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky as the cream of the OVC in 1971. Middle Tennessee also rates high.

MIKE GOTTFRIED

Gottfried Joins MSU Grid Staff

Former MSU quarterback Mike Gottfried, who compiled a 38-2 record in four seasons as head football coach at Norwalk St. Paul, has returned to his alma mater as defensive backfield coach.

"We are delighted with Mike's appointment," said Eagle Head Coach Jake Hallum. "He has developed from an outstanding player into a superb coach and all of us are proud to have him in our program."

Gottfried, a starter for the Eagles from 1963 through 1965, was one of MSU's best passing quarterbacks. He threw for 3,553 yards and 31 touchdowns in his four-year varsity career.

His teams at Norwalk finished 9-1 in 1967, 10-0 in 1968, 10-0 in 1969 and 9-1 in 1970. He was named Ohio's Class A coach of the year in 1969 when the Flyers captured the state championship.

"This is a great challenge and a great opportunity," Gottfried said. "I'm happy to be back at Morehead State and a part of the football program again."

Gridder Excels In Golden Gloves

A split decision in the quarter-finals stopped Louis Rogan's dream of a national Golden Gloves championship last spring.

The former Morehead State University football standout lost to eventual heavyweight champ John Dennis of Brockton, Mass. Earlier, Rogan knocked out LeRoy Martinez of Roswell, N. M. in the tournament's first round at Fort Worth, Texas.

Rogan, who began fighting about a year ago, won the Tri-State Golden Gloves heavyweight crown at Huntington, W. Va. He won seven of his first eight fights by knockouts.

The 5-11, 200-pound All-OVC tailback holds MSU's career rushing record with 2,459 yards in four seasons. He was graduated in May.

Campus Club Becoming SAE

The Campus Club, MSU's oldest social organization, has taken the final steps toward national affiliation and will become the Kentucky Gamma chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity on Oct. 23.

With nearly 500 alumni members, the 38-year-old Campus Club joins the nation's largest social fraternity. SAE has more than 144,000 members and 175 chapters located in 46 states.

Alumni members of Campus Club who wish to affiliate with Sigma Alpha Epsilon may address their inquiries to Jim Bailey, President, The Campus Club, Box 1265, MSU, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

The 26-year-old coach is a native of Crestline, Ohio. He is married to the former Michaelene Rosandic of Crestline. They have one child. Gottfried received his master's degree from MSU this summer.

FACULTY FACTS

RETIREES HONORED—Shown are six of the seven Morehead State University faculty members who retired July 1. From left are Miss Thelma Evans, Dr. Wilhelm Exelbirt, Dr. Warren C. Lappin, Linus A. Fair, Monroe Wicker and Miss Patti Bolin. Unable to attend the retirement dinner was Miss Marguerite Bishop. The seven persons have a cumulative total of 232 years of service to MSU.

Seven Faculty Retire, Served MSU 232 Years

Seven Morehead State University faculty members were honored last spring, for 232 years of service to MSU. All retired July 1.

They were special guests at a retirement dinner in the ballroom of the Adron Doran University Center.

The retirees were Dr. Warren C. Lappin, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty; Linus A. Fair, registrar and associate professor of mathematics; Dr. Wilhelm Exelbirt, professor of history; Monroe Wicker, director of school relations and associate professor of education; Miss Patti Bolin, associate professor of home economics; Miss Thelma Evans, assistant professor of education; and Miss Marguerite Bishop, assistant librarian.

Dr. Lappin topped the seniority list with 48 years. Others are Miss Bishop, 41 years; Fair, 39 years; Miss Evans, 28 years; Wicker, 24 years; Dr. Exelbirt, 23 years; and Miss Bolin, 29 years.

Grant To Finance JC Science Study

Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant to help seven two-year colleges improve their physical science programs.

The $17,600 project is being financed by the National Science Foundation and involves Alice Lloyd College, Henderson Community College, Lees Junior College, Southeast Community College, St. Catharine Junior College, Southeastern Christian College and Sue Bennett Junior College.

Dr. Russell M. Brengelman, head of MSU's Department of Physics, is project director. Jonnie Blair, head of science and mathematics at Lees, is assisting him.

The year-long project consists of a detailed study of each school's physical science curricula in relation to the same subject area at four-year colleges. Participating will be faculty members in physical science, chemistry, physics and geology.

Distinguished Faculty Award to Dr. Pelfrey

The 1971 Distinguished Faculty Award was presented at the annual Alumni Awards Banquet to Dr. Charles Pelfrey, professor of English.

Dr. Pelfrey has been at Morehead State since 1962 and is one of the University's most outstanding teachers.

He was born in Carter County in 1925 and holds the bachelor's degree and master's degree from Morehead State University. He received a Ph.D. degree from the University of Kentucky in 1958.

He has been very active on the campus, serving on the Research Committee, University Undergraduate Curriculum Committee, Committee on Faculty Organization, chairman of the committee which proposed the University Senate, and as senator for the School of Humanities in the University Senate.

DR. CHARLES PELFREY

MSU Faculty To Training Posts

Two Morehead State University faculty members have been elected to offices in the Bluegrass Chapter of the American Society for Training and Development.

Dr. Norman Roberts, head of MSU's Department of Industrial Education, was named to a three-year term on the group's board of directors. Edward G. Nass, assistant professor of industrial education, is vice president in charge of programs.

History Professor Finds Letters Of Washington

History professor Stuart S. Sprague of Morehead State University likes to read other people's mail.

He likes it so well, in fact, that he has located three uncollected letters of George Washington in the past six months. And all have Kentucky ties.

Sprague, a 33-year-old assistant professor at MSU, has been engaged in research for his doctoral dissertation on the life of John Brown, Kentucky's first U.S. senator.

His search took him to Fort Harrod State Park last fall where he noticed two Washington letters at the park museum.

Although both were publicly displayed, neither had been reported to the University of Virginia where a new compilation of Washington correspondence is underway.

Two months later, Sprague was rummaging through old newspaper files at the Library of Congress and found the text of another Washington letter in an 1806 edition of the now defunct Frankfort Western World. This find also was new to the Washington archives.

With the collected Washington letters already past the 25,000 mark, Sprague is not excited by his discoveries. But the Washington historians say his contributions are "notable."

"It was just a simple courtesy to another historian," the professor said.

COMMON INTEREST—Dr. O. M. Petrov, standing, a Russian geologist, discusses a rock sample with Dr. Jules R. DuBar, head of the Department of Geoscience at Morehead State University. Dr. Petrov opened a six-month visit to the U.S. by examining Dr. DuBar's collection of geological specimens.

Dr. Norfleet On Summer Assignment

Dr. Morris Norfleet, vice president for research and development, is on a joint assignment this summer with the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

He is serving as associate project director of the association's Commission for the Future of State Colleges and Universities.

BACK TO THE BOOKS — History professor Stuart Sprague of Morehead State University has uncovered three previously uncollected letters of George Washington. However, he dismisses the find as "a simple courtesy to another historian."

Professor, Wife, Student Write Top Geology Paper

A Morehead State University geology professor, his wife and a student have written a research paper selected for national recognition.

Dr. Jules R. DuBar, Mrs. DuBar and Richard Walls, Maysville senior, investigated "neogene echinoid assemblages of the Carolinas" under a National Science Foundation grant.

Dr. DuBar, head of MSU's Department of Geoscience, presented the paper in Houston, Texas, during the annual meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Papers Presented In New York City

Dr. Husain Qazilbash and Dr. Harold Rose of Morehead State University presented papers last fall at the National Adult Education Research Conference in New York City.

Qazilbash reported on speech patterns in Appalachia and Rose investigated alienation found in adult students enrolling in basic education courses.

Both are staff members of MSU's Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center.

First Lady Directs Unique Service

Mrs. Mignon Doran, wife of Morehead State University President Adron Doran, goes far beyond the traditional role of a campus First Lady.

She directs a unique service, the Personal Development Institute, which offers a non-credit course designed to develop individual qualities ranging from manners to vocabulary.

Classes are voluntary and each student receives a handsome certificate upon completion of the five-week course. Additionally, PDI is recorded on the student's permanent transcript for the benefit of prospective employers.

Mrs. Doran founded PDI two years ago after recognizing that public education lacked any emphasis on personal development. The Institute's purpose is to identify and understand the forces that affect the personal potential of students and adults on the MSU campus.

Changing social, economic and political climates are considered in the instruction aimed at improving confidence, poise, personal appearance, health and self-assurance.

"The enhancement of the inner as well as the outer beauty of young people at Morehead State is the major thrust of PDI," said Mrs. Doran. "We are vitally concerned with preparing the total person for rewarding professional life and citizenship."

PDI students explore the various social processes through experiences and instruction. She stresses the importance of personal appearance, diet, wardrobe, manners, grooming and certain other personal protocol.

Mrs. Doran, by her personal example, has been teaching the social graces since coming to MSU in 1954. Among numerous other things, she has supervised festive dinners and parties for students and faculty members. The popular First Lady started teaching the social arts professionally after launching PDI two years ago and now operates in two studio classrooms which provide a "living room" environment for PDI.

A former speech and music teacher, Mrs. Doran has spent many years collecting and writing materials which students use in their studies. Her classes involve various visual aids, role-playing, discussion techniques and demonstrations.

The Institute encompasses a broad scope, including on-campus classes and workshops for student teachers, ROTC cadets, community leaders, secretaries, sororities, fraternities, public school teachers and MSU faculty members.

More than 1,600 persons have completed PDI since Mrs. Doran began the pioneering venture in early 1969.

$2,700 Awarded For Local Studies

Research grants totaling almost $2,700 have been awarded three Morehead State University faculty members for projects in psychology, adult education and biology.

The grants, all from university funds, were for the 1970-71 school year.

Dr. Francis H. Osborne, associate professor of psychology, received $1,000 for his project entitled "factors influencing the operant frustration effect."

Dr. John E. Gaus, assistant professor of education and director of the MSU Institute on the Aging, was granted $1,000 for his work in "changes in knowledge, attitude and skill of elderly students in Northeastern Kentucky."

Langston D. Smith, instructor of biology, accepted $667.20 for "determination of the life cycle of acanthocephalus jacksoni."

GIRL TALK—"Appearance is one of the little things with big implications," instructs Mrs. Doran as she gives Patricia Terry accessory tips during a class session at the Personal Development Institute.

TV Professor Serves Early Birds

If you're an early morning TV viewer, you've probably seen the smiling face of Dr. Lewis Barnes, the "television professor" at Morehead State University.

An expert in linguistics with 26 years of college teaching experience, Dr. Barnes also likes to work in an electronic classroom, MSU's $250,000 television production studio.

The English professor has taught on live television but in recent years has become almost a TV regular by videotaping linguistics courses for home study.

He presently is revising and re-taping a course which will be shown this fall. His two other finished products, each containing 45 lessons of 30 minutes each, have been shown on commercial and educational TV stations in Louisville, Cincinnati and Huntington, W. Va. The new course also will be offered to the Kentucky Educational Television (KET) network.

The taping schedule is demanding—at least three lessons weekly—but his three hours of preparation time for each program is light compared to the six hours or more required of MSU's Department of Instructional Media which operates the television studio.

Most of the advance work is production of "visuals," the 25 to 30 charts, drawings and photographs used in each lesson.

Taping sessions require about two hours to put one lesson "in the can" but Dr. Barnes says he finds it easy to teach his invisible students. "It's almost second nature to me after all these years in the classroom," he said.

New Foods Degree To Be Offered

Morehead State University will offer an associate degree in food service technology starting this fall.

Approved by MSU's curriculum committee, the new two-year program is designed to prepare students for management careers in commercial food establishments.

"It's a team effort and they all make me look good," Dr. Barnes said. "He's a real pro," is the reply of Steve Young, his director.

Production costs of the courses are reimbursed from fees paid by viewers who enroll for college credit.

"I may never be a star but I like to teach with television," Dr. Barnes said.

His TV style is relaxed yet efficient. Dr. Barnes was recruited for the MSU faculty after MSU President Adron Doran saw him teaching on live television in New Orleans several years ago.

"I must have done something right," he recalled.

His wife, Dr. Ruth Barnes, writes the scripts and Dr. Norman Tant, who supervises TV production at MSU, edits them and coordinates overall planning.

Once the "television professor" moves into camera range, he becomes the center of attention for the director, three cameramen, three control room engineers and two floor men.

Research Grants Go To 5 Faculty Members

Research grants totaling almost $7,000 have been awarded five Morehead State University faculty members.

The grants, all from institutional funds, were for projects to be completed during the 1970-71 school year.

Recipients, awards and projects include:

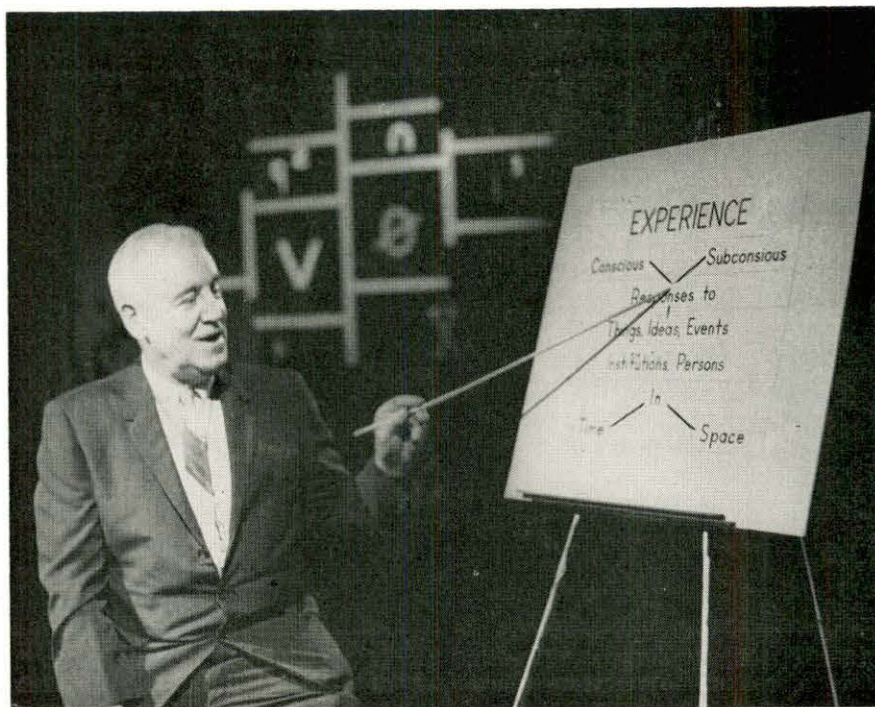

Kenny L. Wade, instructor of agriculture; $1,820, "A study of the relationship of two variable inputs on production of grass forage."

Dr. I. H. Stukuls, assistant professor of psychology; $1,611, "Discrimination learning and the effects of interference on the retention process of retarded and normal children."

Dr. S. M. Whitson, professor of sociology; $1,500, "Assisting workers to relocate jobs following a plant shutdown."

Maurice W. Strider, assistant professor of art; $1,020, "Research in Afro-American art."

Dr. Lamar B. Payne, professor of chemistry; $940, "Chemical shifts of hexamethyldisilane and hexamethyldisiloxane at elevated temperatures."

TELEVISION TEACHER—Dr. Lewis Barnes, professor of English at MSU gives a lecture in linguistics during a television presentation.

Morehead State Joins Unusual Publishing Venture

By R. MARSHALL SHEPHERD
(Reprinted, in part, from the UK Alumnus.)

A unique cooperative venture in scholarly publishing, the largest of its kind in the United States, was launched in Lexington last year when representatives from nine universities and colleges across Kentucky met to organize "The University Press of Kentucky."

Charter member institutions are Morehead State University, Berea College, Centre College, Eastern Kentucky University, Kentucky State College, Murray State University, University of Louisville, Western Kentucky University and UK.

Replacing the University of Kentucky Press, which for 25 years was the only professionally-staffed publisher of books in the state, the new press is the brainchild of historian Thomas Clark, a former faculty member at UK, and himself a major factor in the establishment of its original press in 1950.

Because of the increasing competition for tax dollars between state-supported schools, Dr. Clark proposed the idea of a central publishing facility, a state press supported by member institutions. With one scholarly press serving the state costly duplication of individual expenses could be avoided, Dr. Clark reasoned.

The resulting saving in administrative and other costs would allow a central press to offer more and better services to a greater number of scholars. A central university press would be much better equipped to produce the results of a heavy increase in scholarly writing, generated by the burgeoning of higher education in Kentucky. Such a press would also be a boon, Dr. Clark knew, to the smaller state or private institutions unable to afford a press of their own.

The University Press of Kentucky bases its operation on a statewide editorial board, composed of one member from each school, three additional members from the University of Kentucky, and one citizen at large. The editorial board sets all policy and gives final approval to any manuscript submitted for publication.

Besides the editorial board, each member institution has its own press committee, composed of from three to nine members, depending upon the size and the needs of the school. These individual committees consider those manuscripts submitted by their own faculty members in order to determine whether the manuscript should or should not be submitted for publication to the editorial board. The chairman of the press committee at the University of Kentucky, Dr. Holman Hamilton, also is chairman of the statewide editorial board.

A close working relationship, important for smoothing out the minor misunderstandings of member institutions, is maintained by frequent calls and visits by Mathew Hodgson, development editor of the UPK. Formerly with the Houghton Mifflin Co., he also is responsible for the development of new publishing programs and for manuscript acquisitions.

Also active in liaison work is Sales Manager Murrell Boyd who came to Kentucky from the University of North Carolina Press. Responsible for the promotion and sales of all books produced by the Press, he works with the information officers of the various member institutions.

In financing costs of publication, manuscripts coming from outside the member group are handled ac-ording to standard university press procedure. The actual manufacturing costs of a member's manuscript however, are usually underwritten by the sponsoring institution.

The Press then agrees to return a percentage of the net sales of the book to the member. This makes the cost to that member considerably less than the cost of publishing it outside or in its own institutional press.

The general overhead of the Press—administrative, editing, marketing and warehousing costs—is paid by the Commonwealth of Kentucky with funds allocated to the Press by the University of Kentucky.

Bruce F. Denbo, director of the Press, regards the new organization as unique in several aspects. Larger than any other cooperative university press in the country, its membership is composed of and supported by both public and private institutions.

Provisions have been written into its charter for flexibility in the makeup of the controlling editorial board, according to the efforts and possible changes in future fortunes of the member schools. Thus a member institution is permitted a high degree of determination concerning its own participation in the policies, procedures and goals of the Press.

The role of a scholarly press, whether a cooperative or individual effort, differs considerably from that of the commercial press. The new University Press of Kentucky publishes about 30 titles a year compared to the considerably larger number of titles issued by a typical commercial press. The average run of a title by the press is 2,000 copies, depending on anticipated interest in that particular subject.

Since The University Press of Kentucky endeavors to publish only works of lasting scholarly interest, contemporary fiction and popular interest subjects are all but excluded from its catalog. In a commercial operation, those areas usually provide the very basis of survival. Both the size of an edition from a scholarly press, as well as its net sales, will be small. In many instances, the size of an edition isn't large enough to cover the cost of bringing out the book. In such cases, the work is usually subsidized by the press itself.

The paperback has achieved a social status of its own and expanded the audience of the scholarly press. No longer does one find the badly set, poorly inked copy on the discolored page. Today's paperback is printed, in most cases, from the original plates on the same paper and in the same size and format as the original. Sometimes it is slightly reduced in size. If a book should have to be reset, it is set in a contemporary typeface, pleasing to the eye and easily read. The cover is designed by a specially trained individual, highly sensitive to the tastes and trends of the moment, and intellectually aware of what is going to be bound between the covers he is designing.

1,013 Graduates Hear Dr. Kinlaw At Spring Commencement Ceremony

Dr. Dennis F. Kinlaw, president of Asbury College, delivered the spring commencement address Sunday, May 9, to the largest graduating class in the history of Morehead State University.

MSU President Adron Doran presented diplomas to 1,013 degree candidates during the ceremony at Laughlin Fieldhouse. The previous record, 907 graduates, was set in 1970.

The Class of 1971 included Dr. Kinlaw's son, Dennis Jr., a pre-medical student in biology. He has been accepted at the University of Louisville Medical School.

President of the Wilmore, Ky. school since 1968, Dr. Kinlaw holds a doctorate in Mediterranean Studies from Brandeis University. He also has studied at Princeton Theological Seminary and the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

The 48-year-old educator is a Distinguished Alumnus of Asbury Theological Seminary where he formerly served as professor of Old

Since service to Kentucky as well as to the broader scholarly community is the major goal of The University Press of Kentucky, many of its new publishing programs will be directly related to the interests and welfare of the Kentuckian himself. Already underway are specially commissioned works on the colorful history of the state, and studies, both sociologic and economic, on which civic, educational and governmental leaders can draw for help in their efforts to plan for the state's future.

The Press will continue the commitments of its predecessor to such programs as the Frederick Jackson Turner Award Studies in history, sponsored by the Organization of American Historians; the South Atlantic Modern Language Association Award, and the many-volumed publication of "The Papers Of Henry Clay." It will strive to balance its strong regional interests with explorations of other disciplinary areas.

MOREHEAD ALUMNUS

H. K. Collins Leader In Education

Harold K. Collins, '37, President of Durham Technical Institute, has had a great impact upon education, not only in the Durham, N. C. area, but also the state of North Carolina.

After receiving his degree from Morehead State University, he went to Durham in 1938 as a teacher of building trades at Durham High School. He held this position until 1944, when he was appointed Director of Vocational and Adult Education. In 1961, Mr. Collins was appointed President of Durham Technical Institute, which is

9 Of 10 Grads Favor MSU For Their Own Children

More than 9 out of every 10 graduates of Morehead State University in the last decade apparently want their children also to attend MSU, according to a recent study of alumni attitudes.

Conducted by the MSU Research and Development Center, the study involved a 20 per cent random sampling of the university's 7,280 graduates since 1960. Questionnaires were mailed to 1,328 alumni.

one of fifty-four units in the North Carolina Community College System.

As a teacher and administrator in vocational and technical education, his experience covers over thirty years of continuous service. In 1948, under his supervision, the first program for Practical Nurse Training in North Carolina was established. During the past twenty years, he has been instrumental in the development of programs of training for Nurses' Assistants, Dental Assistants, Dental Laboratory Technicians, Hospital Ward Clerks, Medical Secretaries, Psychiatric Nurses Assistants, Ophthalmic Dispensers, Optical Technicians, Morticians and Funeral Directors, and Hospital Orderlies.

The Dental Laboratory Technician Program (as well as Practical Nurse Education and Nurses' Assistants) is today in operation at Durham Technical Institute. This program is the only one in the State of North Carolina; it was the fourth in the nation to be accredited by the American Dental Association, and is one of fifteen accredited in the nation today.

Recently a new building was constructed on the Durham Technical Institute Campus. This new building was named the Collins Building in honor of the Institutes president, H. K. Collins.

The study was designed to help in future program development and in the evaluation of past and present programs.

Concerning the choice of MSU as a favored school for their own children, 91 per cent responded affirmatively.

Another 83 per cent said they felt their educational experiences at the time were adequate or more than adequate as preparation for employment.

ROGER MEADE

Roger C. Meade Receives Doctorate

Roger C. Meade, '60, assistant director of student financial aids at Ball State University, received the Doctor of Education Degree in educational administration on June 3 at Ball State.

He received both the bachelor's and master's degree from MSU in 1960 and 1961, respectively. He has also studied at Indiana University, University of Dayton and the University of Kentucky.

His home address is 1907 Richmond Drive, Muncie. Dr. Meade's doctoral dissertation is on "A Description of Four State Competitive Scholarship Programs of States Which Have Membership in the Mid-West Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators."

The graduates listed course work in their subject fields as the most important aspect of their time on campus. Required general education course work was ranked next to last.

Student and faculty relationships were reported as the university's most outstanding feature.

The study revealed that 52 per cent of the responding graduates are currently employed in Kentucky while 71 per cent of them originally came to MSU as Kentucky residents, a migration loss of 19 per cent.

SCHOLARSHIP

What makes a university move toward greatness? There are many factors, of course. People, physical plant, a sense of purpose—all these play a part. One of these factors is the ability to attract and hold students who show a high potential for academic work. With physical facilities and faculty of high caliber, a university is ready to fulfill its purpose—higher education. Maintaining this readiness requires a continuing allocation of resources. To realize the highest return on this investment, the university needs the best students. Your Alumni Association has been engaged for a number of years in encouraging the most highly qualified students to pursue their education at MSU. The primary tool for accomplishing this has been the Scholarship Fund. The best way for you to aid in this effort is to purchase an MSU Bald Eagle print by using the convenient order form below.

MSU President Recieves Horatio Alger Award

AS A UNIVERSITY GROWS. . .

ADRON DORAN--THE MAN, THE EDUCATOR

Dr. Adron Doran, for 17 years president of Morehead State University, has joined a select group of about 200 Americans chosen as recipients of the Horatio Alger Award. Dr. Doran, a native of Graves County, is the fourth Kentuckian so honored. The Horatio Alger Awards, sponsored by the American Schools and Colleges Assn., were created to honor business and professional leaders who have overcome humble circumstances to attain unquestioned success.
