INTRODUCTION

This volume of historical material was compiled under the direction of the Kentucky Council of Defense by the persons named on the foregoing page, and is dedicated to the people of this county.

In 1918 the Kentucky Council of Defense inaugurated a state wide movement to make a record of the part which the State was taking in the World War. It appointed a State War Historian and local historians in each county. These persons were charged with the duty of collecting and preserving such material as would be of value to the people of the counties and the State, including service records of the men in the army and navy, and records of the activities of the men and women who stood solidly behind the fighting forces and gave their time and labor untiringly to the winning of the war.

This volume is the result of the labors of the Council through its historians. A similar volume has been compiled for each of the 120 counties in Kentucky.

The names of the members of the Council are given on the following page.

An outline of the work done by this organization will be found on the following pages:

The work of the Council of Defense was carried on chiefly by the Woman's Committee - whose main efforts were along the line of food conservation. The people were urged to can and dry all perishable foods - a number of women studied canning and drying processes as taught by the Government and instructed large numbers of other women - They also distributed all literature and posters sent out by the Dept. of Agriculture.

The Woman's Committee and Woman's Club divided the town of Morehead into districts - each Dist. had a Food Thrift Chairman - weekly meetings were held at which the hostess demonstrated some thrift recipe, which met all the requirements of the Conservation Dept, thus the spirit of food conservation and Home Economics grew until the whole town was "doing her bit," in this line.

He was succeeded by H. H. Yount who

He handled the department in a very pleasing manner, securing best results with the minimum of complaint.

S. S. Cassity, as Fuel Administrator was successful in keeping down profiteering in the coal business in Bowman County and also in getting the people to cooperate in the conservation of fuel.

THE DEAD.

BY BARRY BULLOCK

'Twas they who won, who gladly bled,
The cross and crown are theirs, the dead;
Upon their graves on hill and lea
Have bloomed the flow'rs of victory
And there the laurel decks their bed.

They bore the torch, that flamed and led,
They stood a wall, when sore bestead,
And fell with Spartan chivalry—
'Twas they who won.

Approach this ground with pious tread,
While larks are singing overhead,
These mounds as shrines of liberty
Shall pilgrims call from sea to sea
And there shall thankful prayers be said—
'Twas they who won.

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR MORROW

AT MEMORIAL SERVICE IN CONNECTION WITH THE PLANTING OF TREES ON THE PUBLIC GROUNDS OF THE LOUISVILLE FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY,

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY,

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH,

3 P. M., November 28, 1920.

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF THE REPUBLIC:

When might had almost destroyed right; when night had almost put out the light of the world; when horror gripped the hearts of men; when humanity staggered on the road to Golgotha and crucifixion—those whom we remember and whom we strive to honor, died for us.

A nation great enough to send them forth is great enough to hold them forever in sacred and grateful memory—these sons of Kentucky, flesh of our flesh, bone of our bone and core of our heart's desire. But such a little while ago, they were the youth of Kentucky; now they are the immortals of the world. Our dead are so close now—just a Summer season, and a Spring and a Fall since they were in our midst—the friend, the school-mate, the companion, the boy at home; and now they are the greatest, tenderest memory of the world—our dead—sleeping the long sleep where white crosses stand row on row, draping the hill, the plain and the valley with the whitening snows of Winter for their shroud, the lark caroling above them, the poppies blooming over them in the Springtime.

These crusaders of the great crusade, whose patriotism is as limitless as the air; who struggled not for boundaries or lands or empires or dominion, but who dared all and gave all for the peoples of the world—for the freedom of the earth—for humanity and for God. Our dead—broken, torn by shot and shell, dying in the camp, in the trench, and now we know that they formed the world's greatest sacrament—"This is my body broken for you."

Such a little while ago they marched away beyond the seas. In the trenches, in the charge, these heroes died that liberty might live. They fell, but right prevailed; they made the sacrifice, but the light of the world still lives for men and women and children. These heroes bled into the chalice of humanity that those who come after them may drink the draught of life. They died, but wrong went no further; they fell, but plunder ceased; they gave their all, but humanity was not crucified—"This is my body broken for you."

Our dead—Ah, City of Louisville, hold high thine head—they have kept thine honor clean. Mother and father, it is enough—he was thy son. Old State, honor them forever, they have kept the best of your traditions and added honor unto honor. Nation, keep them forever in thy war-scarred breast—they are thy precious heritage. Their hands kept the drooping banner from falling and held it aloft until others in turn could pass it on to still others. Our dead, and yet they are not dead; they sleep a victor's sleep forever—the noble dead can never die. They are not dead. Ah, no—they live in the hearts of every free race in the world; they live in every free institution which sheds its blessings on humanity. They are not dead; they live in every home secure, where peace prevails and blessings are. They are not dead: they live enshrined in memory, in the hearts of those who gave them; in the breast of the nation which reared them; in the land they loved because they have made its soil safe forever. They are not dead; they live in the melody of the Old Kentucky Home for which they dared and suffered all. They live in the stars of the flag as it sways in the clean winds and waves its stripes above the heads of the free.

They are not dead: their spirits live against the hour of need; when they shall fan the flames in other hearts and encourage them to make safe again the firesides of our country and the altars of our God. They are not dead: they live in every pealing chord of the national anthem, as it stirs our hearts and thrills our souls. They are not dead; they are the heritage of the nation, beyond price, for the rich and poor, for every heart that beats in the breasts of their countrymen.

They are not dead: they but sleep in the kindly bosom of the earth, the mother of us all, where nature bends and smiles in benediction above them. Around them the surges of life go on. The feet of the living go on the journey of life; their feet have completed the journey. Our hands toil on in the struggle, while theirs are folded in silence.

They were our sons—they are our sons, only they belong now to "Freedom and to Fame."

They are not dead: they live in our future and will live until our blood shall have known its destiny. They await the call of the Bugler who shall sound no more for them the sweet plaintive notes of good-night taps, but will blow the great blast of eternal peace and everlasting reunion with those they loved, beside the still waters, in the sunlight—in the smile of God.

A. O. STANLEY,

"I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

APRIL 6TH, 1917 - NOVEMBER 11TH, 1918

Presented by Kentucky Council of Defense.

Names and addresses of men from this county who were wounded in action in World War, 1917-1919.

In addition to the men wounded in action, there were many men in each county who were disabled in the service.

President Wilson's Tribute to Men Wounded in World War.

"The wounds you bear are the noblest badges of honor any man has ever worn; they exalt you to a supreme place in the minds and hearts of your countrymen and of all the world. America realizes that she has no more solemn obligation, no more patriotic duty than to express in practical terms the gratitude that every American—man, woman and child—feels for every one of you. America will not forget."—Woodrow Wilson.

THE BLUE AND THE GREY.

(George Morrow Mayo, Bowling Green, Ky., in Courier-Journal, May 27, 1917.)

Here's to the Blue of the windswept North,
When we meet on the fields of France!
May the spirit of Grant be with you all
As the Sons of the North advance.

Here's to the Grey of the sunswept South,
When we meet on the fields of France!
May the spirit of Lee be with you all
As the Sons of the South advance.

And here's to the Blue and Grey as one,
When we meet on the fields of France!
May the spirit of God be with us all
As the Sons of the Flag advance.
