THE TENNESSEE PROHIBITIONIST.

"WOE TO HIM THAT PUTTETH THE BOTTLE TO HIS NEIGHBOR'S LIPS."-HAB. 2:15.

VOL. I. NO. 8.

CLARKSVILLE, TENN., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1900.

BIG REPUBLICANS

Front With a Sensation -Seven Patriots in Toils.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY., Oct. 11,-A genuine sensation was created here this morning when it was learned that the Christian county grand jury bad returned indictments against seven of the leading Republicans of the city, as County Clerk Prowse, County Judge Cansler, Constable Knight, Deputy affairs mainly, and it goes without saying that he handled the Republican party and McKinley's administration without gloves. His exposure of some of the deviltry of Hannaism set the boys afire with enthusiasm and clinched every vote present for Bryan next month.

Assessor Wicks, Elliott, Willey and John Barker, colored.

They are all charged with interfer ence with the election in Republican interests in 1899.

Seperate indictments charge Prows with making false registration books. It is believed here that the defendants, before they are free from the toils of the law, will have no disposition to "monkey" with matters of this kind hereafter.

It affords me pleasure to say that contributions are still coming in in answer to my recent and final appeal for funds. The Prohibitionists of the United States seem to realize that the national committee has undertaken a tremendous thing in this Trial Packages of Dr. Blosser's Catarri campaign and they seem disposed to back the committee to the last. I know that there are hundreds of men who have resolved that the campaign shall not close without a handsome contribution from them to the national committee, who have not yet given attention to this matter. May I ask that all who are going to help our committee to do so at once, for within the next few days almost affection. all expenses of the campaign have to be paid. Many have written and sent contributions, saying that they were going to give more, and many have written saying that they would give something before the the close of the campaign. All such should make their remittances without delay either to me or to Samuel D. Hastings, treasurer, Green Bay Wis. I thank those who have helped and, in advance thank those who do respond to this reminder.

he cares to do it. "What do you propose to do about the liquor traffic ?"

We affirm as true indisputably the declaration of William Windon when Secretary of the Treasury, that "Considered socially, financially, politically or morally, the licensed liquor traffic is or ought to be the overwhelming issue in American politics," and that "the destruction of this iniquity stands next on the calendar of the world's progress."

Bro. Wilson, why do you and your party stand mum on the biggest question in American politics? Pull the beam out of thine own eye, then thou canst see more clearly how to pluck the note out of thy brother's occular organ.

At present our work is mainly educative and preparatory, having for its end the enlisting of a force large enough to destroy the saloon. To dissipate our energies on free silver or the gold standatd would be utterly foolish. When we become a ruling factor in American politics then will be time enough to take position on all these minor issues.

THE SITUATION AT MARTIN.

This editor spent several days this month in the delightful little town of Martin, the guest of Mr. T. H. Farmer, one of nature's noblemen. He is a bulwark of strength in that community. His bands are strongly upheld and his efforts ably seconded by such excellent citizens as Rev. 1. N. Penick, T. E. Foster and R. E. Nowlin. We reached Martin Saturday night in time to hear part of Q. The very courts, the army, the navy, the islands we would rescue from oppression and from barbarism, the colonies, the foreign lands whither we send our discredited missionaries, are calling to us, from island to island, over land and sea, Judgment!

The drunkard, tripped up in unguarded moments, over and over again, by the man-traps that line the ways and make sobriety impossin one supremely desperate effort, turns to the church his twitching face and cries: Judgment!

"The time has come that judgment must begin at the house of God"judgment, not prayer meeting, not sympathy for reform, not sentiment for truths, not kindergartens, palm gardens and "institutional" machinery of one sort or another, not higher criticism, nor lower orthodoxy-"judgment must begin at the house of God."

The drunkard's mother, accursed in her maternity and saying in in her heart, "Blessed are the barren and the wombs that never bare and the paps which never gave suck," pushes her way to these altars and cries, Judgment! But the licensed mother-baiter gives the omnific word for every election and 99 per cent. of Christian voters ratify it.

I have not said that Prohibition 'prohibits." I have not said that this government can live without its $150,000,000 of blood money. I have said we can put a stop to the evil. I have not said we can ever make men sober by law. I have not H. F. SMITH, said we can close one saloon. Perhaps the saloon is to go on forever. But I do say that the church must cut loose from it or die.

I say nothing but good of the theoretical church. But it is both a condition and a theory that confront us. Alcohol, medicinal, culinary, social, sacramental, rent-paying, tax-paying, vote-paying, ballot-boxstuffing, barley-buying, corn-buying, hog-buying, hop-buying, vote-buying, alderman-buying, legislaturebuying, conscience-deadening, crimebearing, idiot-breeding, wife-beating, mother-killing, child-stealing, woman-insulting, alcohol fairly saturates the church body, letting down its tone, lessening its sensitiveness, leeching its blood, coagulating its nerve substance, searing its finest filaments, burning out its armatures. "And the end of that way is death."

LESSON II, FOURTH QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 14.

ext of the Lesson, Luke xiv. 15-24. Memory Verses, 21-24-Golden Text, Luke alv. 17 - Commentary Prepared by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association.)

15. "Blessed is he that shall cat bread at the kingdom of God." His reference recompense at the resurrection of the st seems to have led one of the company to make this remark. Moses was creatly affected by the recompense of the reward, Abraham by the city which hath foundations, Job looked for the resurrection of the body and Daniel asso-ciated the resurrection with the kingdom Heb. xi, 10, 24-27; Job xix, 25-27; Den. xii, 1-3). The thought that the re-lemption of God, which He has provided lemption of God, which the has provided in Christ, is intended to fit us for heaven and take us there does not affect the believer as the greater truth that we are redecimed by His precious blood that we redecimed by His precious blood that we shay be fitted to reign with Him when His kingdom shall be set up on this earth Dev. v. 9, 10; Dan. vil, 27).

16, 17, "Come, for all things are now ceady." It may be that the man who made the remark of the previous verse meant that he would be a fortunate man who would be good enough to enter the cingdom of God, but our Lord teaches in his parable that the kingdom is prepared for all who will accept the invitation to enter. It is fike a king making a marriage for his son and providing wedding for all who will accept the invitation to center. It is like a king making a marriage for his son and providing wedding garments for all who will come, it being required of those invited that they accept the invitation and the robe provided and enjoy the king's bounty (Math. xxii, i. 14). No one is able to fit himself for the presence of the King, but the King provides everything and sends out His nvitations, saying, "Come, for all is ready." Compare carefully, the gracious nvitations in Isa, i, 18; lv, 1, 2; Math. d. 28-30; Rev. xxii, 17, and John iii, 16, n the first illustration of God's redempion in the Scriptures the coats of skins trained by the shedding of blood, the part provided all, and the only thing remarked of guilty Adam and Eve was to iscard their own efforts, the fig leaf their own efforts, the fig leaf ther own efforts, the fig leaf cars and accept the Lord's provision in lii, 21). They did not help the cone whit to obtain those robes. It "And they all with one consent be-to make excuse." They despised His

18. "And they all with one consent began to make excuse." They despised His lavitation and His kindness. "They mocked the messengers of God and despised His words and misused His prophets" (II Chron. xxxvi, 16). "They believed not in God and trusted not in His salvation; they did flatter Him with their mouth, and they lied unto Him with their tongues" (Ps. lxxviii, 22, 36). "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not: He was in the world, and the world was made by Him, and the world knew Him not" (John i, 10, 11). The despisers of this purable like the world knew Him not" (John i, 10, 11). The despisers of this parable, like Adam and Eve hiding among the trees of the garden, seek to put the gifts of God between Him and themselves. This first despiser talks of a piece of ground which needs his inspection, not considering that the earth is the Lord's, and only by His grace was the money with which he bought it in his possession. Self is first in his case.

19. This excuse is as weak as and on the same line as the other. It is certainly very unusual to buy land without seeing it or to buy oxen without proving them. It is a other case of being self occupied, self centered and despising the kind invitation. The cattle on a thousand bills control to the cattle on a thousand

He speaks of the master of the house doing just what He had advised the master of the house where He then was to de (verse 13). Those who had possessions having refused his invitation, he invites those who have so possessions, nothing of this world to entangle them. In chapter xviii, 24, 25, He taught that it was very difficult for those who have the riches of this world to obtain the riches of the kingdom. The gospel obtains and to come unto the knowledge of the truth, giving to all the gracious encourtruth, giving to all the graciens encouragement "Him that cometh to Me I will in nowise cast out" (I Tim. E. 4; John vi. 37). There is room for all who will come from any part of the world. But have can they come if they have not heard the invitation? Are we faithful who have been put in trust with the gospet (I Thess. E. 4.)

only from the streets and lanes which are full of people, but from the highways and hedges we are to gather them by going after them, and lavingly and carnestly we are to constrain shem. True it is the Spirit's work to consince of sin, but He speed and some and women as His messengers, and as we go with the invitation and some believe and some believe not we have the comfort of knowing that all that the Father giveth to Christ shall come to Him (John vi, 37).

24. Those who, having heard, refuse will be shut out, and terrible is the language used concerning such (Prov. i, 24-27; II Thess. i, 7-9). While His salvation is fully provided and freely given by Him to all who come to Him and all such shall be in His kingdom, ret there are special privileges and honors for those who are willing to be His whole hearted disciples, and of these He speaks in the rest of this chapter. We insist that such a party, agreed upon this principle and policy, having sober leadership, without any obligation for success to the saloon vote and to those demoralizing political combinations of men and money now allied therewith and suppliant thereto, could successfully cope with all other and lesser problems. McKinley, who was elected fo distillers and brewers and bar-of government, in legislative halls his high, office by appeals to keepers, is a disgrace to our civ-kitchen, all necessary out-houses, that it is useless for any party to ism almost unprecedented and by manity, and a crime against God. etc. The yard is large and make declarations in its platform as to any questions concerning which there may be serious differences of opinion in its own membership, and as to which, because of such differences, the party could legislate only on a basis of mutual concessions when coming into power.

Description of Engraving.

It is founded on Matthew 7:13, 14, and consists of two stairways, starting from a common platform, marked

....CHILDHOOD....

On this platform are two boys, both having equal opportunities. The one goes up by way of the steps marked by the word, Obedience, Sincerity, Truthfulness, Righteousness, etc., to the top (where is pictured ascending angels), to the home of the soul, to heaven. The other goes down by the steps of Disobedience, Anger, Vulgarity, Profanity, etc., (also Bible marked steps), to the pit, the home of the lost, pictured at the bottom. On either side of the downward way are appropriate pictures speaking examples of the woe, desolation, and inevitable run attending this course.

Along the upward way are pictured happy homes and happy childhood, schools and churches, and a galanxy of Christian workers surrounding and sustaining the church, among whom are Gough, Finch, Fisk, Demorest and Stearns, who have climbed the golden stair and gone to their reward. Then filling up the ranks of the noble dead, come the pictures of nine living and live workers for the cause of humanity. St. Paul's stairway, as recorded in Gal. 5:19-23, is the inspiration of the work. St. Paul's upward way, is made to crown this Way of Life, with Temperance at the top; and his downward way, with drunkenness as the last step, is made to do duty, way down next to the pit, in the "Way of
