1930 Fulton County Fair

Preparations are now well advanced to make the Fulton County Fair this year greater than ever. Five big days, August 26, 27, 28, 29, 30.

In a magnificent way, the fair and exposition will feature the newest agricultural development—dairying and poultry.

Also presenting a display of outstanding merit in exhibits, educational and entertainment features, combined with displays and demonstrations of the latest farm implements, machinery and dairy equipment.

The customary swine and poultry shows will be fully up to their usual high standard. In fact, Supt. J. T. Watkins, in charge of the poultry exhibit, promises the largest and best Poultry Show ever witnessed in Western Kentucky.

Arrangements will be made for daily demonstrations and talks by expert poultry men, of an educational nature. The Floral Hall—Woman's Department, which is a complete exposition in itself, and has developed a remarkable reputation for its outstanding merit, will this year be more attractive than ever with new ideas, new exhibits and a program of educational and entertainment features of unusual appeal to visitors.

The fastest pacers and trotters will feature the daily racing program, and all who enjoy a good race will not be disappointed.

There is no place where you will find a greater variety of entertainment and a selection more to your liking. There will be music all the way from jazz up—vaudeville and circus acts of every description, including a night show of real merit. On the midway will be found the usual carnival shows, the barkers and ballyhoos presenting an ever interesting performance in telling of the wonders that can be seen just inside—for the price of one admission.

In order to thoroughly enjoy the Fair, and its varied attractions, one should plan to spend at least an entire day and evening on the grounds, or better still, when possible, spend several days. Most of the highways entering Fulton now are in excellent condition and those living in driving distance can come by motor, or if you do not care to be bothered with your car, you can join the great multitude, who will take advantage of the low railway rates and special accommodations that will be offered by the great Illinois Central railway entering Fulton.

The 1930 Fulton County Fair will be the greatest in its history, so make your arrangements to attend now.

Work on the program and premium list is now under way. For detailed information, address President J. W. Gordon, or Secretary R. H. Wade, Fulton, Ky.

DECORATION DAY AT PALESTINE SUNDAY

The annual decoration at Palestine cemetery will be on Sunday, May 25.

TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED

James Hammons, truck driver for M. Livingston Co., wholesale grocers of Fulton, was held up and robbed last Friday night on the Martin-Fulton Highway, the robbers it is reported, obtaining about $700 in cash and checks. Mr. Hammons was en route to Fulton and stopped to assist three men who were having trouble with their car. As soon as he brought his car to a stop, two of the men drew revolvers while the third man went through his pockets.

NASHVILLE BOOSTERS VISIT FULTON

The Nashville Booster Club, nearly one hundred strong, arrived in Fulton Tuesday evening on their special train and was warmly greeted by Mayor Paul DeMyer and reception committee, headed by Secretary Joe D. Davis of the Chamber of Commerce, and hundreds of business men and women who were assembled on Lake street where the special train was parked on arrival.

The American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps in their handsome new uniforms were also prominent in a magnificent way, and caused much comment and admiration from the live and peppy bunch of visitors.

After a hearty welcome and handshake, the crowd formed in parade and marched to Science Hall, headed by the Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, followed by the Nashville Boosters and their famous Tony Rose band of 15 pieces.

At Science Hall the boosters were officially welcomed with Joe Davis acting chairman. After the opening prayer by the Rev. C. H. Warren, Mr. Davis introduced Hon. Herbert Carr who addressed the assembly in his characteristic way of making every one feel a hearty welcome.

Three beautiful vocal selections were rendered by the high school chorus, composed of twelve charming young ladies under the direction of Miss Eva McKendree, music instructor of city schools.

This was followed by an address by Jacques Back, director general of the Nashville Booster Club, who introduced Gen. Joel Fort, representing the Governor of Tennessee, who was the principal speaker of the evening. General Fort is a fluent speaker and held the audience spellbound and in good humor throughout his thirty-five minute talk.

Others of the Nashville party, were introduced, Charles Yarbrough, president of the Booster Club; R. B. Beal of the Nashville Chamber of Commerce, who made a brief talk.

It was a delightful pleasure to meet and mingle with the leading business and professional men of the Tennessee capital and Fulton did herself proud, royally entertaining their guests, cementing everlasting friendships. We are glad they came and hope they will come again.

After spending the night here the Boosters left aboard their special train for Union City at 7:25 Wednesday morning.

CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCE AT CARR

There is to be a Child Health Conference on Wednesday, May 28, at the rest room at Carr Institute from 1 to 4 p. m.

This the beginning of the summer round-up in Fulton county, sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association. The goal is to have every child under six years of age examined either by his family doctor or at one of the conferences held in the county, in order that he may enter school physically fit to secure the full benefits of his education. On Thursday, a Child Health Conference was held at the home of Mrs. W. W. Batts for the pre-school children in this neighborhood, it is planned to conduct similar ones throughout the county.

Spring Work Gets Its First Setback

Roberts Clothing Company Sale

The second week of the Roberts Clothing Company's sale is now in progress. The special values, throughout the store, are appreciated and the way they are being gobbled up is a caution. This is probably one of the best sales ever conducted at Roberts store, outfitters for men and boys. This sale is fairly at its zenith this week. Suit values up to $35.00 are going at $9.99. Men's Work Shoes—Hamilton Brown, at $1.95. One rack of Men's Slipper and Shoe bargains, regular $3.50, $5.00 and up to $8.00 in black, brown and tan, going at $2.95. Did you ever hear of such prices on good seasonable merchandise?

"Buy your summer suit now and save half the purchase price," is the slogan of the Roberts' Sale. And listen to this—Harvest Hats, 8c. Men's Work Shirts, 79c. But here is a knockout: Men's Shirts, values up to $5.00 in Madras, pure English broadcloth and prints, to close out at 69c. Yes, they have all kinds of boys' wearing apparel, too, at prices unbelievable. Should you fail to attend this sale, you will miss a real bargain feast. So hurry, join the crowds and get in the bargain rush now on at Roberts Clothing Company's store on Main Street, Fulton, Ky.

TURK MURDER CASE ATTRACTS LARGE CROWDS TO CLINTON

A number of Fulton citizens are attending Hickman County Circuit Court at Clinton this week.

The case of the commonwealth of Kentucky against Lucian C. Turk, prominent resident of Bardwell, accused of killing his father-in-law, W. S. McCloy, hardware merchant, on the principal business street of Bardwell last August 23, was called Tuesday morning in Hickman county circuit court at Clinton before Judge Joseph E. Warren of Mayfield. Turk is under indictment on a charge of willful murder. He has been at liberty on $25,000 bond.

The death of McCloy occurred in a pistol duel in which Turk himself was seriously wounded. Mrs. Turk, the daughter of McCloy, who is suing her husband for divorce and $36,000 alimony, was a witness to the shooting. Turk was in a hospital for weeks as a result of pistol wounds.

Turk's trial was continued from February 3 when he was in a hospital at Paducah and unable to appear for trial. Because of prejudicial feeling which his counsel claimed existed against him in Carlisle county, motion for a change of venue was sustained by Judge Warren and the trial ordered to be held in Hickman circuit court.

An array of legal counsel for both prosecution and defense assembled at the bar. Turk was represented by Attorneys Chas. C. Grassham and Miller Hughes of Paducah, Attorney Milton Anderson and Noyal Rogers of Wickliffe. The Commonwealth is represented by Commonwealth Attorney Flavius B. Martin, assisted by Attorneys W. J. Webb, of Mayfield, R. O. Willingham, of Bardwell, and Leslie Hindman of Clinton, who were retained as special counsel by relatives of McCloy.

Turk's brother, Morris Turk, was seated beside him in the court room. On the opposite side of the room were seated Mrs. Turk and her mother, Mrs. McCloy, widow of the slain man. With them were Mrs. I. W. Dobbins of Louisville, and Mrs. Alexander, of Augusta, Ky., sisters of Mrs. McCloy. Her sons, Harry Murphy McCloy and Stewart McCloy of Fulton, and her brothers, Harry and Dunlap Murphy of Fulton, Jack Murphy of Baton Rouge and Nat Murphy of Oxford, Miss., were seated near Mrs. McCloy.

MISS LOTTIE BRITAIN ANSWERS DEATH'S CALL

The death angel visited the Britain home on Fairview Avenue early Sunday morning and carried away the gentle spirit of Miss Lottie Britain, after a long illness. Funeral services were held at the First Baptist church Monday afternoon, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. C. H. Warren, interment followed in Fairview cemetery in charge of the Fulton Undertaking Co.

Miss Lottie had been a faithful member of the Baptist church since childhood and was loved and esteemed by a large circle of friends who sincerely sympathize with the bereaved in her passing.

She is survived by two brothers, Robert Britain, of Fulton, and Carl Britain of Paducah; two sisters, Mrs. J. O. Gadsby, of Memphis, and Mrs. Browning, wife of Dr. Brownning of New York City.

Brieflets

A newly invented rocking chair is said to operate a churn, a fan and a sewing machine. But how many young men around Fulton would want to marry a rocking chair?

Some fellows believe so strongly in "personal liberty" that they try to drink up all the country's Jamaica ginger.

One sure way of cutting down the wheat acreage would be to teach more farmers to play golf.

This is the season when a lot of Fulton boys must make up their minds whether to get married or go on driving with one hand for a while longer.

A man doesn't always reap what he sows. Edison invented the phonograph and now he's deaf.

The old-fashioned mother who used to wonder how the children would turn out now has a daughter who wonders when hers will turn in.

We've noticed that the average Fulton woman stops telling her age when her age starts telling on her.

History says early man had only mud floors in his cave home. Most of it, no doubt, was tracked in during the spring months.

Now there's a plan to provide education by radio. Think of being able to play hockey just by turning a dial.

Life seemed to run along a straight line in Fulton families. The women folks got to see a peanut butter sandwich and a glass of milk constituted a meal.

What has become of the old-fashioned flyers who used to be missing over the Atlantic ocean?

The old-time politician who tried to carry water on both shoulders left a son who tries to carry water on one shoulder and liquor on the other.

We're fast getting to where in the average Fulton home it's easier to find the can opener than it is the Bible.

Thank goodness they didn't have to depend on a postoffice pen to get the declaration of independence signed.

A church seat may not be as soft as a seat in a sedan, but in a church seat you don't have to be ready to dive out the window.

What has become of the old-fashioned cobbler who drove pegs in new shoe soles to keep them from squeaking?

WALKER-KIRBY

Miss Mary B. Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Walker, of Fulton, Ky., was married to Aaron Kirby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kirby of Beclerton, at the home of her parents, Sunday, May 18. The Rev. Joe C. Gardner officiated.

Mrs. Kirby entered Murray State Teachers College at the beginning of the fall semester, 1929. She intends to remain in school until the end of the spring semester.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirby announced that they have made no definite plans as to where they will make their home.

Mrs. Kirby, graduate of Beclerton High school, is a member of the Allenian Society, and the Latin Club of Murray State Teachers College.

JESUS DESCRIBES THE FUTURE OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 24:1-25:13 (Print 23:1-13).
GOLDEN TEXT—Take ye heed, watch and pray; for ye know not when the time is.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being Ready to Help.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Being Ready.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being Ready.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Preparedness.

I. The Prophetic View of the Course of Time from Christ's Crucifixion to His Second Coming. (24:1-51).
The order of events in this time are in general as follows:

1. The moral condition of the world during Christ's absence. (vv. 1-14).
This is the period covered by the parables of chapter 13.

2. The appearance of the Antichrist (vv. 15-26).

3. The great advent (vv. 27-31).

In connection with this advent there will be mighty convulsions of nature, the mourning of the tribes of the earth, and the gathering of the elect.

4. Warnings to God's people in view of the great advent (vv. 32-51).
The time of this advent is unknown and on the part of many unexpected.

5. Instruction to believers in view of the unexpectedness of Christ's coming (25:1-30).

II. Behavior of Believers in View of the Coming of the Lord (25:1-13).

The teaching in the parable of the ten virgins has continuous application in the present time (1 Thess. 5:18; Titus 2:11-13).

1. The equipment of the virgins (vv. 1-5).

(1) The foolish virgins took lamps, but no oil with them (v. 3). Lamps signify Christian profession (Matt. 5:19) and oil the Holy Spirit (Zech. 4).

Having lamps but no oil shows that they were professors of religion, without possessing its reality. The Christian life is sustained by the Holy Spirit. As soon as a man is regenerated, the Holy Spirit takes up His abode with him. The Spirit's indwelling therefore, is an advance work upon regeneration. The proof that one is a child of God is that he has the Holy Spirit dwelling within him. (Rom. 8:9). The foolish virgins were professors, but not possessors.

(2) The wise virgins possessed lamps and oil (v. 4). They backed their profession with a real life of righteousness. Both the wise and the foolish virgins slumbered and slept. This shows that as the present age lengthens, the real and the professing church will cease looking for the coming of the Lord. It is unspeakably sad that so many, even of God's chosen—the wise virgins—should give up the expectancy of the return of the Lord.

2. The coming of the bridegroom (vv. 6-12).

(1) The midnight cry (v. 6). In the midst of the night when all the virgins were asleep the cry was heard, "Behold the bridegroom cometh." Who knows but that the time of this cry is now close upon us? (2) Activity of the virgins (v. 7). They all arose and trimmed their lamps. There will be great activity when the Lord comes on the part of both believers and those who only make a profession. It will be a day when the reality of one's faith will be tested. (3) The foolish virgins' request of the wise to share their oil (vv. 8, 9). The revelation of Christ will make manifest the genuineness of our faith and expose the folly of mere profession. When the Lord comes, it will be too late to mend one's ways. (4) The wise enter to the marriage (v. 10). While the foolish were seeking to amend their ways—trying to buy oil—the bridegroom came, and those who were ready were admitted to the marriage.

(5) The pitiful petition of the foolish virgins (v. 11). They begged the Lord to open the door. (6) The awful judgment (v. 12). The Lord declared, "I know you not."

3. The solemn obligation (v. 13).
"Watch, for ye know not the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh." Two solemn facts should engage the attention of every one.

(1) Entering with Christ to the marriage depends upon faithfulness to the end. If all and light be wanting when Christ comes, no admittance will be granted to the heavenly banquet. (2) Borrowed religion will not avail at that day. Beside the name of Godly companions and associates, they can render no service in the day of Jesus Christ. Personal contact with the Lord Jesus through faith in His blood is the absolute essential.

Those Who Do Not Sleep

While many are sleeping and taking it easy, we, as overseers, are struggling under the burden resting upon us, weeping and warning and begging for help to battle against the forces of evil around us.—Jonas Mininger.

Hear That Voice

How hard it is to get down to that point where we hear the voice which the sheep always know! Be not content until you have heard that voice! —John R. Mott.

OUR MESSAGE OF SERVICE

There is going to be a lot of activity in the building line this year. Architects and contractors, carpenters and masons all, are busily sharpening up their pencils and their tools, and getting set for business. It is not the young married folks alone who are going to build homes—who dream dreams of happiness in homes of their own—but many others who have long, too long, been renting the roofs over their heads are going to try this year to realize their desire to have a home of their own.

Whatever you plan to do by way of

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

One of the best poultry houses I have ever had the fortune to inspect is the one being built by Ray Graham on his place in Tighland Heights. This house is built of hollow tile, and is forty feet long and twenty feet wide. It is divided into four compartments each ten feet wide and each room can easily take care of fifty hens. There is only one objection that I can find and it is that Ray has an idea he wants to put celloglass in the front of the house, while I wouldn't have it under any circumstances, I would put a muslin curtain across the front. I hope he adopts my plan for I want to see him succeed.

While I am writing about Ray, I must tell you a good joke on him. He had quite a nice bunch of broilers just about ready for the frying pan, when he decided he had rather have them roasted. So he proceeded to let his brooder stove get away from him, and he burned up the whole caboodle, chicks, brooder and all. But I will say this for Ray, "He ain't no quitter," but he has started in to replenish his stock and by next year he will have one of the best poultry ranches in Fulton county. Wish there were more like him.

Talk about having your hands full. If you will come out to the White Feather Farm we will show you something that in my mind is a hand full. We ordered 225 baby chicks from the Metropolis hatchery, intending to place them with six broody hens, but like all the female sex, three of the hens were very contrary and would not mother the babies, so we had to give them to three hens, each one having 75, and when they try to hover their brood, believe me they have to do some stretching.

While you are reading this column, I will be trying my best to put over the organization of the Southern Combine of Rabbit Breeders Associations. That is some long title, but it means just what it says. Friday, we will meet in Atlanta, Ga., with representatives from all the southeastern states and try to make this dream a realization. It will advance the rabbit industry farther than any other move that has been accomplished. One of the rules I am going to have incorporated in the by-laws is that to become a member the association must first have a charter from the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders Association.

Speaking of rabbits, there is a movement on foot to have a rabbit show here during the fair, and I think it is a good move. There are about a half dozen breeders here who want to show their stuff, so probably we will have a rabbit show in connection with the poultry show.

Well, if you haven't joined the poultry association, why put it off any longer? Show your colors. If you are with us, join up. Boost the poultry game. One dollar pays your dues for the year 1930 and the association can use that dollar to good advantage. We want at least 100 members in the association this year, and if you raise chickens you should be one of them.

Bob deserves all the praise

When Bob and I were first married we simply had to keep our expenses as low as possible. Bob's income was small and there were so many things that we had to have. So I suggested that we do without a telephone. I told Bob that I could get along all right because mother's house wasn't far away and there was a public telephone in the store around the corner.

But Bob wouldn't hear to it. Good old Bob—he knew I'd be by myself a lot and that a telephone would help to keep me from being lonely. And if anything should happen, you know, the telephone is certainly the quickest way to get help.

I was pleasantly surprised when I learned how inexpensive a telephone really is. Why, my dear, when you consider how much it means to you the cost is next to nothing.

You can enjoy all the conveniences of a telephone for a very few cents a day, and ordering one is a simple matter. Call the business office or, if you prefer, see any telephone employee.

MEMORIAL DAY

We are not a warlike people. But when it comes to cherishing and honoring the dead and to pay a tribute to those who rallied to the call to arms in defense of the nation, we do not believe any land on earth boasts a more patriotic people.

Memorial Day, which Fulton will join with the rest of the nation in celebrating, is our opportunity to pay a tribute to those who served in the one and only misunderstanding we have ever had among ourselves — or will ever have. They fought in a war that ended war so far as fighting among ourselves is concerned. And we thank a kind Providence that their fight was not in vain, that their sons and daughters, who now bow in tribute to them, regardless of on which "side" they fought, are united as a result of their sacrifices. It brought a deeper understanding of our greatness as a united people; it tied us into a union of states that cannot be severed and that grows greater and stronger as the years roll on.

To those who rallied to the bugle's call back in the darkest days the nation has ever known — whether living or dead — we join in a prayer of thankfulness. Their sacrifice wiped out all sectionalism, and made us one. Even in defeat those who struggled for the "lost cause" did so no less gloriously and none the less loved by the entire nation. There was but one victory — a unified nation in which one section now shines as brilliantly as another; one people with but one flag and one God. Let us honor them by renewing, each man in his own heart, our pledge to the flag that waves above us.

OUR PRESENT NEED

According to the president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, taxes have become so high in many sections of the state that they eat up the entire valuation of the property. It is getting harder and harder for a county to get anyone to buy property at tax sales because the taxes they will have to pay on it afterward will amount to more than they can get in returns from it.

We firmly believe that what is true in Illinois is true in every state in the union. There was a time, and most of us around Fulton can remember it, when property taxes were equitable, when land was owned by those who operated it and nearly everybody owned their homes. Today government figures show that less than 45 per cent of the farm acreage of this country is operated by its owners, and less than 37 per cent of those who live in our cities own their own homes.

It seems that what this country needs more than anything else at this time is a system of taxation which will, as it did in the old days, encourage the natural ambition of every man to own his home, his bit of land. Here, and here alone, rests the true foundation of this government and on it the future happiness and prosperity of the people as a whole depends. There seems to be no good reason for spending millions of dollars a year to protect our property from outside invasion if taxes are going to be so high that our people cannot afford to own the property they are called upon to protect.

HOW ABOUT FRUIT?

Just now there is one thing worrying the housewives of the country far more than disarmament or wet-and-dry straw votes, and that's the actual outcome of this season's fruit crops. There are so many conflicting reports it is impossible to determine just how widespread has been the damage caused by frosts near the close of April. We have kept an eye on papers reaching Fulton from various parts of the country in the hope of getting a line on the probable damage. While it appears that some sections have not suffered at all, in other communities great destruction is reported. The Ohio and Mississippi Valleys seem to have been unusually hard hit, though reports now indicate that the damage will not be as great as at first feared. But the thrifty housewife, who still prefers to do her own canning and preserving, cannot help feeling anxious. If you knew just how important a good fruit year is in the homes of America you would probably be joining with her in her worry.

THAT DIETING FAD

For the first time in eight years the housewife is now able to buy a pound of coffee, a pound of sugar, a pound of butter, a dozen eggs and a loaf of bread for a dollar. But if she doesn't give up this nonsensical fad of dieting to attain a slim figure she is going to make it a lot harder for her husband to get the dollar to buy those things with. The consumption of bread fell off 20 per cent last year, and they say the dieting fad is responsible. So the wheat grower and the miller and the baker are hit. Potato growers also found it harder to market their 1929 crop, for potatoes are held to be fattening. These are but two of scores of food affected by the fad, and if it keeps up, others will be added to the list. Today the blacksmith of other days has gone into the garage business and the wagon factories of old are now turning out automobiles. If the dieting fad keeps up we suppose farmers will have to resort to the same tactics and take to raising nothing but lettuce and spinach.

Electric Service On the Farm

Electricity—The Time Saver

In the days before electricity on the farm, breakfast meant continual trips to and from the kitchen range. Now, with home electric aids, anything from coffee to ham and eggs can be prepared right at the table.

The time saved with these and other electric appliances, such as vacuum cleaners, washing and ironing machines, refrigerators, fans and water heaters, is worth many times the trifling cost of the electricity consumed.

And around the farm, electric motors driving pumps, milking machines, feed grinders, and other farm equipment, do their work swiftly, tirelessly, and at a fraction of the time and cost of hand labor.

If you are located on or near any of our electric power lines, ask our local manager for complete information concerning the possible uses of electricity on your farm.

J. T. Milner Passes Away

John Thomas Milner passed away at 9:15 Saturday evening, May 17, 1930, at his home on West street after a lingering illness. He was born Nov. 6, 1856 the son of John Merritt and Mary Eliza Milner. He was married October 12, 1897, to Miss Martha Ann Lutten, who survives him. To this union five children were born, three of whom preceded him to the grave. Those surviving are Miss Mary Milner and Miss Ruth Milner.

He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South at Pleasant Hill in July of 1899, where he served continuously as steward until moving to Fulton where he placed his church membership. He was deprived of attending church services regularly on account of ill health but it was always a great pleasure to him to contribute to the support of his church.

In the passing of Mr. Milner Fulton loses a greatly respected honorable citizen. He was a member of one of the pioneer families of this section and lived 73 well spent years in the beauty of quite dignity. He was an unobtrusive and likeable man, worked long and diligently and at the time of his death God had blessed his efforts with much success.

Mr. Milner will be greatly missed, not only by his family, but by the entire town as well. The sadness caused by his death will be lightened, however, by the knowledge that he was ready and prepared to answer the call of the Father when it came. Following the funeral services which were held Sunday afternoon from the First Methodist church, he was laid to rest in Fairview.

"There is no death! The stars go down

To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown,

They shine forevermore.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread
For all the boundless universe
Is life—there is no death!"

Ladies Are Entertained

Thursday evening, May 15, the First Methodist church was the scene of a very delightful entertainment given by the men in honor of the Mothers and Daughters.

A bountiful banquet was served with much "grace and style" by the men, interspersed with a musical program, after which several very interesting games and contests were enjoyed.

The men proved to be excellent hosts and revealed themselves to be handy in the kitchen and dining room, as all of the food was prepared and served by the men.

Messrs. D. C. Ligon and Paul Pickering were the reception committee; C. B. Cloyd, Smoot Morris and B. F. Binford were in the kitchen. N. G. Cook, Boyd Alexander and Roy Pickering were the Dining Room Committee and N. G. proved to be as graceful with tableware as he is in handling money at the bank. R. G. Pickering, Frank Beades, Robert Witty, Harry Reaves, Gene Dunn, and LeRoy Buckingham acted as "waitresses."

At the conclusion of the social hour, the pastor Mr. Cloyd, read a very beautiful poem, an attribute to Mother.

The entertainment was considered one of the best in several respects, ever held in the church and was thoroughly enjoyed by all the ladies present.

'FREAK LETTERS' STOPPED

The postal department works wonders when it comes to being able to deliver letters that are defectively addressed. In recent years it has even gone to the trouble to puzzle out freak addresses, or addresses placed on envelopes just to see if they would reach their destination. Now this is to stop. An order has just gone out, and Fulton letter writers will do well to keep it in mind, that no letters will be handled unless they are plainly legible to the ordinary postmaster and mail clerk. Any address put on a letter as a test will be sent direct to the dead letter office. Uncle Sam always has time to be painstaking and his postal employees pride themselves on their ability to decipher some pretty tough specimens of handwriting. But they're too busy to devote time to jokers. So from now on letters bearing "freak addresses" will reach but one destination—the dead letter office at Washington City.

ENTER FARM CONTEST

County Agent H. C. Brown and Mr. Kilpatrick of the State College of Agriculture of Lexington have announced that Fulton County will enter eight candidates in the master farmer contest for the current year.

Each community will be asked to select a candidate and all names must be submitted on Thursday, May 29. The following committee will be in charge: Enoch Browder, chairman; Joe Davis and Ed Williamson, for the east end of the county; Joe Wall, Judge McMurry and A. Robbin, for the western end of Fulton County. The winner will receive a trip to Lexington.

DAIRY

DAIRY COWS NEED SUCCULENT FEED

Silo Is Best Supplement for Dried-Up Pastures.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) During the late summer pastures in most sections are short because of dry weather and because they are grazed too closely. If there is any grass, it is not succulent and is unpalatable. Consequently, cows will not consume enough for high milk production.

Experienced dairymen know that if the production of their cows has decreased during the hot, dry weather because of insufficient feed, it is difficult and practically impossible to bring the production back to normal during that milking period.

The summer silo, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, is probably the best means of supplementing short, dried-up pastures. For a herd of 12 to 20 cows, a silo from 10 to 12 feet in diameter is best suited for this purpose because the silage can then be fed out fast enough to prevent spoiling. It is, however, all the silage is not fed during the summer it can be fed the following winter or the next summer. Silage will keep for several years. Dairymen frequently fill two silos, one for winter feeding and one for summer use.

Where it is not feasible to erect a silo for summer feed the short pasture may be supplemented by certain pasture crops instead of summer silage. In many sections sweet clover has proved very satisfactory for this purpose. It does well at this season and has the advantage of being a legume and consequently contains a large amount of protein. Alfalfa can also be pastured at this time and will assist materially in preventing the mid-summer drop in milk flow.

Many combinations of legumes, such as peas, vetches, and soy beans, with grains, such as corn, wheat, oats, barley and rye, can be grown and fed green. Successive plantings of these crops will often provide succulent feeds over an extended period. Sudan grass is also well suited for grazing purposes throughout the Central West.

In addition to good pasture high producing cows need to be fed grain to supply the required nutrients. Cows producing more than 20 pounds of milk daily should be given one pound of grain to each four to six pounds of milk produced. The grain feed may be a mixture of corn, oats, wheat bran, or barley, and should always be ground. For cows producing more than 35 pounds of milk daily the grain mixture should contain one high-protein concentrate, such as the oil meals.

Keep Cream Cool During Hot Months of Summer

To receive the highest price for cream during the hot months, dairymen must exercise extra precautions. The following facts are worthy of consideration:

Water cools 20 times more quickly than air.

A simple cooling system may be made by piping water from the windmill into a hardwood barrel and from there to the stock tank. The cream can be placed in the barrel through which the fresh, cool water flows.

Cream cooled to the proper temperature keeps sweet the longest possible time.

Never mix warm cream with cool cream.

Cream should be stirred frequently.

Cleanliness, cooling, stirring and frequent deliveries of cream are important.

Distasteful Flavors in Cream Caused by Weeds

Off flavors in cream may be caused by feeds and weeds, such as wild onion, garlic, leek and ragweed. Flavors may be absorbed from the surroundings. For example, oil, gasoline, and vegetable flavors may cause trouble. Another class of flavors resulting from bacterial contamination are called stale, cheesy, yeasty, bitter, or acid. All of these off flavors result in poor quality of cream and cause a financial loss to the dairy farmer. They may be eliminated by keeping cows out of pastures which contain undesirable weeds, handling and storing cream in sanitary surroundings, and by careful methods in production and handling.

Cooling of cream to 50 degrees Fahrenheit immediately after separation and frequent deliveries will help win the battle against poor cream.

Save Soil Fertility

One of the most difficult problems confronting our farmers who grow cash crops is the conservation of the soil's fertility. There is some difference of opinion as to the best method of accomplishing this, but judging the future by the past, we can safely say that there is no way more certain of results than the keeping of livestock. The farmer who keeps cows, being a consumer rather than a seller of feeds, will constantly increase the fertility of his soil.

POULTRY FACTS

EGG PRODUCTION DURING SUMMER

Poultry Men Agree That It Depends on Best Care.

Facing poultry men during the summer is the problem of preventing a rapid drop in egg production with the coming of warm weather, when eggs bring good prices. Standard egg production in New Jersey for June is 18 eggs per bird, for July it is 16 eggs, and for August, 13 eggs. Whether or not a flock makes standard production during these three months depends entirely on the care it is given by the poultry man, announces the poultry department of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station.

According to the station, successful poultry men agree that good summer egg production depends on attention to little details of management and not on one outstanding factor. Culling the flock, for example, is not the most important factor in obtaining standard production, but just one of the many factors. In fact, culling should be last in the effort to hold production.

The laying house should receive attention first, as a means of holding egg production. All windows should be opened to provide good ventilation and to keep the house cool.

Lice and mites are often the cause of the flock falling off in production. Careful inspection of the birds and coop should be made once a month for these parasites. It is considered a good practice to treat the flock for body lice by using sodium fluoride or any lice powder. Generally, one treatment is sufficient for the entire summer. The roost, drop-boards, and nests should be painted with any coal tar product as a means of controlling the mites. When such cannot be obtained, a mixture of kerosene oil and old crank case oil from the tractor or automobile can be used to advantage.

Heavy consumption of mash, so important to heavy production, is obtained in the summer by feeding only 8 or 10 pounds of grain to each 100 birds; keeping mash always before the birds; and keeping the layers confined to the house where they will always be near the mash hoppers.

Other factors found to be important in feeding are: a daily supply of fresh green feed such as dandelions, lawn clippings, and weeds from the garden; and a constant supply of fresh, clean, cool water.

When production falls below 50 per cent, it is time to start culling, if the foregoing factors mentioned have been carefully followed.

Provide Natural Shade for All Young Poultry

An ideal range will provide natural shade where the young birds may find protection from the hot summer sun. Many poultry flocks do not have this natural protection, say poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State college, so some means of protection must be provided. Moving the colony houses near a cornfield makes ideal range conditions. Sunflowers planted around the colony house also will provide satisfactory shade. If the colony houses cannot be moved near a cornfield and sunflowers are not used, some form of artificial shade should be provided. Old feed bags placed on a frame about two or three feet above the ground will give the needed protection.

Always Make Fowls as Profitable as Possible

There is a great temptation for the poultryman who is ambitious to equal the records made by others. Naturally any one wants to make his hens as profitable as possible, and as the rule generally applied is to keep a hen only to the end of her first laying year and then replace her with pullets, the effect of high egg production on the laying hens apparently is negligible as she is sent to pot before any evil effects of force feeding can interfere with her laying.

Mistake With Geese

A common mistake made in raising geese is to try to feed them upon grains without sufficient grading. If the geese have good green feed they will need but little additional. Grift and oyster shell should always be accessible. During the summer a satisfactory method consists in providing one feed a day of equal parts of corn meal, bran and ground oats. During the winter the same grains are satisfactory, but steamed clover or alfalfa hay should be added.

Grain for Geese

Geese should not be fed hard grains, but ground feeds mixed in what are known as mashes and fed in a moist state. A good ration for geese would be three parts of yellow corn meal, four parts of wheat bran, one part of red dog flour or flour middlings. To this add 5 per cent of meat scraps and during the mowing or breeding season 15 per cent. At all times 1 per cent of fine sifted sand and one-half per cent of fine table salt. Any kind of

FOR AN EASY SUMMER

THESE are the days when you are not only busy planning spring menus, but in the back of your mind also laras the problem of stocking that summer luncheon up in the mountains or providing proper provender for your family at that shack down by the shore. Wherever you are going, if you're going to keep house, the food supply is subconsciously on your mind, and a few good new recipes will not come amiss.

We're not going to suggest to you what to take along, or have sent, because you probably have a pretty good idea of that already. It's a useful hint, however, to remember to leave your correct address with your grocer so that you can be sure of a dependable supply of canned and dried foods if the local dealers don't happen to carry your brands. For, if there are certain brands of foods which you have tested, tried and found true, it's a mighty good thing to stick to them. Not all hands are alike, and the aphorism "old friends, old wines, old books are best" applies equally well to processed foods which have proved themselves. As canned foods are hermetically sealed, they are as good the day they come out of the can as they were the day they were sealed in.

Simple Summer Beverages

Summer is the great season for refreshing drinks, and new suggestions as to these are always welcome. Here are two, which are simple to make, and good for both grown-ups and children.

Tomato and Cucumber Cordial: Slice one medium cucumber thin with the peeling left on. Strainer together for thirty minutes three cups strained tomato juice, two cups water, one clove, garlic, the cucumber, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and a few grains pepper. Strain, and cool the juice. Serve ice cold in glass cocktail cups. Serves eight.

Prawns: Boil one-third cup sugar and two cups water together five minutes. Cool. Add the juice of eight lemons, one cup pineapple syrup, one cup prune juice and three cups cold water. Serve very cold in punch glasses. This will make 12 to 15 glasses.

Chicken, Cold or Hot

Your family should not eat much heavy meat in summer, so chicken is a good dish to serve. Here are a couple of chicken dishes with all the fuss and feathers of fussing with the feathers left out.

Jellied Chicken: Dissolve one package of lemon jello in two cups boiling water, and set aside to cool. Drain a can of asparagus tips and arrange several in each of six individual molds, with the tips down, forming a lining. On the bottom of the mold and between the tips of asparagus place sliced stuffed oives as artistically as possible. Four about a tablespoon of the jello mixture in each mold, and let harden to hold the asparagus and olives in place. Then fill the centers of the molds with the cut up contents of one 6-ounce can of chicken and one-half cup diced cucumbers. Four over the rest of the jello, filling the molds completely. Set in ice box to chill and harden. Unmold and serve with a lettuce and mayonnaise garnish. This dish may also be made in one large fancy mold. It serves six.

Southwestern Creamed Chicken and Corn: Slice the mushrooms from a 6-ounce can, and cook them and one-half cup chopped, blanched almonds in three tablespoons butter for five minutes, being careful not to brown. Add three tablespoons flour and stir smooth. Add the liquor from the can of mushrooms and two cups milk, stirring constantly until smooth and creamy. Add one chicken bouillon cube, salt and paprika to taste, one cup canned corn, the cut-up contents of a 6-ounce can chicken and the slightly beaten egg yolk, and serve this mixture very hot. Serves eight.

Fresh and Canned

A good way to vary your salads of fresh fruits and vegetables and also to make them go further is to combine them with canned foods. Here's a salad, for instance, of ripe tomatoes and canned pears which will serve eight people.

Pear and Tomato Salad: Slice chilled ripe tomatoes, and lay one slice in each of eight individual nests of lettuce. Place half a pear from a No. 2 can on top of each, cut side up. Mix one cream cheese with three tablespoons chili sauce, and pile in the pear cavities. Garnish with strips of canned pimentos, and serve with either mayonnaise or French dressing.*

National Movement for Beautifying of Homes

Kansas City has had a worthy reminder of the better-homes movement in the exposition that was conducted at Convention hall. This type of local activity is being supplemented increasingly each year by national observance of a better-homes week.

The purpose is to carry into every community of the United States, if possible, the gospel of attractiveness, comfort, convenience and good order in home life. This is effected through co-operation with the schools, civic and other organization leaders. In Missouri, it is reported from Jefferson City, more than 150 communities already have enlisted in the enterprise for this year. That is a much larger number than had become interested at this time last year, which points to a growth of the movement. Farm communities, small towns, cities and counties are being organized.

Beautification and other improvement of homes, inside and out, the planting of flowers and shrubs, clearing off vacant lots and removing unsightliness of other kinds all are included in this educational plan. It seems to be the kind of endeavor in which every community of the country could profitably engage. It suggests that the day may come when any city, town or other area that ignores such enterprise will become notorious for its backwardness and indifference. —Kansas City Star.

Money Well Spent in Remodeling Old House

The cost of modernizing a residence is low. Only a few hundred dollars may be needed to make a home strictly up to date.

An investigation recently made reveals that the average cost of remodeling a house is about $2,000. This sum covers everything—exterior and interior.

The financing of the remodeled house is taken care of by banks and building and loan associations who are willing to put their money into such projects for their experience shows them that $2,000 invested in a $5,000 house increases its value more than the addition of the expenditure.

The house becomes worth $5,000 or $9,000 after remodeling—a wise investment, as every one will admit. —Exchange.

Built-In Garage

In addition to the considerable saving given the home builder by the built-in rather than the detached garage, the esthetic sense is satisfied by the elimination of that sometimes objectionable little building at the rear of the yard. From the utilitarian standpoint as well as the artistic, the most complete house is the one which holds within its walls all the features required for modern living; and with the automobile occupying so important a part in our lives, shelter for it should also be provided.

Gardens, too, occupy an important place in the true home, and the small suburban lot can sometimes ill afford the square feet of ground occupied by the detached garage. The built-in garage is apt to be popular with the garden lover.

City Planning Increasing

A total of nearly 700 centers of varying sizes now have adopted the city-planning idea. Only about 200 of these have a population of 25,000 or more. Population of the others ranges down to 1,000 or even less. Communities near the large centers have been especially active in this undertaking; but it is not confined to such areas. In view of such expansion, it seems reasonable to expect that within another decade the village, town or city that has taken no steps to regulate its growth in the interest of attractiveness and general welfare will be about as backward as the most remote rural communities.

Daily Fire Toll

A small city burned today—831 homes, five schools, five churches, fifteen hotel buildings, one hospital, four warehouses, six department stores, two theaters, eight public garages, three printing plants, three dry goods stores and ninety-six farm buildings. That is the average daily toll taken by fire in the United States.

This same destroyer day after day snuffs out twenty-seven lives, nine being children under ten years of age. It is a horrible thing, fire, but its ravages can be controlled. —Washington Star.

Shade Trees Important

Few features add more to the yard than well-placed shade trees. It is not necessary to plant so many trees that a crowded appearance results but a few in proper locations add accent to the landscape and an atmosphere of security to the home. Trees may be considered for shade as well as ornament and in making up planting lists, at least one or two should be included.

Prosperity's Foundation

It is seldom that the home owner has room to regret his ownership. Once he reaches this state he may then seek other fields of investment to his advantage.

Huge Shear Cuts Salvaged Steel

This huge shear, the largest of its kind in the world, is shown in operation in the talking moving picture of a tour through the Ford plant exhibited in the Ford show.

The shear, which has a pressure of 1,000 tons, is used to cut steel in the open hearth building of the Ford Motor Company. Materials are brought to the knife by a conveyor and are carried away by another conveyor.

The machine was devised for cutting steel salvaged from the Shipping Board vessels purchased by the Ford Motor Company several years ago.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR ROY SPRINGER

Slayer of F. M. Barrett, Fulton Merchant; Cut and Shot Police Chief Huddleston

Roy Springer, who killed Frank Barrett, local merchant, and cut and shot Chief of Police Bailey Huddleston in Fulton, on February 4, was found guilty of murder by a circuit court jury here last week and sentenced to life imprisonment in the Eddyville prison.

Following the trial on the first charge, he was at once tried on the charge of shooting and cutting with intent to kill Bailey Huddleston. On this charge he pleaded guilty and the jury returned a verdict of five years in the Eddyville prison, this latter term theoretically to begin at the expiration of the first sentence.

Springer was taken from the prison at Eddyville where he had been held for safe keeping, and brought to Fulton in a chartered bus with a detachment of 24 Kentucky state guardsmen of Company L, of Mayfield, under command of Major Oren Coen of Livermore, Ky., Captains Johnson and Leech and Lieut. Glenn Redden.

Following their arrival, the soldiers formed a double line through which the prisoner was taken into the circuit court room.

The trial got under way before Judge Joe E. Warren, who appointed H. T. Smith and Steve Wiley as attorneys for Springer.

The regular jury consisting of Sid Smith, R. C. Payne, H. R. Sublett, Jim Phipps, R. B. McKimmons, Henry McMullen, E. S. McClellan, J. P. Thomas, W. T. Self, George Sanger, H. H. Mangold and Ben Williams, were accepted by the defense and prosecution.

Chief Huddleston was the first witness called, being able to testify in the court room from an invalid's chair, and told in detail of the fatal trip that he started with Springer, and Mr. Barrett following the arrest.

The second witness to take the stand was Mrs. Frank Barrett, widow of Frank Barrett. Then the case of the state closed with testimony by Dr. C. A. Wright. The defense attorneys placed Springer on the stand in order that the jury and the audience could see the kind of man with which they were dealing. His words could not be understood. He gave his age as 25 years when in reality he appears to be more than 45, and told of having spent many years in an asylum in Mississippi.

After being brought before the bar to receive sentence, Springer was taken in charge by Sheriff Johnson and started immediately the return to Eddyville State Penitentiary.

The state guardsmen patrolled the street about the courthouse and some remained inside the court room during the trial, but there was no demonstration.

SENIOR CLASS PROGRAM IS BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Wednesday afternoon, the Senior Class of Fulton High had its class day exercises. The program was given at Science Hall and said to be one of the most enjoyable events of commencement week. The salutatory and valedictory addresses were given by Anna Laura McWhorter and Lucile Green respectively. Augusta Williams gave the class history, and Julia Frances Beadles the prophecy. R. V. Putnam read the class will, and Charles Kramer performed the grumbler. Louise Huddleston was historian and Rachele Ellege furnished Piano music.

Class officers: President, Daron Grissom; Vice president, Lucile Green; Secretary-treasurer, Hazel Powitt.

The program was greatly enjoyed by all in attendance.

SPEND $750,000 A DAY TO MILK COWS

Machinery Helping the Dairyman Fight Drudgery on the Farm.

Three quarters of a million dollars in cash or time are spent by American farmers every day in milking the nation's cows.

To milk America's 25,000,000 cows by hand requires the time of 2,500,000 people two hours a day, or 5,000,000 hours of human labor each day.

These figures are from computations by experts of the De Laval Bureau of Dairying.

The production of milk and butter fat on the nation's farms constitutes, in the value of its products, America's largest industry. Dairying has often been called the most profitable branch of agriculture. But dairying could be an even larger and more profitable industry, says the bureau, if every one engaged in it were to take advantage of mechanical means now available for combating drudgery in dairy farming.

Better Than Hand Milking.

No farmer nowadays would think of harvesting the wheat crop by the sickle method used in Biblical times, yet dairy farmers today spend or pay for 5,000,000 hours of labor daily in milking cows the same laborious way carried on centuries ago. Before the advent of the mechanical milker, there was great doubt that some simple dependable mechanical device would ever be invented that would milk cows better than they could be milked by hand, but after this was perfected a new group of "doubting Thomases" arose with the charge that the savings believed by mechanical milking was more than offset by the extra labor involved in washing the utensils.

Light on this problem as well as answers to a number of other questions in the minds of many dairy farmers are to be found in a survey made among 1,814 users of mechanical milkers throughout the United States and Canada, according to the De Laval Bureau. Slightly more than 85 per cent of the users said that the milker reduced by half the time required to milk by hand. Exactly 76.4 per cent reported that they got as much or more milk with the milker as by hand milking. 91 per cent found their machines were easily kept clean, and 99 per cent considered their milking machine investment profitable made.

Takes Drudgery Out of Milking.

Other facts showed that the milker took much of the drudgery out of dairy farming, in addition to a saving in the cost of labor more than enough to offset the cost of the milker.

This investigation over such a wide territory and covering a variety of farm conditions holds much encouragement for the hundreds of thousands of hard-working farm people now compelled to strain and milk stools twice a day every day in the year.
