ROBERT LOVE IS DEATH VICTIM

Well-Known Man Dies Suddenly in Crutchfield.

Robert Love, well-known citizen of Crutchfield, died suddenly at his home there Sunday, at the age of 79. The funeral service was held Monday morning at 11 o'clock from the home in Crutchfield, and was in charge of Rev. R. A. Wood of this city. Burial followed in Chapel Hill cemetery, in charge of the Fulton Undertaking Company.

Mr. Love was born January 5th, 1853, and was married to Miss Nannie Turner, daughter of Dr. Steve Turner. Four children were born to them, two of whom died in infancy. Those surviving are E. H. Love of Freeport, Ill., and L. B. Love of Princeton, Ky. Three grandchildren, four sisters and the widow also survive. Mr. Love was a son of Solomon and Nancy Paschall Love, one of the oldest pioneer families of Obion county.

Mr. Love was a good husband and father, a faithful friend and neighbor, and his passing brings sadness to a host of friends.

Mrs. J. L. Crockett of this city is a niece of the deceased, and many friends will sympathize with her.

A RAILROAD HAS MANY OWNERS

Title to the Illinois Central System is divided among approximately 20,000 stockholders, President L. A. Downs points out to illustrate the diversity of railway ownership. Of these, five out of every six own fewer than 100 shares, two out of every five reside in states in which the Illinois Central System operates, and one out of every twenty is an employe of the railroad.

Railway plants don't just grow, Mr. Downs explains; they are built up painstakingly out of the savings of thousands of industrious citizens, to whom interest and dividends often mean their own and their dependants' subsequent support.

Indirectly dependent upon railway earnings are also thousands of patrons of insurance companies, savings banks and endowed institutions of learning, according to Mr. Downs. This is true because such concerns are large holders of railway bonds, which constitute more than half the railway investment.

J. C. LAWSON PASSED AWAY

John C. Lawson passed away Sunday at 11:45 at his home near Cayce, aged 61 years. The funeral services were held Tuesday at 11 a. m., at Union church, conducted by Rev. D. W. Folks, of Paducah, Rev. L. E. McCoy of Fulton, and Miss Leta Clements of near Fulton, and burial followed in the church cemetery, in charge of the Fulton Undertaking Company.

Mr. Lawson is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters, besides many other relatives and a host of friends. He was a faithful member of Union church and his place will be hard to fill. He will be missed in the church, in the home and in the community.

RED MITES

By Prof H. D. Munroe

Many times during the summer we have poultry troubles that seem to be unanswerable, no worms, no coccidiosis—the birds just don't do well. The hen flock is not laying well; the pullets don't eat well. We think of all the mysterious diseases we ever heard about and start treating the birds for everything. Many times it is not the birds we should work on. A flock of poultry, living in a hen house infested with mites, will not do well. The poultry mite is a blood sucker. They work at night when the birds are on the roost. They are the bed bug of the chicken. Fight them continually all summer.

Painting the roost every two weeks with used crank-caso oil will eliminate this source of trouble. Don't dilute this oil with kerosene. Put it on thick. There are many commercial preparations on the market that will do a good job and will not have to be used as often.

Punctual

Brieflets

Maybe the reason so few Fulton women play solitaire is because they can't kick themselves on the shin.

Possibly the reason you never see a picture of an angel with whiskers is because men have such a close shave getting to heaven.

Most fellows who brag that they do just as they please usually wind up by taking orders from a warden.

Any Fulton citizen who is left to hold the bag should not despair. Go out and see if you can't sell a bag.

A rich man is one who isn't ashamed to ask the clerk to show him something cheaper.

Even though it's not possible to fool all the people all the time, a lot of fellows keep right on trying to do it.

If dealers would give a year's moratorium on all installments owing on autos around Fulton, it wouldn't be long before all hard-times talk would be forgotten.

A big city is a place where a widow has to depend on bond salesmen and brokers for advice about investing her insurance money.

A college freshman is a young fellow who walks right through a door marked "No Admission."

Most any Fulton married man can put his foot down at home—as long as there's no mud on it.

A lot of married men could manage the work at the door better if the stork didn't keep hovering around.

A lot of people are now sighing for the good old days when all this country had to fear was an attack from the Indians.

The most important time in life of a Fulton boy is the moment he learns that he doesn't know as much as he thought he did.

There's not much to say in favor of the southern pastor who delivered a 60-hour sermon. Our sympathies go to the poor fellows who had to sit through it.

Fulton people may not have traveled as fast in the days of the horse as they do now, but they at least didn't have to drive the horse around to a repair man to have the dents hammered out of him.

CAR OVERTURNS NEAR PIERCE

A car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lowe, their sons, Ernest and Jack, and D. W. Matthews, all of Pierce, was turned over Tuesday morning near Pierce, and all the occupants suffered minor cuts and bruises. The Lowe car was passing another car, said to have been driven by Oscar Fortner of this city, and turned too far out and went into the ditch. The Fortner car was not damaged.

Mr. Matthews suffered the most painful injuries and was brought here and given treatment by Dr. A. C. Wright. He was able to return home, however, after being treated.

SUCCESSFUL MEETINGS

Rev. John J. Owen has just returned home, after a glorious and successful series of revival meetings, one of which was held on old road between Wingo and Water Valley, resulting in twenty-three converts. Next meeting at Paris, Tenn., Jackson district, with seven converts. Last meeting on the Dyersburg Circuit, down on the Old Mississippi river at Chic, Tenn., where between sixty and seventy souls were gloriously saved. Thirty-three baptised into the church. Baptising was in and on bank of river. He says it was the most beautiful sight he ever saw. As an evangelist, the Rev. Owen is having wonderful success. His heart is in the work and the Lord is blessing his efforts.

FINE PEACHES

Mr. O. Piper, proprietor of Clinton Nursery, was in Fulton Tuesday and presented the editor and wife two large baskets of peaches, samples from his 31½ acre orchard. One basket was Alton freestone and the other basket Othello cling, named for Mr. Piper's charming daughter. It is the finest lot of peaches brought to the city of this year's crop, and the flavor most delicious. They measured 9 to 10 inches in circumference and each as pretty as a picture, without a blemish.

Mr. Piper, you know, has been in the nursery business for 38 years and the Clinton Nursery is well known throughout the entire country for its good stock, true to name.

Much of the fine fruit, awarded premiums at the Tri-State Fair, Memphis, State Fair, Louisville, and numerous county fairs, is from Clinton Nursery stock.

Mr. Piper tells us that he not only has a bumper peach crop, but will also harvest 10,000 bushels of apples this year, which he will start selling at 50c per bushel.

This fall he will have 70,000 young peach trees and 25,000 apple trees for sale.

It is a wonderful sight now to visit his nursery, on Highway 45, one mile east of Clinton, and see his trees loaded with luscious fruit. In today's paper he is advertising peaches at 50c and 75c per bushel at the orchard, and invites everybody to come with their baskets.

Things could be worse. Just suppose that nature had fixed it so watermelons would squirt like grapefruit.

HOME AGENT'S SCHEDULE, AUGUST 10-15

The county canners are taking their place in eight communities in the county now, both canners having been used on the bottom for the past two weeks.

The cost to the county for equipment so far has been $60 for one sealer, making a total of $76.20. Two tin can sealers have been loaned Miss Henning, Home Demonstration Agent, by the National Pressure Cooker Co., for demonstration purposes, for the season, as well as one 12-quart pressure cooker, which is used in each community. The Burpic tin can sealer which is being purchased, seals, opens and reflanges, which makes it possible to use the tin cans two or three seasons. Tin and glass are being used successfully with the canners, although tin requires less care in handling. Very few cases of spoilage has occurred, every one of which has been due to poor lids or rubbers, an improper seal or other carelessness. If the simple directions are followed there is no possibility of spoilage.

The permanent schedule for the bottom communities has been established during the past four weeks, with the schedule for other communities left tentative until all are organized. Miss Henning, Home Agent, gives the following weekly schedule for the canners:

Tuesday—Phillips, Crutchfield.
Wednesday—At Sassafraz Ridge.
Thursday—Tyler.
Friday—Bondurant, Palestine.
Saturday—Blue Pond.

BENNETT—FOLLIS

The marriage of Miss Mary Follis, daughter of Mrs. Addie Follis, of Trenton, to Mr. Joe Bennett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bennett, of Fulton, took place quietly Saturday morning at the First Methodist church, in this city, the Rev. R. A. Wood, pastor, officiating.

The bride wore an ensemble of skipper blue with matching accessories. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Xenophon Hunt, and Mr. Edwin Whitnel, of Fulton, was best man.

Mrs. Bennett attended Union University at Jackson, Tenn., and George Peabody College at Nashville. For the past three years she has taught in the Fulton Junior High School. Mr. Bennett attended Vanderbilt University and is a graduate of the Louisville College of Pharmacy. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett are both popular young people who have a wide circle of friends to wish them a long and happy life of wedded bliss.

BANKERS SUGGEST BANKING REFORMS

Economic Policy Commission of American Bankers Association Recommends Aids to Progress in Banking Business.

FOLLOWING a nation-wide survey of banking conditions and opinion among bankers, the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association has made the following recommendations for banking betterment:

"Under the category of improved bank management specific improvements we might summarize are:

"(1) Liquidation or consolidation of banks where changed local economic conditions render this desirable;

"(2) Wider affiliation among state banks with the Federal Reserve System;

"(3) Development of limited branch banking where economic conditions and legal authority make this expedient;

"(4) A more general practice, especially lacking among country banks, to analyze the cost of carrying accounts and other operating details and the establishment of proper service charges to make all classes of function profitable;

"(5) A more general application of the theory and practice of secondary reserves;

"(6) Avoidance by banks of undue borrowing merely to increase their own profits by re-lending at higher rates, or to over-expand credit to local business in order to increase their own business;

"(7) Cooperation among bankers in local communities through city, county or regional clearinghouses so as to promote mutually beneficial conditions and practices;

"(8) The insistence upon higher educational effort and qualifications among employees, especially those to be trusted with executive duties.

Legislative Measures Proposed

"There are some external measures, along moderate legislative and supervisory lines, that we also believe would help strengthen banking. Among these are:

"(1) The broadening in the states of branch banking laws where conditions warrant an extension of this type of banking service to the public;

"(2) The establishment of sound minimum capital funds under which banks will be allowed to operate, which should be materially higher than now prevails in most states; specifically, we believe that the minimum capital with which any new bank shall be chartered, whether state or national, should be at least $50,000;

"(3) The provision of funds and regulations to keep the official staffs of all supervisory departments up to a level of ability and integrity that will universally inspire confidence among bankers whose activities they are empowered to review, and will supply real added defenses to the public interests they are appointed to protect.

"(4) In connection with the policies of bank chartering departments, we would recommend that, even to a greater extent than is now the practice, the greatest care and moderation should be exercised in granting new charters, so as to guard against over-banking or the launching of new banks by unqualified persons, which have doubtless been serious factors in the bank failure situation in the past.

"(5) Also, referring to Federal Reserve practice not requiring legislation, we believe that the Federal Reserve Banks should exercise more freely their rights to examine banks and use their discretionary power to refuse rediscount facilities to banks indulging in objectionable banking methods."

Banker-Farmer Plan

An editorial in Southern Cultivator says: "Favorable comment is being made upon the wisdom and promised results of the farmer-banker agricultural program in Georgia. Industrial leaders and publicists, noting that 115 of the 161 counties in the state have pledged prosecution of the 'live-at-home' farm reform, are regarding the working out of the plan this year as of more interest to American farmers than any developments of the Soviet five-year plan in Russia. Agricultural actaries are of the opinion that if Georgia farmers, backed by our cooperating bankers and supply men, demonstrate the expected economies and profits of this home-support plan, it will quickly become a contagious custom all over the agricultural areas of the nation. It will be the writing of a new 'declaration of independence' for the individualist farmers of the country, putting them upon solid terms of credit and prosperity without need of recourse to federal or state financial relief measures. The man of the soil who lives year in and year out 'on his own' will stand up in his community as an economic freeman, making his own terms with the world of finance and trade."

A meeting of farmers, bankers, and newspaper men of St. Croix County Wisconsin, recently organized a drive to promote the growing of alfalfa in such quantity as to save the dairy man the expense of commercial feed and insure greater dairy profits. It is planned in this campaign to have within the next three years, at least one acre of alfalfa produced for each dairy cow in the county, or a total of about 40,000 acres.

ALASKAN GOLD

THE Alaskan gold of today is not found in the Klondike, but in the icy waters off the mouth of its river. Modern Alaskan gold is salmon. The gold rush to the Klondike lasted for only a short period, but the stream of salmon from Alaska now flows on steadily year after year.

The whole process of canning salmon is mechanized and modern. Between one fishing boat and another and between the boats and the canneries radio telegraphy and now even telephony is used. And salmon is now vacuum packed, a great improvement over the former process.

Many of the larger vessels have complete canneries right on board so that the fish can be canned almost the moment it is caught. A cannery is like a miniature city. Automatic machinery is used entirely from the moment the salmon is delivered to it until the cans are packed.

An Ever Ready Help

Summer is the time for ready, easily prepared foods. Who wants to stew any longer than necessary in this weather over a hot kitchen stove? And salmon is a good summer food. It is high in protein value, and also an important source of iodine which is a well-recognized factor in the diet as a means of preventing simple goiter. For people who spend their summers in the mountains, especially, this is an important consideration. Canned salmon is also an ever ready help in time of culinary trouble since it is not only delicious just as it comes from the can, but it lends itself to so many dishes and combinations of foods. It can be served with vegetables, with eggs, in an omelet, in a pie, in sandwiches and as a salad, and salmon chowder is a particularly nourishing and tempting soup.

Here are some good recipes for the use of this modern Alaskan gold.

Recipes for Four

Creamed Salmon and Celery: Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk and salt and pepper. Add two-thirds of the contents of a tall can of pink salmon and one-half cup cooked diced celery. Serve on a hot platter. This dish should not cost you more than twenty-five cents.

Escalloped Salmon with Lima Beans and Noodles: Remove the contents of one tall can of salmon, being careful to break it as little as possible, remove skin and bones and place in the center of a large, flat, shallow baking plate. Make a sauce of one and one-half tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, the liquor from the can, one cup milk and salt and pepper, and pour over the salmon. Cover with one-third cup of crumbs, buttered with one tablespoon of butter, and two tablespoons grated cheese, and bake in a hot oven till brown. Meanwhile have half the contents of a 6-ounce package of egg noodles cooked, drained and seasoned and half the contents of a No. 2 can of lima beans heated. Arrange in a border around the salmon. This makes a whole main dish with meat, starchy cereal and vegetable, and should not cost more than fifty-five cents.

Recipes for Eight

Salmon with Curried Asparagus Sauce: Heat the contents of a one-pound can of salmon, remove and divide in eight servings, leaving the fish in as large pieces as possible. Place on small plates, and pour over the following sauce:

Melt two tablespoons butter, add one-half teaspoon curry powder and one-half teaspoon celery salt, then two tablespoons flour, and stir smooth. Add slowly one and three-fourths cups rich milk or cream, stirring constantly until creamy. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and add one-half cup canned asparagus cut in small pieces. This makes an excellent entree.

Salmon Chowder: Dice two slices salt pork and try out. Remove pieces of pork. Add one chopped onion to fat and sauté till golden. Add two cups diced raw potatoes, three-fourths cup of diced raw celery, one-half cup of diced raw carrots, one and one-half cups tomatoes, two cups water, two teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, and simmer until all are tender. Add one-eighth teaspoon soda and then one and one-half cups salmon. Just before serving pour hot chowder slowly into two cups of thin hot white sauce, and do not boil again.

A Modern Problem

It was Jonathan Swift who commended so highly the man who could make two blades of corn grow where only one grew before," saying that he "would do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together."

If that writer were commenting on corn in modern times, he would have to change his saying. There is plenty of corn for everyone now, and the problem has become one of selection—how to supply everyone with the best corn, the kind of corn they like.

A Modern Solution

This problem has been solved in the modern manner by means of science and machinery. First, manufacturers made all the corn anyone wants available at any time by means of canning it in the familiar cream style, and now they are making equally widely available the new whole-kernel canned corn, which you can't distinguish in taste or appearance from fresh corn on the cob.

Here is a recipe for the use of these big meaty kernels that is delicious:

Corn and Walnut Loaf: Drain one No. 2 can of whole grain corn and run through food chopper. Add one-half cup chopped walnuts (vacuum packed walnuts are always available in cans), two beaten eggs, one-half cup milk and one-half cup crumbs. Season with salt and pepper. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake for forty-five minutes in a moderate 375° oven. Serve with tomato sauce. Serves four or five.

Better Breakfasts

PERHAPS you are particularly so early in the morning. And possibly you are a bit proud of being difficult to please. You would like to breakfast at an interesting table, cheerful with sunshine and flowers, and have placed before you berries from your own, or neighboring bushes or the blue Pacific, preserves of Greek and Roman emperors.

Not so difficult. Nor do you demand too much, in this age of convenience. There are new and inexpensive table linens of rough weave for breakfast settings. Choose one of sunny quality which gives a mellow charm to the table and place your bowl of flowers of composé of fruit at one side of the table, instead of in the center, for a change.

Foods from far and near have come in your market-basket, and they are at their best in this dietetic and delightful menu:

Ready-to-Eat Cereal With Fresh Red Raspberries
Grilled Sardines
Toast
Quince Preserves
Hot Beverage

Grilled Sardines: Sauté the contents of two 3½-ounce cans of sardines gently in their own oil. Spread six slices of toast very thinly with prepared mustard. Lay on the sardines and garnish with slices of lemon. This serves six persons.*

Vitamins Are "It"

THE fact that canned foods retain a greater proportion of their vitamins than foods cooked in open containers and exposed to oxygen by the ordinary home methods has been fully demonstrated by many great scientists. But what are vitamins? Vitamins are "It"—that great and significant word first used in its modern quoted meaning by the writer, Elinor Glyn.

"It" a Definite Thing
When you say that an actress or a reigning beauty has "It" you have paid her the highest compliment contained in our modern vocabulary. "It" is that which motivates, stimulates and inspires. "It" is that without which there can be no growth, success or even life. There is nothing like "It," and there is no substitute for it.

"Vitamins," that scientist, Dr. E. F. Kohman wrote recently, "are as real as sugar and salt. Although they have not yet been isolated in pure form, as is the case with sugar and salt, they are as undeniable as sunshine and fresh air. They are as definite to the chemist as if they could be held in the hand in a pure crystalline or other identifiable form."

"An animal will languish and die in the presence of an abundance of food complete in every respect but for one tiny essential—a vitamin. Given a small, hardly weighable portion of a concentrate of this vitamin in a capsule or other form so no sensation of taste enters in, he will soon rouse himself and eat greedily of what before impressed him not—and more important—will live."

WHEAT PRICES

Considerable alarm has been occasioned throughout the country over the fact that the price of wheat has touched the lowest point in almost fifty years. Growers in many of the states are reported to be indignant. And yet everyone ought to know that getting mad won't do any good.

The price of wheat is pretty well regulated by supply and demand. Efforts to interfere with this law of supply and demand and to keep prices high have met with little success. What appears to be needed is an investigation that will determine just exactly what is keeping the price down; to find why it is lower than it should be. If a man gets sick he loses no time in finding out what caused his ailment, and then he sets about finding relief. Now let the growers find out why their product is down in price—far below where it should be—then it ought to be easy to do something about it.

For one thing, and we believe every family around Fulton will back us up in the statement, people are not eating as much bread as they formerly consumed. Another thing, many countries are now producing wheat on a large scale that were not raising a bushel of it 25 years ago. Improved machinery has made mass-production possible in this country, as well as in Canada, Russia and the Argentine. The result has been a production each year for several years past of millions of bushels more than the world could consume. But this condition need not be a fixed one. There is some way to locate the real seat of the trouble and to doact it accordingly. The permanent solution of the problem might lie in finding new markets for wheat, or educating people who are not now eating bread made of it to do so. New crops for a goodly part of the ground now being used to grow it would also go a long way toward solving the problem.

EATING OUTDOORS

IF you have ever traded dry meat sandwiches with a genial Alpine guide over the hospitality of the Swiss hospice; if you have rested on the earthen stoop of a white-washed cottage somewhere in Ireland and eaten bread and tea; lingered over a French dinner "au Bois" with artichokes served in hot butter sauce and wine of ancient vintage; or put away "hot dogs," say, at the old county fair—we wouldn't waste a paragraph on the luxury of eating outdoors.

It's altogether "what to do." The next question, then, is—how to do it. Foods for outdoor refreshment differ widely according to the occasion. There are motor trips, picnics, hikes, camping, porch lunches, garden parties and so on. Thus there are correct foods for each occasion. For one would as soon wear khaki knickerbockers to a garden party, as to take chilled gelatin salad on a hike.

Foods That "Belong"

Here is a brief classification. Welcome foods for a motor trip are compactly-packed sandwiches, package cakes, thermos jugs of fruit juice, on a picnic, generously cut sandwiches, covered jars of delicious salads, fruits, fruit juices, deviled eggs and delicious cakes; for hikes and camping, ready-sliced loaves of bread, sandwich spreads, bacon and frankfurters to broil, and fruit juices; for porch lunches and garden parties, open-faced sandwiches or omelets, hors d'oeuvres, fruit cocktails, chilled salads, delicious cakes and after-dinner candies. Incidentally, here is a new stunt for hikers who like to "travel light"—cooking on a tin-can stove. Did you ever hear of one? A No. 3 tin can will make a sufficiently large stove, or you can use a lard bucket. Cut a four-inch square out of the side at the upper edge. Near the bottom on the opposite side cut another square hole, one and one-half inches. Turn the can upside down on the ground and build a fire in it. The large opening is used for refueling and the smoke comes out of the little hole. The top of the stand becomes hot for frying bacon, eggs, pancakes, or to set a saucepan on.

Some "Outdoor" Recipes

A MOTOR TRIP SANDWICH—Piquant Ham Sandwich: Spread between buttered bread the contents of a small can of deviled ham, one teaspoon chopped mustard pickles, one tablespoon chopped walnuts and one tablespoon mayonnaise.

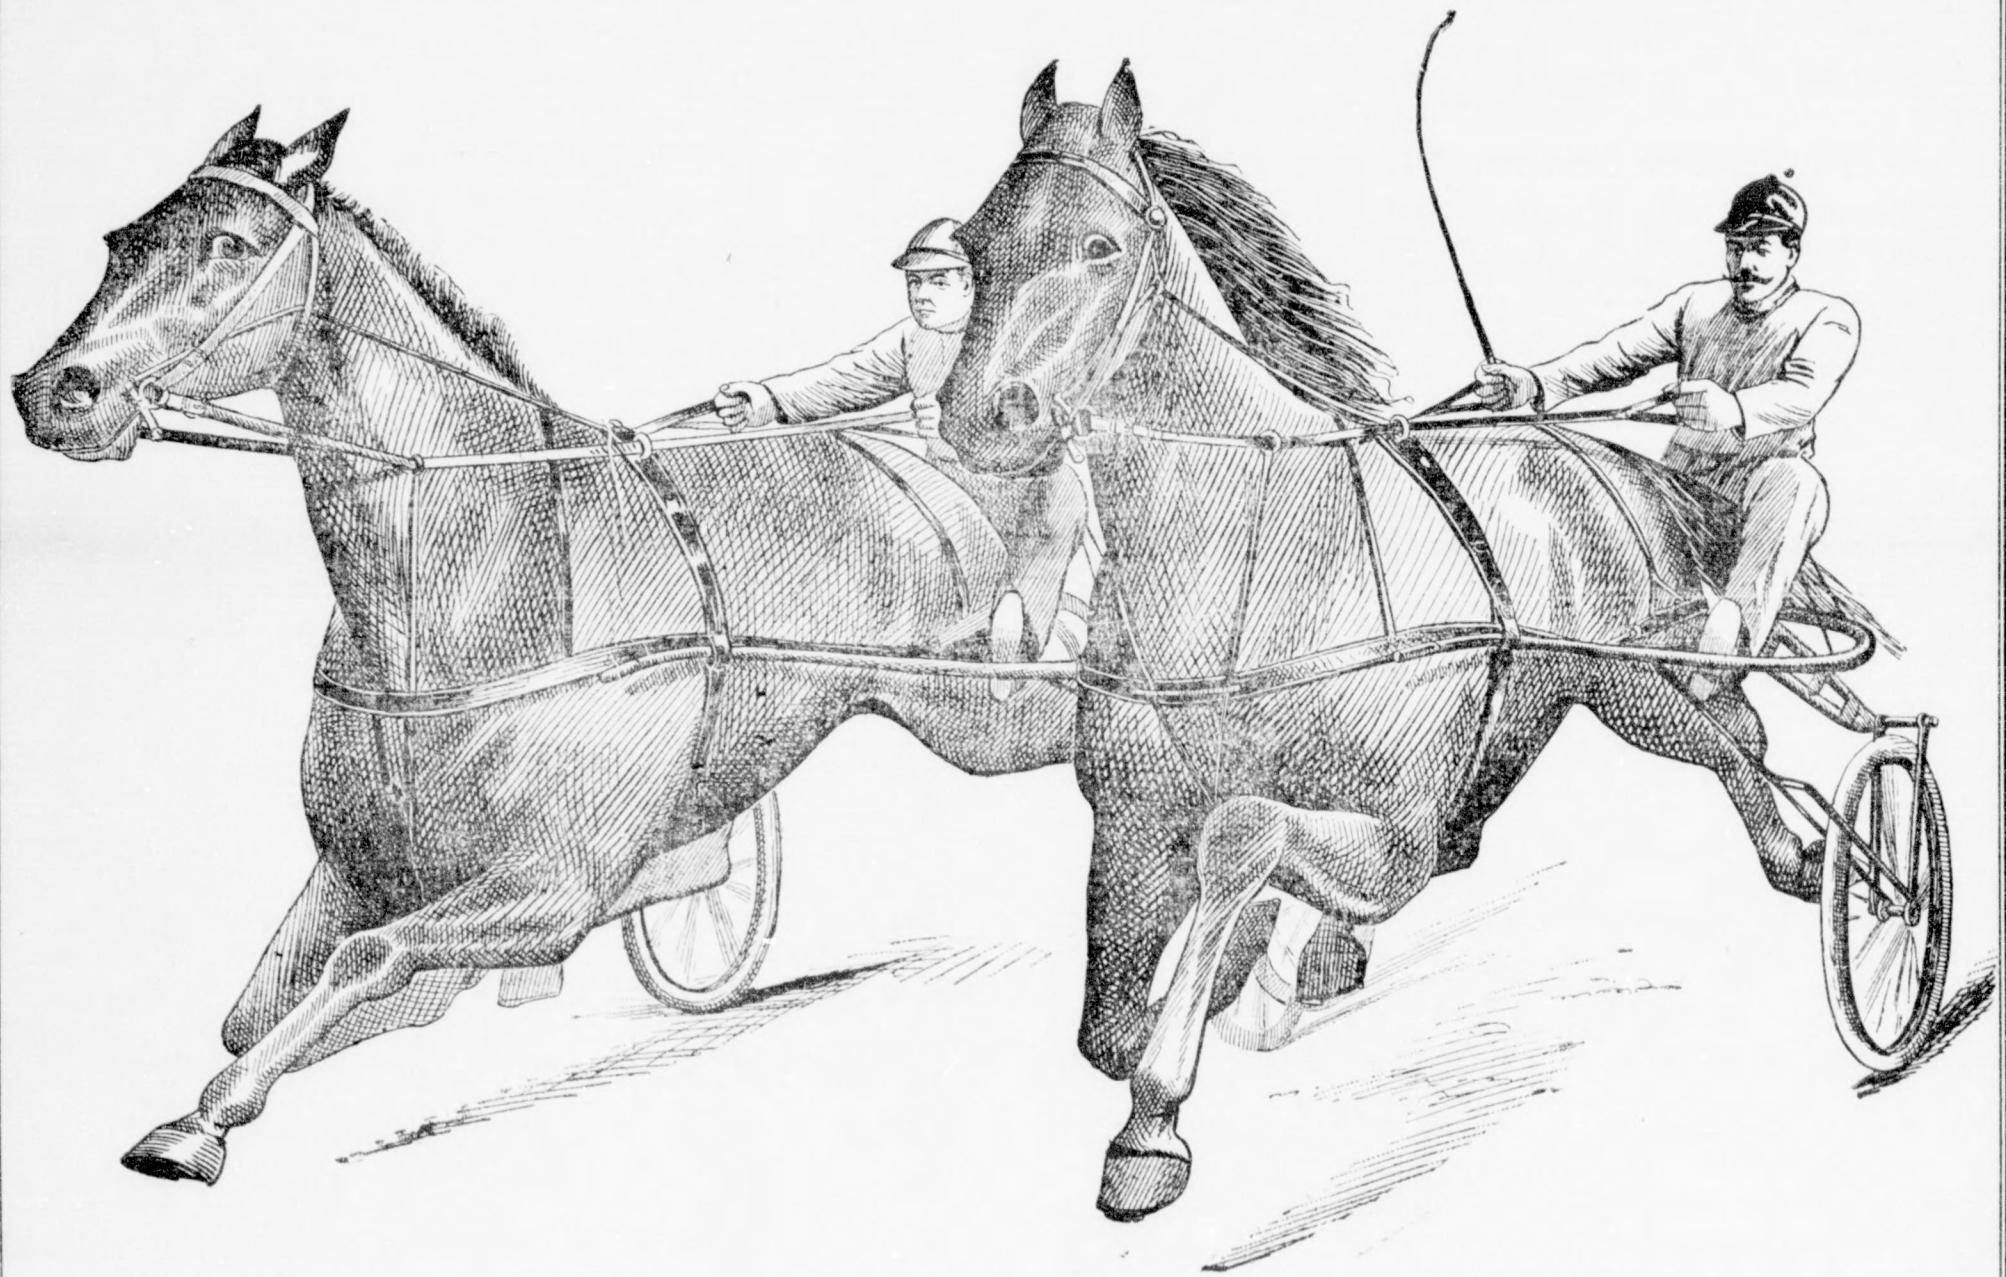

A PICNIC FRUIT PUNCH—Coffee Punch: Mix one cup strong coffee, one cup orange juice and the syrup from two No. 2 cans of grapefruit (reserve the fruit for salads). Add one cup maple syrup and chill. Just before serving add one quart of gingerale and two cups of heavy cream, if desired. The cream may be omitted. This makes almost three quarts of punch.

MAIN DISH FOR CAMPING—Savory Baked Beans: Chop one onion, add one-half pound of hamburger steak and brown in two tablespoons fat. Add one can tomato soup, one can of oven-baked beans and salt to taste. Heat thoroughly and serve plain or over slices of brown bread.

A PORCH SUPPER DESSERT—Blueberry Charlotte: Remove crusts from eight or ten slices of bread, and butter the slices well. Heat to boiling one No. 2 can of blueberries (or use the fresh berries) and one-fourth cup of sugar. Butter a deep dish, and then arrange alternate layers of bread and hot berries, pressing down well, until all are used up. Let stand several hours in a cold place, turn out in a mold. Slice and serve with cream seasoned with sugar and nutmeg, or with whipped cream.

A GARDEN PARTY SALAD—Gingerale and Grapefruit Salad: Soak two tablespoons of gelatin in four tablespoons cold water, then dissolve it in one-half cup of boiling water. Add one-fourth cup sugar and one-fourth cup lemon juice and stir until the sugar is dissolved. When cold, add one cup gingerale and the syrup from one No. 2 can of grapefruit. When about to set, add the grapefruit pulp and eight maraschino cherries; pour into a flat pan or into molds and let chill until stiff. Serve garnished at the side with sprigs of fresh mint and top with cream mayonnaise.

Bargain Days for Foods

Now is the time to buy canned foods. Both in the chain stores, the voluntary chains and the independent grocery stores bargains are being offered such as will not be found again in a long time. With the passing of the present depression, prices are expected to react to their former levels. And better times are approaching day by day.

The great difference between canned foods and practically any other products is that they never deteriorate, but will keep indefinitely. It would not occur to anyone to buy a dozen suits of clothes at once, no matter how cheaply they were sold, as they would not keep and most of them would become food for moths. Canned foods, however, are just as good next year, or the year after, or ten years from now, as the day that they were sealed in the can. The only limit to their value as an investment is the limit of your storage space. You can be sure that they will keep and that they will be about as good as they will be consumed. There is no guess work about either of these factors.

Stock Staple Foods Now

It is the staple foods especially upon which you should stock up at the present bargain prices. Some of these are beans, corn, peas and tomatoes among the vegetables; apples, peaches, pears and pineapple among the fruits; cod fish, salmon, sardines and tuna among the fish, and what ever specialties, meats and soups your fancy dictates.*

Canned Foods for Babies

THIS is the season when vegetables are being raised to puree for babies and process in cans. These vegetables, such as spinach, carrots, peas, tomatoes and green beans, are developed under the supervision of trained field men from the time of seed selection to the time of maturity. They are picked at just the right stage of ripeness, and clapped into cans before they have time to lose an iota of their freshness. After thorough inspection and washing, the fresh, crisp vegetables are placed in specially designed, glass-lined retorts from which the air is excluded and are steam pressure cooked until properly softened. The products are then automatically moved through the straining machines, in which the straining operations are effected in an atmosphere of steam. They then pass automatically into glass-lined kettles for moisture determination. This insures uniformity of consistency of each product.

A Boon to Mothers

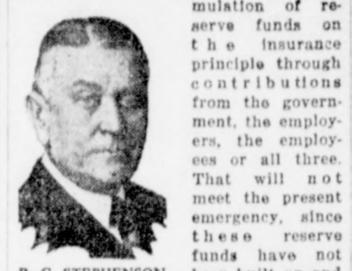

These products obviate the necessity for mothers to spend many tedious hours cleaning, cooking and straining vegetables for their babies. Throughout the entire cooking process, and throughout the straining operation, air is excluded from contact with them. This treatment effects maximum conservation of the mineral salts and vitamin values that mean health and growth, and bone and body building development for baby, better than any mother herself can do this at home.

For the normal baby vegetable feedings should begin at from six to eight months, but the canners of these products all urge that mothers should invariably consult their doctor as to the best feeding schedule for their own babies.*

PLANS TO BEAT UNEMPLOYMENT

By ROME C. STEPHENSON

President American Bankers Association

R. C. STEPHENSON

SOME look upon unemployment as a social or political problem. For them the remedy is compulsory accumulation of reserve funds on the insurance principle through contributions from the government, the employers, the employees or all three. That will not meet the present emergency, since these reserve funds have not been built up and it would take years to do so. At best this plan could only become effective at some indefinite time in the future as against the return of another catastrophe of general unemployment. Others look upon unemployment as purely an economic problem, holding that the only fundamental preventive is in business stability.

It may well be asked whether either of these cures—namely, the creation of unemployment insurance funds on the one hand or the maintenance of everlasting business stability on the other—do not present in themselves bigger problems than the problems they seek to cure. However I am inclined to the belief that the more practical approach to the solution of such problems and the prevention of such situations as general unemployment presents is along the latter lines of economic foresight rather than along lines of social legislation.

National Foresight Economic foresight is conceivable not only for the individual but for business as a whole. Millions of individuals and virtually all lines of industry failed to practice it during the last stages of the recent prosperity.

The public welfare of the United States demands that industry as a whole vigorously and sincerely devote itself to the development and practice of economic foresight, aimed to prevent repetitions of the present unemployment situation. The general outlines for such plans are clearly definable. They demand that industry adopt a long range viewpoint and lay out its production and distribution plans with the thought that it is far better to have a long period of good sound business activity than a short period of fraudulently over-competitive endeavor. This would tend to lessen over-production in various lines, to prevent over-expansion of plant capacity, to avoid over-stimulation of public buying and above all to avoid periods of slumps and stagnation following periods of over-stimulation with their disasters of unemployment.

For business, too, there is a part in such a conception of economic foresight. It should aim to cooperate with industry in its endeavor to avoid reckless over-production, over-stocking and over-selling the public.

In this picture of national economic prudence, banking and finance, too, have their place. Their effort should be to influence the use of credit and other financial facilities into channels of sound public economy consistent with the attitude I have already sketched for industry and trade. All finance, whether current commercial banking or industrial investment banking, should seek by their influence in granting or withholding credit to stimulate and build up a balanced economic situation.

The Individual Must Help Finally, the individual too has a place in any such plan of a sounder economic future for the United States. It is the duty of the individual to make every effort to take care of himself and provide for himself. Neither government nor industry can do that for him. They can give him the opportunity to succeed but they can't succeed for him. He must out of his own initiative and effort earn and create his own means and defenses against the requirements and contingencies of life.

Individual determination to provide against sickness, accident and death by insurance before indulgence in extra comforts and luxuries are given place in the family budget, and individual responsibility to guard against the contingency of unemployment by means of a sound program of thrift and savings are to my mind the true foundation of economic stability for the United States as a whole.

A limestone spreader, owned by a bank in Illinois is rented out to farmers for ten cents a ton, and also a phosphate spreader at five cents a ton. The "limestone project" was the principal contribution of the bank to banker-farmer work, during 1930, and was carried on in cooperation with the Farm Bureau. A man trained in the testing of soil, and in the making of soil maps was employed by the bank. The unit maps used covered forty acres, on which 23 surface tests were made at mathematical points. At five other points three tests were made—surface, sub-surface, and sub-soil. The completed map showed, by varying shadings of red, the points which needed limestone. Arrangements were also made by the bank to have limestone shipped in in car lots for to farmers in any quantities r

GYPSY GIRL IS FOUND GUILTY OF SWINDLING MAN

"Money Must Have Been Taken by the Gods," Is Her Explanation.

New York.—Jennie Frank, a twenty-year-old gypsy, was found guilty before Judge Conway in County court here recently of having cheated Max Rosenthal out of a total of $3,739. Miss Frank said the money must have been taken by the gods.

The complainant went to Miss Frank last spring. On April 23, Miss Frank told him to give her a dollar. The bill was sewed up into a multi-colored sack, and the gypsy told Mr. Rosenthal to sleep on it over night.

Two Dollars Appear.
The next day Rosenthal returned and Miss Frank, after considerable hocus-pocus produced two dollars from the sack. It was testified, Rosenthal decided he'd try the trick with Considerable Hocus-Pocus.

$5. The following day he was told by the gypsy that the gods had been kind—and she drew a $10 bill from the sack.

That sort of thing went on for several weeks—with Rosenthal sleeping every night on the sack and sticking by an agreement not to peek. The game was working so well that he drew his life savings—$3,739—and hid it put into the bag.

This time Miss Frank, realizing that a truly great sum was at stake, offered to really prove her abilities. She put an egg into a handkerchief, had Rosenthal crush it with his hand, and opened the handkerchief. The egg was gone, and in its place was a tuft of black hair. This, she said, was from the head of Rosenthal's enemies. Rosenthal was convinced. His enemies, he said, all had black hair.

With the $3,739 in the sack—he thought—Rosenthal went home and slept on it. The next day he called on Miss Frank and she was out.

The Money Is Gone.
He opened the bag himself and the money was gone. Last September, after a search that lasted all summer, he found the woman and had her arrested on a grand larceny charge.

The chief witness during the trial was Steve Kaslov, king of all gypsies in the state. He testified that Miss Frank could not have been the woman who fleeced Rosenthal.

"Such an art as that," he said on the stand, "is not in our line."

Doctor Amputates Leg of Deer Hurt by Motor

Upland, Calif.—If the wild animals of the mountains adjoining San Antonio canyon are as kind as humans have proved to be, a young buck will continue to enjoy the life of the mountains, even if he does so while hopping about on three legs.

Two youths, driving to Camp Baldy high in the canyon, late in the evening, were startled when a buck, probably one year old, leaped from the bush into the highway directly in front of the automobile.

Before the car could be stopped it had struck the deer, and one front leg was broken and mangled. Hoping to save the life of the suffering buck the youths carried the deer to Camp Baldy, and Dr. F. N. Davidson, Ontario veterinarian, was called on the phone to examine the animal.

Doctor Davidson is an ardent lover of the outdoors and animal life and lost no time in rushing to Camp Baldy. He found it necessary to use a knife on the buck to save its life, and the badly mangled front leg was amputated.

Son, in Prison, Vows to Avenge Death of Father

El Paso, Texas.—As soon as El Paso Barajas, twenty-eight, is released from jail here he is going to seek revenge for the death of his father, Roman Barajas, sixty, shot to death by four bandits at his ranch near here. Barajas is awaiting deportation for violation of immigration laws.

"When I get out I'll never stop looking until I find the one who killed my father. Then—"

He leaves the rest unsaid.

The elder Barajas was shot down while his family looked on. The ralders took off $1,500 in gold and fled toward Mexico.

Bridegroom Crushed to Death Under Car

Ottawa, Ill.—Everett M. Channell, twenty, married only two months, was killed in the garage at his home while repairing his auto.

He had removed the front wheels, raised the front end and then got underneath to work on the engine. The jacks slipped and he was crushed to death.

MARRIAGE OF DEAD GIRL IS ANNULLED

Parents Declare That Daughter Was Incompetent.

New York.—The marriage of a dead woman was annulled at the plea of her mother, Mrs. Laura M. Lewis.

It ended a strange suit, without precedent in the state courts, in which Mrs. Lewis has branded her daughter, Ruth Cosgrove Weller, as indiscreet, alcoholic and incompetent.

Mrs. Lewis, a sweet-faced, white-haired woman, had testified to as much and more when she appeared before Supreme Court Justice Shien tag, who gave the decision.

Her assertions were contradicted by the dead girl's convict husband, Reuben Weller, who was brought down from Sing Sing to testify.

As a result of the decision, Mrs. Lewis will receive her daughter's estate, estimated at $10,000 or more, an inheritance from a first husband, A. K. Cosgrove, mine operator of South mont, Pa.

Mrs. Lewis said her daughter was not responsible for her actions when she married Weller, after a short courtship, in August, 1926. Only six months before she had been committed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip, L. I., from which she escaped.

Substantiating her allegations, Mrs. Lewis testified her daughter drank constantly after 1917, on occasion sitting at home with a glass of gin in one hand and a glass of water in the other, drinking until she could take no more. She testified also that her daughter used abusive language, threatened suicide and threatened to kill her.

Forgotten Envelope Is Fatal to Bank Holdup

Sacramento.—As a desperate man of "squaring" himself with the world, Shirley E. Schuler, former Woodland police judge and state employee, turned bank robber.

He held up a teller in the Japanese Sumitomo Bank of California here stole $1,000 in currency and escaped—momentarily. A forgotten envelope important in his well-laid plan, led to his arrest less than two hours after the robbery.

Delving to the bank in a taxicab Schuler walked to the cage of J. Kawamura, teller, and presented the envelope to disarm suspicion. As Kawamura looked up, Schuler pointed a pistol at him and demanded the thousand dollars.

Schuler ran out of the bank to the taxicab and disappeared.

Schuler went to the state capitol where he made a complete change of clothing. It was then he discovered that he had forgotten the envelope on which was written his name. Summoning the cab driver, he told him to return to the bank, retrieve the envelope and meet him on a downtown street corner.

When Schuler appeared at the deserted corner, police seized him. He confessed immediately, they said, declaring that he planned the robbery in order to meet had checks he had written.

Member of a prominent Woodland family, Schuler is the father of two children.

Man Runs Over Coyote; Mistakes It for Dog

Colorado Springs.—Jimmy Donahue is rated one of the best posted men in these parts in matters relating to parachute jumping and aviation in general. But Jimmy's knowledge of wild animals has been sadly neglected.

Donahue arrived at the city airport with his arms and legs somewhat scratched and presenting in general a downcast appearance. Max Piele, caretaker, solicitously sought to cheer the parachute ace.

"Tough luck," said Jimmy. "Just ran over a farmer's thoroughbred police dog down the road here, I'm afraid he'll die. Got him in the car here but I'm due to buy the farmer a new dog, I guess."

Piele went out to the car with Donahue, hoping to be able to lend a hand. He drew back at first glimpse of the "police dog."

It was a full-grown coyote, somewhat battered, but still alive, and looking able to add a few more scratches to those already adorning Donahue's flesh.

Man in Jail Sees His House Destroyed by Fire

Bristol, W. Va.—E. H. Shrader had the unique experience of watching a house owned by him burn to the ground while he was locked up in jail on a prohibition charge. The house, occupied by a family from Tennessee, blazed and burned while Shrader watched, powerless to save his property. However, it was partly covered by insurance.

This particular cabin was even a more than usually dilapidated specimen of its class, and the chimney, consisting mainly of the remains of an old top hat, presented a comical appearance. One of the tourists accented a youth who was sitting contentedly on a fence.

"Sure thin, it does," was the boy's prompt reply; "it draws the notice of ivory pool that passes by!"

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for August 9
SAUL CONVERTED AND COMMISSIONED

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-19; 1 Timothy 1:12-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Whereupon, O king Artaxerxes, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Saul Chosen a Missionary SUPPORT TOPIC—Saul Chosen a Missionary to the Gentiles.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Vision and a Response
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Saul's Conversion and Commission.

I. Saul's Violent Hatred of the Lord's Disciples (vv. 1, 2).
Saul knew full well that unless the movement set on foot by Jesus was stopped it would supersede Judaism. The noble display of faith by Stephen in selling his testimony with his blood did not soften Saul's spirit, but rather intensified his hatred for the Lord and his disciples. It made him more determined than ever to stamp out the Nazarene heresy. The intensity of his madness and the extent of his operations are best set forth in his own words (Acts 22:4; 26:10-12; R. V.).

II. Saul Kicking Against the Pricks (vv. 3, 4).
The figure here is that of the eastern ox driver following the ox with a sharp iron fixed to the end of a pole. The animal is prodded on with this instrument and if refractory, it kicks against the sharp iron and injures itself. This is a graphic picture of Saul as he was madly fighting against Jesus.

1. A light from heaven (vv. 3, 4). The time had come for the Lord to interfere. Saul was smitten with blindness and fell to the earth.
2. A voice from heaven (vv. 4, 5). This was the Lord's voice calling Saul by name and asking "Why persecutest thou me?" To this Saul replied, "Who art thou, Lord?" Then came the answer, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest," as if to say that persecution of the disciples is persecution of Jesus.

3. Saul's inquiry (v. 6). "What wilt thou have me to do?" The Lord told him to go into the city where information would be given him as to what he must do.

4. Saul entering Damascus (vv. 7, 8). The proud persecutor went humbly into Damascus, led by his attendants. For the space of three days he remained blind, and fasted. What went on in his soul in those days no mortal can know. Doubtless in this time he got hold of the truths which he later proclaimed to the world, for his conversion was the basal fact of his theology. The day is coming when all men shall behold the dazzling glory of the Son, either in salvation or in condemnation (Phil. 2:10, 11; Rev. 6:15-17).

III. Saul Ministered to by Ananias (vv. 10-19).

1. Ananias' vision (vv. 10-12). The Lord appeared to him and instructed him to go to Saul. He gave him the name of the streets and Saul's host, and informed him that Saul was now a praying man and that he had prepared Saul by a vision for the coming of Ananias. The Lord knows the name of the street and the number of the house in which his chosen live.

2. Ananias' fear and hesitancy (vv. 13-16). He knew of Saul's ministry and the authority by which he came. The Lord encouraged him to go, assuring him that Saul was no longer an enemy but a chosen vessel to bear his name before the Gentiles, kings, and the children of Israel, and that the badge of his commission should be great suffering for Christ.

3. Ananias' obedience (v. 17). His fears being removed, Ananias went to the house where Saul was stopping, put his hand upon him and affectionately addressed him as brother. The hitherto savage persecutor is now a brother in Christ. Ananias informed him that the Lord had sent him with a twofold mission:

a. "That thou mightest receive thy sight."
b. "Be filled with the Holy Ghost."

4. Saul received his sight (vv. 18, 19). After Saul received his sight, Ananias baptized him. The Lord bestows the gift of the Spirit upon whomsoever he will, and may designate anyone, whether occupying an official position or not, to lay hands upon individuals.

IV. Paul Put into the Ministry (1 Tim. 1:12-14).

He was commissioned for his work among the Gentiles by Jesus Christ. He did not enter the Christian ministry, but was placed there by the sovereign act of the Lord. He was transformed from a blasphemer and a persecutor through the abundant grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and made the apostle to the Gentiles.

The Gospel

The great commission does not bid us adapt the Gospel to every creature, but to preach the Gospel to every creature. The Gospel of the first century is the dynamic of God unto salvation in the Twentieth century.—Dr. F. W. Farr.

A Prayer

May God forgive the sins of which our tongues have not been guilty, but which have stained the purity of our minds.—Stuart Parker.

A HELP TO HAM

HAM has always been a popular meat in this country. So much of it is consumed in fact, that dietitians have made a special study of what to serve with it in order to make it more digestible. For ham is a good food, rich in proteins, and if you like to eat a lot of it, because of its vigorous flavor, they want to be sure that your digestive apparatus can take care of it.

Of recent years, the porker, if he enjoys being eaten, has found himself indebted to Hawaii. A combination not only delectable but dietetically correct has been found in ham with Hawaiian pineapple. This fruit is blessed with a digestive enzyme called bromelin which acts powerfully on protein foods, and makes them easier to digest. That is the reason why pineapple is served so often nowadays with lamb chops, beef steaks and other meats. Here are two recipes for its use with ham and pork.

Ham Hawaiian Style: Put slices of cold, boiled ham over bottom of shallow baking pan, one slice for each person to be served. On each slice put a slice of canned Hawaiian pineapple. In the hole of each slice force two ripe olives and then hide them by putting one tablespoon brown sugar over each hole. Place under broiler and broil well.

Pork Chops with Grilled Pineapple: Fry one and one-half pounds pork chops as usual, and remove to a platter with the chops. This recipe will serve six people, and so plentiful is canned Hawaiian pineapple this year that the price is lower than usual, and a housewife should be able to serve it anywhere in this country at a cost of not more than seventy cents. And that's not the only economy. Every experienced housewife will be sure to save the syrup drained from the can to use in her cold summer drinks.*

JUST LIKE HOME FOOD

Smith's Cafe is in reality a home-like restaurant because it has been trying to overcome the prevalent idea that restaurants can't serve food like you get at home.

Scores of patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they eat here so regularly.

Years spent in catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve wholesome, tasty meals.

The next time you feel like eating away from home, bring your family here.

Rev. and Mrs. G. S. Jones spent last week here with a grand-daughter, Mrs. Burris Westbrook, where Rev. Jones was confined to his bed, suffering from complications. However, he is some better and is visiting in the home of Mrs.
Harrison Autin this week.

An epidemic of colds is raging around here and many are suffering from it.

Ed Frields & Sons have returned from the vicinities of Sedalia, Cuba and Stubblefield, where they have been engaged for the past few weeks threshing wheat. They report that they have threshed some 20,000 bushels and that the yield was exceedingly fine.

The Acree cemetery was visited by a goodly number of folks Saturday, where Rev. T.
T. Harris delivered a sermon.
A cemetery association has been organized for the upkeep of the cemetery.

Mr. Dave Mathis is laid up suffering from injuries sustained last week from a truck load of tobacco turning over, in which Mr. A. A. Donoho and Mr. Mathis were riding. The accident occurred near Bump-pass store, when going down a grade Mr. Donoho lost control and Mr. Mathis sustained an injured limb as the result.
However, if no complications arise he will recover, but will be laid up several weeks. His friends regret very much to hear of his misfortune.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mitchell,
Paducah, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Frields and son Rex and the writer and family spent Sunday in Latham, guests of Mr.
and Mrs. Eric Cunningham.

A revival is in progress at Old Bethel this week. Rev.
Pawers is doing the preaching.
An outpouring of the holy spirit is prayed for.

Next Saturday is the day set apart for the cleaning off of the Morgan cemetery, where the Elder Cayce Pentecost will preach. All who are interested are requested to be on hand.

THE WORKING MAN'S DOLLAR

Possibly every working man around Fulton would be glad to know just where his dollar goes when it is spent. Experts in budgeting have been doing some tall figuring, and have recently announced the result.
They state that 40 per cent of the working man's dollar goes for food, and something less than 33 per cent for clothes, housing, and anything else he gets, must be taken care of out of the remaining 27 per cent.
Out of that 27 per cent he must first pay his rent before he can make a payment on the auto, or buy gas for it or pay for repairs. Then comes the item of movie tickets, of tobacco, of radio and other little luxuries.
Twenty-seven cents out of every dollar, after he has bought his food and clothes, doesn't leave a very wide margin.
Here are some figures to ponder over. They should be given exceedingly close study by those who argue that wages should be reduced or by the employer who may insist that the working man is "sitting pretty" even during the abnormal conditions through which the country has been passing.

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

When this issue of the paper reaches you, I suppose the Premium List for the Fulton Fair will be out and ready for all those who may desire them.
If you have not received yours, write to the President, James Gordon, or the Secretary, Mr.
Wade, and one will be mailed to you.

Look it over carefully, for several changes have been made and you don't want to "pull a bone."

Make up your mind what you want to enter and get them in first class shape, for condition is one of the main requirements, ranking next to type.

Last week I attended the annual picnic of the Graves County Jersey Cattle Club, and sure had a fine time.

There were about two thousand visitors at the picnic, and I didn't see one break to mar
the day—no drunks, no fights; everybody was congenial and had a good time.

Speeches were made by Bob Kilgore, editor of the Progressive Farmer; Mr. Van Cleave, president of the American Jersey Cattle Club; Senator Gaines, president of the Kentucky Cattle Club, and H.
J. Schwietert, general agricultural agent for the Illinois Central railroad. Several impromptu speeches were also made by Jersey breeders.

The ladies of the Home Demonstration Clubs served regular dinner for thirty-five cents, also short order lunches and pop. One of the most important features was a out of resolutions presented by Robt.
L. Hill, of Mayfield, asking that the state legislature to pass laws curbing the sale of Oleomargarine and all butter substitutes. I hope this bill passes, for it will mean much to the dairy industry of Kentucky.

This item is not poultry news, but I just had to print it. I was talking to a passenger on my train about Fulton. He said Fulton is a pretty little town, but undoubtedly has the dirtiest streets he had ever seen. All I could say was
"Amen," under my breath.
Mr. Mayor, let's clean up the streets!

A Railroad Has Many Owners

A Message from
L. A. Downs,
President,
Illinois Central System.

Dependable for 80 Years

Railway plants don't just grow.
They are built up painstakingly out of the savings of thousands of industrious citizens, to whom interest and dividends often mean their own or their dependents' subsequent support.

Title to the Illinois Central System is vested in approximately 20,000 stockholders. Five out of every six of them own fewer than 100 shares. Two out of every five reside in states in which the Illinois Central System operates. One out of every twenty is an employe of the railroad.

More than half the railway investment is represented by bonds, many of which are held by insurance companies, savings banks and endowed institutions of learning. Through these bondholders thousands of other individuals become indirectly, but none the less really, dependent upon railway earnings.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. Downs

Chicago, August 1, 1931.
