FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1935.

NUMBER TWENTY-EIGHT

FULTON COUNTY FARM BUREAU IN ANNUAL MEETING HERE FRIDAY

The annual picnic and barbecue of the Fulton Farm Bureau will be held at the Fair Grounds here Friday, according to a statement issued this week to The News by J. B. McGhee, secretary of the bureau. An interesting program has been arranged, and dinner will be served free to members, with a small charge to non-members. The program follows:

9:30 A. M. Foot Race for Boys 12 years old and under; Foot Race for Girls 12 years old and under; Three Legged Race.

9:45 A. M. Stock Calling Contest; Husband Calling Contest.

10:00 A. M. Preliminary Soft Ball Games.

Horse shoe and washer pitching throughout the day.

1:30 P. M. Speaking by Joe Davis the toastmaster. Talks by M. B. Nugent, director of Farm Bureau insurance; Ben Kilgore, Executive Secretary of the State Farm Bureau; J. Frank Porter, President of Tennessee Farm Bureau, and Mrs. W. M. Oliver, President of State Homemakers Clubs.

3:30 P. M. Final Ball Game.

A large delegation from Hickman Ballard and Carlisle counties is expected as these counties do not have organizations and plans have been perfected to set up organizations in each of these counties.

STOLEN HAMS

Midnight is a bad time to try to sell some hams—especially if they are stolen. Lee and Wallace Spence, whose names turned out to be Hyden after all, can testify to this fact for they tried to sell some last Saturday night, and local officers didn't believe their story.

Stopping in Missionary Bottom, the colored district of Fulton, tried to sell the hams to a negro, who said he would find a buyer for them. Taking the white boys to a local restaurant, Officer Boaz investigated the boys' story after the negro had tipped him off.

The boys claimed they lived between Beelerton and Croley and that their father had given them the hams. Chief Huddleston and Boaz took one of the boys, leaving the other in custody of McDade and Dunn, and set out for Beelerton to check up on their story. Enroute the boy confessed his real name was Orville Hyden of Wolfe county, Ky., and that he and his brother had stolen the hams from Boone Finch's smokehouse near Croley.

The officers arrived at the home of Boone Finch about 3 a. m. after waking several farmers to inquire the way in the middle of the night. It turned out that the hams had been taken from his smokehouse.

FORMER FULTON WOMAN PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon for Mrs. G. C. Fain, wife of Rev. Fain, former pastor of the First Methodist church of this city. Mrs. Fain passed away at the home of her sister in Franklin, Tenn., where she was visiting at the time of her death.

Rev. Fain was pastor of the local church two years ago, but accepted the pulpit at the First Methodist church at Paris, Tenn., where the

JOHN YOUNG BROWN TALKS FOR CHANDLER

John Young Brown, former congressman of Lexington, Kentucky, spoke here Monday night in interest of the candidacy of A. B. "Happy" Chandler for governor. His talk was recognized as one of the finest addresses given here this year, as Mr. Brown is a very fluent speaker, and ably versed in governmental affairs of Kentucky.

Mr. Brown blasted the Laffoon-Rhea faction with some pointed statements, and brought attention to bear upon the sales tax fostered upon the Laffoon administration, which he declared was composed of a bi-partisan combine that has taken the government entirely out of the hands of the people. He accused Rhea and his colleagues of ruining the careers of many young legislators by threats, promises and even bribery, in persuading them to vote for the sales tax and other measures in interest of the odious political ring.

Chandler gave the people the right to vote by giving them a primary over the opposition of Laffoon, where before candidates were selected by a hand-picked convention. If it had not been for Chandler, Mr. Brown said, Tom Rhea would have been the only Democratic candidate out, and the people would have had no choice in casting their votes.

family resided. Their many friends in this community regret to learn of her death.

Mrs. Fain had been in poor health for some time, but was believed improved when she and her daughter, Ailene went to visit her sister. Her death came as a shock and surprise.

STEVE WILEY SPEAKS AT CAYCE SUPPER

Steve Wiley, well known attorney of Fulton, and foe to the sales tax, spoke at Cayce Thursday night in behalf of A. B. "Happy" Chandler, Democratic nominee for governor of Kentucky. A good crowd had gathered at this little city which is located in the heart of Fulton county on the Hickman-Fulton highway, and enjoyed an ice cream supper.

Mr. Wiley made a very interesting and point talk, in which he gave his reasons for supporting Chandler, and favoring his platform in his race for governor.

C. W. RICH FALLS ASLEEP AT WHEEL; RIBS BROKEN

C. W. Rich while enroute from his home in Moscow, Tenn., to Fulton Sunday afternoon went asleep at the wheel of his car, which left the highway between Troy and Union City to pile up in a ditch. Mr. Rich sustained a fractured left arm and other injuries, and was taken to a hospital at Union City.

His daughter, Miss Virginia Myers was visiting the Misses Whaynes at their home on Third-st here, and he was coming for her when the accident occurred.

CAYCE FARMER SAVED BY HEROIC SHEPHERD

Never argue with a woman or a mule that wants to "mother" a little calf.

These are words of wisdom and a mighty good rule to follow, in the opinion of Albin Mabry, who sustained three broken ribs and other injuries when he attempted to rescue a calf from a horse lot where a mule tried to adopt a calf that had strayed from its mother's side.

Tuesday morning Mr. Mabry was awakened by the pitiful and frightened moaning of one of his cows. He went out to investigate, and found that the small calf had gotten through a broken wire fence into a lot with a large mule. As he picked up the calf to carry it from the lot back to its mother who stood on the other side of the fence anxiously watching, Mr. Mabry was attacked by the big mule.

He was knocked down and pawed by the mule, and his fine shepherd dog saved his life by a fierce attack upon the mule when he saw his master in danger. It was one of the most curious episodes ever to occur in this vicinity, and the heroic efforts of the dog saved the life of Mr. Mabry who resides near Cayce.

PAUL AND DIZZY WILL APPEAR IN UNION CITY

Above is pictured those famous Dean brothers, Pizzy and Daffy who will perform with other regular St. Louis Cardinals, World's champions and contenders for the National League honors this year, in a game with the Union City Greyhounds in Union City, at 4 P. M. this afternoon.

YOUNG LADY WAS INJURED WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO TRUCK

Tuesday night near midnight while returning from Reelfoot lake on a Boy Scout hayride, Miss Elizabeth Allen, 14, daughter of Mrs. Ethel Allen of Fourth-st, was seriously injured, when the truck on which the group were riding was struck by a hit-and-run driver.

Miss Allen suffered a broken leg five inches above the ankle, and a severely crushed ankle. She was rushed to the Fulton hospital for treatment.

Miss Jean Genuing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Genuing and Miss Betty Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Norris and Reginald Johnson were also injured, receiving cuts and bruises on their legs and feet.

The car which struck the truck along the side did not stop, but continued on down the highway a short distance, where it was found abandoned, the driver having fled the scene of the accident.

Miss Allen is reported resting much better, and it is believed that amputation of the foot will not be necessary unless serious infection occurs.

DEATHS

George Combs, 68, died Friday afternoon at five o'clock at his home on Vine-st, following an extended illness. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at Winstead-Jones & Co., funeral parlor by Rev. C. F. Wolf. Interment was at Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Combs was well known in Fulton, and had many friends here who extended sympathy to the bereaved family. He was born in Ruffin, N. C., and came here with his parents when a child. In 1887 he was united in marriage to Miss Hattie Knight to which union three children were born, two of which survive. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Lottie McManis of Cleveland, O., Mrs. Jennie Arnett, Dallas, Texas; one sister, Mrs. Nellie Franklin, Memphis; one brother, H. C. Combs, of Newbern, Tenn.

Thomas H. Gardner, 67, died at his home in Water Valley, near the hour of midnight Friday, following a stroke of paralysis about a week ago. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at the Mt. Zion church.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. L. G. Walters of Fulton and Mrs. Clem Cooley now of Hickman but formerly of Fulton and three sons, all of Water Valley. Mr. Gardner was well known in the Water Valley community, and for many years had operated a sawmill.

Mrs. Fannie Woodard, 80, died Sunday night at the Fulton hospital, and funeral services were conducted Monday morning at the Mt. Vernon church by Rev. Walker. Interment followed in the cemetery with Winstead-Jones & Co., in charge.

Mrs. Woodard resided with her son Jesse at his home on Fourth-st. Several days before her death, she fell and broke her hip, which injury caused her a great deal of suffering she was unable to stand.

She is survived by her brother, Lee Harper of Crutchfield; her son, Jesse of Fulton and one grand-daughter.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY DREW BIG CROWD TO CRUTCHFIELD FRIDAY

It was a grand and glorious occasion last Friday afternoon and night, when the people gathered at Crutchfield to enjoy an ice cream supper, and hear political speakers outline their platforms and claims for various states offices.

W. R. Butt, well known Fulton man, opened the afternoon's speaking program by introducing J. E. Hannephin of Fulton, who is a candidate for State Representative from Fulton and Hickman counties. Mr. Hannephin, who among other things voiced his position to re-enactment of the sales tax, spoke briefly about the problems that the next Legislature will face.

Mr. Hannephin introduced Brady M. Stewart, county judge of McCracken county, who addressed the crowd in interest of A. B. "Happy" Chandler, Democratic candidate for governor of Kentucky. He said there were only two men in the governor's race, and declared a vote for any other would be wasted. Condemning Laffoon and Rhea in the same breath, referring to them as the King and the Crown Prince. He said Chandler stands firm against the sales tax because the people do not deserve to be burdened with this tax.

Between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock, ice cream, cold drinks and refreshments were served. Will Hampton of near Fulton, and Dee L. McNeill of Hickman, were present and spoke briefly in interest of their candidacies for State Representative from this district.

Flavius B. Martin of Mayfield spoke in interest of Thos. S. Rhea, candidate for governor. He said that the sales tax law if re-enacted, should be changed and modified, and outlined Rhea's policies.

W. R. Butt, who is a staunch Chandler supporter, closed the speaking program, voicing his reasons for opposing Rhea and supporting Chandler.

"LES MISERABLES" NEW SCREEN DRAM, ORPHEUM

Fredric March and Charles Laughton play fugitive and urser in the most celebrated of all fictional man-hunts in Darryl Zanuck's 20th Century Production of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," which begins a two day run at the Orpheum theatre Thursday.

March is seen as Hugo's ill-starred young hero, Jean Valjean, who spends five bitter years on a French prison ship for stealing a loaf of bread and then becomes a fugitive from justice by violating his parole. Laughton is Javert, the fanatical detective, whose devotion to the letter of the law drives him relentlessly along the reformed ex-convict's trail.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the distinguished English stage and screen star, shares stellar honors with the pair as the benevolent Bishop Bienvenu, whose faith starts the degraded galley slave on the road toward a better life.

Rochelle Hudson, Frances Drake and John Beal are featured in the supporting cast which also includes such distinguished players as Florence Eldridge, who is Mrs. Fredric March in private life, Jessie Ralph, Ferdinand Gottschalk and little Marilynne Knowlden, who played Madge Evans as a child in "David Copperfield."

WALLIS MAKES STRONG APPEAL IN SPEECH IN PADUCAH LAST MONDAY NIGHT

Paducah, Ky., July 30.—Frederick A. Wallis, Democratic candidate for Governor, spoke to one of the largest crowds ever assembled in Paducah last evening at Hook's Park.

Mr. Wallis was met on his arrival in Paducah by 150 autos composed of members of the Christian Endeavor Societies of Paducah and other friends. These cars traveled throughout the city and through their loud speakers advertised the speaking that took place later in the evening.

Rev. Ladd, Pastor at Paducah, introduced Mr. Wallis, while W. H. Brizendine and other prominent West Kentucky Democrats took part on the program.

Mayor Scott Lemon of Mayfield predicted in his speech that Wallis would sweep the West Kentucky counties with a record majority. Mr. Lemon is the Wallis campaign manager west of the river in eight counties.

Mr. Lemon contended that Mr. Wallis would receive thousands of votes which are termed as silent votes.

COTTON REDUCTION CONTRACT SIGNERS TO BENEFIT BY CROP FAILURE INSURANCE

Cotton acreage reduction contract signers of Fulton County who signed contract applications to reduce less than one hundred (100 percent) and who later signed the contract to reduce one hundred percent (100 percent) because of the fact that they were prevented from growing cotton due to the unfavorable weather conditions are to be allowed to make application for cotton tax-exemption certificates as a failure crop insurance.

Each such producer may call at the office of the County Agent not later than August 10th and submit his application for certificates and at the same time make a statement showing the reason for crop failure. Such application and statement will be reviewed by the County Committee and if approved certificates will be issued by the State Allotment Board for such farm.

Contract signers who are not eligible to reduce one hundred percent (100 percent) but who may have been prevented from planting cotton because of weather conditions are eligible to make application for Bankhead certificates also. Their case will likewise be reviewed by the County Committee.

YOUR PRIVILEGE

Election time is here—and a duty lies before you.

You have been listening to pre-election talk, and even joined in with your opinion of candidates, of their platforms and what should be done to better conditions of government.

But now the important test comes when you go to the polls to vote Saturday, August 3rd, when it is your privilege to exercise your right as an American citizen to aid in the selection of able, efficient and honest men to office.

If you fail in your responsibilities as a citizen and do not vote, then you have no room to complain about your government. Only by voting can the people control their government.

Whether it is the state, district or city races—you should study the list of candidates and appraise their qualifications. Then, after you have weighed well the merits of the claims of each candidate, go to the polls and cast your vote for the men you honestly believe best qualified to serve the best interests of the people.

Kentucky has many grave problems to work out in the next few years, and it is highly important that the business of our state be run in a conservative, business-like manner. The men we elect for governor and state representatives are of vital importance to the welfare of the state. The same rule applies to our city administration.

A NATIVE SON

Feeling that the Democrats of the First District are particularly interested in Garth K. Ferguson, a native son of the First District and candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics, we call your attention to the fact that he will speak over WPAD at Paducah, Friday night from 8 to 8:15 P. M.

We might remark in passing it is well known that Garth Ferguson has made a brilliant record as Secretary of the Kentucky State Fair and if elected Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics, he will reflect honor and credit to the Democratic Party as a whole, and West Kentuckians especially have reason to be proud to be able to vote for their own Garth Ferguson for the office he seeks.

THE HOLE IN YOUR POCKET

Press dispatches from Washington state that in the last twelve months $7,375,000,000 has been spent, which, with the $7,100,000,000 that was spent the preceding year, makes a total peacetime record spending of $14,475,000,000 for the past two years. Money has been spent twice as fast as it has been collected from the taxpayers. But all the spendings and all the borrowed money must eventually be extracted from the taxpayers' pockets.

At the end of the new fiscal year, it is estimated the national debt will be approximately $35,000,000,000, or a per capita debt of $750 on every man, woman and child in the country.

These figures are so staggering in size that one cannot grasp them. But the individual tax bills of various kinds that will soon be coming due, can be readily understood by every taxpayer whose pockets will be emptied in order to pay them.

Colonel Robinson, of the Yakima, Wash., Republic, in answering a "reactionary" citizen who asserted that taxpayers should have a voice in how their money is spent and that it should be spent as economically as possible, said:

"The idea that tax money should be spent economically is just as far out of date as the other. If tax money were spent economically, there wouldn't be more than half of it spent, and that fact alone is sufficient to condemn the idea. The prevailing thought is to spend public funds uneconomically, so that more funds can be raised and spent, thus putting more money into circulation and increasing the purchasing power of the people."

Sarcastic as is this paragraph of the Colonel's, it states a distressingly plain truth. Its lucidity is positively flawless. Some day the people will wake up to the fact that they pay the bill for all "political presents" that are given to them.

A PRAISEWORTHY PROJECT

From what we have read and heard about the President's "Youth Project" it seems to have much to commend it. Mr. Roosevelt has set aside $50,000,000 out of his Work Relief Fund to help young people between the ages of 16 and 25. The announced objectives are:

1. To find employment in private industry for unemployed youth.
2. To train and retain young people for industrial, technical and professional employment opportunities.
3. To provide for continuing attendance at high school and college.
4. To provide work relief upon projects designed to meet the needs of youth.

Whether or not this project succeeds in its announced objectives, it is at least a commendable attempt. Its success or failure will depend upon a great many factors, but particularly upon the intelligence and ability with which it is administered. It would be very easy for it to become merely another dole, and too many people drawing money without giving anything in return, as matters stand now.

This "Youth Project," as we understand it, has for its main purpose the assistance of young people to develop qualities of mind and character. No such development is possible unless the recipient of the benefits gives as much as he or she takes.

We can imagine no greater disservice to young people in their formative stage of life than to encourage them in the idea that the world owes them a living, or that there is nothing shameful in taking money without giving adequate return for it.

The new "Youth Project," under highly skilled administration, might become the greatest character-building enterprise ever undertaken. But it also might easily become a character destroyer.

AMERICA CARRIES ON

It would be hard to find a man of intelligence who could undertake with confidence to point out what goal our social order is heading for, or to foretell the results of the tremendous activities of our Federal Government.

We hear on one hand expressions of dissatisfaction, apprehension, and even despair. On the other hand, many see steps toward a perfect state, which they believe is being created under the New Deal. One group says the country is heading for ruin; the other group believes that we are on the road to security and contentment.

We think both of these points of view are wrong. We don't believe that either catastrophe or the millennium lies in our immediate future. What we do believe is that the United States to America will go on just as it has been going on for a century and a half. The pace may be somewhat accelerated, the burdens of taxation may impinge upon different individuals and groups than in the past, public enterprise may take the place of private enterprise in many fields, but on the whole we do not believe that our children and grandchildren will find America very much different as a place in which to live than we an our fathers and grandfathers have found it.

We say this because we do not think that human nature changes materially in one or two or a dozen generations, and we do not believe that the temper and the fundamental spirit of the American people are going to be permanently changed by any political devices. After the making of new laws and regulations has come to an end, the people will pay no attention to such new rules of conduct as do not suit them, and will more or less observe the laws which, after a reasonable experience with them, prove to be workable.

That is the way the American people have conducted themselves way they will continue to conduct in the past and we think it is the themselves in the future.

A BULWARK OF CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

It has often been said that the greatest safeguard to liberty and constitutional government in the United States is the country press. No nation is so well covered with local newspapers.

The thousands of publishers of these local papers generally own and edit their own publications. They are independent and express their own opinions. They are among our highest type of citizens and have a thorough understanding of the principles upon which our government is founded, regardless of their party beliefs. In the great majority they are broadminded enough to put the welfare of the nation and security for life, liberty and property ahead of any party prejudices.

That is why the country press of the United States is the greatest champion of the rights and liberties of all the people, as set forth in the fundamental law for our land.

If anyone doubts this, he has only to read the editorial comment of editors from the four corners of the nation today. To illustrate, the editor of the News, published in the typical country town of Ruskin, Nebraska, in a recent issue, in commenting on the growing tax bills and bureaucratic tendencies in government, says:

"We say, look out! When you get more than half the people on the federal, state, county municipal or other public payroll, then you are going to have bureaucracy right, both at home and in Washington. As we have said before, it is not just what we are doing now, but the direction in which we are heading that counts."

BUILDING TO RESIST FIRE

During the past few years there has been an encouraging increase in the number of cities considering adoption up-to-date building codes. The need for modern building codes in towns of all sizes can hardly be exaggerated. Properly built structures not only resist the start of fire, but tend to hold it to a minimum of damage once it has started. Proof of that lies in the fact that during the last year or so the loss caused by the average fire has been less than in the past.

SANE SAFETY MEASURES

There are three factors involved in solving the automobile accident problem—Education, Engineering and Enforcement. Enforcement represents the weakest link in the chain, and the following suggestions are offered for strengthening and improving our legal machinery for coping with reckless and incompetent drivers.

First, every state should enact the "standard" drivers' license law, providing for a thorough examination of all applicants for licenses.

Second, there should be more suspending and revoking of licenses of drivers who are congenitally unable to operate their cars safely.

Third, separate traffic courts should be established, whose purpose should be educational as well as punitive.

Fourth, traffic schools should be set up for violators of driving laws under the supervision of the police department. This has been done in several cities, and the work is meeting with great success.

Fifth, there should be more adequate protection for pedestrians—who are the worst sufferers from dangerously driven automobiles—such as walkways and overhead and underground passages across congested intersections.

Sixth, a Citizens' Advisory Committee should be created in every city to co-operate with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles in an effort to further increase the efficiency of traffic law enforcement, and to educate and interest the public in safety work.

These suggestions are simple and workable, and they can be put into effect in any town or city. They point the way toward saving thousands of lives that are now needlessly destroyed by automobiles each year.

DIFFUSED WEALTH

In spite of constant demagogic claims to the effect that the wealth of this country is concentrated in the hands of the few who exploit the many, the statistics paint a different picture. The fact is that the wealth of America is widely diffused—probably more widely than in any other major power. For example, incomes of $100,000 per year and over constitute but one per cent of the nation's total income. Salaries and wages constitute 85 per cent. The remaining 14 percent is represented by return on capital—in other words, by dividends and interest on securities, the bulk of which are held in small quantities by persons of moderate means.

Yet a question of the moment is that of more exorbitant taxes on large incomes, inheritances, gifts and corporation earnings.

People cannot be taxed into prosperity. They can be taxed into poverty and the quickest way to do it is to destroy the wealth and savings which have made possible inventions, machinery and enterprise that give employment to labor.

America's hope for the future lies in the existence of capital—which simply means the factories, the industries, the stores and all the other productive agencies that produce jobs, payrolls, income.

EUROPEAN STRIFE

Students of European affairs have no lack of material these days—material that is both absorbing and appalling.

Top in interest is the Italian-Ethiopian imbroglio, which progresses steadily toward war—most observers think actual hostilities will start in the fall. Premier Mussolini does most of his speaking from gun-carriages at present—and his remarks are the most war-like in post war history. On the other side of the fence, black Emperor Haile Selassie pledges the life of every one of his subjects to the defense of Ethiopian independence. In the meantime, foreigners are evacuating Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital, on the advice of their consular representatives.

If war comes, Ethiopia will have two advantages—it will be able to muster an army of several million men accustomed to the almost incredibly hard country in which they live. (A recent book on Ethiopia bears the title, "The Hell Hole of Creation," and visitors to Ethiopia say that description is not exaggerated.) On the other hand, it has no artillery worthy of the name only a few out of date airplanes, and even lacks modern repeating military rifles.

Italy is of course equipped in up to the minute military style, with the latest in machine guns, tanks, field guns, rifles, gas, etc. Military authorities are confident she will win—though at a terrific cost of life, and over a longish period of time.

The problem is further complicated now by the appearance of Japan with a warning to Italy that Nippon intends to keep her Ethiopian markets. Japan is as much a first-class military power as Italy—and Mussolini doesn't want trouble with her.

This Means Everybody In Your County

It Is Concerning Your State Fair and What It Means To You and Your County

Your county excels in certain distinctive particulars which might be of special interest to the thousands of people who will be in attendance at your State Fair in Louisville, week of September 9-11.

It is the great show window for displaying Kentucky's leading products to the outside world and it officials have planned this year the greatest opportunity in the Fair's history for your county to display its products in the various exhibit departments, or in the form of a special display booth in the mammoth Merchants and Manufacturer Building.

Your county might excel in certain types of cattle, horses, sheep, hogs, poultry, antiques, needlework, products of the garden

'The Divorce Court Murder'

By Milton Propper

NINTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS—Barbara Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man, is murdered as she waits alone in a side room to testify in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland. She was to have testified for the husband, a friend, who was defendant in the action. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case from police headquarters. His preliminary investigation disclosed that both Mr. and Mrs. Rowland had gathered evidence against the other of infidelity. The will of Mrs. Rowland's first husband directed her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard, to handle the estate until she remarried when the new husband was to come into control. Detective Rankin finds motives and the evidence of guilt for the murder of Mrs. Keith, leading to the doors of virtually all of the principals involved. These principals are, the two Rowlands, Mr. Willard, Mr. Keith, husband of the murdered woman, Hugh Campbell, paramour of Mrs. Rowland, and his underworld confederates.—NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"How about the gloves?" The detective spoke eagerly. "Any clue to who owns them?"

"Again I couldn't swear to it," the expert said, "not without trying them on all the men here. But personally, I've little doubt about the only pair of hands here with such a wide palm and short pudgy fingers that could wear a seven and three-quarters comfortably."

"Who do they belong to, Johnson?" asked Rankin.

"Harvey Willard, Tommy—Mrs. Rowland's brother, who, I understand, denies ever going into that room."

The furor Rankin expected the death of Barbara Keith to produce was fully realized in the early editions of Thursday's papers. They made capital of the crime in black screaming headlines, and half of every front page in the city devoted itself as much to the facts behind Mrs. Rowland's suit as to the murder. There were articles about the manufacturer's business success and social position, and it was recalled, with some relish, that before her marriage Mrs. Keith was Barbara Webb, an unknown manicurist in a beauty shop in Detroit.

Yet the death of material information about the dead woman or her life was immediately and significantly apparent. The detective read the accounts at breakfast.

At his desk in the Central Detective Bureau, Captain Thomas greeted Rankin from behind his newspaper.

"Any news, Captain?" the latter asked his superior. "Have you any word from Gordon or a message from Mr. Keith from Washington?"

"No, I haven't seen Gordon this morning," Thomas replied, "and Mr. Keith hasn't shown up or got in touch with us."

At that instant, Johnson entered with some papers and addressed Rankin eagerly.

"I think I've made a discovery, Tommy!" he declared. "I've just finished comparing the prints I took with those I found. There's one set that doesn't belong to anyone in the office yesterday and can't be explained in any reasonable way."

"A strange set?" But what good is that, if we can't tell who it belongs to?"

"That's just it, I've been able to trace them."

The expert paused dramatically and Rankin asked, "Who was it?"

"In our hands several times," Johnson nannounced triumphantly. "Mitch Riley, alias Tony Lynch, alias a half dozen other names."

It was Rankin turn to become excited.

"Mitch Riley?" Recognition rang in his startled tone. "Thug, second-story man and rumrunner. Are you positive three's no mistake, Johnson?"

Johnson extended the paper he had brought. "Here, you can see for yourself the prints are identical."

From personal encounters, the detective was acquainted with Mitch Riley. Originally he came from New York, a hoodlum, ex-pug and jack of many crimes. His criminal career began fifteen years before.

His photographs disclosed a typical felon's features, with a bullet head, low forehead and closely cropped brown hair. He was about thirty-five, he had a flat nose and heavy lips. He was strongly built, broad-shouldered and, according to the record, six feet tall. Even Rankin's inexperienced eye could note the similarity of the finger patterns Johnson was comparing.

"It looks damn suspicious," Rankin commented grimly. "He must be brought in to explain, if we have to turn the whole city inside out to locate him."

Before they could depart, the detective Gordon arrived to present the results of his hunt for Hugh Campbell. Finally he had located him at the exclusive and ornate St. Andrew Hotel, on Broad Street. From the registry, it appeared Campbell had been stopping there for two weeks—ever since Friday, May 20th. The difficulty now was that he had not been seen since he went out yesterday; he had not returned to the hotel last night. At the same time, since his baggage remained in his rooms and he had not checked out, he apparently intended to return.

Rankin had just turned away from the cabinet when the furious pealing of the doorbell sent him hastening into the hall. The butler preceded him to the door.

A man Rankin recognized as Mortimer Keith pushed breathlessly past, coat and hat in hand. Even in that moment, when on the verge of a breakdown, the man whose likeness the papers carried revealed his aristocratic breeding.

He looked so exhausted that Rankin motioned him to a chair.

"Sit down, Mr. Keith, and take it easy," The detective spoke sympathetically. "My name is Rankin— from Headquarters. I regret it's my task to investigate your wife's unfortunate death."

Mortimer Keith raised his head as wearily. "It's utterly incredible," he declared hoarsely. "When I first read the news this morning I could only pray some mistake had been made. And I hurried back home as quickly as possible."

"You've only returned from Washington, Mr. Keith?"

"By plane, Mr. Rankin," the other replied with a visible effort to control his emotions. "I bought a paper while I breakfasted at my hotel, and the instant I grasped the terrible thing, I hired a special plane."

"At what hotel did you put up?" (Continued on Page Four) cabinet he saw, among other preparations, several bottles labeled "Pyramidon." This he recognized as a medicine in tablet form for headaches. According to their tags most of the bottles were purchased from local druggists. But the faded and yellow label on one empty bottle bore the words, State Hospital for Women, Allerton, Indiana.

South Gains Equal of Five Niagara Falls in Four Months

At present, the power of Niagara Falls has been developed to harness approximately 1,000,000 horse-power. This power contributes wealth to the nation. In the first four months of this year, the Ford dealers of the south delivered in the south new 1935 Ford V-8's with a total horse-power of 7,641,000. This contribution to the available power in the south is equal to five Niagara Falls. It is a vital contribution to the steady march of southern recovery.

SOUTH GAINS IN POWER RESOURCES

Resources Reach Colossal Proportions

In the early days of the south, southern pioneers utilized slave labor for the material progress of the south. This slave labor combined with the power of the beasts of burden, the mule, the horse, and the ox, was practically the only power resources to be harnessed in those early days for farm labor, factory labor, and transportation.

At the end of the Civil War, the south was still dependent upon the primitive and limited forms of power. After the Civil War three great events transpired to later develop the enormous power resources in the south. First, the steam engine was developed and our railroads grew. Second, steam-electric and hydro-electric power was developed, and the south attracted industry. Third, the internal combustion engine was perfected, and the south was connected with a complete network of roads.

Today, the southern states produce a billion kilowatt hours of hydro-electric energy a month, equivalent to the labor of 1,750,000 slaves for a full eight-hour day. The south produces an additional billion kilowatt hours of electrical energy, produced from fuel.

In the first four months of 1935, approximately 90,000 new Ford V-8's were sold in the south. These 90,000 modern automobiles added 7,641,000 horsepower to the available horsepower of the south. This is equal to the development of five Niagara Falls. A farmer, used to drawing comparisons of modern events to the everyday life of the farm, has said: "The electrical power of the south is equal to the labor of 9,000,000 men in the field." The available power of the new Ford V-8's delivered in the south each month is equal to 1,600,000 mules.

Man's quest to develop the south into a land of abundant life marches steadily on. The abundance of all forms of power in the south is the greatest proof of southern progress.

THE STORY OF THE CONSTITUTION

THE CONSTITUTION DRAFTED IN SECRET CONVENTION

The delegates knew before they met that certain things had to be done. They stated those in the Preamble. "To establish justice." There were no courts in existence that had jurisdiction across state lines. Only the "more perfect union" could "insure domestic tranquility," for states were already making threatening gestures at each other.

"To provide for the common defense." The experience of the Revolution had taught them the necessity of united action in war.

"To promote the general welfare." It must be remembered that the Preamble of the Constitution is merely a statement of purpose and intent. The courts have many times ruled that no powers are granted to the Federal Government under it. Many efforts have been made to construe the declaration of purpose of promoting the general welfare as a blanket authorization to the central government to do whatever, in its judgment, might tend to that end.

That is not the case. The Constitution which came out of four months of deliberation specifically delegated certain powers and strictly limited the Federal Government to those powers. The states did not delegate broad authority to do whatever it pleased, even "to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity," as the Preamble states. The Constitution's purpose, except as the central authority of the "more perfect union" followed the precise rules and obeyed the rigid restrictions imposed in the body of the document.

The sessions of the Convention were held behind closed doors. Every delegate was pledged not to discuss the proceedings with outsiders. All notes, memoranda, and documents which might give an inkling of what was going on were carefully guarded. The friction between many of the thirteen newly liberated nations was so intense, and political animosities ran so high, that the work of the Convention might easily have been ruined by the premature disclosure of its deliberations.

The only official record of the Convention recorded merely the items agreed upon, clause by clause. The only report of the debates was in notes made by the delegates themselves. The Convention was thrown into consternation one day, when James Madison reported that his notes of the previous session were missing. A frantic search of the hall was made. The delegates went to bed that night in a state of great anxiety. The next morning, however, Mr. Madison reported that he had found the missing notes in a pocket of the coat he had worn the day before.

There was great uncertainty as to whether any document which the Convention could draft would serve to hold the states together. Doctor Franklin voiced the apprehension of all the delegates. The back of the presiding officer's chair was ornamented with a carved device representing the sun, the rays shooting out in all directions. Whether that was a rising sun or a setting sun, only the result to the deliberations there could determine, said Doctor Franklin.

The Kentucky State Fair, through the packer type special class of its swine show, is inviting farmers to exhibit good hogs without special fitting or preparation. The purpose is to stimulate interest in the exhibition of the kind of hogs that packers want, or the kind that sells best on the regular fat hog market.

Just select thrifty animals, in good breeding condition; they need not carry any surplus flesh. A packer buyer will be one of the judges. A total of $555 in cash and a trophy will be divided among the winners. There will be classes for both males and females of the Poland-China, Duroc-Jersey and Hampshire breeds.

Are YOU HAPPY After Meals

Or Do Gas on Stomach and Sour Stomach make you Miserable?

Too much food, or the wrong kind of food, too much smoking, too much beer, make your body over-acid. Then you have distress after eating, gas on stomach, heartburn, sour stomach. ALKA-SELTZER relieves these troubles promptly, effectively, harmlessly. Use Alka-Seltzer for Headache, Colds, Fatigue, "Morning After Feeling," Muscular, Sciatic and Rheumatic Pains.

Alka-Seltzer makes a sparkling alkaline drink. As it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

Alka-Seltzer tastes like carbonated mineral spring water—works like magic. Contains no dangerous drugs... does not depress the heart... is not laxative.

Get a drink at your Drug Store Soda Fountain. Keep a package in your home medicine cabinet.
