NUMBER TWELVE

COUNCILMAN LOWE URGES CITY TO OBTAIN FEDERAL GRANT AND LOAN TO REMODEL AND IMPROVE OLD WATER WORKS PLANT

The following proposal and explanation of facts was made before the Fulton City Council Monday night by Councilman Lowe. The News has interviewed by Mr. Lowe and presents here a full account of the matter for the people of the community. Mr. Lowe states that he has spent several weeks in investigating the plan, and believes that the City should take advantage of the 45 percent grant and 55 percent loan now available through the Federal Government. He points out that the old water works here is fast approaching the time when it will be necessary to install a new plant, and urges that immediate investigation and action be taken in safeguarding the water supply of Fulton, while Federal grant and aid can be obtained.

Now, in view of the fact that electricity is soon to be available, and in view of the fact that PWA funds are available for municipal projects, at 45 percent grant and 55 percent refund, and due to the fact that the City has on its payroll a City Engineer who can and will work in connection with the Kentucky Utility Company engineer, at no cost to the City, I wish to recommend to this City Council that the Water Committee be instructed to get the necessary surveys made by the above named engineers, and that a project be turned in at once to take care of this improvement, in the interest of the City.

At the present time we are pumping water by the old method, known as "direct pumping." This is done with machinery that is out of date and badly worn, and at a great expense to the City. Water is lifted from the wells by means of blowing air into the wells, and forcing the water out. This process is very expensive—First, Three men are employed at a total cost of $335.00 a month. These men fire two large boilers with coal. The coal costs the City about $700.00 a month. The boilers have to be kept up and in good condition. This costs money. The steam thus generated goes to two steam engines, that pump air into a container. These engines are old and the repairs and upkeep cost the City quite a sum. A steam engine uses a large quantity of lubricating oil. Another pump is used for pumping water to the city mains, in order to keep sufficient pressure. The probable total cost, including labor, coal, oil, repairs, replacement, waste, lights etc runs around twelve to thirteen hundred dollars per month.

Now to city and modernize this plant and pump by the modern inexpensive centrifugal force method I would suggest that we go across the street from the present water works building and erect a building sufficient to house the necessary equipment. I have reliably told that a house 20 feet wide by 20 feet long (is sufficient). Then install the motors and pumping machine, to be run by electricity. This, I am told by competent men who have electrical knowledge, will use approximately 45 to 50 thousand K. W. hours a month.

Then erect a water tower or a suspended tank to give pressure to the mains. This will abolish three jobs at a cost of $335.00 per month or $4,020.00 per year. It will also eliminate 30 cars of coal a year at an approximate cost of $700 per month or $8,400 per year, and discharge a total expenditure of approximately $15,600.00 per month or $187,200.00 per year. A net gain, or reduction in operating costs, of $6,000 per year.

If we get TVA power, it will further cut our operating costs and the City will make even more. It will cost the City about $18,000 to do all of this, including the suspended tank or tower and all new machinery. Of this amount, the government will give us 45 percent or $8,100, which will leave us owing the government $9,900, at a small rate of interest for a period of 20 years. It might be possible for the City to pay off this debt, with the savings of $6,000 per year from the old method operating costs, in one and a half years. But we are allowing 18 years or 15 years, remitted 20 years if we need it.

But to clear the indebtedness in two, or five years, we would have 18 or 15 years respectively, in which to return a profit to the City. In round figures, the sum of $90,000 could be returned to our City Treasury in that time, in addition to the profit that this plant now earns.

L. J. GREEN BUYS SMITH'S CAFE HERE

Albert Smith, who for 36 years had operated a cafe in Fulton, sold his restaurant to Leonard J. Green who took charge last Sunday. Altho the cafe has changed hands it will continue to bear the name, Smith's Cafe.

Mr. Green who was an employee of the Illinois Central System for 26 years in Paducah, from which he was fired a few years ago on account of an accident, had been connected with a restaurant in Paducah for some three years. Mr. Green plans no immediate changes in the restaurant but he will continue to render pleasing service to his patrons.

Mr. Smith has made no plans as to what he expects to do in the future, other than that he contemplates taking a long-needed vacation for a while.

HICKMAN SEAWALL HOLDS BACK WATERS

The Mississippi River reached the height of 52 feet at Hickman and is still rising, with the probable level of 56 feet expected. If that point is reached it will necessitate the breaking of the levee on the Missouri side to prevent the river reaching higher flood stages. Meanwhile travel on Highway 94 between Hickman and Fulton has been rendered impossible because of the water over the road, and a bridge has broken away from its foundation, thus causing travel from the main road to several places in the county to be restricted. The sea-wall at Hickman has proved to be very beneficial to the people of Hickman and the river's about four feet upon it. This shows that if the sea-wall were not here the water would be about four feet deep on Clinton-st and in the stores on the north side of the street.

Sight-seers visiting Hickman are many, and some businesses are being rushed to serve these visitors.

Took a little time to think, Then in his basket cast a look. An egg for each little boy and girl, A gay May flower, too. Until his head was in a whirl, And he had more to choose. A nest was found at Alice's feet, When she opened the door next day. Bunny had been while she was asleep, But now he was far away.

These present Phils hustle. In marked contrast to their Shibe park rivals, they seem always striving to do the most with their opportunities.

Yet—since Baker bowl has so frequently had a wearing effect upon other briskly-moving springtime favorites—baseball men here hold out little save sixth place hopes for the present team.

The others simply are not good hitters. The sparkling little Jose Gomez, who fields in a manner reminiscent of Hughey Critz (and who makes double plays far better), lacks the muscle.

Need Superior Pitching When Lacking Sluggers. Since no one of the catchers, Wilson, Bob Grace or Bill Atwood, the rookie, are notable sluggers, the Phils, thus, would seem to need superior pitching and airtight defense if they are to climb out of their accustomed depths.

Undoubtedly they will field better than most Baker bowl representatives have fielded in the past. Undoubtedly also one or two veteran pitchers are improved, while there are recruits whose forthcoming efforts can be noted with prayerful admiration.

Bucky Walters' fast ball makes the reformer infielder a subject of praise whenever other players discuss the team. Joe Bowman now knows how to slow up on the batter and can handle other trick stuff better than when he was a Giant.

Among the youngsters there is Passo Passeau, reluctantly given up by the Pirates in the Todd deal. He is one of the most eminent of strike-out artists, having fanned 239 batters in 244 innings while hurling for Charleston in 1934.

Along with Kelleher, a sturdy young Pennsylvania taxpayer who has a tidy curve and fields almost as well as Fred Fitzsimmons, he seems to need only the leavening experience of another season in the minors. When they have had that they may rank along with Curt Davis in Philadelphia.

That is, of course, if the aging Davis is around Philadelphia at the time. Right now Curt, bigger and better than ever, is the star of the Phils. If he stays with them his pitching may—although the chance is no more than a slight one—put them into fifth place. Yet, swell pitcher that he is, there is reason to believe that his departure would be the club's best break.

With Davis in their lineup the Cubs would be 4 to 1 to win the pennant. Fortified with the three or four good young men who could be obtained for him, the already improved Phils would be well advanced toward getting some place next year.

IF BREVITY ever gives up racing he should have a great future as a movie star or congressman. The bay three-year-old, who still would be the best-looking thing on the turf if he could not breeze Derby distances in record time, can act. Furthermore, he has that sort of appeal which puts the crowd on his side from the moment when he is first led into public view.

Extremator was so far from being a handsome horse that he was called "Old Bones." But the words always were uttered with affectionate admiration. Billy Kelly, Commander Ross's little sprinter who was so well loved by the crowd, was 18 years or so ago, had a similar way of commencing with his audience. Billy, who, like Brevity, had a great fondness for lumps of sugar, used to thrust his muzzle over the rail in search of stray offerings of sweetmeats.

Man O' War Had "It"; Was Champ of Champs

Man o' War, who knew his truth and never let anybody forget it even though success never went to his head, was another personality horse. Being a champion of champions and the Joe Louis of his day and business, he must occasionally have been bored by the feeble competition provided for him.

I mention such items of the past and present without any desire to compete with writers of the Black Beauty fables. There are people who regard horses as the dumbest of all animals (not excepting the $2 bettors who occupy their days in being touted onto hopeless long shots).

Wayne Wright is not given much to commencing with his fellows. A quiet, thoughtful lad, who is more in the manner of Santa than of the rough and ready Don Meade or the playful Silvio Council, he has confided to friends that Brevity can understand, react and communicate as well like a human.

Wright, who rode Top Row in the Santa Anita, also says that Brevity is the best horse of the year. Probably, at the moment, he is correct in that, too. Yet for the benefit of newspaper brethren who, short weeks ago, were beating the drums for Discovery and the N. Y. U. basketball team one or two things might be hinted at before the Kentucky classic is permitted to go by default.

Prize fighters who are seeking their fortunes down in Florida are getting little save sunburn this season. I saw two fat, heavyweights perform the other night before a crowd of 993. There were four knockdowns before the final convincer was put on in the fifth. The winner's end was $8, the loser's $7.

Miami would like to persuade one of the New York teams to train there next year but citizens still are putting the rap on Bill Terry. Their year-old complaint concerns the admission fees charged by the Giants.

Suggested sign for Shibe park, home of the ailing "A's"—"Abandon hope all ye who enter here." Although some umpires are nubbed a dozen times a season, Bill Klem has never been hit by a batted ball during his 35 years of being the best of them all.

Bill Dwyer, the hockey, night club and racing magnate who was so badly bent only a few months ago, is getting back into the "bet-a-million" class. Rumor mongers have it that Mike Jacobs' contract for promoting Joe Louis' fights contains a loop-hole by which the Brown Bomber can forsake the Hearst A. C. when the time comes to battle for the heavyweight title.

While training in Puerto Rico the Reds played against several teams well loaded with performers from the American negro leagues. They say that one hurrier could make Lefty Grove look like a slow-ball pitcher and that at least five other dusky lads would be $20,000 a year stars in the big time.

Buckie's Bad Break

COWBOYS who rode the Montana range knew him only as Buckie. That nickname is explained by the fact that he was just about the best rider that ever forked a bronc. Plenty of the wild ones "had horsey" but he just remarked slyly: "Had horsey, shouldn't go bucky bucky?" and stayed right in the saddle. But even the best of riders is likely to hit the dirt when his horse steps in a prairie dog hole while going at full speed.

The Duel That Failed

O. S. CLARK of Attica, Ind., went to the Texas Panhandle when it was wild and woolly. There he met Clay Allison, a famous gun-fighter who told him about the strangest duel he'd ever seen. It was between two frontiersmen who didn't like the color of each other's hair. So they agreed to fight it out with long rifles—stand back to back, then each take ten long steps, turn and begin firing.

BETTER BEER

THE busy prominent business man who is now putting his time in keeping some of the best beer better than bottled beer because beer in cans has to be subjected to a shorter period of pasteurization and therefore tastes much like draft beer but we are considering whether the new habits of beer haven't something to do with it.

Beer is behaving better than it used to. This mild beverage used to spend most of its time in bars, saloons, and much less of it went into homes. But now that it has become available in cans, and the home life has discovered how much less space it occupies than the old-fashioned bottles and that she will no longer have the bother of returning the containers, the tide has turned and more beer goes into homes.

What To Serve With It

In fact the tide has turned so strongly that many homewives find themselves up against the problem of finding out or remembering what food goes best when served with beer. She has doubtless evolved a list of her own, but she should not forget the good

RECEIVING APPLICATIONS

Applications for emergency crop loans for 1936 are now being received at the Office of the County Agent at Hickman by R. A. Towdy, Field Supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit Administration.

The emergency crop loans will be made only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The money loans will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1936 crops.

Farmers are not eligible for emergency crop loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank or other concern. Farmers will also be considered ineligible if they have an application pending with Resettlement Administration, have received assistance from that organization this year, or are indebted to the Resettlement Administration for an unpaid loan.

As in the past, the security for an emergency crop loan will consist of a first lien on the crop financed. Landlord or others having an interest in the crop to be financed will be required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Government of the Farm Credit Administration until the emergency crop loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at St. Louis, Mo.

New Ways With CORN

THE day has passed for the intelligent housewife when a can of corn was just a can of corn. She knows enough now to look at the label and select the style of corn best suited to the dish she has in mind. She knows that creamy style corn is scraped from the cob making a milky mixture, and that this is good for soups and cooked dishes. She knows that whole grain corn is cut from the cob in individual kernels and prefers it for succotash or served plain as a vegetable. She may even know that roasting ears of corn are now vacuum packed, four to a can, and that this corn has extremely small cobs and large deep sweet kernels. All she has to do with the ears is to heat them from three to five minutes in boiling water.

Recent Recipes

The best thing for her to know is some good recipes for corn dishes. Here are two recent ones in which whole grain canned corn should be used. Both are quantity recipes.

Corn Salad: Marinate the contents of three 12-ounce cans whole kernel corn and one and a half cups grated or finely-chopped raw carrot in one cup French dressing for an hour or so in the refrigerator. Add one cup shredded ripe olives and serve in a nest of lettuce. Serves twenty-four.

Corn Fritters: Chop contents of one 10 1/2-ounce can whole kernel yellow Bantam corn, or put through a food chopper. Add two well-beaten eggs and one-fourth cup milk. Then add two-thirds cup flour, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat or drippings in a skillet and brown on both sides. Good served with ketchup. Makes fifteen.

COLOR FLOODS SCREEN IN OUTDOOR DRAMA

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," at the Orpheum Theatre, Sunday and Monday. Continuous Show Starting at 1 P. M. During Engagement.

Sylvia Siney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda are co-starred in the "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," first natural-color picture of the outdoors which opens the Easter season at the Orpheum Theatre, Sunday and continues through Monday. A continuous show starting at 1 p. m. is being offered in order that everyone may see it.

Filmed almost entirely outdoors, against the background of lake and forest, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" represents an entirely new approach in the use of color on the screen. Using the new three-color Technicolor process, which gives full range to the entire spectrum, Walter Wagner, the producer and Henry Hathaway, the director, nevertheless concentrated on the unfolding of their story rather than upon the display of gaudy colors. Believing that past color productions suffered from too much emphasis on color, they relegated it to the position it holds in life—as a normal part of the background—and stressed instead their story values.

For Example

The case before the court had been going on for many days, and concerned a claim that involved wearisome technicalities. Things were not improved when a counsel made a speech of unnecessary length. He said: "Then, my lord, comes the question of bags; they might have been full bags or half-full bags; or, again, my lord, they might have been empty bags." "Or," interrupted the sorely tried judge, "they might have been wind-bags."

Easily Adjusted

Sereves had written a play, and it was his first. Incidentally at the same time it was the worst thing his friend the producer had read for some years. "Sorry my boy," remarked the producer, "but I couldn't do this—it's too long for the stage." "But, I say," expostulated Sereves, "surely a little thing like that could be fixed up—couldn't you lengthen the stage a bit?"

HOW ARE YOU TODAY

Cutting Down on Water

PRACTICALLY every overweight individual knows that potatoes, bread, and sugar help greatly to form fat in the body and accordingly these three items are usually eaten in very small amounts by those who are faithfully trying to reduce their weight. Most overweights also know that fat foods—cream, butter, fat meats, nuts, egg yolks—by preventing wear and tear in the tissues prevent loss of body weight.

However it would seem that there are still a great many overweights who do not seem to know that water in the body tissues adds greatly to the weight of the body, makes life uncomfortable, and interferes with the proper action of the organs and tissues just as does fat tissue itself. This fact is known to boxers, wrestlers, jockeys and others whose athletic endeavors call for speed, skill and endurance. The first thought of boxers, for instance, after being weighed in, is not food but water or other liquids, as the "drying out" process has left them terribly thirsty.

And when we remember that every pound of fat tissue can and does often hold over three pounds of water, we can readily realize what it means to the weight of the body if too much liquid is not used, as liquids feed water to the fat tissues of the body.

This is the reason that exercise is such a wonderful weight reducer. The exercise heats up the body, first gets rid of surplus water in the skin, then draws up the surplus water in the fat and then heats and removes some of the fat itself. And the great point about exercise is that the water and fat are gradually replaced by muscle tissue. This muscle tissue not only strengthens the individual and makes him willing to take more exercise, but muscle tissue does not hold extra water as does fat tissue.

Already Water-Logged.

The thought then for overweights is that while water is necessary to every one, and most of us do not drink enough of it, the overweight is already water-logged and does not need so much water. The overweight should drink some water whenever he feels the most, but a quarter to one-third of the usual amount is all that should be taken. Simply gargling the parched throat may help, between drinks.

Another point that is not remembered by overweights is that eating too much salt will prevent loss of weight, as it has been found that a grain of salt will hold seventy times its weight of water within the tissues. Thus a person can easily carry one to one and a half gallons of water in his body, kept there by salt, without showing swelling.

Use Small Quantities.

However, in overweights, anxious to rid themselves of water, salt must be taken in small quantities. This is a real hardship because overweights are usually good eaters and like their food well seasoned.

Now how are these overweights who have developed a liking or perhaps a craving for salt going to cut down on salt without too much hardship?

Dietitians tell us that raw vegetables do not require salt; that there is enough salt in them to make them "tasty."

"Meat can be made tasty without the use of salt by browning it quickly and adding only a little water. Natural condiments such as caraway seed, mustard, rutabaga, onions, cheese, butter, and lemon can be used."

"Sweet, cold fruit soups may be served. Leafy vegetables should not be boiled in water. Potatoes should be boiled with their skins on, for then the lack of salt is not so noticeable. Root vegetables should be boiled uncut."

Treating Varicose Veins

There seems to be a tendency towards varicose veins in some families, while other cases are due to overweight or to overlifting. When the veins are small, cause no discomfort, no swelling or other symptom they should be forgotten as there is no need for treatment. When, however, there is discomfort or the veins are unsightly, their removal by the injective treatment or by surgery must be considered.

Dr. J. S. Bobo, Gadsden, Ala., in the Alabama Medical Association Journal describes a method now in use to find out if treatment should be given. A tourniquet (tight band) is placed round the lower part of the leg just tight enough to obstruct the return flow of the blood in the veins just below the surface of the skin, and the patient is allowed to walk about the room for several minutes to observe if the deep veins are working notwithstanding this band around the thigh.

CARE OF JACKS DURING THE BREEDING SEASON

By W. S. Anderson

The jack should be prepared for the breeding season by extra care and feed. Exercise daily in an open paddock is essential. A one acre enclosure of bluegrass or other good pasture is ideal. A good plan is to have his stall in the enclosure in which he is fed grain and hay. The door of the stall should be kept open day and night except possibly in case of very cold weather and severe storms.

He should have an abundance of good hay, mixed clover or timothy is suitable. The grain fed should never be more than half corn. If oats is available little corn is necessary. Ground barley or brass added to oats or corn makes good feed. The jack, as a rule, needs less grain than a horse of equal weight, but he should have enough so that he is gaining weight at the beginning of the season, and enough to keep him from losing weight as the season goes on.

He should be handled carefully until he is gentle and obedient. The feet should be trimmed carefully at frequent intervals, but shoes should not be necessary. In case of abrasion when exercising or accident, the injury should be cared for at once. It should be cleaned, an antiseptic applied and bandaged to keep out germs of all kinds. Jack sores are the bane of jack breeders and sores as a rule start from an infected injury.

A vigorous jack should be able to handle 50 to 60 marks during the season. Regular hours for breeding should be established and observed as the jack is a creature of habit and works better when following a regular routine.

Flandin Calls on Germany for a Showdown

PIERRE-ETIENNE FLANDIN, French foreign minister, speaking at Venlay, demanded in the name of his government that Adolf Hitler lay his cards on the table, and intimated that unless Germany gives concrete proof of no aggressive intentions in central or western Europe, France will decline to negotiate further with the reich and will prepare for war. Flandin made it clear that France will stand firmly with her allies, the little entente and Russia. Said he:

M. Flandin

"The Fuehrer says Germany does not want to take anything from any body, but he already had said that after the Saar plebiscite. He then also reaffirmed the Locarno treaty, which since has been repudiated. In the name of the integral sovereignty of the German people, does the Fuehrer intend, when he thinks the moment favorable, to bring up the Danzig question?"

"When he proposes a nonaggression pact with Lithuania does he accept definitely the status of Memel or is he just stalling for time to prepare new deeds of force in violation of treaties?"

"If Germany intends to assert her right to possess and exploit colonies, what colonies is she going to claim?"

"Is it not significant that at the moment Hitler launches his peace appeal, Nazi propaganda is redoubling in Austria, Danish Schleswig, Polish Silesia, among the German minority in Czechoslovakia, and even in German Switzerland?"

"Yes or no, does Hitler renounce annexation and even full absorption of the populations of these territories into the reich, or does he proclaim that these are internal affairs of the German people in which he does not intend to let other nations meddle?"

"If the latter case be the truth, then we understand why Germany is rearmament at a record pace."

Germany Almost Solidly Supports Hitler

GERMANY'S men and women to the number of 44,389,140 declared by their votes in the reichstag elections that they supported the policies of Hitler. Only 542,898 had the nerve to vote against the reichsfuehrer, and a still smaller fraction refused to go to the polls. Among the latter were the former Crown Prince Ruprecht of Bavaria and his wife.

Hitler's victory was thus extraordinarily complete, and the Nazis celebrated it with wild rejoicings in Berlin and other cities. It was the culmination of a three years' campaign in which the leaders sought to persuade the population of the reich that only Hitler could save the country from great danger. According to Berlin correspondents, there was a difference of opinion there as to the influence the triumph would have on the Fuehrer. Some said it would stiffen his back and induce him to ride roughshod over the powers which objected to his scrapping of the Locarno pact. Others said the election would make him feel so strong he would be willing to make a concession to his neighbors in an effort to help establish "the new order in Europe" to which he referred so frequently in his election speeches.

The new reichstag will be the largest in history, having about 740 members. Most of them will be officials of the Nazi party.

For the first time in the history of aviation a polling booth was established in the air. It was aboard the new dirigible Von Hindenburg, whose 124 passengers and crew voted solidly for Hitler. The Hindenburg and the Graf Zeppelin cruised over the Saar and the Rhineland all day long.

Japan Expects Trouble With Soviet Russia

THOUGH Koki Hirota, the new Japanese premier, said a few days ago that while he was in office there would be no war, it is evident his government really is looking for serious trouble with Russia. This feeling is expressed by Eiji Amou, spokesman for the Tokyo foreign office, who said: "Japan must prepare for Soviet aggression."

Recent activities indicate the Reds are availing themselves of the critical situation which developed after the recent military revolt in Tokyo and are increasing the strength of their troops along the Manchukuo border. Amou said the "recent Soviet policy has been to fire on any persons near the border." He said he regards this as a "friendly neighbor" He said Premier Hirota had protested the alleged action to K. K. Yurenev, Russian ambassador to Japan.

Almost every day there are reports of clashes on the Mongolian border, each side blaming the other as aggressors. The Outer Mongolian government, reinforced by conclusion of its mutual assistance pact with Soviet Russia, dispatched a note to the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchukuo, declaring its readiness to resist any invasion.

Italian Bombers Wreck Second Ethiopian City

MUSSOLINI'S air bombers were busy again in Ethiopia, virtually ruining Harar, second city of that country, with a downpour of explosives. Most of the populace had fled when scouting planes gave a warning of what was to come, so the casualties were few. An official telephone message from Harar to Addis Ababa said fifteen incendiary bombs struck the Egyptian Red Cross hospital and others hit the Ethiopian Red Cross hospital.

A French mission, the French consulate, the Ethiopian radio station and prison all were reported officially to have been ruined.

The attack on Harar, coupled with a heavy bombardment of Jijiga, fifty miles east of Harar and a center of Ethiopia's southern defenses, raised unfavorable fears in Addis Ababa that the capital itself might be the next target.

Government in Business Decried by Committee

ACCORDING to the committee on government competition with private enterprise, whose report has been made to the President, that practice is wholly destructive except in situations where the public welfare can only thus be served. "The government's function," the report said, "is to protect economic activities of its citizens and not to supplant them."

The committee unanimously agreed that only under the following conditions is the government justified in entering into competition with private enterprise:

- 1. When required to assure adequate preparation for, and creation of, the facilities for national defense.
- 2. For the conservation of natural resources.
- 3. When private enterprise fails to conduct needed scientific research and exploratory activities to advance industrial development, or in the interest of public health and safety.
- 4. When private enterprise fails to render a service necessary for the general welfare.

Alien Deportation Bill Reported to Senate

DESPITE vigorous opposition, which will resound on the floor of the senate, the senate committee on Immigration and Naturalization reported favorably the Kerr-Coolidge alien deportation bill, which Secretary Perkins has been trying to get through congress for three years. It will give her and two other members of an interdepartmental board discretionary power to harbor radical and even criminal aliens, otherwise deportable, in this country. The same bill recently was reported favorably by the house committee.

Pending action by congress on the measure, Secretary Perkins has been holding up the deportation of some 2,800 aliens mandatorily deportable under existing law, contending that they are "hardship cases." Some are radicals, some have criminal records, and others entered the country illegally. By "hardship cases" Secretary Perkins means that they would be separated from family ties or put to some other inconvenience.

Senator Robert H. Reynolds of North Carolina, Democrat, not long ago attacked the action of Secretary Perkins in holding up the deportations and denounced the pending bill as a "sham and a mockery" and a subterfuge to shield all kinds of radicals, criminals, and dependents unlawfully in this country.

Secretary Perkins refused to produce information respecting the 2,800 "hardship" cases until Reynolds introduced a senate resolution, whereupon she permitted him to examine the records.

Third Party Is Favored by Farmer-Laborites

FORMATION of a third national party was suggested in a resolution adopted by the Farmer-Labor party convention at St. Paul, Minn., and the delegates hotly welcomed the hint that Gov. Floyd R. Olson of Minnesota might be its Presidential candidate in 1940. Just now Mr. Olson is after a seat in the senate. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 283 to 250, although several leaders pleaded that the move be put off for four years.

Governor Olson said privately that in his opinion the resolution could do no harm since it does not commit the liberals to putting a national ticket in the field this year. Neither does it authorize formation of such a ticket unless a second convention convenes and ratifies any action a proposed "exploratory conference" may take.

More Years, More Cares Monkeys and Yellow Fever The King Sees Poverty Ancient Koran Found

The French have a saying, referring to a man's age, "one year more, one care more."—Un an de plus, un soin de plus.

European nations might take for their motto, "One treaty more, one more danger of war."

Italy, Austria, Hungary have a three-power treaty under which Italy guarantees Austrian independence, against any attempt by Germany to absorb Austria, for instance. There is possible cause for war if any cause were lacking.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, worries about reports brought by health officers from the forests of the upper Sorococana area. In that region, where mosquitoes are thick, explorers frequently saw "monkeys with high fevers" drop out of trees and die, dozens of them, victims of yellow fever.

Fortunately for Brazil cities, the jungle mosquito that bites monkeys and gives them yellow fever keeps away from cities. The fight against disease-bearing mosquitoes and rats would keep men busy, if they were not busy already killing each other in war.

Edward VIII, new king of England, visited the magnificently luxurious ocean steamer Queen Mary in Glasgow, then went from house to house, knocking on doors, visiting some of the worst slum dwellings in all his kingdom.

Later, talking to Lord Melchett, the king put the problem of England, this country and the whole world in these few words:

"How do you reconcile a world that has produced this mighty ship with the slums we have just visited?"

A marvelously illustrated ancient manuscript of the Koran, found in a shop of an antiquity dealer of Cairo, Egypt, was bought for fifty pounds. Heaven knows how many thousands of pounds it is actually worth.

The Koran is said to have been written by a highly educated Jew, who suggested ideas to Mohammed, the latter being unable to write.

It is possible, however, that angels, supposed to have revealed divine truth to Mohammed, also taught him to write.

Good news for tree growers, fruit trees or others. You may get rid of insect pests by hammering the trunks of trees with a riveting machine, such as is used in driving rivets in city skyscrapers.

A California inventor patented the process. This writer proposes to try it in a New Jersey orchard at the earliest possible moment. The riveting is said to loosen insect pests, after which it is easy to wash them off with a strong spray of water, no chemicals needed. To save the tree from injury, it is probably desirable to put several thicknesses of old automobile tires or tubes between the bark and the riveting machine.

There is plenty of money in this country, billions of it, Jesse James will tell you, but it is not circulating, as unhealthy for money in a country as for blood in your veins.

You know the strange, perhaps true, story of a man who unwittingly used a counterfeit $10 bill. It went through the hands of ten individuals, paid for $100 worth of goods, and came back to the man who originally passed it. He identified and destroyed it.

One hundred dollars' worth of debts had been paid, nobody was any the worse. Money is a queer thing.

Do not give "living toys" to your children for Easter presents. Many parents and friends thoughtlessly give children helpless living creatures, easy by hurt—live chicks, or newly hatched ducklings.

The helpless creatures are roughly treated, mutilated, fortunate if they happen to be promptly killed, by children that know no better.

Doctor Townsend promises $200 a month to everybody past sixty. That would cost twenty-four thousand million dollars a year. Congressmen know it can't be done, but do not dare say so individually.

Townsend clubs have organized millions of votes. The $200-a-month promise made that easy. Congressmen do not want those votes cast against them as individuals.

The hard working, intelligent Swiss nation is said to be disturbed by the prospect of another war as by none other.

Every Swiss under fifty is armed, trained and ready. Even in the big war nobody tried to invade Switzerland—too much hard climbing, and the conqueror would not know how to run the hotels, even if he acquired them.

The immediate business of this country is to find some way of controlling flood waters—probably not impossible.

Washington.—The President's latest message to congress, asking more than a billion and a half in new money

Thunder Over Relief to spend on relief as he sees fit has caused political thunder to rumble again. It has brought out in the open much of the undercurrent of goosy that has been going on about political racketeering with federal funds and it has brought into sharp relief, just ahead of the spring campaign, the fact that the federal government has used something like $8,000,000,000 under the guise of relief since President Roosevelt took office.

Naturally, the situation is immersed in politics. All of the charges that were flung at Mr. Roosevelt during previous sessions of congress when he had requested that he be given, as he was given, blank checks on the treasury, have been revived. In addition, new accusations and disclosures of petty graft and political machinations have been dug up and flaunted in the face of the New Deal leaders. More and more of these are coming to the surface and there is no longer any question that throughout the relief organization there is politics. This is true notwithstanding the strongly worded statement by Mr. Roosevelt that politics was not to figure in the administration of relief in any way.

All of this leads up to the conclusion that whenever the federal government borrows in an administrative affairs of states, counties or municipalities, the organization becomes so extensive that it is impossible for those at the top in Washington to know what goes on. It is but another way of saying that the federal government ought to confine itself to federal affairs, matters of national scope instead of attempting to supersede the local governments in any function.

Since we are heading into a campaign in which Mr. Roosevelt is seeking re-election, his opposition is making much of two phases of the spending and relief situations. They are stressing the waste that they charge has permeated every phase of the relief effort in the last three years as well as the waste that has taken place in the countless administrative agencies that Mr. Roosevelt has built up in the federal government.

The relief machinery, Roosevelt opponents claim, has been converted into a gigantic political machine, the chief object of which is to re-elect Mr. Roosevelt. They claim as well that there has been created a bureaucracy that makes us, as individuals, responsible to a thousand little dictators who act as prosecution, judge and jury over our every coming and going.

All of these are harsh accusations but there is enough evidence available now to make it appear that there is, at least, some truth upon which such charges can be based.

Of course, politicians will magnify all phases of every subject which they indicate. It seems to me that the crimes look heinous and the administration spokesmen will make everything look pure. Neither one is justified in going quite to the extent of the indicated trend. It seems to me that voters ought not to be fully convinced by either side but that they ought to examine the picture from the local viewpoint where the evidence is first-hand and where the people who did it are good jobs or who were guilty of fraud or corruption are known to the voters.

Then, if in November the election results for the whole country show a preponderance one way or another, the voters will have established their will as being either in favor of or definitely opposed to management of such things from Washington.

There are 3671 counties in the United States. In nearly every one of them, there are a Republican and a Democratic county chairman. In many of the counties the Democratic county chairmen are trying to use the WPA and its relief setup for political advantage.

In an equal number of counties Republican county chairmen are watching for and reporting irregularities. There can be no doubt, therefore, that the charges about relief being used politically will increase in number as the campaign progresses if there is ground for the charges. So, it is made to appear that the local voters will have a complete picture of conditions upon which to base their judgment.

Two recent instances where important individuals have called attention to alleged corruption and political maneuvering under guidance of relief leaders serve to support the contention I have just advanced that the local communities will have complete facts before them. I refer to the charge by Senator Holt, Democrat, of West Virginia, that the whole relief organization in his state is honey-combed with politics and the bitter attack by Governor Pinchot, Pennsylvania Republican, upon what he called the mismanagement of relief administration in the state in which he formerly was the chief executive. Relief Administrator Hopkins, with the aid of Bryn (Frances Bryndson III), a tall, handsome young man of wealth, and his bride, Tubby (Tubby), are discussing Bryn's coming marriage. Tubby has a scheme to get Bryn's wealth from him.

SYNOPSIS

"Neither did I," Bryn said. "I never dreamed of such a thing. But I was curious, I'll admit that. You haven't any curiosity because you haven't got any imagination. If you had, you'd have been hanging around me. You'd have wanted to look at the man in the case when he arrived for this wedding to a girl he'd never seen, and then when you saw the man you'd certainly have wanted to get a look at the girl, and when you saw the girl..."

"You're saying just what I've been trying to say," Tubby cried. "Honey, you've been working on your imagination. It knows what you're like. Well, it's succeeded. Everything's gone according to plan. You're repaid. To-night you're going to marry this girl that you've only seen three times, a girl you don't really know a darn thing about, just because she has some kind of cock-and-bull story about having to get married before her twenty-first birthday and the man she's supposed to marry doesn't happen to take her fancy. Of course he wouldn't take her fancy with you around. Certainly he wouldn't. That's what it's all about, you darn idiot. You, James Weldon Simpson Bryndson Third. Ye gods and little fishes, aren't there enough men on the coast who would marry her for this fifty thousand dollars she's supposed to be paying you, without you stepping into it? It's so damned absurd. What are you doing it for? Fifty thousand dollars doesn't mean anything to you! And they've got it all worked out so that there'll be plenty of publicity and trouble when you want a divorce... you going up into the Oregon backwoods to live with her for a year. So romantic! And she'll turn out to be a cheap little crook, but she'll be married to you all the same and entitled to a lot of your property when the break comes, and your name as well. Isn't it sound beautiful?"

"Don't be an ass," Bryn said comfortably. "We went to school with Ted Holworthy. Any way, I happen to know that this business is on the level, because I've known about the case for years. As a matter of fact, it was I who asked Holworthy about it last year, if you'll remember, which you probably won't. I met the old gentleman himself, Deborah's grandfather, when he was here eight years ago fixing the will up with Ted's father. It was just when I was taking over my property and spending a good deal of time in Holworthy's office. The old gentleman was a most interesting old chap, and we had several long conversations. He was intensely concerned about this will he was making, and very anxious to make sure that he was doing the right thing. The old man put the thing up to me as a hypothetical case and asked me what I thought of it. Being a young fool, I thought it sounded fine."

"So now," Tubby said, "you're saying that if it doesn't look as if it might be so fine, you feel responsible. Is that it? Is that why you're throwing your self away like a sack of soft potatoes?"

"Bryn sighed. "I do wish you'd go and change your clothes," he said. "You can't be my best man in a white tie and tails, not when I'm wearing a lounge suit. We'd probably have another earthquake."

"And what about Pilar?"

"Pilar?"

"Pilar D'Avilla? What about her?"

"Well, what about her?"

"For two years you've carted her around. She's had a smile for the last 23 months like a mouse in a cheese barrel. Everybody thinks you're going to marry her. She'll go blissy when she hears this. Have you told her anything at all?"

"How could I tell her? I wasn't sure myself until two hours ago, when I telephoned you. I couldn't telephone her, could I? Hello, Pilar, I'm going to marry a girl in a few minutes. And there's no reason why I should. I've never asked her to marry me, or even hinted about it."

"Well, I don't have to tell her, do I?"

"That's a bright idea," Bryn said happily. "Thanks, old man. I'll do the same for you one of these days."

"What'll happen," Tubby said miserably, "is that she'll have me marrying her myself."

"Well, that's all right," Bryn assured him. "You've always wanted to, RUINER. Now, on your way, Tubby, do not get dressed. There'll be time for your coat, and I'll take care of his shirt and a collar. You can wear my pants if you're careful not to take a deep breath, but I don't think you'd better try buttoning the coat. All in keeping... she'll think you got them second hand."

"Marry Pilar?"

"Certainly. She's just the wife for you. There's the blood of the conquistadors in Pilar. I'll take that to keep you from getting any fatter. Go on. You've only got five minutes."

Twenty-three years previously, Anne Whitaker Larned had eloped, on the morning of the day of her wedding to Courtney Graham, and had married a young man, who, had he been a woman, would never have been received in the society in which the Larneds moved. The consequences were disastrous. The young man had no money, but he had expected to have a great deal when the Larneds returned and forgave their only daughter. However, he encountered unexpected difficulties with the daughter herself; for when she discovered why he had married her, she crept away from him, her heart as nearly broken as a physical organ can be broken by human unkindness, and when her daughter was only a few days old, she died. Fortunately, the young father—who never knew that he was a father—was killed in a vital spot by a horse, and died before he could cause any more misfortune; thus strengthening the belief of a number of people in the vengeance and justice of God.

The aged and broken grandparents took their daughter's child and also the blame for their daughter's unhappiness. If, they told themselves miserably, they had guarded her well, she would never have met this handsome young scoundrel, and all would have been as they had planned. She would have married Courtney Graham, son of an old and godless family, and all her ways would have been ways of piety and all her paths would have been paths of peace.

The Larneds were among the first people of Boston. Nowhere on their escutcheon could be found a blot, and even the erasure marks were so carefully done as to leave no trace. A perfect marriage, it would have been, but their daughter was dead, and their bitter regret was in vain. However, they still had the child, and over the mother's grave they vowed to themselves that nothing should mar this girl's life. They dedicated their remaining years to her. It seemed to them that they must creep out of the world with her, hide her, find for her a sanctuary.

They had sold the historic mansion in Boston, and with their beautiful old household goods, had gone west as far as they could go, out to the Oregon wilderness. There, in the most glorious natural surroundings, they had built a huge stone house, as like the Boston house as possible, and filled it with the nearest furnishings they could find. Here the child, Deborah, grew up with only her grandparents and the servants for her companions. Save for one trip to Boston with her grandmother when she was eight years old, she had scarcely been off her grandfather's land. In the early years, when she was yet a small child, she went frequently with her grandparents over the rough mountain roads to the little country town, or was perhaps allowed to accompany old Gary, their servant, on a marketing expedition; but as she grew older, and her mother's beauty began to evidence itself in her, she was kept more and more closely at home. There were quite often guests at the great house when Deborah was a child, but they were grave elderly people like her grandparents, so that she grew up completely cut off from companions of her own age and generation. She had, however, a library full of books, and three people, entirely devoted to her welfare.

It must be admitted that of the three, Grandfather, Grandmother and Gary, it was Gary who taught her the most interesting things. Grandfather taught her history, and science, and geography, and political economy; if he was a little vague in places it was because there are matters, of course, which a woman need not sully her pure mind. Grandmother taught her needlework, and a number of things that made them both blind and over which they skipped as hastily as possible. For Gary—Gary told her stories of people.

"Now, you'll never believe it," he would begin, "but it's a fact. I saw it with my own eyes."

"Saw what, Gary darling?" Deborah would ask delightedly, curling up her feet underneath her on the table.

"What did you see with your very own eyes?"

"It was once when I was in New York," he would begin, "I was walking down Fifth avenue one day... that's a very interesting street, Miss Deborah, the most interesting street in the world. I've been told... and right in front of me there was a young lady walking along, all dressed up in a picture hat and feather boa two yards long, and she was crying. Crying it to kill, if you can imagine it."

Yes, there was Gary. Grandfather and Grandmother kept the iron gates leading to the world locked and barred, but Gary lifted the shutters of a thousand little windows, magic casements, all of them, opening on the foam of perilous seas.

Delayed Pruning Halts Grape Loss

Full Extent of Damage Must Be Known to Aid in a Larger Yield.

By A. E. Cady, Chief in Small Fruit Culture, University of Illinois—WNU Service.

Certain varieties of grape vines have been so hard hit by the severe winter that pruning this spring should be delayed until the full extent of the damage can be told and the vines pruned accordingly. Any vines on which the fruit buds have not been killed, if properly pruned, can be made to yield twice what they otherwise would.

The grower should look upon his vines as separate individuals, and after allowing for gradations in vigor resulting from insects and diseases, soil differences and weather conditions should handle the vines in such a way that vine growth and yield of well-matured clusters are balanced yearly.

Results of studies with Concord grapes showed that if most of last season's shoots were too short and too weak to produce laterals, the vine was pruned too lightly the previous season. That is, too many nodes were left. If the shoots were so vigorous that they produced an excessive amount of lateral growth, too many nodes had been removed the previous winter.

The grower therefore should strike the balance between these two extremes by leaving enough nodes at pruning time so that vigorous shoots will grow for the following year's crop, while at the same time enough fruit is allowed to grow and mature for the current season. However, these shoots should not be vigorous enough to send out many side branches or laterals. From 50 to 70 nodes to the vine usually will be enough under normal conditions.

It also is important that nodes be left on either four or six canes, rather than on a large number of short spurs. It has been found that the best fruiting buds are found on these canes from the fourth to the twelfth node. Hence most of the best fruit will be removed and the vines will run to wood if they are "spur pruned." Several well-matured canes at least as large as a lead pencil should be left with from 12 to 15 nodes on each cane. The number will depend upon the previous growth of the plant and the size and quality of the crop.

Why Some Forage Plants Cause Death of Animals

A few food plants are known to be cyanophoric at some time in their growth. That is, they contain compounds that decompose to liberate hydrocyanic acid (prussic acid). When these plants are associated with sudden death among animals that eat of them, it is commonly assumed that such fatalities are the result of cyanide poisoning, says a writer in Successful Farming.

Some of the suggested antidotes for cyanide poisoning seem to be marvelous effective. Their use by experienced veterinary practitioners is to be recommended in cases of sudden and violent intoxication in which cyanophoric plants are involved. It is not, however, to be concluded that because animals revive after such treatment for cyanide poisoning that the cause of illness was in every instance the result of cyanide poisoning. In other words, the recognition of a disease on the basis of recovery after a specific treatment is not usually a safe way to decide as to the cause. Abundance of hydrocyanic acid in the feed or stomach contents must be found before one can be certain that cyanide is a cause of illness. In cases of death it must also be found in the vital organs.

Purebred Live Stock

There is only one justification for purebred live stock. That is to improve commercial flocks to better meet consumer needs. So far as sheep are concerned there is a dual objective, mutton and wool. There is opportunity here then to breed animals specializing in either carcasses or fleece and also for animals combining so far as possible, these two objectives. Variation in type by purebred breeders can only be commended when such variations are made with the view of more nearly meeting present or future market requirements.—The Sheep Breeder.

Water for Horses

For idle horses there is no reason why water should not be kept before them at all times. In fact, this is the practice during the summer when horses are out on pasture. The difficulty comes with working horses, when they come in from heavy work are likely to over-drink, with the resulting danger of founder. Under most conditions, therefore, it is probably safer to water horses at fixed periods so that the amounts may be controlled than to allow them free access to an unlimited water.

Texas Turns to New Crops

Campaigns are being conducted in various parts of Texas for the introduction of two new agricultural products to the crop program of the farm units of the state. One of these is soy beans and the other tung oil. To promote the planting of tung trees and soy beans several meetings have been held. Sufficient interest has been aroused in the new crop diversification plans to insure the planting this season of small acreages of soy beans in nearly every section of Texas.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR APRIL 12
JESUS TRIUMPHS OVER DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-45
GOLDEN TEXT—Isaiah 41:10, ye shall live also.—John 14:19
PRIMARILY TOPIC—The Glad Surprise, JESUS TRIUMPHS OVER DEATH
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—JESUS IS ALIVE
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—OUR LIVING LORD

The supreme test of Christianity is the fact of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive if his body remained in the grave. If he did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all his claims are false. On the other hand, if he did arise, all his claims are true. Fortunately, there is no better authenticated fact in all history than that of the resurrection of the body of Jesus Christ.

I. The Empty Sepulchre (vs. 1-3)

1. The coming of the women (v. 1). As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for his body. This was a beautiful expression of sentiment, but showed their lack of faith. If they had believed his words, they would have known that his body could not be found in the sepulchre.

2. What they found (vs. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulchre, they found the stone had been removed. How the stone was to be removed greatly perplexed them on their way, but on their arrival they discovered that their difficulty had already been met. They found the stone rolled away, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found his body in the sepulchre would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke most eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:4).

II. The Message of the Men in Shining Garments (vs. 4-8)

1. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5). This question has been reverberating through the centuries since it was uttered by the angels.

2. "He is not here, but is risen." Jesus had made all these matters quite plain. He had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day he would arise again. If they had given heed to his words, they would have believed of their perplexities.

III. The Women Witnessing to the Eleven (vs. 9-11)

Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the disciples as idle tales and they refused to believe.

IV. Peter Investigating (v. 12).

While the testimony of the women seemed as life tales, Peter was not of the temperament to dismiss the matter from his mind. Therefore, he ran to the sepulchre. Upon close investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

V. The Convinced Disciples (vs. 13-25)

1. The walk of two discouraged disciples (vs. 13-15). Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking in this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. If they had believed what Jesus said about his coming forth from the grave, they would have expected to hear such reports.

2. The unrecognized companion (v. 16-24).

a. Who he was (v. 16). Who they recognized together on the wonderful events of the past few days, Jesus joined them on the journey.

b. His question (v. 17). Perceiving their sadness and perplexity, he sought to help them by calling forth a statement of their grief. This question surprised them and caused them to jump at the conclusion that he was a stranger in Jerusalem, for the combination and crucifixion of the great Prophet of Nazareth were so recent and so notorious that no one who had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them.

3. The Scriptures opened (vs. 25-31).

a. His rebuke (vs. 25-30). He rebuked them not for their unbelief of the strange stories that they had heard, but for ignorance and lack of confidence in the Old Testament.

b. Jesus recognized (v. 31). While sitting at meat with the disciples their eyes were opened as they ate and broke the bread and distribute to them.

4. The effect upon the disciples (vs. 32-35). They were so filled with joy over this revelation of the Savior that they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of his resurrection.

God's Love

God's love gives in such a way that it flows from a father's heart, the well-spring of all good. The heart of the giver makes the gift dear and precious; as among ourselves we say or even a trilling gift, "It comes from a hand we love," and look not so much at the gift as at the heart.—Luther.

Laugh From the Heart

A laugh to be joyous must flow from a joyous heart, for without kindness there can be no true joy.—Carlyle.

About Onions, Garlic, Chives; Plenty of Food for a Scent

Without the Tribe, Cooking Would Soon Decline, Says Sage.

If Leekes you like, but do their smelly dis-locks. Eat Onions, and you shall not smelle the Leekes. If you of Onions would scenta ex-elle. Eat Garlic, that shall drawne the Onions' smelle. —From the "Philosopher's Banquet"

Chives advertise themselves the least of any member of the onion family. It has been said of garlic that everyone knows it excepting the one who has eaten it. Those of us who delight in the flavors which are so liberally provided by members of this ancient tribe of vegetables feel that they are worth suffering for. According to Elwanger "without the onion tribe, cooking would soon decline."

For a salad dressing I usually rub a garlic clove into bread, and half an hour or so later scrape off the garlic and use the bread crumbs as a medium of transmitting the flavor. I sometimes rub roast of lamb or veal with garlic and sometimes I will cook one clove in butter or drippings while I am browning meat, which is eventually to be used as a casserole or what, for lack of a better English name, we call stew.

Onions may be used more liberally for seasoning and, of course, are delicious as a vegetable. One of my favorite ways of cooking them is with butter and a sprinkling of sugar in a covered casserole in the oven until they are covered with a golden glaze. They may be glazed on top of the stove with butter and sugar after they have been boiled. Stuffed onions and onion soup are other favorites.

Leeks are particularly good boiled and served with a sauce which may be of any type you like. They are also good braised with meat.

The most refined member of the onion family—the chive—is now to be found growing in pots at the market. If you buy it in this form you may have fresh chives ready for use at any time. They are particularly good with creamed butter to serve with fish or meat, with sour cream or mayonnaise for salad, and perhaps best of all, with baked potatoes which have been broken open and lavishly buttered. And have you tried cottage cheese with chives and a green salad?

Braised Leeks.

In the bottom of a baking dish arrange a bunch of leeks. Sprinkle over the leeks one sliced carrot, two sprigs of parsley. One minced celery stalk and a sprig of thyme. Add one cupful of meat stock and cook uncovered in a hot oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit, for about 15 minutes, or until leeks are tender.

Quick Onion Soup.

6 medium-sized onions
2 tablespoons butter
1 quart soup stock or
1 bouillon cubes and
1 quart water
2 slices bread
5 cup grated or strained cheese

Slice onions and brown in butter. Add soup stock and bring to a boil. Put in casserole. Slice bread half inch thick, cut in halves and toast lightly. Float on top of soup and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake.

Play Just as Important to Well-Balanced Life as Work

A vacation helps to balance our powers, to give us a more symmetrical development. It keeps us from becoming one-sided. It improves our judgment.

People who alternate work with play, who frequently get close to Nature, preserve the sweetness of life; are sounder, satter; have more common-sense than those who never drop their work.

Patience Mighty

Patience in weakness is mightier than impatience in strength.

In hot oven, 500 degrees Fahrenheit, ten minutes, or until cheese melts.

Cottage Cheese Salad.
3/4 pound cottage cheese
3/4 cup minced chives or onions
1 teaspoon paprika
Cream

Add seasoning to cheese and add cream to soften. Pack in a small greased bowl or mold. Chill in refrigerator an hour or more. Serve with a vegetable salad. Cream cheese may replace cottage cheese.

Stuffed Onions.
3 quart medium onions
3/4 cup minced ham
1 cup soft bread crumbs
Salt
Pepper
Butter

Parboil onions and remove part of center, leaving the root end intact. Fill cavity with stuffing made with onion pulp, bread crumbs and ham, seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with melted butter. Place the onions close together in a greased baking dish, pour one-half cupful of water around them and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, until browned.

FIVE-DAY WEEK IS SPREADING IN U. S.
 South and West Slowest in Cutting Hours.

New York.—The five-day week has become widely prevalent in American business establishments. It applies somewhat more frequently to factory workers than to clerical employees. This information is brought out in a nationwide investigation by the National Industrial Conference Board. The survey covered 2,452 business establishments in manufacturing, mining, transportation and communication, wholesale and retail trade, finance and public utilities. Employment represented by these companies amounts to more than 4,500,000.

Wage earners in 1,941 companies with 2,767,000 employees are on the five-day week. These companies constitute 57 per cent of the total number covered in the survey. A five-day week for clerical employees is reported by 1,110 companies, or 45 per cent of the total.

Of the companies employing fewer than 100 persons, 48 per cent have a five-day week for wage earners. The percentage increases as size of establishment increases and the largest proportion, 71 per cent, is found in companies with 5000 to 9,999 employees. The proportion, however, drops to 49 per cent with respect to companies employing more than 10,000 persons. The same general situation is found in the case of the five-day week for clerical employees.

The proportion of companies having a five-day week for wage earners differs between industries. In manufacturing the largest proportion, 78 per cent, was reported by electrical manufacturing and textiles. In three additional industries, automobiles, chemicals and clothing, two-thirds or more of the companies reported this policy.

Use of Rubber on Roads
 Lengthens Their Life

Boston, Mass.—Rubber will be used to make Massachusetts highways smoother and longer lived. The state public works department, after years of laboratory tests, is about to begin use of a new rubber compound to joint slabs of cement on highways, both in construction of new roads and in maintenance of existing surfaces.

When cement roads first were built there was no fixed uniformity of strips, and the lack of a binding material between the stretches of concrete often resulted in one or both slabs heaving upward at a joint and creating a rough spot.

Moreover, expansion and contraction caused by extremes of temperature had to be considered and it was found necessary to leave a three-quarter-inch space between the slabs. Asphalt was used for 15 years to fill the joints, but it tended to extrude above the edges and thus form a series of bumps.

Next was used a molten material made of a mixture of rubber and cork, with a layer of asphalt on top which, however, continued to protrude above the level of the highway.

The new compound is a liquid, which is packed in sealed drums. It is not necessary to heat before applying. Some of it is brushed over the edges of the slabs to form a priming coat.

The mixture then is poured into the joint. It immediately coagulates and quickly hardens to form a permanent bond which seals both the joint and top of a joint against water, sand and gravel. The compound also can be used for joints in bridge girders.

Mother Earth Gains One
 Second in Time in Year

London.—Mother Earth is one second ahead in time as compared to the time taken before June, 1932, and one day is not exactly a night 24 hours.

This discovery has been made and announced by Doctor Scheibe and Doctor Adelberger of the Reich Physical-Chemical Institute, on the basis of checks on the exact time passing between two days by means of the most accurate clocks, consisting of quartz fragments.

Only six quartz clocks are in existence in the world, the first institute harboring four and the Potsdam Institute of Astronomers the other two. The quartz clocks reveal that since June, 1934, the earth must have jumped a bit and moved exactly 0.004 seconds faster than before.

This means that the globe is ahead in time one second as compared to last year.

Physicists attribute the higher speed to certain forces of attraction.

Mountaineer Language
 Ozark mountaineers still use many words and phrases which were current about 400 years ago. Among these survivals, writes June Wheeler, Santa Barbara, Calif., in Collier's Weekly, are preachment for sermon, feather into for shoot, rubate for rain, red up for clean up. In the gales for in good humor and neebments for necessities.

ACCIDENTS IN 1935
 TAKE 99,000 LIVES

Motor Vehicle Deaths Lead
 the Ghastly Total.

Chicago.—Accidents in the United States last year caused approximately 99,000 deaths, according to estimates made public by the national safety council. There were 36,000 permanent disabilities and 9,100,000 temporary injuries. The cost of these accidents, including wage loss, medical expense and property damage, was approximately $3,400,000,000.

The accidental death total was the third highest in history. It was exceeded in 1934 and in 1930.

Motor vehicle accidents again led as a cause of death, with home accidents second. Council tabulations show that the 99,000 deaths occurred as follows:

Motor Vehicle	36,400
Other Public	17,500
Home	31,500
Occupational	16,500
Total	99,500

Accidental deaths of children under fifteen declined from 15,400 in 1934 to 14,300 in 1935, a drop of approximately 7 per cent. The decline in adult deaths was only about 1 per cent—from 83,900 to 84,200.

Motor Vehicle Deaths Lead
 The motor vehicle death total last year registered an all-time high, increasing 1 per cent over the 1934 figure. Deaths were twice as high as in 1923 and nearly 50 per cent above 1927.

Two-thirds of all traffic accidents last year occurred in small towns under 10,000 population and in rural areas. Rural fatalities have increased 44 per cent since 1924, whereas deaths in cities have advanced but 27 per cent. More than 40 per cent of the traffic accident victims last year were pedestrians.

Only among children of school age were there fewer motor vehicle deaths last year than in 1934. No change occurred in the fifteen to twenty-four age group, and in all other age classifications there were increases. Child motor vehicle accidents have increased much less than those of adults since 1922, when safety education began on a national scale.

Fourteen individual states succeeded in reducing traffic deaths 7 per cent or more. They were Delaware, District of Columbia, Illinois, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, Wyoming and Washington.

There were more motor vehicle deaths in October than in any other single month, the total reaching 3,850. November and December ran second and third, in that order, as the "most dangerous" months.

250,000 Workers Saved
 The number of workers killed last year, 16,500, was less than half the number of deaths in occupational accidents 25 years ago. The national safety council estimates that during the years of organized industrial safety work, from 1913 to 1935, the lives of about 250,000 workers have been saved.

Home fatalities in 1935 registered a reduction of nearly 9 per cent from 1934. The decrease came largely from the fact that in 1935 the summer temperature was more nearly normal, and consequently deaths from excessive heat (the majority of which are classed as home accidents) were relatively few.

Public accidents not involving a motor vehicle remained the same as in 1934. Drownings and firearms accidents accounted for a large percentage of the total. Railroad deaths were about the same as in 1934, and there was only a small decrease in airplane deaths.

Fatherly Paddle Upheld
 as Curfew for Daughter

Cleveland.—A suburban police judge ruled that a father has the moral right and the "legal duty" to spank his daughter if she refuses to go to bed early. After hearing the case of Anton Jentner, Jr., charged with assault and battery by his seventeen-year-old daughter, Eleanor, Judge Henry Williams, of Lakewood, dismissed the father and reprimanded the daughter. The girl said her father spanked her with a wooden paddle when she refused to go to bed at eleven o'clock.

Terrier Police Dog
 Belmont, Mass.—Technically Bono may be a Boston terrier, but actually he is a police dog. Bono, the pet dog of Chief John J. O'Brien of Belmont, even wears a badge on his collar. He spends the day in his master's office at headquarters.

Bothersome Barnacles
 To get rid of barnacles, the bottoms of boats must be put into dry dock. They must be thoroughly scraped with wire brushes and then repainted. To dry dock, clean and paint the bottom of a vessel like the Leviathan costs about $100,000.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
WEEKLY BUSINESS SURVEY

Easter buying and flood rehabilitation were dominant factors in the acceleration of trade and industry throughout the country, according to nation-wide reports received by the Department of Commerce, announced today. Markets serving the flood-damaged areas were receiving initial replacements orders for merchandise and equipment, many stores having had to buy complete inventories.

Department store sales in Philadelphia gained 19.6 percent over the 355 week. Chicago stores were brought New York reported department store sales continuing the consistent gains of the last three months. Boston, Wilmington, Cleveland and Denver Easter trade accounted for substantial gains, but St. Louis and the West Coast cities buying was more reserved. Trade in the South and Southwest was stimulated by favorable weather in addition to the seasonal factors, excellent trade being experienced in Louisville, Atlanta, New Orleans, Houston, Norfolk and Memphis.

Wholesale trade experienced a decided upswing as Easter orders reached high tide, but the augmented demand for hardware items was also an outstanding factor and reflected the greatly increased construction activity. New York reported that with few exceptions the upswing in wholesale was as pronounced as that in retail with wearing apparel and accessories leading other items in gains. Philadelphia reported excellent improvement with both wholesalers and manufacturers. Other markets that experienced heavier demands were Cleveland, Kansas City, Detroit, Seattle, Atlanta, Houston and Memphis.

Gains in bank clearings and deposits continued in most cities with Portland, Ore., reporting the heaviest clearings for March since January, 1931.

Construction activity was far ahead of last week, having been further stimulated by favorable weather. Texas building permits in March were said to be five times greater than the same month last year. March permits in Philadelphia were 233 percent ahead of the 1935 month and the highest in six years with two-story row dwellings accounting for the rise. Los Angeles reported a new high for several years with $10,000,000 of permits issued this year to date. In Atlanta permits for March were the highest since October, 1930. Cleveland estimated 14,000 new homes would be constructed in Cuyahoga County this year.

Varying weather conditions affected crops. Portland and Seattle reported the necessity for reseeded considerable wheat acreage as a result of a gale that blew the seed from the ground. Work has delayed in the Minneapolis region because of low temperature. Crops in the Kansas City and St. Louis areas needed moisture, while Memphis reported farming conditions favorable in that section. Denver reported increased beet-sugar acreage in Colorado and Wyoming, resulting in an announcement of refineries of the operation of all factories next Fall. Abundant moisture was favorable to Pennsylvania crops, the Philadelphia report said. Many cities reported increased travel interest. Bookings in Cleveland were 30 to 50 percent ahead of last year. The Angeles report said sea tourist bookings would probably exceed the 1931 peak. New York reported a similar condition with travel agencies rushed.

Total income from farm marketings in February was estimated at $469,000,000 an increase of $67,000,000 over February last year. There were no rental and benefit payments in February, but the total of these payments to March 1 was $1,113,090,148.72.

Factory sales of automobiles in the first two months of the year of 38,216 vehicles compared with 328,452 in the same period last year and 385,922 in the first two months of 1934.

NIGHTS AND SUNDAYS

Are BARGAIN TIMES on "LONG DISTANCE" CALLS

Now the low rates in operation for long distance telephoning after 7 P. M. apply all day Sunday. This extension of night rates to all day Sunday includes both Station-to-Station and Person-to-Person calls to most points.

And now, too, new low rates apply on Person-to-Person calls every night of the week after seven o'clock to those points where the day Person-to-Person rate is more than 50 cents.

When you telephone out of town and will talk to anyone at the number called—that is a Station-to-Station call. But if you must talk to only one particular person, whose name you give to the operator—that is a Person-to-Person call. Full information on these classes of service, and rates to many cities, will be found in the front pages of your directory.

Remember, Nights and Sundays are bargain times for your long distance calls.

Playing Safe!

Have you ever heard the story of the man who bought a lock for his barn—the morning after his mule had been stolen. We must admit that he was "playing safe" for the next time, at least.

But Housewives have a different idea to that in their baking. They never wait for calamities to happen, and then rush down to buy a good brand of flour. Most of them are convinced from the start that it pays to buy nothing but the BEST. So, assure yourself that you are "playing safe" in your baking by using.
