Plans for the KenTenn Exposition which is scheduled to be held at the Fulton Fair Grounds, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 22, 23, and 24, are practically completed. It was announced here this week by the committee of the Young Men's Business Club, which organization is sponsoring the event. This probably will be the biggest celebration to ever be staged in West Kentucky and West Tennessee in recent years, and no effort or expense has been spared to bring plenty of entertainment for the three-day program. The first day, Thursday, will be given over to the 4-H Club show and the Annual Farm Bureau Picnic, which will be conducted as usual in recent years. Thousands of farmers in this section are expected to be present for this farm program. No admission charge will be made to the grounds on this day. Only 10c admission to park will be charged Friday and Saturday to defray expense of program.

Then on Friday and Saturday, come the dairy and poultry shows, for which nearly $300 in premiums have been provided. A catalog will be issued setting out the premium list, and all farmers having good grade and purebred dairy cattle, and poultry including turkeys are urged to enter them in the show here. Entries will be accepted from the KenTenn territory, which consists of Fulton county and portions of Weakley, Obion, Hickman and Graves counties. Anyone wishing to make entries is urged to contact Headquarters at Carl Puckett's Service Station, corner Lake and Carr streets in Fulton.

Swift Jewel Cowboys Here for Two Days

The Swift Jewel Cowboys will be at the Livestock and Poultry Show Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, giving their big cowboy acts, consisting of riding, roping and music. You've heard them over WREC now see them in person. These boys are real musicians and skilled riders, and the Western ponies that they bring with them are trained to perform many interesting tricks. These cowboy artists have been broadcasting for the past seven years under the sponsorship of Swift and Company, and their regular weekly programs have been popular with thousands.

Special Fulton Day

You can hear the Swift Jewel Cowboys over WREC each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 12:15 p. m. From now until the big show in Fulton, special announcements will be made about the exposition here. But August 20 has been declared "Fulton Day" and at that time the program will be devoted to Fulton, when wide publicity will be given this city, farm community and the show that is being staged here under the auspices of the Young Men's Business Club, assisted by the Farm Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce.

This cowboy band will play their popular music at the fair grounds here Thursday afternoon, Thursday night, Friday and Friday night when they put on their 2-hour cowboy show with their ponies. Remember the dates, August 22 and 23.

Old Car Derby Friday Afternoon

According to present plans of the committee in charge of the program, the annual Old Car Derby will be held Friday afternoon, beginning at four o'clock. A nice purse has been made up, and the winner will take all. There will be plenty of speed and thrills in these races, which are expected to draw a big crowd. It will be remembered that more than 10,000 saw the derby here last year.

Square Dance and Swing Dance

After the big Swift Jewel Cowboy show Friday night, there will be an old-time square dance, followed by modern swing music. There will be two distinct sessions of music by the Cowboys, and for those who love to square dance they will have full opportunity uninterrupted by swing.

Throughout the day Friday there will be a full program of entertainment, including horse races by local stock, mule races, dog races, contests including amateur musical, cracker and whistle, sack race, bicycle race, greasy pole climb, greasy pig and many others.

LITTLE CLO. CO. OPENS BIG CLEARANCE SALE

The Little Clothing Company, located on Lake-st in Fulton, and one of West Kentucky and West Tennessee's largest exclusive men's stores, announces the opening of a store-wide summer clearance sale on Friday of this week. More than $10,000 in men's and young men's merchandise is being sacrificed in this giant clearance event, and right in mid-summer when this kind of men's wear is needed most. "As is our custom," Mr. Little states, "we are clearing our stock of all summer goods, just at the time you need them, at prices that you will not be able to duplicate again. We all know that defense preparedness is going to cost a lot of money; also that on July 15th wages in some levies were advanced 2 1/2 cents per hour. Consequently, we expect higher prices for merchandise. In this sale we have overlooked the probability of considerably higher replacement cost of the merchandise we are offering you, and giving you the benefit. It is better to anticipate your needs for a long time to come and buy while the prices are lower."

FULTON WILL GET FROZEN FOOD LOCKER

Plans are maturing here for the installation of Frozen Food Locker service, available for farmers and local citizens at very little cost, G. L. DeMyer, proprietor of the U. D. DeMyer Market announced this week.

Hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of patrons throughout the country today testify to the conveniences and economies made possible by the Locker System, Mr. DeMyer states. Authorities heartily add to this testimony—agree that better living and improved health come to the inhabitants of communities fortunate enough to have Locker System facilities.

You can slaughter in any season—when livestock prices are low or when price of feed threatens to rise. Moreover butchering can be done during summer instead of waiting till winter, thus saving several months of unnecessary work and feeding cost.

Manager of the locker plant will purchase quarters of meat for renters of lockers, preparing same for customers. Refrigeration service at home is necessary for maximum benefit from locker. Rural electrification and a locker go hand in hand. It will be worth your while to investigate the advantages of having a Frozen Food Locker.

When installation of the locker service is complete here, and improvements are made at the DeMyer Market, it will be one of the most modern stores in this vicinity.

Congressman Gregory Announces for Reelection

To the Democrats of the First Congressional District:

This is to announce my candidacy for reelection to the office of Representative in Congress of the first Kentucky district.

Your support is respectfully solicited in the Democratic Primary on Saturday, August 3.

Grave problems threaten the peace and security of the American people. Congress remains in session for an indefinite period. Because of these conditions I will be unable to personally see you and solicit your support. My campaign, therefore, is placed wholly in the hands of you and other sincere friends.

THE DEFENSE OF OUR COUNTRY IS FAR MORE IMPORTANT, IN MY OPINION, THAN THE POLITICAL AMBITION OR FUTURE OF ANY INDIVIDUAL. With this in view I shall remain at my post of duty so long as my presence is necessary.

Under the leadership of our great President, Congress is rapidly working toward the preparation of a huge defense program. To be fully prepared to defend our American homes and firesides; to keep our youth from overseas and to build protection that will insure peace is of such importance that I consider it my patriotic duty to accept my humble share of responsibility.

My public record is made of known facts and anything that I might say would not change them. A list of Public Works Projects such as Gilbertsville Dam, public buildings and roads in west Kentucky, for which I have worked diligently, seems unnecessary. . . . they stand for themselves.

My private record is open for your closest investigation. I have always endeavored to conduct myself that I might merit the confidence and esteem of my fellowman. Since I have had the distinct honor to represent the first district in Congress I have tried in my personal and official life to merit the continuance of the same confidence.

My deepest gratitude goes out to you for the opportunity you have given me to serve you. I have endeavored to live up to this obligation. I will in the future, as in the past, concentrate every effort of mind and heart to help give you the kind of government which will assure to all the continuance of peace, prosperity and contentment.

Sincerely,
NOBLE J. GREGORY

ELEPHANT AND DONKEY

For nearly 70 years American political cartoons have been adorned with pictures of elephants and donkeys, as symbols of the two major political parties, and have amused millions who never heard of their originator.

The Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey were the creation of Thomas Nast, the most famous cartoonist of his day, and first appeared in Harper's Weekly in 1870 and the elephant in 1874, according to researchers. He also first used the tiger to represent Tammany, and his cartoons exercised a great influence on public opinion for many years.

Thomas Nast was born in Germany a century ago, on September 21, 1840, and came to America at the age of six. He early began the study of art and when only 15 was appointed to the staff of Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper. He later drew for periodicals in London and Paris, but returned to the United States shortly before the Civil War. His powerful caricatures during that war in advocacy of the Union cause led Lincoln to call him "our best recruiting sergeant."

Besides his newspaper and periodical illustrations, Nast produced several creditable paintings in color, and illustrated a number of books. He also engaged in the publishing business on his own account without marked success, and was finally appointed United States consul-general at Guayaquil, Ecuador, in 1902, where he died of yellow fever the same year.

His name is now almost forgotten, but his famous elephant and donkey will appear on the pages of American newspapers and magazines so long as our present political parties survive.

More strange bedfellows: Owen D. Young, noted retired industrialist, has become assistant to Sidney Hillman, prominent former C. I. O. leader, who is a member of President Roosevelt's Defense Advisory Commission, in charge of labor matters.

FARM SAFETY HINTS

Poisonous gas fumes are a constant menace. The exhaust gas from an automobile, truck, tractor and other gasoline motors used on the farm are deadly poison. There are other sources of poison gases too. For a week or more after the silo has been filled, a poisonous gas is emitted from the fermenting ensilage which endangers the life of anyone who enters the silo.

Rate, mice and other vermin are common spreaders of filth and contagion. Consult your county agent regarding the use of red squill, a rat poison which will not kill other animals.

Fruit that has been sprayed with poison should be washed before eating.

Gasoline and kerosene should be kept in plainly marked containers and kept a safe distance from all farm buildings.

Smoking in barns or around the hay pile should never be allowed. Lanterns should be hung a safe distance from the ceiling or placed on sliding wires to avoid contact with inflammable hay. All electrical wiring in the barn should be done by an experienced electrician.

Every farm should be equipped with fire extinguishers. They should be regularly inspected, refilled—if they are of refillable types—and members of the family should be taught how to use them.

Home, which should be the safest, happiest place in the world, produces more accidents than does industry, or any other accident classification except traffic. Medical and hospital bills for the care of home accident victims last year were almost $2,000,000 a day.

Accidents do not "just happen." They are always caused.

Four out of every ten of all the fatal falls in the home occur in the bedroom. Watch out for the principal causes—loose rugs on slippery floors, misplaced furniture, toys and clothing on the floor.

Darkness is a real home menace—light the way!

Three sources of fatal burns in bedrooms are overturned oil lamps, defective wiring, smoking in bed. Be sure oil lamps rest on firm bases and on steady tables. Don't overload electric outlets, and have your wiring checked, it's cheaper than a fire. If you must smoke in bed, get asbestos sheets.

If your porch steps need repairs, don't wait until tomorrow, someone may fall tonight.

After serving eight years as police chief in Seward, Neb., Rufus Anderson turned in his badge and gun to the city council, explaining: "I am simply tired of standing around doing nothing."

Bits of Kentucky Folklore
 BY WOODEN PEGS, CUT NAILS,
WIRE NAILS

WOODEN PEGS, CUT NAILS, WIRE NAILS

As simple a thing as the means of fastening timbers together can become an index to a whole cultural epoch. Not long ago, when I was camping in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, I spent a night by a mountain stream where there had formerly been a pretentious farmhouse. A few remnants of the outbuildings were left, including a water mill, now largely in decay. When I went to the old shed to get some dry wood to build a camp fire, I discovered that the timbers had been put together with wooden pegs. Through several generations the shed had stood, strongly bound together with simple wooden pegs. I remembered the old union church in Fidelity, built long before my time, with its timbers tenoned and mortised. It took time in those days to build a house, but when it was finished, it was there to stay. The skill with a wood chisel and mallet required to fit the timbers of a house together is now almost a lost art.

Houses of another and nearer time were held together with cut nails, innocent-looking things but really very hard to drive. These nails saved a world of time for the builders, but I do not know yet whether the houses they were used in were any better than the old pre-nail ones, when wooden pegs were the rule. Cut nails lasted down into my time; there are places yet where they can be bought, I am told. Some of the old-timers of my childhood preferred them to the new-fangled nails made of wire. Since modern nails have come into use, much has been accomplished in building. There is a nail for every use, and it does not require so much skill to drive one as to drive the old cut nail. Nails, though, have a way of rusting or of provoking a rotten spot in timbers, a thing that good old wooden pegs never did. Very stylish cabinet workers love to hide the nail heads by covering them with a wooden peg, giving the appearance of returning to an older way of building. Thus our most up-to-date furniture may look as if it had been made by some blacksmith-cabinet-maker in the days of wooden pegs.

Chicken To Wear Pants At State Fair

Louisville, Ky.—(Special)—Did you ever see a chicken wearing a pair of pants? Or one that wears a hat? Or one that has down instead of feathers? If you haven't, you're sure missing some of the strangest oddities among poultry, and you should visit the poultry exhibition at the Kentucky State Fair, which will be open September 9th through the 14th, with a preview scheduled for Saturday night, September 7th, and an advance opening Sunday, September 8th.

Not a small department by any means, this grouping boasts its own building and has the second largest entry list at the fair, Manager Robert B. Jewell said today. There will be exhibits in over 900 classes this year and the poultry show pays better premiums according to entry fee, than any similar show in the country.

So much interest has been taken in the show by exhibitors that every state will be represented by one or more exhibits, and nationally known judges will be on hand to make the decisions.

Another class that will be shown here is the cavy, or guinea pig. For years doctors and scientists have used these little animals for experimental purposes, and, they have probably saved more lives than all the slogans in the world. In the same building will be rabbits, the long-eared fellows that furnish so much fur for "felt" headgear. These are just a few of the many outstanding attractions here.

Among the many other features will be Kentucky classes for U. S. Approved poultry. These will take in trios of white rocks, barred rocks, white wyandottes and buff orpingtons, to mention a few. Then, in addition, there will be classes for ducks, geese and turkeys. More than 100 special premiums are going to be offered to winners in the poultry classes, Manager Jewell said.

The poultry show is one of the most interesting exhibits at the Kentucky State Fair and to miss it would be to miss a vital part of the huge fall show. It is estimated that nine out of every ten persons who visit the fair include the poultry show in their itinerary of the fair grounds.

SILO SIMPKINS SAYS

Chicken sense is the ability to get the grain and leave the chaff. Bad silage is generally the result of high moisture and low acidity. Of all the ways to lose money farming, using inferior sires is one of the most certain. Every farm family should produce enough eggs and chickens for home needs and some to sell. One place where it is no disgrace to be green—growing cover crops on fields this winter. "Keep Tennessee Green This Winter" is the slogan of the Lime-Phosphate-Cover Crops Campaign now being conducted by county agricultural agents.

The farmer who harvests a good crop is just on first base. To score, he must properly grade and market and make his money go as far as possible in bringing about improved living conditions.

Resolutions made last January will not fill pantry shelves and cans this winter. There is still time to plant bush beans, cantaloupes, sweet corn, radishes, turnips and other fall garden crops.

Records kept by Tennessee farm women under the direction of home demonstration agents show that three-fourths or more purchased oatmeal, flour, baking powder, peanut butter, dried beans, yellow cheese, vinegar, salt, salmon, and cabbage.

Money Talks

By Frederick Stamm, Economist

 UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

The 1940 census has shown some surprising shifts in our population. Cities with more than 25,000 population showed a gain of less than five per cent during the past decade compared with an increase of twenty per cent in the ten years before.

The population of the country as a whole, based on birth and death statistics, apparently increased about eight per cent during the last ten years. Thus, we notice a decided drop in city population and an increase in suburban and country population. The quiet life of the farm and small town is luring folks away from the glamour of the large cities.

The middle class and the "well-to-do" are leaving the cities. Good roads and automobiles make it possible for them to live fifteen to twenty miles from a city and still get to work as easily as if they lived in the congested area. And by living in the small towns and country they can get around high city taxes.

This will probably have an effect of improving business in the small towns and shopping districts near large cities. The large cities themselves, however, seem to be in for a rather bad time; with depressed property taxes bringing in smaller incomes, new taxes will have to be devised to meet city expenses.

Small communities can improve their financial condition by inducing the well-to-do people moving from large cities to settle with them.

How about your town?

Mrs. Martha Neil of Memphis owns a Bible printed by the Cambridge University Press in 1673.

This is a further discussion of the matter of uniform signs.

The yellow and black signs have four different shapes that can be seen from a distance: octagonal, round, diamond and square. Octagonal yellow and black markings are used for boulevard stop signs. Round yellow and black signs are for grade crossings. Diamond yellow and black are slow warning signs for other road conditions hazards: slow, curve, bump, steep hill, underpass, narrow bridge. Square yellow and black are caution type warning signs for human hazards: cross roads, forks, side roads, schools, hospitals, men at work.

See next weeks "Safetygram" for the description of the black and white signs.

A new song by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Kendrick Sparrow, entitled "The Rest of My Life With You," was broadcast for the first time a few days ago by Leo Gordon's orchestra in Cleveland.

A burglar who stole 17 pieces of clothing from the home of Miss Zoe Holliday in Oklahoma City cooked himself a dinner in her kitchen and left the dishes unwashed.

When reprimanded for laughing while his wife was on the witness stand, Joseph Murray of Chicago explained that he was "enjoying her lies."

Individual Freedom

FREEDOM BELONGS to the individual, and no system that denies this can possibly win and retain the support of enlightened thinkers. Intelligence votes slavery, which always results from obscuring that eternal freedom which is vital and real. Stephen and Paul did not hesitate before adverse popular opinion or misguided human authority when there was an urgent need to voice the truth. In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy says (p. 224): "Truth brings the elements of liberty. On its banner is the Soul-inspired motto, 'Slavery is abolished.' The power of God brings deliverance to the captive. No power can withstand divine Love."

It is an old argument of error that tyranny is justified because it works to bring about good for the majority, that it will procure orderliness and peace, end warring factions, fulfill all practical needs, weld into unity elements that appear discordant and erratic. Such a belief, manifesting itself in a form of government which denies individual freedom of thought, speech, and action, may appear for a time to improve material conditions by checking license and other abuses which prey on individual rights. But the core of tyranny is its seeming power to produce a semblance of obedience through fear, instead of through intelligent self-discipline, and the basis upon which it rests cannot be made sound by over-zealous eloquence. Tyranny rejects spiritual values, without which existence is a meaningless dream. Devoid of reality, lacking the divine attributes which ensure the continuity of all right ideas, its pretense to power falls before the law of God.

God is omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient, and omnivictive, governing all His children through spiritual law. This divine law can be understood and demonstrated by all, for their mutual good. There is nothing in mortal belief that can intervene between God and His creation, including man made in His likeness, who is wholly good. Even though this truth may be obscured for a time, it will stand in spite of all efforts of evil to erase it. Man cannot be separated from God, the cause of his being, the source of all real existence. Soon or late, every mortal will awake from the dream of separation from God, good, to hear and respond to the call of Love. Then will principle and its reflection be understood as existing in everlasting harmony; and Love's likeness will be seen as eternally loving. Truth will "sweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters shall overflow the hiding place" (Isaiah 28:17). . . .

Let us, therefore, seek and maintain the true sense of government that manifests the unalterable relationship existing between God and man; and let us not violate it by interposing a command to worship the idols of human will. Individuals must be free to offer their sole allegiance to God. The dawn of His day appears; the "bright and morning star" (Revelation 22:16) is seen as the coming of the Christ, Truth. The effect of this spiritual dawning on human thought, bringing hope and healing to men, is shown in the life and works of Christ Jesus. . . .

Right thinking individuals are united in the prayerful effort to see true freedom and law as divine attributes, and to claim their benefits for all. Mankind must gain a fuller understanding of the First Commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me" (Exodus 20:3) for obedience to it brings about the destruction of all evil. Then, like John the Revelator, all the people shall hear "a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God."

FALL AND WINTER PASTURE NEEDED FOR PROFITABLE LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION

For the most profitable livestock production, Tennessee farmers should provide pastures to graze their stock through the late fall, winter and early spring months when their regular grass and clover pastures are not productive, according to H. E. Hendricks, U-T Extension agronomist.

By preparing such a pasture, it is not necessary to overgraze the grass and clover pastures to the extent that they will be injured for later grazing. In this way the calendar is fairly well filled with an abundance of cheap roughage, and the soil improved at the same time.

From a study made of the production of over 2,000 livestock farmers, it is apparent that the weakest link in the pasture program in Tennessee is winter pastures. Over 100 days of extra grazing are being obtained by those farmers who have filled in this gap. They have demonstrated that this is a practical program that should be followed by livestock farmers throughout the State.

The majority of these demonstrators use crimson clover as the base for their winter pasture. Those who get the most grazing from this type of pasture seed it in August on a well prepared seedbed that has been culitpacked, rolled or dragged, until it is firm enough to hold moisture. Land subject to severe erosion should not be selected.

For later seedings mixtures are generally used of crimson clover mixed with rye grass, rye, oats or barley. This gives more grazing and greater land protection from tramping and erosion. Farmers have also experienced the fact that crimson clover and other cover crops are very responsible to phosphate and lime, particularly phosphate.

USING NEWSPAPERS

Some significant statements were made recently before the Mississippi Press Association in an address by George M. Crowson, assistant to the president of the Illinois Central, a railroad which has conducted a newspaper advertising campaign without a break for 20 years.

This advertising, carried by newspapers in the vast territory served by the railroad, has been of great value in building good will, through informing the public concerning the road's problems and the efforts made to meet them from time to time. Mr. Crowson told the editors, and he described some of the methods employed in presenting these facts.

Explaining why the Illinois Central had been so loyal to the newspapers, which have been used consistently in its advertising program, Mr. Crowson said:

"We believe we have a message for every literate person on our railroad, and the one form of advertising which reaches all people who undertake to keep up with what is going on about them is newspaper advertising. Of course many people read other publications, too, but nothing has yet come along to take the place of the newspaper as the first essential.

"And that goes for the country weeklies as well as city dailies. Frankly, I believe the country weekly is one of the best buys to be had for advertising designed to influence public opinion; that is, true because the well-edited country weekly ranks so high in reader interest per subscriber."

SAFE REDUCING METHOD

Physicians are agreed that the safest method of reducing excess weight is by the use of a low calorie diet that is at the same time properly balanced. Some valuable suggestions concerning reducing made recently by Dr. Paul Roth of the Battle Creek sanitarium are in substance as follows:

Don't take patent pills or reducing compounds of any kind, unless you are willing to risk impairment of vital organs. If overweight, consult your physician about a reducing diet and then follow his advice. Plan to diet at least six to eight weeks, according to the loss of weight desired.

One pound per week is the safe maximum loss of weight unless under continuous medical supervision; one-half pound per week is even safer. Dr. Roth advises, and adds:

"Cut down on your calories. Especially high in calories are cake, jelly, mayonnaise dressing, fried foods, whipped cream, tins of olives and olive oil. Avoid over-eating; chew food thoroughly; drink water sparingly at meals, but as much as you wish between meals. Rigorous dieting, to remove 20 or more pounds, can be done safely under competent medical and dietetic supervision.

Inventor of the oxygen tent which he first used at the sanitarium 20 years ago, Dr. Roth is now head of the department of metabolism and physical therapy.

SOME BIBLE FACTS

Of the 66 books of the Bible 30 are in the Old Testament and 37 in the New, the former containing 929 chapters and the latter 269. Combined they have a total of 773,746 words.

The word "Lord" occurs 1,855 times, "reverend," "girl," and "everlasting punishment" but once each, and "everlasting fire," but twice.

The longest verse is Esther 8:9 of 90 words, and the shortest is John 11:35, consisting of two words, "Jesus wept."

The 19th chapter of Second Kings and the 37th chapter of Isaiah are alike. The 8th, 15th, 21st and 31st verses of the 107th Psalm are alike, and each of the 26 verses of the 136th Psalm ends alike, with the words, "for his mercy endureth forever."

Ezra 7:21 contains all the letters of the alphabet except the letter "J."

The books of Obadiah, Philemon.

Second John, Third John and Jude contain only one chapter each.

ODD USE OF STREETS

In a suburb of Niles Center, Illinois, which did not develop as its promoters hoped, an odd use is being made of some eight miles of paved streets which have never been needed for traffic, because no houses were ever built on them.

The streets were laid out and paved several years ago in anticipation of a boom which did not materialize, and for a long time they were useless. Finally a man who needed a large area of hard surface on which to sun-dry a chemical compound which he manufactures, saw an opportunity to utilize the vacant streets, and rented them from the village very cheaply.

Now passers-by during the summer see the unusual sight of a large gang of men pouring a thin coating of a white jelly-like substance over the streets, and shoveling it up again a few days later after it has dried. This seemingly crude and laborious process is necessary, it is said, because drying the mixture in the sun is required to make a satisfactory product.

Even so, the manufacturer in this case perhaps enjoys the benefit of low production costs, through taking advantage of a unique situation caused by a busted real estate boom.

Several of these students have been notified that they can not return to the university.

BONDURANT FAMILY HOLDS REUNION
Sixty-nine members of the Bondurant family held their annual reunion on July 23 at the Burnette Picnic Grounds about four miles west of Fulton.

Of the five surviving children, the four present were: Mrs. Hayden Donoho, Mrs. Della Lawson, and Walter and Elbert Bondurant. The others present—grandchildren, great grandchildren, nieces, nephews and cousins—comprise only a small number of the existing Bondurant family.

Present, in addition to the four named above, were: Mrs. Elbert Bondurant, Miss Camille Bondurant and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bondurant and family, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Bondurant and son, Mrs. Daisy Bondurant, Miss Clarice Bondurant, Mrs. Kenneth Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Clemens Lawson and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lawson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown and daughter, Mrs. Mary Bondurant, Mr. and
